I might offer a contrast involving the progress associated with the physical development of the human body. Sometimes evidences of the concrete facilitates an understanding of the abstract. No one will deny that the amputation of a leg from the body is responsible for a marked change in the human body. In a fundamental sense the functioning of the destructive processes has contributed to the physical development of the body. The development in question is a part of "progress" although it is difficult to conceive how any physical advancement has occurred. Like historical progress, the progress marking the physical development of the body has been influenced by change. This change, moreover, may have been encouraged by destructive tendencies.

What Influences Progress?

What are these processes which may influence the "progress of history"? Since we are employing the generic significance of the word it is natural to expect that these process will be both numerable and complex. They will operate not only as contributing to social advancement in a constructive sense but may be responsible for wrecking its very existence. Fundamentally speaking, they may be anything but essential social forces. Economic activity may often be advanced as the underlying cause of some revolutionary movement. Suffice it to say, that these forces contributing to the "progress of history" are naturally comprehensive and varied.

Judgment of Progress

In conclusion, students should be reluctant to criticize one for regarding the operation of destructive forces as contributing to the progress of history. Moral good should not be confused with historical progress. Quite frequently, individuals and movements are any thing but morally good, yet they are influencing the progressive development of history. Behold the forces of destruction operating in the contemporary world and the "great men" who have played a part in their functioning. And, believe me, both are a part of historical progress.

Wildcat Whirl

By Dave Reardon

THE Phi Kappa Pi and Delta Pi Epsilon smokers highlighted activities on the campus last week despite many outside attractions. Foremost of these was the tea dance given at Rosemont Friday afternoon reportedly for St. Joe men but with many of the local lads in attendance, notably Sam Canning with Gay Cruse and Bill Walsh with Pat Kennedy, daughter of the former ambassador to England and, incidentally, a golf addict.

Up at Mt. St. Joe's on Sunday afternoon approximately seventy-five fellows were guests of the fair coeds at a reportedly successful tea dance, the purpose of which was to familiarize the girls with prospective dates for their coming dance. Jim Meehan, Rog Logan and chief date-getter John Kirschner had a swell time.

* * *

ENGINEER'S WAIL:

If I could just eliminate,
The urge to e'er procrastinate,
I'd enjoy life and laff at fate,
'Cause then I'd know I'd graduate.

* * *

STUFF AND NONSENSE:

Last weekend found Dan Haley and Charley Harrison motoring up to Waterbury, Connecticut, to spend some time on a health farm. It probably would have been healthier if they had remained in town. . . Andy Melton is in a quandary over Rita, his Rosemont interest. Bob Moore is in the same league, with Mary leading off. . . In the intramural tennis championships, Editor Tom "Clark" Doyle climaxed a long-existing feud with Jimmy Pike only to be thoroughly trounced, 6-0, 6-2. . . Ed Bennis is taking his social life very seriously lately. Besides corresponding with Betty Lewis regularly, he journeys all the way to Ventnor, N. J., to see her on the weekends that she doesn't come up to Philly. . . Who is the Eleanor whom Joe Doyle is always talking about?

* * *

They met in a revolving door and started going around together.

* * *

GLIB GAB:

"Major" McDonald, popular sophomore wit and court star, is now rooming with Ernie Melafchik, another basketball luminary, who claims that Lang Thompson, dance-band maestro, is his brother. . . Bill Craven attended a dance at Brookline C. C. last Wednesday P. M. where he met a pretty Bell Telephone employee who proceeded to drive him home after things were over.

John Fullam, debate head, is doing all right with Isabelle from Immaculata. . . What sort of trouble did Bill Hayes and Connie Higgins encounter in Bryn Mawr after their recent smoker? . . . Frank Gorman chaperoned the three pretty girls who visited the campus last week, the lover. . . Last Wednesday night, Fr. Handran found himself mysteriously locked in his room and was forced to call Fr. Falvey to the rescue. The culprit has not as yet been tracked down.

From his idle conversation, Jack Dudley appears to be intently interested in Miriam. . . "Songbird" McEvoy can't understand why he hasn't been approached by talent scouts after his recent warblings with the Villanovans, but we can!

Lou Petruccio never misses a weekend entraining back to Harrisburg, evidently to see Louise, who we are told makes delicious fudge. However, no one has ever tasted it. . . Jack Coleman is fostering Pan-American relationships by occupying the time of a Bolivian senorita, Elena, presently living in Lansdowne. . . Bob Hursh, strangely enough, is still rushing Jayne after a period of one whole year. . . Charley Schaumann and my fellow columnist broke up a game of freshman touch football and compelled the first year lads to haul tables and chairs with which to furnish their new metallurgy lab. . . . Then there was the Frosh, who, when asked by Prof. Amelotti where his black tie was, raised his pant leg and disclosed the article in question holding up his sock. When asked why he was wearing it on his leg, he replied, "Well, the handbook doesn't say where it has to be worn."

Meet The Boys: Cookie Leads The Rah-Rah Lads; Frank Will Snap The Coming Grads

By WARD GUNCHEON

SO many of the seniors in this "Meet the Boys" feature have dropped by the stork, left at the doorstep, become an income tax exemption or the pride and joy of their family, that with apologies to all encyclopedias the following form will be used for their vital statistics: Koness, Robert James, (1920-), b. Brooklyn, N. Y., and McKay, Frank Joseph, 1916-), b. Holyoke, Mass.

Why Bob Koness received the nick-name of "Cookie," he will not disclose, but the where, when and by whom are in the Mendel Hall Amphitheatre at the beginning of his freshman year at the hands of the Orientation Committee.

A Rah-Rah Boy

His attendance here was preceded by four years at Hempstead High School in Long Island, near his present home in Wantagh. During his first year, the orientation committee so impressed him that he immediately tried out for the cheer-leading squad. Since that time he has been down in front of the crowd leading the rah-rah's!

While on the subject of sports, we must note that Bob's ability as a swimmer cannot be underrated. Having churned the water with the best of them on the varsity squad last year, he is entering this year in the fifty and one hundred yard free style events. In the former he averages about 25.2 seconds and in the latter approximately 59 seconds.

Devotee of Thespis

Emerging from the Field House Pool, Bob found time enough last year to take part in Belle Masque's annual one-act plays. This was his first attempt to turn from natator to narrator and he hopes to repeat the performance again this year.

That white cap he has been seen wearing about the campus identifies him with the Orientation Committee and the Student Council. He was elected to the Student Council last spring by the D. P. E. fraternity of the C. & F. school.

To Be a Marine

In accordance with his commercially-inclined mind, Bob was a member of last year's Belle Air business staff and this year he's continuing in the same capacity.

As for social life, Bob is a difficult person to connect with any one person or college. He claims no preference and those who offer any information of this sort bear him out. Immaculata, Rosemont and Chestnut Hill are well represented. Perhaps the undisclosed source of his nickname can be found in his "sweetness" towards all girls.

There seems to be some subtle connection in the ensuing part of this biography. During the past summer, Bob, together with his roommate, Ted Galysh, decided to help the National Defense Program by enlisting in the Officers' Training Course of the U. S. Marines. When they are graduated, they will become Second Lieutenants in that branch of the service.

A Statistical Whiz

In the C. & F. school both he and Ted have taken extraordinary interest in statistics and all other subjects taught by Mr. Dougherty, who is an ex-marine himself. In addition, both have been able to absorb Mr. Dougherty's subjects with amazing ease.

Bob's vision for the future should be a beautiful dream for Mr. Dougherty, since he plans to take the civil service examination for the position of government statistician after serving his enlistment in the marines. Despite his statistical traniing, Bob predicted that the Dodgers would win the world series.

* * *

ANOTHER fellow who has Marine intentions but directed in another way is Frank McKay. He hopes to have senior pictures for this year's Belle Air "well in hand" for he has been assigned the Herculean task of Photography Editor on the annual publication. He wil be seen during the next few weeks hovering about seniors, bulletin boards and the Mendel Hall reception room. All this came about as the result of his taking up the shutter hobby several years ago in high school.

When he was graduated from Deerfield Academy in Massachusetts, he followed his brother, Ed, '41, to this campus and like him enrolled in the C. & F. school. There he is majoring in the pre-law course.

A Strenuous Hiker

Although he hasn't participated on any of the varsity athletic teams he can be seen almost any afternoon of the fall and spring playing tennis. He might not want to be called a nature-lover, but his long walks through the surrounding countryside prove this to be so. His favorite scenic spots in this section of the country are the old estates south of Lancaster Pike. Through them he has hiked extensively.

Though Frank didn't find the statistics course completely to his liking he does profess a preference for law subjects as taught by Mr. Henry. He adds that only the "humane" help of Mr. Schaffer enable him to pass Accounting 1.

Last year Frank served on the Mother's Day committee and also participated in Mendel Hall's amateur night presentation. He has followed the activities of the Music Seminar since its inception.

Not Drafted—Yet

In affairs military, Frank has received his draft questionnaire but as yet has received no classification. This he is anxiously awaiting because his future plans hinge upon it. If these plans aren't upset, next fall will find him at the Harvard Law School, one year behind his brother. After Harvard, he will hang up his shingle and be ready for business.

Activities away from the college last summer were limited to the stock room of the White-Wycoff Paper Co., but the summer of '37 proved to be less monotonous, when he made an extended trip through the British Isles and the Continent.

Audience with Pope

While in Rome, he, together with a large party, was granted an interview with the late Pope, Pius XI. His credentials for the audience were secured from a priest who resided in the same house where Father McGuire, now vice-president of the college, was living while attending American University there.

Six-Man Cheering Section Gives 'Cats Inspiration To Beat Florida

Two thousand miles of driving to see a football game. . .but the six students who went to Florida say it was well worth it.

Five seniors, Dave Daly, T. Doyle, Johnny Maher, Bill Schubert, and Paul Waters, and frosh Tom Schubert got back Sunday night from Gainesville with lots to say about the jaunt.

Leaving Philadelphia at 8:00 P. M. Thursday, they took turns driving. . .and before they knew it (at 5:00 P. M. Friday) they were in Gainesville. After establishing headquarters at the White House Hotel, where the team was staying, the travelers went out to Florida Field to see Villanova practice. . . but the 'Cats were 40 miles away at the Highland Country Club. . . and Florida's practice was secret.

Out to the Field again at night to watch Villanova's "secret" practice. . .with a few hundred Florida students in the stands. . .constantly yelling "Gator bait" at the Smithmen in jeering tones.

A good rest Friday night in Gainesville. . .no wonder. . .with 3,500 Florida men around. . .and no co-eds. . .nice town, though . . .and a beautiful college and stadium. . .frat houses look like mansions. . .buildings mostly new.

Then game day. . .rest for the team as the vanguard of 3,400 soldiers from Camp Blanding start pouring into town. . . by 6:00 in the evening the sidewalks are jammed tight. . . the convoys have arrived. . . 3,400 soldiers. . . and 3,300 are for Villanova. . . . friendly guys from Connecticut, Brooklyn, New Jersey, etc. . . . glad to talk to Northerners.

After the purchase of cow-bells . . .and wearing blue-and-white "glamour bows" furnished by Mrs. Tommy Lovett. . .with gold "V's" for victory. . .out to the game . . .admitted on student tickets . . .but sit opposite the Florida stands in the midst of rabid Gator rooters.

Big crowd there. . .second largest since the stadium was built in 1931. . .3,400 of them soldiers. . . with a sprinkling of sailors and student fliers. . .a colorful crowd that enjoys a good game and the impromptu sideshows that go on.

The Florida cheerleaders do their stuff on a narrow cement ledge below their rooters. . .the band. . . a really smart-looking 89-piece outfit. . .with a smooth local gal as drum-majorette. . .the M. P.'s busy preventing untoward incidents among the good-natured men in brown.

Six Villanovans get sore throats yelling their heads off for the 'Cats . . .all the regular cheers and a few of their own invention. . .they sound lonely among the pro-Florida crowd. . .but their cheering is at least as loud as that heard at some Villanova home games in past years. . .and the 50-cents-a-head soldiers are with them.

A shortage of Villanova spotters in the press box. . .two Southern networks broadcasting the game . . . Fr. McGuire talks between the halves. . .the student radio station, with power stepped up for the game, can be heard in Philadelphia . . .but most of the students don't know it.

The object of the trip. . .the game itself. . .Florida outplays Villanova for most of the first half . . .but never gets within scoring distance. . .the 'Cats threaten as the half closes. . .but a field goal attempt is spoiled.

The second half is all Villanova . . .the Wildcats look like a bowl-bound team as they run through Florida. . .the Gators can't make any ground. . .a thrilling touchdown pass, Postus to Proho, and Bill's away. . .and still the 'Cats march.

Worn out from shouting. . .with no voices left. . .the six rooters head for Philly. . .no time to stay for a frat dance . . . or to celebrate . . .just get out of town before the convoy blocks the road. . .and they do beat the caravan.

Take it easy going home. . .no rush. . .stop for Mass Sunday morning in a little town in South Carolina. . .the chapel can accomodate thirty. . .and fourteen parishioners are present. . .the pastor asks for contributions to support the foreign missions. . . sounds a little bit like misplaced charity.

Arrival back at Villanova at midnight Sunday. . . and to bed.

Keep

Abreast Of Events

Compiled by
LOUIS J. ESPOSITO

Tuesday Oct. 14—
Staff Meeting	1:00 P.M.
Intramural Basketball:
C. & F. vs. Mendel D. S.	3:00 P.M.
Austin vs. Fedigan	7:15 P.M.
Mendel Res. vs. Alumni	8:30 P.M.
Wednesday, Oct. 15—
International Rel. Club	3:30 P.M.
Intramural Debate	3:30 P.M.
Thursday, Oct. 16—
Science Forum	10:45 A.M.
History Seminar	3:00 P.M.
Research Seminar	4:15 P.M.
Intramural Basketball:
Football Rally on campus	8:00 P.M.
Friday Oct. 17—
150 lb. Football—
Villanova vs. Princeton
(at Princeton)	8:30 P.M.
Varsity Football—
Villanova vs. Baylor
—(Shibe Park)	8:30 P.M.
Sunday, Oct. 19—
Intramural Tennis Finals	2:30 P.M.
Monday, Oct. 20—
Radio Club Meeting	2:30 P.M.
Intramural Debate	3:30 P.M.
German Club	7:30 P.M.

Outside Stuff

By Bruno Talvacchia

Last night I held a hand,
So dainty and so sweet,
I thought my heart would surely burst,
So wildly did it beat.
No other hand e'er held so tight,
Could greater gladness bring
Than the lovely hand I held last night—
Four aces and a king! ! !

* * *

Collegiate Round Robin:

The Notre Dame Scholastic referred us to the sad fellow who missed gate 15 at the Indiana game and walked into the stadium wall because of a passing blonde. . . Rutgers' Targum suggests that the currently popular ballad, "I Don't Want to Set the World on Fire" should have been written by the reel-radio star, "Arson" Welles. . . according to the Michigan State News masthead, their graduate manager is named Charles T. Foo . . .the University of Scranton's Aquinas lists Carl Marcks as a Junior Science student. . .and the Dayton News uncovers "Yehudi" in their institution's football scout, Lou Tschudi. . .Overheard by the San Francisco Foghorn. . .even the Hollywood bride shows interest nowadays in her "fourth-coming" marriage!

* * *

Complexities of Science:

Passing through the historic battlefields of New Jersey where farmers once had stood, gun in hand and knees knocking, standing off the "Martian invasion", the 207th Coast Artillery ran into difficulty.

The light trucks were leading the regiment south to training camp in Georgia. The "heavies" with their guns in tow were bringing up the rear, about five minutes behind. The light trucks pulled up by the side of the road to wait for the "heavies' 'to catch up. Five minutes passed—no "heavies". Fifteen minutes passed—still no 'heavies". Things were beginning to look grim.

The New Jersey State Police were called out, found the wayward wagons helplessly lost a few miles back at a clover-leaf intersection.

—The Dartmouth.

* * *

Stuff and Nonsense:

Some men smile at the face of death,
While others only frown;
But the man worth while is the man with a smile,
When his garter's coming down!

* * *

Sense and Stuff:

Do right and fear no man!
Don't write and fear no woman! !

—The Keystonian.

* * *

American defined:

Professor Franz Boas, of Columbia University, and Professor Ernest A. Hooton, of Harvard, gave an answer to the question "What is an American?"

"He is not blond or dark. He is not tall or short. He is not German, Irish, French, Italian, Jewish or British. He is a man who has been woven into the American social fabric, who thinks as his fellow citizens do about accepted institutions, government, morality, honor, and who conducts himself as they do. By his deeds he is to be judged—not by his looks or his geographic origin."

* * *

And Light There Was:

The Duquesne Duke tells of the dormitory student who has offered an extra light bulb in exchange for a little light on the subject.

* * *

Open letter to the Immaculatan:

Dear Gals,

A few days ago our campus was informed of the unfortunate lot of a number of your day-hops. We refer to the shortage of bus accomodation for fourteen of your commuting colleagues.

Not to be outdone by the Harvardian gallantry expounded in this space last week, the editor of this column offers his humble chariot for the daily use of the girls-in-need. Of course, drivers would also be available in the person of Villanova men.

Sincerely yours,
The Editor.

Student Direction Of Choral Society Activities This Year

Officers of the Choral Society will undertake full responsibility for the activities of that organization this year, making all engagements. Rev. Ralph J. Handran, O. S. A., moderator, will act solely as an instructor, leaving the bulk of the work which was delegated to him last year up to the members of the Society.

With a membership of 44 students, the Society is now engaged in plans for a Villanova-Rosemont recital, to be held on or about December 10. The chorus will consist of the Villanova members and 60 students from Rosemont. The program as now planned, consists of fourteen numbers. A contralto soloist, Miss Stella Creamer, will be featured with a violin obligato of Anton Rubinstein's "Seraphic Song."

The program will include the universally known Irish melody, "Danny Boy"; "Sicut Cervus"; "Halleluiah Chorus"; "Pledge to the Flag"; "Mah Lindy Lou", and other numbers.

Officers of the Choral Society, elected at the closing of the last school year are: Joseph I. Rozum, a senior science man, president; Samuel J. Canning, junior in the commerce school, vice-president; and John P. Fullam, senior education student as secretary-treasurer.

MRS. BURKE DIES

Mrs. Joseph Burke, wife of the co-author of the Villanova "Alma Mater" and mother of Dr. James Burke of the class of 1932, died last week.

News Briefs

Dr. Rudolf F. Drenick, instructor in mathematics and physics, will address the members of the German Club at a meeting next Monday evening, October 20, in Simpson Hall.

Topics and songs by club members will also be included in the evening's entertainment. Motion pictures will be shown and refreshments served.

An invitation to join the club has been extended to all former students of German to keep alive and to enhance their knowledge of the language, literature, and culture of the German-speaking peoples.

The club holds regular social and educational meetings once a month.

Delta Pi Epsilon, commerce school fraternity, held its initial meeting of the year last Thursday morning in Simpson Hall. Approximately 45 members were present to hear David N. Reardon, president, outline plans for the coming year.

Six members will be appointed shortly as a pledging committee to choose desirable candidates for membership. Applications will be submitted to selected students during the three weeks pledging period beginning Oct. 30. The pledging will be climaxed with a formal initiation n Nov. 19. The names of the pledging committee members will not be announced.

At the next meeting, scheduled for Oct. 23 at 11:40 A. M., in Simpson Hall, a design for the fraternity pin will be selected. An attempt will be made to standardize the pin design for use in the future. In April, all those seniors with two years' membership in the organization will be presented with keys at the annual dinner. Seniors who join D. P. E. this year must pay higher dues than underclassmen in order to enjoy the privileges and benefits offered by the fraternity.

Villanova students will act as ushers at the 7th Annual Catechetical Congress of the Confraternity of Christian Doctrine, to be held from November 15 to 18 in the Bellevue-Stratford Hotel, Philadelphia.

The departments of Chemistry and Chemical Engineering of Villanova College have received the approval of the American Chemical Society, Very Rev. Edward V. Stanford, O. S. A., has announced.

This announcement came as the result of an inspection last year of the college's laboratory facilities and technical equipment by the Committee on the Professional Training of Chemists of the American Chemical Society.

The International Relations Club will receive new members, both freshmen and upperclassmen, and map out plans for the current year at an initial meeting Wednesday at 3:00 P. M. in Simpson Hall.

Fr. Stanford Visits Rutgers And Lehigh

Rev. Edward V. Stanford, O. S. A., college president, journeyed to Rutgers University last Friday and Saturday, upon the occasion of the celebration of the 175th anniversary of that institution.

Last Thursday Fr. Stanford was among those present at a testimonial dinner given for Robert L Johnson, newly-elected president of Temple University, at the Penn Athletic Club. Educators from all parts of the country, along with many celebrities, attended this banquet.

On Friday, Oct. 3, Fr. Stanford visited Lehigh University.

Entertaining Last Week's Smokers

Fr. O'Leary (left), math professor, using his ever-ready Irish wit, highlighted last week's P. K. P. smoker. Maurice J. "Clipper" Smith (right) with motion pictures of last season's football games explained the tactics employed by the nation's football coaches to D. P. E. members last Wednesday evening.

Band Members Hold First Dinner - Dance

The Covered Wagon was the scene last night of the first Dinner-Dance held by the Villanova Marching Band. The affair, which was formal, was attended by over 40 couples and had as a guest of honor Rev. Ralph J. Handran, O. S. A., moderator of the organization.

The committee in charge of the dance included Joseph Rozum, senior science student, Mark Fitzgerald, a senior in the education school, and William Swan, sophomore commerce man.

On Sunday the band marched in a Holy Name parade in Camden, accompanying the Atlantic City delegation. Last year the band participated in a similar parade in Jersey City.

This week the band will be engaged in practice for the Baylor rally on Thursday and the Friday night game.

FOR ANY BOOK
REILLY BOOK STORE
133 N. 13th STREET
Established 1900

Opens Thursday
Dick Stabile
and His Orchestra
with
Gracie Barrie
Dancing Nightly and Sat. Aft. from 1 to 5 P. M.
65c Daily and Sat. Aft.
85c Friday and Saturday
Broadcasting Over WCAU
The Aragon
Market between 15th and 16th

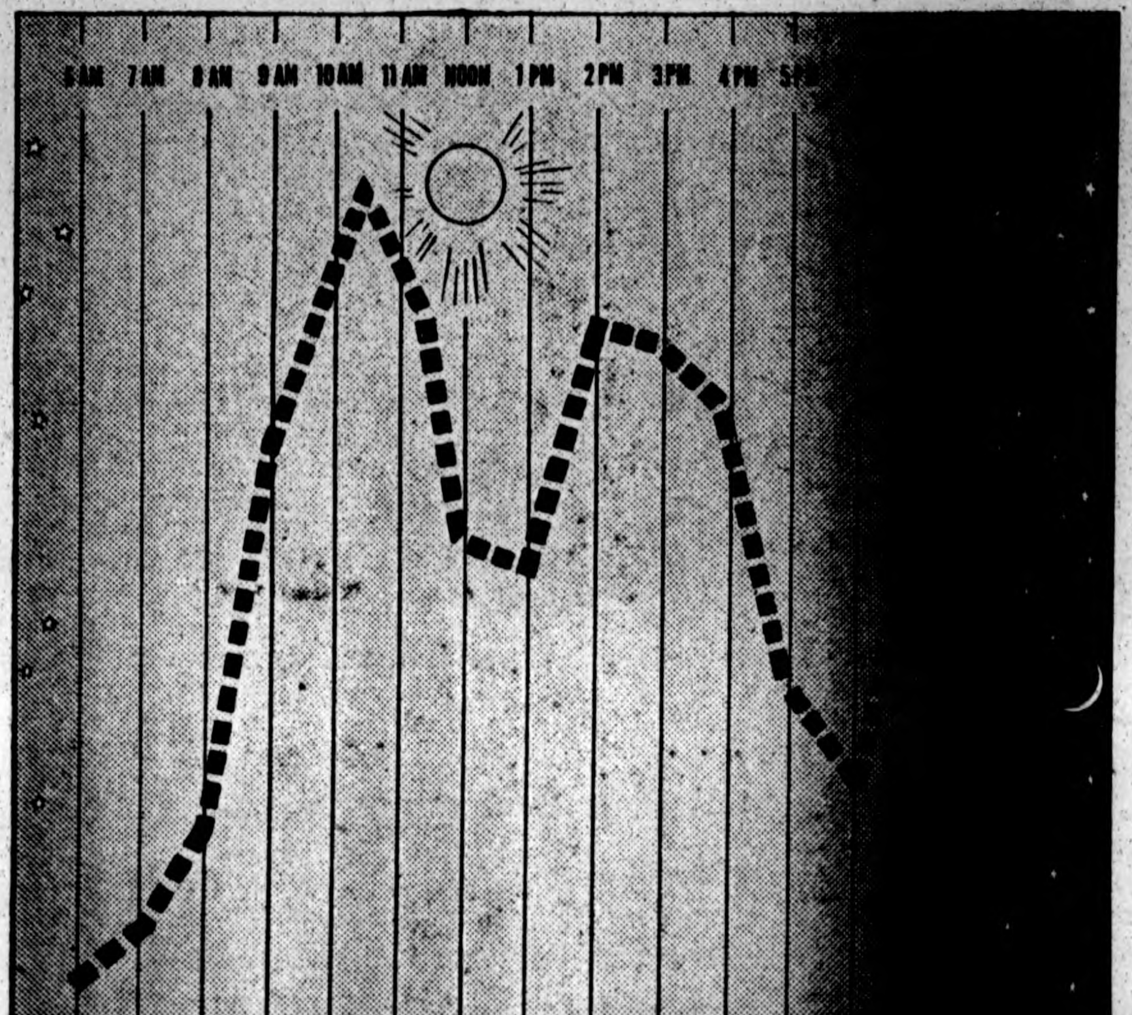
Men's Clothes
Made-to-Measure
COLEBY
Tailoring
Inc.
57th & MARKET STS.
Suits & Topcoats
$27.75
See Steve Aisenbrey
110 Fedigan Hall

WHAT IS THIS AD DOING HERE ANYWAY?
Why should Roger Kent advertise here, when we don't even have a shop here? Because we have something so unusual, that Villanova men have come all the way to New York or Philadelphia for it on their holiday visits. That is, good taste and authentic fashions . . . at one modest $38.50 price.
ROGER KENT
Suits, Outercoats and Formal Wear for Men at the one $38.50 price
NEW YORK
40 Broadway • 321 Broadway • 12 West 33rd St.
15 East 45th St. • 225 West 57th St.
NEW HAVEN 1058 Chapel St.
CAMBRIDGE Lampoon Bldg.
PHILADELPHIA 1607 Walnut St.
© R.K.

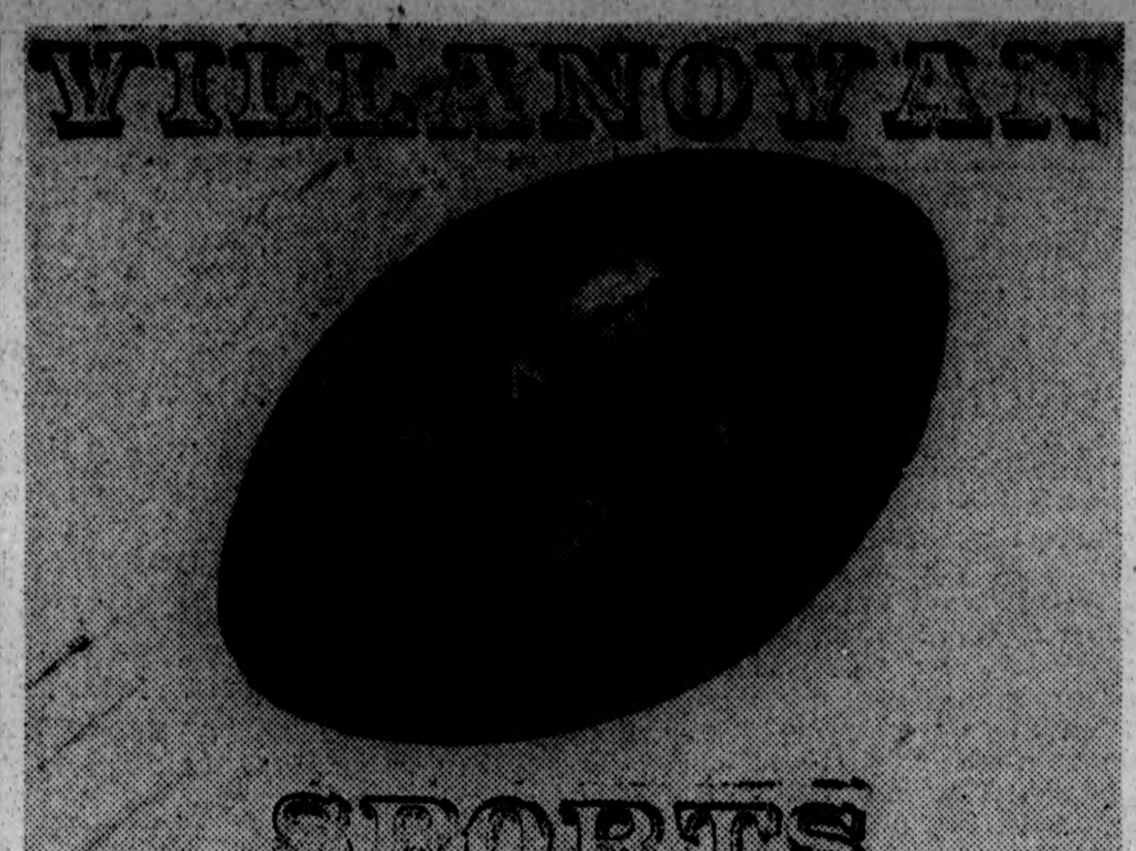
SEE THE GAME!
Villanova-Manhattan
Oct. 24 At The Polo Grounds New York City

MAKE YOUR FOOTBALL HEADQUARTERS THE POPULAR-PRICED, CONVENIENT DIXIE HOTEL
YOU'LL like the Dixie's convenience . . . only a half block from Times Square Express Subways to the Game . . . in the center of New York's gay night life!
You'll like your cheerful room . . . and the Southern hospitality in the Cocktail Lounge, the Coffee Shop, the Dickens Bar, the Restaurant. Best of all you'll like the modest prices! See your Travel Agent for reservations now—or write The Dixie!
Daily Rates from
$2.50 SINGLE $3.50 DOUBLE $5.25 THREE IN ROOM (SINGLE BEDS)
650 OUTSIDE ROOMS —EACH WITH PRIVATE BATHROOM AND RADIO
DIXIE HOTEL 250 WEST 43rd STREET TIMES SQUARE · NEW YORK

THE BEST TIMES TO MAKE LONG DISTANCE CALLS



ALTHOUGH it looks something like a sunrise over Pike's Peak, this is really a chart showing the ebb and flow of Long Distance calls during an average day.
Notice the sharp peaks in mid-morning, mid-afternoon and at 7 P. M.? That's when Long Distance lines are most crowded these busy days. Defense activities have put an extra heavy load on telephone facilities.
If you avoid these three peak periods, you'll get faster service on your calls—and you'll be helping to "speed the calls that speed defense."



Midget Wildcats In Action Friday, Meeting Tigers

'Cats Inaugurate Season Against Circuit Favorite, Princeton; Co-Coaches Drill Team in All Departments

By SID CAPLAN

Villanova's lightweights, with but one injury marring their progress, have entered the second week of a strenuous training period as they have ever undergone in an attempt to be in perfect condition for the Princeton encounter on this coming Friday at Princeton.

The 150's dynamic quarterback, Tony Peruta, is out for two weeks with a shoulder injury necessitating a shifting in the backfield to produce a substitute quarterback. The veteran Bill Sykes will fill in at this position.

The 150's engaged the Malvern Preppers in an action-packed scrimmage. Although no score was kept it was clear that the 150's were in fine fettle. The line held against plenty of pounding by the heavier Malvern backs, and the Blue ball carriers shook loose for several sizable gains. The passing game of the 150's was very much above par considering the early date of the scrimmage.

Backs Shaping Up

Outstanding for their work in the backfield Saturday were McManus, Donovan and Cahill. Logan Phillips and Jack Faraci took long strides towards clinching the starting tackle positions. Charley Lozowski and Joe McElvoy seemed to be the class of the guards. Plenty of good end material was available in Menseck, McGovern, Lyons and Caplan. Time and time again the Malvern thrusts were stopped by the steady Villanova line.

Tommy Casper, coach of last year's successful 150 lb. team stopped by one afternoon last week to see his former pupils perform. He spent considerable time aiding coaches Eusko and Koproski in developing a defense against Princeton's high stepping backs. Casper concluded his visit with a stirring tribute to his successors and left with them his best wishes for a championship season.

Princeton will have the advantage over the midget Wildcats, having played a game this past week with Cornell. The Tigers also have been picked by the experts as the most promising team to win the 1941 title.

'Cats Trip Florida, 6 To 0, On 3rd Period Pass Play

Prohovich Scores on 54-Yard Aerial From Postus; Blue Gains Overdue Victory in South After Being Checked in 1st Half

Villanova's hungry Wildcats, underfed from victory in the South for quite some time had their first taste of nourishment Saturday night at Gainesville when they turned back a strong Florida eleven, 6-0, before some 20,000 people.

It took Villanova just one scoring play, that a 54-yard pass play which had as its principal characters Al Postus and Bill Prohovich. It was late in the third period, just five minutes remaining in the standstill battle, when Postus let loose from Villanova's 46-yard line, a long pass which settled into the arms of Prohovich on the 'Gators 20. The big end shook three tacklers from him and dashed the rest of the way to score.

Harrison Hampered

After that lone score was registered on the scoreboard, Florida unleashed its heavy aerial offensive but the Wildcat line led by Captain Ed Korisky rushed too hard and too often and made things very unpleasant for the 'Gators passing back, Tommy Harrison.

After a sluggish first half in which their only offensive threat was an unsuccessful field goal attempt from the 30-yard line, the Cats took to the offense at the opening of the third quarter and it was Villanova from there on. The hunger for revenge after the disastrous affairs of '39 and '40 at the hands of Texas A. & M., Auburn, and Baylor was the key note of the second half-rout of the 'Gators. The Wildcats just ran all over Florida, switching from their regular Notre Dame shift formation to the new Smith version of the popular T formation using deceptive plays, fancy passing and driving plunges to come within scoring position many times only to have the 'Gators stave off any further scoring.

Conversion Fails

The Villanova score came with only five minutes remaining in the third quarter. The Philadelphians were on their own 46-yard line when Joe Behot called for one of Clippers tricky T formation plays in which Joe latteraled to Postus who faded, drawing in the secondary and then hung a long pass on a handle to Big Bill Prhovich who eluded three potential tacklers on the 20-yard stripe and crossed the goal standing up. A bad pass from center caused De Palo to rush his attempted conversion which went wide of the posts.

Outstanding in the Villanova attack was the new sophomore end, Bill Sullivan, who saw his first collegiate action. Bill entered the

'CATS-'GATORS
Continued on Page Seven

De Palo Put In 1-A

Louis R. DePalo, of White Plains, N. Y., and varsity end on Villanova's football team was reclassified by his local board, 747, from 4-F (physically unfit), to 1-A (available for immediate service), last Saturday, it was announced by Grover C. Sniffen, chairman of the board.

Sniffen said that a bad left knee had resulted in DePalo's 4-F classification last June but that the board changed its mind when the newspapers reported that he had resumed his football career here at school. The board unanimously voted to reclassify DePalo even though he appealed his case a week ago.

His appeal stated that when he played football, his knee was always protected by a steel brace. The board decided that if he could play football, he could undergo Army training.

SPORTORIAL

By BOB FUNABASHI
Sports Editor

EVEN though it is apparent that Villanova will have a rally this coming Thursday night in preparation for the Baylor game on Friday night it is well to reiterate the fact that such impromptu affairs need the blood of the student body and all who might donate their heartiest cheers to Clipper Smith and his gridmen.

A rally such as this is unprecedented in Villanova's history, for usually the well-established and ceremonious Temple rally covered enough ground in well-wishing to the Wildcat gridders that it became an incentive in their victories over the Broad Streeters. But this year the Baylor rally, creative of Jim Haughton's head, might also be a moral builder for Clipper and his boys and might spur them to victory over a mighty tough Baylor eleven.

No one in this area, not even the Blue's staunchest grad, will commit himself too highly on the outcome of this encounter, come next week. Football followers are, now-a-days, inclined to heave-over the non-realistic thoughts of victory and prepare to set up facts instead of fancy. We know definitely from the figures of the past Saturdays and last year's game that Baylor brings northward a team that has weight, power and trickery. The southwest has always developed better-than-average passing teams and the Bears have left-handed and right-handed tossers who leave high-scoring impressions on their victims.

Off-hand we are inclined to take a deep pause for this game, a precarious one, which, undoubtedly, means that Villanova has reached the cross-roads. Victory over Baylor means a great season ahead — Temple included — and defeat will be even more certain if Villanova fails the test.

The above is a good substantial reason why the Baylor rally deserves the support of all. If we, the student body—and their friends can be there in person and shout the name of the Wildcats to the deepest corners of Philarelphia, it will mean the greatest encouragement a team can get. Oil up the vocal cords, tear the roofs down and as far as we go the game will be won!

—V—

For the boy who can recall the days he spent making headlines in high school and prep school, and who's only claim is that he is too diminutive for varsity football, there is a real chance to glory again. That's playing for a good ball club—the 150 lb. team. This Friday, the lightweights go up to Princeton for their inaugural battle and it's likely that when they trot into the Tiger stadium, their moral will be slightly disheartened. The Tigers will have about one hundred men in uniform. Villanova will go there with a handful, unless some more students can be drafted.

This is repetitious with Uncle Sam's current ad, "We need you!" The lightweights need you, too. How about it? How about getting caught in that draft?

Yund, '41, Chosen On All-Star Team

Chuck Yund, '41, has been nominated as a candidate for the 1941 College All-Star Basketball team which will appear in the Basketball Classic at the Chicago Stadium on November 28.

The selection of the former Villanova co-captain is a tribute to his splendid play over a period of three years. As a senior, Yund scored 123 points in 16 games.

The College All-Stars will, in all probability, meet one of the leading professional teams of the country. The Classic is being sponsored by the Chicago Herald Tribune.

Russell And Wilson Spell Trouble As Baylor Prepares For Invasion

Bruin's Quarterback and Wingman Rated Highly in Southwestern Conference; Villanova Primes Itself for Outstanding Contest Against Bears

By JACQUES MAUCH

Out of the southwest on Friday night come the Green and Gold warriors of Baylor University. Hot off the plains of Texas they will invade Shibe Park with the intent of repeating last year's 6-0 victory over the Wildcats.

The Bears had a lean season in the Southwest Conference in 1940 and under their new coach, Frank Kimbrough, former Hardin-Simmons mentor, they are expecting to go places this year. Kimbrough, older brother of All-American John, had a very impressive record at his alma mater, winning 47, losing 8, and tying 3 during a six year term.

Baylor operates from a flashy double wingback formation with big 202 pound Milt Crain supplying plenty of power from the fullback slot. Crain as a sophomore last season, was rated as one of the best backs in the conference but injuries slowed him down. This season, however, he seems to be hitting on all cylinders.

Eyes On Wilson

The main cog in the Bear's offensive machine, though, is senior Jack Wilson who has been outstanding in Baylor's line-up for the past two years. He's big, fast, and rugged, packing 200 pounds of football flesh on a 6 feet 1 inch frame. Operating from the wingback position, he calls the signals, and does most of the kicking and passing besides carrying out his running assignments. He is the man to watch!

Wiry Bill Coleman and Dwight Parks, who passes as well as Wilson round out this versatile backfield combination.

Graduation has weakened the forward wall considerably. Coach Kimbrough's big worry is to fill the tackle positions and one flank. The other end is well taken care of by Jack Russell, All-Conference wingman last year and one of the best in Baylor's history. It was this 223 pound bruiser who continually hampered the Wildcat backs in last season's game.

Expect Razzle-Dazzle

Lew Self and Odel Griffin, both lettermen, will flank Buddy Gatewood pivot-man. Gatewood had two years experience understudying Bob Nelson, the Bear's star center of last season.

Baylor won its first two games from Hardin-Simmons College and Denver University. They were not pressed in either game and as a result did not show much of their tricky offense, but you can be sure that they will explode Friday night to dazzle the fans under the arc-lights.

Meanwhile, Villanova will be at its full strength, as the only injury was sustained by Steve Pritko, in the Florida game last week.

Due to the fine showing of both clubs in previous games, a capacity crowd is anticipated. Baylor has victories over Hardin-Simmons, Denver, and Arkansas while Villanova has defeated Centre and Florida. The kick-off will be at 8:30 P. M.

Hooper Captains Blue Trackmen

Senior Runner Will Lead Team This Year; Harriers Prepare for I. C. 4-A Meet

Bill Hooper, ace distance runner for Jumbo Elliott's cindermen, was unanimously elected captain for the coming year. Hooper, one of the two senior members of the squad was given the vote by his teammates at a meeting yesterday afternoon.

A feature runner in the mile and half-mile races, Hooper was formerly a varsity swimmer who switched sports. At Mercersburg Academy, he held the world's record in the quarter-mile swim. In his sophomore year he turned to track and surprised everyone by his good showing. His endurance and energy have carried him along to victories.

Sets a New Record

Last week Hooper established a new cross-country record in an intra-squad meet. His time in the 2½-mile course was 11:12. In winning, Hooper defeated Carl Oerth, former national public school cross-country champion.

Captain Hooper will lead the team over to New York next month when the Wildcat harriers face a strong field in the I. C. 4-A cross-country meet held at Van Cortland Park. Villanova will meet a cross-section of the Eastern seaboard's finest distance men, including the champion, Leslie MacMitchell, from N. Y. U.

Opponents Show Scoring Punch

Last Friday and Saturday's games revealed to some extent what our opponents for the coming games would be like. While our Cats were down in the sunny south our strongest opponents got under way Friday night.

Villanova's traditional rival, Temple, continued to go undefeated against a weaker Georgetown eleven. Led by Andy Tomasic the Owl's took a 17-7 victory over the Washington lads. Over in New York two of our rivals played Friday night at the Polo Grounds with the powerful Duquesne eleven marching to victory over the Jaspers of Manhattan by a score of 26-7. Before this game both teams were undefeated.

Going to the west we see that a powerful Detroit team piled up a 45-0 victory over Central Michigan Teachers. The Tartans were of course the heavy favorites, but the score shows what class of opponents we will meet this year.

As for the games played on Saturday by our southern opponents, an extremely strong Auburn eleven literally walked over a small Louisiana Polytechnic Institute team by the score of 34-0. In another game in the southwest a powerful Baylor team defeated Arkansas by a score of 20-7.

RESULTS OF EXPERTS

Last week's board of experts, opining on fifteen games, picked the correct winner in ten choices, to establish an average of .666. The Georgia-Mississippi tie was responsible for one error, Santa Clara's win over California another, Boston College's defeat at the hands of Clemson, a third, and Indiana's loss to T. C. U., a fourth. The biggest poodle was the unanimous choice of Colgate over Dartmouth. Individual honors go to Jim Haughton, Director of Publicity, who missed only two out of fourteen, for an average of .858.

Baylor Star

JACK RUSSELL

Student Direction Of Choral Society Activities This Year

Officers of the Choral Society will undertake full responsibility for the activities of that organization this year, making all engagements. Rev. Ralph J. Handran, O. S. A., moderator, will act solely as an instructor, leaving the bulk of the work which was delegated to him last year up to the members of the Society.

With a membership of 44 students, the Society is now engaged in plans for a Villanova-Rosemont recital, to be held on or about December 10. The chorus will consist of the Villanova members and 60 students from Rosemont. The program as now planned, consists of fourteen numbers. A contralto soloist, Miss Stella Creamer, will be featured with a violin obligato of Anton Rubinstein's "Seraphic Song."

The program will include the universally known Irish melody, "Danny Boy"; "Sicut Cervus"; "Halleluiah Chorus"; "Pledge to the Flag"; "Mah Lindy Lou", and other numbers.

Officers of the Choral Society, elected at the closing of the last school year are: Joseph I. Rozum, a senior science man, president; Samuel J. Canning, junior in the commerce school, vice-president; and John P. Fullam, senior education student as secretary-treasurer.

MRS. BURKE DIES

Mrs. Joseph Burke, wife of the co-author of the Villanova "Alma Mater" and mother of Dr. James Burke of the class of 1932, died last week.

FOR ANY BOOK
REILLY BOOK STORE
133 N. 13th STREET
Established 1900

Opens Thursday
Dick Stabile
and His Orchestra
with
Gracie Barrie
Dancing Nightly and Sat. Aft. from 1 to 5 P. M.
65c Daily and Sat. Aft.
85c Friday and Saturday
Broadcasting Over WCAU
The Aragon
Market between 15th and 16th

Men's Clothes
Made-to-Measure
COLEBY
Tailoring
Inc.
57th & MARKET STS.
Suits & Topcoats
$27.75
See Steve Aisenbrey
110 Fedigan Hall

News Briefs

Dr. Rudolf F. Drenick, instructor in mathematics and physics, will address the members of the German Club at a meeting next Monday evening, October 20, in Simpson Hall.

Topics and songs by club members will also be included in the evening's entertainment. Motion pictures will be shown and refreshments served.

An invitation to join the club has been extended to all former students of German to keep alive and to enhance their knowledge of the language, literature, and culture of the German-speaking peoples.

The club holds regular social and educational meetings once a month.

Delta Pi Epsilon, commerce school fraternity, held its initial meeting of the year last Thursday morning in Simpson Hall. Approximately 45 members were present to hear David N. Reardon, president, outline plans for the coming year.

Six members will be appointed shortly as a pledging committee to choose desirable candidates for membership. Applications will be submitted to selected students during the three weeks pledging period beginning Oct. 30. The pledging will be climaxed with a formal initiation on Nov. 19. The names of the pledging committee members will not be announced.

At the next meeting, scheduled for Oct. 23 at 11:40 A. M., in Simpson Hall, a design for the fraternity pin will be selected. An attempt will be made to standardize the pin design for use in the future. In April, all those seniors with two years' membership in the organization will be presented with keys at the annual dinner. Seniors who join D. P. E. this year must pay higher dues than underclassmen in order to enjoy the privileges and benefits offered by the fraternity.

Villanova students will act as ushers at the 7th Annual Catechetical Congress of the Confraternity of Christian Doctrine, to be held from November 15 to 18 in the Bellevue-Stratford Hotel, Philadelphia.

The departments of Chemistry and Chemical Engineering of Villanova College have received the approval of the American Chemical Society, Very Rev. Edward V. Stanford, O. S. A., has announced.

This announcement came as the result of an inspection last year of the college's laboratory facilities and technical equipment by the Committee on the Professional Training of Chemists of the American Chemical Society.

The International Relations Club will receive new members, both freshmen and upperclassmen, and map out plans for the current year at an initial meeting Wednesday at 3:00 P. M. in Simpson Hall.

Fr. Stanford Visits Rutgers And Lehigh

Rev. Edward V. Stanford, O. S. A., college president, journeyed to Rutgers University last Friday and Saturday, upon the occasion of the celebration of the 175th anniversary of that institution.

Last Thursday Fr. Stanford was among those present at a testimonial dinner given for Robert L Johnson, newly-elected president of Temple University, at the Penn Athletic Club. Educators from all parts of the country, along with many celebrities, attended this banquet.

On Friday, Oct. 3, Fr. Stanford visited Lehigh University.

Entertaining Last Week's Smokers

Fr. O'Leary (left), math professor, using his ever-ready Irish wit, highlighted last week's P. K. P. smoker. Maurice J. "Clipper" Smith (right) with motion pictures of last season's football games explained the tactics employed by the nation's football coaches to D. P. E. members last Wednesday evening.

Band Members Hold First Dinner - Dance

The Covered Wagon was the scene last night of the first Dinner-Dance held by the Villanova Marching Band. The affair, which was formal, was attended by over 40 couples and had as a guest of honor Rev. Ralph J. Handran, O. S. A., moderator of the organization.

The committee in charge of the dance included Joseph Rozum, senior science student, Mark Fitzgerald, a senior in the education school, and William Swan, sophomore commerce man.

On Sunday the band marched in a Holy Name parade in Camden, accompanying the Atlantic City delegation. Last year the band participated in a similar parade in Jersey City.

This week the band will be engaged in practice for the Baylor rally on Thursday and the Friday night game.

WHAT IS THIS AD DOING HERE ANYWAY?

Why should Roger Kent advertise here, when we don't even have a shop here? Because we have something so unusual, that Villanova men have come all the way to New York or Philadelphia for it on their holiday visits. That is, good taste and authentic fashions . . . at one modest $38.50 price.

ROGER KENT
Suits, Outercoats and Formal Wear for Men at the one $38.50 price
NEW YORK
40 Broadway • 321 Broadway • 12 West 33rd St.
15 East 45th St. • 225 West 57th St.
NEW HAVEN 1058 Chapel St.
CAMBRIDGE Lampoon Bldg.
PHILADELPHIA 1607 Walnut St.
© R.K.

SEE THE GAME!
Villanova-Manhattan
Oct. 24 At The Polo Grounds New York City

MAKE YOUR FOOTBALL HEADQUARTERS THE POPULAR-PRICED, CONVENIENT DIXIE HOTEL

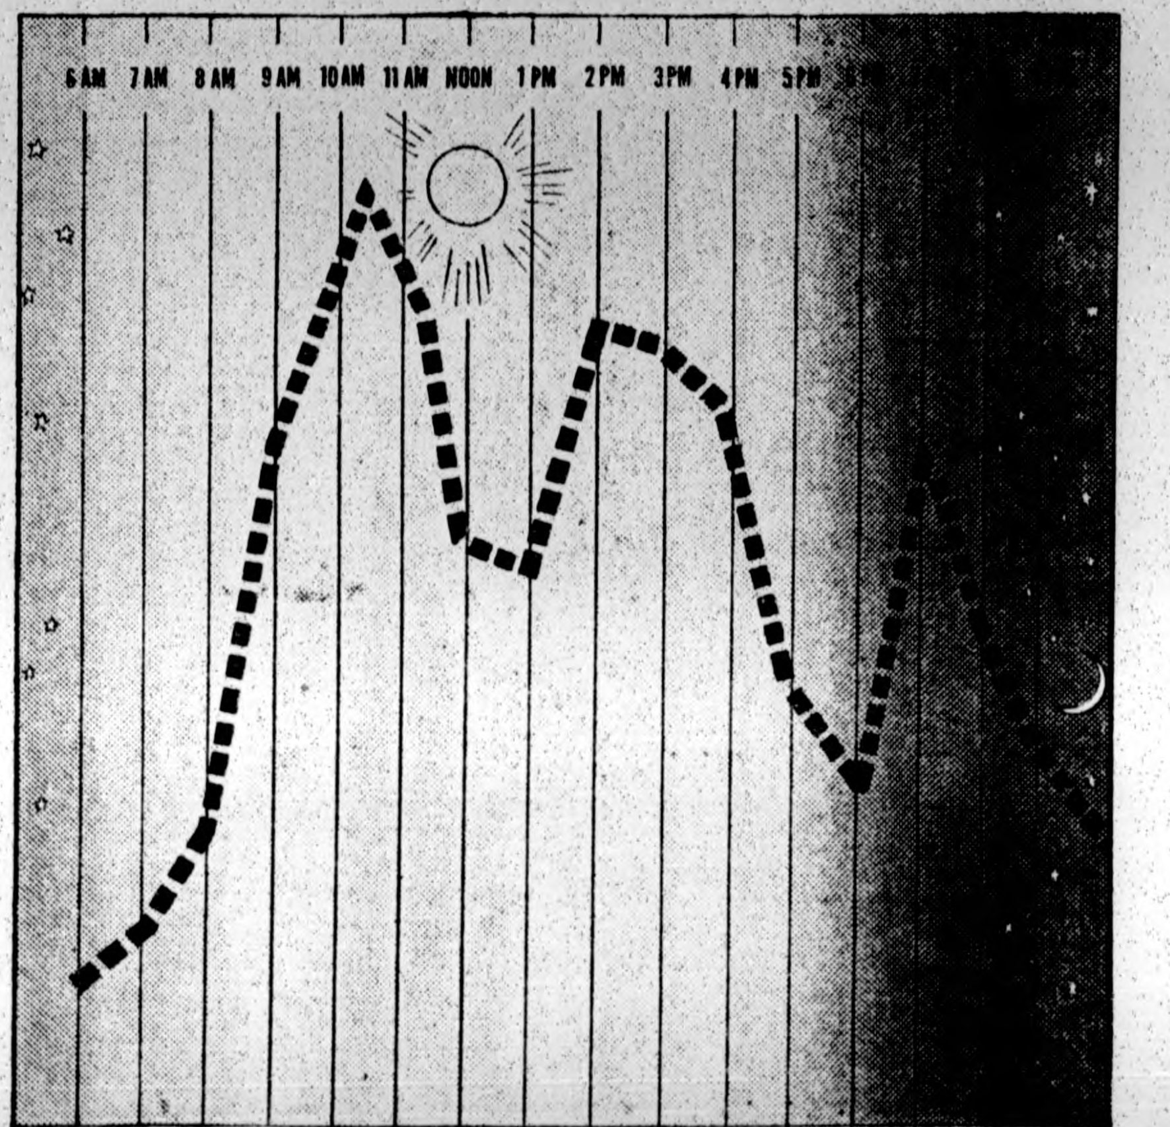
YOU'LL like the Dixie's convenience . . . only a half block from Times Square Express Subways to the Game . . . in the center of New York's gay night life!

You'll like your cheerful room . . . and the Southern hospitality in the Cocktail Lounge, the Coffee Shop, the Dickens Bar, the Restaurant. Best of all you'll like the modest prices! See your Travel Agent for reservations now—or write The Dixie!

Daily Rates from
$2.50 SINGLE $3.50 DOUBLE $5.25 THREE IN ROOM (SINGLE BEDS)
650 OUTSIDE ROOMS — EACH WITH PRIVATE BATHROOM AND RADIO

DIXIE HOTEL 250 WEST 43rd STREET TIMES SQUARE · NEW YORK

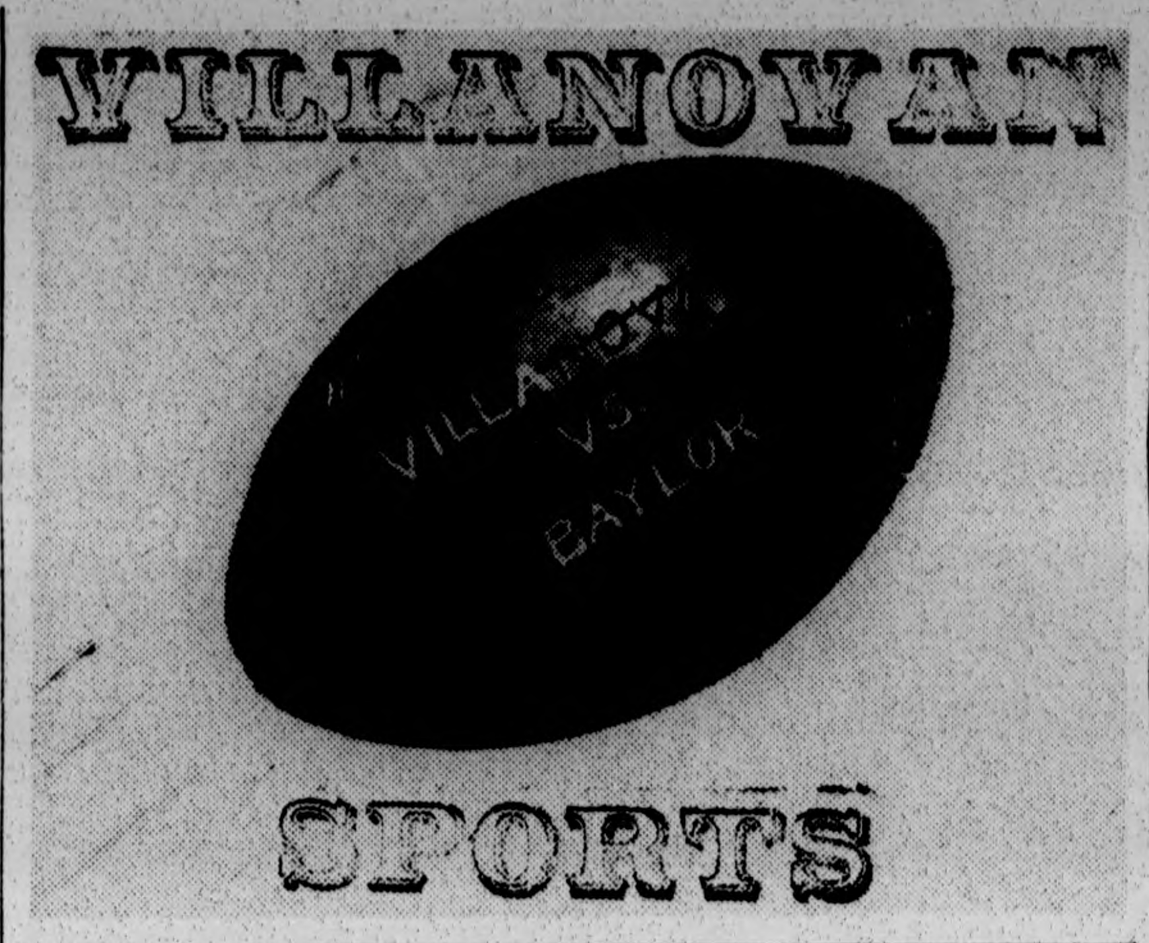
THE BEST TIMES TO MAKE LONG DISTANCE CALLS



ALTHOUGH it looks something like a sunrise over Pike's Peak, this is really a chart showing the ebb and flow of Long Distance calls during an average day.

Notice the sharp peaks in mid-morning, mid-afternoon and at 7 P. M.? That's when Long Distance lines are most crowded these busy days. Defense activities have put an extra heavy load on telephone facilities.

If you avoid these three peak periods, you'll get faster service on your calls—and you'll be helping to "speed the calls that speed defense."



Midget Wildcats In Action Friday, Meeting Tigers

'Cats Inaugurate Season Against Circuit Favorite, Princeton; Co-Coaches Drill Team in All Departments

By SID CAPLAN

Villanova's lightweights, with but one injury marring their progress, have entered the second week of a strenuous training period as they have ever undergone in an attempt to be in perfect condition for the Princeton encounter on this coming Friday at Princeton.

The 150's dynamic quarterback, Tony Peruta, is out for two weeks with a shoulder injury necessitating a shifting in the backfield to produce a substitute quarterback. The veteran Bill Sykes will fill in at this position.

The 150's engaged the Malvern Preppers in an action-packed scrimmage. Although no score was kept it was clear that the 150's were in fine fettle. The line held against plenty of pounding by the heavier Malvern backs, and the Blue ball carriers shook loose for several sizable gains. The passing game of the 150's was very much above par considering the early date of the scrimmage.

Backs Shaping Up

Outstanding for their work in the backfield Saturday were McManus, Donovan and Cahill. Logan Phillips and Jack Faraci took long strides towards clinching the starting tackle positions. Charley Lozowski and Joe McElvoy seemed to be the class of the guards. Plenty of good end material was available in Menseck, McGovern, Lyons and Caplan. Time and time again the Malvern thrusts were stopped by the steady Villanova line.

Tommy Casper, coach of last year's successful 150 lb. team stopped by one afternoon last week to see his former pupils perform. He spent considerable time aiding coaches Eusko and Koproski in developing a defense against Princeton's high stepping backs. Casper concluded his visit with a stirring tribute to his successors and left with them his best wishes for a championship season.

Princeton will have the advantage over the midget Wildcats, having played a game this past week with Cornell. The Tigers also have been picked by the experts as the most promising team to win the 1941 title.

'Cats Trip Florida, 6 To 0, On 3rd Period Pass Play

Prohovich Scores on 54-Yard Aerial From Postus; Blue Gains Overdue Victory in South After Being Checked in 1st Half

Villanova's hungry Wildcats, underfed from victory in the South for quite some time had their first taste of nourishment Saturday night at Gainesville when they turned back a strong Florida eleven, 6-0, before some 20,000 people.

It took Villanova just one scoring play, that a 54-yard pass play which had as its principal characters Al Postus and Bill Prohovich. It was late in the third period, just five minutes remaining in the standstill battle, when Postus let loose from Villanova's 46-yard line, a long pass which settled into the arms of Prohovich on the 'Gators 20. The big end shook three tacklers from him and dashed the rest of the way to score.

Harrison Hampered

After that lone score was registered on the scoreboard, Florida unleashed its heavy aerial offensive but the Wildcat line led by Captain Ed Korisky rushed too hard and too often and made things very unpleasant for the 'Gators passing back, Tommy Harrison.

After a sluggish first half in which their only offensive threat was an unsuccessful field goal attempt from the 30-yard line, the Cats took to the offense at the opening of the third quarter and it was Villanova from there on. The hunger for revenge after the disastrous affairs of '39 and '40 at the hands of Texas A. & M., Auburn, and Baylor was the key note of the second half-rout of the 'Gators. The Wildcats just ran all over Florida, switching from their regular Notre Dame shift formation to the new Smith version of the popular T formation using deceptive plays, fancy passing and driving plunges to come within scoring position many times only to have the 'Gators stave off any further scoring.

Conversion Fails

The Villanova score came with only five minutes remaining in the third quarter. The Philadelphians were on their own 46-yard line when Joe Behot called for one of Clippers tricky T formation plays in which Joe latteraled to Postus who faded, drawing in the secondary and then hung a long pass on a handle to Big Bill Prhovich who eluded three potential tacklers on the 20-yard stripe and crossed the goal standing up. A bad pass from center caused De Palo to rush his attempted conversion which went wide of the posts.

Outstanding in the Villanova attack was the new sophomore end, Bill Sullivan, who saw his first collegiate action. Bill entered the

'CATS-'GATORS
Continued on Page Seven

De Palo Put In 1-A

Louis R. DePalo, of White Plains, N. Y. and varsity end on Villanova's football team was reclassified by his local board, 747, from 4-F (physically unfit), to 1-A (available for immediate service), last Saturday, it was announced by Grover C. Sniffen, chairman of the board.

Sniffen said that a bad left knee had resulted in DePalo's 4-F classification last June but that the board changed its mind when the newspapers reported that he had resumed his football career here at school. The board unanimously voted to reclassify DePalo even though he appealed his case a week ago.

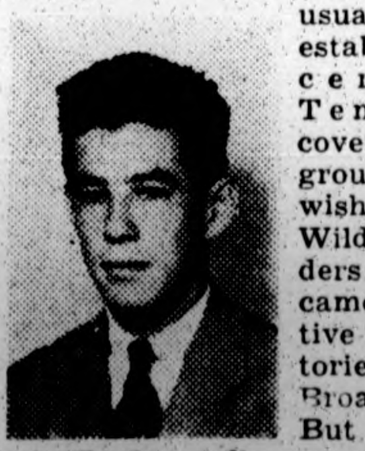
His appeal stated that when he played football, his knee was always protected by a steel brace. The board decided that if he could play football, he could undergo Army training.

SPORTORIAL

By BOB FUNABASHI
Sports Editor

EVEN though it is apparent that Villanova will have a rally this coming Thursday night in preparation for the Baylor game on Friday night it is well to reiterate the fact that such impromptu affairs need the blood of the student body and all who might donate their heartiest cheers to Clipper Smith and his gridmen.

A rally such as this is unprecedented in Villanova's history, for usually the well-established and ceremonious Temple rally covered enough ground in well-wishing to the Wildcat gridders that it became an incentive in their victories over the Broad Streeters. But this year the Baylor rally, creative of Jim Haughton's head, might also be a moral builder for Clipper and his boys and might spur them to victory over a mighty tough Baylor eleven.



No one in this area, not even the Blue's staunchest grad, will commit himself too highly on the outcome of this encounter, come next week. Football followers are, now-a-days, inclined to heave-over the non-realistic thoughts of victory and prepare to set up facts instead of fancy. We know definitely from the figures of the past Saturdays and last year's game that Baylor brings northward a team that has weight, power and trickery. The southwest has always developed better-than-average passing teams and the Bears have left-handed and right-handed tossers who leave high-scoring impressions on their victims.

Off-hand we are inclined to take a deep pause for this game, a precarious one, which, undoubtedly, means that Villanova has reached the cross-roads. Victory over Baylor means a great season ahead — Temple included — and defeat will be even more certain if Villanova fails the test.

The above is a good substantial reason why the Baylor rally deserves the support of all. If we, the student body—and their friends can be there in person and shout the name of the Wildcats to the deepest corners of Philarelphia, it will mean the greatest encouragement a team can get. Oil up the vocal cords, tear the roofs down and as far as we go the game will be won!

—V—

For the boy who can recall the days he spent making headlines in high school and prep school, and who's only claim is that he is too diminutive for varsity football, there is a real chance to glory again. That's playing for a good ball club—the 150 lb. team. This Friday, the lightweights go up to Princeton for their inaugural battle and it's likely that when they trot into the Tiger stadium, their moral will be slightly disheartened. The Tigers will have about one hundred men in uniform. Villanova will go there with a handful, unless some more students can be drafted.

This is repetitious with Uncle Sam's current ad, "We need you!" The lightweights need you, too. How about it? How about getting caught in that draft?

Yund, '41, Chosen On All-Star Team

Chuck Yund, '41, has been nominated as a candidate for the 1941 College All-Star Basketball team which will appear in the Basketball Classic at the Chicago Stadium on November 28.

The selection of the former Villanova co-captain is a tribute to his splendid play over a period of three years. As a senior, Yund scored 123 points in 16 games.

The College All-Stars will, in all probability, meet one of the leading professional teams of the country. The Classic is being sponsored by the Chicago Herald Tribune.

Russell And Wilson Spell Trouble As Baylor Prepares For Invasion

Bruin's Quarterback and Wingman Rated Highly in Southwestern Conference; Villanova Primes Itself for Outstanding Contest Against Bears

By JACQUES MAUCH

Out of the southwest on Friday night come the Green and Gold warriors of Baylor University. Hot off the plains of Texas they will invade Shibe Park with the intent of repeating last year's 6-0 victory over the Wildcats.

The Bears had a lean season in the Southwest Conference in 1940 and under their new coach, Frank Kimbrough, former Hardin-Simmons mentor, they are expecting to go places this year. Kimbrough, older brother of All-American John, had a very impressive record at his alma mater, winning 47, losing 8, and tying 3 during a six year term.

Baylor operates from a flashy double wingback formation with big 202 pound Milt Crain supplying plenty of power from the fullback slot. Crain as a sophomore last season, was rated as one of the best backs in the conference but injuries slowed him down. This season, however, he seems to be hitting on all cylinders.

Eyes On Wilson

The main cog in the Bear's offensive machine, though, is senior Jack Wilson who has been outstanding in Baylor's line-up for the past two years. He's big, fast, and rugged, packing 200 pounds of football flesh on a 6 feet 1 inch frame. Operating from the wingback position, he calls the signals, and does most of the kicking and passing besides carrying out his running assignments. He is the man to watch!

Wiry Bill Coleman and Dwight Parks, who passes as well as Wilson round out this versatile backfield combination.

Graduation has weakened the forward wall considerably. Coach Kimbrough's big worry is to fill the tackle positions and one flank. The other end is well taken care of by Jack Russell, All-Conference wingman last year and one of the best in Baylor's history. It was this 223 pound bruiser who continually hampered the Wildcat backs in last season's game.

Expect Razzle-Dazzle

Lew Self and Odel Griffin, both lettermen, will flank Buddy Gatewood pivot-man. Gatewood had two years experience understudying Bob Nelson, the Bear's star center of last season.

Baylor won its first two games from Hardin-Simmons College and Denver University. They were not pressed in either game and as a result did not show much of their tricky offense, but you can be sure that they will explode Friday night to dazzle the fans under the arc-lights.

Meanwhile, Villanova will be at its full strength, as the only injury was sustained by Steve Pritko, in the Florida game last week.

Due to the fine showing of both clubs in previous games, a capacity crowd is anticipated. Baylor has victories over Hardin-Simmons, Denver, and Arkansas while Villanova has defeated Centre and Florida. The kick-off will be at 8:30 P. M.

Hooper Captains Blue Trackmen

Senior Runner Will Lead Team This Year; Harriers Prepare for I. C. 4-A Meet

Bill Hooper, ace distance runner for Jumbo Elliott's cindermen, was unanimously elected captain for the coming year. Hooper, one of the two senior members of the squad was given the vote by his teammates at a meeting yesterday afternoon.

A feature runner in the mile and half-mile races, Hooper was formerly a varsity swimmer who switched sports. At Mercersburg Academy, he held the world's record in the quarter-mile swim. In his sophomore year he turned to track and surprised everyone by his good showing. His endurance and energy have carried him along to victories.

Sets a New Record

Last week Hooper established a new cross-country record in an intra-squad meet. His time in the 2½-mile course was 11:12. In winning, Hooper defeated Carl Oerth, former national public school cross-country champion.

Captain Hooper will lead the team over to New York next month when the Wildcat harriers face a strong field in the I. C. 4-A cross-country meet held at Van Cortland Park. Villanova will meet a cross-section of the Eastern seaboard's finest distance men, including the champion, Leslie MacMitchell, from N. Y. U.

Opponents Show Scoring Punch

Last Friday and Saturday's games revealed to some extent what our opponents for the coming games would be like. While our Cats were down in the sunny south our strongest opponents got under way Friday night.

Villanova's traditional rival, Temple, continued to go undefeated against a weaker Georgetown eleven. Led by Andy Tomasic the Owl's took a 17-7 victory over the Washington lads. Over in New York two of our rivals played Friday night at the Polo Grounds with the powerful Duquesne eleven marching to victory over the Jaspers of Manhattan by a score of 26-7. Before this game both teams were undefeated.

Going to the west we see that a powerful Detroit team piled up a 45-0 victory over Central Michigan Teachers. The Tartans were of course the heavy favorites, but the score shows what class of opponents we will meet this year.

As for the games played on Saturday by our southern opponents, an extremely strong Auburn eleven literally walked over a small Louisiana Polytechnic Institute team by the score of 34-0. In another game in the southwest a powerful Baylor team defeated Arkansas by a score of 20-7.

RESULTS OF EXPERTS

Last week's board of experts, opining on fifteen games, picked the correct winner in ten choices, to establish an average of .666. The Georgia-Mississippi tie was responsible for one error, Santa Clara's win over California another, Boston College's defeat at the hands of Clemson, a third, and Indiana's loss to T. C. U., a fourth. The biggest poodle was the unanimous choice of Colgate over Dartmouth. Individual honors go to Jim Haughton, Director of Publicity, who missed only two out of fourteen, for an average of .858.

Baylor Star

JACK RUSSELL

I-M Court League Opens Today

Austin Featured Against Fedigan In Opening Card

By SAM CANNING

The Intramural Basketball League will open this afternoon and this evening as six teams clash for the greater honor and glory of their respective halls and schools. The first game will be at 3:00 P. M. this afternoon when the C & F Day Hops coached by Fr. O'Donnell and the Mendel Commuters under Fr. Sullivan meet in their traditional battle.

Tonight Austin Hall's contingent and Fr. McCarthy's Fediganites will take the court with new vengeance, especially Austin, after being beaten in the championship play-offs last year by their arch rivals. Following this game the two freshman halls, Alumni and Mendel Residents will cut loose with some wild and fancy playing. Every year this game is watched with keen interest to see the future stars of Austin and Fedigan.

Fedigan Looks Strong

As for the prospects of the individual teams it looks as if the league is going to be the hottest it has ever been and sometimes that league has just sizzled. Fedigan, last year's champions, have several of their stars back in Fred Clark, Joe Malone and Joe Cerulo. They also have the addition of Bob Moore from Austin.

The Austin Fireman certainly have a larger group of experienced talent than any other team in the league. They have last year's star Art Martin, and a former Fediganite in Joe Daly plus Bill Molnar and Tom McQuade who graduated from Alumni Hall. Add these stars to the contingent from last year's Mendel team and you have a strong contender for the I-M crown.

C&F Promising

C&F looks for one of its best seasons yet on the court due to the fact that sharpshooting Jim Buxeda is back again. The few losses incurred by graduation will be filled by Jack Coleman, John Newell and Bill Menseck.

The Mendel Day Hops will be out on the limb and remain a dark horse in the running. Only a mediocre team last season, they are out to redeem themselves. As for Alumni and Mendel residents, previews remain a scarcity because of the unknown strength of a batch of newcomers.

Open Letter

Mr. Robert Funabashi
Sports Editor, Villanovan,
Villanova College,
Villanova, Pa.

Dear Mr. Funabashi,

It may seem strange that I am sending you this letter, but it has been called to my attention that there is a little misunderstanding among the student body relative to my failure to select a winner in the Villanova-Florida game this past Saturday.

I am taking this opportunity to let you know my position in the case, hoping that you may convey to the students how I feel in regard to our own games.

First: As I do the scouting, I naturally see our opponents before most people at Villanova.

Second: The information I gather on said opponents I give to our head coach, Mr. Smith, and our squad.

Third: It is almost a paradoxical situation I find myself in, in the respect that if I pick our team to win, I may create an attitude of over-confidence; if I pick them to lose, I may create an impression that I do not have confidence in our team.

To illustrate the point I would like to relate a little incident that happened some years ago, when we played Bucknell in Scranton. I had scouted Bucknell, and turned my report over to the coaching staff and the football squad. A newspaperman called me and asked me for some information on the Bucknell team. I gave him the said information for publicity. Then he asked me for some "Off the record" information, which he wanted for his own use. I acted in good faith and gave him my opinion of the outcome of the game. The next day in the paper was a headline that I had predicted a 20-0 victory for Villanova. From a psychological point of view, it was very bad business, as far as coaching is concerned. Of course there was the usual denial as to our ability to accomplish this feat. However, my lucky star was shining brightly, and Villanova won the game, 14-0. "Whitey" Randour, who was left halfback on that team, scored another touchdown, but it was nullified by an offside penalty.

Since that time I have made it a rule never to state my opinions in public as to the probable outcome of our games.

I hope this information will let those who wonder about my "No Choice" selection on the Florida game really know my position.

May I state that your "Picking Winners" is most enjoyable, and I will be looking forward to your list of games every week.

Sincerely yours,
Doc Jacobs.

Spirited Frosh Await Owl Fray

Little attention has been paid this fall to the team that holds the longest undefeated record still in effect at Villanova. The freshman football team under the able tutelage of Doc Jacobs, has been undefeated over a four year span. According to Coach Jacobs, this edition looks very promising. They have a lot of spirit and willingness to learn which every coach is grateful to find.

Last week, the frosh traveled over to New Jersey to engage the very strong Bordentown Military Institute team. The Main Liners held the boys from the institute scoreless while they themselves could not seem to cash in on their opportunities. "I didn't see them play against Bordentown Institute, but I understand that after a few defects are ironed out, we will attain the required cohesion on both offense and defense."

Look for Sycher!

Both the end posts are manned by strong rangy men in Darcy and Narcum. Whymeyer and Lillienthal at present appear to have copped the tackle slots while Knoppa and Barker are the starting guards. Sinkler and Gori are having a real battle for the center post. This is the line that started the Bordentown game but may be entirely different for their next star, so close is the competition.

In the backfield, a boy by the name of Sycher who punts with his right foot and throws "lefty," holds down the right half berth. Lopez started at left half but can alternate at full which makes McCarthy who started at the latter post a little more uneasy. Brennan was the quarter back and captain.

Nothing definite has been done about the rest of the schedule but Coach Jacobs feels sure that Temple will be next as in previous year. The reason for the indefiniteness of the schedule is that the yearlings have enough work to do in learning the different systems of the varsity's opponents

Yednock Tabbed As 'Cosmic' Kicker; Sure To Hit Stardom In Final Year

Bench - Warming Halfback Is a Promising Headliner for Certain This Season

It wasn't too surprising the day that Joe Yednock picked up the papers and found his picture embellished on the sports page. But just above, the caption read, "cosmic" kicker.

Well, Joe had heard of the famous "cosmic" punch which Lou Nova was going to blast Joe Louis out of his crown with and then he also remembered the "cosmic" stroke which supposedly was going to put Frank Kovacs on top of the tennis ladder. But as far as "cosmic" kicks went, they were something new.

The publicity beneath the picture stated that Yednock had developed a fast-breaking punt which soared in the length of sixty to seventy yards. It was partially true to Joe for he had spent part of his summer practicing in this "modern design" of kicking. How it became known as a "cosmic" kick is merely a bit of publicity, but the fact does remain that he can really kick.

"Cosmic" is Right!

It now is apparent in the Philadelphia area, and even more so to the fans who paid their way in last Saturday night to watch the 'Cats begin their season against Center, that there might be truth in this "cosmic" business. For Yednock justified the publicity by sending that pigskin out on the one fot line. The ball just angled away from his toe, traveling a good fifty yards, hit the dirt and rolled out. Following that came a tremendous ovation.

This Phoenixville lad seems to be coming into his own. For two years, Joe just got the smell of the pigskin in practice and waited patiently for a position. Then last year in the final game Clipper and Vince sent Joe into the game beside his cousin—and the star—Nick Basca. Joe did mighty nice that day and for the first time the southerners confessed that they saw a lad better than one of their own. Across the line for Auburn, stood the best punter in the nation, Dick McGowen.

Yednock kept his lusty foot busy all that afternoon and sent their tailbacks scampering back in vain efforts to get the ball. After that Clipper and Vince finally saw that they had a kicker of all-star ability, and this year Yednock has found their favor.

Besides his punting ability, Joe plays baseball—and what a game! Mail your questions to the big-league scouts in the major leagues and find your answer.

Your Last Chance to get Walt Disney's
Song Book
FREE with the purchase of a bottle of PARKER
Quink
at only 15¢

No box-tops to send — no waiting — just get this quick-drying, pen-cleaning ink at your retailer's and receive your Song Book right then and there!

We might have known that such a swell offer would soon exhaust retailers' supplies, but we didn't dream it would happen so fast. If you don't find any left at the first store, try a second. But act without delay, to be safe.

And when you fill your pen with Parker Quink, be sure to try it without a blotter. See how fast it dries ON PAPER—31% quicker than average of 4 others. And see how beautifully your pen works—a Parker or ANY OTHER. For Quink contains a secret agent that dissolves deposits left by pen-clogging inks. That's really why we created Quink—to guard pens from sediment and gum that stop the flow.

Quink will help keep your pen in your hands and out of repair shops.

To induce you to try it, we are giving Disney's Song Book FREE when you buy Quink for 15 cents. Better clip out this announcement as a reminder. It's probably your last chance.

The Parker Pen Company, Janesville, Wisconsin.

6 DUMBO Lyrics included
Look Out For Mr. Stork
Casey Junior
Baby Mine
I've Seen Everything
Song of the Roustabouts and 94 other Favorites by these and other authors.

© Walt Disney Productions

HURRY!
Size 7½" x 9½"
100 SONG HITS
WALT DISNEY'S DUMBO Song Book
Quink CLEANS A PEN AS IT WRITES
STOPS TWO-THIRDS OF PEN TROUBLES
DRIES ON PAPER 31% QUICKER
RICH, FULL-BODIED, BRILLIANT COLORS
Quink BLUE-BLACK

They all cheer Parker's
SUPER-CHARGED Pen
—a Third More Ink than average of three well-known sac-type pens—due to revolutionary One-Hand Sacless Filler

The Pen with the smart Arrow Military Clip and the Oil-Smooth, Lubricated Point that won't wear scratchy in a lifetime!

No matter what pen you may happen to be shown first, don't make the mistake of making a purchase until you have seen and tried the Parker Vacumatic—there is nothing else like it.

This is largely due to the Parker Laboratories, staffed by able scientists in physical metallurgy, chemistry, engineering. No other pen-maker we know attempts the research and development that go on daily here.

Today, in the world of science, it is known that Parker achievements mark the march in Pen progress.

Known far and wide as THE JEWELS of PENDOM, Parker Pens and matched Pen and Pencil Sets are the choice of 50 million people.

So remember, don't buy until you try Parker. Parker's Blue Diamond is a Life Guarantee Contract — makes pens so marked cost less than the poorest.

The Parker Pen Co., New York, Chicago, San Francisco. Factories at Janesville, Wisconsin and Toronto, Canada.

COPR. 1941, THE PARKER PEN CO.

Guaranteed FOR LIFE BY PARKER'S BLUE DIAMOND

Full TELEVISION ink supply

Maxima, $10
Major (illus.) or Debutante, $8.75
Junior or Sub-Deb, $5
Writefine Pencils to match, $3.75 to $5

1—Parker's 14 K Gold Point is utterly different, finer-textured and much less brittle than ordinary 14 K Gold.

2—It is tipped with oil-smooth Osmiridium, developed under the direction of Dr. Robert Pickus, chief Parker metallurgist, former instructor of metallurgy at Yale University.

3—Parker's One-Hand Sacless Filler—a basically better principle and the easiest of all to operate—makes room for about a third more ink than the average of three well-known sac-type pens, and substantially more than any one of them.

4—Parker's patented Television barrel lets you SEE when your pen needs refilling.

5—Parker's smart laminated styling—streamlined Pearl and Jet RINGS—as shimmering as velvet—is wholly exclusive.

Parker
VACUMATIC

Parker's Blue Diamond on the pen is our Life Contract unconditionally Guaranteeing to service the pen for the life of the owner except for loss and intentional damage, subject only to a 35¢ charge for postage, insurance, and handling, provided complete pen is returned for service.

CLEAN YOUR PEN AS IT WRITES BY USING PARKER QUINK, THE PEN-CLEANING INK, 15¢ AND 25¢

'Cats-'Gators

Continued From Page Five

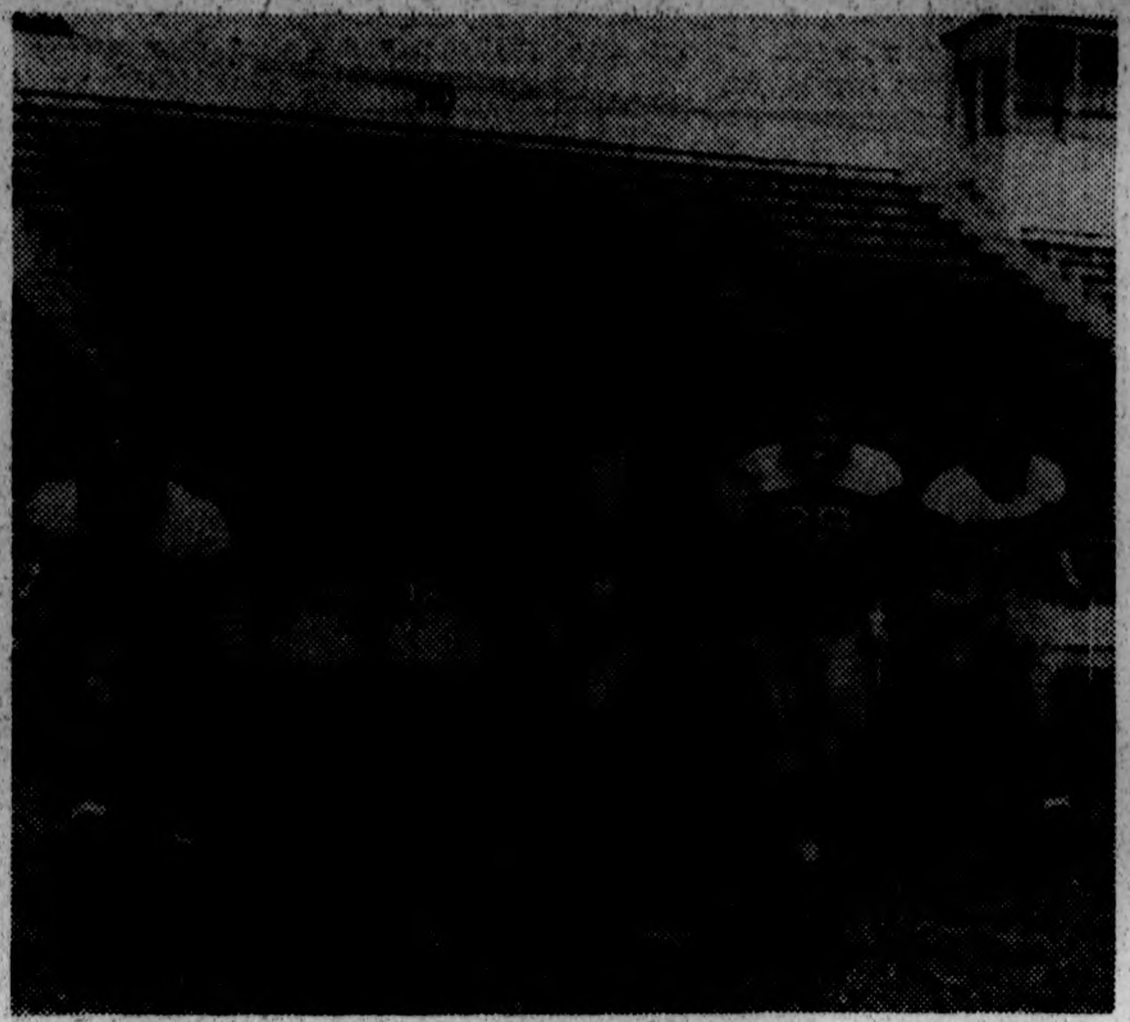
game in the latter part of the second quarter and immediately made himself the fifth man in the Florida backfield. Crashing through continually, he was a constant menace, throwing the fast backs for huge losses.

Blocking Aids Runners

Also prominent were sophomores Al Postus and Joe Pezelski, who thrilled the crowd with their fast and fancy running behind the splendid blocking of Smith, Stenn, Kasky, Bicky, DePalo and Prohovich.

This was the fifth meeting of the teams coached by Tom Leib and Clipper Smith, former teammates at Notre Dame and the fifth win for the Smith-coached elevens. Trying valiantly to win the first game for coach Leib, Tom Harrison constantly harrassed the Villanova eleven, tackling savagely, passing and kicking expertly and in every other way he could trying to turn the tide of the game. But the Wildcats were not to be denied and won a long over-due victory in the South.

Backs Sound Warning To Princeton



Grid Selectors Are Conservative

Teams	Haughton	Smith	McNally	Jacobs	Aisenbrey	Funabashi	Doyle	Whelan	Clark	Consensus
Navy	N	N	N	N	N	N	N	N	N	Navy
Cornell										9-0
Auburn	A	A		A	A	A			A	Auburn
S. M. U.			S				S	S		6-3
Dartmouth	D	D	D	D	D	D	D	D	D	Dart.
Harvard										9-0
Northwest'n	N	N	N	N	N		N	N	N	North.
Michigan						M				8-1
Colgate										Duke
Duke	D	D	D	D	D	D	D	D	D	9-0
Tennessee										Ala.
Alabama	A	A	A	A	A	A	A	A	A	9-0
Army	A	A		A		A		A		Army
Yale			Y		Y		Y		Y	5-4
Temple	T	T	T	T	T	T	T	T	T	Temple
Penn State										9-0
Penn	Pa.	Pa.		Pa.	Pa.	Pa.	Pa.	Pa.	Pa.	Penn
Princeton			Pr.							8-1
Rice	R	R	R	R	R	R	R	R	R	Rice
L. S. U.										9-0
Georgia	G				G		G	G	G	Ga.
California		C	C	C		C				5-4
Villanova	V	V	V		V	V	V	V	V	Villa.
Baylor										8-0

ASKS COOPERATION

The Intramural Committee headed by Father Dunne requests the cooperation of the students in keeping the Alumni Hall Gym in good playing condition by staying off the floor with shoes on. Only sneakers and basketball shoes are permitted.

The Lamp Post Inn
Luncheon and Dinners
Strafford, Pa.

This Space
Reserved for
Sun Cleaners and
Dyers

WHAT ARE YOU DOING WITH YOUR LAUNDRY THIS YEAR?...

Courtesy of Dartmouth "Jack-o-Lantern"

A better method is to send it home regularly by RAILWAY EXPRESS—and have it returned the same way.

Our service is fast, sure—and convenient. Economical rates include pick-up and delivery at no extra charge within our regular vehicle limits in all cities and principal towns. Your choice of prepaid or collect charges.

Just as convenient too, for 'most any shipment: Baggage, gifts, cake or a pet elephant.

RAILWAY EXPRESS
AGENCY INC.
NATION-WIDE RAIL-AIR SERVICE

HERE AND THERE

By FRED CLARK

MANY people were sorry to see Nick Basca play his last football game for Villanova last fall but none felt the loss more than his coach, Clipper Smith. After all, he was the man who had to find a fellow to fill Nick's shoes this fall and that is easier said than done.

Nick was the type ballplayer a coach dreams about. He was a triple-threat in the true sense of the word—not just a good runner who could also hurl an adequate pass or a sensational kicker who could also carry the mail at times. Nick could run, pass and kick with the best of them.

While he was in the game Nick was a one man backfield, handling the running, passing, and kicking assignments. It was not an extraordinary occurrence for him to be on the business end of the pigskin seven out of eight times in a sequence of downs.

Wildcat opponents, warned by their scouts that Basca was the man to stop, were out to do just that, but they enjoyed little success. Nick's efforts on the Villanova gridiron attracted the big money boys and he received offers from four or five National Professional Footbal Lealgue teams. The most attractive offer came from the Philadelphia entry in the play-for-pay league and the Phoenixville flash signed on the dotted line. Thus far, Nick has been hampered by an injury sustained in the All-Star game in New York City but before the year is out we look for him to play plenty of left half-back for Greasy Neale's eleven.

Injury Stops Eusko

This was the man whom Clipper Smith had to replace in the Villanova backfield. But Clipper anticipated this loss and throughout the 1940 season he was priming Stan Eusko, then a sophomore, to take over where Nick left off. However the old injury bugaboo stepped in and tossed this plan for a loss. Eusko suffered a back injury last season, which has not cleared up sufficiently to allow him to renew his football activities this year.

So another man had to be found for the position and the identity of this player was the cause of much discussion and controversy among Wildcat followers. The situation cleared up with the playing of the opening game against Centre, for Clipper unveiled not one but two lads who could tote the pigskin equally well. Joe Pezelski and Al Postus, both only sophomores, were the boys who alternated at the left half-back slot and they showed the crowd some fancy stepping beneath the mazdas that night.

Pezelski Light But—

Pezelski's showing was little of a surprise since he starred on the frosh eleven last season. Joe's ability was known to all but some suspected he did not pack sufficient weight for college football and would provide an easy target for the burly linemen he must face. Joe already has gone a long way toward disproving this theory by displaying an amazing amount of speed and a peculiar knack of never affording a would-be tackler a square head-on shot at him.

Postus, on the other hand, was practically an unknown quantity, spending most of his freshman year on the sidelines because of injuries. Like Pezelski, Al is light, fast and a swivel-hipped runner and also passes and kicks excellently. Against Centre he was the best back on the field for my money.

We look for these two sophomores to alternate at left half-back in the ensuing games and the new unlimited substitution rule should be a great aid to Clipper Smith in this plan. By substituting frequently he is assured of having both a capable and a well-rested player in this important backfield spot. Also each lad should be more effective while he is in action since he can put that something extra into every play and does not have to conserve some energy so that he can last the whole game.

AT THE MOVIES

ARDMORE THEATRE

Attention Students

Use Your Matriculation Cards and Save Ten Cents.

29c instead of 39c

Direction Warner Bros.
TOWER
69th & MARKET STS.

Tues., Wed., Thurs.
Oct. 14, 15, 16
Romance, Thrills and Laughs
"WHISTLING IN THE DARK"
with Red Skelton
Ann Rutherford - Conrad Veidt

Fri., Sat., Sun., Mon.
Oct. 17, 18, 19, 20
Dorothy Lamour - Jon Hall
"ALOMA OF THE SOUTH SEAS"
In Technicolor

SUBURBAN
THEATRE ARDMORE
Tuesday thru Saturday
"OUR WIFE"
Sunday and Monday
"WILD GEESE CALLING"

SEVILLE
THEATRE BRYN MAWR
Tuesday & Wednesday
"THE VIRGIN BRIDE"
"SCHOOL FOR HUSBANDS"
Thursday
"RINGSIDE MAISIE"
"I WAS A PRISONER ON DEVIL'S ISLAND"
Friday & Saturday
"OUT OF THE FOG"
Sunday & Monday
"HOLD THAT GHOST"

ANTHONY WAYNE
THEATRE WAYNE
Tuesday & Wednesday
"HOLD THAT GHOST"
Thursday, Friday, Saturday
"OUR WIFE"
Sunday & Monday
"LIFE BEGINS FOR ANDY HARDY"

RIDE FREE ON P. & W. RAILWAY MOVIE TICKETS
NORRIS
NORRISTOWN
Today
Sonja Henie in
"SUN VALLEY SERENADE"
Wed. & Thurs
Thurs. Night on Stage American Legion "Americanite" Randolph Scott - Gene Tierney in
"BELLE STARR, THE BANDIT QUEEN"
in Technicolor
Fri., Sat. & Mon.
Spencer Tracy - Lana Turner in
"DR. JEKYLL & MR. HYDE"

GRAND
NORRISTOWN
Tuesday
Errol Flynn in
"DIVE BOMBER"
Fri. & Sat.
Ann Miller - Jerry Colonna in
"ICE CAPADES"

GARRICK
NORRISTOWN
Wed. & Thurs.
Mickey Rooney in
"LIFE BEGINS FOR ANDY HARDY"
Fri. & Sat.
Wayne Morris in
"BAD MEN OF MISSOURI"

WILDCATS!
STOP HERE
LA DOW'S PHARMACY
On the Edge of the Campus
LANCASTER PIKE
VILLANOVA, PA.

History Seminar

Discussion Group Begins Sixth Year Thursday; Year's Program Includes World Problems

The History Seminar, under the direction of Dr. Harold H. Hartman, assistant professor of social sciences, will hold its first meeting of the year at 3:00 P. M. in Simpson Hall, next Thursday.

The fundamental purpose of the seminar is to give to interested students the opportunity to discuss informally many of the political, economic and social problems which affect modern civilization.

The first meeting will be devoted to the organization and formulation of plans for the coming year. The sixth year of the seminar will follow the procedure of the past in assigning a student each week to gather material on a previously selected topic and to lead discussion at the following meeting.

16 Brother Acts

Sixteen sets of brothers are enrolled at Villanova. Three Martinez's, Carlos, Hector and Henry, together with Jose, Luis and Juan Silva, lead the list. Sixteen of the thirty-four are in the C. & F., eight are in the science school and ten in the School of Engineering. The senior class includes five of the brothers; the junior and sophomore classes, eleven each, while the freshman class has seven.

Call For Frosh

All freshman members of the VILLANOVAN staff must attend a special meeting this afternoon at 1:00 P. M. in room 119 Mendel.

It is urgent that all attend, since all questions concerning assignments, style, and reports will be discussed at this time.

THE WILSON LAUNDRY CO.
of Bryn Mawr
Always the Friend of Villanova Students
10% discount to students for "cash and carry" work.
No charge for replacing buttons or making minor repairs.
An American institution owned, operated by and employing Americans.

KEEP SUPPLIED WITH
SCHOOL TICKETS
GOOD ON BUSES AND RAIL CARS UNTIL USED
5c a Ride, including Special Free Transfers. Obtain Identification Cards at School Office.
RED ARROW LINES
Philadelphia Suburban Transportation Co.
Aronimink Transportation Co.

"See You After the Game"
at
Spread Eagle Inn
Garden Restaurant
on Lancaster Pike
Strafford, Pa.

DOLLY MADISON ICE CREAM
PHILA. DAIRY PRODUCTS CO.
4th & Poplar Sts., Phila., Pa.

You trust its quality
Each time you taste ice-cold Coca-Cola, you are reminded that here is the quality of genuine goodness. Experience... many a refreshing experience... has taught people everywhere to trust the quality of Coca-Cola.
BOTTLED UNDER AUTHORITY OF THE COCA-COLA COMPANY BY
THE PHILADELPHIA COCA-COLA BOTTLING CO.
5¢
Pause... Go refreshed
Coca-Cola

WRIGLEY'S SPEARMINT CHEWING GUM
Have fun—be friendly
Treat yourself and others to fresh-tasting Wrigley's Spearmint Gum
The Flavor Lasts
V-160

ANN SHERIDAN in NAVY BLUES (Warner Bros. current release) makes a big hit with the Navy.
Chesterfield makes a big hit with the Navy and with smokers everywhere with their Milder Better Taste.
The Navy's Choice
It's Chesterfield
for a Definitely MILDER COOLER BETTER TASTE
Smokers everywhere know you can travel a long way and never find another cigarette that can match Chesterfield for a Milder Cooler Better Taste.
It's Chesterfield's Right Combination of the world's best cigarette tobaccos that wins the approval of smokers all over the country. Let the Navy's choice be your choice . . . make your next pack Chesterfield.
EVERYWHERE YOU GO They Satisfy
Copyright 1941, Liggett & Myers Tobacco Co.

VILLANOVAN
Vol. 14—No. 3 N. A. S. Z-660 VILLANOVA COLLEGE, VILLANOVA, PA. TUESDAY, OCTOBER 21, 1941

L. K. D. Dance Off; Gets April Date

Duquesne Game Reason for Postponement; Freed To Be Chairman of Affair

In an almost unprecedented move, the Lambda Kappa Delta, science school fraternity, with the permission of Rev. Francis X. N. McGuire, O. S. A., vice-president of the college, has postponed its annual informal dance from Oct. 31 until April 17.

Reason for the postponement was the high student interest rampant for the Villanova-Duquesne football game, which will be held in Pittsburgh on Saturday, Nov. 1. So many students have indicated their intentions of travelling to the game that officers of the fraternity decided to stage the dance on a more advantageous date.

Albert S. Freed, a senior studying for a B. S. in Biology, had already been named chairman of the committee for the dance.

The time chosen for the dance met with complete approval of a special executive committee convened yesterday to discuss the change. Joseph Turner, vice-president of the society, disclosed that there will be no social functions for almost two months preceding the affair.

Delta Pi Epsilon, commerce school fraternity, and Epsilon Phi Theta, arts school fraternity, will have their annual dinners on Thursday, April 16, but both of these affairs are of a stag nature and officers of the L. K. D. felt that they would not interfere with the medico dance.

All arrangements for the dance will have to be made before the students leave for the Easter holidays, Turner reminded the committee. To this end all tickets will be printed and all contracts signed before the vacation, since there will be only about ten days from the resumption of classes until the dance.

Aiding Freed in plans for the dance will be seniors John Arnold, Robert Boggiano, Rosario Cacciatore, Salvatore Gagliano, Joseph Koch, Francis Mattei, Hugh Mathews, Theodore Orloff and Leonard Bortin.

Also on the committee will be: juniors John Bongiovanni, Nicholas Eni, Francis Reese, George Weber, and Joseph Squillace, and sophomores Austin Gavin, Joseph Puleo, John Surmont, and Joseph Tortoreto.

Named Early

ALBERT S. FREED
. . . to run L. K. D. dance.

Belz To Direct I. R. C. Activities

Gerard F. Belz, senior artsman, was unanimously chosen president of the International Relations club at a meeting held yesterday at 1:00 P. M. in room 111 Mendel Hall.

Election of a new president was necessitated by the withdrawal from the organization of the former president, Howard A. McCall. Part-time employment and scholastic obligations have made it impossible for McCall to continue this year in his presidential capacity.

Members of the organization reached an unanimous decision on the choice of Belz in view of his work last year as secretary. For the present it has been decided to dispense with the office of secretary. If the need is felt for one, an election will be held later in the year.

Two members of the local club will be sent to a meeting of the Middle Atlantic International Relations Club Conference to be held on Nov. 28 and 29 at Lehigh University in Bethlehem, Pa. The conference will feature speakers sent by the Carnegie Endowment, round table discussions, and special meetings to discuss club work.

Delegates to the convention will be selected at the next meeting of the club on Tuesday, Oct. 28, at 2:30 P. M. in Simpson Hall.

Private Crumb Gives Ex-Classmates Preview Of Draftee's Life

By THOMAS F. DEVINE

Striding into the VILLANOVAN office on Saturday morning with a snap and precision that indicated his military training, Bernard C. Crumb, ex-'42 and former circulation manager of the paper, sat on the edge of a desk and recounted his experience as a selectee at Fort Bragg, N. C.

Bernie was inducted into the army about July 10, and is the third member of the Fort Bragg encampment who returned last week to visit their former classmates. Woodrow Reitmeier, ex-'42 and varsity second-baseman of Doc Jacobs' baseball team, now stationed with the signal corps in the North Carolina camp, and J. Gordon Brosmer, '41, copy editor of last year's Belle Air and now attached to the 155th Howitzer division there, also stopped back while on leave.

Attends Baylor Game

Home on his first furlough since induction, Bernie attended the Baylor game on Friday on his way back to camp. He is stationed at the replacement center at Bragg where he is chief of a section operating French 75's. He has a gunner and five cannoneers under his charge.

Daily routine in this huge camp (there are 65,000 soldiers stationed there now, as compared to 5000 in February), is not overly grueling, according to Bernie. Up before 6:00 A. M., the trainees have an intensive program which carries them through until 5:00 P. M. They have a 5½-day week with lights out at 9:00 every night. Checkup isn't until 11:00, however. "The food, while not too fancy, is substantial," he remarked.

Rifle Score High

In addition to the usual dismounted drills and training in the manual of arms, Bernie has taken part in gas mask drills and training in the use of Springfield rifles. Attaining one of the top thirty scores in the last-named drill, he was assigned to additional training with the Browning automatic rifle.

His section operates one of the four guns which are in each battery. Besides the mechanical training in the motions of gunnery, the crew has had three days of actual firing practice. In this regard, Bernie said that he hadn't noticed any paucity of equipment or "broomstick guns" training.

Sports Chief Diversion

When questioned about his spare time and social activities, Crumb was strangely reticent. Insistent inquiry finally revealed that they have had the grand total of one service club dance since his entry and, furthermore, that there are two hostesses for the entire camp. As might be construed from the foregoing, sports are the most popular form of diversion.

Although disappointed by the passage of the amendment which lengthened the stay of draftees in the army, Bernie said that the worst hardship is the distance of the camp from home and the knowledge that visits will be both few and short. "It's a healthy, outdoor life, though," said Private Crumb as he slipped from the desk and headed back to Fort Bragg.

Student Council Assures New Action To Stop Lapse In Frosh Cooperation

Get hep, frosh!

At a meeting of the Student Council held last Wednesday, renewed activity on the part of that organization in enforcing the regulations pertaining to the wearing of "regs" by members of the freshman class was promised.

In an address to the student officers, Rev. Francis X. N. McGuire, O. S. A., Vice-President and Dean of Men, urged that the Orientation Committee resort to more intensified activity in regard to this matter. He stated that for the first two or three weeks he had been very well pleased with the manner in which the freshmen were complying with the rules calling for the wearing of the traditional cap, tie, and button.

Enforcement Lags

"But," he continued, "lately there seems to have been a general layoff by the freshmen and only a very small percentage of the class of '45 are wearing the complete set."

Today, at 1:00 P. M. in the Mendel Amphitheatre, a special meeting of the freshman class will be held, in order to impress on the first-year students the importance of this action and of the consequences which will follow their neglect to cooperate with the Orientation Committee.

In accordance with a resolution passed by the Student Council during the scholastic year 1939-40, that organization, through the Orientation Committee, has the power during the probation period to disbar from any extra-curricular or class activity any freshman for the period of one year.

Until Temple Loses

Regulations require, among other things, that the freshmen wear the "regs" at all times within the areas outlined in the students' handbook. They are permitted to remove these after the Temple football game, provided that Villanova wins if, however, the Temple game is lost, the period during which the first year men must wear their "regs" is automatically extended until Thanksgiving.

Freshmen found guilty of flagrant violations of these rules will first be given a warning. Then, if further infractions occur, the guilty students will be summoned before the Student Council to explain their actions. Upon failure to produce a satisfactory explanation for their conduct, the violators will be barred from participation in such activities as fraternities, publications, and class offices.

And the Council isn't fooling.

"Dog Week"

DPE and EPT Plan Intensive Pledging Periods for Prospective Members

"Dog week," a more concrete term for pledging period, will be inaugurated by two fraternities this year as a prelude to the actual initiations, it was decided at meetings of the groups last week.

The pledging period of Delta Pi Epsilon, commerce school organization, will begin on Nov. 1 and end at the initiation on Nov. 19. That of Epsilon Phi Theta, arts school fraternity, will be more intensive, lasting only from Monday, Nov. 10 until the formal induction one week later.

Approval of this plan was unanimous with the members of the E. P. T. at their meeting last Thursday. They also decided to invite prospective pledgees to attend a meeting of the fraternity just prior to "dog week," at which time the ideals and plans of the organization will be discussed.

After urging members to make prompt payment of dues, president David F. Daly, senior artsman, outlined plans for coming activities. These include the formation of basketball and touch-football teams, and, if possible, a swimming team. Another proposal, one which occasioned much controversy, called for a caroling group to be composed of fraternity members.

The chairman and his committee for the forthcoming initiation will be announced at the next meeting of the fraternity.

The second official meeting of the D. P. E. will be held in Simpson Hall at 11:45 A. M. on Thursday. It is important that all members attend this meeting, for at this time a design for the fraternity pin will be selected from a group of samples. The pin chosen on Thursday will be used as the standard symbol of the organization in future years.

President David N. Reardon has announced that special pins will be given to pledges who have been accepted by a secret committee of six members.

Nominations Thursday

Nominations for the vice-presidency of the junior class will be held this Thursday, Oct. 23, in the Mendel Hall Amphitheatre at 1:00 P. M. Election ballots will be cast on Monday, Oct. 27, in room 11, Mendel Hall.

Senior nominations for a class representative to the Student Council have been indefinitely postponed due to the failure of the class members to appear at the scheduled time on Oct. 16.

Thomas J. McKimmey, chairman of the Student Council, plans to delay any future action on the matter until a senior class meeting is held.

Beethoven Subject Of Music Seminar Tomorrow Evening

The life and music of Beethoven will be the subject of the Music Seminar to be held tomorrow evening at 7:30, in Simpson Hall.

Selections representative of the various types of music Beethoven composed will be played. Rev. John J. Vrana, O. S. A., will conduct the meeting and provide background material.

Among the pieces to be played are excerpts from the Fifth and Sixth Symphonies, the Kreutser Sonata for violin and piano, and the Apassionata Sonata for piano. In addition, there will be other miscellaneous compositions demonstrating the musical forms characteristic of the composer.

Tomorrow afternoon's day-hop Seminar, to be conducted by Dr. Edward L. Haenisch in room 215, Mendel Hall, will consist of a condensation of Gilbert and Sullivan's operetta, "The Gondoliers." One of their comparatively lesser-known operettas, the score contains some of the most tuneful arrangements ever written by Sullivan.

Dr. Haenisch has made arrangements to project the words of the operetta on a screen so that the audience can readily follow and appreciate the satire of Gilbert's lyrics.

Plans are being made for a musical guessing contest to be held on Wednesday, October 29, during the afternoon session of the seminar.

Juniors Begin Ring Purchases

Loren Murchison Gets Contract; All Stones, Settings on Display Today

Loren Murchison & Co., Inc., of Newark, N. J., this morning was awarded the contract to furnish rings for the junior class. Selection of the company, which has provided class rings at Villanova for the past two years, was made by the junior ring committee headed by Eugene P. Smith, commerce student.

Sidney Hampson, a representative of the company, will be in the Mendel Hall reception room from 11:30 A. M. to 3:00 P. M. today with a display of all stones and settings, and prepared to answer all questions pertaining to the rings.

Prices range from $18.50 for the twelve pennyweight, black onyx ring to $22.50 for the topaz ring of the same weight. Neither price includes tax.

Design Similar

Design of the class ring is essentially the same as that of previous years. The only exception is that the word, "Centennial" is engraved above the stone and "Class" below it. Juniors are allowed to have their first two initials and full last name engraved on the inside of the rings free of charge.

Orders may be placed all this week with chairman Smith in the reception room. Juniors may choose sizes, stones, and types of finish from the samples he will have. A deposit of $5.00 is required with every order; the balance must be paid on delivery of the ring to the student's home.

Set Order Deadline

Friday, Oct. 31, has been set as the last day on which orders can be taken for delivery by Christmas. Rings will be delivered to the student's home approximately seven weeks after the order is placed. Sophomore pre-dental students who desire to purchase rings are requested to leave their names with the chairman for approval by their dean.

Most popular of last year's stones were blue spinelle, emerald, ruby, and blue sapphire. These may be had, along with the others, in either buff or faceted stones. Three types of gold finishes, light rose, dark rose, and green, are offered for the settings. All rings have a lifetime guarantee against any defect in quality, material, or workmanship.

Many Bids Considered

In awarding the contract, the committee considered bids submitted by six firms. Final choice was made after a comparison of the companies' prices, reliability and number of stones available for the rings. Several price lists examined stated that only a limited number of stones most popular last year

CONTRACT SIGNED

Continued on Page Four

College Studies Draft Actions

Paetrus F. Banmiller, Registrar, today requested all students registered under the Selective Service Act who have not reported to his office to do so immediately. Banmiller is secretary to the Faculty Committee on Selective Service.

The committee is compiling data on all students registered under the act to get a composite picture of how the student body as a whole stands with regard to the number registered. From this information will also be drawn the general attitude of the local draft boards towards college students.

Students Supply Facts

Facts to be supplied by the student to the committee include, besides his name, address, number of local draft board and major field of study, his extra-curricular activities, occupational experience, either part time or during the past summer, occupational objective, and assurances of engaging in it. Concerning his draft board, he is asked to give the date of receiving his questionnaire, classification, date and results of his physical examination, and the attitude of and any correspondence from the local draft board.

Banmiller stressed the importance of students cooperating with the committee. If the facts of each case are on hand, the committee will be able to contact the local board in sufficient time before each case comes up, and thus increase the chances of a favorable hearing.

Inductees to Get Form

Acting on the suggestion of the American Council on Education's bulletin on "Higher Education and National Defense," the committee is also preparing a form to be given to all students who are inducted into the military service. This form will supply information to classification and commanding officers which will enable them to place the drafted students into the field of service where they will be of the greatest usefulness.

The form to be used was prepared at the suggestion of, and approved by, the Personnel Procedures Section of the War Department and the Bureau of Navigation of the Navy Department. Purpose of the form is to provide direct and specific data of the selectee's qualifications.

Military authorities will retain full authority in classification and assignment, but both Army and Navy Departments have expressed this willingness to welcome any means through which information regarding men entering the service may be made more complete.

Dealing The Farmer Out

IMPORTANT among the administration's releases of the past week was the announcement of a new reciprocal trade agreement with Argentina. Under the recently approved arrangements, the United States has reduced the tariff duties of Argentina on canned beef and other cattle by-products, and in exchange the South American country has consented to similarly lessen duties on machinery and other manufactured goods entering their territory.

The true significance of the adopted contract is keenly realized in a consideration of just how much competition our own cattlemen and dairymen will have to combat in the future. Such a compact, which can only force our agriculture men to further contend with a foreign market, must be viewed as selling ourselves down the back road.

Thankfully, opposition to this agreement was not expressed in silence, for immediate answer was voiced by eminent figures representing stockmen's interests in the West.

Prominent among the individuals who rallied against the treaty was J. Elmer Brock, president of the American National Livestock Association. Speaking of the direct competition with native industry that the tariff reductions would introduce, he said, "I am unable to reconcile this with Secretary of Agriculture Claude Wickard's urge for a heavier marketing of cattle to ward off a domestic cattle surplus."

Since a contradiction is apparent in the opening of a new market for foreign products and the expressed intention of our government to prevent a surplus, another cause determining the consummation of the treaty invites itself. It is the thought that big business enterprise may have been looming behind the turn in policy.

Obviously our nation will have a mass of machinery laying dormant after this crisis has passed. It happened the last time, and it will occur again. Losses were severe at the termination of that turmoil, and that will be the case again. Because of the idle existence these mechanical instruments shall enjoy in the future, it is not unreasonable to assume that the capitalists have been occupied in a search for fields upon which to dump their inevitably overflowed supply.

The creation of an increased burden upon one of our own businesses is cause enough for disputing the character of the new treaty. Worse still would be the deliberate sacrifice of the future of our cattle products for the monetary interests of big business. In both instances our policy is something to be deplored.

—H. A. McC.

VILLANOVAN

Issued twenty-five times a year from Villanova College, Villanova, Pa.

THOMAS H. DOYLE, JR., '42 ....Editor-in-Chief
ROBERT J. FUNABASHI, '42 ....Sports Editor
THOMAS F. DEVINE, '43 ....College Editor
WILLIAM E. SCHUBERT, '42 ....Managing Editor
THOMAS A. SULLIVAN, '42 ....Copy Editor
HOWARD A. McCALL, '42 ....Literary Editor
JOHN T. GALLAGHER, '42 ....Business Manager
ALBERT D'ALONZO, '42 ....Photography Editor
JOHN P. FULLAM, '42 ....Feature Editor
JOHN P. MAHER, '42 ....Advertising Manager
ROBERT F. DONOVAN, '42 ....Subscription Manager
BRUNO J. TALVACCHIA, '42 ....Exchange Editor
BERNARD C. CRUMB, ex-'42,
Honorary Circulation Manager

Columnists

F. J. Clark, '42 D. N. Reardon, '42

Staff Writers

F Bagot, '43; G. Belz, '42; E. Bennis, '43; H. Binder, '44; J. Bongiovanni, '43; R. Canfield, '43; S. Canning, '43; S. Caplan, '42; J. Coleman, '43; W. Craven, '43; L. DeSimone, '44; J. Dudley, '43; J. Earley, '42; L. Esposito, '43; W. Guncheon, Jr., '43; D. Haley, '42; J. Jakovic, '42; J. Mahoney, '43; J. Mauch, '43; J. McCabe, '42; R. McIntyre, '42; T. Muraski, '43; J. Nunemaker, '43; F. Reese, '43; T Shallow, '42; C. Schaumann, '42; J. Tortoreto, '44; R .Young, '44.

Business Assistants

C. Callahan, '43 L. Jones, '43 E. Smith, '43
J. Walsh, '43

Circulation Assistants

J. Cerulo, '42 G. Fitzgerald, '42 E. Frank, '42
N. Eni, '43 J. Keays, '44 J. Monroe, '44

Photography Staff

R. Amicone, '43 L. Eni, '44 J. Sandonato, '42

Faculty Advisor—Rev. Edward B. McKee, O. S. A.

This paper is dedicated to one of the finest men that ever entered Villanova; scholar, athlete, gentleman — LEO GOODREAU

Subscription: $2.00 per year. Circulation: 3500.
Entered as second class matter at the Villanova Post Office December 27, 1928.

Member of Associated Collegiate Press; Distributor of Collegiate Digest.
Member of Catholic School Press Association, Catholic College Press Association, and National Scholastic Press Association.

TUESDAY - - - - OCTOBER 21, 1941

Frosh:

WE DIDN'T think we'd have to write an editorial about the freshman failure to demonstrate the Villanova spirit this year; for the first couple of weeks you were A-1.

But during the last two weeks you've fallen off sadly . . . and the Student Council is moved to renew efforts to make you toe the line.

It must be taken for granted that those frosh who are reluctant to wear their "regs" do not consider themselves big enough to wear these emblems of distinction. Whatever spirit shown at last Thursday evening's pep rally and Friday night's game by the freshmen is nullified by the unwillingness of those who fail to wear the cap, tie and badge. The spirit of Villanova is not only to be manifested at pep rallies but 24 hours a day.

Other colleges have their weeks of hazing to impress spirit into their yearlings. There, frosh are asked to bow down to upper classmen . . . to humble themselves before the traditions of their alma mater.

Here you are asked, not to humble yourself, not to subject yourself to hazing, not to fear the upper classmen but to make yourself worthy and "big" enough to wear "regs."

It's an honor to wear "regs" . . . an honor to live up to . . . an honor which cannot be disregarded.

It is unfair to the majority of the class of '45 that their reputation is made to suffer because of the stupidity and stubbornness of a few. Consequently, penalties have been and are going to be imposed on unruly frosh.

Still, this class will carry the stigma of the few. By them they will be judged. Only through their cooperation, through their wearing of the "regs" will the class of '45 become worthy of the title "men of Villanova."

—W. C. G.

We Learn From Others

CONCURRENT with the imminent need for the distribution of readings written from the Catholic viewpoint, the Catholic Press Apostolate of the college has expended efforts that will afford all students an opportunity to maintain a status versed in truth on questions of daily religious, political, and economic importance.

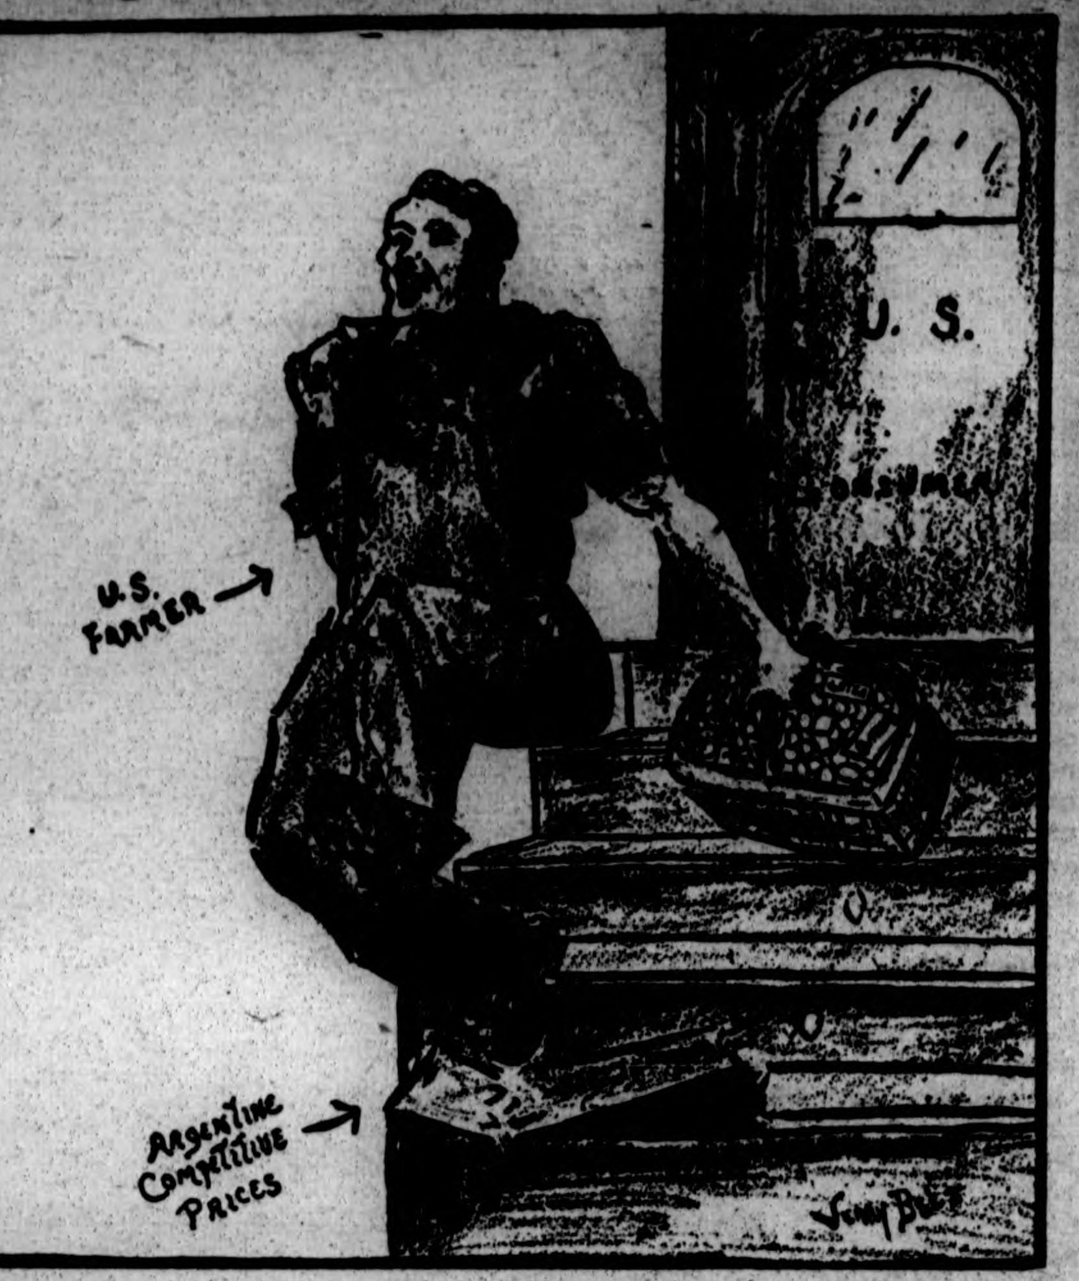
The work of this organization is adequately manifested by the numerous pamphlet racks placed in the halls of the respective schools and the college chapel. Because these various "stations of Catholicity" are within easy access of the students, it will not be difficult for them to occasionally reach out their hand to grasp what the secular papers and magazines do not contain.

What the messages in these pamphlets may mean to you later on in life may be illustrated by the spirit with which they are accepted by those who attend the evening school of this institution. These people, for the most part older in age and more appreciative of the experiences one meets in everyday life, are eagerly purchasing them and professing their thanks that they have been able to find such compact and comprehensive answers to their problems.

If these individuals have already realized their worth, surely the younger students will do well to follow their action.

—H. A. McC.

Heading For A Fall . . . . by BELZ



FACULTY COMMENTS

LOYALTY

(An Open Letter To A Villanova Alumnus)

By FR. CRAWFORD

Oct. 20, 1941

Dear Doctor Mulholland:

How strange it seems to be addressing you as Doctor when only a few years ago you were a shy little Frosh in my Physics class. I am writing to you for several reasons, but chiefly to say "Thank you" for directing Jimmy Murphy to Villanova. When I asked him one day last week after class how he happened to come here for his pre-medical course he told me that the finest doctor in his home town was a graduate of Villanova, and his hope is to be just as fine, so he wanted to get off to the same good start as you had. He said, too, that when he asked you about Villanova your words of praise left no doubt in his mind that Villanova must be his school.

To hear those words meant a lot to me, Mickey (if I may still call you by that old familiar nick-name), because it indicated to me that the spirit of loyalty to Villanova is growing ever stronger among our alumni. Loyalty, loyalty to God, to country, to school, and to self, is but one of the many virtues that the Augustinian Fathers have been inculcating here at Villanova for ninety-eight years. And when we see that virtue so clearly exemplified as it is in your case, it is only natural for us to experience a justifiable pride, a feeling of satisfaction in viewing a job well done.

Perhaps your protege, Jimmy, feels that he has a long arduous way ahead of him before he can attain the position of prominence that he sees you occupy. But the fact that he knows that you have made the grade is an incentive to him that will encourage and uplift him when the way seems hardest.

I hope that he and all the other members of the Class of 1945 will learn as well as you have learned to be proud of Villanova and her near century of Catholic tradition and culture, to love Villanova as their Alma Mater, their fostering mother, to be loyal to her and her teaching, and to practise in their daily lives the principles of the Catholic gentleman.

I am trying to tell the present freshman class, just as I told you, that the key to success lies in hard work. I am sure that you realize this more and more as time passes on and I know that you have already impressed this idea on Jimmy's mind. He has gotten off to a good start so I feel that you need have no doubts about his ability to succeed.

Thank you again, Doctor Mulholland, and congratulations on your present success. I am confident that the spirit of cooperation and team work that you displayed on the basketball court in the "old gym" fifteen years ago will lead you to still further heights in your great profession.

God bless you, Mickey, and may the best of good fortune be yours.

Your old friend and teacher,
Father Crawford

Wildcat Whirl

By Dave Reardon

ALREADY a month of the present scholastic year has gone by and the boys are really starting to find themselves socially. They're going places and doing things faster than can be reported, although some of them are unreportable. The Baylor rally and game saw a revival of a long dormant school spirit, thanks to the frosh.

At the rally, Bob O'Sullivan and George Szucs braved the affair with three beauteous girls who were hopelessly outnumbered. But at the game many of the boys squired their fair ones to see the Wildcats in action under the lights. What went on after the game is a closed chapter of an open book.

* * *

QUIZ:

If love is blind and marriage is an institution, are you ready for a blind institution?

* * *

CUFF NOTES:

George Harris travels all the way to Phoenixville to watch his girl friend play hockey and then takes her home. . . Where do Bill Kelly, Joe Malone and Hank Green go after night school?. . .Chuck Callahan has been quite inactive of late due to a certain interest up in Schenectady by the name of Dot.

Jim Thompson, a soph last year, is now a senior at the Univ. of New Hampshire. At last year's Junior Prom, he double-dated with Connie McGinley, ex-'44. As things developed, Connie's now engaged to the girl, Honey Adams, much to Jim's disapproval. . . The Manhattan game will witness a mass exodus to the metropolis of the Empire State. What will transpire is a matter of conjecture.

Jim Cashin supposedly still maintains relationships with a certain gal at Marymount College. . . Tom Sheehy chases over to Norristown to see Dot every now and then. . . Jack Foster is liquid-dating Kay, whose father is in the beverage business. . . Why does Bim Mambrick weekend it regularly?

* * *

The only difference between a plain girl and a new car is that you try to love the one and love to try the other.

* * *

PEN POINTS:

Whenever anything goes wrong in the band, Windy Bongiovanni is usually at fault. . . Cheerleader Johnny Green is known as Junior around his home town. . . Bill "Time Was" Hayes is going steady with a West Chester co-ed, but a Dickinson man is under the same impression.

Bob "Casanova" Young is currently interested in Cathie from the Mount, Helen from Rosemont and Terry from Immaculata. Nice work if you can get away with it.

The St. Joe gigoloes literally threw their Soph Hop at Brookline last Friday night. Rita, popular Rosemont lass, was seen with the secretary of their sophomore class. However, Bob White and Andy Melton are really in the running. But with men who know Rosemont best, it's Villanova, 2 to 1. . . Harry "Beanpole" Binder was having dinner at a local eatery. He ordered french fried and candied sweet potatoes as vegetables, to which the waitress replied, "Why that's too much starch." Harry unraveled himself and exclaimed, "Look, I'm a pole now."

Jack "Gullible Duke" Sutton no longer takes Betty out but is rushing a little girl by the name of Marian who has that "Veronica Lake" appearance. . . Who was the little number that "Pooch" Gordon, Tom Hushen, Joe Gill and Joe McMahon monopolized the other night after the rally?

* * *

MYSTERY OF THE WEEK:

Who shaved off Tom Doyle's moustache? Or was it

* * *

GLEANINGS:

Now that he's a working man as well as a student, Joe Hagerty can't see Willella during the week. But he can still call her on the phone every night and chat for an hour or so. What a conversationalist! . . . Bill Friel is a trusting soul. While he's marching with the band at the football games, he entrusts Marie to a friend until the game is over.

Meet The Boys:

Two Engineers On The Job, Prexy John And Student Bob

By THOMAS C. MURASKI

EACH week under "Meet the Boys" you will find the pictures and life stories of two prominent seniors. This week brings John C. Kirchner and Robert S. Ayerle to the pages of the VILLANOVAN. This won't be the first time, however, that either has been in the news. For during the past three years both boys have shown plenty of spirit and their activities in their school, class, and societies have been duly noted by this weekly publication.

Both John and Bob are students in the school of engineering majoring in chemistry and chemical engineering and both seem to have a parallel record of achievement in studies and extra-curricular activities.

A Lancaster Lad

John was born Nov. 3, 1920 in Lancaster, Pa., that quaint little community just down the pike a few squares. He started his scholastio career at the age of five when he entered St. Joseph's parochial school. Eight years later Lancaster Catholic High school found him in the freshman class.

After four more years he graduated from high school. That was in June, 1938. But that's not all. We can't justly say merely "four more years," because during the four years John let the student body know he was there by playing tackle. Two of those years were with the varsity eleven. The student body reciprocated by letting him know that they knew he was there. As a consequence he was elected vice-president of his junior and senior classes. Although his main interest was sports, his achievements in his scientific course netted him the position of Valedictorian.

Guided Frosh

In September of 1938 John came down the Pike to Villanova and started to shoot high right from the start. Being a straight-shooter he attained a goal which only a select few can say they have accomplished. He was a member of the Orientation Committee in his sophomore year, spending much time getting acquainted with freshmen. This being an annual practice accounts for his popularity on the campus, particularly among the resident students.

His classmates, taking heed of his ability, elected him vice-president of the class, and finally the presdient. The latter post is the position which he now fills as a senior. During the respective seasons John keeps up his interest in sports by being one of Villanova's best rooters in football, basketball, and baseball.

Pretty soon now John will be getting out and will have to face the world. His plans for the future are not yet settled, but regardless of what happens John says that he will do his best. If the Army gets him then he's going to the make a good soldier. Whether it's the Army, manufacturer, or graduate school, John will look back to his days at Villanova as he now looks back on his first three years.

Discusses Chem Lab

When asked about his first three years John likes to talk about the many hours he has spent in the chem lab; the trouble with this and that unknown; the stench created by a certain experiment; (he will not sit down to a meal after such a lab.) Sometimes he will speak of his hometown. When he does this, however, he generally will get some other Lancaster boys to back up his tales.

When the winter is over and card playing is monotonous, John likes to get out and visit the surrounding countryside. Of course it's only curiosity, but to see how the campi of other colleges look in the spring has been one of his objectives.

GRADUATING with John will be a classmate who also entered Villanova in Sept., 1938, namely Bob Ayerle. Bob, who has been "day-hopping" it for four years, was born and raised in Philadelphia. To be more specific, he has lived in West Oak Lane all his life. Having a local background, Bob can give you more information about the city than you can ask.

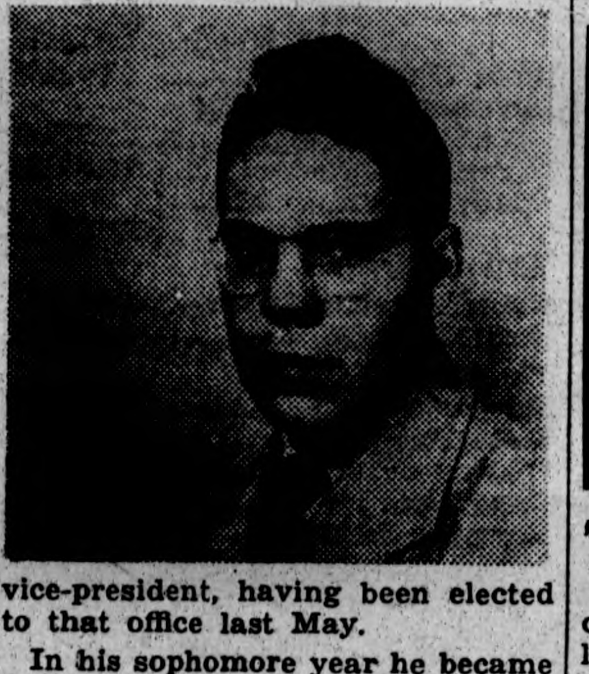
A Busy Man

Before coming to Villanova Bob spent twelve years in Catholic schools in Philadelphia. He started at St. Helena's Grammar school and spent his high school days at St. Joseph's Prep. While at Villanova Bob has chalked up a long list of appointments and elections.

In his freshman year he joined the Phi Kappa Pi, the engineering fraternity, and has been a member ever since. Year to year he is found on the bowling alleys with one of the best teams in the fraternity-sponsored league. In his junior year he was on the Owl Hop committee and this year he represents the frat in the student Council.

Heads Chemical Society

Also in his freshman year Bob joined the Math Club, better known as the Mu Alpha Theta. During the course of the years he has given talks and has helped to arrange programs for the club and is now vice-president, having been elected to that office last May.



In his sophomore year he became an active member of the Chemical Society and can boast, although he doesn't, of one of the best attendance records.

At the end of his second year he was elected to the post of secretary-treasurer of the society. After filling that post for a year he was elected to the job of president. The "Villanova Engineer" has had the use of his services for several years, and has appointed him to the post of circulation manager.

An Honor Student

This seemingly endless line of activities outside of the classroom has not interferred in any way with his activities in the classroom. For the past four years Bob has been a leader in his class. He was chosen as a member of the Chi Epsilon Mu, the honorary engineering society for scholastic achievement, and is now vice-president of the organization. Membership in this society is select and is something of which he can be particularly proud.

In fact, membership in this society is analagous to membership in the Phi Beta Kappa. Of course, the Chi Epsilon Mu is restricted to Villanova College—indeed, to the engineering school of the college—but those few students who possess the honor of being on its rolls are certainly looked upon with academic envy by the less talented members of the scholastic body.

Neglects Meals

Being in the chemical engineering department, he has spent much of his time on the fourth floor. Often he was seen bending over the electric calculator in the physical chemistry lab, pouring over the results of his experiments. Many times his school work has kept him from his regular evening meal; he has been known to stay in the labs as late as eight or nine o'clock.

And lest you think he is neglecting the athletic side of the well-rounded man, let it be known that he takes every possible opportunity of watching the football scrimmages and is an ardent rooter at all the Wildcat frays.

Bob's plans for the future are also rather tentative, the draft again being the determining factor. But if drafted, he too plans to make his presence in the army felt.

In June the alumni can well be proud to have such fine Villanova gentlemen in their ranks.

Corn-Fed Gum-Shoe Tracks Down Subversive Activities On Campus

By Jeremiah P. Gardenville

UH, h'lo, fellas. I kinda got suthin' t'say—suthin' I figger may be plum useful to the National Deefense Programmy.

Why tell you? Well, I just got to tell it to somebody, or I'll bust. Besides, it's about Villanova; and I feel it m'bounden duty not to keep nothin' secret from you guys as go there.

That there fifth pillar you been hearin' so much about lately—you know what I mean, I reckon. Well, I got almost sartin-shore proof that its' a-workin' its neefaireous plottin's right here in the school. Yessir.

Suspicious Conversation

T'other day, when I was walkin' down one of the halls, tryin' my hardest not to slip and fall on the plaguey terracotta, or whatever you call that stuff, I heard two fellas talkin'. I couldn't make out their faces, 'cause they were readin' the bulletin board, and you know how tarnation dark it is there.

Well, one feller says to t'other feller, "Sa-a-a-ay, he says" — but that's somebody else's line, ain't it? Anyways, as shore as ever I was born (don't look so doubtin', durn ye) I heard one of 'm say that they wuz takin' pitchers of every map in the place. He pointed a room behind us; and—by gosh, to golly—they was a curtain over the window-lights!

The "Third-Degree"

I snuck up to the door and tried to look in; and what I saw jest flabbergasted me. One poor innercent stude was sittin' on a hard chair, sweatin' fit to drown himself, with bright lights shinin' at him from every direction. Reminded me of tales I'd heerd about the "third-degree" they use to make crim-nuls own up.

Some gazabo with his head hid under a black cloth was pointin' a big box-thing at him, usin' all his gift-o'-gab to make his victim smile—jest fer propergander, I bet.

Over in a corner, some fella was takin money off the students as they come in. Honest, fellas, I didn't know such low-down, ornery things went on in our gov'mint of freedom an' democracy.

A Brave Denouement

But one thing I did notice—every fella, before he got the "third-degree," combed his hair and fixed his tie for minutes at a time. Shore showed them fifth-posters that if they had to go ,they'd depart lookin' like gentlemen.

Well, jest to clinch the whole thing, bend an ear to this. You know that great big cow-path that runs along the front of the school? They call it the Lincoln Highway nowadays, but I don't know what in creation they'll call it when he dies. Anyways, it's what's knowed as a four lane highway; I mean to say, it holds four columns of horseless carriages.

D'yew know, the other night, dang near every student in the place was walkin right up the middle of that road—just as obvious a fifth-column as you'd want to see. I'm gonna set daown one of these here days an' write a scribble to thet Hoover feller of the F. B. I.

Tally Ho!

A Hodge-Podge of College News Along With Some Helpful Defense Notes

By Bruno Talvacchia

THE growing storm of enthusiasm for a student special to the Duquesne camping grounds come November should be embellished by a slogan. This column suggests one inspired by the return to its old caption: "Pittsburgh Ho." Or, perhaps, to keep in the spirit of the times: "'D' for Duquesne."

Incidentally, this idea of a student trip annually to an away-game has been practiced by Notre Dame for some time. According to the Notre Dame Scholastic, this year's ride will take the boys to Baltimore for the Navy game.

On to victory, Villanovans! Pittsburgh Ho!

* * *

Squeak-Squeak:

Once I had a white pet mouse,
He was great—
A wiggly dancing little mouse,
He is "ate"—
Some cat got him.

* * *

Religious Coordination:

Franklin and Marshall's Student Weekly brings to light a recent inter-faith organization which has sprung up on their campus, the F. and M. Religious Fellowship. Born last spring, the new group aims to co-ordinate all religious activities of the institution. Participating in this movement are the Newman Club of Catholic Students Phi Upsilon Kappa, a fraternity of preministerial students, and the membership of the former Student Christian Association.

* * *

Don't Look—Read:

"Are you dull on dates, dour at the dinner table, beaten down at bull sessions, reticent in recitations? Well, we are not surprised. The cause of the foregoing social stymies is not hard to find. The void can be filled by constantly reading up-to-date periodicals that are not illustrated by Mr. Petty."

So writes Robert E. Galbraith, associate professor of English composition at Pennsylvania State College, in the Daily Collegian. We can see very clearly by Mr. Galbraith's suggestion that here is the fundamental cause for many of our so-called "shy" personalities. No material for conversation, plus silence, equals monotony! It's as easy as two plus two.

Moral: Read your periodicals periodically!

* * *

Series Reflection:

The World Series is over and one Mickey Owen goes sadly out to pasture to feed on a diet of tin cans and old paper.

—Detroit's Varsity News.

Chirp-Chirp:

Once I had a little bird,
And his song—
Was the sweetest ever heard,
He is gone—
Some cat got him.

* * *

"Mendel Defense Monitors":

The national defense bug has bitten the girls at Smith College in Northampton, Mass. It seems that heat and light monitors have been seleced to conserve fuel and power for the nation-wide effort currently popular. The "heatlings" will arise at 6:00 A. M. to close all dorm windows; the "lightlings" will turn off all extra lights ,especially those left on during meal time.

Though we don't have any such monitors here at Villanova, it mightn't be such a bad idea for the boys to be a little more careful about leaving lights burning all night, etc. Not only would it be one more bit in conservation for defense, but it would be in line with the thought that neither the college nor the student gains by unproductive use of college funds.

* * *

A Chip Off the Block:

Then there was the burglar's son whose ambition was to follow in his father's finger-prints.

—Trinity Times.

* * *

Me-owww:

Once I had a lovely beau,
He had a bus—
Lots of cash to spend, you know,
I could cuss—
Some cat got him!

* * *

Collegiate Rumblings:

Penn State's Miriam L. Rhein made history in more ways than one when she visited New York to appear on Phil Spitalny's "Hour of Charm" all -girl program a week ago. . . When ushered to a ringside table at the exclusive Stork Club with her chaperon, she ordered a "chocolate milk shake."

The Columns, student publication of Fairmount State Teachers' College of West Virginia, tells us about the girl who went to a hop at Annapolis: she seemed to enjoy the dance and yet great gobs shook her frame. . . The Concordian repeats what one co-ed said to another, "I've an uncomfortable feeling that we're not being followed."

The Westminster Holcad noted the definition of a man as "a worm in the dust; he comes along, wiggles for a time and finally some chicken grabs him."

Dealing The Farmer Out

IMPORTANT among the administration's releases of the past week was the announcement of a new reciprocal trade agreement with Argentina. Under the recently approved arrangements, the United States has reduced the tariff duties of Argentina on canned beef and other cattle by-products, and in exchange the South American country has consented to similarly lessen duties on machinery and other manufactured goods entering their territory.

The true significance of the adopted contract is keenly realized in a consideration of just how much competition our own cattlemen and dairymen will have to combat in the future. Such a compact, which can only force our agriculture men to further contend with a foreign market, must be viewed as selling ourselves down the back road.

Thankfully, opposition to this agreement was not expressed in silence, for immediate answer was voiced by eminent figures representing stockmen's interests in the West.

Prominent among the individuals who rallied against the treaty was J. Elmer Brock, president of the American National Livestock Association. Speaking of the direct competition with native industry that the tariff reductions would introduce, he said, "I am unable to reconcile this with Secretary of Agriculture Claude Wickard's urge for a heavier marketing of cattle to ward off a domestic cattle surplus."

Since a contradiction is apparent in the opening of a new market for foreign products and the expressed intention of our government to prevent a surplus, another cause determining the consummation of the treaty invites itself. It is the thought that big business enterprise may have been looming behind the turn in policy.

Obviously our nation will have a mass of machinery laying dormant after this crisis has passed. It happened the last time, and it will occur again. Losses were severe at the termination of that turmoil, and that will be the case again. Because of the idle existence these mechanical instruments shall enjoy in the future, it is not unreasonable to assume that the capitalists have been occupied in a search for fields upon which to dump their inevitably overflowed supply.

The creation of an increased burden upon one of our own businesses is cause enough for disputing the character of the new treaty. Worse still would be the deliberate sacrifice of the future of our cattle products for the monetary interests of big business. In both instances our policy is something to be deplored.

—H. A. McC.

VILLANOVAN

Issued twenty-five times a year from Villanova College, Villanova, Pa.

THOMAS H. DOYLE, JR., '42 .... Editor-in-Chief
ROBERT J. FUNABASHI, '42 .... Sports Editor
THOMAS F. DEVINE, '43 .... College Editor
WILLIAM E. SCHUBERT, '42 .... Managing Editor
THOMAS A. SULLIVAN, '42 .... Copy Editor
HOWARD A. McCALL, '42 .... Literary Editor
JOHN T. GALLAGHER, '42 .... Business Manager
ALBERT D'ALONZO, '42 .... Photography Editor
JOHN P. FULLAM, '42 .... Feature Editor
JOHN P. MAHER, '42 .... Advertising Manager
ROBERT F. DONOVAN, '42 .... Subscription Manager
BRUNO J. TALVACCHIA, '42 .... Exchange Editor
BERNARD C. CRUMB, ex-'42,
Honorary Circulation Manager

Columnists

F. J. Clark, '42 D. N. Reardon, '42

Staff Writers

F. Bagot, '43; G. Belz, '42; E. Bennis, '43; H. Binder, '44; J. Bongiovanni, '43; R. Canfield, '43; S. Canning, '43; S. Caplan, '42; J. Coleman, '43; W. Craven, '43; L. DeSimone, '44; J. Dudley, '43; J. Earley, '42; L. Esposito, '43; W. Guncheon, Jr., '43; D. Haley, '42; J. Jakovic, '42; J. Mahoney, '43; J. Mauch, '43; J. McCabe, '42; R. McIntyre, '42; T. Muraski, '43; J. Nunemaker, '43; F. Reese, '43; T Shallow, '42; C. Schaumann, '42; J. Tortoreto, '44; R. Young, '44.

Business Assistants

C. Callahan, '43 L. Jones, '43 E. Smith, '43
J. Walsh, '43

Circulation Assistants

J. Cerulo, '42 G. Fitzgerald, '42 E. Frank, '42
N. Eni, '43 J. Keays, '44 J. Monroe, '44

Photography Staff

R. Amicone, '43 L. Eni, '44 J. Sandonato, '42

Faculty Advisor—Rev. Edward B. McKee, O. S. A.

This paper is dedicated to one of the finest men that ever entered Villanova; scholar, athlete, gentleman — LEO GOODREAU

Subscription: $2.00 per year. Circulation: 3500.
Entered as second class matter at the Villanova Post Office December 27, 1928.

Member of Associated Collegiate Press; Distributor of Collegiate Digest.
Member of Catholic School Press Association, Catholic College Press Association, and National Scholastic Press Association.

TUESDAY - - - - OCTOBER 21, 1941

Frosh:

WE DIDN'T think we'd have to write an editorial about the freshman failure to demonstrate the Villanova spirit this year; for the first couple of weeks you were A-1.

But during the last two weeks you've fallen off sadly . . . and the Student Council is moved to renew efforts to make you toe the line.

It must be taken for granted that those frosh who are reluctant to wear their "regs" do not consider themselves big enough to wear these emblems of distinction. Whatever spirit shown at last Thursday evening's pep rally and Friday night's game by the freshmen is nullified by the unwillingness of those who fail to wear the cap, tie and badge. The spirit of Villanova is not only to be manifested at pep rallies but 24 hours a day.

Other colleges have their weeks of hazing to impress spirit into their yearlings. There, frosh are asked to bow down to upper classmen . . . to humble themselves before the traditions of their alma mater.

Here you are asked, not to humble yourself, not to subject yourself to hazing, not to fear the upper classmen but to make yourself worthy and "big" enough to wear "regs."

It's an honor to wear "regs" . . . an honor to live up to . . . an honor which cannot be disregarded.

It is unfair to the majority of the class of '45 that their reputation is made to suffer because of the stupidity and stubbornness of a few. Consequently, penalties have been and are going to be imposed on unruly frosh.

Still, this class will carry the stigma of the few. By them they will be judged. Only through their cooperation, through their wearing of the "regs" will the class of '45 become worthy of the title "men of Villanova."

—W. C. G.

We Learn From Others

CONCURRENT with the imminent need for the distribution of readings written from the Catholic viewpoint, the Catholic Press Apostolate of the college has expended efforts that will afford all students an opportunity to maintain a status versed in truth on questions of daily religious, political, and economic importance.

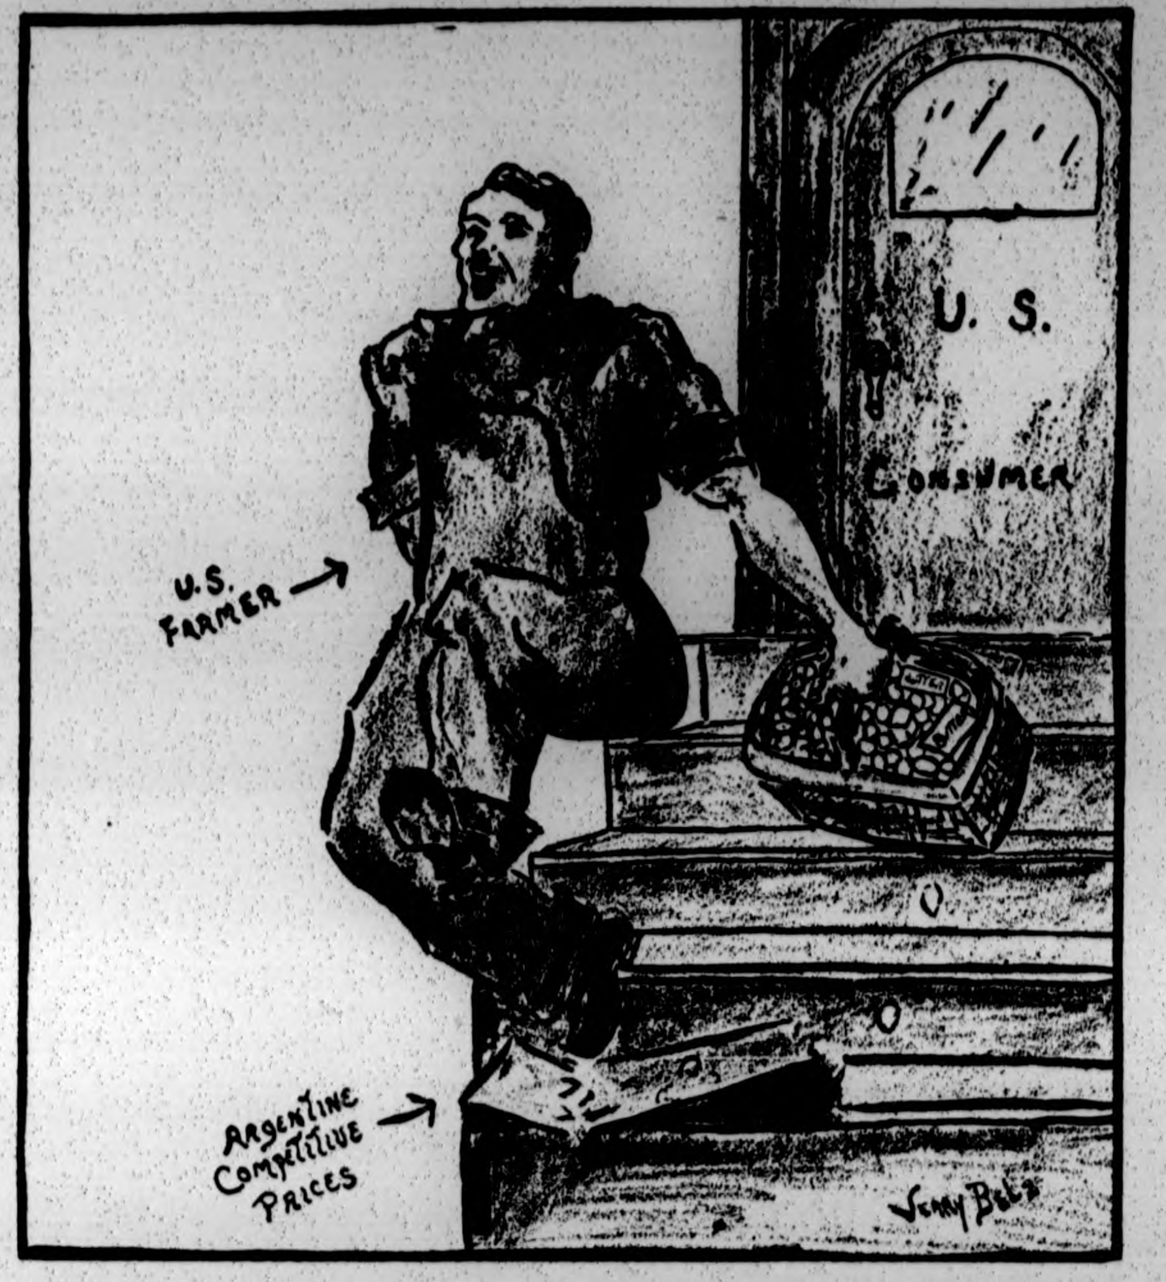
The work of this organization is adequately manifested by the numerous pamphlet racks placed in the halls of the respective schools and the college chapel. Because these various "stations of Catholicity" are within easy access of the students, it will not be difficult for them to occasionally reach out their hand to grasp what the secular papers and magazines do not contain.

What the messages in these pamphlets may mean to you later on in life may be illustrated by the spirit with which they are accepted by those who attend the evening school of this institution. These people, for the most part older in age and more appreciative of the experiences one meets in everyday life, are eagerly purchasing them and professing their thanks that they have been able to find such compact and comprehensive answers to their problems.

If these individuals have already realized their worth, surely the younger students will do well to follow their action.

—H. A. McC.

Heading For A Fall . . . . by BELZ



FACULTY COMMENTS

LOYALTY

(An Open Letter
To A Villanova Alumnus)

By FR. CRAWFORD

Oct. 20, 1941

Dear Doctor Mulholland:

How strange it seems to be addressing you as Doctor when only a few years ago you were a shy little Frosh in my Physics class. I am writing to you for several reasons, but chiefly to say "Thank you" for directing Jimmy Murphy to Villanova. When I asked him one day last week after class how he happened to come here for his pre-medical course he told me that the finest doctor in his home town was a graduate of Villanova, and his hope is to be just as fine, so he wanted to get off to the same good start as you had. He said, too, that when he asked you about Villanova your words of praise left no doubt in his mind that Villanova must be his school.

To hear those words meant a lot to me, Mickey (if I may still call you by that old familiar nick-name), because it indicated to me that the spirit of loyalty to Villanova is growing ever stronger among our alumni. Loyalty, loyalty to God, to country, to school, and to self, is but one of the many virtues that the Augustinian Fathers have been inculcating here at Villanova for ninety-eight years. And when we see that virtue so clearly exemplified as it is in your case, it is only natural for us to experience a justifiable pride, a feeling of satisfaction in viewing a job well done.

Perhaps your protege, Jimmy, feels that he has a long arduous way ahead of him before he can attain the position of prominence that he sees you occupy. But the fact that he knows that you have made the grade is an incentive to him that will encourage and uplift him when the way seems hardest.

I hope that he and all the other members of the Class of 1945 will learn as well as you have learned to be proud of Villanova and her near century of Catholic tradition and culture, to love Villanova as their Alma Mater, their fostering mother, to be loyal to her and her teaching, and to practise in their daily lives the principles of the Catholic gentleman.

I am trying to tell the present freshman class, just as I told you, that the key to success lies in hard work. I am sure that you realize this more and more as time passes on and I know that you have already impressed this idea on Jimmy's mind. He has gotten off to a good start so I feel that you need have no doubts about his ability to succeed.

Thank you again, Doctor Mulholland, and congratulations on your present success. I am confident that the spirit of cooperation and team work that you displayed on the basketball court in the "old gym" fifteen years ago will lead you to still further heights in your great profession.

God bless you, Mickey, and may the best of good fortune be yours.

Your old friend and teacher,
Father Crawford

Wildcat Whirl

By
Dave Reardon

ALREADY a month of the present scholastic year has gone by and the boys are really starting to find themselves socially. They're going places and doing things faster than can be reported, although some of them are unreportable. The Baylor rally and game saw a revival of a long dormant school spirit, thanks to the frosh.

At the rally, Bob O'Sullivan and George Szucs braved the affair with three beauteous girls who were hopelessly outnumbered. But at the game many of the boys squired their fair ones to see the Wildcats in action under the lights. What went on after the game is a closed chapter of an open book.

* * *

QUIZ:

If love is blind and marriage is an institution, are you ready for a blind institution?

* * *

CUFF NOTES:

George Harris travels all the way to Phoenixville to watch his girl friend play hockey and then takes her home. . . Where do Bill Kelly, Joe Malone and Hank Green go after night school?. . . Chuck Callahan has been quite inactive of late due to a certain interest up in Schenectady by the name of Dot.

Jim Thompson, a soph last year, is now a senior at the Univ. of New Hampshire. At last year's Junior Prom, he double-dated with Connie McGinley, ex-'44. As things developed, Connie's now engaged to the girl, Honey Adams, much to Jim's disapproval. . . The Manhattan game will witness a mass exodus to the metropolis of the Empire State. What will transpire is a matter of conjecture.

Jim Cashin supposedly still maintains relationships with a certain gal at Marymount College. . . Tom Sheehy chases over to Norristown to see Dot every now and then. . . Jack Foster is liquid-dating Kay, whose father is in the beverage business. . . Why does Bim Mambrick weekend it regularly?

* * *

The only difference between a plain girl and a new car is that you try to love the one and love to try the other.

* * *

PEN POINTS:

Whenever anything goes wrong in the band, Windy Bongiovanni is usually at fault. . . Cheerleader Johnny Green is known as Junior around his home town. . . Bill "Time Was" Hayes is going steady with a West Chester co-ed, but a Dickinson man is under the same impression.

Bob "Casanova" Young is currently interested in Cathie from the Mount, Helen from Rosemont and Terry from Immaculata. Nice work if you can get away with it.

The St. Joe gigoloes literally threw their Soph Hop at Brookline last Friday night. Rita, popular Rosemont lass, was seen with the secretary of their sophomore class. However, Bob White and Andy Melton are really in the running. But with men who know Rosemont best, it's Villanova, 2 to 1. . . Harry "Beanpole" Binder was having dinner at a local eatery. He ordered french fried and candied sweet potatoes as vegetables, to which the waitress replied, "Why that's too much starch." Harry unraveled himself and exclaimed, "Look, I'm a pole now."

Jack "Gullible Duke" Sutton no longer takes Betty out but is rushing a little girl by the name of Marian who has that "Veronica Lake" appearance. . . Who was the little number that "Pooch" Gordon, Tom Hushen, Joe Gill and Joe McMahon monopolized the other night after the rally?

* * *

MYSTERY OF THE WEEK:

Who shaved off Tom Doyle's moustache? Or was it

* * *

GLEANINGS:

Now that he's a working man as well as a student, Joe Hagerty can't see Willella during the week. But he can still call her on the phone every night and chat for an hour or so. What a conversationalist! . . . Bill Friel is a trusting soul. While he's marching with the band at the football games, he entrusts Marie to a friend until the game is over.

Meet The Boys:

Two Engineers On The Job, Prexy John And Student Bob

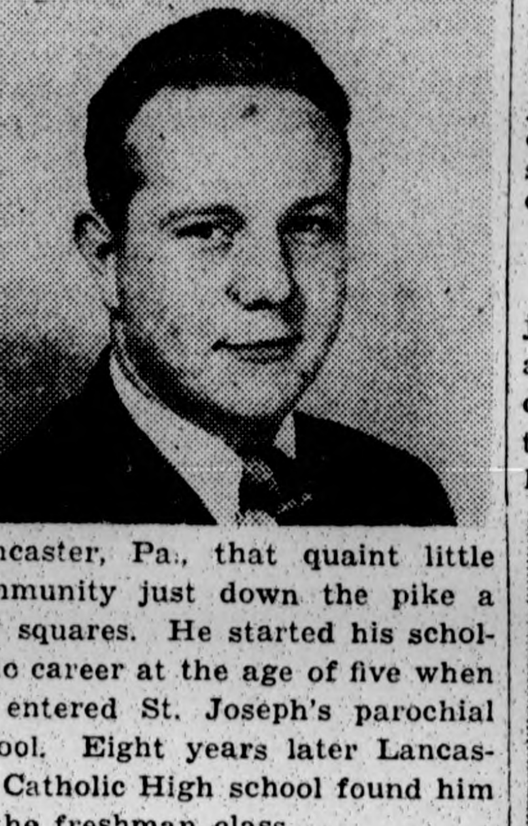
By THOMAS C. MURASKI

EACH week under "Meet the Boys" you will find the pictures and life stories of two prominent seniors. This week brings John C. Kirchner and Robert S. Ayerle to the pages of the VILLANOVAN. This won't be the first time, however, that either has been in the news. For during the past three years both boys have shown plenty of spirit and their activities in their school, class, and societies have been duly noted by this weekly publication.

Both John and Bob are students in the school of engineering majoring in chemistry and chemical engineering and both seem to have a parallel record of achievement in studies and extra-curricular activities.

A Lancaster Lad

John was born Nov. 3, 1920 in Lancaster, Pa., that quaint little community just down the pike a few squares. He started his scholastic career at the age of five when he entered St. Joseph's parochial school. Eight years later Lancaster Catholic High school found him in the freshman class.



After four more years he graduated from high school. That was in June, 1938. But that's not all. We can't justly say merely "four more years," because during the four years John let the student body know he was there by playing tackle. Two of those years were with the varsity eleven. The student body reciprocated by letting him know that they knew he was there. As a consequence he was elected vice-president of his junior and senior classes. Although his main interest was sports, his achievements in his scientific course netted him the position of Valedictorian.

Guided Frosh

In September of 1938 John came down the Pike to Villanova and started to shoot high right from the start. Being a straight-shooter he attained a goal which only a select few can say they have accomplished. He was a member of the Orientation Committee in his sophomore year, spending much time getting acquainted with freshmen. This being an annual practice accounts for his popularity on the campus, particularly among the resident students.

His classmates, taking heed of his ability, elected him vice-president of the class, and finally the presdient. The latter post is the position which he now fills as a senior. During the respective seasons John keeps up his interest in sports by being one of Villanova's best rooters in football, basketball, and baseball.

Pretty soon now John will be getting out and will have to face the world. His plans for the future are not yet settled, but regardless of what happens John says that he will do his best. If the Army gets him then he's going to the make a good soldier. Whether it's the Army, manufacturer, or graduate school, John will look back to his days at Villanova as he now looks back on his first three years.

Discusses Chem Lab

When asked about his first three years John likes to talk about the many hours he has spent in the chem lab; the trouble with this and that unknown; the stench created by a certain experiment; (he will not sit down to a meal after such a lab.) Sometimes he will speak of his hometown. When he does this, however, he generally will get some other Lancaster boys to back up his tales.

When the winter is over and card playing is monotonous, John likes to get out and visit the surrounding countryside. Of course it's only curiosity, but to see how the campi of other colleges look in the spring has been one of his objectives.

GRADUATING with John will be a classmate who also entered Villanova in Sept., 1938, namely Bob Ayerle. Bob, who has been "day-hopping" it for four years, was born and raised in Philadelphia. To be more specific, he has lived in West Oak Lane all his life. Having a local background, Bob can give you more information about the city than you can ask.

A Busy Man

Before coming to Villanova Bob spent twelve years in Catholic schools in Philadelphia. He started at St. Helena's Grammar school and spent his high school days at St. Joseph's Prep. While at Villanova Bob has chalked up a long list of appointments and elections.

In his freshman year he joined the Phi Kappa Pi, the engineering fraternity, and has been a member ever since. Year to year he is found on the bowling alleys with one of the best teams in the fraternity-sponsored league. In his junior year he was on the Owl Hop committee and this year he represents the frat in the student Council.

Heads Chemical Society

Also in his freshman year Bob joined the Math Club, better known as the Mu Alpha Theta. During the course of the years he has given talks and has helped to arrange programs for the club and is now vice-president, having been elected to that office last May.

In his sophomore year he became an active member of the Chemical Society and can boast, although he doesn't, of one of the best attendance records.

At the end of his second year he was elected to the post of secretary-treasurer of the society. After filling that post for a year he was elected to the job of president. The "Villanova Engineer" has had the use of his services for several years, and has appointed him to the post of circulation manager.

An Honor Student

This seemingly endless line of activities outside of the classroom has not interferred in any way with his activities in the classroom. For the past four years Bob has been a leader in his class. He was chosen as a member of the Chi Epsilon Mu, the honorary engineering society for scholastic achievement, and is now vice-president of the organization. Membership in this society is select and is something of which he can be particularly proud.

In fact, membership in this society is analagous to membership in the Phi Beta Kappa. Of course, the Chi Epsilon Mu is restricted to Villanova College—indeed, to the engineering school of the college—but those few students who possess the honor of being on its rolls are certainly looked upon with academic envy by the less talented members of the scholastic body.

Neglects Meals

Being in the chemical engineering department, he has spent much of his time on the fourth floor. Often he was seen bending over the electric calculator in the physical chemistry lab, pouring over the results of his experiments. Many times his school work has kept him from his regular evening meal; he has been known to stay in the labs as late as eight or nine o'clock.

And lest you think he is neglecting the athletic side of the well-rounded man, let it be known that he takes every possible opportunity of watching the football scrimmages and is an ardent rooter at all the Wildcat frays.

Bob's plans for the future are also rather tentative, the draft again being the determining factor. But if drafted, he too plans to make his presence in the army felt.

In June the alumni can well be proud to have such fine Villanova gentlemen in their ranks.

Corn-Fed Gum-Shoe Tracks Down Subversive Activities On Campus

By Jeremiah P. Gardenville

UH, h'lo, fellas. I kinda got suthin' t'say—suthin' I figger may be plum useful to the National Deefense Programmy.

Why tell you? Well, I just got to tell it to somebody, or I'll bust. Besides, it's about Villanova; and I feel it m'bounden duty not to keep nothin' secret from you guys as go there.

That there fifth pillar you been hearin' so much about lately—you know what I mean, I reckon. Well, I got almost sartin-shore proof that its' a-workin' its neefaireous plottin's right here in the school. Yessir.

Suspicious Conversation

T'other day, when I was walkin' down one of the halls, tryin' my hardest not to slip and fall on the plaguey terracotta, or whatever you call that stuff, I heard two fellas talkin'. I couldn't make out their faces, 'cause they were readin' the bulletin board, and you know how tarnation dark it is there.

Well, one feller says to t'other feller, "Sa-a-a-ay, he says" — but that's somebody else's line, ain't it? Anyways, as shore as ever I was born (don't look so doubtin', durn ye) I heard one of 'm say that they wuz takin' pitchers of every map in the place. He pointed a room behind us; and—by gosh, to golly—they was a curtain over the win-dow-lights!

The "Third-Degree"

I snuck up to the door and tried to look in; and what I saw jest flabbergasted me. One poor innercent stude was sittin' on a hard chair, sweatin' fit to drown himself, with bright lights shinin' at him from every direction. Reminded me of tales I'd heerd about the "third-degree" they use to make crim-nuls own up.

Some gazabo with his head hid under a black cloth was pointin' a big box-thing at him, usin' all his gift-o'-gab to make his victim smile—jest fer propergander, I bet.

Over in a corner, some fella was takin money off the students as they come in. Honest, fellas, I didn't know such low-down, ornery things went on in our gov'mint of freedom an' democracy.

A Brave Denouement

But one thing I did notice—every fella, before he got the "third-degree," combed his hair and fixed his tie for minutes at a time. Shore showed them fifth-posters that if they had to go, they'd depart lookin' like gentlemen.

Well, jest to clinch the whole thing, bend an ear to this. You know that great big cow-path that runs along the front of the school? They call it the Lincoln Highway nowadays, but I don't know what in creation they'll call it when he dies. Anyways, it's what's knowed as a four lane highway; I mean to say, it holds four columns of horse-less carriages.

D'yew know, the other night, dang near every student in the place was walkin right up the middle of that road—just as obvious a fifth-column as you'd want to see. I'm gonna set daown one of these here days an' write a scribble to thet Hoover feller of the F. B. I.

Tally Ho!

A Hodge-Podge of College News Along With Some Helpful Defense Notes

By Bruno Talvacchia

THE growing storm of enthusiasm for a student special to the Duquesne camping grounds come November should be embellished by a slogan. This column suggests one inspired by the return to its old caption: "Pittsburgh Ho." Or, perhaps, to keep in the spirit of the times: "'D' for Duquesne."

Incidentally, this idea of a student trip annually to an away-game has been practiced by Notre Dame for some time. According to the Notre Dame Scholastic, this year's ride will take the boys to Baltimore for the Navy game.

On to victory, Villanovans! Pittsburgh Ho!

* * *

Squeak-Squeak:

Once I had a white pet mouse,
He was great—
A wiggly dancing little mouse,
He is "ate"—
Some cat got him.

* * *

Religious Coordination:

Franklin and Marshall's Student Weekly brings to light a recent inter-faith organization which has sprung up on their campus, the F. and M. Religious Fellowship. Born last spring, the new group aims to co-ordinate all religious activities of the institution. Participating in this movement are the Newman Club of Catholic Students Phi Upsilon Kappa, a fraternity of pre-ministerial students, and the membership of the former Student Christian Association.

* * *

Don't Look—Read:

"Are you dull on dates, dour at the dinner table, beaten down at bull sessions, reticent in recitations? Well, we are not surprised. The cause of the foregoing social stymies is not hard to find. The void can be filled by constantly reading up-to-date periodicals that are not illustrated by Mr. Petty."

So writes Robert E. Galbraith, associate professor of English composition at Pennsylvania State College, in the Daily Collegian. We can see very clearly by Mr. Galbraith's suggestion that here is the fundamental cause for many of our so-called "shy" personalities. No material for conversation, plus silence, equals monotony! It's as easy as two plus two.

Moral: Read your periodicals per-'iodically!

* * *

Series Reflection:

The World Series is over and one Mickey Owen goes sadly out to pasture to feed on a diet of tin cans and old paper.

—Detroit's Varsity News.

Chirp-Chirp:

Once I had a little bird,
And his song—
Was the sweetest ever heard,
He is gone—
Some cat got him.

* * *

"Mendel Defense Monitors":

The national defense bug has bitten the girls at Smith College in Northampton, Mass. It seems that heat and light monitors have been seleced to conserve fuel and power for the nation-wide effort currently popular. The "heatlings" will arise at 6:00 A. M. to close all dorm windows; the "lightlings" will turn off all extra lights ,especially those left on during meal time.

Though we don't have any such monitors here at Villanova, it mightn't be such a bad idea for the boys to be a little more careful about leaving lights burning all night, etc. Not only would it be one more bit in conservation for defense, but it would be in line with the thought that neither the college nor the student gains by unproductive use of college funds.

* * *

A Chip Off the Block:

Then there was the burglar's son whose ambition was to follow in his father's finger-prints.

—Trinity Times.

* * *

Me-owww:

Once I had a lovely beau,
He had a bus—
Lots of cash to spend, you know,
I could cuss—
Some cat got him!

* * *

Collegiate Rumblings:

Penn State's Miriam L. Rhein made history in more ways than one when she visited New York to appear on Phil Spitalny's "Hour of Charm" all -girl program a week ago. . . When ushered to a ringside table at the exclusive Stork Club with her chaperon, she ordered a "chocolate milk shake."

The Columns, student publication of Fairmount State Teachers' College of West Virginia, tells us about the girl who went to a hop at Annapolis: she seemed to enjoy the dance and yet great gobs shook her frame. . . The Concordian repeats what one co-ed said to another, "I've an uncomfortable feeling that we're not being followed."

The Westminster Holcad noted the definition of a man as "a worm in the dust; he comes along, wiggles for a time and finally some chicken grabs him."

Book Club Lists Current Volumes

Rev. Daniel P. Falvey, O. S. A., librarian, announced today the list of new books to be carried by the Book Club for the coming year. The list consists of both current fictional and biographical works.

"A Declaration of Dependence" by Monsignor Fulton J. Sheen is among the recently acquired non-fictional books, Written in a thought-provoking manner and in a style as vigorous as his radio sermons, it convincingly analyzes today's World War, its causes, remedies, and results—as well as the question of whether or not war is justifiable What we are fighting for and the foundations of future international security are also subjected to study.

"Redemption of Democracy," current best seller by Herman Rauschning, author of "Revolution of Nihilism," is another work included on the club's shelves. The much discussed "Keys to the Kingdom," by A. J. Cronin, has also been obtained.

"Why England Slept," by former ambassador Joseph P. Kennedy, is a factual exposition of England's mistake preceding the war.

Thomas Kernan, who was formerly editor of "Vogue," tells in his "France of Berlin Time" of the present French conditions under Nazi domination.

Acquisitions in the biographical field include "The Jesuits in History," by M. P. Harney, S. J., along with "Their Name Is Puis" by Browne.

Other books include: Belloc, "Cautionary Verses"; Bok, "Backbone of the Herring"; Donahue, "Tally Ho Yankees in Spitfire"; Mantle, "Best Plays of 1940-41"; Partridge, "Big Family"; Raymond, "The Man Who Got Even with God"; Rich, "White, the Man from Emporia"; Sargent, "Christopher Columbus"; Van Doren, "Secret History of the American Revolution."

The yearly rental membership in the Book Club costs $1.00, which entitles members to the use of one book each week during the year. Any one else may use the club's books at a rate of ten cents for the first three days and five cents for each additional day.

Unphotoed Seniors Must Contact Studio

Seniors who failed to have their pictures taken during the past week must contact Zamsky's Studios and make their own arrangements. This must be done by Thanksgiving if the pictures are to be included in the year book, Belle Air editor William E. Schubert announced today.

Before the Thanksgiving holiday, all picture proofs will be returned. This will provide opportunity for the seniors to take the proofs home and decide which picture they want printed. The $1.00 fee must be paid before the proofs will be distributed.

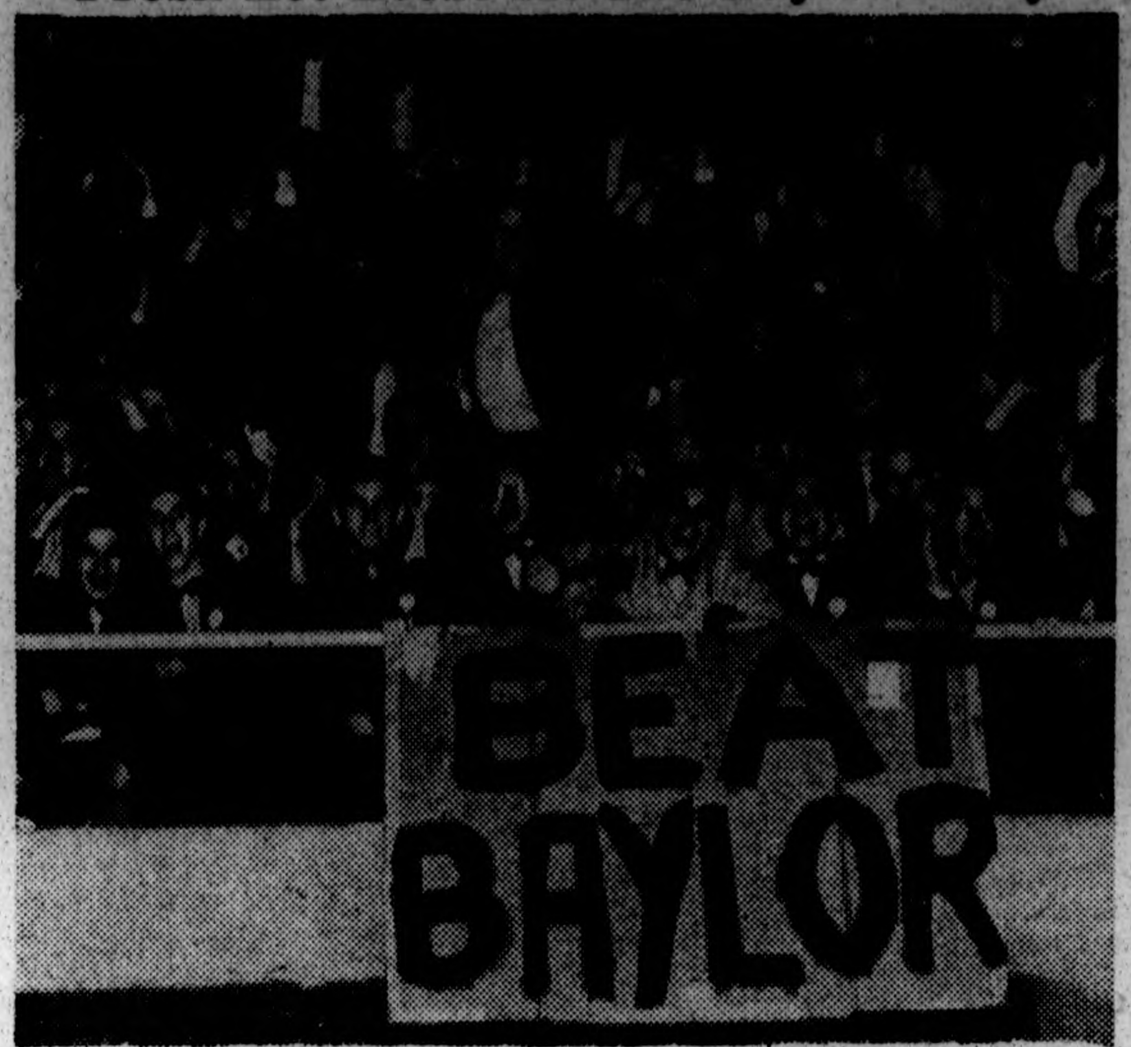
Work on the 1941 Belle Air is well under way. Already a tentative dummy has been drawn up by the editors.

The business staff has begun to function, but as yet no manager has been selected. Competition for this post is keen, and whoever proves most deserving will be nominated. Positions on the writing staff are also still open. Anyone interested should see the editor in his office, 51 Mendel, on any schoolday between 12:30 and 1:30 P. M.

George Fein & Co.
Printer & Publishers
2116 to 2130 Arch St.
PHILADELPHIA, PA.
RITtenhouse 6983

The
BRYN MAWR
TRUST COMPANY
BRYN MAWR, PENNA.
●
Every Banking Facility
●
Member Federal Deposit
Insurance Corp.

Frosh Let Loose At The Baylor Rally



Part of the crowd attending the rally in the Field House last Thursday evening, the freshmen pictured above yelled from start to finish. The program of the affair included band music, singing, cheering, and speeches by Fr. McGuire, "Clipper" Smith, writer Tommy Lovett, four gentlemen from Baylor, Bob Funabashi, and emcee Jack Gallagher.

A.S.M.E. Lays Plans For Smoker Nov. 17

Vincent Gordon, senior engineer and chairman of the Villanova Chapter of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers, outlined the society's plans for the near future at last week's meeting.

The first important event scheduled is the smoker, dated for the evening of Nov. 17. Members of student chapters representing Swarthmore, Drexel, Penn, Haverford, and Delaware, and the officers and program committee chairman of the Philadelphia section, will attend.

Included in the program will be a few informal speeches and some light entertainment. Refreshments will be provided, along with the use of some of the Field House's recreational facilities.

The smoker will also offer the members of the junior group an opportunity to voice their plans for the coming year.

Extensive Field Trips On A. S. C. E. Calendar

A large number of instructive trips will be taken this year by the members of the Villanova student chapter of the American Society of Civil Engineers, to various construction jobs in this locality, Carlos Martinez, secretary of the organization, has announced.

The technical aspects of highways, tunnels, bridges, and harbors will be explained to the future engineers by men who are familiar with each individual structure. At a meeting to be held next Monday, president Philip Malarkey will appoint a program chairman whose duty it will be to plan these tours and to make the necessary arrangements.

Keep Abreast Of Events

Compiled By
LOUIS J. ESPOSITO

Tuesday, Oct. 21—
VILLANOVAN Staff Meeting	1:00 P.M.
Band Practice	4:00 P.M.
Intramural Basketball:
C.&F. vs. Fedigan	3:00 P.M.
Austin vs. Alumni	7:15 P.M.
Mendel D. S. vs. Mendel Res.	8:15 P.M.
Wednesday, Oct. 22—
Kappa Gamma Sigma	1:30 P.M.
Band Practice	4:00 P.M.
Thursday, Oct. 23—
Science Forum	10:45 A.M.
Delta Pi Epsilon	11:45 A.M.
History Seminar	3:00 P.M.
Band Practice	4:00 P.M.
Research Seminar	4:15 P.M.
Intramural Basketball:
C.&F. vs. Alumni	3:00 P.M.
Fedigan vs. Mendel D. S.	7:15 P.M.
Austin vs. Mendel Res.	8:15 P.M.
Friday, Oct. 24—
150-lb. Football: Villanova vs. Cornell (Ithaca N. Y.)	3:00 P.M.
Varsity Football: Villanova vs. Manhattan, (Polo Grounds, N.Y.)	8:15 P.M.
Monday, Oct. 27—
Beta Gamma	1:00 P.M.
Radio Club	2:30 P.M.

HART & HALL, Inc.
Insurance
825 LANCASTER AVE.
Bryn Mawr, Pa.

Aristocrat
ICE CREAM
PHILA. DAIRY PRODUCTS CO.
4th & Poplar Sts., Phila., Pa.

Your Best Bet
Is
The Covered Wagon Inn
STRAFFORD, PA.

Under Fire

Local Resident Unrattled by Smoke and Flames, Takes Minor Blaze in Stride

Feature-writers for the big dailies frequently make much ado about the admirable behavior of British civilians under fire. VILLANOVAN feature-writers, lacking international news, nevertheless have one of their own to tell.

It concerns a certain un-named resident in this vicinity who called up Villanova's switchboard at quarter of six the other evening, and announced in cheery, conversational tones, "I live in Old Oaks."

Andy Melton, the college night operator, made himself equal to the occasion. "How nice," he remarked—or words to that effect. Then, noting a distinct lag in the conversation, he continued, in line of duty, "Whom did you wish to speak to?"

"Oh, I called to report a fire in your greenhouse," replied the placid voice on the other end of the line.

Definitely a man of action rather than words, Mr. Melton thanked the informant and then called the Bryn Mawr Fire Company to extinguish the blaze.

The fact that it was only a small brush fire some distance from the greenhouse is, we think, purely incidental.

War Blame Topic Of History Seminar

Members of the History Seminar, under the direction of Dr. Harold F. Hartman, moderator, will discuss the question, "Who is responsible for the present world conflict?" at a meeting to be held this Thursday at 3:00 P. M. in Simpson Hall.

The discussion is intended to demonstrate the practical difficulties involved in the fixing of historical responsibility for an event on any single individual or nation.

At the meeting last Thursday, members proposed several topics to be discussed at future meetings. Suggestions included the following: "Administrative Problems of the Selective Service Act," "Fundamentals of American Foreign Policies," "Union and Labor Problems," "The Status of Democracy," "Constitutional Powers of the President," and "Attitudes of Subversive Political Groups."

Each week a student will volunteer to lead the discussion on the topic selected for the following meeting; he will outline the main points of the case and the members will discuss them.

N. Y. Alumni Rally Thursday Night

"There has been no curtailment in the quality of automotive products because of National Defense; why should there be any curtailment in the Villanova Rally?" said Major Bowes, and accordingly informed the Villanova Alumni Club of New York that will again sponsor the annual pre-Manhattan game rally.

The third annual affair under the Major's sponsorship will be held at 7:30 P. M. this Thursday evening, Oct. 23, at the Capitol Hotel, 8th Ave. and 51st St. in New York City.

The list of football celebrities who have agreed to participate in the affair includes Steve Owen of the New York Giants, "Jock" Sutherland of the Brooklyn Dodgers, Dr. Mal Stevens of N. Y. U., Lou Little of Columbia, and "Jarring" John Kimbrough, former Texas A. & M. star who gave Villanova's '39 squad plenty of trouble.

Among other honored guests will be two of Villanova's contributions to professional football, John Mellus of the New York Giants, and Harry Mazzei of the Long Island Indians. Bob Rosen, vice-president of the American Football Association, will also attend.

In addition, many stage and screen stars have informed the rally committee that they will offer their services for the annual affair. Major Bowes has also stated that two of his newer units, with a large number of dancing and specialty acts, will perform.

Contract Signed

Continued From Page One

were available. Others having a sufficient supply were considerably higher in price.

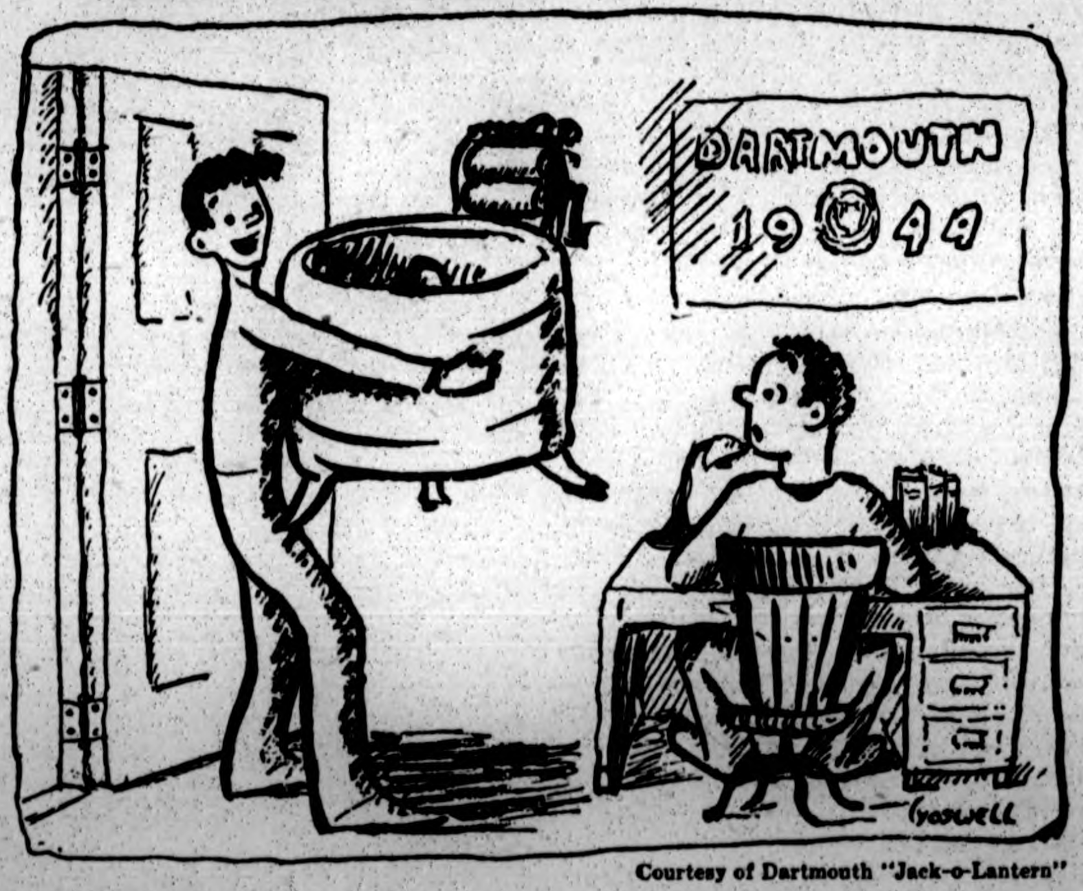
The obtaining of prices and the choice of company were completed in record time by the seven-man committee in order that orders placed may be first on the company's production list and delivery may be made before the first of next year.

List Prices

Prices listed are for the twelve pennyweight ring ,a charge of $1.00 being made for each additional pennyweight: black onyx, $18.50; sardonyx, $18.50; ruby, $19.75; blue spinelle, $19.75; emerald, $21.50; blue sapphire, $21.50; garnet, $22.50; amethyst, $22.50; topaz, $22.50;

These prices do not include the 10% defense tax recently placed on jewelry.

WHAT ARE YOU DOING WITH YOUR LAUNDRY THIS YEAR?...



Courtesy of Dartmouth "Jack-o-Lantern"

A better method is to send it home regularly by RAILWAY EXPRESS—and have it returned the same way.

Our service is fast, sure—and convenient. Economical rates include pick-up and delivery at no extra charge within our regular vehicle limits in all cities and principal towns. Your choice of prepaid or collect charges.

Just as convenient too, for 'most any shipment: Baggage, gifts, cake or a pet elephant.

RAILWAY EXPRESS
AGENCY INC.
NATION-WIDE RAIL-AIR SERVICE

VILLANOVAN SPORTS

Captain Sal Marone, senior left guard for Manhattan does some attentive listening while the Jaspers' coach, Herb Kopf, gives him a few pointers which might help against the Wildcats Friday night.

Princeton Backs Run Wild Over 'Cat Lightweights, With 44-6 Win

Powerful Tiger Team Scores at Will on Weak Defensive Blues in Opening Tilt

Villanova's 150 lb. team traveled up to Princeton over the week-end and were defeated to the tune of a 44-6 score by one of the most powerful Tiger aggregations assembled since the inauguration of the league.

The Princeton club was not to be denied, with a fast and deceptive set of backs and a hard-charging line which opened up hole after hole in the demoralized Villanova line. Moving at top speed throughout the riotous game the Tiger lightweights never once permitted the Wildcats to get organized.

In the first quarter, Villanova got a taste of the Tiger medicine and before they could gain their balance, Princeton had run up a 20-point lead. Three touchdowns in short order by the Orange and Black squad left the 'Cats in dismal hopes. Immediately after Villanova received the opening kick-off, Princeton got possession on an exchange of kicks and Eley threw a long pass over the safety's head to Farr and Princeton was on its way.

The ball changed hands several times and as the half drew to a close Princeton took possession of the ball and on straight running plays, and marched through for another touchdown.

McManus Goes 65 Yds.

Villanova 150's received the ball at the start of the second half and after several running plays, Jack McManus took the ball on an off-tackle slant and with good blocking ran 65 yards for a touchdown. The conversion was wide.

After an exchange of kicks, Princeton took the ball and on a reverse off-tackle play, chalked up another touchdown. Princeton kicked off to Villanova, and after several sizable gains lost the ball on downs. Princeton taking the ball on the 40-yard line ran the end for another score, which was called back and a holding penalty was inflicted upon Princeton. The next play brought the ball to the three-yard line, from which the Tiger lightweights bucked over for another touchdown.

In the last quarter after a pass interception by Couch, who carried the ball to the two yard line, Princeton again scored on a wide end run to the left.

The Line-up:

Villanova		Princeton
Kazlor	LE	Farr
Carbine	LT	Hawlett
DiBenideto	LG	Ulmer
Marchese	C	Rothermel
Lozowski	RG	Hedberg
Philips	RT	Dennison
Menseck	RE	Mittnecht
Sykes	QB	Coddington
Cahill	FB	Simons
McManus	LH	Fuzy
Donovan	RH	Eley

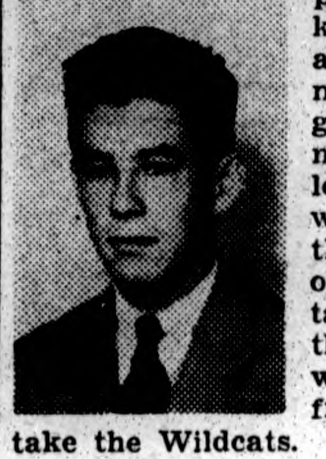
Sportorial

By Bob Funabashi
Sports Editor

WHAT follows is a letter which might well be read and re-read by the hundreds of students who made their presence the other night at Shibe Park. You can take it or leave it!

Dear Clipper:

I'm a member of the 60 cent brigade, you know, that section on ends of the field where you stretch and strain for four periods long those five or six times a year. To me it's the place where the average rooter sits, the place where the working fellow and his wife—and possibly his kids, congregate and yell to eternity. We really go for Villanova, win or lose. If it rains we're always there and if the old temperature takes a turn for the worse and we have to freeze, we'll still take the Wildcats.



For six years now we've gone through each season, just as you have. Maybe not from your standpoint, but inside of us we take each victory—or defeat as you do. We've watched the kids come and go, Raimo, Stopper, Stoviak, Chisick, Nowak, Howlett, Basca and all the rest. Even up in those high stands, we notice you and Vince go through all those pantomimes of joy and sadness. Then after the game is over we look up and smile. Sometimes we go in gloom — we don't say a word.

Friday night you played Baylor, a team that kept us guessing from the beginning of the week until Friday night. I've seen teams all through my day but when it came to Baylor they were tops. But even in spite of all that I saw a better team on the field that night, Villanova. I don't know what you said to those kids after the game, but I guess if I were the coach, I'd hug and kiss every boy on the bench.

I'm overjoyed, and why shouldn't I? But I'm also disappointed. I suppose I shouldn't be talking or complaining but you know that when something bothers you, the best medicine is telling your troubles to someone else.

I saw some brilliant performances that night—Pezelski's thrilling runs — Smith's great job in backing up the line and his blocking downfield — Anderson's stout heart — Korisky's enduring play—Yednock's superb kicking — and I could go on, but to me, the worst

SPORTORIAL Continued on Page Six

Jaspers Prepare Aerial Attack

Elliott Confident Of His Harriers

DiCarlo, Hooper, Dunbar and Oerth Show Promise for Coming Meets

The broad smile on Coach "Jumbo" Elliott's face these days may be due to a low golf score which he turned in, but more than likely it's the result of the fine showing of his cross-country stars Hooper, Dunbar and Oerth. Jumbo will make no comment which leads us to believe he has something up his sleeve. The same wily coach entered Johnny DiCarlo in the 400-meter hurdle event in the Penn Relays and surprised everyone but himself when Johnny romped to a photo-finish with Gilder Darrow, winner of the event, and veteran at that distance.

It is well-known that Villanova has a fine runner in Captain-elect Bill Hooper, but whether Bill can adapt himself to the five mile cross-country grind remains to be seen. Oerth, a veteran at cross-country, definitely will figure with the best at the distance, while "Dixie" Dunbar is a newcomer to the "Harrier-field." Whether Elliott can produce a distance man from these remains to be seen, but those who know, say "yes."

Sprint star Johnny DiCarlo is expected to make a good showing indoors this year. Ranked as one of the best quarter-milers in the Middle Atlantic section, the "Deacon" expects his greatest competition from Al Diebolt, thundering sprint star from Colgate University.

Cornell 150's Next Rival

With the pressure of a four-game winning streak, carried over from last season, lifted, Stan Eusko and his lightweight charges are girding themselves for their annual clash with the Big Red of Cornell. Cornell, defeated in their first game by Princeton, were nosed out this week by a powerful Yale eleven.

The lightweight Wildcats should be much improved over their first game showing. Pitted against one of the most powerful teams in the circuit they gave up two first-period scores when Princeton capitalized on two breaks, one a blocked kick. After this they never seemed able to regain form.

Have Possibilities

Even in defeat the team showed great possibilities. Bill Sykes, subsituting for injured Tony Paruta, played a smart game at the quarterback post. Jim Cahill, Swede Donovan and Jack McManus, the other three members of the backfield are all sophomores. McManus held down the key spot in the backfield doing the majority of the kicking and passing. Cahill, playing at fullback was removed because of an injury but returned later to finish the game. As a whole, the line looked good. Princeton worked innumerable cutbacks throwing the line off balance. The team will be at full strength for Cornell with the possible exception of Paruta ,who picked up a shoulder separation in a scrimmage two weeks ago.

Kasky To Captain Manhattan Game

Ed Kasky, Senior tackle from Glen Cove, N. Y., has been selected by Clipper Smith to lead Villanova against Manhattan.

Big Ed has been a standout performer in the Wildcat line for the past two seasons. A fine place-kicker, Kasky has handled the job of kicking off to Villanova opponents. He has converted most of the points-after-touchdown for the Wildcats.

Center Problem Severance's Job

Finding a Replacement at the Key Spot Gives Court Coach Worries

Every afternoon for the past two weeks, Coach Al Severance has been putting his charges through their paces in an attempt to find a suitable starting line-up for this year's campaign. The most important obstacle at present is to acquaint the sophomores with the idiosyncrasies of each of the varsity players. They have to find out how hard to pass to one player; on which side of another player to pass; to gauge the speeds of the different players; and from what spots they are the most efficient This knowledge is necessary in order to have good team play.

Need For Team Play

"Good team play is necessary if our team is going to win at all this season," says Coach Severance. The squad is relatively small compared with other top-notch teams and in order to equalize the play they must become expert ball handlers.

"Good clean-cut passing has been stressed more than ever before because possession of the ball is now necessary if the Cats are to stay in the ball game," Al Severance states.

Although competition for every berth is wide open, several players are expected to form the nucleus of the club. With the absence of Art Spector and Ted Rapella, the center post is giving Coach Severance the biggest headache. "Herm" Drizen, Joe Lord and Fred Gerland have been alternating there and at the forward positions with Bob Kelty and Ernie Melafchik, Bill Woods, "Reds" Klotz, "Major" McDonald, and Dick Gray have been working out as guards.

Frosh Report

Last Tuesday the Frosh reported to Coach Severance. There were only four scholarship men among them, including "Dutch" Sivertsen, former Lower Merion captain, and Tom Dunleavy, St. Joe Prep luminary.

The schedule is not yet complete and will be published at a later date. However, it will be a surprise schedule. Through the efforts of Coach Severance and the Athletic Department a number of new teams have been added and the schedule is much larger than last year.

Plans are also in effect for compiling a Frosh schedule like the past few seasons.

Pass-Minded N. Y. Squad Engage 'Cats

Manhattan Hopes For Upset Friday Night at Polo Grounds

By JACK DUDLEY

When does a game become a traditional battle? No one knows just when the Manhattan game became a "must" on the Villanova schedule. But observe the elaborate plans of students, grads and other faithful who will take in the game at the Polo Grounds this Friday night. The growing rivalry can be seen in the closer battles being waged each succeeding year.

Coach Herb Kopf, now in his fourth year at Manhattan, has produced teams which have played consistently well against outstanding opponents. This year, seven major games are listed on the Jasper's roster.

Passing Emphasized

As to what the 'Cats can expect from Manhattan: the Jaspers gained more through the air last year than they did on the ground. This year's team is extremely light and fast. It appears that even more emphasis will be placed on their passing game.

Five regulars are among the seventeen lettermen returning to Coach Kopf. Captain Sal Marone and Art Rodgers are back at the guard positions. Frazier Donlan at left tackle and Ellwood Varner at right end are holdovers. The lone remaining backfield star is Chuck McNulty, who will do most of the ball-carrying. Although the first string line appears to be strong, good replacements will have to be found. John Fesko at quarterback, Harry Ulrich at right half, and Frank Kiessecker at fullback have been teaming up with McNulty to form the new Manhattan backfield.

Open Attack Employed

Manhattan under Kopf is known for a wide open, razzle-dazzle, high-scoring offense. To this system, developed over years of association with Lou Little at Georgetown, he has added some "T" formation plays and something new, the "Spread Eagle." This calls for a flanker and a man-in-motion.

The Jaspers hurdled the first two obstacles of the season as they humbled St. Bonaventure and George Washington. Wading into the major part of their schedule they found the going tougher as

MANHATTAN GAME Continued on Page Seven

Student Ticket Sale

Student tickets for the Manhattan game this coming Friday night will go on sale today at 1:30 P. M. until 5:30 P. M. and will last until Wednesday afternoon or possibly Thursday if there is a heavy demand. All students are requested to bring their matriculation cards when purchasing tickets.

Seats for the student section will be $1.10 while reserve seats will cost $1.65 and box seats will be offered at $2.20.

Outstanding Line Play And Two Swift Touchdowns Enable Villanova To Upset Baylor 'Jinx,' 14-6

By JACQUES MAUCH

Villanova's Wildcats, smarting from past defeats in the southwest, took the Baylor University Bears into their own lair last Friday night and in two lightning slashes engineered by Joe Pezelski, the sophomore whippet, licked the Bears 14-6.

It was sweet revenge for the 'Cats who played four quarters of heads-up football reminiscent of the undefeated elevens of '37 and '38 and to the 32,000 fans, largest home crowd in the history of the college, it was one of the most bruising battles ever seen on the Shibe Park turf.

Anderson Leads Defense

Soph stars supplied the spark in the backfield while the veteran forward wall led by Captain Tony Anderson, played their hearts out. They knew they must win and with grim determination they withstood gallantly the onslaught of Wilson, Crain, Kittrell & Co.

Baylor had thirteen first downs to the 'Cats' four and led in the yardage gained both passing and running. But it is touchdowns that pay off and Villanova was well aware of that. In between the scoring thrusts the 'Cats sat back and played crafty defensive ball. Several times the Texas team crashed through for long gains and got in scoring position but then Villanova turned on the pressure. Their pass defense broke up many aerials and ends Sullivan, Prohovich, and Pritko rushed the carriers so quickly they didn't have a chance to get started.

Pezelski Goes to Town

The ball game was seven minutes old when Baylor on last down lined up to punt out from their own ten. The wily Clipper waiting for such an occasion sent Pezelski in. Joe took the kick on his own 42 and through some fine blocking especially by George Smith, the Kulpmont Flash was on his way to the first score. Kasky then split the uprights perfectly for the extra point.

In the second period Baylor lost its star, Jack Wilson. The fans will never know just how good this boy was but they will remember a solid little fellow, Kit Kittrell by name, who went in for Wilson and immediately began to worry the 'Cat defense. Starting from his own 18 Kittrell passed 40 yards to Nelson, and 7 to Russell. A fifteen yard penalty against the 'Cats for unnecessary roughness placed the ball on their 25. Kittrell got 5 on a delayed buck and passed to Crain for a first on the 11. Another pass connected with Russell and Crain plunged to the 1 foot line from where he steam-rollered it over on the next play. Griffin's conversation was wide.

Villanova sewed up the contest in the last period when Pezelski took off again. Parks, Bear halfback, was pushed back 20 yards to his five yard line by Kasky, Korisky and Jagoe on two plays and Baylor was forced to punt. Pezelski scam-

BEARS BOUNCED Continued on Page Seven

Austin Victorious In Two Contests, Assume I-M Lead

By SAM CANNING

With all the thrill and excitement of real varsity competition, the Intramural Basketball League swung into action Tuesday and Thursday of the past week as photographers snapped pictures and spectators lined the court to get the first glimpse of the teams at play.

The greatest interest, naturally, was in the freshmen teams turned out by Alumni and the Mendel Residents. The "Green Wave" from Alumni displayed a great deal of height and some good shots in Bradburn, La Belle, White and O'Donnel. While the Mendel Residents didn't show as much height as Alumni, the frosh turned out three of the five highest scorers of the week in Simmons, Zeeman and Lemire and also were second to Austin Hall in points score for the week with 60.

But there was one team that stood out predominately above the rest all week and that was Austin Hall who jumped out into an early lead in the league winning both of the two games played. Austin also produced the highest scorer of the week in Macek who tallied 19 points in the two games and they were tops in the point scoring class with 63 markers, second being Mendel Residents with 60 and third, Fedigan with 46.

Businessmen Checked

The Mendel Day Hops got off to a good start by winning the first game to be played in the 1941 campaign as they held their fellow commuters from C. & F. to 13 points while they were tallying 28. Meehan and Lattanza accounted for the entire C. & F. scoring with the former getting 9 and the latter, 4 points. The Mendelites were really out for blood and their air-tight defense held the Businessmen to 3 points in the entire first half. Traitz, Graciano, Boyle and Amicone provided the punch that gave the Mendel boys the victory.

The Fedigan Gigoloes were practically run off the floor in their first game as Fr. McKee showed up with no less than 30 men to Fedigan's lonely 6 players. Although one new team after the other wore the Fediganites down when half-time came, the score was only 10-9 in favor of the Austin Firemen. But the strain was too much and Austin's many re-enforcements came through with a 21-14 win. Bob Moore of Fedigan was high scorer of the game with Cerulo, Macek and Hin, all hitting the cords for several baskets.

Frosh Halls Battle

Fr. Dunnes "Green Wave" composed of four complete teams failed to check the fire of the other freshmen from Mendel and bowed as Zeeman, Simmons and Lemire led the Mendel attack scoring 28 points among them. Fr. Boyle's frosh were well ahead at half time with a 25 to 12 lead, and added 14 more in the second half to win, 39-25. Alumni displayed an array of excellent material especially in La Belle and Bradburn which Fr. Dunne will be able to shape up into a crack team.

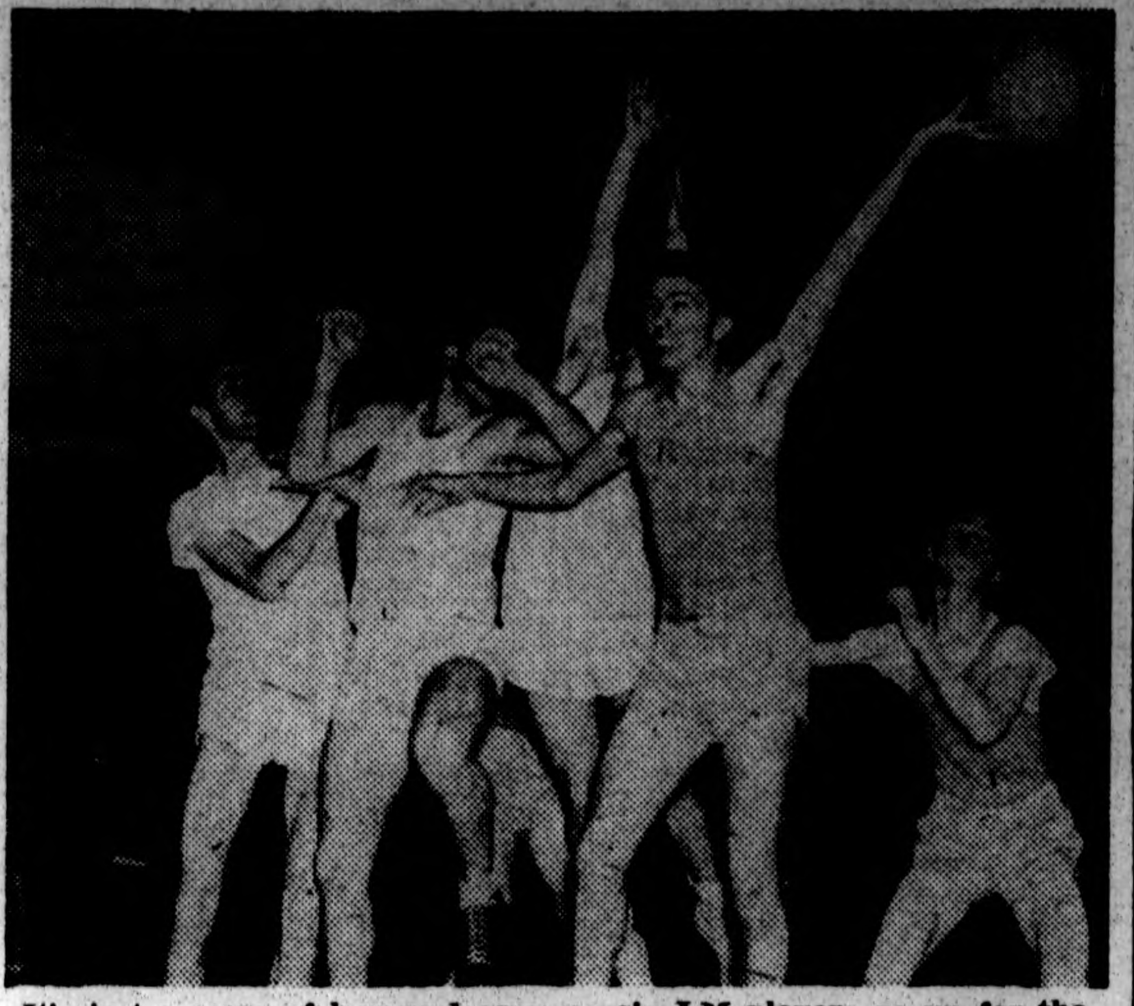
Bouncing back after a first game set-back the Gigoloes took the Mendel Freshmen in hand and administered their first defeat by a 32-21 margin. The frosh were hanging on at the end of the first half on the short end of a 14-9 score but couldn't keep up with the more-seasoned team and dropped back a bit as Fedigan tasted its first victory at 32-21.

Greenies Rally

Alumni Hall and the Mendel Commuters played what proved to be the most exciting game of the week. Alumni, fresh from a defeat at the hands of the other Mendel team fought valiantly and edged out a 20-17 thriller over the day students. Ahead by only a 12-11 score at the half, Alumni lost the lead as their opponents came back and scored quickly. But the Greenies were not to be denied and they rallied hard to score four baskets and hold the Mendelites to three to win 20-17. O'Donnell, White and Bradburn scored 16 of Alumni's 20 points while Powers and Weber were high for Mendel with 12.

Proving their superiority, the Austin Firemen romped over the C. & F. Day Hops to the tune of 42-19 to win their second straight game and hand C. & F. their second straight loss. Austin was well ahead of the commuters at half time with Macek scoring 13 of the 18 points of Austin's, while Meehan scored 5 of C. & F.'s lonely 7 points. Not content with this lead the Austinites poured it on and ran up 24 more before the final whistle blew.

Action In The Opening Game



It's just a mass of legs and arms as six I-M players go up for the ball during the Mendel-C&F contest last week. The gray-shirted boys from Mendel took the game 28-13.

Sportorial

Continued From Page Five

performance in that big park was the spirit of the Villanova student body. Somehow they were lost and never could get going. Me and my sixty-cent pals wouldn't trade them in for the smallest loud-speaker. The foreman down at our shop can yell louder and I've seen more co-operation from a bunch of six-year-olds.

We don't go to Villanova but we yell, and yell until the last whistle blows, win or lose. It seems that the Villanova boys only play the winners and kick everybody when they're down. Now to me, I can't see it. When I'm for a team, I see them through, whether six points ahead or six points behind. At times when your team needed help, and outside help, that's when the Villanova students should have stood by and raised the roofs, but instead, they sat back, hid their hands in front of their faces, turned their tails in and waited. They were listless, never sang the songs and shrugged the whole affair off. After the game though they went out to celebrate a victory which someone else gave them.

Well that's about all I have to say Clipper and whenever you need a little support just turn your eyes up to far sections and we'll do the bracing. Lots of luck.

A sixty cent admirer.

HERE AND THERE

By FRED CLARK

Sports scribe Tommy Lovett, who has been covering Villanova gridiron contests for a good many years, predicted after the Florida game, that one of these fine fall afternoons the Wildcats were going to explode in no uncertain fashion and make some hapless opponent wish they had 'stood in bed.'

That hard-fought but decisive victory over a truly powerful and massive Baylor eleven last Friday evening may not have been the exact kind of explosion Mr. Lovett had reference to but it will serve the purpose until the real thing comes along.

The 'Cats did not run up an impressive score or even take a commanding lead at any point in the game but when the opportunity presented itself they burst wide open like a charge of gun-powder. And if you have any doubts about it, you might consult those players who were blasted from Joe Pezelski's path on his 58-yard touchdown jaunt midway in the first quarter by a convoy of Wildcat destroyers. You have to go back to the days when diminutive Walt Nowak used to stalk a towering enemy and cut him down with a knifelike thrust in order to recall anything that resembled the perfect blocking that Pezelski received on that play.

While the entire team played an inspired brand of football that bodes ill for future opponents, too much praise cannot be heaped upon Joe Yednock for his magnificent punting that continually kept the Wildcats out of the danger zone, Bill Prohovich for breaking up numerous Baylor running plays for his aggressive defensive game, George Smith for his rugged backing up of the line, and Joe Behot for his cool and smart field-generalship and his excellent choice of plays at the quarter-back slot. Of course, Joe Pezelski was the outstanding performer of the evening by virtue of his aforementioned touchdown run and also it was his running and passing that set the stage for the second Villanova score.

* * *

The following happened at a tense moment of the game last Friday night. There is a telephone situated on the Villanova bench which connects with the Shibe Park press box to facilitate the communication of information to the sports reporters. The phone had been ringing for a few minutes and everyone on the bench ignored it because their interest was focused on the field of action. But one bright young Villanovan who yelled forth in a coy tone of voice, "Better answer the phone, Clipper, it might be the Pot of Gold calling." He must have been a freshman.

* * *

About the only sad note of the week-end was contributed by the 150-pound team, which suffered a staggering 44 to 6 defeat at the hands of the lightweights of Princeton. This was surprising in view of the fact that the concensus of opinion seemed to indicate a highly successful season for the 150's. However, this was the first game under a new coach and the midget eleven should show improvement with each game.

Three Opponents Remain Undefeated

Out of five of the remaining grid opponents, three came through victorious over the past week-end, Temple, Duquesne and Detroit. The remaining two, Auburn and Manhattan both suffered their second loss of the season against outstanding teams.

Friday night, Duquesne barely edged out a small, but hard-hitting St. Vincent's eleven, 7-0. On Saturday Temple defeated Penn State, 14-0; Detroit beat Oklahoma A. & M., 21-14; Auburn lost to S. M. U., 20-7, and Manhattan was on the short end of a 26-13 score against Boston College.

'Bring Your Date A Cake'
From KOHLER'S BAKERY
Home of GOOD CAKES & SODAS
BRYN MAWR, PA.

Meet Your Friends
AT THE GREEKS
We Serve Lunches
Superior Soda Service
Delicious Dinners

Frederick H. Hurd
Photographer
851 Lancaster Pike
Bryn Mawr, Pa.
Bryn Mawr 776

Young & Kaber
- Florist -
FLOWERS
See George Gabuzda
at Simpson Hall
The Campus Representative

This Space
Reserved for
Sun Cleaners and
Dyers

CONESTOGA
★ ★ ★ MILL
County Line & Conestoga Rd.
Bryn Mawr
FULL COURSE DINNERS
DANCING
Every Evening

Room to SUPER-CHARGE
with a Third More Ink than average of three well-known sac-type pens, due to Parker's patented One-Hand Sacless Vacumatic Filler
◆ GUARANTEED by LIFE CONTRACT

Try yourself on this Quiz:
1. What Pen has, and always has had, the Clip that's right at the top, thus holds it low and unexposed in the pocket?—trimmest for civilian dress and uniforms.
2. What Pen has the "One-Hand" SACLESS Filler, making room to SUPER-CHARGE with a third more ink?
3. What Pen has the lubricated Point of 14 K non-brittle Gold, tipped with "oil-smooth" Osmiridium that won't wear scratchy as long as you live?
4. What Pen has the TELEVISION barrel that SHOWS when to refill?
5. What Pen is styled of shimmering Pearl and Jet RINGS—voted the winner of the beauty contest by men and girls alike?

College men and women must know all the answers because you buy more Parkers than any other make.

Well, see these latest and most attractive Parkers for school priced at $2.95 and $3.95 for the Parker Duofold, $5, $8.75 and $10 for the Parker Vacumatic. Don't make the mistake of buying ANY until you've tried Parker's One-Hand Filler.
COPR. 1941, THE PARKER PEN CO.
The Parker Pen Company, Janesville, Wisconsin

◆ Guaranteed for Life BY PARKER'S BLUE DIAMOND
Full TELEVISION ink supply
Maxima, $10
Major (illus.) or Debutante, $8.75
Junior or Sub-Deb, $5
Writefine Pencils to match, $3.75 to $5

Parker
VACUMATIC
◆ Parker's Blue Diamond on the pen is our Life Contract unconditionally Guaranteeing to service the pen for the life of the owner except for loss and intentional damage, subject only to a 35c charge for postage, insurance, and handling, provided complete pen is returned for service.
To make your Pen a self-cleaner, use Parker Quink, the amazing new pen-cleaning ink, 15¢

'Adonis' Anderson, A Blocking Fool, Has Assisted In Many Long Runs

By BILL WALSH

"Boy! ! ! that fellow Anderson is really good," is a remark you must have heard more than once at the Baylor game. Yes, this blond Adonis, who was chosen by his teammates to captain the Baylor game, really did play a whale of a game Friday night. He is now a senior and is making the best of his last year here by playing "bang-up" football.

Tony, however, was pointing for this '41 season all summer, and reported in fine shape in September. He worked most of the summer as a shift gauger at the Gulf Refinery at Girard Point in Philadelphia. During the second week in August, though, he couldn't resist the call of the pigskin any longer and journeyed to the Columbus Country Club at Eddington, Pa., where he helped coach the St. Joe's Prep team for three weeks. This put him in fine fettle and he reported to Clipper in tip-top shape, being fifteen pounds under his reporting weight last year. This may be the reason for Tony's fine playing this season. We aren't sure, but it certainly shows that Tony was in dead earnest to play good football.

Goes Prom-Trotting

Besides being a gridiron star, Tony is also recognized as the best bridge player in Fedigan Hall. He is also quite the socialite, and seldom misses a Prom at any of the girls' schools within twenty miles of here. Tony gained top billing along this line, when he escorted the queen to the Junior Prom last year

As his training this past August shows, Tony always does his best to keep in shape. During the winter months he plays quite a bit of hockey, especially during the Christmas vacation in his home town of Needham, Mass. He is also quite an accomplished wrestler, and all those who were here in Tony's freshman year, will not forget his intramural wrestling match with Dave Di Fillipo, who is now a first string guard on the Philadelphia Eagles. It was one of the most spectacular events in intramural history.

Upon graduation in June, Tony, who is majoring in Finance, expects to go to South America, where he will continue working for the Gulf Refineries.

This good-looking lad, who has all the polish and finesse necessary really should go places.

Finals This Week

The Intramural Tennis Tournament will go into its final round this week after a few days postponement. Previously arranged so that it would come to an end this past week-end, the tournament was put off. Finalists from the four alls will compete in addition representatives of the various day-hop mural title, which was won by divisions will vie for the Intra-George McFadden last Fall.

ANDY CHISICK RETURNS

Villanova men who remember Andy Chisick, '40, one of the greatest centers ever to graduate will have a chance to see him in action next Sunday at Shibe Park, when his team, the Chicago Cardinals meet the Eagles. Chisick, with his many honors will be opposing Nick Basca.

As Our Selectors See Them—

Teams	Smith	McNally	Aisenbrey	Whelan	Jacobs	Funabashi	Doyle	Clark	Haughton	Consensus
Alabama	A			A				A		G.
Georgia		G.	G.		G.	G.	G.		G.	6-3
Boston C.	B. C.	B. C.		B. C.	B. C.	B. C.	B. C.	B. C.	B. C.	B. C.
Georgetown			G							8-1
California	C	C	C	C	C		C	C	C	C
S. Calif.						S. C.				8-1
Cornell		Cor.	Cor.	Cor.	Cor.	Cor.			Cor.	Cor.
Colgate	Col.						Col.	Col.		6-3
Fordham	F		F	F	F	F	F	F	F	F
T. C. U.		T								8-1
Georgia T.	G	G		G	G		G	G		G
Auburn			A			A			A	6-3
Villanova	V	V	V	V		V	V	V	V	V
Manhattan										8-0
Michigan						Mich.			Mich.	Minn.
Minnesota	Minn.	Minn.	Minn.	Minn.	Minn.		Minn.	Minn.		7-2
Notre Dame	N. D.	N. D.	N. D.	N. D.	N. D.	N. D.	N. D.	N. D.	N. D.	N. D.
Illinois										9-0
Purdue		P	P	P	P					I
Iowa	I					I	I	I	I	5-4
Texas A. M.	T	T				T		T	T	T
Baylor			B	B	B		B			5-4
Tulane	T	T		T	T	T	T	T	T	T
Mississippi			M							8-1
Hits	17	15	15	16	16	16	11	15	19
Misses	8	10	10	9	7	9	14	10	6

Manhattan Game

Continued From Page Five

they bowed to Duquesne and Boston College.

In the past few Villanova-Manhattan games, the season records have meant little. Although the 'Cats have managed to hold the upper hand in the past seven games, they usually won by a score less than that expected.

One of the best crowds of the season is expected to gather at the Polo Grounds to witness one of Villanova's classic games.

AWARD FORTHCOMING

The Alumnus Award for the most valuable player on the 150-pound squad is soon forthcoming.

This award has been conferred for the past two seasons on the player who has the interest of the team at heart and who gives the most for the team in the way of outstanding work and play.

The first winner was Victor Dominic an end in 1939. Last year Captain Frank Lombardo, star fullback, received the award.

Bears Bounced

Continued From Page Five

pered 20 yards to the 17, and on first down rifled the ball to Zamlynski on the six. A five yard penalty against Baylor for delaying the game put the ball on the 1 and Zamlynski plunged over. Kasky again converted.

Yednock's Foot Busy

Baylor made several attempts to score again but the dauntless Wildcats pushed them back on every occasion, and the booming punts of "Chief" Yednock kept the Cats out of danger. Yednock who alternated all evening with George Smith, did all the punting. He averaged 41 yards and on three occasions sailed the pikskin out of bounds on the 5, 8, and 12 yard lines.

All the linemen played heart-warming ball, but the guards, Captain Anderson and Little Leo Jagoe, and center Ed Korisky battered and weary, were outstanding.

Besides Crain's pile-driving and Kittrell's passing and running, the Bear's Russell was the outstanding lineman on the field. Brainy Joe Behot ran most of his plays to Baylor's right side to keep away from Russell and the few plays to the left were run inside. It took two and sometimes three men to get him out of the way.

The 'Cats came out of the battle with a few injuries but none which might be called serious. Tom Gildea, sophomore guard suffered a nose break and Jim McGee, substitute center also suffered a nose injury. The team as a whole suffered exhaustion if anything.

THE WILSON
LAUNDRY CO.
of Bryn Mawr
Always the Friend of
Villanova Students
10% discount to students for "cash and carry" work.
No charge for replacing buttons or making minor repairs.
An American institution owned, operated by and employing Americans.

FOR ANY BOOK
REILLY BOOK STORE
133 N. 13th STREET
Established 1900

"Meet Me Friday Night"
at
Spread Eagle Inn
Garden Restaurant
on Lancaster Pike
Strafford, Pa.

For Expert Convenient
Attention
SERVICE IS OUR FIRST THOUGHT
Patronize
THE CAMPUS
BARBER SHOP
- First Class Work -
- Popular Prices -

KEEP SUPPLIED WITH
SCHOOL TICKETS
GOOD ON BUSES AND RAIL CARS UNTIL USED
5c a Ride, including Special Free Transfers. Obtain Identification Cards at School Office.
RED ARROW LINES
Philadelphia Suburban Transportation Co.
Aronimink Transportation Co.

Men's Clothes
Made-to-Measure
COLEBY
Tailoring
Inc.
57th & MARKET STS.
Suits & Topcoats
$27.75
See Steve Aisenbrey
110 Fedigan Hall

AT THE MOVIES

ARDMORE
THEATRE
Wed. - Thurs. - Fri. - Sat.
SPENCER TRACY
— in —
"DR. JEKYLL AND MR. HYDE"
Sun. and Mon.
"SMILING GHOST"
with
WAYNE MORRIS
BRENDA MARSHALL

Direction Warner Bros.
TOWER
69th & MARKET STS.
Tues., Wed., Thurs. - Oct. 21, 22, 23
A. J. Cronin's Novel
"THE STARS LOOK DOWN"
A Powerful and Stirring Drama
Fri., Sat., Sun. & Mon.
Oct. 24, 25, 26 & 27
Surprise Picture of the Year
"HERE COMES MR. JORDAN"
Starring
Robert Montgomery
For your entertainment, we urge you to see this picture from the beginning.

SEVILLE
THEATRE BRYN MAWR
Tues. & Wed.
"CHARLEY'S AUNT"
Thurs.
"THE PARSON OF PANAMINT"
and
"SWEETHEART OF THE CAMPUS"
Fri. & Sat.
"LIFE BEGINS WITH ANDY HARDY"

ANTHONY WAYNE
THEATRE WAYNE
Tues. & Wed.
"WILD GEESE CALLING"
Thurs., Fri. & Sat.
"SUN VALLEY SERENADE"

SUBURBAN
THEATRE ARDMORE
Tues. & Wed.
"WILD GEESE CALLING"
Thurs. to Tues.
Sonja Henie - John Payne in
"SUN VALLEY SERENADE"

RIDE FREE ON P. & W. RAILWAY MOVIE TICKETS
GRAND
NORRISTOWN
Today
James Stewart in
"NAVY BLUE AND GOLD"
Wed. & Thurs.
Cartoon Musical Comedy
"TILLIE THE TOILER"
Fri. & Sat.
Abbott & Costello in
"HOLD THAT GHOST"

NORRIS
NORRISTOWN
Today, Wed. & Thurs.
Ann Sothern - Robert Young
Eleanor Powell in
"LADY BE GOOD"
Fri., Sat. & Mon.
Dorothy Lamour in
"ALOMA OF THE SOUTH SEAS"
In Technicolor

GARRICK
NORRISTOWN
Wed. & Thurs.
Jack Benny in
"CHARLEY'S AUNT"
Fri. & Sat.
James Cagney - Pat O'Brien in
"DEVIL DOGS OF THE AIR"

WILDCATS!
STOP HERE
LA DOW'S PHARMACY
On the Edge of the Campus
LANCASTER PIKE
VILLANOVA, PA.

C. P. T. Instructor Gets High Rating

William G. Driscoll, assistant professor of physics and instructor of the C.A.A. ground school ,received the highest average of those from this district taking the recently-inaugurated government examinations for C.A.A. instructors.

Driscoll conducts the evening school twice weekly for those students taking the Civilian Pilots Training Course. The general average of the classes taught by Driscoll and the percentage passing the final exams have been higher than those of all other nearby colleges.

Classes for the ten students now enrolled in the course began Oct. 1 and will terminate Jan. 15, 1942. Of the ten students taking the course, three are from Haverford College.

Villanova students are: Joseph C. Daly and Edward R. Frank, senior commerce; Herman C. Behnke, junior engineer; Arthur J. Roth, senior engineer; John DiCarlo and Bernard T. Haus, junior commerce. From Haverford are: Walter Cross Falcomer, David Manchester Poole, and Thor Nathaniel Rhodin.

Participation in the C. A. A. training course, which has been a part of the national defense program since last summer, may be considered by the local draft boards in the deferment of students. No guarantees have been given, but those enrolled in C. A. A. courses have been deferred in some recent cases.

Electricals To Describe Work During Summer

The program for next Monday's meeting of the Villanova Chapter of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers will consist of talks by William Lynch on his experiences during the past summer at the R. C. A. Manufacturing Co., Camden, N. J., and by Joseph Dorsey, who was employed by the Philadelphia Electric Co. and assigned to the Richmond Generating Station.

Prof. Harry S. Bueche, counsellor of the local student chapter, has been made a District Representative of all the counsellors of this section.

Hospitalization

Final date for the first payment of the Blue Cross hospitalization plan has been set for Oct. 31.

A non-profit community service, the plan is open to all students in good health and guarantees to its members hospital care when needed.

Special student rate for the plan is $7.50 a school year, payable at the Business Office. This may be divided into two payments of $3.75 at the beginning of each semester.

Any student who is not hospitalized in one of the 60 local member hospitals may go to any approved hospital in the United States or Canada and receive $5.50 per day for their hospital care. While the college has no financial interest in the plan, it has sponsored it in the interests of student health.

President Named To Two Defense Groups

Very Rev. Edward V. Stanford, O. S. A., president of the college, has been appointed to serve on defense committees for both the state and federal governments.

Fiorello H. LaGuardia, mayor of New York City, has named Fr. Stanford to the United States Commission on Colleges and Civilian Defense. The primary purpose of the national organization is formulation of plans and ideas for the civilian protection of universities and university students in the event that the United States should become involved in the present Eupean war.

Fr. Stanford received a second appointment, to the Citizens Committee for American Unity of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania State Council of Defense. Arthur James, governor of Pennsylvania, is Chairman of this group which serves as an advisory committee on morale.

The Lamp Post Inn
Luncheon and Dinners
Strafford, Pa.

Registration Figures Released

Official figures on full-time enrollment as of the census date, Oct. 6, which supercede the tenative figure of a 2% drop previously calculated, were released by Registrar P. F. Banmiller yesterday.

Total enrollment remains substantially the same as last year. The science and engineering schools' registrations increased slightly in number, the business school had a small dop, while the number in the arts school remained practically the same.

As before, the School of Commerce and Finance has the largest enrollment, followed by the School of Engineering, the science school, and the School of Arts and Education. The freshman class is again the largest one ,with enrollment decreasing from the sophomore class through the senior class.

Out of this year's total of 971, 540 are residents and 431 are day students, as compared to last year's totals of 561 residents and 413 day students.

Figures by schools and classes are:

Briefs On The News

Senior and junior members of the Villanova chemical society will attend the afternoon sessions of the American Society of Metals convention tomorrow, Robert S. Ayerle, president of the organization, announced yesterday. The convention is being held in Philadelphia from Oct. 20-24.

At the sessions more than 300 companies will present exhibits and over 30 will have small-scale working models of the actual processes employed by the company.

Bernard Clarke, a senior, will head the local group's plant trip committee, it was disclosed. Assisting him will be J. Madison, J. Conway, J. Donnelly, and J. Shelley.

The program committee will consist of chairman J. C. Maginn, C. Schaumann, R. Koob, J. Schlotterbach, and J. Rodgers.

Tentative plans for the semester include talks by outside speakers, motion pictures dealing with chemical engineering, and two trips to nearby chemical plants.

A letter from the executive secretary of the American Institute of Chemical Engineers, acknowledging the society's application for membership has been received. The society must now send a formal application, along with the history of its activities at Villanova.

Last Thursday at 3:30 P. M. in Simpson Hall, the Beta Gamma Debating Society held an intramural debate on the topic: "Resolved, that the United States should regulate the labor unions."

On the affirmative side of the issue were Joseph Coll, Robert Young and Edward Manderfield, while the negative team consisted of James Connelly, Harry Binder and William de Simone. The debate was non-decision.

First issue of the "Mendel Bulletin," quarterly publication of the science school, is scheduled to appear on or about Dec. 15. Included in the initial issue will be eight articles pertaining to scientific topics.

John J. Raney, '40, a graduate of the electrical engineering school, is now a member of the U. S. Signal Corps. He will undergo a month of intensive training before being sent to England to aid in the detection of approaching aircraft.

	Arts			Science			Engineering			C. and F.			Total	Total
	R.	N. R.	Total	R.	N. R.	Total	R.	N. R.	Total	R.	N. R.	Total	'41-'42	'40-'41
Freshmen	37	10	47	36	39	75	44	55	99	64	41	105	326	321
Sophomores	27	7	34	33	29	62	33	49	82	58	24	82	260	247
Juniors	17	6	23	25	17	42	21	42	63	45	29	74	202	194
Seniors	27	6	33	19	17	36	12	28	40	40	23	62	172	184
Specials	1	8	9	1	1	2	...	...	...	...	...	...	11	28
Totals	109	37	146	114	103	217	110	174	284	207	117	324	971	974

R—Resident students; N. R.—Non-resident students.

WRIGLEY'S
SPEARMINT
CHEWING GUM
V-167

No Cramming Necessary!
For swell flavor and real chewing fun—the answer is delicious Wrigley's Spearmint Gum

Chesterfield

You'll enjoy seeing MARJORIE WOODWORTH in the current Hal Roach hit "ALL-AMERICAN CO-ED" released through United Artists.

★ ★ ★ ★

You'll enjoy Chesterfields, the All-American pleasure smoke with the definitely Milder Cooler Better Taste.

If... like the All-American Girl... you want a cigarette that's MILDER

It's Chesterfield

Try a couple of packs. We feel sure you'll be coming back for more... because Chesterfield's right combination of the world's leading cigarette tobaccos makes them so much Milder, Cooler and Better-Tasting that more smokers are turning to them every day.

Yes, the approval of smokers is the big thing that's pushing Chesterfield ahead all over the country.

EVERYWHERE YOU GO

They Satisfy

Copyright 1941, Liggett & Myers Tobacco Co.

VILLANOVAN

Vol. 14—No. 4 N. A. S. Z-660 VILLANOVA COLLEGE, VILLANOVA, PA. TUESDAY, OCTOBER 28 ,1941

Homecoming At Adelphia Hotel

Over 300 Alumni Expected to Attend Annual Dinner-Dance Nov. 8

The Adelphia Hotel, located at 13th and Chestnut Sts., in Philadelphia, will be the scene of the annual Homecoming celebration on Saturday evening, November 8, following the Temple game.

Sponsored by the Philadelphia Club of the Villanova Alumni Association, this year's gathering will consist of a dinner-dance and is expected to attract some 300 old grads.

The dinner is scheduled to start promptly at 7:30 P. M.; the dancing later in the evening will be highlighted by the music of Joe Rozum and his fourteen-piece Villanovan dance orchestra.

Murtha Chairman

All details of the event are being handled by a committee headed by William C. Murtha, former member of the class of 1933.

Other plans for the homecoming, which are also under the direction of the Philadelphia association, include a plan to group all the graduates who are to attend the game in one special section of Temple stadium.

Hubert F. Drummond, '30, secretary of the Philadelphia Club, urges all alumni association members who intend to see the Temple game and to take part in other Homecoming activities, to notify the chairman or William G. Slaughter, as soon as possible because of the large crowd expected.

Get Tickets Here

Tickets for the dinner-dance are priced at $2.25 per person, and may be secured from Slaughter, secretary-treasurer of the Alumni Association, in room 120, Mendel Hall.

Last year the Homecoming celebration was also held in connection with the traditional rivalry of the Temple game. At that time, however, the scene of the affair was Frank Palumbo's Cabaret Restaurant in Philadelphia. Members of the alumni from all sections of the country have attended the celebrations in previous years.

Named To Run . . .

JAMES SPINELLI

Beta Gamma Opens With Radio Debate Against Swarthmore

Beta Gamma, varsity debating society, will engage the representatives of Swarthmore College in a radio debate over station WDAS next Sunday afternoon, Nov. 2, for its initial outside contest of the season.

Robert J. McIntyre, senior commerceman, and Harry J. Binder, sophomore commerce, will represent Villanova, upholding the affirmative of the question: "Resolved, that the United States should work for a negotiated peace."

The chairman of the society, senior artsman John P. Fullam, has expressed an optimistic opinion on the season's prospects, because of the large turnout of new members.

In preparation for competition in the Philadelphia Debating League, the society will launch a series of Oregon Style practice debates, the first scheduled for tomorrow at 3:30 in Simpson Hall. The Oregon Style debate, used in league competition, consists of one constructive speech, a series of questions on the opponent's constructive argument, and a rebuttal.

Spinelli, Hushen To Run Owl Hop

Co - Chairmen Will Direct Ten-Man Committee; Ticket Sale Begins Tomorrow

James Spinelli, senior civil engineer, and Thomas Hushen, senior mechanical, were selected during the past week by officers of Phi Kappa Pi, engineering fraternity, to act as co-chairmen o fa ten-man committee which will make arrangements for the annual Owl Hop, to be held in the Field House on Friday evening, Nov. 14.

Other appointees include four engineers from both the sophomore and junior classes. This arrangement was made in order that the demand of the students for tickets may be more readily met. The ticket committee includes juniors Samuel Burruano, Arthur Smith, Paul Gallagher, and Herman Behnke; and sophomores John McManus, John O'Brien, Roy Shinners, and Louis Merlini.

Both Active Members

Spinelli and Hushen have been quite active in the work of the fraternity. Last year Hushen, who has been a member of the organization for three years, held the position of vice-president.

Vincent J. Gordon, chairman of Phi Kappa Pi, has announced that tickets for the affair will be placed on sale tomorrow afternoon.

At a meeting of the committee last Wednesday, James Earley was appointed to supervise the decoration of the Field House and Philip Malarkey was assigned to purchase and handle refreshments. Decorations will be essentially the same as those of the Sophomore Cotillion, while an attempt will be made to provide a variety of refreshments.

"Villanovans" to Play

Music for the four hours of dancing, from nine until one, will be supplied by the "Villanovans." Joe McEvoy, who made his debut at the Cotillion, will provide the vocals. Intermission for refreshments will be from 11:30 to 12:00 P. M.

Owl Hop tickets this year were advanced from last year's price of $1.50 to $1.65, to include the recent 10% Federal tax levied on tickets of this type by the government.

At its inception, the Owl Hop was held on the Friday evening preceding the Temple game as a climax to the week devoted to decoration of resident halls and the building of a large bonfire for the Temple rally. In recent years the date of the dance was changed to follow the Temple game, as preparations for the building decorations and the bonfire interfered with the dance arrangements.

P. K. P. Dance

THOMAS HUSHEN

Enters Seminary

Former Editor Harrington Placed in Final Year of Philosophy at St. Charles

John J. Harrington, '40, a graduate of the School of Arts and former editor-in-chief of the VILLANOVAN, has entered St. Charles Borromeo Seminary in Overbrook to prepare himself for the priesthood.

Before deciding to forsake worldly pursuits, Harrington was employed at the Quartermasters' Depot in Philadelphia. Fearing that this prolonged absence from study had proved detrimental, he determined to review philosophy and Latin at St. Charles' before undertaking theology. Passing his entrance examination with high honors, he was placed in the final year of philosophy.

At Villanova, Harrington, while maintaining consistently high marks, engaged in a prodigious number of extra-curricular activities. In addition to his newspaper work, he was active in International Relations Seminar, the Council for Interracial Justice, the Philosophy Seminar, the Catholic Press Apostolate, the German and Study Clubs, Belle Masque, Beta Gamma, the Orientation Committee, the Sociology Seminar, and the Student Council.

College Host To Assn. In December

Catholic Philosophical Group Will Hold 17th Annual Convention in Phila.

Villanova and neighboring Catholic colleges will be hosts to the American Catholic Philosophical Association which will hold its 17th annual meeting at the Benjamin Franklin Hotel, Philadelphia, on Dec. 29 and 30.

At the request of Rev. Charles A. Hart, of the Catholic University of America, Villanova is handling local arrangements for the meeting. The organization, which functions from the Catholic University, has its annual meetings at different cities at the discretion of the officers of the association.

Contemporary Theme

Theme of all papers to be presented at the convention this year is "Philosophy and Order in Thought and Action." An attempt will be made to emphasize all the current aspects of the different papers to be heard. In past years the emphasis has been placed to a great extent on past history, but this year subject matter of the papers will relate to present problems.

Rev. Charles J. McFadden, O.S.A., assistant professor of philosophy at Villanova and author of the book, "Philosophy of Communism," will collaborate with Dr. Otto Bird of St. John's University, Brooklyn, in the presentation of a paper dealing with "A Comparative Analysis of the Metaphysical Bases of Action in Marxism and Thomism." This paper will be included in the part of the conference program devoted to ethics.

Fr. McFadden will argue the problem and discuss the possibilities arising from the viewpoint of Marxism. Dr. Bird, who is a graduate of the Medieval Institute, Toronto, will follow Fr. McFadden's presentation with a paper dealing with the Thomistic viewpoint.

Approximately one-half hour will be devoted to the reading of each paper to be followed by a similar period of discussion.

Committee Chosen

Rev. Edward V. Stanford, O.S.A., president of the college, complied with the request made by Fr. Hart by the appointment of several faculty members to serve on the local committee. Those who have already been named include Rev. Edward Dwyer, O.S.A.; Rev. Robert P. Russell, O.S.A.; and Rev. Richard J. McNally, O.S.A.

Alumni committee members include J. Stanley Smith, Esq., Joseph Bongiovanni, John Harrington, Albert Holl and Edward J. Burke, Ph. D. Undergraduate committeemen are artsmen John P. Fullam and William E. Schubert, seniors, and Joseph F. Mahoney and Thomas F. Devine, juniors.

Fedigan, Other Halls Prepare For Annual Building Decoration Contest

"This is the year for us to show our heels to our so-called competitors."

With this challenge, the champs of Fedigan Hall have begun preparations for the annual Building Decoration Contest which begins next Monday, Nov. 3, and runs to Nov. 5.

Held prior to the Villanova-Temple football classics, the competition is waged by the School of Commerce and Finance and the four major residence halls on the campus.

The entrants in the contest, competing for the Connelly Plaque, intend to stimulate the already overflowing "Beat Temple" spirit. The plaque awarded to the winner now reposes with the residents of Fedigan Hall, continual holders of the trophy since its inauguration in 1937.

Alumnus Gave Plaque

Donated by William Connelly, '27, the prize was awarded to Fedigan last year for the fourth consecutive time. Austin Hall held the runner-up position last year, for the third time.

In view of the record of the successes of Villanova's football team, the Student Council, which acts as judge of the contest, expects this year's "Beat Temple" campaign to develop into the most lively of recent years.

Awarding of the trophy will be made at the bonfire rally, the grand finale of all pre-game activities, on Nov. 7, the night before the game.

Determined to keep possession of the Connelly Plaque, residents of Fedigan have elected a committee of 25 men, under the chairmanship of John Cerulo, senior commerce student, to draw up plans for their hall.

C. & F. Plans Secret

The School of Commerce and Finance, a comparative newcomer to the Building Decoration Contest, having competed last year for the first time, has placed its hopes in the hands of William A. Craven, a junior, who heads a twelve-man committee.

Although Craven refused to divulge any information in regard to their plans, these day-hops are known to be holding several secret plans of action in reserve.

The frosh of Alumni Hall, who were among the first to begin preparations for the contest, have already finished mapping out their plans. Rev. John R. Dunne, O. S. A., moderator, announced that two engineers, Donald White and Thomas Hitchell are managing the Alumni campaign.

Austin Tries Again

Chairman Francis J. Flaggella is definitely set to capture the honors for Austin Hall this year. His predecessors have striven in vain for the previous years of the contest, but consistently crowded the winner by being runner-up for the last three years.

Mendel residents have a meeting pending to decide how they will operate this season. Rev. Joseph I. Boyle, O. S. A., moderator, is to appoint a temporary chairman in an effort to put this frosh hall in the running.

A regulation, to be enforced this year for the first time, requires that all decorations be completed by Wednesday, Nov. 5, in order to count in the final scoring of the judges. This ruling is intended to eliminate much of the last-minute rush which marked the contest last year.

Quiz Tomorrow At Seminar Will Test Musical Knowledge

Tomorrow at 1:00 P. M. a musical guessing contest will be conducted by the Music Seminar in room 215, Mendel Hall. Portions of twenty selections will be played and the contestants will be asked to identify both the composer and the title.

The person making the highest score will be given one dollar's worth of Victor Red Seal records. As usual, a duplicate prize will be awarded in case of a tie.

Dr. Edward L. Haenisch has promised that the contest will not be devoted to classical music alone, but that the lighter classics and some popular music will be included.

The life and music of the four Strausses will be the topic of the evening seminar held in Simpson Hall tomorrow. A number of waltzes, characteristic compositions of Johann Strauss, Jr., the most famous of the four, will be heard. Along with these records will be played several of his father's better-known compositions.

Contemporary musicians will be represented by Richard Strauss, writer of symphonic music, and Oscar Strauss, a composer of light musical comedies, of which "The Chocolate Soldier" is typical.

Council Invokes Upperclass Spirit

Need for more and better support of the football team on the part of the seniors, juniors, and sophomores was pointedly stressed by Thomas J. McKimmey, president of the Student Council, at the weekly meeting of that organization last Tuesday, Oct. 21.

The student leaders expressed their disappointment in the attitude shown by the upperclassmen at the football games. and requested a return to the feeling shown in previous years.

"In order to keep the morale of our great team at its highest pitch, every bit of support that the students can give is needed," McKimmey emphasized. "This time we must turn to the upperclassmen with a plea for more spirit and enthusiasm."

A plan to inject these students with the extra pep they need to get behind the "Wildcats" in future games is being put into effect as the result of this meeting.

The annual rally on Friday evening, Nov. 7, the eve of "the Temple" game will climax two weeks of intensive efforts by student leaders and class officers to raise the campus enthusiasm to an all time high, surpassing even the pre-Baylor game spirit.

The Student Council promises to promote more publicity for the Temple rally than any other similar event at Villanova has ever obtained.

Election Postponed

Elections for the vice-presidency of the junior class, scheduled to be held yesterday, have been postponed until Monday, Nov. 3. Ballots will be cast from 12:30 P. M. until 1:30 P. M. in room 110, Mendel Hall.

Seniors To Receive Proofs Thursday In Yearbook Office

Proofs of senior pictures will be returned to the college by Zamsky's Studio on Thursday, Oct. 30, and may be obtained by calling at the Belle-Air office, room 51 Mendel Hall, between 12:30 and 4:30 P. M.

All seniors will be required to pay the one dollar fee, first due at the time the pictures were taken, before proofs may be obtained. Seniors must also return the information blanks, giving the individual's name, address, high school, degree, and extra-curricular activities while at Villanova. Proofs will be withheld until these blanks are completed.

Miss Ann McCarthy, a representative of Zamsky's Studio, will be at the college on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, Nov. 10-12; she will display samples of portraits and take orders in the Mendel Hall reception room on these days.

Seniors who have not as yet had their pictures taken should make arrangements with Miss McCarthy to have them taken as soon as possible. Any member of the senior class who does not have his picture taken and the proofs in the Belle Air office by Dec. 5 forfeits his right to be listed as a senior in the 1942 yearbook.

A Call To The Loyal

PITTSBURGH, HO!

Let this be the cry that resounds through the college this week. The Manhattan incident has passed; let it be buried. We have new laurels to seek, new fields to conquer. Let this clamor be the watchword for the future.

In other words, we lost a football game last week, and we have already forgotten the defeat in anticipation of another victory that can be ours, if . . .

The students of Villanova displayed fine spirit prior to the Baylor tussle. After that triumph, the temperament of the student body manifested itself beyond expectation in the number who journeyed to New York. As early as last week, we even heard several team-followers voicing intentions of witnessing the Duquesne fray. Now . . .

The answer can be summed up in one word, which begins with an "L." In the past, men of Villanova have been distinguished by that word because they exhibited the qualities synonymous with the term. They stood out because they let everyone know by physical action that they possessed it. No one can be persuaded that an individual is worthy of the characterization if there is no outward effort to prove the fact.

For the students this is a grand opportunity to demonstrate just how true they are to the traditions of the college. It is an ideal moment to shout for your team—In Pittsburgh.

—H. A. McC.

Hale, All Hale!

EDUCATION should make for a complete being. The moral and intellectual qualities are developed at Villanova, but the last and sometimes salient physical aspect is often forgotten by the students.

Villanova men have facilities which are not enjoyed by all college students in the Philadelphia area. Occasionally, intramurals and tournaments bring to the fore some of the local talent.

There is no reason why Villanova men shouldn't take full advantage of the billiard tables, bowling alleys, and swimming pool in the Field House.

The intramurals offer excellent opportunities for touch football, tennis, basketball, swimming, softball, baseball, and golf. The fact remains that these facilities are insufficiently used by the general student body.

Reasons are that students have classes, labs, and other work to do in the afternoon, the only time most of these particular sports are open for student participation. However, there are free periods in everyone's schedule in which these facilities can be used to advantage.

Remember, "Hale and Hearty" Americans are in demand!

—D. J. H.

VILLANOVAN
Issued twenty-five times a year from Villanova College, Villanova, Pa.

THOMAS H. DOYLE, JR., '42 ....Editor-in-Chief
ROBERT J. FUNABASHI, '42 ....Sports Editor
THOMAS F. DEVINE, '43 ....College Editor
WILLIAM E. SCHUBERT, '42 ....Managing Editor
THOMAS A. SULLIVAN, '42 ....Copy Editor
HOWARD A. McCALL, '42 ....Literary Editor
JOHN T. GALLAGHER, '42 ....Business Manager
ALBERT D'ALONZO, '42 ....Photography Editor
JOHN P. FULLAM, '42 ....Feature Editor
ROBERT F. DONOVAN, '42 ....Subscription Manager
BRUNO J. TALVACCHIA, '42 ....Exchange Editor
BERNARD C. CRUMB, ex-'42, Honorary Circulation Manager

Columnists
F. J. Clark, '42 D. N. Reardon, '42

Staff Writers
F. Bagot, '43; G. Belz, '42; E. Bennis, '43; H. Binder, '44; J. Bongiovanni, '43; R. Canfield, '43; S. Canning, '43; S. Caplan, '42; J. Coleman, '43; W. Craven, '43; L. DeSimone, '44; J. Dudley, '43; J. Earley, '42; L. Esposito, '43; W. Guncheon, Jr., '43; D. Haley, '42; J. Jakovic, '42; J. Mahoney, '43; J. Mauch, '43; J. McCabe, '42; R. McIntyre, '42; T. Muraski, '43; J. Nunemaker, '43; F. Reese, '43; T. Shallow, '42; C. Schaumann, '42; J. Tortoreto, '44; R. Young, '44.

Business Assistants
C. Callahan, '43 L. Jones, '43 E. Smith, '43
J. Walsh, '43

Circulation Assistants
J. Cerulo, '42 G. Fitzgerald, '42 E. Frank, '42
N. Eni, '43 J. Keays, '44 J. Monroe, '44

Photography Staff
R. Amicone, '43 L. Eni, '44 J. Sandonato, '42

Faculty Advisor—Rev. Edward B. McKee, O. S. A.

This paper is dedicated to one of the finest men that ever entered Villanova; scholar, athlete, gentleman — LEO GOODREAU

Subscription: $2.00 per year. Circulation: 3500.
Entered as second class matter at the Villanova Post Office December 27, 1928.

Member of Associated Collegiate Press; Distributor of Collegiate Digest.
Member of Catholic School Press Association, Catholic College Press Association, and National Scholastic Press Association.

Divided We Fall!

"UNITED We Stand!"

This phrase stands forth as a challenge to success. Cooperation, unity, and a definite purpose are mingled in that challenge. Delete any of these constituents and we destroy the value which the statement contains and thwart what it recognizes.

Today this is the adopted slogan of a nation on the verge of martial entanglement in a European conflict. Today it has been revived as an appeal for millions of American citizens to accept and follow administration dictates. Yesterday it served as a symbol in our Declaration of Independence, encouraging all to join the battle of the United States for freedom and the right to live in liberty and peace.

Now, this simple quotation is being distributed throughout the land on posters and placards of every description. It is serving a national interest and is confined to the support of a bellicose program.

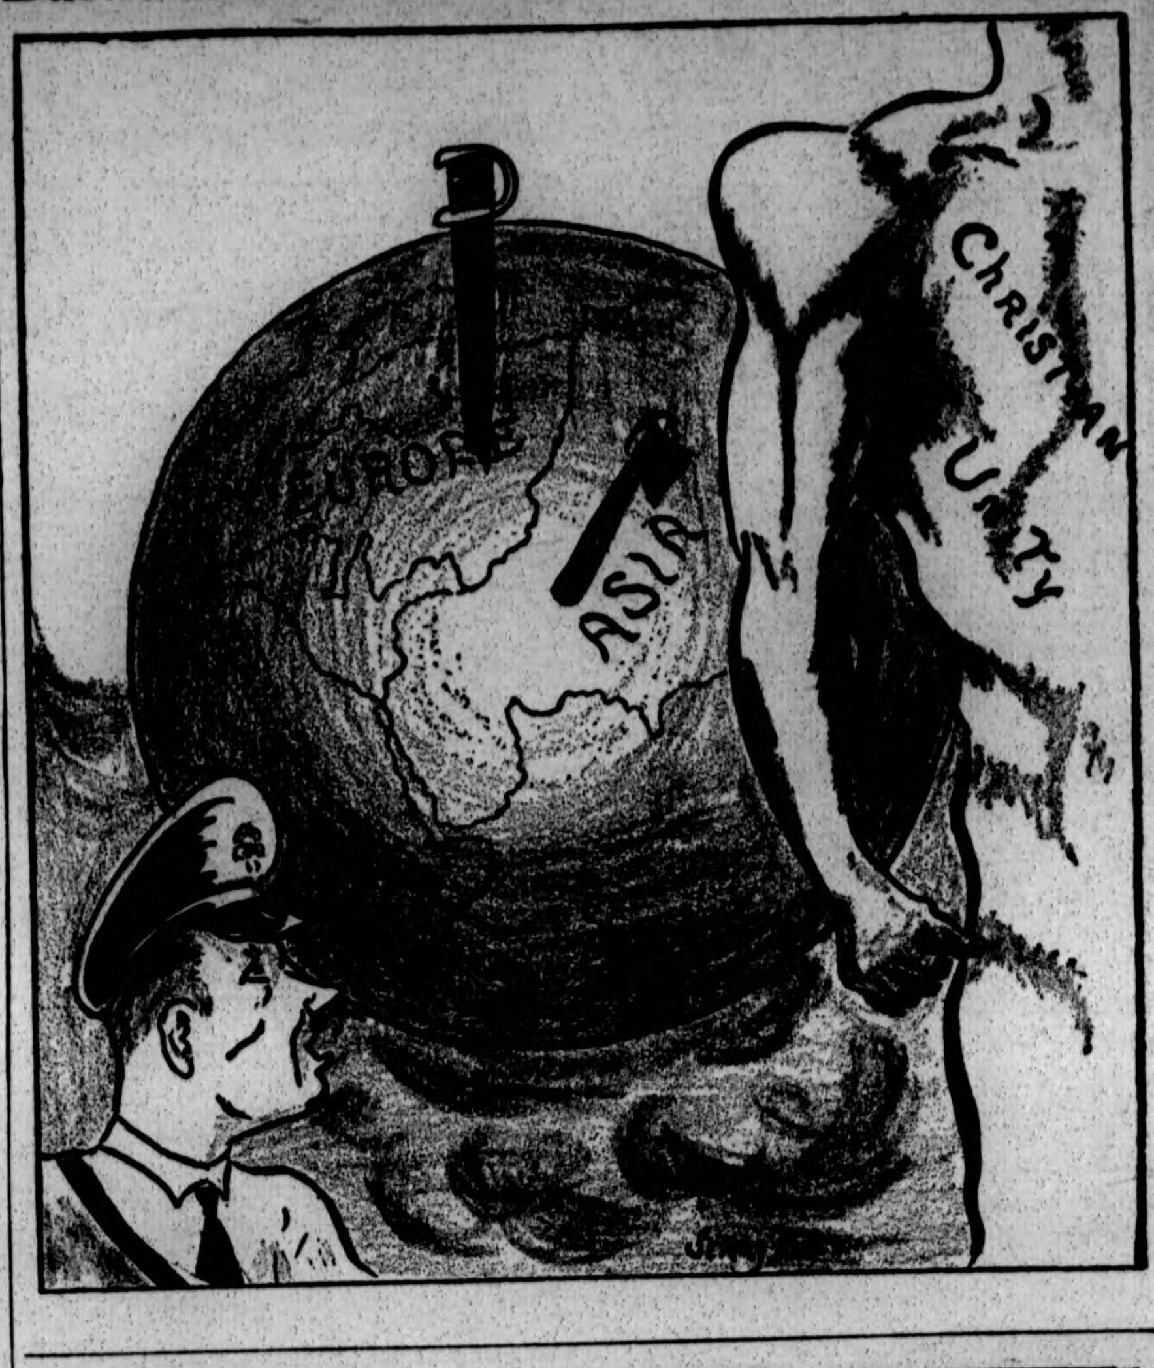
If it can be applied along these lines, what objection can be raised when it is made more extensive and ascribed as the model parlance for a less contentious interest? Can it not justly serve as an appeal for all God-fearing individuals to rally to the cause of Christ and His church? Should it be cast aside because it may be employed as a challenge to all oppressors of religion when waved on high in the hands of Christian peoples who have been persecuted for their acceptance and propagation of man's dependence on a Supreme Being?

With most influence can it be seized by the Christian, religious people of America as a warning to infidels, communists, and the godless philosophies of today that we are ridding ourselves of their pestilent creeds and derogatory haranguings. An active, national return to God is the remedy our nation need seek.

If the United States has an obligation to civilization in this crisis, we say that this is it: to instigate here a revival of Christian principles, to unite for the interest of religion throughout the world. Then, when our own apathy has turned to zeal, will we be best able to help the world in arranging a final, just peace.

—H. A. McC.

Bulwark Of Defense . . . . by BELZ



FACULTY COMMENTS

Quand Même!

By FR. GILDEA

IF the words at the head of these comments have attracted your attention, know that they are also being currently used for a similar, but wider, purpose, viz., to attract followers to the standard of the Free French forces.

The rallying cry of these latter, La France quand meme! (usually rendered in English, France Forever!), evinces the conviction of de Gaulle and his followers that their native land will eventually emerge from its present throes and resume a position consonant with its past glories.

It is no new thing for France to rise and evict an invader. Witness the time of Joan of Arc, when, strangely enough, it was the British who occupied the greater part of France.

Apart from our condemnation or approval of the steps taken by de Gaulle to effect another such resurgence, we cannot but admire the patriotism and fortitude which dictate them, the while we remind ourselves that on French soil itself, the same virtues and hopes still live.

Here, too, the reflection suggests itself that no less extant are the motives that have prompted in the past the study of the French language in institutions of learning.

There are those, it is true, who predict that French is on its way to becoming a dead language. He that as it may — but be it at the same time said that such an eventuality is far from likely — there would be in any case no more cause for abandoning the study of French than for forsaking the classical tongues, the study of which undeniably contributes to the formation of a cultured, balanced outlook.

Language, the Key

Whatever be the future fortune of the lanuage of France, there still remains the same fund of invaluable literary and scientific works, open to those possessed of the key —mastery of the masterful tongue in which they are written.

With the acquisition of this mastery should come a mental growth in the qualities that characterize the language itself—clarity, precision and discipline.

Of the need for these qualities in present-day thinking there can be little doubt. Too many fail to discern the falsity in windy-worded slogans. Too many are borne along on the tide of controlled newspaper talk and propaganda. Rare are they with their feet still on the ground in the face of the prevailing waves of unrest and uneasiness and the transient flux of prosperity.

Clear Thinking Needed

Yet it is with those who—quand meme, in spite of all—retain their sense of balance, their appreciation of the importance of intellectual pursuits that salvation rests for a power-ridden and bewildered world. Clear thinking, discerning evalution of principles and objectives, will alone see us through this clouded period of crisis.

Be it yours then to train yourselves to this end. This means facing with added seriousness the task at hand, however trivial or innocent-appearing — studying French, for example. Its importance in an era of mass production and colossal undertakings may not be appreciated. But as men of vision, give yourselves whole-heartedly to it quand meme!

Why Not Take A Walk? — It's Free

AUTUMN, the season of football games and beautiful landscapes, is at hand. And, although the football angle is sufficiently stressed in any number of ways, the beauties of nature are sometimes overlooked.

Villanova students have an unexcelled opportunity to appreciate nature's artistry. The view from Mendel Hall of the hill beyond the railroad station is in itself hard to surpass. And a short walk in almost any direction is certain to present to the eye truly glamorous panoramas.

One scene in particular is impressive. Walk down aptly-named Hilldale Road—past quiet homes, past flame-red dogwoods—to what might be called Villanova's "horseshoe curve." You will see there a scene which typifies the Villanova section.

To the right is the Main Line of the Pennsylvania Railroad, behind and to the left are Villanova homes. Gorgeously-colored woods stretch forth from the foot of the short hill, its peace undisturbed by freight trains roaring at full speed toward Philadelphia.

Slightly to the left and in the background a cornfield can be seen, with its scattered shocks of fodder. Farming, industry, suburban residences, and rolling, wooded hills—all in one beautiful picture.

Walk on around the "horseshoe." Barberry hedges, with their bright berries, and tall golden hickories complete the autumnal picture. Glance at the lowly, but beautiful, summacs which line the P. & W. tracks. Take a stroll over by the pond.

Everywhere you go, you will gain an appreciation of autumn which all the football games in the country cannot give.

—J. P. F.

Wildcat Whirl

By
Dave
Reardon

WITH heavy hearts and light heads, the student body returned to classes after leasing New York City for the weekend. Primary excuse for the heavy hearts was the surprising victory posted by an inspired Jasper eleven over a 'Cat team that failed to click. Following the game, the dazed Blue and White followers just about took over the G-A Club. The Biltmore and the Dixie also were headquarters for requiems.

It was surely a sad weekend that will never be forgotten. Many of the New York boys brought dates to the game, but the majority went stag. En route back, Frank Buckley and Tom McKimmey stopped off at Georgian Court to re-establish relationships with that fair institution which, we understand, are strained at present.

* * *

CAMPUS CRIES:

Joe Connor is still running around with Haddonfield's lovely blonde, Dolores Phillips, after a period of about a year. . . Jack Arnold recently had a quarrel with Jeanette. So the other day he went out to Immaculata's Campus Shop to see her. He included a pair of shin-guards in his attire, presumably for self-defense, the sissy. . . Al Freed also went with him for protection.

The real reason for the recent rise in the price of milk is that MOS COW is in a terribly bad way. . . . Sid Kaplan is thinking of having a sister ring made for Betty, his Media interest. . . In West Chester it is rumored that Jim Finnegan is to be the star of the coming court season. . . Last week Joe "Hurricane" Costa took Franny to the last game. Rumor has it that she is engaged to a Federal man. But strangely enough, Bill "Glamour Boy" Carey, ex-'42, also had a date with her very recently.

Charley Schaumann, who recently got the cold shoulder at Chestnut Hill, has turned his attentions toward Immaculata. . . Austin's inhabitants have adopted the fad of rolling their own cigarettes, in order to save money. . . "Chick" Peifer won fifteen dollars in defense stamps as a prize on a swing-quiz show last Sunday night.

* * *

A KISS:

The anatomical juxtaposition of two orbicularis oris muscles in a state of contraction.

* * *

KNOTTY KNOTES:

Friday P. M. will find many of the local swains in attendance at Immaculata's formal at the Bellevue; music is to be furnished by Russ Morgan. . . Carmen Clatteo, science senior, has left school to accept a position at the Sun Shipyard in Chester. . . A lovely lass who won the "Miss Ocean City, N. J.," title and participated in the "Miss America" beauty contest has been corresponding with Bill Walsh and Duke King. Better make up your mind, Bill. . . Bill McDonald, Notre Dame transfer, has a standing date every Wednesday night in Wynnewood.

Jim Hobbs went to a prom at Cedar Crest College in Allentown last Friday night. . . Jim Keays is in search of a guide to one of our local feminine collegiate lairs. . . John Hopkins, a grave-digger during the summer, is now digging his way into Rosemont.

Believe It or Not: Lou Silva experienced his first date when Pete Matioli and Tito Prieto took him to North Jersey and fixed him up. . . . That must have been some banquet at the "Old Lampost" the other Saturday night, according to the O'Dwyer dudes. . . Al Scott, bass drummer in the band, was interested in Eleanor from Immaculata, but he's found that someone else had a priority and now he's pursuing a "laissez-faire" policy. . . . Soph Joe Daly has been seeing Betty, a member of Rosemont's freshman class, pretty regularly. Last Wednesday afternoon he had a date with her, followed up by one that very night, interrupted only by his return to the campus to feed.

* * *

A PORCH SWING:

Happiness on hooks; a contrivance whereby love-making may be suspended, but by no means stopped, during the summer.

We're All Here For Knowledge, But "Who Gets Most From College?"

By JOHN P. FULLAM

"A 'snap course', a 'country club' where dumb-bells go
To get a degree, without having to know
Anything technical, anything tough.
—Two classes a day are more than enough."

Thus speaks that much over-burdened and weary
Studious creature, Ye Olde Engineere
About the curriculum, courses, and cares
Of his light-hearted Commerce and Finance confreres.

"The Artsman," quoth he, "is not quite so bad,
Though his lack of technical knowledge is sad.
He quite over-emphasizes culture and such,
But at least he's in Mendel, which helps very much."

"The Science Man? He has some basis for saying
That he's getting something for what he is paying.
The pretense his course is tough is most denounceable;
That, and the fact that the names aren't pronounceable."

C. & F.-man and Artsman, in fullest accord,
Think plenty, say little, and look very bored.
"The Engineer studies his engines and stuff,
But refinement and culture?—not nearly enough.

"Who cares about dynamos, gauges, and mines,
Pressure and tension, cosines and sines?"
Says the Artsman, "I'm here for spiritual growth,
Not just to build bridges, make money, or both."

"Well, yes," says the business man—hesitant, though—
"But it does help a lot to learn how to make dough.
Our course has a practical range that is wide,
And plenty of culture thrown in on the side."

The Pre-Med, in his draped white lab-coat resplendent,
Says, "On world conditions I'll not be dependent.
The Engineer, though with his slide rule he's quick,
Like everyone else, will surely get sick.

"And I, 20th Century F. Nightingale,
To help him, and soak him, (Ah, ha-a!) I'll not fail.
I'll struggle to rid this here world of disease,
And when I have done so—'Ten dollars, please!' "

But the Casual Observer does not note this strife,
This internal friction in all college life.
When he sees any sort of a seeker of knowledge,
He scornfully sneers, and says, "Lookit Joe College!"

Our parents, however, hit the head of the nail;
They pay no attention to this cynical wail.
"Villanova?—Good gracious, land sakes, of all things!—
I thought I could see the beginning of wings."

Tally Ho!

Observations On The War By The Collegiate Press And A Few Witty Stories

By Bruno Talvacchia

IN these days of propaganda and counter-propaganda, the collegiate press has resorted, in most cases, to a style of its own which, for want of a better word, we shall term "cross-propaganda." The reason for it is plainly seen. Our public is definitely war-minded and it is natural for students to air their views on current subjects.

The Loyolan, hailing from Los Angeles, relates the following story:

A plane with seven passengers, two Germans, two Frenchmen, two Englishmen and a Greek, was attempting to cross the Alps. However, due to the heaviness of the load, this was impossible. The pilot told the men the existing conditions and asked for two volunteers to lighten the load. The two Germans stood up, shouted "Heil Hitler," and leaped out.

The pilot tried again to cross the ranges of the Alps, and again he failed. He again asked for two volunteers.

The two Frenchmen stood up, shouted "Vive La France" and leaped out into space.

Again the pilot tried, and again he failed. This time he asked for one volunteer.

The two Englishmen stood up, shouted, "There'll always be an England," and threw the Greek out the window.

* * *

The Fordham Monthly questions our first line of defense:

Rings on our fingers;
One in our nose;
We follow England
Wherever she goes.

* * *

The locally-published Daily Pennsylvanian editorially demanded of our legislators a declaration of war against Germany, and the Temple News reprimanded it for its impatience, stating that our country has been in the war ever since the passage of the Lease-Lend Bill; an actual declaration will come whenever the congressmen see fit.

* * *

Times Change:

We are inclined to agree with the Dakota Scientist, which points out that children's tastes are altered as they grow. Little girls love brightly painted dolls and little boys are mad about soldiers. Lately little girls are mad about soldiers and the boys run after every painted doll they stumble upon!

* * *

Contributed:

Gather your kisses while you may,
For time brings only sorrow;
Girls whom you can kiss today
Are chaperones tomorrow!

* * *

All Out:

The Michigan State News relates a story of the psychology professor who entered the classroom and inquired:

"Is there anyone here who thinks I can read his mind?"

No response.

"Is there anyone here who thinks he can read my mind?"

The silenced continued. And then in desperation:

"Pardon me, but is there anyone here?"

* * *

Cracks in the Mirror:

A campus is a place that's very pretty until it's compulsory. This definition was found in the Mount Mirror of Mount St. Scholastical College, Atchison, Kansas.

In the same issue the girls define a "date" by the use of one word: "Cokes!"

* * *

Line Forms—Right:

The recent notice in the Pie Shop about the ten dollars found in an unidentified wallet brings to the surface a parallel happening at New York University. The Commerce Bulletin mentions the announcement in one of the school's more notorious undergraduate publications which requested: "Will the person who lost a gold wristwatch please line-up single file in front of the Ed-Building."

The medium of information was a column titled, "My Daze" (by a Republican, no doubt), which also publicized a new pin-ball machine. The machine, when tilted, displays the word "cheater" in bold red lights.

Meet The Boys:

Tom Is "The Shadow" In College Dress; Joe A Steady Music Success

By THOMAS P. McFARLAND

IT is the policy of this column to dissect, reportorially, the various luminaries of the senior class—two at a time. Being able to pair up two who are, in many respects, similar is certainly a convenience. This week's victims of our pen are two such men. Both are senior science students, both would-be surgeons, both very active in extra-curriculars, and both swell fellows. Meet Tom Sheehy and Joe Rozum.

The boys call Tom "The Shadow." With the battered chapeau he wears, his resemblance to the mythical crime-fighter is striking. A member of L. K. D. and the Student Council for three years, he was elected secretary-treasurer of the latter body this year. He was chairman of last year's Blazer committee, and his work on the Orientation Committee is well known.

The L. K. D. Dance Committee, recently appointed, numbers Tom among its members. In his Sophomore year, he was a member of the committee in charge of the Soph Cotillion.

Lives in Jersey

"The Shadow" is a Chicagoan by birth, and a Jerseyite by choice. A microscopic metropolis, called Teaneck, N. J., is his home town. He received his preliminary education at Bogota High School, from the New Jersey village of the same name. Norristown is his first choice in Pennsylvania towns—the reason not specified. "The Shadow knows—"

Sheehy has a pile of personality, a ready smile, and a touch of modesty that is enviable. Executively, he is cool-headed and efficient. Like all Villanovans, he dabbles in intramurals; he plays a good game of softball.

He lives at 110 Fedigan—the door is always open — and conducts Friday afternoon bull sessions for the cultural enlightenment and moral benefit of the sharpies at Fedigan. We broke up one of these affairs to interview Tom.

Stretched out on the "lower," he declined to comment on most things, modesty not allowing him to talk about himself. He had no information concerning his status under the Selective Service Act.

His room is well-kept and comfortable. "Sit down—cigarette?—go ahead, they're my room-mates—who, me?—it's hard to say—it's hard to say—it's hard to say—" What can you do but like a guy like that? Not that he hedges around questions: he answers the hard ones; he will praise everyone but himself.

Likes to Travel

On off days he makes a round trip to Norristown, just for the ride—(it says here). From the name on the picture, we gathered that her name is Dotty. Needless to remark, it is a very pretty picture. "It doesn't mean a thing. Don't listen to these guys around here. Just a diversion, etc., etc., etc."

As we left, he was getting ready for the New York trip. He is a loyal fan and numbers among his friends the entire team; in fact, the entire school. He's an earnest student, and a good one. His avocations are reading or helping some freshman with his English homework.

* * *

NOW for Rozum. Joe Rozum is essentially a musician, and no amateur. Last year he swung the baton over the heads of the Villanovans—swung it with such gusto that "Metronome" rated our college dance band as one of the best.

Summertime affiliations with some of the country's finest bands have added much to Joe's knowledge of the down-beat. He plays the saxophone and the clarinet, arranges the music, and leads this band we laughingly call "The Villanovans."

Rightly, it should play under the name of "Intercollegians." Almost every local college is represented in its list of members. Joe explains that, since these boys support Villanova on the football field, they are worthy of the name. Further, the Villanova men outnumber the others.

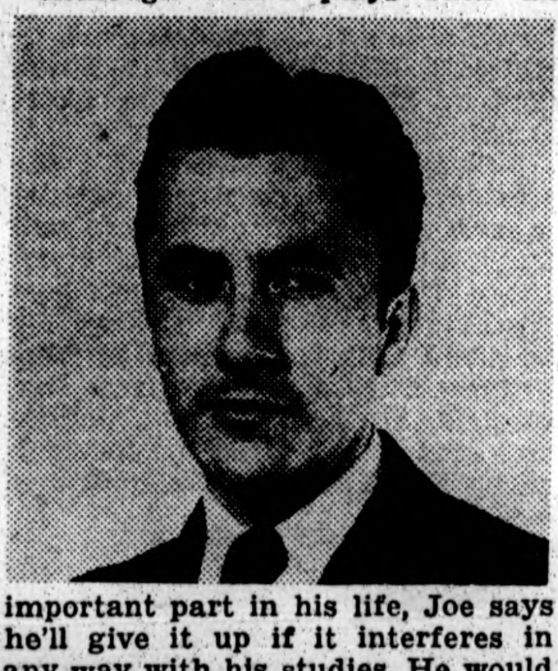
And then of course the vocalist is a Villanovan, but definitely! Joe was in a bit of a spot when last year's singer entered medical school, but a talent test brought to light red-headed Joe McEvoy, long a favorite of the Pie Shop connoisseurs of the finer things of life. Black-haired Joe then turned psychologist to calm red-headed Joe on the night of the Soph Cotillion.

A Longhair, Too

Quickly changing from hep-cat to long hair, he stabilizes the reed section of the Villanova-Rosemont Symphonic group with his clarinet. He is president of the Choral Society and chairman of the football band. As a member of the orchestra committee for last year's Junior Prom, he puts his knowledge of music to a practical purpose and was, in no small way, responsible for the ultimate success of that affair.

Roommate Ray Cacciatore goes through literal hell. He puts up with Joe's saxophone practise, and has been assigned the duty of getting Joe up for class in the morning.

"Tall blondes and golf" take up the time not given over to science or music. As a result, his golf is mediocre, and the "tall blondes"—well, you can't have everything. Joe is friendly and thoughtful.; he lives at O'Dwyer because his saxophone practise might annoy someone if he came up to civilization.



Although music plays such an important part in his life, Joe says he'll give it up if it interferes in any way with his studies. He would like to attend the University of Maryland medical college, but is waiting 'til he graduates to cross that bridge. He is near the top in his class, and has a definite talent for the biological sciences, it has been said.

Plays for Pay

Born, raised, and educated at Solatsbury, Pa., he came to Villanova from Maryland. He helps finance his education by playing in various professional bands over week-ends and during holiday periods, that is, if he's not with the Choral Society, the football band, the "Villanovans," or the symphonic group. Some of you probably know that he "played" the Conestoga Mill for three years. That's a long time to have one job.

Joe is an ideal advisor. How would you bet on next week's game? How does Prof. X mark? Who can I see to get an Annie Oakley? What's the best show in town? Where is Tommy Dorsey now? Keep them coming and Joe'll keep them answered. His answers, particularly to tough questions, have a studied ambiguity that show the brains this man possesses.

Keep Abreast Of Events

Tuesday, Oct. 28—
VILLANOVAN Staff Meeting	1:00 P.M.
International Relations Club	2:30 P.M.
Intramural Basketball:
C. & F. vs. Mendel ..	3:00 P.M.
Fedigan vs. Alumni ..	7:15 P.M.
Austin vs. Mendel D. S.	8:15 P.M.
Wednesday, Oct. 29—
Kappa Gamma Sigma ..	1:00 P.M.
Music Seminar	7:30 P.M.
Choral Society	7:30 P.M.
Thursday, Oct. 30—
Science Forum	10:45 A.M.
History Seminar	3:00 P.M.
Research Seminar	4:30 P.M.
Intramural Basketball:
C. & F. vs. Mendel D. S.	3:00 P.M.
Austin vs. Fedigans..	7:15 P.M.
Alumni vs. Mendel	8:15 P.M.
Saturday, Nov. 1—
All Saints' Day—No Classes.
Varsity Football—
Villanova vs. Duquesne—(at Pittsburgh)	2:00 P.M.
150-lb. Football—
Villanova vs. Yale—(at Villanova)	2:30 P.M.
Monday, Nov. 3—
Building Decoration Contest begins.
Beta Gamma	1:00 P.M.
Radio Club	2:30 P.M.

A Call To The Loyal

PITTSBURGH, HO!

Let this be the cry that resounds through the college this week. The Manhattan incident has passed; let it be buried. We have new laurels to seek, new fields to conquer. Let this clamor be the watchword for the future.

In other words, we lost a football game last week, and we have already forgotten the defeat in anticipation of another victory that can be ours, if . . .

The students of Villanova displayed fine spirit prior to the Baylor tussle. After that triumph, the temperament of the student body manifested itself beyond expectation in the number who journeyed to New York. As early as last week, we even heard several team-followers voicing intentions of witnessing the Duquesne fray. Now . . .

The answer can be summed up in one word, which begins with an "L." In the past, men of Villanova have been distinguished by that word because they exhibited the qualities synonymous with the term. They stood out because they let everyone know by physical action that they possessed it. No one can be persuaded that an individual is worthy of the characterization if there is no outward effort to prove the fact.

For the students this is a grand opportunity to demonstrate just how true they are to the traditions of the college. It is an ideal moment to shout for your team—In Pittsburgh.

—H. A. McC.

Hale, All Hale!

EDUCATION should make for a complete being. The moral and intellectual qualities are developed at Villanova, but the last and sometimes salient physical aspect is often forgotten by the students.

Villanova men have facilities which are not enjoyed by all college students in the Philadelphia area. Occasionally, intramurals and tournaments bring to the fore some of the local talent.

There is no reason why Villanova men shouldn't take full advantage of the billiard tables, bowling alleys, and swimming pool in the Field House.

The intramurals offer excellent opportunities for touch football, tennis, basketball, swimming, softball, baseball, and golf. The fact remains that these facilities are insufficiently used by the general student body.

Reasons are that students have classes, labs, and other work to do in the afternoon, the only time most of these particular sports are open for student participation. However, there are free periods in everyone's schedule in which these facilities can be used to advantage.

Remember, "Hale and Hearty" Americans are in demand!

—D. J. H.

VILLANOVAN

Issued twenty-five times a year from Villanova College, Villanova, Pa.

THOMAS H. DOYLE, JR., '42 . . . . Editor-in-Chief
ROBERT J. FUNABASHI, '42 . . . . Sports Editor
THOMAS F. DEVINE, '43 . . . . College Editor
WILLIAM E. SCHUBERT, '42 . . . . Managing Editor
THOMAS A. SULLIVAN, '42 . . . . Copy Editor
HOWARD A. McCALL, '42 . . . . Literary Editor
JOHN T. GALLAGHER, '42 . . . . Business Manager
ALBERT D'ALONZO, '42 . . . . Photography Editor
JOHN P. FULLAM, '42 . . . . Feature Editor
ROBERT F. DONOVAN, '42 . . . Subscription Manager
BRUNO J. TALVACCHIA, '42 . . . . Exchange Editor
BERNARD C. CRUMB, ex-'42,
Honorary Circulation Manager

Columnists
F. J. Clark, '42 D. N. Reardon, '42

Staff Writers
F. Bagot, '43; G. Belz, '42; E. Bennis, '43; H. Binder, '44; J. Bongiovanni, '43; R. Canfield, '43; S. Canning, '43; S. Caplan, '42; J. Coleman, '43; W. Craven, '43; L. DeSimone, '44; J. Dudley, '43; J. Earley, '42; L. Esposito, '43; W. Guncheon, Jr., '43; D. Haley, '42; J. Jakovic, '42; J. Mahoney, '43; J. Mauch, '43; J. McCabe, '42; R. McIntyre, '42; T. Muraski, '43; J. Nunemaker, '43; F. Reese, '43; T. Shallow, '42; C. Schaumann, '42; J. Tortoreto, '44; R. Young, '44.

Business Assistants
C. Callahan, '43 L. Jones, '43 E. Smith, '43
J. Walsh, '43

Circulation Assistants
J. Cerulo, '42 G. Fitzgerald, '42 E. Frank, '42
N. Eni, '43 J. Keays, '44 J. Monroe, '44

Photography Staff
R. Amicone, '43 L. Eni, '44 J. Sandonato, '42

Faculty Advisor—Rev. Edward B. McKee, O. S. A.

This paper is dedicated to one of the finest men that ever entered Villanova; scholar, athlete, gentleman —
LEO GOODREAU

Subscription: $2.00 per year. Circulation: 3500.
Entered as second class matter at the Villanova Post Office December 27, 1928.

Member of Associated Collegiate Press; Distributor of Collegiate Digest.
Member of Catholic School Press Association, Catholic College Press Association, and National Scholastic Press Association.

TUESDAY . . . . . . OCTOBER 28, 1941

Divided We Fall!

"UNITED We Stand!"

This phrase stands forth as a challenge to success. Cooperation, unity, and a definite purpose are mingled in that challenge. Delete any of these constituents and we destroy the value which the statement contains and thwart what it recognizes.

Today this is the adopted slogan of a nation on the verge of martial entanglement in a European conflict. Today it has been revived as an appeal for millions of American citizens to accept and follow administration dictates. Yesterday it served as a symbol in our Declaration of Independence, encouraging all to join the battle of the United States for freedom and the right to live in liberty and peace.

Now, this simple quotation is being distributed throughout the land on posters and placards of every description. It is serving a national interest and is confined to the support of a bellicose program.

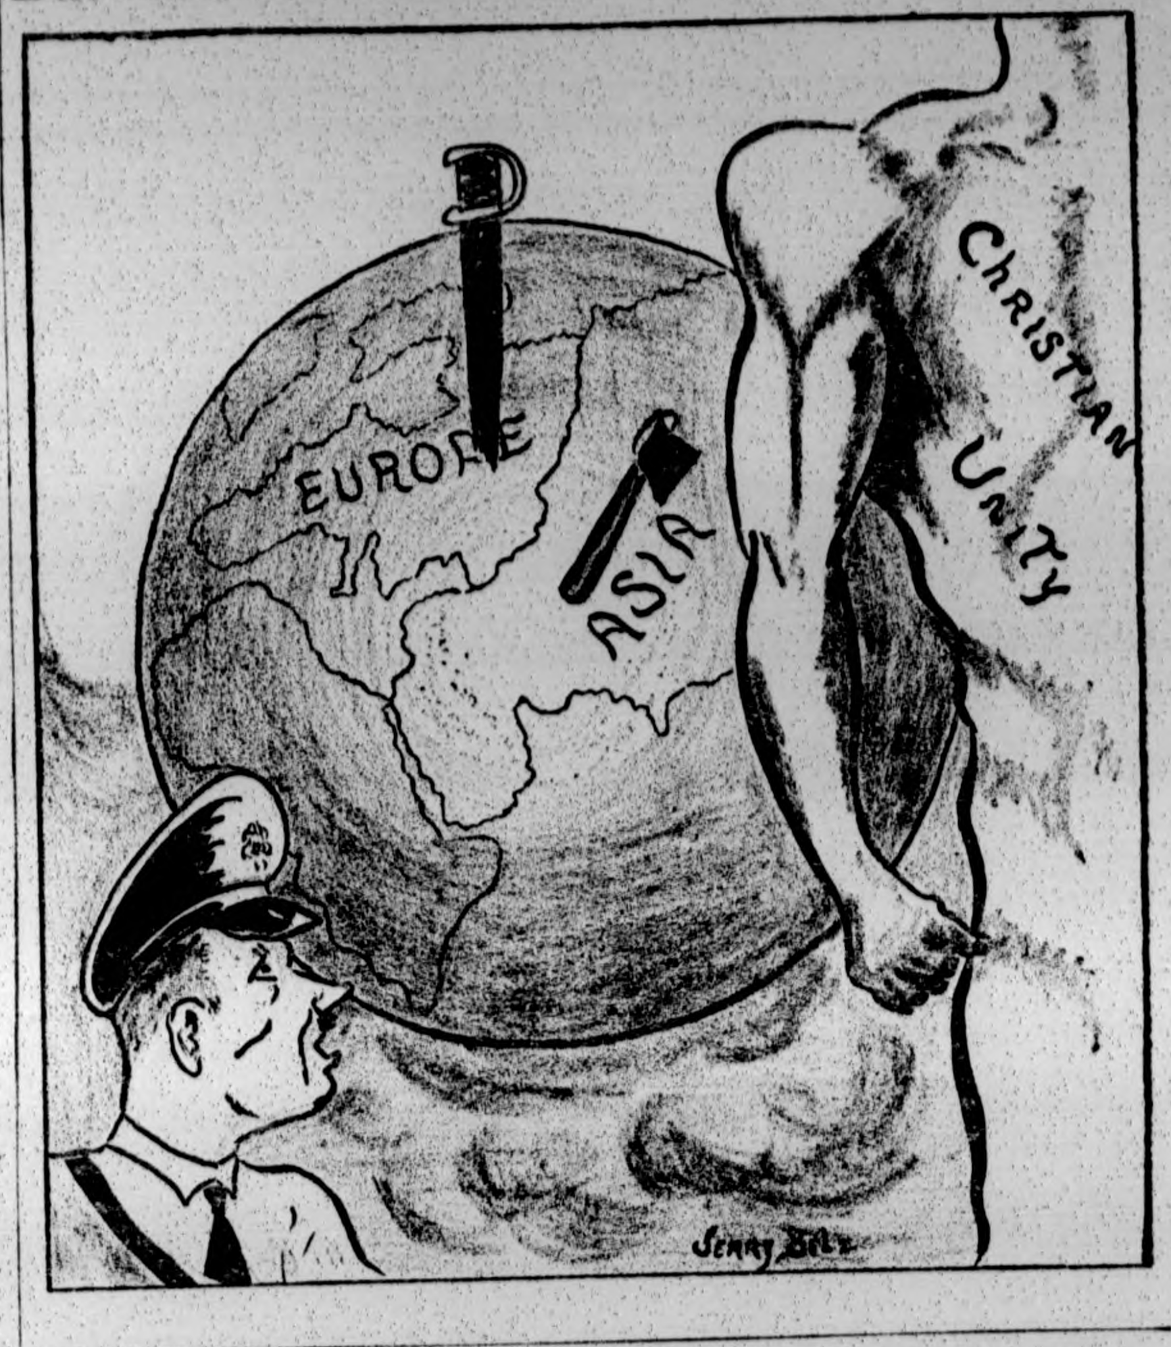
If it can be applied along these lines, what objection can be raised when it is made more extensive and ascribed as the model parlance for a less contentious interest? Can it not justly serve as an appeal for all God-fearing individuals to rally to the cause of Christ and His church? Should it be cast aside because it may be employed as a challenge to all oppressors of religion when waved on high in the hands of Christian peoples who have been persecuted for their acceptance and propagation of man's dependence on a Supreme Being?

With most influence can it be seized by the Christian, religious people of America as a warning to infidels, communists, and the godless philosophies of today that we are ridding ourselves of their pestilent creeds and derogatory haranguings. An active, national return to God is the remedy our nation need seek.

If the United States has an obligation to civilization in this crisis, we say that this is it: to instigate here a revival of Christian principles, to unite for the interest of religion throughout the world. Then, when our own apathy has turned to zeal, will we be best able to help the world in arranging a final, just peace.

—H. A. McC.

Bulwark Of Defense . . . . . . by BELZ



FACULTY COMMENTS

Quand Même!

By FR. GILDEA

IF the words at the head of these comments have attracted your attention, know that they are also being currently used for a similar, but wider, purpose, viz., to attract followers to the standard of the Free French forces.

The rallying cry of these latter, La France quand meme! (usually rendered in English, France Forever!), evinces the conviction of de Gaulle and his followers that their native land will eventually emerge from its present throes and resume a position consonant with its past glories.

It is no new thing for France to rise and evict an invader. Witness the time of Joan of Arc, when, strangely enough, it was the British who occupied the greater part of France.

Apart from our condemnation or approval of the steps taken by de Gaulle to effect another such resurgence, we cannot but admire the patriotism and fortitude which dictate them, the while we remind ourselves that on French soil itself, the same virtues and hopes still live.

Here, too, the reflection suggests itself that no less extant are the motives that have prompted in the past the study of the French language in institutions of learning.

There are those, it is true, who predict that French is on its way to becoming a dead language. He that as it may — but be it at the same time said that such an eventuality is far from likely — there would be in any case no more cause for abandoning the study of French than for forsaking the classical tongues, the study of which undeniably contributes to the formation of a cultured, balanced outlook.

Language, the Key

Whatever be the future fortune of the lanuage of France, there still remains the same fund of invaluable literary and scientific works, open to those possessed of the key —mastery of the masterful tongue in which they are written.

With the acquisition of this mastery should come a mental growth in the qualities that characterize the language itself—clarity, precision and discipline.

Of the need for these qualities in present-day thinking there can be little doubt. Too many fail to discern the falsity in windy-worded slogans. Too many are borne along on the tide of controlled newspaper talk and propaganda. Rare are they with their feet still on the ground in the face of the prevailing waves of unrest and uneasiness and the transient flux of prosperity.

Clear Thinking Needed

Yet it is with those who—quand meme, in spite of all—retain their sense of balance, their appreciation of the importance of intellectual pursuits that salvation rests for a power-ridden and bewildered world. Clear thinking, discerning evalution of principles and objectives, will alone see us through this clouded period of crisis.

Be it yours then to train yourselves to this end. This means facing with added seriousness the task at hand, however trivial or innocent-appearing — studying French, for example. Its importance in an era of mass production and colossal undertakings may not be appreciated. But as men of vision, give yourselves whole-heartedly to it quand meme!

Why Not Take A Walk? — It's Free

AUTUMN, the season of football games and beautiful landscapes, is at hand. And, although the football angle is sufficiently stressed in any number of ways, the beauties of nature are sometimes overlooked.

Villanova students have an unexcelled opportunity to appreciate nature's artistry. The view from Mendel Hall of the hill beyond the railroad station is in itself hard to surpass. And a short walk in almost any direction is certain to present to the eye truly glamorous panoramas

One scene in particular is impressive. Walk down aptly-named Hilldale Road—past quiet homes, past flame-red dogwoods—to what might be called Villanova's "horseshoe curve." You will see there a scene which typifies the Villanova section.

To the right is the Main Line of the Pennsylvania Railroad, behind and to the left are Villanova homes. Gorgeously-colored woods stretch forth from the foot of the short hill, its peace undisturbed by freight trains roaring at full speed toward Philadelphia.

Slightly to the left and in the background a cornfield can be seen, with its scattered shocks of fodder. Farming, industry, suburban residences, and rolling, wooded hills—all in one beautiful picture.

Walk on around the "horseshoe." Barberry hedges, with their bright berries, and tall golden hickories complete the autumnal picture. Glance at the lowly, but beautiful, summacs which line the P. & W. tracks. Take a stroll over by the pond.

Everywhere you go, you will gain an appreciation of autumn which all the football games in the country cannot give.

—J. P. F.

Wildcat Whirl

By
Dave
Reardon

WITH heavy hearts and light heads, the student body returned to classes after leasing New York City for the weekend. Primary excuse for the heavy hearts was the surprising victory posted by an inspired Jasper eleven over a 'Cat team that failed to click. Following the game, the dazed Blue and White followers just about took over the G-A Club. The Biltmore and the Dixie also were headquarters for requiems.

It was surely a sad weekend that will never be forgotten. Many of the New York boys brought dates to the game, but the majority went stag. En route back, Frank Buckley and Tom McKimmey stopped off at Georgian Court to re-establish relationships with that fair institution which, we understand, are strained at present.

* * *

CAMPUS CRIES:

Joe Connor is still running around with Haddonfield's lovely blonde, Dolores Phillips, after a period of about a year. . . Jack Arnold recently had a quarrel with Jeanette. So the other day he went out to Immaculata's Campus Shop to see her. He included a pair of shin-guards in his attire, presumably for self-defense, the sissy. . . Al Freed also went with him for protection.

The real reason for the recent rise in the price of milk is that MOS COW is in a terribly bad way. . . . Sid Kaplan is thinking of having a sister ring made for Betty, his Media interest. . . In West Chester it is rumored that Jim Finnegan is to be the star of the coming court season. . . Last week Joe "Hurricane" Costa took Franny to the last game. Rumor has it that she is engaged to a Federal man. But strangely enough, Bill "Glamour Boy" Carey, ex-'42, also had a date with her very recently.

Charley Schaumann, who recently got the cold shoulder at Chestnut Hill, has turned his attentions toward Immaculata. . . Austin's inhabitants have adopted the fad of rolling their own cigarettes, in order to save money. . . "Chick" Peifer won fifteen dollars in defense stamps as a prize on a swing-quiz show last Sunday night.

* * *

A KISS:

The anatomical juxtaposition of two orbicularis oris muscles in a state of contraction.

* * *

KNOTTY KNOTES:

Friday P. M. will find many of the local swains in attendance at Immaculata's formal at the Bellevue; music is to be furnished by Russ Morgan. . . Carmen Clatteo, science senior, has left school to accept a position at the Sun Shipyard in Chester. . . A lovely lass who won the "Miss Ocean City, N. J.," title and participated in the "Miss America" beauty contest has been corresponding with Bill Walsh and Duke King. Better make up your mind, Bill. . . Bill McDonald, Notre Dame transfer, has a standing date every Wednesday night in Wynnewood.

Jim Hobbs went to a prom at Cedar Crest College in Allentown last Friday night. . . Jim Keays is in search of a guide to one of our local feminine collegiate lairs. . . John Hopkins, a grave-digger during the summer, is now digging his way into Rosemont.

Believe It or Not: Lou Silva experienced his first date when Pete Matioli and Tito Prieto took him to North Jersey and fixed him up. . . . That must have been some banquet at the "Old Lampost" the other Saturday night, according to the O'Dwyer dudes. . . Al Scott, bass drummer in the band, was interested in Eleanor from Immaculata, but he's found that someone else had a priority and now he's pursuing a "laissez-faire" policy. . . . Soph Joe Daly has been seeing Betty, a member of Rosemont's freshman class, pretty regularly. Last Wednesday afternoon he had a date with her, followed up by one that very night, interrupted only by his return to the campus to feed.

* * *

A PORCH SWING:

Happiness on hooks; a contrivance whereby love-making may be suspended, but by no means stopped, during the summer.

We're All Here For Knowledge, But "Who Gets Most From College?"

By JOHN P. FULLAM

"A 'snap course', a 'country club' where dumb-bells go
To get a degree, without having to know
Anything technical, anything tough.
—Two classes a day are more than enough."

Thus speaks that much over-burdened and weary
Studious creature, Ye Olde Engineere
About the curriculum, courses, and cares
Of his light-hearted Commerce and Finance confreres.

"The Artsman," quoth he, "is not quite so bad,
Though his lack of technical knowledge is sad.
He quite over-emphasizes culture and such,
But at least he's in Mendel, which helps very much."

"The Science Man? He has some basis for saying
That he's getting something for what he is paying.
The pretense his course is tough is most denounceable;
That, and the fact that the names aren't pronounceable."

C. & F.-man and Artsman, in fullest accord,
Think plenty, say little, and look very bored.
"The Engineer studies his engines and stuff,
But refinement and culture?—not nearly enough.

"Who cares about dynamos, gauges, and mines,
Pressure and tension, cosines and sines?"
Says the Artsman, "I'm here for spiritual growth,
Not just to build bridges, make money, or both."

"Well, yes," says the business man—hesitant, though—
"But it does help a lot to learn how to make dough.
Our course has a practical range that is wide,
And plenty of culture thrown in on the side."

The Pre-Med, in his draped white lab-coat resplendent,
Says, "On world conditions I'll not be dependent
The Engineer, though with his slide rule he's quick,
Like everyone else, will surely get sick.

"And I, 20th Century F. Nightingale,
To help him, and soak him, (Ah, ha-a!) I'll not fail.
I'll struggle to rid this here world of disease,
And when I have done so—'Ten dollars, please!' "

But the Casual Observer does not note this strife,
This internal friction in all college life.
When he sees any sort of a seeker of knowledge,
He scornfully sneers, and says, "Lookit Joe College!"

Our parents, however, hit the head of the nail;
They pay no attention to this cynical wail.
"Villanova?—Good gracious, land sakes, of all things!—
I thought I could see the beginning of wings."

Tally Ho!

Observations On The War By The Collegiate Press And A Few Witty Stories

By Bruno Talvacchia

IN these days of propaganda and counter-propaganda, the collegiate press has resorted, in most cases, to a style of its own which, for want of a better word, we shall term "cross-propaganda." The reason for it is plainly seen. Our public is definitely war-minded and it is natural for students to air their views on current subjects.

The Loyolan, hailing from Los Angeles, relates the following story:

A plane with seven passengers, two Germans, two Frenchmen, two Englishmen and a Greek, was attempting to cross the Alps. However, due to the heaviness of the load, this was impossible. The pilot told the men the existing conditions and asked for two volunteers to lighten the load. The two Germans stood up, shouted "Heil Hitler," and leaped out.

The pilot tried again to cross the ranges of the Alps, and again he failed. He again asked for two volunteers.

The two Frenchmen stood up, shouted "Vive La France" and leaped out into space.

Again the pilot tried, and again he failed. This time he asked for one volunteer.

The two Englishmen stood up, shouted, "There'll always be an England," and threw the Greek out the window.

* * *

The Fordham Monthly questions our first line of defense:

Rings on our fingers;
One in our nose;
We follow England
Wherever she goes.

* * *

The locally-published Daily Pennsylvanian editorially demanded of our legislators a declaration of war against Germany, and the Temple News reprimanded it for its impatience, stating that our country has been in the war ever since the passage of the Lease-Lend Bill; an actual declaration will come whenever the congressmen see fit.

* * *

Times Change:

We are inclined to agree with the Dakota Scientist, which points out that children's tastes are altered as they grow. Little girls love brightly painted dolls and little boys are mad about soldiers. Lately little girls are mad about soldiers and the boys run after every painted doll they stumble upon!

* * *

Contributed:

Gather your kisses while you may,
For time brings only sorrow;
Girls whom you can kiss today
Are chaperones tomorrow!

* * *

All Out:

The Michigan State News relates a story of the psychology professor who entered the classroom and inquired:

"Is there anyone here who thinks I can read his mind?"

No response.

"Is there anyone here who thinks he can read my mind?"

The silenced continued. And then in desperation:

"Pardon me, but is there anyone here?"

* * *

Cracks in the Mirror:

A campus is a place that's very pretty until it's compulsory. This definition was found in the Mount Mirror of Mount St. Scholastical College, Atchison, Kansas.

In the same issue the girls define a "date" by the use of one word: "Cokes!"

* * *

Line Forms—Right:

The recent notice in the Pie Shop about the ten dollars found in an unidentified wallet brings to the surface a parallel happening at New York University. The Commerce Bulletin mentions the announcement in one of the school's more notorious undergraduate publications which requested: "Will the person who lost a gold wristwatch please line-up single file in front of the Ed-Building."

The medium of information was a column titled, "My Daze" (by a Republican, no doubt), which also publicized a new pin-ball machine. The machine, when tilted, displays the word "cheater" in bold red lights.

Meet The Boys:

Tom Is "The Shadow" In College Dress; Joe A Steady Music Success

By THOMAS P. McFARLAND

IT is the policy of this column to dissect, reportorially, the various luminaries of the senior class—two at a time. Being able to pair up two who are, in many respects, similar is certainly a convenience. This week's victims of our pen are two such men. Both are senior science students, both would-be surgeons, both very active in extra-curriculars, and both swell fellows. Meet Tom Sheehy and Joe Rozum.

The boys call Tom "The Shadow." With the battered chapeau he wears, his resemblance to the mythical crime-fighter is striking. A member of L. K. D. and the Student Council for three years, he was elected secretary-treasurer of the latter body this year. He was chairman of last year's Blazer committee, and his work on the Orientation Committee is well known.

The L. K. D. Dance Committee, recently appointed, numbers Tom among its members. In his Sophomore year, he was a member of the committee in charge of the Soph Cotillion.

Lives in Jersey

"The Shadow" is a Chicagoan by birth, and a Jerseyite by choice. A microscopic metropolis, called Teaneck, N. J., is his home town. He received his preliminary education at Bogota High School, from the New Jersey village of the same name. Norristown is his first choice in Pennsylvania towns—the reason not specified. "The Shadow knows—"

Sheehy has a pile of personality, a ready smile, and a touch of modesty that is enviable. Executively, he is cool-headed and efficient. Like all Villanovans, he dabbles in intramurals; he plays a good game of softball.

He lives at 110 Fedigan—the door is always open — and conducts Friday afternoon bull sessions for the cultural enlightenment and moral benefit of the sharpies at Fedigan. We broke up one of these affairs to interview Tom.

Stretched out on the "lower," he declined to comment on most things, modesty not allowing him to talk about himself. He had no information concerning his status under the Selective Service Act.

His room is well-kept and comfortable. "Sit down—cigarette?—go ahead, they're my room-mates—who, me?—it's hard to say—it's hard to say—it's hard to say—" What can you do but like a guy like that? Not that he hedges around questions: he answers the hard ones; he will praise everyone but himself.

Likes to Travel

On off days he makes a round trip to Norristown, just for the ride—(it says here). From the name on the picture, we gathered that her name is Dotty. Needless to remark, it is a very pretty picture. "It doesn't mean a thing. Don't listen to these guys around here. Just a diversion, etc., etc., etc."

As we left, he was getting ready for the New York trip. He is a loyal fan and numbers among his friends the entire team; in fact, the entire school. He's an earnest student, and a good one. His avocations are reading or helping some freshman with his English homework.

* * *

NOW for Rozum. Joe Rozum is essentially a musician, and no amateur. Last year he swung the baton over the heads of the Villanovans—swung it with such gusto that "Metronome" rated our college dance band as one of the best.

Summertime affiliations with some of the country's finest bands have added much to Joe's knowledge of the down-beat. He plays the saxophone and the clarinet, arranges the music, and leads this band we laughingly call "The Villanovans."

Rightly, it should play under the name of "Intercollegians." Almost every local college is represented in its list of members. Joe explains that, since these boys support Villanova on the football field, they are worthy of the name. Further, the Villanova men outnumber the others.

And then of course the vocalist is a Villanovan, but definitely! Joe was in a bit of a spot when last year's singer entered medical school, but a talent test brought to light red-headed Joe McEvoy, long a favorite of the Pie Shop connoisseurs of the finer things of life. Black-haired Joe then turned psychologist to calm red-headed Joe on the night of the Soph Cotillion.

A Longhair, Too

Quickly changing from hep-cat to long hair, he stabilizes the reed section of the Villanova-Rosemont Symphonic group with his clarinet. He is president of the Choral Society and chairman of the football band. As a member of the orchestra committee for last year's Junior Prom, he puts his knowledge of music to a practical purpose and was, in no small way, responsible for the ultimate success of that affair.

Roommate Ray Cacciatore goes through literal hell. He puts up with Joe's saxophone practise, and has been assigned the duty of getting Joe up for class in the morning.

"Tall blondes and golf" take up the time not given over to science or music. As a result, his golf is mediocre, and the "tall blondes"—well, you can't have everything. Joe is friendly and thoughtful.; he lives at O'Dwyer because his saxophone practise might annoy someone if he came up to civilization.

Although music plays such an important part in his life, Joe says he'll give it up if it interferes in any way with his studies. He would like to attend the University of Maryland medical college, but is waiting 'til he graduates to cross that bridge. He is near the top in his class, and has a definite talent for the biological sciences, it has been said.

Plays for Pay

Born, raised, and educated at Solatsbury, Pa., he came to Villanova from Maryland. He helps finance his education by playing in various professional bands over week-ends and during holiday periods, that is, if he's not with the Choral Society, the football band, the "Villanovans," or the symphonic group. Some of you probably know that he "played" the Conestoga Mill for three years. That's a long time to have one job.

Joe is an ideal advisor. How would you bet on next week's game? How does Prof. X mark? Who can I see to get an Annie Oakley? What's the best show in town? Where is Tommy Dorsey now? Keep them coming and Joe'll keep them answered. His answers, particularly to tough questions, have a studied ambiguity that show the brains this man possesses.

Keep Abreast Of Events

Tuesday, Oct. 28—
VILLANOVAN Staff Meeting	1:00 P.M.
International Relations Club	2:30 P.M.
Intramural Basketball:
C. & F. vs. Mendel . .	3:00 P.M.
Fedigan vs. Alumni . .	7:15 P.M.
Austin vs. Mendel D. S.	8:15 P.M.
Wednesday, Oct. 29—
Kappa Gamma Sigma . .	1:00 P.M.
Music Seminar	7:30 P.M.
Choral Society	7:30 P.M.
Thursday, Oct. 30—
Science Forum	10:45 A.M.
History Seminar	3:00 P.M.
Research Seminar	4:30 P.M.
Intramural Basketball:
C. & F. vs. Mendel D. S.	3:00 P.M.
Austin vs. Fedigans . .	7:15 P.M.
Alumni vs. Mendel	8:15 P.M.
Saturday, Nov. 1—
All Saints' Day—No Classes.
Varsity Football—
Villanova vs. Duquesne—(at Pittsburgh)	2:00 P.M.
150-lb. Football—
Villanova vs. Yale—(at Villanova)	2:30 P.M.
Monday, Nov. 3—
Building Decoration Contest begins.
Beta Gamma	1:00 P.M.
Radio Club	2:30 P.M.

Defense Training Enrolls 340 Men

Over 200 Take Elementary Course, Others Register for Junior Program

Thus far, 340 students have enrolled in Villanova's national defense classes conducted on the campus and at two Philadelphia high schools, according to J. Stanley Morehouse, Dean of the Engineering School.

Of this total, 105 students are attending classes on the campus, and 235 are being taught at West Catholic and Northeast Catholic Boys' High Schools. Altogether, 201 are enrolled in the elementary engineering course, while the others, who completed the six-month elementary program in August, are taking the junior engineering course.

No Tuition Fee

The purpose of these schools is to offer men an opportunity to qualify for more important positions. The courses are tuition-free, authorized by the U. S. Office of Education, and are conducted four nights each week. Anyone employed in defense industries, or seeking such employment, may attend if properly qualified; although the courses carry no college credit, certificates will be issued to all those successfully completing the 24-week course.

Those who have a high school education or equivalent experience can register for the elementary course, but admission to the junior engineering course requires previous completion of the elementary program or equivalent experience.

Subjects Listed

The elementary course offers instruction in engineering mathematics, physics, and drafting, and the junior course is concerned with strength of materials, applied mechanics, materials of engineering and laboratory, and advanced drafting.

The various subjects are taught by regular members of the engineering faculty, supplemented by practicing engineers employed in defense work. All these men recently completed the five-week teacher-training program conducted by the college.

Within the next few weeks, another defense training center will be opened at the Cooper Hatch Junior High School, Camden, N. J., for the benefit of the New York Shipbuilding Co. employees. Subjects to be taught at this school include basic heat power engineering, marine power plant calculations, and marine heating and air conditioning.

"Blood Heredity"

Bongiovanni Will Discuss Methods of Typing Fluid, Its Transmission Before Research Seminar

"Heredity of Blood Types" will be the subject of John J. Bongiovanni's talk at a meeting of the Research Seminar to be held in Simpson Hall at 4:30 P. M. this Thursday.

The paper will include methods of typing blood and will explain how these types are transmitted to the offspring by parents. This topic is hoped to be of special interest since the use of prepared blood serum in the present European conflict is considered one of the major advances made by medicine during the past several years.

The seminar, under the direction of Rev. James A. Donnellon, O. S. A., meets weekly to discuss problems concerning various phases of science.

At the last meeting, chairman J. Eugene Nelson spoke on the electron miscroscope and the important part it will play in the realms of medicine in the seeking out of infinitesimal bacteria which ordinarily escape the scientist's eye.

Press Apostolate Adds Pamphlet Rack

Last Thursday the Catholic Press Apostolate added another oaken rack of pamphlets to those already in use in the rear of the college chapel.

The rack formerly situated there was removed for use elsewhere on the campus, leaving two twin racks in the chapel. With the new addition, there are now a total of seven racks in use on the campus.

Rev. Edward B. McKee, O. S. A., moderator of the Press Apostolate, has announced that the pamphlets now available in the racks are not only very helpful in a spiritual way but will be of assistance to students in the religion courses.

Fr. McKee particularly recommends for the freshmen a set of pamphlets by Fr. Tracy, S. J., which presents a simple, straightforward discussion of the Commandments. The pamphlets on the Sacraments by Fr. Connell should also be of interest to the frosh, who study this matter during the second semester, he said.

Betten's pamphlet on the Catholic Index is recommended by Fr. McKee as being as fine a presentation of the subject as can be found. The study of the Index is a part of the junior course.

Pamphlets on mixed marriage by Rev. Edward V. Stanford, O. S. A., president of the college, will be of interest to the seniors.

Stories Of The School — I

1928 Fire Wiped Out Hall

By JOHN P. FULLAM

Few periods in Villanova's history were more critical than the year 1928, when most of the college was completely destroyed in one stroke. No period in Villanova's history brings out more clearly the fortitude and ability of the men responsible for the college administration.

The college's great fire of Jan. 29, 1928, could not have been more dramatic than it was. Snow had been falling for almost two days and the drifts lent an atmosphere of peace and beauty to a quiet Sunday evening. The weather was intensely cold. It was six in the evening and the students were in the dining hall. Suddenly a student dashed in, shouting, "Fire, Fire!"

Students Seek Refuge

Dinners were forgotten. The students, to a man, rushed outside; they saw ugly, black smoke pouring from the fourth floor windows of College Hall—the main building now known as Mendel Hall.

Immediately, the place was a hive of activity. An alarm was turned in. Several students who were ill were carried out. Those who lived in the building tried desperately to rescue valuables.

Fire engines began to arrive — first from Bryn Mawr, then from other nearby towns, and finally from Philadelphia.

Then, with a heart-rending crash, the roof caved in and the building's doom was sealed.

The firemen were hampered by the deep drifts and by freezing water mains. Although they tried valiantly, they could do little except to keep the fire from spreading to the adjacent Monastery. Many of them had their hands frozen holding the bitter, cold hose-nozzles.

Valuables Saved

When it was perceived that the Monastery was in danger, long lines of students and priests filed in and out, carrying its priceless objects to safety.

Hundreds of spectators viewed the blaze and trains were filled with additional seekers of excitement.

Students who resided in College Hall were in sorry plight; trunks and suitcases were everywhere, piled up in the snow. Some students spent the night at the homes of friends in Philadelphia and some were offered shelter by kind-hearted residents of the vicinity. Rosemont College very considerately provided homes for fifty students.

Huge Financial Loss

The next morning found most of Villanova a mass of charred ruins, the damage totaling $2,000,000. The entire building west of the Monastery had been destroyed—records, labs, shops, everything.

Classes were discontinued for a week; during that time, priests and scholastics vacated the Monastery and St. Rita's Hall to make room for classes. Temporary laboratories were set up in both basements and in the gymnasium.

The school year limped to a finish; but it was a spirited limp. And within one year, two new buildings, Fedigan Hall and Mendel Hall, had replaced the one which was destroyed.

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the first of a series of stories on Outstanding Events in Villanova's History.

Mathematicians Plan Three Term Sessions

During the first semester, three meetings of the Mathematics Club will be held, according to plans made by the officers of that organization last Thursday.

The first of these sessions will be held around the middle of November, and a committee, which has yet to receive official approval, has been selected to make arrangements for the discussions and entertainment at the various meetings.

It is planned to have papers pertaining to theoretical and applied mathematics assigned and read at the meetings. Following the readings, members will participate in a general discussion. Refreshments will be served to conclude each gathering.

The club plans to hold a banquet at the end of each semester. At the end of the year, certificates will be awarded to all members; gold keys will be presented to those who have contributed most to the club's work.

College Invited To Catechetical Congress Nov. 15; Will Be Largest Catholic Meeting In Penna. History

Participation of the Catholic College student in the work of the Confraternity of Christian Doctrine will be considered at several special sessions when that body opens its Seventh Annual Catechetical Congress in the Bellevue-Stratford on Nov. 15 and remains in session until the 18th.

A large representation of Villanova students is expected to be present at these meetings relating to their particular problems. On Monday night, Nov. 17, Very Rev. Joseph A. Hickey, O. S. A., Assistant General of the Augustinian Order of English-Speaking Nations and former president of Villanova, will deliver a paper in conjunction with the college section, on the part that Catholic colleges can and should play in the training of students for lay leadership.

College Sessions

First of the college sessions will be held in the Rose Room of the Bellevue-Stratford at 8:00 P. M. Saturday, Nov. 15. Topics to be discussed at that time are: "How the National Federation of Catholic College Students Promotes Study of the Confraternity," by Rev. Vincent Mooney, C. S .C., Director, Youth Department, National Catholic Welfare Conference; "The Catholic College Student and Religious Vacation Schools," by Miss Julia M. Sheridan, Ph. B., Executive Secretary, Providence.

"The Catholic College Student (Female) and School Year Religious Instruction," by Miss Gertrude M. Stevenson, a senior at Immaculata College; and "The Catholic College Student (Male) and School Year Religious Instruction," by Rev. Richard M. McKeon, S. J., Dean of Studies, St. Joseph's College.

Responsibility Topic

Another session, to take place in the same room of the hotel at 10:00 A. M. Monday, Nov. 17, will concern itself with "The Catholic College Responsibility in Developing Lay Leaders," to be discussed by Sister M. Madeleva, C. S. C., President of St. Mary's College, Notre Dame.

Following Sister Madeleva's discussion, eight one-minute activity reports will be made by students from St. Mary's College, Notre Dame University, Trinity College, Washington, D. C., College of Chestnut Hill, represented by Miss Frances Durkin, a senior from Bergenfield, N. J., Rosemont College, and Immaculata College, represented by Miss Dorothy McCandless, a senior.

Graduates Meet

At 3:30 P. M. Monday in the North Garden of the Bellevue-Stratford, a session for Catholic College Graduates will meet. Rev. Francis J. Furey, D. D., President of Immaculata College, will talk on the subject of "The Confraternity of Christian Doctrine."

Other topics will be "The College Commission on the Confraternity," by Sister M. Angela, S. N. D., Dean, Trinity College, Washington, D. C.; and "The Place of the College Graduate in the Parish Confraternity," by a nun from Marywood College, Scranton, Pa. W. J. McDermott, Ph. D., of Philadelphia, also will speak.

The question of the Catholic student in secular colleges will be analyzed at 8:00 P. M. Monday in the Rose Garden of the hotel. "The Work of the Newman Club Chaplain," will be considered by Rev. William Daley, Chaplain, New England Province; "The Catholic Student in Secular Colleges," by Rev. Clair J. Berry, Assistant Chaplain, Michigan State University; and "Religious Instruction Through a Weekly Bulletin," by Rev. Lawrence F. Schott, Chaplain, Newman Club, Carlisle, Pa.

Hierarchy to Attend

When the Congress convenes, Philadelphia will witness one of the greatest Catholic Conventions ever held in this city or state. Approximately 13 Archbishops, 42 Bishops, and thousands of priests, nuns, brothers, and laymen from each of the 110 Dioceses of the Catholic Church in the United States are scheduled to attend the more than 60 sessions of the Congress which will take place in the Bellevue-Stratford, John W. Hallahan and Little Flower Catholic High Schools for Girls, Convention Hall and Town Hall.

More than 20 altars will be erected in the Bellevue-Stratford to provide facilities for the celebration of daily mass by each of the visiting members of the hierachy and priests.

Mass in Convention Hall

Dennis Cardinal Dougherty, Archbishop of Phila., will celebrate Solemn Pontifical Mass at 10:30 A. M. Sunday, Nov. 16, in Convention Hall. It is estimated that more than 15,000 will be present. This will be the first time that the Holy Sacrifice of the Mass ever was offered in that vast Municipal Auditorium. Most Rev. Amleto Giovanni, Apostolic Delegate to the United States, who will preach the sermon, will be making his first public address in this city.

The celebration of Solemn Pontifical Mass by His Eminence will be the first of three events to be held in Convention Hall that day. In the afternoon, more than 20,000 Catholic high school students will assemble, and again in the evening a capacity crowd of adults will meet to hear Rt. Rev. Monsignor Fulton J. Sheen, professor of philosophy at Catholic University, deliver the main address.

Rev. Dr. James A. Boylan, D. D., will direct the choir of St. Charles Borromeo Seminary, Overbrook, in singing the responses of the Mass. The combined orchestras of the girls' Catholic high schools will give a concert in the afternoon.

Tid-Bits Of Campus News

Very Rev. Edward V. Stanford, O. S. A, president of the college, spoke at a meeting of the Villanova Alumni Club of Pittsburgh in that city last Thursday evening.

On Friday night, representing the College Presidents of Pennsylvania, Fr. Stanford made an address at a convocation and dinner held at Allegheny College in honor of William Pearson Tolley, upon the latter's completion of ten years service as president of that institution.

The International Relations Club will hold its first formal meeting of the school year this afternoon in Simpson Hall at 2:30 P. M. This time has been definitely established for all future meetings of the club.

Today's meeting will be primarily concerned with a discussion of the program to be presented at the I. R. C. convention scheduled by Lehigh College in November. Rev. Wm. J. Lunney, O. S. A., moderator, indicated that he will make some general comments on the program and designate particular topics to be studied at future meetings.

Interested students are requested to attend today's meeting, as membership will be restricted.

Over 140 students have already been enrolled in the Blue Cross hospitalization plan, the Business Office announced today.

The final date for the first payment due under the plan has been set for Friday, Oct. 31. All students desiring to register are urged to report to the Business Office as soon as possible, as no applications will be accepted after this date.

Special student rate for the plan is $7.50 a school year. This may be divided into two payments of $3.75 made at the beginning of each semester.

Kappa Gamma Sigma, the physics club of the science school, will hold its second meeting of the year tomorrow afternoon at 1:00 in room 210, Mendel Hall.

Members of the local branch of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers attended the A. I. E. E. Convention last Friday and Saturday, Oct. 24 and 25, at the University of Maryland. The meeting was held on Friday evening and inspection trips were made on Saturday morning.

The moderator of the society, Harry S. Bueche, accompanied the group, which visited several places of interest in Washington and turned to Villanova late Saturday evening.

Seminar Finds Nazis Guilty

History Group Calls Germany Responsible for War, Studies Justification

"Historical Responsivility," an examination of the factors involved in the outbreak of World War II, was the principal subject treated by the History Seminar at the first discussion of the year, held last Thursday in Simpson Hall.

Early in the discussion, the members decided that a distinction should be made between responsibility and justification. Although it was agreed that Germany was factually responsible for the outbreak of hostilities, the seminar held that the question of justification should be considered more thoroughly. No decision on Germany's justification was reached.

"The Nazi party is a product, at least in part, of seeds sown by the rigid political system of the post-War period, enforced by the Allies, who refused to grant concessions to the conquered nations in the face of new and changing conditions," the group agreed.

Under the direction of Dr. Harold F. Hartman, moderator, the group traced the development of post-War Germany after 1918 and attached special significance to this period as the procreator of the modern German dictatorship.

According to the interpretation of the seminar, the deep sense of humiliation resulting from the so-called "war guilt," combined with a critical economic depression, served to produce a serious dissatisfaction among the German people.

Revolutionary spirit was the natural result of this restlessness and public opinion, especially in influential circles, soon crystallized to the point where "the Germans were ready to welcome with open arms anyone who could restore their shamed and broken country to its former place among the nations of the world.

"The time was ripe for an usurpation of power and the National Socialist Party, quick to recognize the situation, circulated propaganda giving the most exaggerated promises of prosperity and power for Germany."

Cleverly designed to appeal to the frustrated hopes of even the least nationalistic German, "the platform achieved popular support in certain quarters and the new regime swept into power."

Discussion of the topic stimulated so much student interest that the group decided to continue consideration of the fundamental factors causing World War II at their next meeting, scheduled for this Thursday at 3:00 P. M. in Simpson Hall.

Local Chapter Likes ASME Proposal Of Convention Series

A proposal made by the Junior Branch of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers in Philadelphia that a series of conventions be held at which representatives of the junior branch would meet with the student chapters of the local colleges has been met with the Villanova student chapter's approval.

As yet, however, nothing definite has been settled in regard to the plan. If the proposal does materialize, each assembly will take place at a different college.

Purpose of the plan is to give the future engineers an insight into the part they will play in industry, and to introduce them to the junior branch, which they will be eligible to join upon graduation.

The junior organization was formed to afford the young engineers just entering industry contacts that will contribute to their success.

Members of the Villanova chapter plan to hold a smoker on the evening of Nov. 17, when they will play host to the college chapters in this section, along with the officers and program committee chairman of the Philadelphia Junior group.

BROOKLINE COUNTRY CLUB
Dancing Every Thursday to America's Top Name Bands
Thursday, Oct. 30 - 9 to 1
TONY PASTOR
In Person, and His Orchestra
Admission: $1.00 plus tax
Phone: Hilltop 1600

Defense Helps Manhattan Bump Villanova, 9 to 6

Jaspers' Inspiring Play Knocks 'Cats Out of Unbeaten Class; Victory Is First Since 1900

By BOB FUNABASHI
Sports Editor

It happened Friday night! Manhattan's unpredictable but valiant squad just about blew the Wildcats out of the Polo Grounds as they toppled the undefeated Villanovans out of the select class, 9-6.

Two scores in the second period, a 28-yard touchdown gallop by Charlie McNulty and a safety against halfback Al Postus, set the high-flying Jaspers in a happy delirium for the remaining quarters as they checked any Villanova winning-touchdowns.

But it took the Kelley Green squad just about 41 years to put over that decisive victory and make Villanova an also-ran team for 1941. Beforehand this season, the 'Cats had swept through three straight opponents, bowling them down in good fashion, but Friday night in the cool atmosphere of the Polo Grounds, Villanova failed to get the jump and the heads-up play of Coach Herb Kopf's eleven easily put a stop to Villanova's desperation passes.

'Cats Outrushed

Manhattan's dogged defense combined with Villanova's poor passing and running attack proved too much for digestion, thus the 'Cats took their unexpected licking. Supposedly a good ground team, the Wildcats met a reverse and the Jaspers outrushed their favored opponents. In addition, Manhattan proved superior in the airways, both offensively and defensively, and it was mostly the latter which baffled the 'Cats. Three interceptions at the all-important times by the Jasper secondary knocked the spunk out of Villanova's offensive.

The most astonishing bit of Manhattan's surprises came in the second period when they got possession of the ball and then Frank Kiesecker, an expert kicker, kicked out of bounds on the 8-yard line. Deep in their own territory, Villanova's Postus attempted to run the ball upfield but his motions carried him towards his own goal line and two Manhattan chargers brought him down for a safety.

Reverse Is Fooling

Joe Pezelski, the scat-back who ran wild all night mainly through his own efforts, made a fatal mistake when he fumbled a punt in the same quarter. Immediately two

MANHATTAN GAME
Continued on Page Six

Sportorial

By JACK COLEMAN
Guest Columnist

UPSETS were the rule rather than the exception last weekend, with the West Coast being hardest hit. Oregon, Oregon State, and Santa Clara ran up against unexpected opposition from U. C. L. A., Washington State, and Oklahoma. As a result the two Oregon teams were practically eliminated from the Pacific Coast Conference title, while Santa Clara was knocked from the unbeaten list.

Other teams feeling the sting of "upset" were Villanova, Detroit, Clemson, and Navy. Arkansas put a crimp in Detroit's style with a last-minute, eighteen-yard field goal to win, 9 to 6.

Clemson and South Carolina played their annual game at the South Carolina State Fair. Neither team has anything to do with the scheduling of this game, as the State Legislature passes a law each year providing for the game. Clemson, the favorite, was turned over 18 to 6.

Navy, touted as the best team in the East, was upset but not beaten by a scrappy Harvard club. The score was 0 to 0.

—V—

Let's not get too disappointed with our own club. First of all, we have to admit that they underrated Manhattan which was bad for Villanova is Manhattan's oldest rival. And secondly, the boys played as best they knew when they found that the opposition was stronger than expected. Their tackling was a bit shady at times and their inability to advance the ball other

SPORTORIAL
Continued on Page Seven

VILLANOVAN SPORTS

Captain Phil Ahwesh, triple threat star for Duquesne, leads his team against the Wildcats Saturday. Phil served a term at fullback and is now at the left halfback post. He is on the pitching end of the "Duke's" passing attack.

Undersized 'Cats Stress Defense

Capable Subs Necessary to Carry Team Through Tough Schedule

By JACK DUDLEY

Villanova's basketball team will depend on speed, deception, and a fine execution of fundamental play when they begin their season early in December.

Al was quite a happy man until a few weeks ago. He had the best part of an experienced varsity returning, plus last year's Frosh, considered the best in the history of the school.

The team would have been modeled after last years' quintet. Given plenty height under the basket, the Blue sharpshooters could have chanced many shots from the outer court, with the odds favoring Villanova's retention of the ball in the event they didn't connect for two points.

Center Is Worry

Much to his dismay, Al learned that Art Spector and Ted Rapella, representing about thirteen feet of centers between them, had withdrawn from school. With that news, his plans went up in smoke. Left without a single big man on his squad, he had to discard some of the wide open play that would have been used and concentrate on plays that will best keep the ball in the possession of the Wildcats.

In addition to the lack of height is the question of weight. Last year Chuck Yund and Spector were over two hundred pounds and Paul Nugent was 175. Boys like that were able to absorb a lot of punishment and yet last an entire game. This year's squad will probably be outweighed in every contest. A situation like that will call for a number of capable substitutes to keep the 'Cats in the game.

'Cats to Work the Ball

Villanova's rooters may look for lower scoring this season than in the past. Early practice sessions have concentrated on bolstering the

VARSITY BASKETBALL
Continued on Page Six

Desmond Is Awarded High Point Crown

Word was received here last week that Frank Desmond, '43, had won the National Amateur High Point Championship. This award is given annually by the National Amateur Outboard Championship Committee and is awarded to the outstanding amateur of the season.

Desmond in his boat, "Drastic Stuff," led all the racers this past summer in points compiled for amateurs, and also won the coveted Intercollegiate trophy for the second year in a row. In addition to that title he also took several other championships on various courses.

Detroit Bounced From Charmed Circle

Looking over our future opponents, we find that only two of the three previously undefeated teams were able to hold on to that noteworthy distinction. Duquesne and Temple each scored impressive triumphs over their opposition. Temple whipped little Bucknell 41-14, while the "Dukes" romped over the favored Marquette 31-13. Detroit was the victim of an eyebrow raising upset in the final seconds of play by Arkansas. A last minute field goal made the score 9-6.

Improved 150's Shaded By Cornell

Playing in a heavy, driving rain, under skies so dark as to necessitate the use of klieg-lights, a vastly improved Villanova 150-lb. eleven bowed to defeat at the hands of Cornell last Friday.

The first half was a pitched battle of line plays, the slippery ball and the uncertain footing prohibiting the wide use of passes. The two teams bantered up and down the field, neither team taking the edge. Then, with scarcely two minutes remaining in the second quarter, Cornell marched, on a series of downs, from the 50-yard stripe to Villanova's 10. Fighting against time, they tried four successive line plays, all of which fell short of the double line. Villanova took possession of the ball as the gun ended the half.

The second half was much the same story, with Villanova's captain, Phillips, Mezowski, guard; Kazior and Menseck ends, playing a beautiful game.

Ithacans Get Break

Cornell's linemen were well-trained and more than a few times stopped Villanova dead. The "Big Red's" defensive backs were brainy and hard to handle. So the two teams fought, back and forth and back again. When the clock showed six minutes to go, Villanova passed . Finneran, the Cornell left halfback, grabbed the slimy ball out of the air and raced to the blue-and-white 18-yard line. Two line plays were unsuccessful. Then, on third down, Zimmerman, the fullback, plunged and whirled across the border into pay dirt. The try for extra-point went awry, and the score remained 6-0 to the end of the game.

Villanova		Cornell
Kazior	LE	Nobis
Carbin	LT	Katz
DiBenditto	LG	Bonser
Marchese	C	Seeley
Coval	RG	Greer
Phillips	RT	Buxbaum
Menseck	RE	Arniboldi
Sykes	QB	Ludwig
Cahill	LHB	Finneran
McManus	RHB	Rosenstein
Donovan	FB	Zimmerman

Villanova Gridders On Rebound; Engage Duquesne In Pittsburgh

Duquesne to Field Their Most Experienced Team in Recent Years; Smokey City Champs Have Lost Only Once in Their Last Twenty-Two Starts

Hoping for a change of fortune on the gridiron, Villanova will travel to Pittsburgh this Saturday to meet Duquesne. District Champions for the past two seasons, the Dukes again rate as the outstanding team of that city.

When Aldo "Buff" Donelli handed the coaching reins to his assistant, Steve Sinko, this Fall in order to coach the Pittsburgh "Steelers," he also handed over the most experienced and battle-hardened squad ni the Duke's history. Returning this season were thirty-one men. Among the twenty-one lettermen are seventeen seniors.

Dukes Experienced

These seventeen seniors have played on Red and Blue teams which in the past two years have compiled a record of 15 victories, one defeat, and one tie. This record, couped with their five wins of the present campaign, gives the Dukes a dangerous reputation.

This year Duquesne is not following the old "A and B unit" system that paid off so well in the past few seasons. Steve Sinko is "putting all his eggs in one basket." This plan gives the Hilltoppers one of the strongest first teams in the country.

Coach Sinko will field a starting team composed of nine seniors and two juniors. The latter two are guard Ben Keller and tackle Johnny Matisi, who were in most of the Dukes' games last year. Their respective running mates are Tom Corbo and Al De Lucia, a 212 pounder.

John Rokisky and Joe Squires, both 6' 1", and weighing 190 pounds, will occupy the flanks. They will be remembered for their pass snatching in Shibe Park last season.

Demao at Center

At center is six-foot, 210-pound Al Demao, a fixture for the past two seasons. This boy rates with the best, and is supposed to have a banner year this season. Red and Blue grade are comparing him with the great Mike Basrak, the Dukes' All-American center of a few seasons back. Demao is a demon on defense.

Sinko has a wealth of backfield material, but the fixtures seem to be Pechtel at quarter, Ahwesh and Semes at halfback posts, and "Jitterbug" Johnny Binnotte in the fullback slot. Phil Ahwesh, a triple threat back, and the best passer on the squad, has Joe Chadonic and Mayo Donelli, youngest member of

DUQUESNE GAME
Continued on Page Seven

Duquesne Tickets

An official spokesman of the Villanova Athletic Association announced yesterday that tickets for the Duquesne game would not go on sale at the school unless there is a special trip to Pittsburgh. Tickets will be purchased at the gate in Pittsburgh. The prices were not known.

In the event the student interest in a mass migration to Pittsburgh takes a rise in the ensuing days, arrangements may be made to cover transportation to and from the game at special rates.

Blocking "Duke"

JOE SETCAVAGE

Austin Wins And Takes Loop Lead

Firemen Meet Second Place Mendel Day-Hops This Week

By SAM CANNING

After another week of gruelling contests, Austin Hall remains the only unbeaten team in the Intra-Mural League with four straight victories. The Firemen found a tight struggle on their hands when they engaged "The Green Wave" from Alumni and were lucky to come out with a 26-19 victory. An added attraction in the much-publicized game was the standing feud between Fr. Dunne and Fr. McKee, "The Grand Old Men," of the Intramurals, who settle their differences on the basis of the results of their basketball team's prowess. Joe Daly and Pete Hin paced the Austinites to victory after a nip and tuck first half which ended in favor of Austin, 13-11. The Greenies' mainstay was O'Donnell, who was high with 10 points.

Mendel Frosh Losers

The Firemen's second game of the week was a soft touch for the more experienced team over the Mendel freshmen. The frosh put up a tough struggle for the most part, trailing 14-6 at the half, but were overcome in the final minutes as the upperclassmen poured it on and won out, 49-33. Joe Daly set the scoring mark for the year with 16 points while Simmons, playing his usual good game for the Mendelites, tallied 10 points to keep the Residents in the game.

Although the Mendel day-hops won both their games and moved into second place they lost a great asset to the team through the injury of Ray Amicone. Ray has been the spark plug of the day-hops for two years and now that the Mendel lads have finally produced a real contender for the championship, Ray will have to watch from the side lines for sometime.

In taking over second place, the day-hops scored an easy victory over the Mendel Residents holding them to 6 points in the first half while they were scoring 23. Curreri and Traitz hit the cords for 23 points between them as the commuters went on to win, 42-20.

Fedigan Drops

Meeting their first real test, Fr. Sullivan's day-hops, managed a 24-22 triumph in the final minutes of play to drop the Fedigan Gigoloes to third place with two wins against two set-backs. Taking a 13-9 lead at half time, Mendel scored point for point all the way as Fedigan tried desperately to drop that one basket needed to tie up the game. It was anyone's game right down to the final whistle but Mendel was one basket too good for the men of Fedigan.

C. & F. Wins One

The C. & F. Day students finally broke into the win column this week when they downed Alumni, 35-25. Joe Nunan starred for the Business Men with 10 points which

INTRAMURAL
Continued on Page Six

Frosh Squad Face Temple

Villanova's undefeated freshman team now approach their annual classic with the yearlings of Temple U. The kickoff is scheduled for 8:30 P. M., this Thursday night, at the Owls' stadium. Feeling will run high this year because last year's Blue and White Frosh completely vanquished the Owls.

"Doc" Jacobs' club has shown plenty of power in the line and a great deal of speed in the backfield. At left end is Charley Darcy who has shown a lot of improvement. At the other end post is Marcum. The right halfback post is in the hands of Sycher, a promising passer and kicker.

In their last game the Frosh were held to a scoreless tie by a powerful Bordentown Military Institute. Since this game, the Kittens have been working diligently improving their offensive game. Lately they have been learning the plays of the varsity's opponents.

In The Eyes Of Our Forecasters

Teams	Smith	Aisenbrey	McNally	Haughton	Jacobs	Funabashi	Whelan	Doyle	Clark	Consensus
Army										N. D.
Notre Dame	N. D.	N. D.	N. D.	N. D.	N. D.	N. D.	N. D.	N. D.	N. D.	9-0
Boston C.										T
Temple	T	T	T	T	T	T	T	T	T	9-0
Colgate	C	C			C		C		C	C
Holy Cross			H	H		H		H		5-4
Detroit	D	D	D	D	D	D	D	D	D	D
Manhattan										9-0
Duquesne										V
Villanova	V	V	V	V		V	V	V	V	8-0
Iowa	Io.				Io.	Io.			Io.	In.
Indiana		In.	In.	In.			In.	In.		5-4
Penn	P				P	P		P	P	P
Navy		N	N	N			N			5-4
Princeton										H
Harvard	H	H	H	H	H	H	H	H	H	9-0
S. M. U.	S	S	S		S		S			S
Texas				T		T		T	T	5-4
Yale	Y			Y	Y	Y	Y		Y	Y
Brown		B	B					B		6-3
U. C. L. A.										C
California	C	C	C	C	C	C	C	C	C	9.0
Baylor	B	B	B		B		B	B	T	B
T. C. U.				T		T				6-3
Wins	26	23	24	25	24	21	24	17	22
Losses	11	14	13	11	10	16	13	20	15

Varsity Basketball

Continued From Page Five

defense. In order not to run the risk of chance of continually losing the ball in tussles under the baskets, the team will have to forsake some of its long shots. This is unfortunate for such boys as Dick Gray, Bob Kelty, and "Reds" Klotz, who have shown that they can drop them in from the outside. It means, however, a better passing attack to work the ball in for lay-up shots will result.

It is understood that the schedule for the coming season lists several powerful clubs, each overshadowing the 'Cats in height and weight, and each presenting a different form of attack to be solved. It is evident that this year's team has a rocky road all along the roster of games.

As Coach Severance states, "A spirit that is not to be denied permeates the team. Like many small Villanova teams of the past, this one may yet overcome the bad breaks and come through with flying colors."

Intramural

Continued From Page Five

was the margin of victory. It looked for a while as though the Greenies were going to overtake the Commerce team but the day-hops were over-due for a victory and staved off all threats with brilliant defense and sparkling offense.

One of the closest and hardest fought games of the week was that between Fedigan Hall and C. & F. in which the Residents won over the Commuters by a 1 point margin of 27-26. Moore, Clark and Pajolek steadied the Gigoloes with their sharp-shooting and accurate passing. The Fedigan boys were behind at half time by two points, 12-10 but steadily drew close and finally passed the Finance Students who couldn't get that one basket to win.

The big game of the coming week will be between undefeated Austin and second place Mendel day-hops.

Manhattan Game

Continued From Page Five

passes from Ed Finkoski, one to Don Binder and the other to Johnny Feske brought the ball to the two-yard line with first down. But the 'Cat line rose in defiance and threw back the Jaspers and held on downs. Joe Yednock went back and kicked out on the 28.

Just a moment after, the unexpected turn took place. It seemed that the 'Cats were safe, but McNulty on a fooling reverse play skirted the left side from the 28 and outran the secondary to go over for a touchdown. The conversion by Jim Worst was good and Manhattan led, 9-0.

Villanova tried their all-out efforts at the start of the second half and netted but one touchdown. Pezelski's good running and Postus's pass brought the ball to the two-yard line and there Zig Zamlynski bucked over for the only score.

Fumbles and the three intercepted passes marred any more chances of Villanova scoring and thus the game ended with the happy Manhattan rooters swarming the field to praise their players.

Duquesne's Bid For All-American

Al Demao, the backbone of the Duquesne forward wall for the last two seasons is being touted as "All American" material this year. He is at his best when the pressure is on, reminding one of the great Mike Basrak, "Duke" center of former years.

The
BRYN MAWR
TRUST COMPANY
BRYN MAWR, PENNA.
●
Every Banking Facility
●
Member Federal Deposit
Insurance Corp.

Gordon Nick
Linen Supply Co.
1612 to 1620 North 11th St.
Philadelphia, Pa.

Men's Clothes
Made-to-Measure
COLEBY
Tailoring
Inc.
57th & MARKET STS.
Suits & Topcoats
$27.75
See Steve Aisenbrey
110 Fedigan Hall

●
This Space
Reserved for
Sun Cleaners and
Dyers
●

"Meet Me Friday Night"
at
Spread Eagle Inn
Garden Restaurant
on Lancaster Pike
Strafford, Pa.

HART & HALL, Inc.
Insurance
825 LANCASTER AVE.
Bryn Mawr, Pa.

THE WILSON
LAUNDRY CO.
of Bryn Mawr
Always the Friend of
Villanova Students
10% discount to students for "cash and carry" work.
No charge for replacing buttons or making minor repairs.
An American institution owned, operated by and employing Americans.

George Fein & Co.
Printer & Publishers
2116 to 2130 Arch St.
PHILADELPHIA, PA.
RITtenhouse 6983

DOLLY MADISON ICE CREAM
"Deliciously Different"
PHILA. DAIRY PRODUCTS CO.
4th & Poplar Sts., Phila., Pa.

The taste
that charms
and never cloys
Pause... Go refreshed
Coca-Cola
5¢

You trust its quality
You'll welcome ice-cold Coca-Cola just as often and as surely as thirst comes. You taste its quality, the quality of genuine goodness. Ice-cold Coca-Cola gives you the taste that charms and never cloys. You get the feel of complete refreshment, buoyant refreshment. Thirst asks nothing more.
BOTTLED UNDER AUTHORITY OF THE COCA-COLA COMPANY BY
THE PHILADELPHIA COCA-COLA BOTTLING CO.

Ed Kasky Tumbles Opponents But Saves Lives During Summer

By BILL WALSH

Those who saw the Manhattan game in New York last Friday night, saw a big fellow wearing number "57," doing yeoman work out there for the Wildcats, from his tackle position. Whether on the offense or defense, this fellow was always in there. Yes, Ed Kasky played a whale of a game for Villanova Friday night, as he has been playing great games for the past three seasons. As a result of his splendid play in the Centre, Florida, and Baylor games he was unanimously chosen by his teammates to captain the Wildcats against the Jaspers.

Hailing from Glen Cove, Long Island, he certainly didn't disappoint his home-town followers in the Manhattan game. In fact, I doubt if there was anyone from Glen Cove in the stands who wasn't proud of his hero that night.

Kicking Specialist

Not only is Ed a tower of strength of the forward wall, but he also does all the kicking-off and the point after touchdown conversions. His toe is, indeed, a great asset to the team, especially in adding those all-important points after touchdowns. Ed has now reached the stage where he misses very few of these vital factors in the attack of a good well-balanced team.

Perhaps mention should be made here concerning the reason why Ed is such a good place-kicker. At Glen Cove High School he was coached by one of Villanova's greatest backs, Charley McGuckin. Charley, a great place-kicker in his own right, used to coach Ed along these lines every day until finally it got to the stage where Ed could trim him handily in their weekly contests. Thus, one of Villanova's greatest backs gave Villanova one of its greatest tackles and place-kickers.

Ed also swam on the Freshman and Varsity swimming teams in his first two years at the Main Line Institution, but had to give it up because football took up too much of his time. He has had quite a bit of activity in the water during the last three summers, however, as he was a life-guard at Sunken Meadows State Park, in Long Island.

He is quite a discus-thrower, too, having starred in this event during the past two seasons on the track team.

Previous to the Belle Air Ball last year, Ed had never attended a dance here at school, but after being persuaded by his roommate, Tony Anderson, to invade the social world, Ed has not missed a dance since.

Upon entering the room of these two football stars, one usually finds them arguing over their pet football theories. These discussions are hot and heavy at times with the honors being about even.

A major in Pre-Law, Ed is undecided as to what his future will be, but is a little inclined towards coaching football.

Sportorial

Continued From Page Five

than with the forward pass was very noticeable.

—V—

The much-improved 150's received the most cordial treatment that they can remember, while up at Cornell. The "Big Red" officials did everything in their power to make things satisfactory for the 'Cats. Villanova thanks you, Cornell!

Elliott Finds "Cosmic Stride"

Not to be outdone by such sport greats as Lou Nova, Frankie Kovacs, and more locally, our own punting star Joe Yednock, "Jumbo" Elliott, coach of the Villanova track team, states that his sophomore sprint star, George Guida, has now perfected a "Cosmic Stride." Elated over the showing of the sprinter during the cross-country trials of the past few weeks, Elliott claims that his protege has developed a coordination between his arm movement and his stride that will place George up among the East's better sprinters. Timing and stride are closely studied by the coach and he believes the sprinter has developed both in a phenominal manner.

Guida Lead Freshmen

Last year, as a freshman, Guida sparked the "Kitten" team to many victories, being high scorer for the season. His specialty was the 100-yard dash and also the 220-yard dash. He registered 9.9 in the 100 on two occasions last year. It is now expected that George will give Johnny DiCarlo a battle for the lead-off spot on the one-mile relay team which will make its indoor debut about the first of the year.

In informal intra-squad meetings last week, Karl Oerth, "Freshman Phantom" and "Dixie" Dunbar engaged in some heated duels with the boys splitting even at one victory apiece. Oerth, whose time improves with every race, looms as the best cross-country prospect Coach Elliott has had in many years. Also impressive was the performance of Johnny McCarthy, former St. Thomas More luminary. "The Flying Dutchman" as he has been tabbed by his mates, was a very valuable member of last year's Frosh team, and this year hopes to devote his time to the half-mile run.

Duquesne Game

Continued From Page Five

the famous Donelli clan, as understudies. Semes has the capable George Gonda who played against the Wildcats last year.

Series Even

Villanova has encountered Duquesne twice before in their football rivalry. The first game, in 1922, was won by the Wildcats, 10-0. Last year, with the 'Cats leading 10 to 7 in the closing minutes of the game, Duquesne scored on one of the trickiest plays seen all season to win 14-10.

Villanova has two incentives to win as it enters this game. Last year, the Wildcats saw a well-earned victory slip through their hands as dusk was writing a finish to that story.

HERE AND THERE

By FRED CLARK

PHILADELPHIA football fans have been placed in a very peculiar and also a very pleasant position by the week-end activities of the "Big Three" of the local gridiron circuit—Villanova, Temple, and Pennsylvania. The local fandom has become the envy of collegiate football followers throughout the nation, for what other city can boast of three college teams which have achieved such high national ratings.

After victories over Baylor, Penn State, and Princeton, the Wildcats, Owls, and Quakers all found themselves nestling among the first twenty leaders in the country and the first five in the East.

Although Villanova suffered a setback last Friday night, all three of Philadelphia's representatives still demand the respect of all sports observers.

One thing that bodes evil for the Quaker City teams is the fact that the toughest part of their schedules have yet to be played. This holds true for all three, but more so for Villanova and Penn than for Temple.

The Quakers must face the number one team in the east when they tangle with Navy this Saturday, and one of the two must lose ground in the race for national supremacy. Provided that Penn does hurdle the Annapolis threat in stride, Columbia, Army, and Cornell still have to be contended with. Cornell's reconstruction program, caused by the loss of a majority of the first-stringers from last season's powerful Big Red team, has been bearing fruit lately. By the time late November rolls around the Ithacans should be capable of giving the Pennsylvanians another battle like last year's 22 to 20 affair which found Penn on the long end of the score and brought the Ivy League Championship to the Philadelphia campus.

Dukes On Rampage

While Villanova will not be called upon to meet a bigger or a tougher team than the vanquished Baylor Bears, still the fact remains that there is not a breather among the four games remaining on the schedule. At the time of this writing Duquesne is the proud possessor of a prolonged winning streak which stretches over a period of two seasons and will very likely give the Wildcats more than a few anxious moments in Pittsburgh this week-end.

After the Dukes come Temple, Detroit and Auburn in that order. A two dollar parlay bet on these three teams would have netted you a tidy sum last year when this trio emerged victorious over a more or less docile Wildcat. The Temple contest should be the best in a series of exciting and hard-fought battles, but more on that later.

Detroit and Auburn annually point for their games with the Main Liners and as usual they will go all out in their efforts to tame the Wildcat this year. It is our personal opinion that year in and year out the Titans from the Motor City present the stiffest opposition of any team on the schedule and are one of the most under-rated squads in the country.

Owls Shooting High

The main obstacle in Temple's path toward a successful and possibly an unbeaten season is our own Villanova eleven. The other teams which Tomasic and Co. will face are Boston College, Michigan State, and Holy Cross. Last year the mere mention of either Boston College or Holy Cross would send shivers down an opponent's spine, but not so this year. These two former New England grid leaders are on the lower end of the football cycle which sooner or later catches up with the top-notchers and knocks them down with the rest of the boys.

From this corner it appears that the Villanova-Temple shindig on the afternoon of November 8 will have a great effect on how lofty a rating the Owls will reach in the national standings. If the 'Cats can climb back into the select circle by then, why mister, just watch the fur fly in Temple Stadium that day!

The Lamp Post Inn
Luncheon and Dinners
Strafford, Pa.

KEEP SUPPLIED WITH
SCHOOL TICKETS
GOOD ON BUSES AND RAIL CARS UNTIL USED
5c a Ride, including Special Free Transfers. Obtain Identification Cards at School Office.
RED ARROW LINES
Philadelphia Suburban Transportation Co.
Aronimink Transportation Co.

Loren Murchison
& Co., Inc.
Jeweler
for Standard College
Rings
Fraternity Pins
Keys & Medals
JUNIORS: Place your orders with Gene Smith at Fedigan Hall

IT'S TRUE!
Clothes Made To Your Measure
At Our Regular $38.50 Price
If you are hard to fit (or think you are); if you have some pet ideas of your own about clothes, our Individual Cutting Section will gladly tailor Suits, Outercoats or Formal Wear to your individual measure at no extra cost whatsoever. Just a part of Roger Kent service!
ROGER KENT
Suits, Outercoats and Formal Wear for Men at the one $38.50 price
NEW YORK
40 Broadway · 321 Broadway · 12 West 33rd St.
15 East 45th St. · 225 West 57th St.
NEW HAVEN 1058 Chapel St.
CAMBRIDGE Lampoon Bldg.
PHILADELPHIA 1607 Walnut St.
© R.K.

At Our Local Cinema

ARDMORE
THEATRE
Tues., Wed. & Thurs.
"WHISTLING IN THE DARK"
RED SKELTON
ANN RUTHERFORD
Fri. & Sat.
"THE STARS LOOK DOWN"
MICHAEL REDGRAVE
MARGARET LOCKWOOD
Sunday
"THREE SONS O' GUNS"
WAYNE MORRIS
MARJORIE RAMBEAU

Direction Warner Bros.
TOWER
69th & MARKET STS.
Fri., Oct. 31 for 1 Week
BOB HOPE
PAULETTE GODDARD
"NOTHING BUT THE TRUTH"
with Edward Arnold

SEVILLE
THEATRE BRYN MAWR
Tuesday & Wednesday
"OUR WIFE"
Thursday
"KISS THE BOYS GOODBYE"
Friday & Saturday
"DIVE BOMBER"
Sunday
"DR. KILDARE'S WEDDING DAY"
Monday & Tuesday
"CHARLIE CHAN IN RIO"

ANTHONY WAYNE
THEATRE WAYNE
Tuesday & Wednesday
"DR. KILDARE'S WEDDING DAY"
Thursday, Friday & Saturday
"ALOMA OF THE SOUTH SEAS"
Sunday & Monday
"BELLE STARR"

SUBURBAN
Tuesday & Wednesday
"SUN VALLEY SERENADE"
Starting Thursday for 5 Days
Dorothy Lamour - Jon Hall in
"ALOMA OF THE SOUTH SEAS"

RIDE FREE ON P. & W. RAILWAY MOVIE TICKETS
GRAND
NORRISTOWN
Wed. & Thurs.
Brenda Marshall in
"HIGHWAY WEST"
Fri. & Sat.
Gene Autry in
"UNDER FIESTA STARS"
and Sidney Toler in
"CHARLIE CHAN IN RIO"

NORRIS
NORRISTOWN
Tues., Wed. & Thurs.
Robert Montgomery in
"HERE COMES MR. JORDAN"
Fri., Sat. & Mon.
Fred Astaire in
"YOU'LL NEVER GET RICH"

GARRICK
NORRISTOWN
Wed. & Thurs.
Double Feature
"DANCE HALL"
and
"ACCENT ON LOVE"
Fri. & Sat.
Wayne Morris in
"3 SONS O' GUNS"
and
"CITADEL OF CRIME"

WILDCATS!
STOP HERE
LA DOW'S PHARMACY
On the Edge of the Campus
LANCASTER PIKE
VILLANOVA, PA.

In The Eyes Of Our Forecasters

Teams	Smith	Aisenbrey	McNally	Haughton	Jacobs	Funabashi	Whelan	Doyle	Clark	Consensus
Army										N. D.
Notre Dame	N. D.	N. D.	N. D.	N. D.	N. D.	N. D.	N. D.	N. D.	N. D.	9-0
Boston C.										T
Temple	T	T	T	T	T	T	T	T	T	9-0
Colgate	C	C			C		C		C	C
Holy Cross			H	H		H		H		5-4
Detroit	D	D	D	D	D	D	D	D	D	D
Manhattan										9-0
Duquesne										V
Villanova	V	V	V	V		V	V	V	V	8-0
Iowa	Io.				Io.	Io.			Io.	In.
Indiana		In.	In.	In.			In.	In.		5-4
Penn	P				P	P		P	P	P
Navy		N	N	N			N			5-4
Princeton										H
Harvard	H	H	H	H	H	H	H	H	H	9-0
S. M. U.	S	S	S		S		S			S
Texas				T		T		T	T	5-4
Yale	Y			Y	Y	Y	Y		Y	Y
Brown		B	B					B		6-3
U. C. L. A.										C
California	C	C	C	C	C	C	C	C	C	9.0
Baylor	B	B	B		B		B	B	T	B
T. C. U.				T		T				6-3
Wins	26	23	24	25	24	21	24	17	22
Losses	11	14	13	11	10	16	13	20	15

Varsity Basketball

Continued From Page Five

defense. In order not to run the risk of chance of continually losing the ball in tussles under the baskets, the team will have to forsake some of its long shots. This is unfortunate for such boys as Dick Gray, Bob Kelty, and "Reds" Klotz, who have shown that they can drop them in from the outside. It means, however, a better passing attack to work the ball in for lay-up shots will result.

It is understood that the schedule for the coming season lists several powerful clubs, each overshadowing the 'Cats in height and weight, and each presenting a different form of attack to be solved. It is evident that this year's team has a rocky road all along the roster of games.

As Coach Severance states, "A spirit that is not to be denied permeates the team. Like many small Villanova teams of the past, this one may yet overcome the bad breaks and come through with flying colors."

Intramural

Continued From Page Five

was the margin of victory. It looked for a while as though the Greenies were going to overtake the Commerce team but the day-hops were over-due for a victory and staved off all threats with brilliant defense and sparkling offense.

One of the closest and hardest fought games of the week was that between Fedigan Hall and C. & F. in which the Residents won over the Commuters by a 1 point margin of 27-26. Moore, Clark and Pajolek steadied the Gigoloes with their sharp-shooting and accurate passing. The Fedigan boys were behind at half time by two points, 12-10 but steadily drew close and finally passed the Finance Students who couldn't get that one basket to win.

The big game of the coming week will be between undefeated Austin and second place Mendel day-hops.

Manhattan Game

Continued From Page Five

passes from Ed Finkoski, one to Don Binder and the other to Johnny Feske brought the ball to the two-yard line with first down. But the 'Cat line rose in defiance and threw back the Jaspers and held on downs. Joe Yednock went back and kicked out on the 28.

Just a moment after, the unexpected turn took place. It seemed that the 'Cats were safe, but McNulty on a fooling reverse play skirted the left side from the 28 and outran the secondary to go over for a touchdown. The conversion by Jim Worst was good and Manhattan led, 9-0.

Villanova tried their all-out efforts at the start of the second half and netted but one touchdown. Pezelski's good running and Postus's pass brought the ball to the two-yard line and there Zig Zamlynski bucked over for the only score.

Fumbles and the three intercepted passes marred any more chances of Villanova scoring and thus the game ended with the happy Manhattan rooters swarming the field to praise their players.

Duquesne's Bid For All-American

Al Demao, the backbone of the Duquesne forward wall for the last two seasons is being touted as "All American" material this year. He is at his best when the pressure is on, reminding one of the great Mike Basrak, "Duke" center of former years.

The
BRYN MAWR
TRUST COMPANY
BRYN MAWR, PENNA.
●
Every Banking Facility
●
Member Federal Deposit
Insurance Corp.

HART & HALL, Inc.
Insurance
825 LANCASTER AVE.
Bryn Mawr, Pa.

THE WILSON
LAUNDRY CO.
of Bryn Mawr
Always the Friend of
Villanova Students
10% discount to students for "cash and carry" work.
No charge for replacing buttons or making minor repairs.
An American institution owned, operated by and employing Americans.

George Fein & Co.
Printer & Publishers
2116 to 2130 Arch St.
PHILADELPHIA, PA.
RITtenhouse 6983

DOLLY MADISON ICE CREAM
"Deliciously Different"
PHILA. DAIRY PRODUCTS CO.
4th & Poplar Sts., Phila., Pa.

Gordon Nick
Linen Supply Co.
1612 to 1620 North 11th St.
Philadelphia, Pa.

"Meet Me Friday Night"
at
Spread Eagle Inn
Garden Restaurant
on Lancaster Pike
Strafford, Pa.

Men's Clothes
Made-to-Measure
COLEBY
Tailoring
Inc.
57th & MARKET STS.
Suits & Topcoats
$27.75
See Steve Aisenbrey
110 Fedigan Hall

●
This Space
Reserved for
Sun Cleaners and
Dyers
●

The taste
that charms
and never cloys
Pause ... Go refreshed
Coca-Cola
TRADE-MARK
5¢
You trust its quality
You'll welcome ice-cold Coca-Cola just as often and as surely as thirst comes. You taste its quality, the quality of genuine goodness. Ice-cold Coca-Cola gives you the taste that charms and never cloys. You get the feel of complete refreshment, buoyant refreshment. Thirst asks nothing more.
BOTTLED UNDER AUTHORITY OF THE COCA-COLA COMPANY BY
THE PHILADELPHIA COCA-COLA BOTTLING CO.

Ed Kasky Tumbles Opponents But Saves Lives During Summer

By BILL WALSH

Those who saw the Manhattan game in New York last Friday night, saw a big fellow wearing number "57," doing yeoman work out there for the Wildcats from his tackle position. Whether on the offense or defense, this fellow was always in there. Yes, Ed Kasky played a whale of a game for Villanova Friday night, as he has been playing great games for the past three seasons. As a result of his splendid play in the Centre, Florida, and Baylor games he was unanimously chosen by his teammates to captain the Wildcats against the Jaspers.

Hailing from Glen Cove, Long Island, he certainly didn't disappoint his home-town followers in the Manhattan game. In fact, I doubt if there was anyone from Glen Cove in the stands who wasn't proud of his hero that night.

Kicking Specialist

Not only is Ed a tower of strength of the forward wall, but he also does all the kicking-off and the point after touchdown conversions. His toe is, indeed, a great asset to the team, especially in adding those all-important points after touchdowns. Ed has now reached the stage where he misses very few of these vital factors in the attack of a good well-balanced team.

Perhaps mention should be made here concerning the reason why Ed is such a good place-kicker. At Glen Cove High School he was coached by one of Villanova's greatest backs, Charley McGuckin. Charley, a great place-kicker in his own right, used to coach Ed along these lines every day until finally it got to the stage where Ed could trim him handily in their weekly contests. Thus, one of Villanova's greatest backs gave Villanova one of its greatest tackles and place-kickers.

Ed also swam on the Freshman and Varsity swimming teams in his first two years at the Main Line Institution, but had to give it up because football took up too much of his time. He has had quite a bit of activity in the water during the last three summers, however, as he was a life-guard at Sunken Meadows State Park, in Long Island.

He is quite a discus-thrower, too, having starred in this event during the past two seasons on the track team.

Previous to the Belle Air Ball last year, Ed had never attended a dance here at school, but after being persuaded by his roommate, Tony Anderson, to invade the social world, Ed has not missed a dance since.

Upon entering the room of these two football stars, one usually finds them arguing over their pet football theories. These discussions are hot and heavy at times with the honors being about even.

A major in Pre-Law, Ed is undecided as to what his future will be, but is a little inclined towards coaching football.

Sportorial

Continued From Page Five

than with the forward pass was very noticeable.

—V—

The much-improved 150's received the most cordial treatment that they can remember, while up at Cornell. The "Big Red" officials did everything in their power to make things satisfactory for the 'Cats. Villanova thanks you, Cornell!

Elliott Finds "Cosmic Stride"

Not to be outdone by such sport greats as Lou Nova, Frankie Kovacs, and more locally, our own punting star Joe Yednock, "Jumbo" Elliott, coach of the Villanova track team, states that his sophomore sprint star, George Guida, has now perfected a "Cosmic Stride." Elated over the showing of the sprinter during the cross-country trials of the past few weeks, Elliott claims that his protege has developed a coordination between his arm movement and his stride that will place George up among the East's better sprinters. Timing and stride are closely studied by the coach and he believes the sprinter has developed both in a phenominal manner.

Guida Lead Freshmen

Last year, as a freshman, Guida sparked the "Kitten" team to many victories, being high scorer for the season. His specialty was the 100-yard dash and also the 220-yard dash. He registered 9.9 in the 100 on two occasions last year. It is now expected that George will give Johnny DiCarlo a battle for the lead-off spot on the one-mile relay team which will make its indoor debut about the first of the year.

In informal intra-squad meetings last week, Karl Oerth, "Freshman Phantom" and "Dixie" Dunbar engaged in some heated duels with the boys splitting even at one victory apiece. Oerth, whose time improves with every race, looms as the best cross-country prospect Coach Elliott has had in many years. Also impressive was the performance of Johnny McCarthy, former St. Thomas More luminary. "The Flying Dutchman" as he has been tabbed by his mates, was a very valuable member of last year's Frosh team, and this year hopes to devote his time to the half-mile run.

Duquesne Game

Continued From Page Five

the famous Donelli clan, as understudies. Semes has the capable George Gonda who played against the Wildcats last year.

Series Even

Villanova has encountered Duquesne twice before in their football rivalry. The first game, in 1922, was won by the Wildcats, 10-0. Last year, with the 'Cats leading 10 to 7 in the closing minutes of the game, Duquesne scored on one of the trickiest plays seen all season to win 14-10.

Villanova has two incentives to win as it enters this game. Last year, the Wildcats saw a well-earned victory slip through their hands as dusk was writing a finish to that story.

HERE AND THERE

By FRED CLARK

PHILADELPHIA football fans have been placed in a very peculiar and also a very pleasant position by the week-end activities of the "Big Three" of the local gridiron circuit—Villanova, Temple, and Pennsylvania. The local fandom has become the envy of collegiate football followers throughout the nation, for what other city can boast of three college teams which have achieved such high national ratings.

After victories over Baylor, Penn State, and Princeton, the Wildcats, Owls, and Quakers all found themselves nestling among the first twenty leaders in the country and the first five in the East.

Although Villanova suffered a setback last Friday night, all three of Philadelphia's representatives still demand the respect of all sports observers.

One thing that bodes evil for the Quaker City teams is the fact that the toughest part of their schedules have yet to be played. This holds true for all three, but more so for Villanova and Penn than for Temple.

The Quakers must face the number one team in the east when they tangle with Navy this Saturday, and one of the two must lose ground in the race for national supremacy. Provided that Penn does hurdle the Annapolis threat in stride, Columbia, Army, and Cornell still have to be contended with. Cornell's reconstruction program, caused by the loss of a majority of the first-stringers from last season's powerful Big Red team, has been bearing fruit lately. By the time late November rolls around the Ithacans should be capable of giving the Pennsylvanians another battle like last year's 22 to 20 affair which found Penn on the long end of the score and brought the Ivy League Championship to the Philadelphia campus.

Dukes On Rampage

While Villanova will not be called upon to meet a bigger or a tougher team than the vanquished Baylor Bears, still the fact remains that there is not a breather among the four games remaining on the schedule. At the time of this writing Duquesne is the proud possessor of a prolonged winning streak which stretches over a period of two seasons and will very likely give the Wildcats more than a few anxious moments in Pittsburgh this week-end.

After the Dukes come Temple, Detroit and Auburn in that order. A two dollar parlay bet on these three teams would have netted you a tidy sum last year when this trio emerged victorious over a more or less docile Wildcat. The Temple contest should be the best in a series of exciting and hard-fought battles, but more on that later.

Detroit and Auburn annually point for their games with the Main Liners and as usual they will go all out in their efforts to tame the Wildcat this year. It is our personal opinion that year in and year out the Titans from the Motor City present the stiffest opposition of any team on the schedule and are one of the most under-rated squads in the country.

Owls Shooting High

The main obstacle in Temple's path toward a successful and possibly an unbeaten season is our own Villanova eleven. The other teams which Tomasic and Co. will face are Boston College, Michigan State, and Holy Cross. Last year the mere mention of either Boston College or Holy Cross would send shivers down an opponent's spine, but not so this year. These two former New England grid leaders are on the lower end of the football cycle which sooner or later catches up with the top-notchers and knocks them down with the rest of the boys.

From this corner it appears that the Villanova-Temple shindig on the afternoon of November 8 will have a great effect on how lofty a rating the Owls will reach in the national standings. If the 'Cats can climb back into the select circle by then, why mister, just watch the fur fly in Temple Stadium that day!

The Lamp Post Inn
Luncheon and Dinners
Strafford, Pa.

KEEP SUPPLIED WITH
SCHOOL TICKETS
GOOD ON BUSES AND RAIL
CARS UNTIL USED
5c a Ride, including Special Free Transfers. Obtain Identification Cards at School Office.
RED ARROW LINES
Philadelphia Suburban
Transportation Co.
Aronimink Transportation Co.

Loren Murchison
& Co., Inc.
Jeweler
for Standard College
Rings
Fraternity Pins
Keys & Medals
JUNIORS: Place your orders with Gene Smith at Fedigan Hall

IT'S TRUE!
Clothes Made To Your Measure
At Our Regular $38.50 Price
If you are hard to fit (or think you are); if you have some pet ideas of your own about clothes, our Individual Cutting Section will gladly tailor Suits, Outercoats or Formal Wear to your individual measure at no extra cost whatsoever. Just a part of Roger Kent service!
ROGER KENT
Suits, Outercoats and Formal Wear for Men
at the one $38.50 price
NEW YORK
40 Broadway • 521 Broadway • 12 West 33rd St.
15 East 45th St. • 225 West 57th St.
NEW HAVEN 1058 Chapel St. CAMBRIDGE Lampoon Bldg. PHILADELPHIA 1607 Walnut St.
© R.K.

At Our Local Cinema

ARDMORE
THEATRE
Tues., Wed. & Thurs.
"WHISTLING IN THE DARK"
RED SKELTON
ANN RUTHERFORD
Fri. & Sat.
"THE STARS LOOK DOWN"
MICHAEL REDGRAVE
MARGARET LOCKWOOD
Sunday
"THREE SONS O' GUNS"
WAYNE MORRIS
MARJORIE RAMBEAU

Direction Warner Bros.
TOWER
69th & MARKET STS.
Fri., Oct. 31 for 1 Week
BOB HOPE
PAULETTE GODDARD
"NOTHING BUT THE TRUTH"
with Edward Arnold

SEVILLE
THEATRE BRYN MAWR
Tuesday & Wednesday
"OUR WIFE"
Thursday
"KISS THE BOYS GOODBYE"
Friday & Saturday
"DIVE BOMBER"
Sunday
"DR. KILDARE'S WEDDING DAY"
Monday & Tuesday
"CHARLIE CHAN IN RIO"

ANTHONY WAYNE
THEATRE WAYNE
Tuesday & Wednesday
"DR. KILDARE'S WEDDING DAY"
Thursday, Friday & Saturday
"ALOMA OF THE SOUTH SEAS"
Sunday & Monday
"BELLE STARR"

SUBURBAN
Tuesday & Wednesday
"SUN VALLEY SERENADE"
Starting Thursday for 5 Days
Dorothy Lamour - Jon Hall in
"ALOMA OF THE SOUTH SEAS"

RIDE FREE ON P. & W.
RAILWAY MOVIE TICKETS
GRAND
NORRISTOWN
Wed. & Thurs.
Brenda Marshall in
"HIGHWAY WEST"
Fri. & Sat.
Gene Autry in
"UNDER FIESTA STARS"
and Sidney Toler in
"CHARLIE CHAN IN RIO"

NORRIS
NORRISTOWN
Tues., Wed. & Thurs.
Robert Montgomery in
"HERE COMES MR. JORDAN"
Fri., Sat. & Mon.
Fred Astaire in
"YOU'LL NEVER GET RICH"

GARRICK
NORRISTOWN
Wed. & Thurs.
Double Feature
"DANCE HALL"
and
"ACCENT ON LOVE"
Fri. & Sat.
Wayne Morris in
"3 SONS O' GUNS"
and
"CITADEL OF CRIME"

WILDCATS!
STOP HERE
LA DOW'S PHARMACY
On the Edge of the Campus
LANCASTER PIKE
VILLANOVA, PA.

Dr. Drenick Tells German Club Of Underground Movement In Austria

By JAMES EARLEY

SPEAKING in a low, vibrant voice, Dr. Rudolph Drenick, associate professor of physics and mathematics, told a story worthy of the most fertile mind in Hollywood, with this distinction—it was true.

Addressing the first meeting of the Villanova German Club in Simpson Hall on Monday, Oct. 20, Dr. Drenick told the real story of the underground movement against Nazism in Austria and Germany.

While attending the University of Vienna where he received the degree of Doctor of Philosophy, he became the leader of a small group of students interested in the freeing of Austria from German domination. From here the story smacks of all the thrills and suspense of the wildest adventure story.

The first move of this group was to contact similar organizations. Dr. Drenick characterized one of these as passing on not only valuable information, but also some amusing anti-Hitler jokes.

Because of his position as leader he was in constant danger of being clapped in a concentration camp. His narrowest escape on this score occurred when he was seized for questioning. At the same time he was in possession of an incriminating letter. The correspondence was, however, written in code and completely deceived his questioners.

The idea of a code was carried over even into conversation. The group used a prearranged code when talking in public. To avoid discovery, elaborate precautions were observed before accepting new members and in arranging and holding meetings. The meetings were usually held in an abandoned mine near Vienna.

As if all this weren't enough, escape from the occupied territory had to be in the accepted cinema style. When arrangements for passage to America had been completed, Dr. Drenick and his brother escaped from Austria by skiing over the Alps into Jugoslavia.

From there he came to America and to Villanova.

Dr. Drenick showed three motion pictures in connection with his talk. The first dealt with skiing and instruction in the art. The other two were travelogue pictures of the Tyrol district of Austria. They showed the scenic beauty and other-worldliness of this mountainous countryside.

On Monday evening, Nov. 3, the club will hold a combined meeting with the Chestnut Hill German Club in Simpson Hall. Dr. Edward L. Haenisch will speak on Wagner's "Ring Operas." He will also present excerpts from the operas.

McKimmey To Direct Arts Initiation Group

Thomas J. McKimmey, senior education student, has been selected to act as chairman of the Epsilon Phi Theta initiation committee, according to an announcement made yesterday by David F. Daly, president of the Arts fraternity.

Also named to assist in planning and conducting the initiation program are William Schubert, Alexander Luckas, and Joseph Hagerty. The program at present is scheduled to be held on Nov. 17, and will probably be preceded by a "dog" week.

Daly has also formulated a number of proposed revisions to the list of requirements needed for admission to membership in the fraternity. The proposed changes will be submitted to the fraternity members for discussion at the next meeting.

Asks Junior Payments

Making a plea for the prompt payment of junior class assessments, William P. Walpple, class president, stated last Friday that "in order to prepare for the activities of Junior Week, it is necessary to expand the treasury considerably.

"Payments may be made or information secured at room 10, Simpson Hall, any day between 1:00 and 1:30 P. M. or any time after chapel. The amount due from each junior is $10.00."

Lights Out!

Radio Club Practices Series of Arch Oboler Thrillers for Student Entertainment

The student body may soon be hearing a series of detective plays written by that past master of radio hair-raisers, Arch Oboler, if present plans under consideration by members of the Radio Club materialize.

Oboler will be remembered as the author of the popular radio plays enacted on the "Lights Out" program several years ago. Presented at 12:30 A. M., the stories usually resulted in near-nervous-prostration for most listeners.

Members of the club, under the direction of Rev. John J. Vrana, O. S. A., have been reading several authentic radio scripts before a microphone at the last two meetings in order to gain practice and confidence in the art of radio dramatics.

If they are successful in these test presentations, plans will be drawn up for the members to enact such plays for the entertainment of the students of the college.

The plays will originate in Simpson Hall and will be carried over special wires to a broadcasting unit in the Mendel Amphitheatre.

The club is still open for new members and Fr. Vrana urges all those students interested in speech arts as related to radio to contact him or to attend the weekly meetings. These meetings are held every Monday at 2:30 P. M. in Simpson Hall.

Rings Before Christmas

Today, tomorrow and Thursday are the last three days on which orders for rings will be taken for delivery before Christmas, according to Eugene P. Smith, Ring Chairman. Students may contact Smith in the Mendel Hall reception room between 12:30 P. M. and 1:30 P. M. today, or from 1:00 P. M. to 2:00 P. M. tomorrow and Thursday.

Engineers Attend 23rd Metals Show

Fifty chemical and mechanical engineers, accompanied by three faculty members, visited the 23rd annual Metals Show at Convention Hall Monday a week ago. The group's trip was sponsored by the Villanova Chapter of the American Institute of Chemical Engineers.

Over 300 companies of metal and allied industries displayed their products, processes, and control methods. Exhibiting manufacturers included steel and alloy producers, heat-treating companies, and manufacturers of heating and metallurgical equipment.

Highlights of the show were the exhibits of gas, electric, and atomic hydrogen welding.

Yesterday afternoon, Dr. Othmer, dean of the Chemical Engineering school of Brooklyn Polytechnical Institute, spoke to the A. I. C. E. Subject of Dr. Othmer's talk was the recovery of acetic acid from wood and new methods of distillation and extraction.

Next "Engineer" Appears Nov. 15

Second issue of the Villanova "Engineer," pictorial publication of the engineering school, will appear on the campus Nov. 15. The date for publication was disclosed yesterday by Walter N. La Porte, editor.

In line with its editorial policy established last year, the publication will be devoted equally to illustrations and written matter. Feature article of the latter type will be an eight-page story on surveying, by Philip Malarkey, senior civil engineer. The article will be written in semi-technical language in order that it may be understood by both engineers and laymen.

The editorial board has set aside space for pictures of the smoker held by the engineering fraternity last month and to the various informal dances. General news, fraternity news and news of the engineering school's activities will also be included.

In conjunction with the new metallurgy laboratory being built by senior engineers, the publication will have a four-page article on laboratory methods in metallurgy. A revival planned for the magazine this issue will be a humorous poetry corner.

Plans for the future issues of the "Engineer" this year call for articles on Miniature Ball-bearings, Engineering Defense Training, the History of Locks, and articles on radio and general engineering subjects.

How to Win Friends
in one easy lesson
Treat yourself and others to wholesome, delicious Wrigley's Spearmint Gum. Swell to chew. Helps keep breath sweet, teeth bright. The Flavor Lasts.

WRIGLEY'S
SPEARMINT
CHEWING GUM
V-105
42

Mighty important in this man's Army
It's Chesterfield
Chesterfield

ADRIENNE AMES
(star of stage, screen and radio) visits many training camps in her job as Chairman of the Entertainment Committee of the Home Legion. A carton of Chesterfields is a mighty welcome gift for the men in camp.

Follow the lead of Adrienne Ames and send the men in the camps the cigarette that's Definitely MILDER and BETTER-TASTING

Everything about Chesterfield is made for your pleasure and convenience... from their fine, rightly blended tobaccos to their easy-to-open cellophane jacket that keeps Chesterfield always Fresher and Cooler-Smoking.

Buy a pack and try them. You're sure to like them because the big thing that's pushing Chesterfield ahead all over the country is the approval of smokers like yourself.

EVERYWHERE YOU GO

They Satisfy

Copyright 1941, Liggett & Myers Tobacco Co.

VILLANOVAN

Vol. 14—No. 5 N. A. S. Z-660 VILLANOVA COLLEGE, VILLANOVA, PA. TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 4, 1941

'Cats Ready To Wreak Vengeance On Temple

Largest Pre-Game Rally In History To Start At 8:30 P. M. Friday In Gym

With Torchlight Parade Before It, Bonfire After, Affair Aims to Sent Spirit Sky-High; Many Speakers, Broadcast Scheduled

By WARD GUNCHEON

Preceded by a blazing torchlight parade, the largest pre-game rally in Villanova's history is scheduled to begin next Friday night in the Field House at 8:30 P. M. Invitations have been extended by Thomas J. McKimmey, president of Student Council, which is arranging the program, to the alumni and followers of the Wildcat eleven, as well as to the entire student body and faculty.

In deference to public interest in the Temple-Villanova gridiron clash and for the benefit of those who will be unable to attend the rally, a 15-minute program will be broadcast over station WIP at 9 P. M.; it will include both the rally at the Field House and one at Temple University.

Sportsmen To Speak

Speakers for the rally include Rev. Francis X. N. McGuire, O. S. A., vice-president of the college; coach "Clipper" Smith, Perry Lewis, sportswriter of the Philadelphia Inquirer, Jack Stevens of Mutual's "Inside on Sports," "Red" Smith, of the Philadelphia Record, Tommy Lovett of the Philadelphia Ledger, Jim Haughton, publicity director, the game captain—as yet unnamed—and John Kirchner, president of the senior class. The program will be emceed by McKimmey.

The student body, cheerleaders, and the band in uniform will congregate in front of Mendel Hall at 8:15 P. M. for the torchlight parade down Lancaster Pike to the Field House.

A feature of the evening's program will be the awarding of the Connelly plaque to the hall judged to have the best "Beat Temple" decorations. Judging of the individual decorations will be made by the members of the Student Council immediately before the rally and the plaque will be given to a representative of the victorious hall at the rally.

Bonfire Will Follow

After the affair, the crowd attending, led by the band, will move across the road to the parking lot, scene of the bonfire. The privilege of lighting the fire will be given to the hall winning the decorations award. When the blaze reaches its peak, the band will lead in the singing of the college songs.

Before the dying embers, the program will conclude with the singing of the "Alma Mater." The band will lead the march back to Mendel Hall where the rally will disband until activities are resumed in Temple Stadium at 2 P. M.

At a class meeting held yesterday in the Mendel Amphitheatre, McKimmey urged all freshmen to turn out to collect more wood for the fire.

Frosh Scour Countryside

He stressed the fact that the success of the bonfire will depend on how they respond. Volunteers will meet at 2:30 P. M. tomorrow and Thursday in back of Mendel Hall, where they will be picked up by a college truck; they will then set out to scour the countryside for stray wood.

Workmen have begun the construction of the scaffolding for the fire, which will blaze to a height of about one hundred feet; the framework will be ready to be filled with kindling tomorrow afternoon.

In order to co-ordinate the rally programs at Villanova and Temple, WIP will send a mobile transmitter to the college at 7:15 P. M. At that time a pre-rally program will be staged and recorded by the station's unit. The seven-minute recording will include speeches by Fr. McGuire and "Clipper" Smith.

For the cheering, resident students are asked to assemble temporarily in the Field House at this time. The transcription will be combined with the one made at Temple and will be aired at the scheduled time, 9:00 to 9:15 P. M.

Affair After Game

Villanova's Alumni Club of Philadelphia will hold its annual Homecoming Dinner-Dance Saturday evening, following the Temple game.

The affair will get under way at 7:30 P. M. at the Adelphia Hotel, 13th and Chestnut Sts. Considering the large number of reservations already made, the club concluded that a hotel located in the central part of the city will be most fitting for the occasion.

Already, over two hundred reservations have been made, some extending as far north as Stamford, Conn., and as far south as Richmond, Va. William Murtha, '33, acting chairman for the event, has announced that until tomorrow the price will be $2.25 per plate, but after that date $2.50 will be charged.

Fourteenth Villanova-Owl Battle Due Saturday

Kickoff Set For 2:00 P. M. at Stadium as Smithmen Aim to Reverse Last Year's Score; Blue-and-White Holds 8-4 Edge in Series

By BOB FUNABASHI, Sports Editor

Just once a year does Villanova move en masse toward a green-turfed stadium up in North Philadelphia to watch two teams of historic rivalry battle it out. And this Saturday afternoon at Temple Stadium, some 35,000 rooters from east and west will file through the open gates to see the fourteenth renewal of the heralded Villanova-Temple series.

This annual tussle, bedecked in autumnal color, with blaring bands and noisy throngs, will again be the top game of the season for both teams with the casts putting on the greatest show of Philadelphia gridiron rivalry from the 2:00 P. M. kickoff until the bleak and gray twilight of a November afternoon calls it a halt.

In all respects this "natural" game will be a decisive one for both squads. Clipper Smith's Wildcats are out to avenge a 28-0 trouncing at the hands of Coach Ray Morrison's Owls last season. Since that unfortunate day last Fall, the one thing on Clipper's mind has been to get the Owl's scalp, for it was Temple which put shame upon misery to a band of Wildcats who were down and out. But, previous to last year, Villanova had dominated the scene by trampling Temple for three straight years.

Produced A Winner

Last season it was Morrison's turn and the ex-Vanderbilt grid master, who had been drafted northward to Broad Street made himself the idol of Temple alumni rooters who feared the afternoons when Villanova and Temple met on the gridiron. In a polite reply to his well-wishers, Morrison groomed his famous "aerial circus" with handy-Andy Tomasic leading the way and Temple's football team was reinstated in the ranks of the acclaimed.

Now, once again Morrison is on the spot. His team seemed destined to go undefeated until they came a 31-0 cropper against Boston College last Saturday. So far they have ridden a successful bandwagon, but Saturday afternoon may play a different kind of tune for his squad. Already victorious over five major opponents, Kansas, V. M. I., Georgetown, Penn State, and Bucknell, the Temple team rates high in Eastern honors. If he repeats last year's great victory, Morrison would certainly be in a position to go through the remainder of his schedule victorious if his two aces, Tomasic and George

STOP TOMASIC
Continued on Page Five

Optimistic And Otherwise

Villanovans Generally Agreed On Victory; But With "Ifs"

By TOM McFARLAND

Questioned as to the potential outcome of the Temple game, Villanovans almost unanimously express opinions that are far from pessimistic, yet on the whole are conservative. A la Gallup, we interviewed one man from every class and every school.

The statements of some of these men are cluttered up with "ifs"—"If the fellows keep talking the way they are now," says Tom Sheehy, "we'll win." Ed McCune opines, "If we play the heads-up ball of which we are capable, we'll beat them." Bill La France thinks, "If the boys don't lose the spirit they show in practice, we can't lose." "We have a chance if we can shake Pezelski loose for a long one," Frank Bagot believes.

Some were more definite in their predicitions. "We'll hold 'em in the first half and knock out a win in the third and fourth quarters"; "We've been pointing for this game since last year; we're on the rebound and should win," say Jack Callahan and John Kirchner, respectively.

A respect for the abilities of Temple's Andy Tomasic was evi-

VILLANOVANS FORESEE
Continued on Page Three

Owl Supporters Expect 1941 Carbon Copy Of 1940 Debacle

By PAT McWILLIAMS

It's always interesting to know how the majority of the opposing student body feels a few days before a big game. So, with this purpose in mind, we set out on a jaunt to the rolling campus of our Broad Street rival.

A woman's viewpoint of the game seemed to us to be the right thing to start with, so we quickly made our way to the Delta Sigma Upsilon sorority house, where Mary "Mike" Donegan, after a thoughtful deliberation of about one second, said, "Temple will win a very super-duper of a close game by at least two touchdowns."

Stunned by her virtual admission that Villanova had some sort of a chance, we set our course for another sorority dwelling. There we were cordially greeted by Cynthia Preston, who predicted, "The first half will be very close, but in the second half Andy will get going, and then Villanova had better duck." Thanking her for these most encouraging words, we turned to her sorority sister, Betty Wright, and then stood aside as she claimed, "Tomasic, Sutch, and

TEMPLARS SURE
Continued on Page Three

Spirit Makes A Winner

"IF YOU would have me weep," Horace once remarked, "you must first weep yourself," and if you, the students of Villanova, would have your football team display a real fighting spirit on Saturday, you must first communicate to that team your willingness to back them to the fullest extent.

It's not difficult to cheer for a winning team. The flush of victory engenders a spirit of camaraderie that best finds expression in a few lusty school cheers and songs. But the acid test of Villanova spirit is not to be found in the sweet intoxication that followed the Baylor game.

Villanova spirit — real, honest Villanova spirit — is more eagerly sought after and more keenly appreciated after such numbing setbacks as the Manhattan and Duquesne affairs.

A winning team needs only a modicum of student support. The thrill of winning is in itself a heady stimulant. But a team that has tasted the gall of defeat when it was prepared for the honey of victory needs all available spiritual support.

And the issue is squarely before you, as Villanova men. There's no dodging the responsibility or assuming the "let George do it" attitude. A fighting Villanova team needs a fighting Villanova student body.

The means for conveying your confidence in your team have been placed at your disposal. The hall decorations, the bonfire, the rally this Friday night, and the GAME — all are student manifestations of student spirit. It's up to you to contribute your share, however small, to the finished product.

On Saturday, eleven men will be on the field fighting, really battling, for Villanova. Are you going to let them down?

Decorations Have Military Trend

All But Fedigan to Use "Patriotic" Theme; Champs Display "Circus"

By BOB YOUNG

With pre-Temple game spirit running rampant through the campus, tomorrow night will bring the complete display of enthusiasm as shown by the campus halls.

Plans and preparations of the past week will have been put into full action, in anticipation of the final judging for the Connelly Award, by tomorrow night. Although most of the halls have not yet put up some of their decorations, the VILLANOVAN has been able to obtain a complete preview of what the campus will look like tomorrow evening, even though the decorations chairmen were reluctant to give out information.

"Greatest Show on Earth"

The so-far perennial champions, the Fediganites, intend to capture the Plaque once more by basing their decorations on a circus theme, entitled, "The Barnum of Football Presents the Greatest Show on Earth!"

The hall's front doorway will be camouflaged as the entrance to the "big top," with the usual circus lights and flags. Hanging on the front will be huge pictures representing the team members as the performers and freaks, under the direction of "Clipper" Smith as the Barnum of football. Refusing to elucidate any further, John Cerulo, chairman, did state that the students can expect Fedigan to pull more than one ace from their sleeve before the final judging.

Three Military Themes

A surprising similarity of themes, which will probably prove the cause of much heated discussion when everything is up, was found to be behind the plans of Austin, Mendel, and Alumni Halls. In various forms, the idea of military tactics and National defense will be brought out by these buildings to illustrate a victory over the Owls.

The presently very popular slogan of "modern design" will be utilized by the Austin dwellers. With a huge sign of lights spelling out "'V' for Victory" across the front of the building, a pictorial scene will be given of the Villanova recruits attacking the entrenched Templars—halting the running attack on land by means of big guns and tanks, represented by the heavier men on the squad, using swift and accurate passes in the air, and submarining the interference of the foe's attack, figuratively at sea.

Torpedoing Temple

Rev. Vincent A. McQuade, O. S. A., moderator of Mendel Hall, stated that this building will feature a miniature version of the Villanova team as a submarine, torpedoing the Temple ship into the depths of defeat. Using the front lawn instead of the building, the sub, done up in blue and white, will be sending a torpedo with the words, "Sink Temple," into the side of a cherry-and-white ship.

Also centered on the building will be a 14-foot "V" with a large, life-

MILITARY MOTIFS
Continued on Page Eight

Students Get Free Tickets This Year

Student tickets for the Temple game may be obtained in the Business Office between 12:30 and 2:30 P. M. tomorrow and Thursday.

This year the students will not be charged for their tickets. One ticket will be presented to each full-time undergraduate student for his own personal use upon the presentation of his matriculation card.

All students will enter Temple Stadium at Gate "NG" and must present their matriculation cards as their student tickets. Although section "NG" is a reserved section, seats within the section will not be reserved; i.e., section "NG" will be restricted to students and their guests, but seats in the section will be put on the basis of first come, first served.

Guests of the students—not more than one with each student—in possession of a $2.85 ticket and accompanied by a Villanova man having his matriculation card and student ticket, will be admitted to the Villanova student section at gate "NG."

A Word Of Caution

A GAME WILL be fought at Temple Stadium on Saturday — a game in which Villanova students have a major interest. It is hoped, and expected, that they will be a fighting student body — a group of men in the stands backing their team to the utmost.

But a word of caution might be injected here. It is to the effect that a fighting student body need not be an unsportsmanlike one.

Remember that when you're out at the Stadium. Remember, among many other things, that the Temple team and its supporters feel just as keenly about the game as you do. Jeering, either of opposing players or of officials, will do our team no good on Saturday. We can't tear the other team down; we've got to build our own team up!

Remember to use your common sense at the game. While spirit may carry you away, don't let it lead you to actions which would appear petty, unsportsmanlike,or even vicious when considered after the heat of battle has passed.

Root — and really root! — but don't be a rotter.

—T. F. D.

Pro Deo Et Patria

WHEN AN organization operates for the purpose of serving man by aiding him to realize the reason for his existence and the immortal destiny for which he has been created, it is functioning in the best interest of Christianity and civilization, and is therefore worthy of sincere, active support.

The Confraternity of Christian Doctrine,which is holding its seventh national congress in Philadelphia from November 15 to 18, is a body founded for the promulgation of these creeds. Because it is concerned with the spreading of Christian principles among those who have negligently or ignorantly been deprived of them, it is appealing to all for enrollment and participation in its body.

As Catholic college students we should consider it our duty to assist such a group in whatever manner we can. In the sixty different sessions scheduled for the convention, there are many that will be devoted to expositions of just how we, who have the knowledge, can inform our more spiritually illiterate fellow-men of the truths by which they should govern their lives.

The Catholic Ideal tells us what we are expected to do in fulfillment of our position as Catholic laymen. Our own fortune in having been taught the Faith, and the best way we can live it, is of no benefit to those who have not been trained in this philosophy of life unless we impart the word to them. Nor will these individuals persist in their efforts to learn if we are reluctant to teach

In this, the largest Catholic convention ever to come to our city, we and the other colleges in the locality have an excellent opportunity to engage in the "crusade for religion and country."

Here is an opportunity for Catholic Action at its best. It calls for no sterile, theoretical discussion of abstract principles, no lengthy arguments on questions of faith.

Let it be said that Villanova was well represented at all the conferences.

—H. A. McC.

VILLANOVAN

Issued twenty-five times a year from Villanova College, Villanova, Pa.

THOMAS H. DOYLE, JR., '42 ....Editor-in-Chief
ROBERT J. FUNABASHI, '42 ....Sports Editor
THOMAS F. DEVINE, '43 ....College Editor
WILLIAM E. SCHUBERT, '42 ....Managing Editor
THOMAS A. SULLIVAN, '42 ....Copy Editor
HOWARD A. McCALL, '42 ....Literary Editor
JOHN T. GALLAGHER, '42 ....Business Manager
ALBERT D'ALONZO, '42 ....Photography Editor
JOHN P. FULLAM, '42 ....Feature Editor
ROBERT F. DONOVAN, '42 ....Subscription Manager
BRUNO J. TALVACCHIA, '42 ......Exchange Editor
BERNARD C. CRUMB, ex-'42,
Honorary Circulation Manager

Columnists
F. J. Clark, '42 D. N. Reardon, '42

Staff Writers
F. Bagot, '43; G. Belz, '42; E. Bennis, '43; H. Binder, '44; J. Bongiovanni, '43; R. Canfield, '43; S. Canning, '43; S. Caplan, '42; J. Coleman, '43; W. Craven, '43; L. DeSimone, '44; J. Dudley, '43; J. Earley, '42; L. Esposito, '43; W. Guncheon, Jr., '43; D. Haley, '42; J. Jakovic, '42; J. Mahoney, '43; J. Mauch, '43; J. McCabe, '42; R. McIntyre, '42; T. Muraski, '43; J. Nunemaker, '43; F. Reese, '43; T Shallow, '42; C. Schaumann, '42; J. Tortoreto, '44; R .Young, '44.

Business Assistants
C. Callahan, '43 L. Jones, '43 E. Smith, '43
J. Walsh, '43

Circulation Assistants
J. Cerulo, '42 G. Fitzgerald, '42 E. Frank, '42
N. Eni, '43 J. Keays, '44 J. Monroe, '44

Photography Staff
R. Amicone, '43 L. Eni, '44 J. Sandonato, '42

Faculty Advisor—Rev. Edward B. McKee, O. S. A.

This paper is dedicated to one of the finest men that ever entered Villanova; scholar, athlete, gentleman — LEO GOODREAU

Subscription: $2.00 per year. Circulation: 3500.
Entered as second class matter at the Villanova Post Office December 27, 1928.

Member of Associated Collegiate Press; Distributor of Collegiate Digest.
Member of Catholic School Press Association, Catholic College Press Association, and National Scholastic Press Association.

TUESDAY • • • • • NOVEMBER 4, 1941

Upon The "Judgement" Seat

THE UNITED STATES tonight is marching down the last mile to a declaration of war. Sinking of the destroyer Reuben James rocked the nation on its heels. The American people, Congressmen and press are shouting that a wounding blow to their national honor has been struck and are warning that failure to strike back will be recognized by the world as a great American humiliation."

So speaks a New York correspondent of the Daily Mail in his dispatch to London.

Lo and behold a grand sample of the copy that has been regularly distributed to the British Kingdom by American correspondents. Few must be those who will debate the welcome manner in which this and similar releases are undoubtedly received by the allied peoples across the seas. All in all, information of this sort could scarcely amount to anything less than a lofty morale-bracer.

In respect to the noble purpose which this material fulfills and the renewed spirit it must imbue in a people desirous of all possible aid, it might seem that such a service was above criticism. Before succumbing to this belief, however, it might be well to consider just why these words should be the cause of rejoicing and backslapping to the people who will read them. The true reason for this stimulated effect can thus be interpretatively stated: "Have faith, England, we're a comin'."

This appeal that Great Britain stand at the post until we arrive is not new to the campaign initiated by the men of our country who would drag us "over there." Now, another responsibility is being thrust upon our nation — a defense of our American honor. It is to be featured in the limelight of world events, and the universe is to sit as a spectator in our national bid for glory or disgrace. We are now to be judged by a world-wide court, and our course of action now will determine whether our nation is to be an object of scorn or "the" model in the history of venerated actions.

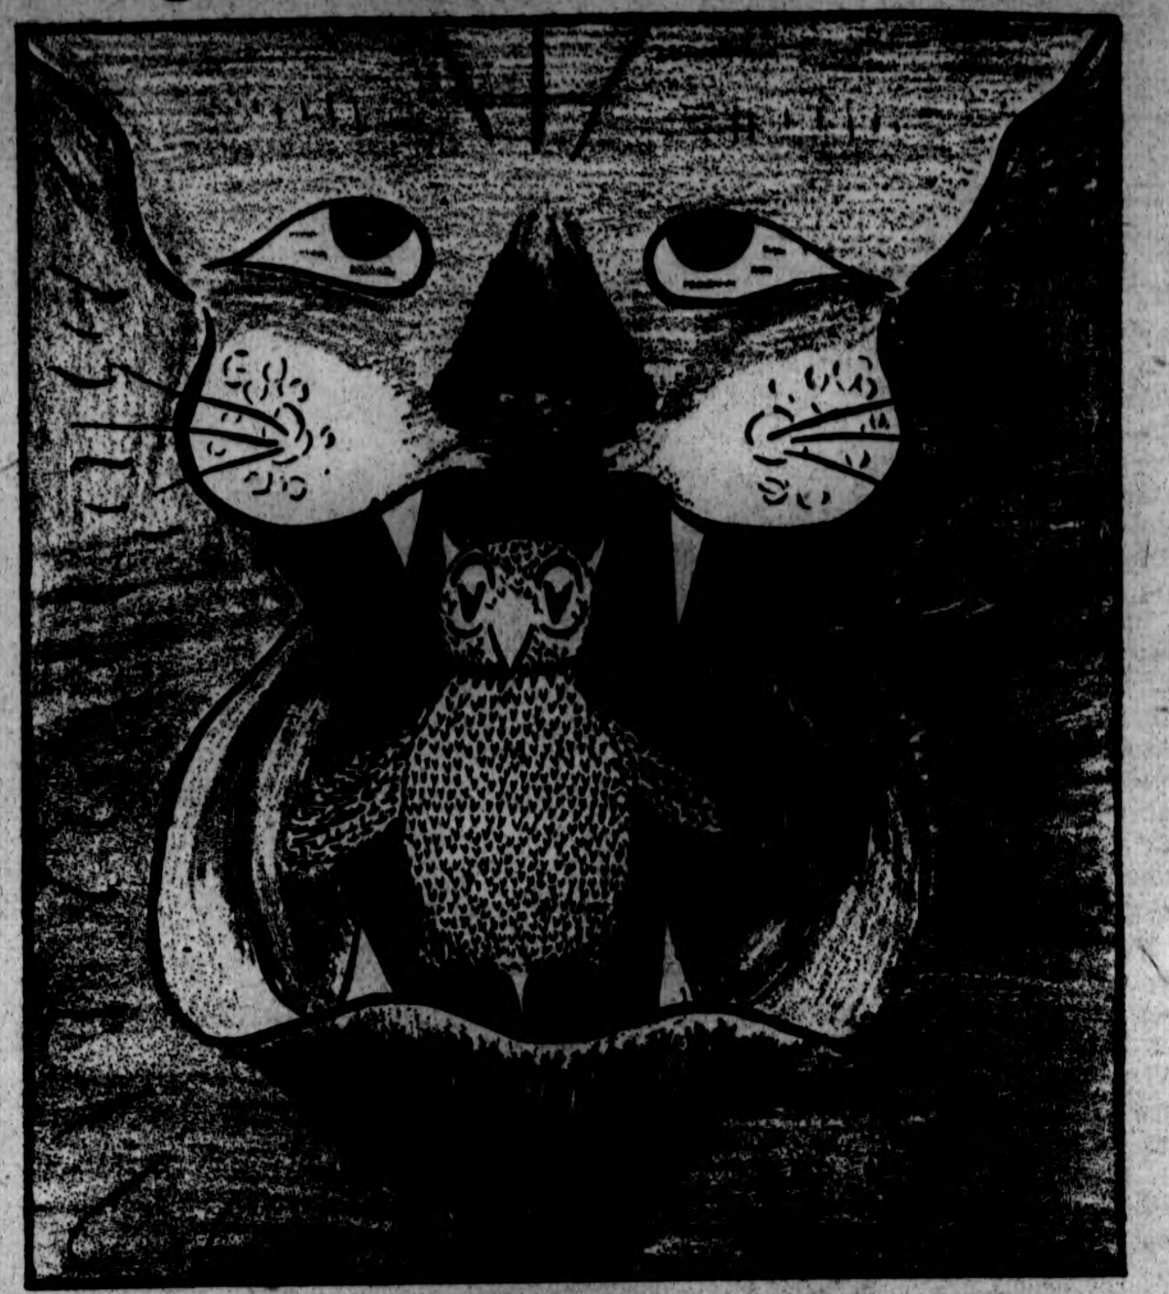
Basing this present dispute between the future praise or mockery we can now inherit on an identical occurrence in the past we prefer to call it a contest between folly and wisdom. Little more than a score of years has passed since we were confronted with the same problem. We made a choice then. We should allow ourselves to be guided by that choice now.

If we be prone to forget the course we followed then, the commemoration of the outcome resulting from it should recall to us that ther nothing save death — to a nation and its people — which is to be gotten from war.

November 11, 1918, was called Armistice Day by the world.

—H. A. McC.

Revenge For 28-0 - - - - - - - - by BELZ



Tally Ho!

By Bruno Talvacchia

A CAMPUS drive for $5,200 has been promulgated recently at Princeton, sponsored by the Student-Faculty Association. The money will be used to provide two weeks of "Utopia" summer camp for 250 underprivileged boys from Princeton and New York City.

The Daily Princetonian devoted a special issue on the opening day of the drive to begin the charity bell-tolling. Its Grecian (after a fashion) poet, Pindar, responded with an "Ode to Charitable Princetonians," which we reprint here with special remission:

I think you'll find it better far
To give than get a punk cigar . . .
N'est-ce pas?
And as for timebombs, he who gives
Always is the one who lives . . .
The longest.
The moral: eleemosynary gents
Are far more necessary gents . . .
Than heels.

* * *

let's go, Wildcats!

* * *

Clever Maneuvering:

"Bang," went the rifles at the maneuvers. "Ooooh!" screamed the pretty girl as she stepped backwards into the arms of a young man.

"Oh," she said, blushing, "I was frightened by the rifles. I beg your pardon."

"Not at all," said the young man. "Let's go over and watch the artillery."

—Albrightian.

* * *

stop Tomasic!

* * *

Thumb, Thumb—Going Down:

A Gettysburg freshman thumbing back from the F. & M.-Gettysburg game in Lancaster ran into a legal "copstacle" last week and landed in a hospital with a fractured skull.

The Student Weekly reports that the student was asked to move away from an intersection teeming with traffic. When a car stopped to pick up the thumber, the policeman refused to allow him to enter. Said student resisted; said policeman thumped said student. Said student counter-thumped said policeman.

As the officer attempted to hit the student again, the crowd moved in, forcing the officer to retreat to a private car and lock himself inside. The mob refused to let the car go to a hospital—where the policeman was later treated for lacerations of the face and hands—until he was rescued by five other officers.

Wildcat Whirl

By Dave Reardon

WITH avid enthusiasm and anticipation, Villanovans past and present are looking forward not only to an athletic week-end but to a social one as well. Alumni homecoming at the Adelphia should provide the old grads with plenty of good fun. The undergrads, after viewing an anticipated victory, will proceed to the Quaker City and continue the celebration. Spirit will reach its climax this Friday evening at the pre-game rally.

* * *

roast Owl for Saturday night dinner!

* * *

MUSINGS:

Reminiscing as to the happenings of last weekend—Millar Seidel station-wagoned it to Pittsburgh to witness the Duquesne encounter. He was accompanied by Jack Schreck, Bill DeGrace, Bob Funabashi, Vince Tigani, and Ernie Klappenbach. No one seems to have heard what went on, but it must have been interesting. Quite a few other fellows also made the trip.

Jim Begley went to a Hallowe'en party masquerading as a doctor, while his date impersonated a nurse. . . . Last Tuesday's hockey game at Rosemont, with Immaculata offering the opposition, was witnessed by quite a few of the collegians, including Marty Kelly, "Irish" Donahue, Lou Roche, Ken Breitske, Cartin Conway, et al.

Why has Bob Whelan refused to see anyone for the last few days? . . . Bill Naylor, an engineer, pounded on ring chairman Gene Smith's door the other morning at 2:00 A. M., explaining that he wished to purchase a class ring. Smitty opened one eye and politely told him to go back to bed *!!?? . . . During Ethics class, in answer to Fr. McNally's query as to "what is violence," Grabo wisecracked, "Aren't they stringed instruments?"

* * *

trounce Temple!

* * *

HORS D'OEUVRES:

At the El Rancho, Chick Floyd and Edith Caldwell, formerly with Leighton Noble, made their successful premiere. Seen there in the company of some beauteous girls were Dick Gray, Bill Kelly, and Bill Mowen. . . . Immaculata's dance at the Bellevue was very successful, with innumerable Villanovans in attendance, including Bill Swan, Paul Waters, Jack Reese, and Bill Golden.

Charley Harrison, commerce junior, withdrew from school to replace his recently-drafted brother in the real estate business. . . Bill "Red" Walpole was almost nabbed as a suspicious character in a stabbing crime when he was in N. Y.

* * *

bee cee did it!

Meet The Boys: Steve And Tom, Student Leaders, Quite Sure That Owls Won't Be Repeaters

By JOE McCABE

IN line with this week's Temple atmosphere, we offer as candidates for Villanova's Hall of fame two noteworthy candidates, individually as different as day and night, but together representing the two most important factors in the game—the team and those behind the team, the students. As team representative we have Steve Aisenbrey and as student spokesman, Tom McKimmey.

Steve Aisenbrey first saw light of day in the home of the now-famous Manhattan football team, New York City, on Jan. 22, 1920. At the tender age of four years he migrated, with his family, to the "frontier" — Baldwin, Long Island.

After fooling around for a few years, he surrendered his toys for books and devoted most of his time to the three "R's." For eight years he attended St. Christopher's parochial school and when it came time for graduation he wound up second in his class.

Accountant

The future varsity "fall man" entered Villanova in September, 1938—the second year of the undefeated Wildcats (Villanova 7—Temple 0). Answering an inner voice which kept repeating "teeter-totter", "balance sheet", etc., Steve enrolled in the School of Commerce and Finance to major in accounting.

That inner voice knew what it was talking about, for a practical use of accounting was found in managing the varsity football team.

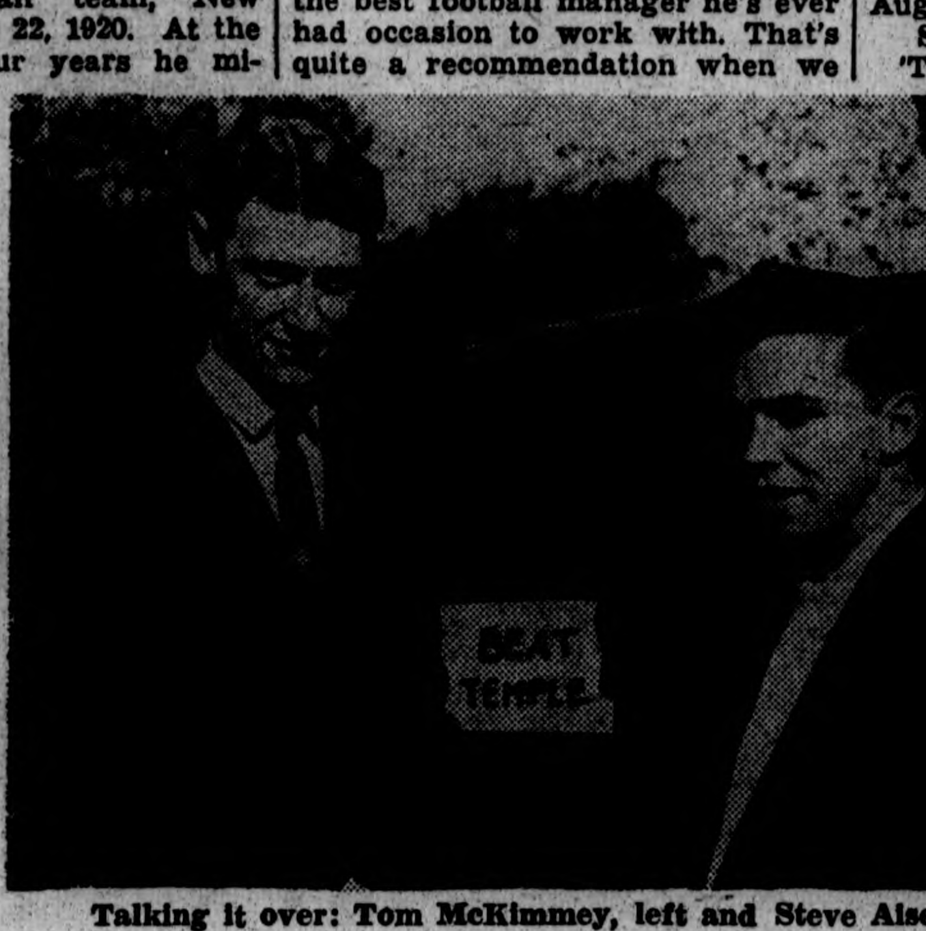
Answering a call for freshman managers, Steve began a long period of faithful duty to "Clipper" and the boys. Under Tim Waad and John Lang he learned how to carry the pail, care for the balls, check on helmets, jerseys, shoes, and all the other paraphernalia which make up the accountrements of a football team.

Called Best Manager

As assistant to Dick Monsaert our hero took the trip to Birmingham last year, but that's all we know about it. As to his value as a manager, we have the words of Val, custodian in charge of equipment, who maintains that Steve is the best football manager he's ever had occasion to work with. That's quite a recommendation when we recall past varsity managers.

It's natural that Steve's ability and thoroughness should be part of his makeup. There's an old saying which maintains "still water runs deep." More reserved than most of his contemporaries he makes his thoughts his own, but very often they wander to one Florence.

Ever since high school days, she has exerted a strong feminine influence, so much so that Steve is probably the only Villanovan who can boast, "In four years I haven't had one date—down here." You say an individualist; we say, "hats oy, Superman."



Talking it over: Tom McKimmey, left and Steve Aisenbrey.

THOMAS J. McKIMMEY, with as Christian a name as one could ask for, was born on Sept. 20, 1918, in Rockford, Ill. For a gentleman who was in later years to become the guide of the frosh and debater extraordinary, friend Tom began as all great men must by attending school. The "little red" in this case was St. James' parochial school in Rockford whence, upon graduation, he received a scholarship to St. Thomas' High School, conducted by the Augustinians.

Star on Court and Diamond

'Twas in high school that man-to-be left the neophyte form and came forth as the adolescent ready for anything, but puzzled as to just what approach might be used. His height lent well to basketball, in which he participated for two years. Not to be confined by walls and blackboards, "Abe" took to the diamond where his prowess was such that the local semi-pro's wished his services.

But, alas, athletics were not to be the medium of fame and renown for Tom. As a senior he won a gold medal for excellence in the art of oratory—a true Demosthenes from whom much still was to be heard.

A Druggist

Upon graduation in 1936 a position as drug clerk in the Walgreen Drug Co. looked most enticing, but after two years "Mac" received a scholastic scholarship to Villanova. Almost immediately, extra-curricular activities attracted his attention here and it wasn't long before he found himself president of the sophomore class. It was also around this time that he started work as student infirmarian, in which position he has advanced his knowledge of drugs and medicines first obtained in Walgreen's.

An English major, "Doc" McKimmey hopes to follow the teaching profession; however, Uncle Sam and his army might have different ideas. However limited his time because of infirmary work, he has found little difficulty in keeping active. His greatest honor is that which he enjoys now as Chairman of the Student Council. Added to this we have debating, dramatics, and the presidency of the Sanctuary Society. Quite a diversified program.

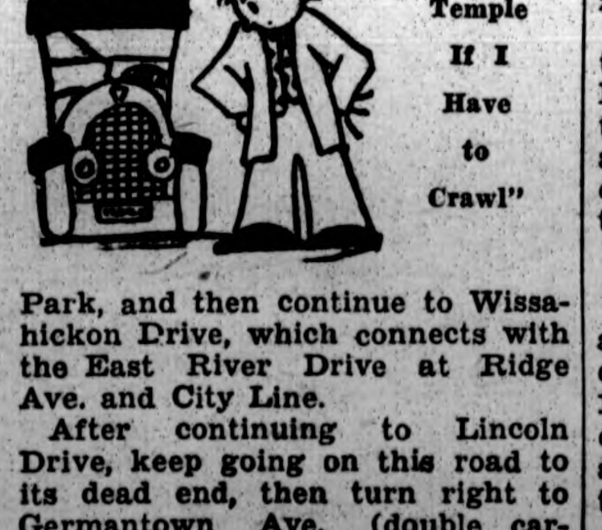
In his latter capacity and as student director of the Temple rally, Tom has this to say: "This should be the best rally ever; the psychological time has arrived for knocking Temple off its high horse."

Shortest Auto, Bus And Trolley Routes To Temple Stadium Given

Temple Stadium is located at Vernon Rd. and City Line, Philadelphia, and may be reached by several routes. For the benefit of those who are making the trip for the first time, or who are not certain as to the best method of arriving at the field, the directions outlined below may prove helpful.

Not only are the various street routes described for the convenience of motorists, but a number of public transportation schemes are also included.

For the easiest route from central Philadelphia, go north on Broad St. to its end, then left on Cheltenham Ave. to Vernon Rd. Those who wish to avoid Broad St. traffic may prefer to go out Benjamin Franklin Parkway to the East River Drive in Fairmount Park, and then continue to Wissahickon Drive, which connects with the East River Drive at Ridge Ave. and City Line.



"I'll Get to Temple If I Have to Crawl"

After continuing to Lincoln Drive, keep going on this road to its dead end, then turn right to Germantown Ave. (double car-tracks). Turn right again, and then left at the first traffic light to Mt. Airy Ave. At the second traffic light on Mt. Airy Ave., bear right on Cheltenham Ave. to Temple Stadium.

Those going to the game from West Philadelphia are advised to use the Girard Ave. Bridge, and turn left down the hill at the first semaphore signal. Turn right at the bottom of this hill to Wissahickon Drive. From this point the same route given above may be taken.

Fans from the Main Line should drive in Montgomery Ave. to City Line, then turn left and continue to Ridge Ave., (double car-tracks) where they may join Wissahickon Drive and then proceed as outlined above.

From New York

Those motoring to the game from New York and northern New Jersey should use the Tacony-Palmyra Bridge, then continue on Levick St. to Roosevelt Boulevard. After turning left, continue along the boulevard to Broad St., then right to City Line, and left to the stadium.

Motorists driving in from the northwest on Bethlehem Pike are advised to turn left on Stenton Ave. to Vernon Rd., then turn left to the field.

Those who are not going by automobile may use the P. & W. to 69th St., and then take the Market St. Elevated to 13th St., where they may transfer to the Broad St. Subway for a 3-cent exchange fee. At the end of this line, one should take the Route 6 trolley. Temple Stadium is situated just two blocks west of the end of Philadelphia zone of this latter line.

Also, the Aronimink bus may be taken to 63rd St. and City Line. From here, the passenger may use the "E" bus to Washington Lane and Greene St., where he may change to the "H" bus, and continue to the field.

'34 TOP CROWD

The largest crowd ever to attend a Villanova-Temple game was that of approximately 40,000 people, in 1934. The smallest turn-out in recent years occurred in 1932, when about 10,000 people braved torrential rains to witness the struggle.

Last year, there were 25,000 present, while the year before 32,000 fans attended the game. On the whole, attendance has averaged between 25,00 and 35,000 rooters. In 1930, 25,000 people filed through the gates of Municipal Stadium, while in the following year, in Temple Stadium, 30,000 were present.

NONE NEXT WEEK

Because of the proximity of the quarterly examinations, which will be held next week, the VILLANOVAN will not be published next Tuesday. The next issue to appear will be that of Tuesday, Nov. 18; in it, the Belle Air Ball and Junior Prom chairmen will be announced.

Bonfire History Hot; Owl Raiders Took Chances In Campus Forays

By TOM SHALLOW

Pre-Temple game activities have traditionally come to a close with a huge bonfire and, just as the game has been moved around, so the fire has had a checkered history.

Years back — before the Field House was erected — the fire was built on Mendel Field. Because of the proximity of the homes on Spring Mill Road, it was later held across Lancaster Pike, east of the tennis courts, where the billboard advertising the games now stands.

Since the Field House has been built and the rallies held there, the fire has been set off in the parking lot opposite the gym.

Exchange of Pleasantries

In the hectic twenties there was less gentility in the relations between the respective student bodies than there is now, and raiding parties from one school were likely to visit the other's campus shortly before the game. For the maurading Temple men the bonfire was fair game if they could set it off before its time.

But woe to those who were caught! There is the tale of one group of Temples who were seized here with possible designs on the bonfire and who were treated to the "Villanova Bob." This consisted of two diagonal swaths in the shape of a "V," starting at the base of the cranium; in some cases it was further embellished with blue and white paint.

Dirty Work in '39

In recent years relations have been on a higher plane—except in 1939, when the frosh of the Centennial Class worked hard all week collecting wood only to have their handiwork mysteriously set afire the Thursday night before the rally.

The fire was first sighted by the residents of Austin well towards midnight, but by the time the pajama-clad students got down to the field the flames were beyond control and the fire-bugs had disappeared.

When the day-hops came out the next morning—the day of the rally—what had been a two-story structure piled with wood when they left the day before was a pile of ashes level with the ground.

Bigger and Better

That wasn't the end of the story, however. That morning, the carpenters got busy building a new scaffolding, and in the afternoon everybody — upperclassmen and freshmen — pitched in to finish it for the rally.

By nightfall there wasn't an egg-crate or stray piece of wood left on the Main Line, for four days' work had been done in one and a bigger and better bonfire than the original had been built.

Villanovans Foresee A Hard-Fought Win

Continued From Page One

denced by many, but Mark Fitzgerald thinks, "Sutch is the man to stop, not Tomasic." Besides stopping Tomasic and Sutch, two other reasons were expressed for a 'Cat victory. "The Boston College game has taken a lot out of Temple, so they'll be a little easier for us to get through"; "The last two games have put the boys in a competitive frame of mind, which boosts our chances of winning," Jim Burns and Buzz Painter are convinced.

Men whose confidence of victory is great are "Major" MacDonald and Jim Connelly, who remark, "Villanova will stop Tomasic and Sutch in the first quarter; I'm not sure which will get the concussion first"; and, "Everything will click in this game — we'll 'moider da bums'."

A little cagier are Bill Mowen and Tom Muraski. "I'm sure we'll win, but it will be awfully close." "I think we're going to win, but it will mean playing a game of real football."

More or less uncertain are John Brunett, "I think we should win—hope so anyway," and Jake Mauch, "Surprises in this series are not infrequent—we may surprise Temple this year."

A masterpiece of dubiousness and double-meaning was Bill Sykes' statement, "The 'Cats will get the 'Bird' next Saturday." We'll let you figure that one out.

Templars Sure They'll Return To Glory

Continued From Page One

the rest of our All-Americans will practically murder Villanova."

Next we invaded the Alpha Sigma Alpha sorority. There, Frances Parry, with no coaxing whatever, admitted that "the Owl team will find Villanova no obstacle, Temple by 21 to 7." This was the closest score given by any of the girls

In our politest manner, we asked the opinion of Jean Morrow who, without giving us a chance to finish our query, quickly stated, "Andy Tomasic will be red hot that day. Too bad for Villanova." Her companion, Norman Miller, also in a sanguine mood predicted a win for the Owls by at least four touchdowns.

John McIntosh, president of the Student Commission, offered no consolation whatever. "There's no question as to the winner, the only question is how many touchdowns the Owls will roll up. I think the band could take this game." Bill Goldman added his sympathies by saying, "When Villanova plays Temple, the Wildcats are in the wrong league."
here.

With our head hanging very low, we were making for the door when we bumped into a book-laden student. Having nothing better to do, we asked him about the game, and James "Reds" McCarthy replied, so help us, "I think the teams are about evenly matched, but I feel sure that the Wildcats will upset the dope and come out with a victory by at least two touchdowns."

You taste its quality
Pause... Go refreshed
Coca-Cola
5¢
You trust its quality

Experience proves that nothing takes the place of quality. You taste the quality of ice-cold Coca-Cola. Again and again you enjoy the charm of its delicious taste...and its cool, clean after-sense of complete refreshment. Thirst asks nothing more.

BOTTLED UNDER AUTHORITY OF THE COCA-COLA COMPANY BY
THE PHILADELPHIA COCA-COLA BOTTLING CO.

A Word Of Caution

A GAME WILL be fought at Temple Stadium on Saturday — a game in which Villanova students have a major interest. It is hoped, and expected, that they will be a fighting student body — a group of men in the stands backing their team to the utmost.

But a word of caution might be injected here. It is to the effect that a fighting student body need not be an unsportsmanlike one.

Remember that when you're out at the Stadium. Remember, among many other things, that the Temple team and its supporters feel just as keenly about the game as you do. Jeering, either of opposing players or of officials, will do our team no good on Saturday. We can't tear the other team down; we've got to build our own team up!

Remember to use your common sense at the game. While spirit may carry you away, don't let it lead you to actions which would appear petty, unsportsmanlike,or even vicious when considered after the heat of battle has passed.

Root — and really root! — but don't be a rotter.

—T. F. D.

Pro Deo Et Patria

WHEN AN organization operates for the purpose of serving man by aiding him to realize the reason for his existence and the immortal destiny for which he has been created, it is functioning in the best interest of Christianity and civilization, and is therefore worthy of sincere, active support.

The Confraternity of Christian Doctrine,which is holding its seventh national congress in Philadelphia from November 15 to 18, is a body founded for the promulgation of these creeds. Because it is concerned with the spreading of Christian principles among those who have negligently or ignorantly been deprived of them, it is appealing to all for enrollment and participation in its body.

As Catholic college students we should consider it our duty to assist such a group in whatever manner we can. In the sixty different sessions scheduled for the convention, there are many that will be devoted to expositions of just how we, who have the knowledge, can inform our more spiritually illiterate fellow-men of the truths by which they should govern their lives.

The Catholic Ideal tells us what we are expected to do in fulfillment of our position as Catholic laymen. Our own fortune in having been taught the Faith, and the best way we can live it, is of no benefit to those who have not been trained in this philosophy of life unless we impart the word to them. Nor will these individuals persist in their efforts to learn if we are reluctant to teach

In this, the largest Catholic convention ever to come to our city, we and the other colleges in the locality have an excellent opportunity to engage in the "crusade for religion and country."

Here is an opportunity for Catholic Action at its best. It calls for no sterile, theoretical discussion of abstract principles, no lengthy arguments on questions of faith.

Let it be said that Villanova was well represented at all the conferences.

—H. A. McC.

VILLANOVAN

Issued twenty-five times a year from Villanova College, Villanova, Pa.

THOMAS H. DOYLE, JR., '42 .... Editor-in-Chief
ROBERT J. FUNABASHI, '42 .... Sports Editor
THOMAS F. DEVINE, '43 .... College Editor
WILLIAM E. SCHUBERT, '42 .... Managing Editor
THOMAS A. SULLIVAN, '42 .... Copy Editor
HOWARD A. McCALL, '42 .... Literary Editor
JOHN T. GALLAGHER, '42 .... Business Manager
ALBERT D'ALONZO, '42 .... Photography Editor
JOHN P. FULLAM, '42 .... Feature Editor
ROBERT F. DONOVAN, '42 .... Subscription Manager
BRUNO J. TALVACCHIA, '42 .... Exchange Editor
BERNARD C. CRUMB, ex-'42, Honorary Circulation Manager

Columnists
F. J. Clark, '42 D. N. Reardon, '42

Staff Writers
F. Bagot, '43; G. Belz, '42; E. Bennis, '43; H. Binder, '44; J. Bongiovanni, '43; R. Canfield, '43; S. Canning, '43; S. Caplan, '42; J. Coleman, '43; W. Craven, '43; L. DeSimone, '44; J. Dudley, '43; J. Earley, '42; L. Esposito, '43; W. Guncheon, Jr., '43; D. Haley, '42; J. Jakovic, '42; J. Mahoney, '43; J. Mauch, '43; J. McCabe, '42; R. McIntyre, '42; T. Muraski, '43; J. Nunemaker, '43; F. Reese, '43; T. Shallow, '42; C. Schaumann, '42; J. Tortoreto, '44; R. Young, '44.

Business Assistants
C. Callahan, '43 L. Jones, '43 E. Smith, '43
J. Walsh, '43

Circulation Assistants
J. Cerulo, '42 G. Fitzgerald, '42 E. Frank, '42
N. Eni, '43 J. Keays, '44 J. Monroe, '44

Photography Staff
R. Amicone, '43 L. Eni, '44 J. Sandonato, '42

Faculty Advisor—Rev. Edward B. McKee, O. S. A.

This paper is dedicated to one of the finest men that ever entered Villanova: scholar, athlete, gentleman —
LEO GOODREAU

Subscription: $2.00 per year. Circulation: 3500.
Entered as second class matter at the Villanova Post Office December 27, 1928.

Member of Associated Collegiate Press; Distributor of Collegiate Digest.
Member of Catholic School Press Association, Catholic College Press Association, and National Scholastic Press Association.

TUESDAY - - - - - - NOVEMBER 4, 1941

Upon The "Judgement" Seat

"THE UNITED STATES tonight is marching down the last mile to a declaration of war. Sinking of the destroyer Reuben James rocked the nation on its heels. The American people, Congressmen and press are shouting that a wounding blow to their national honor has been struck and are warning that failure to strike back will be recognized by the world as a great American humiliation."

So speaks a New York correspondent of the Daily Mail in his dispatch to London.

Lo and behold a grand sample of the copy that has been regularly distributed to the British Kingdom by American correspondents. Few must be those who will debate the welcome manner in which this and similar releases are undoubtedly received by the allied peoples across the seas. All in all, information of this sort could scarcely amount to anything less than a lofty morale-bracer.

In respect to the noble purpose which this material fulfills and the renewed spirit it must imbue in a people desirous of all possible aid, it might seem that such a service was above criticism. Before succumbing to this belief, however, it might be well to consider just why these words should be the cause of rejoicing and backslapping to the people who will read them. The true reason for this stimulated effect can thus be interpretatively stated: "Have faith, England, we're a comin'."

This appeal that Great Britain stand at the post until we arrive is not new to the campaign initiated by the men of our country who would drag us "over there." Now, another responsibility is being thrust upon our nation — a defense of our American honor. It is to be featured in the limelight of world events, and the universe is to sit as a spectator in our national bid for glory or disgrace. We are now to be judged by a world-wide court, and our course of action now will determine whether our nation is to be an object of scorn or "the" model in the history of venerated actions.

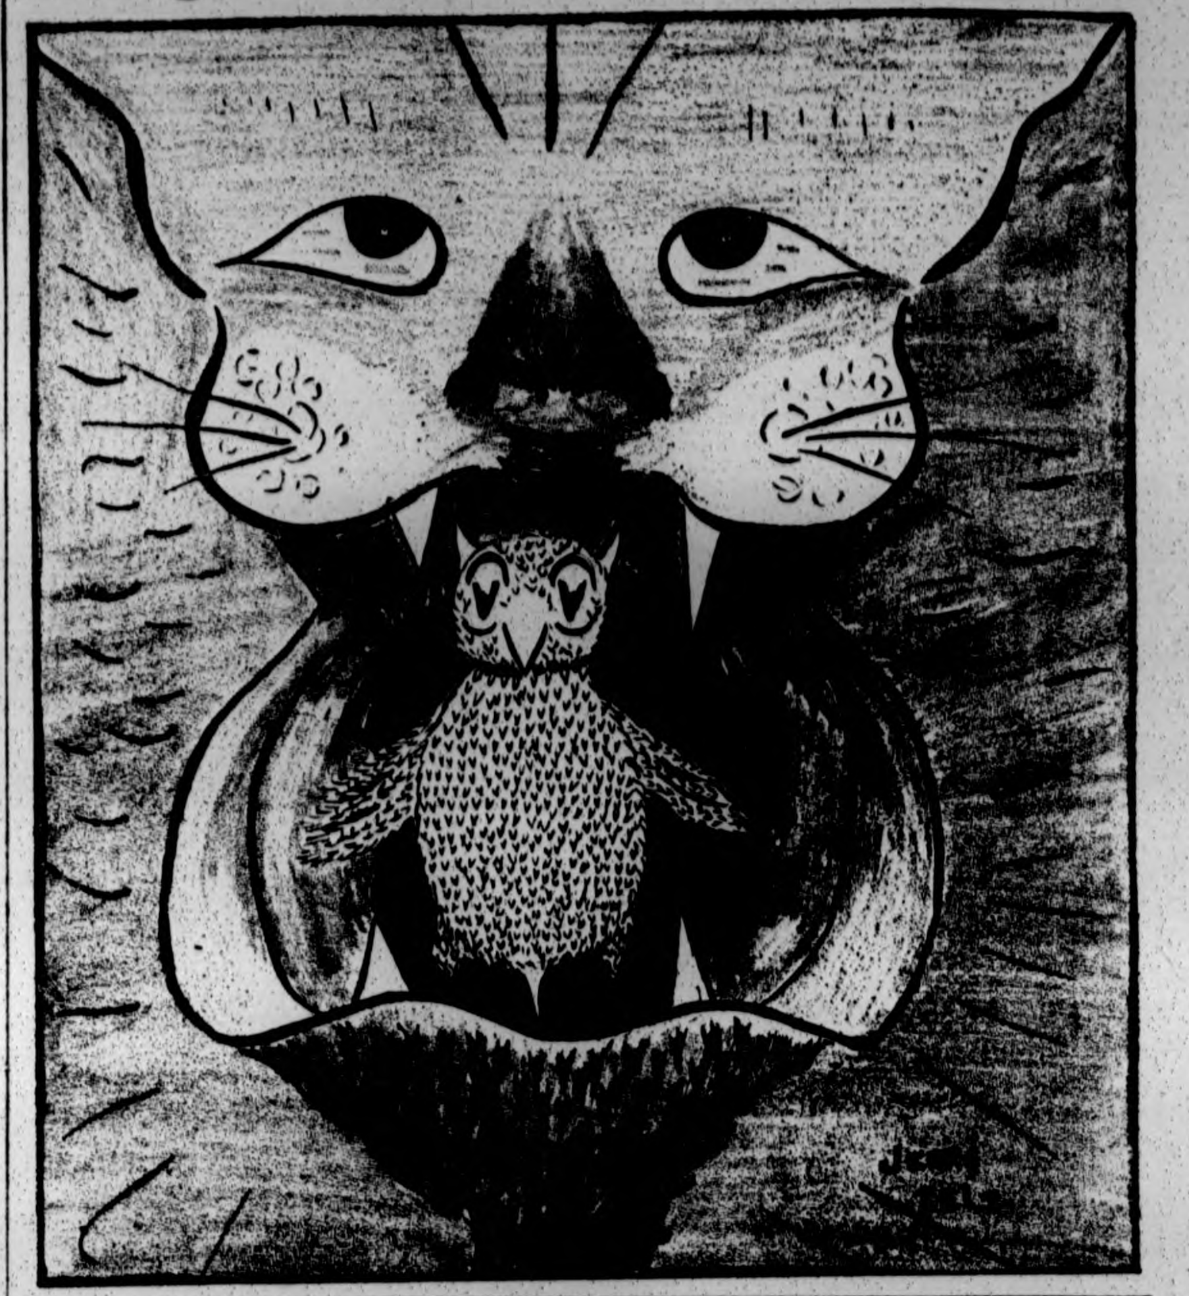
Basing this present dispute between the future praise or mockery we can now inherit on an identical occurrence in the past we prefer to call it a contest between folly and wisdom. Little more than a score of years has passed since we were confronted with the same problem. We made a choice then. We should allow ourselves to be guided by that choice now.

If we be prone to forget the course we followed then, the commemoration of the outcome resulting from it should recall to us that ther nothing save death — to a nation and its people — which is to be gotten from war.

November 11, 1918, was called Armistice Day by the world.

—H. A. McC.

Revenge For 28-0 - - - - - - - by BELZ



Tally Ho!

By Bruno Talvacchia

A CAMPUS drive for $5,200 has been promulgated recently at Princeton, sponsored by the Student-Faculty Association. The money will be used to provide two weeks of "Utopia" summer camp for 250 underprivileged boys from Princeton and New York City.

The Daily Princetonian devoted a special issue on the opening day of the drive to begin the charity bell-tolling. Its Grecian (after a fashion) poet, Pindar, responded with an "Ode to Charitable Princetonians," which we reprint here with special remission:

I think you'll find it better far
To give than get a punk cigar . . .
N'est-ce pas?
And as for timebombs, he who gives
Always is the one who lives . . .
The longest.
The moral: eleemosynary gents
Are far more necessary gents . . .
Than heels.

* * *

let's go, Wildcats!

* * *

Clever Maneuvering:

"Bang," went the rifles at the maneuvers. "Ooooh!" screamed the pretty girl as she stepped backwards into the arms of a young man.

"Oh," she said, blushing, "I was frightened by the rifles. I beg your pardon."

"Not at all," said the young man. "Let's go over and watch the artillery."

—Albrightian.

* * *

stop Tomasic!

* * *

Thumb, Thumb—Going Down:

A Gettysburg freshman thumbing back from the F. & M.-Gettysburg game in Lancaster ran into a legal "copstacle" last week and landed in a hospital with a fractured skull.

The Student Weekly reports that the student was asked to move away from an intersection teeming with traffic. When a car stopped to pick up the thumber, the policeman refused to allow him to enter. Said student resisted; said policeman thumped said student. Said student counter-thumped said policeman.

As the officer attempted to hit the student again, the crowd moved in, forcing the officer to retreat to a private car and lock himself inside. The mob refused to let the car go to a hospital—where the policeman was later treated for lacerations of the face and hands—until he was rescued by five other officers.

Wildcat Whirl

By Dave Reardon

WITH avid enthusiasm and anticipation, Villanovans past and present are looking forward not only to an athletic week-end but to a social one as well. Alumni homecoming at the Adelphia should provide the old grads with plenty of good fun. The undergrads, after viewing an anticipated victory, will proceed to the Quaker City and continue the celebration. Spirit will reach its climax this Friday evening at the pre-game rally.

* * *

roast Owl for Saturday night dinner!

* * *

MUSINGS:

Reminiscing as to the happenings of last weekend—Millar Seidel station-wagoned it to Pittsburgh to witness the Duquesne encounter. He was accompanied by Jack Schreck, Bill DeGrace, Bob Funabashi, Vince Tigani, and Ernie Klappenbach. No one seems to have heard what went on, but it must have been interesting. Quite a few other fellows also made the trip.

Jim Begley went to a Hallowe'en party masquerading as a doctor, while his date impersonated a nurse. . . . Last Tuesday's hockey game at Rosemont, with Immaculata offering the opposition, was witnessed by quite a few of the collegians, including Marty Kelly, "Irish" Donahue, Lou Roche, Ken Breitske, Cartin Conway, et al.

Why has Bob Whelan refused to see anyone for the last few days? . . . Bill Naylor, an engineer, pounded on ring chairman Gene Smith's door the other morning at 2:00 A. M., explaining that he wished to purchase a class ring. Smitty opened one eye and politely told him to go back to bed *!!?? . . . During Ethics class, in answer to Fr. McNally's query as to "what is violence," Grabo wisecracked, "Aren't they stringed instruments?"

* * *

trounce Temple!

* * *

HORS D'OEUVRES:

At the El Rancho, Chick Floyd and Edith Caldwell, formerly with Leighton Noble, made their successful premiere. Seen there in the company of some beauteous girls were Dick Gray, Bill Kelly, and Bill Mowen. . . . Immaculata's dance at the Bellevue was very successful, with innumerable Villanovans in attendance, including Bill Swan, Paul Waters, Jack Reese, and Bill Golden.

Charley Harrison, commerce junior, withdrew from school to replace his recently-drafted brother in the real estate business. . . Bill "Red" Walpole was almost nabbed as a suspicious character in a stabbing crime when he was in N. Y.

* * *

bee cee did it!

Meet The Boys:

Steve And Tom, Student Leaders, Quite Sure That Owls Won't Be Repeaters

By JOE McCABE

IN line with this week's Temple atmosphere, we offer as candidates for Villanova's Hall of fame two noteworthy candidates, individually as different as day and night, but together representing the two most important factors in the game—the team and those behind the team, the students. As team representative we have Steve Aisenbrey and as student spokesman, Tom McKimmey.

Steve Aisenbrey first saw light of day in the home of the now-famous Manhattan football team, New York City, on Jan. 22, 1920. At the tender age of four years he migrated, with his family, to the "frontier" — Baldwin, Long Island.

After fooling around for a few years, he surrendered his toys for books and devoted most of his time to the three "R's." For eight years he attended St. Christopher's parochial school and when it came time for graduation he wound up second in his class.

Talking it over: Tom McKimmey, left and Steve Aisenbrey.

BEAT TEMPLE

Accountant

The future varsity "fall man" entered Villanova in September, 1938—the second year of the undefeated Wildcats (Villanova 7—Temple 0). Answering an inner voice which kept repeating "teeter-totter", "balance sheet", etc., Steve enrolled in the School of Commerce and Finance to major in accounting.

That inner voice knew what it was talking about, for a practical use of accounting was found in managing the varsity football team.

Answering a call for freshman managers, Steve began a long period of faithful duty to "Clipper" and the boys. Under Tim Waad and John Lang he learned how to carry the pail, care for the balls, check on helmets, jerseys, shoes, and all the other paraphernalia which make up the accountrements of a football team.

Called Best Manager

As assistant to Dick Monsaert our hero took the trip to Birmingham last year, but that's all we know about it. As to his value as a manager, we have the words of Val, custodian in charge of equipment, who maintains that Steve is the best football manager he's ever had occasion to work with. That's quite a recommendation when we recall past varsity managers.

It's natural that Steve's ability and thoroughness should be part of his makeup. There's an old saying which maintains "still water runs deep." More reserved than most of his contemporaries he makes his thoughts his own, but very often they wander to one Florence.

Ever since high school days, she has exerted a strong feminine influence, so much so that Steve is probably the only Villanovan who can boast, "In four years I haven't had one date—down here." You say an individualist; we say, "hats oy, Superman."

THOMAS J. McKIMMEY, with as Christian a name as one could ask for, was born on Sept. 20, 1918, in Rockford, Ill. For a gentleman who was in later years to become the guide of the frosh and debater extraordinary, friend Tom began as all great men must by attending school. The "little red" in this case was St. James' parochial school in Rockford whence, upon graduation, he received a scholarship to St. Thomas' High School, conducted by the Augustinians.

Star on Court and Diamond

'Twas in high school that man-to-be left the neophyte form and came forth as the adolescent ready for anything, but puzzled as to just what approach might be used. His height lent well to basketball, in which he participated for two years. Not to be confined by walls and blackboards, "Abe" took to the diamond where his prowess was such that the local semi-pro's wished his services.

But, alas, athletics were not to be the medium of fame and renown for Tom. As a senior he won a gold medal for excellence in the art of oratory—a true Demosthenes from whom much still was to be heard.

A Druggist

Upon graduation in 1936 a position as drug clerk in the Walgreen Drug Co. looked most enticing, but after two years "Mac" received a scholastic scholarship to Villanova. Almost immediately, extra-curricular activities attracted his attention here and it wasn't long before he found himself president of the sophomore class. It was also around this time that he started work as student infirmarian, in which position he has advanced his knowledge of drugs and medicines first obtained in Walgreen's.

An English major, "Doc" McKimmey hopes to follow the teaching profession; however, Uncle Sam and his army might have different ideas. However limited his time because of infirmary work, he has found little difficulty in keeping active. His greatest honor is that which he enjoys now as Chairman of the Student Council. Added to this we have debating, dramatics, and the presidency of the Sanctuary Society. Quite a diversified program.

In his latter capacity and as student director of the Temple rally, Tom has this to say: "This should be the best rally ever; the psychological time has arrived for knocking Temple off its high horse."

Shortest Auto, Bus And Trolley Routes To Temple Stadium Given

Temple Stadium is located at Vernon Rd. and City Line, Philadelphia, and may be reached by several routes. For the benefit of those who are making the trip for the first time, or who are not certain as to the best method of arriving at the field, the directions outlined below may prove helpful.

Not only are the various street routes described for the convenience of motorists, but a number of public transportation schemes are also included.

For the easiest route from central Philadelphia, go north on Broad St. to its end, then left on Cheltenham Ave. to Vernon Rd. Those who wish to avoid Broad St. traffic may prefer to go out Benjamin Franklin Parkway to the East River Drive in Fairmount Park, and then continue to Wissahickon Drive, which connects with the East River Drive at Ridge Ave. and City Line.

"I'll Get to Temple If I Have to Crawl"

After continuing to Lincoln Drive, keep going on this road to its dead end, then turn right to Germantown Ave. (double car-tracks). Turn right again, and then left at the first traffic light to Mt. Airy Ave. At the second traffic light on Mt. Airy Ave., bear right on Cheltenham Ave. to Temple Stadium.

Those going to the game from West Philadelphia are advised to use the Girard Ave. Bridge, and turn left down the hill at the first semaphore signal. Turn right at the bottom of this hill to Wissahickon Drive. From this point the same route given above may be taken.

Fans from the Main Line should drive in Montgomery Ave. to City Line, then turn left and continue to Ridge Ave. (double car-tracks) where they may join Wissahickon Drive and then proceed as outlined above.

From New York

Those motoring to the game from New York and northern New Jersey should use the Tacony-Palmyra Bridge, then continue on Levick St. to Roosevelt Boulevard. After turning left, continue along the boulevard to Broad St., then right to City Line, and left to the stadium.

Motorists driving in from the northwest on Bethlehem Pike are advised to turn left on Stenton Ave. to Vernon Rd., then turn left to the field.

Those who are not going by automobile may use the P. & W. to 69th St., and then take the Market St. Elevated to 13th St., where they may transfer to the Broad St. Subway for a 3-cent exchange fee. At the end of this line, one should take the Route 6 trolley. Temple Stadium is situated just two blocks west of the end of Philadelphia zone of this latter line.

Also, the Aronimink bus may be taken to 63rd St. and City Line. From here, the passenger may use the "E" bus to Washington Lane and Greene St., where he may change to the "H" bus, and continue to the field.

'34 TOP CROWD

The largest crowd ever to attend a Villanova-Temple game was that of approximately 40,000 people, in 1934. The smallest turn-out in recent years occurred in 1932, when about 10,000 people braved torrential rains to witness the struggle.

Last year, there were 25,000 present, while the year before 32,000 fans attended the game. On the whole, attendance has averaged between 25,00 and 35,000 rooters. In 1930, 25,000 people filed through the gates of Municipal Stadium, while in the following year, in Temple Stadium, 30,000 were present.

NONE NEXT WEEK

Because of the proximity of the quarterly examinations, which will be held next week, the VILLANOVAN will not be published next Tuesday. The next issue to appear will be that of Tuesday, Nov. 18; in it, the Belle Air Ball and Junior Prom chairmen will be announced.

Bonfire History Hot; Owl Raiders Took Chances In Campus Forays

By TOM SHALLOW

Pre-Temple game activities have traditionally come to a close with a huge bonfire and, just as the game has been moved around, so the fire has had a checkered history.

Years back — before the Field House was erected — the fire was built on Mendel Field. Because of the proximity of the homes on Spring Mill Road, it was later held across Lancaster Pike, east of the tennis courts, where the billboard advertising the games now stands.

Since the Field House has been built and the rallies held there, the fire has been set off in the parking lot opposite the gym.

Exchange of Pleasantries

In the hectic twenties there was less gentility in the relations between the respective student bodies than there is now, and raiding parties from one school were likely to visit the other's campus shortly before the game. For the maurading Temple men the bonfire was fair game if they could set it off before its time.

But woe to those who were caught! There is the tale of one group of Temples who were seized here with possible designs on the bonfire and who were treated to the "Villanova Bob." This consisted of two diagonal swaths in the shape of a "V," starting at the base of the cranium; in some cases it was further embellished with blue and white paint.

Dirty Work in '39

In recent years relations have been on a higher plane—except in 1939, when the frosh of the Centennial Class worked hard all week collecting wood only to have their handiwork mysteriously set afire the Thursday night before the rally.

The fire was first sighted by the residents of Austin well towards midnight, but by the time the pajama-clad students got down to the field the flames were beyond control and the fire-bugs had disappeared.

When the day-hops came out the next morning—the day of the rally—what had been a two-story structure piled with wood when they left the day before was a pile of ashes level with the ground.

Bigger and Better

That wasn't the end of the story, however. That morning, the carpenters got busy building a new scaffolding, and in the afternoon everybody — upperclassmen and freshmen — pitched in to finish it for the rally.

By nightfall there wasn't an egg-crate or stray piece of wood left on the Main Line, for four days' work had been done in one and a bigger and better bonfire than the original had been built.

Villanovans Foresee A Hard-Fought Win

Continued From Page One

denced by many, but Mark Fitzgerald thinks, "Sutch is the man to stop, not Tomasic." Besides stopping Tomasic and Sutch, two other reasons were expressed for a 'Cat victory. "The Boston College game has taken a lot out of Temple, so they'll be a little easier for us to get through"; "The last two games have put the boys in a competitive frame of mind, which boosts our chances of winning," Jim Burns and Buzz Painter are convinced.

Men whose confidence of victory is great are "Major" MacDonald and Jim Connelly, who remark, "Villanova will stop Tomasic and Sutch in the first quarter; I'm not sure which will get the concussion first"; and, "Everything will click in this game — we'll 'moider da bums'."

A little cagier are Bill Mowen and Tom Muraski. "I'm sure we'll win, but it will be awfully close." "I think we're going to win, but it will mean playing a game of real football."

More or less uncertain are John Brunett, "I think we should win—hope so anyway," and Jake Mauch, "Surprises in this series are not infrequent—we may surprise Temple this year."

A masterpiece of dubiousness and double-meaning was Bill Sykes' statement, "The 'Cats will get the 'Bird' next Saturday." We'll let you figure that one out.

Templars Sure They'll Return To Glory

Continued From Page One

the rest of our All-Americans will practically murder Villanova."

Next we invaded the Alpha Sigma Alpha sorority. There, Frances Parry, with no coaxing whatever, admitted that "the Owl team will find Villanova no obstacle, Temple by 21 to 7." This was the closest score given by any of the girls

In our politest manner, we asked the opinion of Jean Morrow who, without giving us a chance to finish our query, quickly stated, "Andy Tomasic will be red hot that day. Too bad for Villanova." Her companion, Norman Miller, also in a sanguine mood predicted a win for the Owls by at least four touchdowns.

John McIntosh, president of the Student Commission, offered no consolation whatever. "There's no question as to the winner, the only question is how many touchdowns the Owls will roll up. I think the band could take this game." Bill Goldman added his sympathies by saying, "When Villanova plays Temple, the Wildcats are in the wrong league."
here.

With our head hanging very low, we were making for the door when we bumped into a book-laden student. Having nothing better to do, we asked him about the game, and James "Reds" McCarthy replied, so help us, "I think the teams are about evenly matched, but I feel sure that the Wildcats will upset the dope and come out with a victory by at least two touchdowns."

You taste its quality

Pause ... Go refreshed
Coca-Cola

Experience proves that nothing takes the place of quality. You taste the quality of ice-cold Coca-Cola. Again and again you enjoy the charm of its delicious taste... and its cool, clean after-sense of complete refreshment. Thirst asks nothing more.

5¢

You trust its quality

BOTTLED UNDER AUTHORITY OF THE COCA-COLA COMPANY BY
THE PHILADELPHIA COCA-COLA BOTTLING CO.

P. Stenn-T

E. Korisky-C

G. Smith-B

J. Pezelsky-B

L. Jagoe-G

B. Howlett-B

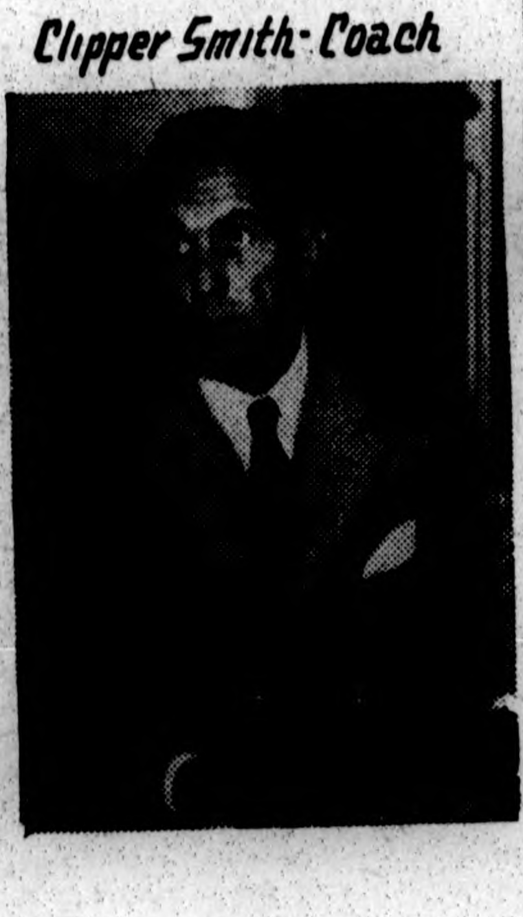
J. Nieman-T

T. Anderson-G

J. Behot-B

B. Prohovith-E

E. Murray-E



Clipper Smith-Coach

VILLANOVA vs TEMPLE

Ray Morrison-Coach

A. Tomasic-B

F. Moister-E

F. Kilroy-T

J. Woodside-C

A. Sparagna-B

A. Korba-T

G. Sutch-B

A. Drulis-B

J. Bochynsky-C

L. Brahm-C

H. Zajkowski-T

"Stop Tomasic!" Cry Of Confident 'Cats

Sportorial

By Bob Funabashi
Sports Editor

IF you notice below, there appears an article submitted by the Sports Editor of Temple's University News at our request. What he attempts to inclose in his story concerns six reasons why Temple will beat Villanova this coming Saturday. Undoubtedly the story must have been written just previous to the Owls-Boston College game for the story as it stands now is just about worth the paper it's printed upon.

Indeed Mr. Silvers must at this very moment, be rather down and out instead of wandering in the state of happy delirium. For as Sports Editors do go, they ride the same crest as the team's fortunes on the grid front. As you see now, that pot of gold which Temple was striving for—possibly the Sugar Bowl—seems another year or years away. It was rather humiliating for the undefeated Owls but to offer condolences we might inform them (the Broad Streeters) that we'd shrug the whole thing off, for Temple was to be beaten last Saturday or this coming Saturday. So what's the difference?

Mr. Silvers mentions in order his reasons for a Villanova defeat, namely six in number consisting of Temple's well-balanced line and their alert backfield, Mr. "All-American" Tomasic, a wealth of reserves, Coach Morrison's guiding hand of victory, the keen spirit of competition which will incite the Temple team and lastly but as usual that 100% cooperation of the Temple student body.

All this sounds quite logical to us and we think that if most persons were writing a similar story their answers would coincide with Mr. Silvers'. In fact that's the trouble with it. Opinions like that are bound to go haywire in this bewildering football season which all the teams are undergoing at present.

Yes, Mr. Silvers we must relate back to this past week-end to match up some of your boasts, even though they were a bit premeditated. Oh where! Oh where! was that well balanced line that let Boston College roll up 31 points while Temple could gain but one first down, throughout the game. And how about your alert backfield? Were they ever in possession of the ball? Then your reputed "All-American," Andy Tomasic. He was rather ineffectual, as the stories go, mainly because Boston College never let him hit the ends where he usually shines.

OWLINES and BY-LINES

Temple "News" Editor Gives Six Reasons For Owl Triumph

By ARNOLD SILVERS
Sports Editor

Asking a Temple rooter to tell why Ray Morrison's powerful gridders will repeat their 1940 victory over the Villanova Wildcats is like asking the proud father of a new-born baby to explain why his baby is the best in the world.

So naturally, we have no alternative but to bestow rightfully earned praises on the boys from North Broad St., who want it known that they will be out there on the gridiron Saturday to prove to Clipper Smith's eleven that last year's triumph was no fluke.

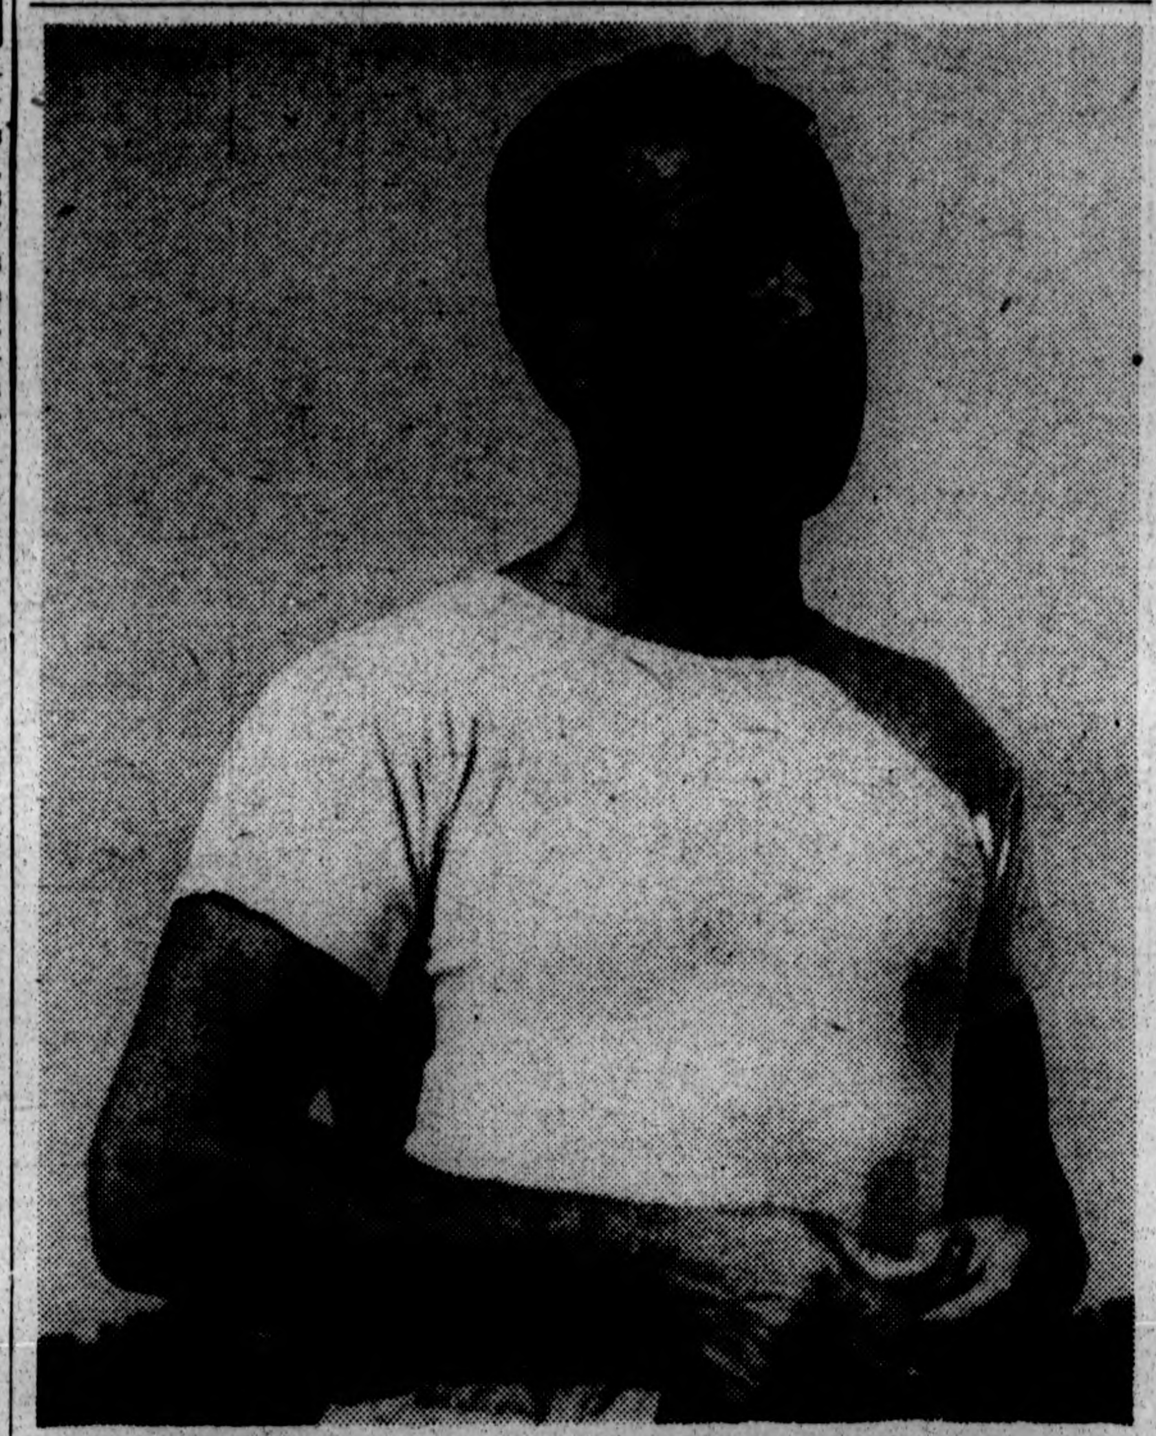
We'll concede that Saturday's game will be a trifle closer, just a trifle mind you, than last year's debacle. By the way, what was the score, anyhow? Something like 28-0 wasn't it?

That Temple Line

Anyhow, coming to those six decisive factors, number one is that any Villanova possibility for a win will be stopped short by Temple's well-balanced array of line material and alert backfield men. Holding down the line are the Seven Temple Tornadoes renowned for their heads-up play against every opponent to date, reading as follows: Moister and Seaver, on the

TEMPLE'S VIEW
Continued on Page Seven

VILLANOVAN SPORTS



Maybe the Clipper foresees a victory Saturday through that well-known squint of his, or maybe that faint smile about his lips means the sly mentor has something up his sleeve to stop that Temple Owl.

Duquesne Vanquishes Wildcats, 7-0, On 79 - Yard Drive In First Period

Villanova Baffled by Dukes' Hidden Ball Plays, Lack Punch on Offensive

By SAM CANNING

Under the arclights of Forbes Field Saturday night, the Villanova Wildcats were unable to overcome a quick first period score by unbeaten Duquesne and bowed for the second time this year, by a 7-0 score. The tricky Dukes made great gains on hidden ball reverses, which netted 79 yards in eight plays, climaxed by Gene Ball going over from the 1-foot line for the only touchdown of the game. Rokisky converted from the two for the seventh point.

Christman Recovers

The 'Cats bounced right back with new fire as Hank Christman recovered a fumble deep in the enemy's territory, but the scoring drive was lacking and the Dukes took over on downs. A minute later Joe Pezelski intercepted a pass on the 37, but again the offense bogged down.

The Wildcats seemed to recover some of the form that marked their glorious victory over Baylor two weeks ago as Paul Stenn blocked and recovered George Gonda's kick on the 13. After several Villanova passes and a line plunge Duquesne took over, only to be hampered again on a recovered fumble on the 20 by Bill Prohovich. But the 'Cats were thrown on the defensive again as they lost the ball on downs and Duquesne started another drive which was climaxed by a second score that was called back by a man-in-motion penalty.

Chadonic Fumbles

Taking things into his own hands, Bob O'Connor rocked Joe Chadonic with a thumping tackle that shook the ball loose; Prohovich recovered for Villanova on the 41. Right after this Pezelski accounted for the 'Cats' lone first down on a ten-yard slice through the line, but Joe Yednock was forced to kick on the next third

DUKES TILT
Continued on Page Six

Villanova

V.		Opp.
38	Centre	3
6	Florida	0
14	Baylor	6
6	Manhattan	9
0	Duquesne	7
64		25

Won, 3; lost, 2.

FROSH GRIDMEN LOSE TO TEMPLE

Jacobsmen Drop First in Five Years; Sycher, Rothenhauser Shine

The Owl jinx continued to haunt the Wildcat last Thursday night when the Temple freshmen gridders squeezed out a 7-6 victory over the Villanova yearlings under the arc lights at Temple stadium.

It was Captain Mike Jarmoluk's placement that spelled defeat for the Kittens, the first in five years of competition.

The Main Line team had the better of the battle throughout. The game was played mostly on Temple's half of the field. The Owls drove deep into the Wildcat's territory twice and one of these occasions they scored.

On a sustained drive that started on their 40 the Owls reached their rivals' 25 yard line. On the first play Jack Wilson faded and rifled the ball to Jack Sugarman, substitute wingman, in the end zone.

The Kittens came right back to score after the kick-off. Fullback McCarthy stepped through a hole in the center of the line, eluded the secondary and raced thirty yards before he was caught from behind on Temple's 35.

Ed Sycher, former Bayonne, (N. J.), star, lost five on the next play, but made it up when he passed to Rothenhauser who was downed on the six. A five yard off-side penalty put the ball on the one from where Sycher plunged off tackle for the score. Chuck Darcy's placement was blocked by a horde of Temple linemen.

Villanova was in scoring position again when the half ended.

Villanova Fresh		Temple Fresh
Darcy	LE	Furjanic
Lillienthal	LT	Macenka
Barker	LG	Mahoney
Sinkler	C	Nolan
Koons	RG	McGoey
Chandler	RT	Jarmoluk
Narcum	RE	White
Brennan	QB	Wilson
Rothenhauser	LHB	Brown
Sycher	RHB	Glisson
Hughes	FB	Kertel

Score by periods:

Villanova Fresh	0	6	0	0—6
Temple Fresh	0	7	0	0—7

Touchdowns: Villanova Fresh — Sycher; Temple Fresh—Sugarman. Point after touchdown — Jarmoluk (placement). Subs: Villanova Fresh—Ends, La France, Darcy; tackles, Smith, Whymeyer; guards, Ketchell, Cheney; centres, Gory, Yarnell; backs, McCarthy, Lopez, Siani. Temple—Ends, Sugarman, White, Furjanic, Osinski; tackles, Ferrigno, Macenka; guards, McGoey, Gigliardi, D'Angelo; centre, Janakas; backs, Pavis, Leon, Lochetto, Wood.

Smith Eleven Must Rely Upon Checking Handy-Andy

Saturday's Game Will Be Telling Climax of Two Rivals; Villanova Intensifies Drills Against Favored Cherry and White Squad

THIRTY-FIVE THOUSAND TO SEE BATTLE

Continued From Page One

Sutch, hold up under the strain; if he wins, the Boston swamping will be all but forgotten.

'Cats At Crossroads

And then, on the other side of the ledger, Villanova is forced to admit the fact, that unless Temple is beaten, this coming Saturday, the season will be a failure. Already outscored in a surprising manner by an upstart Manhattan eleven, and by undefeated Duquesne, the Wildcats must make amends by knocking off their greatest rival. That note of warning might have been disregarded as pure folly before the Temple-Boston College game, but the Owls' loss has changed all that. Indeed, on Saturday afternoon, under those clear skies, the 'Cats might explode to an extent as great as that of the Eagles.

This team that Clipper will field on the Owl turf is one that will be dynamic if only the fuse can be set off. And now, with Temple to battle, it might be that the incentive has finally arrived and Smith and his Blue and White warriors are ready for the "game of the year."

Since that game in 1928, Villanova has never met defeat twice in a row at the hands of a Temple football team, and if those indications mean anything, this is the Main Liner's chance to come through. Villanova will be pointing for Temple and will have a psycological advantage over the Broad Streeters, who are at the crossroads of their season.

Villanova Has Edge

Getting into past records, Villanova holds an 8-to-4 game edge over her rivals. The only tie game was a scoreless battle in the first year of the present series. That was back in 1928 when Coach Harry Stuhldreher sent his Wildcats against a favored Owl eleven. Since that time Villanova has rolled over Temple in a 2-1 ratio. The standout victory came in 1937 when Clipper Smith, in his second season here, beat Pop Warner, 33-0. That same year the Wildcats were generally rated as the fifth best team in the United States.

Last year, in that memorable game for Temple, Andy Tomasic spelled the word defeat for the 'Cats; it was his great running, kicking, and passing which made the Wildcats rather dizzy. Fur flew all afternoon as the Hokendaukua hurricane ran up and down the field. Back again and most likely spelling plenty of trouble, Tomasic brings his offensive features to battle against Villanova.

"Handy Andy" Star

In his efforts so far this year, Tomasic has looked like a definite contestant for "All-American" awards. Undoubtedly Temple would not have gone so far if it had not been for her captain, for he is the spirited factor in all the Owls' successes. He's been responsible for at least half of Temple's touchdowns and his blocking from the left side has aided other Owl scores.

Ray Morrison, who developed a number of great backs at S. M. U. and Vanderbilt, picks Tomasic as the No. 1 ball carrier of his coaching career; "He does so many things well," says Morrison. Added to that, Tomasic was selected on every Temple All-Opponent team last year.

Tomasic's sidekick in a well-developed backfield includes George Sutch, from Norristown, Pa. Sutch is only a junior, but in his fullback role he can crash a line with the best of them. He blocks for Tomasic and Tomasic blocks for him. Rounding out the other parts of

STOP TOMASIC
Continued on Page Six

'Cats Hold Edge In Owl Classic

This Saturday's Owl-'Cat classic will mark the annual game's fourteenth year of existence. From the initial game, 'way back in '28, up to and including last year's battle, the records show Villanova ahead in the number of victories, having won 8 and lost only 4.

When Harry Stuhldreher unleashed his bushel of Wildcats onto Franklin Field the day of that first game, the odds were hopelessly against the Blue and White. Temple's immortal "Swede" Hanson loomed dark and strong over the "shifters from Lancaster Pike." How powerful Swede turned out to be was told in the final score, Captain John Pessolano and the Villanova team held Temple to an 0-0 tie—a good start for a traditional game.

Revenge in his heart, Heinie Miller, Temple's mentor, attempted in the following year to guide his charges to a win, but was hopelessly engulfed in a 15-0 Wildcat score. Visitors to Temple Stadium that afternoon saw nothing but Villanova, Johnnie Gillespie being the individual star. At Municipal Stadium, in 1930, a last period safety spelled victory for Villanova. Rallying after eleven fumbles, the Felines sang misery to the Templemen to the tune of 8-7.

Battle Goes On

Just when winning the annual encounter was becoming a habit, the undefeated Red and White broke Villanova's two-game streak with a score of 13-7. In 1932 the still-undefeated Temple team met a green-jersied stone wall and lost by a 7-0 margin.

In 1933 Pop Warner came to Temple and found a sad welcome in the 24-0 shutout "Whitey" Ran-

PAST CLASSICS
Continued on Page Seven

Temple

T.		Opp.
31	Kansas	9
28	V. M. I.	13
17	Georgetown	7
14	Penn State	0
41	Bucknell	14
0	Boston College	31
131		74

Won, 5; lost, 1.

150's Defeated In Muddy Battle

In the rain soaked slough of Villanova Stadium on Saturday the Wildcat Lightweights were beaten by the Yale 150 pound team 6-0.

A brisk end sweep, late in the second period, spelled defeat for the spirited little footballers in a game marked by slow play and many fumbles on the swampy gridiron. And it was one of the Wildcat fumbles that set up the score.

Hart Scores

With the ball in Villanova's possession squarely on the midstripe, the slippery pigskin oozed from the hands of one of the backs and was immediately pounced on by an alert son of Old Eli. A fifteen yard penalty against the 'Cats for holding placed the ball on their 35. Then Claude Hart, running wide, circled the end and outraced the defenders to the goal.

The game was mostly a "two bucks and third down punt" affair on both sides. Passes could not be thrown, and on wide runs it was hard for both the ball carrier and his blockers to keep their footing.

Linemen Shine

The Elis got moving again in the second half. Three times they pushed within the Wildcat's twenty-five yard line, but each time the Blue and White forward wall surged in and stopped further gains. On these stands the defensive play of Captain Tommy Lyons, Logan Phillips, and Charlie Lozowski glowed brightly on that dark field.

Bucknell Oldest Rival

Many have thought Villanova to be Temple's oldest rival, but the fact is that Bucknell and Temple have been playing since 1927—one year before the Cat-Owl rivalry was inaugurated. Bucknell has a victory percentage of .375 against Temple, while Villanova has a victory percentage of .667. The 'Cats have been in only one tie with Temple, while the Bucks have played five even games with them.

Mendel Day Hops Tie Austin Hall For Mural Lead

The sharp-shooting Mendel Day-Hops moved into a first-place tie with Austin Hall last week when they beat the previously undefeated Firemen, 37-24, as Carmen Graziano rang up 12 points to take the scoring honors for the game . This was the first set-back for the Austinites who just couldn't seem to get going against the speedy commuters.

Determined to hold their first-place slot, the Mendel Travelers downed the C. & F. Businessmen, in a thrilling game, by a 33-26 margin. Jim Meehan sparked the Commercemen with 14 points as Carmen Graziano led the Mendelites with 11 counters.

Seeing that they were going to have plenty of trouble from the Mendel Day Students, Austin Hall once again came into its own and downed the Fedigan Gigoloes in a hard-fought contest with a 34-28 victory. George Szucs was high for the game with 12 points. Fedigan has yet to beat Austin this year.

By beating Alumni, Fedigan moved into second place and the Greenies took over third. The Gigoloes had little trouble with the freshmen, holding them to a 19-4 score at the half. John Cerulo was the Fedigan mainstay with 8 points as Alumni took a 27-19 defeat.

Once again the two freshmen teams clashed, but this time Alumni evened things up by handing the Penthousers a 24-14 drubing. Little scoring was done in the first half as the Greenies took a slight 10-7 lead. But Mendel fell apart as the Greenies opened a 14-point scoring attack in the second half to win, 24-14.

C. & F. moved into fourth place due to a forfeit by the Mendel Residents, who dropped to fifth place.

Dukes Tilt

Continued From Page Five

down and Duquesne started another thrust which ended on the ten yard line on a recovery by Smith and Pritko. Captain Yednock continued his brilliant kicking, getting over 40 yards on every attempt with the soggy ball.

Lack Punch

Anderson, Korisky, and Sullivan played valiantly and, combined with the recoveries of Prohovich and Stenn, were able to prevent five scoring threats which the Dukes set up. Except for their one score, the Dukes lacked the "pay dirt" drive as much as the 'Cats. Their offense was much better all evening but, like Villanova, when they neared the final double stripe they couldn't push through a stubborn line.

This was the eleventh straight win for Duquesne and the twenty-first in twenty-four starts over a three-year period.

"Meet Me Friday Night"
at
Spread Eagle Inn
Garden Restaurant
on Lancaster Pike
Strafford, Pa.

Frederick H. Hurd
Photographer
851 Lancaster Pike
Bryn Mawr, Pa.
Bryn Mawr 776

A Prevue On Saturday's Winners

Teams	Smith	Haughton	McNally	Doyle	Jacobs	Funabaahl	Whelan	Clark	Aisenbrey	Consensus
Baylor Texas	T	T	T	T	T	T	T	T	T	T 9-0
Cornell Yale	C	C	C	C	C	C	C	C	C	C 9-0
Georgetown Maryland	G	G	G	G	G	G	G	G	G	G 9-0
Harvard Army	A	A	A	A	H	A	A	H	H	A 6-3
Illinois Iowa	Ill.	Io.	Ill.	Io.	Ill.	Ill.	Ill.	Io.	Io.	Ill. 5-4
L. S. U. Mississippi	L	L	M	M	M	M	L	M	M	M 6-3
Boston U. Manhattan	B	M	B	M	M	M	M	M	M	M 7-2
Navy Notre Dame	ND	ND	ND	ND	N	ND	ND	ND	N	ND 7-2
Northwest'n Indiana	N	N	N	I	N	N	N	N	N	N 8-1
Princeton Dartmouth	D	D	D	D	D	D	D	D	D	D 9-0
Temple Villanova	V	V	V	V		V	V	V	V	V 8-0
S. M. U. Tex. A&M	T	T	T	T	T	T	T	T	T	T 9-0
Right	31	31	29	23	30	27	29	29	29
Wrong	17	16	19	25	14	21	19	19	19

Stop Tomasic

Continued From Page Five

the backfield are Angelo Sparagna at the right-half back slot and two good quarterbacks in Al Drulis and Charlie Zalonka.

Balanced Line

With this heavy but fast quartet, Coach Morrison has a well-balanced line that opens holes at the slightest suggestion. They have power and speed which agrees with the views of line-coach Josh Cody. All the high scores which the Owls have rolled up this year can safely be laid to the great play of the line.

John Mahalic and Frank Moister, both juniors, occupy the end positions and do equally as well when it comes to pass-receiving. The two tackle posts are manned by Sid Beshunsky and Francis Kilroy, another set of juniors, who weigh in at 216 lbs. apiece.

Wildcat Lineup Uncertain

Larry Brahm and Joe Boyd will take over the Owl guard slots at game time, another pair of 200-pounders. At center, Temple will either use John Bochynski or sophomore Jim Woodside. Both hit the scale around 205 pounds. In all, the Owls' line is very heavy.

Just whom Clipper Smith will insert in his starting lineup is hard to say. For the past few weeks, ever since the Manhattan loss, he has re-shuffled the lineup quite a bit. Most probable changes will come in the backfield and end posts. Smith knows that the team he puts in Temple Stadium must be one which can outsmart the Temple line, as did Boston College, and one which can stop Tomasic from going wild.

For Expert Convenient Attention

SERVICE IS OUR FIRST THOUGHT

Patronize
THE CAMPUS BARBER SHOP
- First Class Work -
- Popular Prices -

The
BRYN MAWR TRUST COMPANY
BRYN MAWR, PENNA.
●
Every Banking Facility
●
Member Federal Deposit Insurance Corp.

HART & HALL, Inc.
Insurance
825 LANCASTER AVE.
Bryn Mawr, Pa.

Meet Your Friends
AT THE GREEKS
We Serve Lunches
Superior Soda Service
Delicious Dinners

BROOKLINE COUNTRY CLUB
Dancing Every Thursday to America's Top Name Bands
Thursday, Nov. 6 - 9 to 1
CHARLIE SPIVAK
In Person, and His Orchestra
Admission: $1.00 plus tax
Phone: Hilltop 1600

●
This Space Reserved for Sun Cleaners and Dyers
●

Young & Kaber
- Florist -

See George Gabuzda
at Simpson Hall
The Campus Representative

WRIGLEY'S SPEARMINT CHEWING GUM

Have fun–be friendly
Treat yourself and others to fresh-tasting Wrigley's Spearmint Gum
The Flavor Lasts

Maxwell Award Won By Yednock

Joseph "Chief" Yednock, punter de luxe of the Villanova grid team, was the guest of honor at the weekly Maxwell luncheon held at the Warwick Hotel last week. He received the Maxwell Award, which is conferred each week to the outstanding college player in the Philadelphia district for his performance in the previous Saturday's game.

The "Chief" received the award for his outstanding work in the Baylor game the Friday before. His punting, for which he has been given the tag of the "Cosmic Kicker," time and again, set the Bears back deep in their own territory; and on three occasions Joe rolled the pigskin out on the 12, 8, and 6 yard lines, He also contributed several nice runs to the victory.

Yednock, an education senior, hails from Phoenixville, Pa., where he was a schoolboy star at the local high school. He has been on the squad for three years, but only gained a starting berth this season when his services as a kicker were sorely needed.

Loren Murchison & Co., Inc.
S. W. Hampsen, Rep.
Jeweler for Standard College Rings
Fraternity Pins
Keys & Medals
JUNIORS: Place your orders with Gene Smith at Fedigan Hall

"Big Paul" Stenn, Veteran Lineman, Hasn't Missed A Game In Three Years

Golf, basketball, and football! Pretty large order isn't it? Well, that just about measures up to big Paul "Bronk" Stenn.

Paul came to Villanova from Berwick High in up-state Pennsylvania. While at Berwick, "Bronk" played basketball and football, being elected captain of the grid team in his senior year. For three years, he held down a guard spot on the basketball team which won district honors for that section. It was while playing basketball that he met his present room-mate Sam Bray. They were rivals when Berwick played Kulpmont. P. S. Berwick won.

Full Time Job

In 1938, Paul enrolled at Villova and started making a name for himself around the campus as an athlete. He made the golf, basketball, and football teams and earned starting assignments in each sport. Later as a sophomore, Paul had to cut down his other extra - curricular activities and concentrate on his studies and football which took up most of his time. In his sophomore year "Bronk" took over the first string tackle job for "Clipper" Smith and has never relinquished it. Paul plays the hard charging, slashing tackle type of a game that is hard to beat. He is doubly ferocious on the gridiron when he is perturbed by an opposing lineman's play.

In the classroom, "the Bronk" is an entirely different character. With his glasses on and books under his arm, one would hardly think him the same person as "that big number 46" on the playing field.

Headed for Coaching

Paul is enrolled in the education school. His major is Social Studies and at the present time has completed his major and minor in his course.

As large as he is, Paul is only afraid of one person on the campus —"Ruffy" Joe Hagerty by name. Paul and Joe have had many hard scraps with the honors about even.

Paul misses Nick Basca keenly this year as they were fast friends for the past three years. Last spring they traveled down to Louisville, Ky., to witness the Kentucky Derby. No one seems to know just how they made out! The ambition of many a graduate of Villanova, is the same as that of "the Bronk's," to become a football coach. Paul would like to teach Social Problems and History along with football.

Temple's View

Continued From Page Five

wings; Zajkowski and Kilroy on the tackles; Brahm and Korba at the guards, and Woodside at the pivot position.

Second on the list of why the Owl will upset the Cat is the prowess of All-American candidates Andy Tomasic and George Sutch, ably supported by Angy "Spitz" Sparagna, and Al Drulis, the third member of the Drulis family to play for the Templars.

Mr. Tomasic is not what you would call a stranger to the Villanova football and baseball teams. In fact, we've heard it said that Andy is a Villanova "favorite" — yes, favorite nuisance. This year Captain Andy has graciously consented not to monopolize the scoring efforts, he has agreed to let "Jarrin' Jawg" Sutch share in the laurels. Incidentally, Sutch will undoubtedly be a source of much discomfort to you 'Cats, but he can be stopped — with a stone wall.

Third on the Temple hit parade is a quality found on every great team — the keen spirit of competition that seems to prevail no matter how stiff the competition.

No. 4 — Reserves

Fourth, a wealth of reserve material — "Acres of Diamonds" — if you will, personified by Earle Baugher, an up-and-coming lad who can do everything including running, kicking, and passing; Tony DiTomo, a brusing blocker and tackler; Joe Papiano, an accurate pass heaver ,and Dom Serino, burly quarterback who shares the duties with Sparagna.

Fifth, (only one to go) is the influence of the splendid men guiding the Temple destiny. We refer to Ray Morrison, Josh Cody, and Harold Williams, three of the finest coaches in the business, whose untiring efforts have enabled the Templars to produce their fine record.

The sixth, and last reason why we are certain that Temple will send the 'Cats home on the short end of the score is that our student body is 100 per cent behind the team and will be out there cheering their lungs out for Ray Morrison and the boys.

George Fein & Co.
Printer & Publishers
2116 to 2130 Arch St.
PHILADELPHIA, PA.
RITtenhouse 6983

THE WILSON LAUNDRY CO.
of Bryn Mawr
Always the Friend of Villanova Students
10% discount to students for "cash and carry" work.
No charge for replacing buttons or making minor repairs.
An American institution owned, operated by and employing Americans.

CONESTOGA
★ ★ ★ MILL County Line & Conestoga Rd. Bryn Mawr
FULL COURSE DINNERS
DANCING
Every Evening

Series Standings

'Cats vs. Owls

Villanova		Temple
0	1928	0
15	1929	0
8	1930	7
7	1931	13
7	1932	0
24	1933	0
0	1934	22
21	1935	14
0	1936	6
33	1937	0
20	1938	7
12	1939	6
0	1940	28

Villanova won 8, lost 4, tied 1.

Past Classics

Continued From Page Five

dour and the boys gave him. Retaliating the next year, Pop put a boy named Dave Smuckler on the field to hold the Wildcats to seven points, and to score or be responsible for scoring 22. By this and other victories Smuckler, then a sophomore, brought Temple a bid from the Sugar-bowl.

The year nineteen-thirty-five saw Michaels spur a light but fast Villanova team to a 21-14 win. At the close of the season Stuhldreher went to U. of Wisconsin, and Clipper Smith and Vince McNally came to the Alma Mater.

Smith's first Villanova team was defeated by Temple, 6-0, Chris Papas being the bright light in the Owl line-up. Undaunted, Clipper produced, in 1937, a team rated fifth best in the country. In sleet and snow and rain they passed and caught with numbed fingers until they had chalked up 33 markers to Temple's none. Four ne'er to be forgotten touchdown passes and a line play were responsible for Villanova's impressive score.

Temple Rocked

The next year's team, true to form, rocked Temple, 20-0. The boys scored on a stolen ball in the first 20 sconds, scored again after three minutes of play, and again in the final quarter.

Nick Basca, now of the Philadelphia Eagles, clinched the 1939 clash with a pair of interceptions. The first, in the initial period, he carried 60 yards for a touchdown; the second he brought to the Red-and-White 3-yard line, from which point a Worthington-to-Howlett pass scored. The final score was 12-6.

The thirteenth game in the series proved rather unlucky for Villanova. We all know what happened in last year's game. Andy Tomasic carried the ball for a total of 140 yards, and the Owls swamped the Smithmen, 28-0.

As the records stand, Villanova has won eight, Temple four, and there has been one tie.

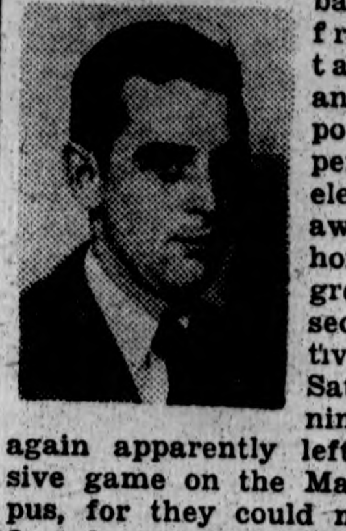
The Lamp Post Inn
Luncheon and Dinners
Strafford, Pa.

Men's Clothes
Made-to-Measure
COLEBY Tailoring Inc.
57th & MARKET STS.
Suits & Topcoats
$27.75
See Steve Aisenbrey
110 Fedigan Hall

HERE AND THERE

By FRED CLARK

ONLY a few short weeks ago, we all were looking forward to the clash of two great gridiron Goliaths, Temple and Villanova, with a good deal of excitement and expectancy. At that time, it looked very much like the game would assume a mantle of national importance, since both teams were impressive in early season performances and received high national ratings.



Villanova was first to fall from its lofty position when a courageous band of Jaspers from Manhattan outfought and outplayed a potentially superior Wildcat eleven. Playing away from their home stamping grounds for the second consecutive week last Saturday evening, the 'Cats again apparently left their offensive game on the Main Line campus, for they could make but one first down in dropping a close 7 to 0 decision to Duquesne University.

Owls Upset

The fates of football allowed the Owls of Temple University one more week of grace than the Wildcats but they finally caught-up with them in Boston this past week-end and in no easy fashion. We can appreciate the feelings of Temple followers, as the totally unexpected 31 to 0 licking at the hands of an underdog Boston College aggregation blasted forth from their radios for we suffered a similar defeat down in Texas two years ago. A fellow named John Kimbrough had more than a little to do with the outcome of that fracas; but why dig up bitter memories?

Regardless of the fact that the national interest shown in this annual Philadelphia classic may be negative because of these recent setbacks of the two contestants, you can bet your last sheckel that local interest will not be lacking.

This is THE game on the schedule of both schools and a victory means a successful season. In order not to break with the traditional attitude of the local sportswriters toward this contest between the Owls and the 'Cats, we might as well make use of that aged and time-worn phrase — past performances can be thrown out the window when trying to predict the outcome of a Villanova-Temple grid battle.

Players' Feelings Count

One thing that cannot be thrown out the window, however, is the attitude of the players themselves. After last week's defeats, it is the job of "Clipper" Smith and Ray Morrison to have their charges "up" for this contest. A team that is "down" simply does not stand a chance against an opponent that is mentally as well as physically fit for a game.

That is why we decorate the campus buildings and hold a rally in the Field House and light the huge bonfire each year. All that is not just for show. It is done for a purpose and that purpose is to let the team know that the student body is behind them. So, do not spare your voices at the rally Friday evening. Just save enough lung-power for the game on the following afternoon.

Four Finalists In I-M Tennis

The annual Intramural Tennis Tournament is now in its final stages. In fact, the new champion will be determined this week. There are four semi-finalists striving to gain the coveted championship, which was won last year by George McFadden, now a member of the varsity tennis team.

The four aspirants still in the running are Dick Breen of Alumni, "Bull" Molnar of Austin, Bob Leary of the Mendel Dayhops, and Joe Pesca of the Mendel Residents. Breen has already defeated Art Conner, the Fedigan champ, in a hotly-contested match, 6-4, 5-7, 6-3, while Molnar has eliminated Jimmie Pike, the diminutive C. & F. champ, to the tune of 6-1, 6-2. According to the draw, the semi-final contests will pit Molnar against Breen and Leary against Pesca.

At Our Local Cinema

Direction Warner Bros.
TOWER
69th & MARKET STS.
Fri. to Mon. - Nov. 7 to 10
Joan Crawford
Robert Taylor
Greer Garson
Herbert Marshall
— in —
"WHEN LADIES MEET"

ARDMORE THEATRE
Wed. to Sat.
"LADY BE GOOD"
with
ELEANOR POWELL
ANN SOTHERN
ROBERT YOUNG
LIONEL BARRYMORE
Sun. & Mon.
"HIGHWAY WEST"
with
BRENDA MARSHALL
ARTHUR KENNEDY
OLYMPE BRADNA
WILLIAM LUNDIGAN

SEVILLE
THEATRE BRYN MAWR
Wed. & Thurs.
"DR. JEKYLL & MR. HYDE"
Fri. & Sat.
"SUN VALLEY SERENADE"
Sunday
"WORLD PREMIERE"
Monday
"BELLE STARR"

ANTHONY WAYNE
THEATRE WAYNE
Tues. & Wed.
"DIVE BOMBER"
Thurs. to Sat.
"HERE COMES MR. JORDAN"
Sunday
"ICE-CAPADES"

SUBURBAN
ARDMORE
Tues. to Fri.
"BELLE STARR" (The Bandit Queen)
Sat. to Mon.
"HERE COMES MR. JORDAN"

NORRIS
NORRISTOWN
Tues. to Thurs.
"WHEN LADIES MEET" with
Joan Crawford - Robert Taylor
Fri., Sat. & Mon.
"A YANK IN THE R. A. F."
with Betty Grable - Tyrone Power

RIDE FREE ON P. & W. RAILWAY MOVIE TICKETS
GRAND
NORRISTOWN
Wed. & Thurs.
Robert Young - Ruth Hussey in
"MARRIED BACHELOR"
Fri. & Sat.
Wayne Morris in
"THE SMILING GHOST"

GARRICK
NORRISTOWN
Wed. & Thurs.
"DR. KILDARE'S WEDDING DAY" with Lew Ayres - Lionel Barrymore and "DRESSED TO KILL" with Lloyd Nolan
Fri. & Sat.
"PRISONER ON DEVIL'S ISLAND" and
"DOWN IN SAN DIEGO"

WILDCATS!
STOP HERE
LA DOW'S PHARMACY
On the Edge of the Campus
LANCASTER PIKE
VILLANOVA, PA.

Briefs On The News

Two debates, one with Penn Evening School at the University on November 21, and the other with St. Joseph's College on December 4, at Villanova, have been scheduled for Beta Gamma by its chairman, John P. Fullam.

Both debates are being held under the jurisdiction of the Forensic League, which the college is again entering this year. The question to be discussed at both meetings is: "Resolved that the U. S. should regulate the labor unions."

Another debate with St. Joseph's, a non-league contest on Nov. 13, in the Knights of Columbus Hall, Atlantic City, has also been arranged.

Seniors who wish to order pictures will have an opportunity to do so on Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday, November 10, 11, and 12, when Miss Ann McCarthy, a representative of Zamsky's Studios, will be in the Mendel Hall reception room with samples of portraits. At the same time, they will be expected to designate which informal pose they want printed in the Belle Air.

John Deery, sophomore artsman, won the Victor records offered as first prize in the musical guessing contest conducted at the Music Seminar last Wednesday afternoon, missing only three of the forty questions asked in the quiz.

Tomorrow afternoon a seminar devoted to a discussion of the highlights of the opera will be held in the amphitheater. Many noted vocal and instrumental selections will be played, and Dr. Edward L. Haenisch, moderator, will describe the position of each in its respective opera.

The seminar for resident students, usually conducted in Simpson Hall on Wednesday evening, will not be held tomorrow night because of the building decorations contest.

"History of the Neutrality Act" will be discussed by the members of the History Seminar, under the direction of Dr. Harold F. Hartman, this Thursday at 3:00 P. M. in Simpson Hall.

Wilfred Gagen, sophomore commerceman, will lead the discussion, which will be concerned with a minute examination of changes in the attitude of the U. S. Government toward the European War, as they are reflected in congressional debate and legislation.

Henry Martinez, senior engineer, has been appointed chairman of a committee which will make all arrangements for the annual smoker to be conducted by the local student chapter of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers on Nov. 17 in the Blue Room of the Field House.

Delta Pi Epsilon, commerce school fraternity, began its pledging period yesterday as a chairman and committee of five, whose identity is unknown to the student body, commenced a thorough consideration of the entire sophomore and junior classes of the business school in order to select the most desirable students for membership.

Highlight of a Spanish Club meeting held last Wednesday night, was a talk delivered by Rev. John R. Dunne, O. S. A., on the Republic of Cuba, its geographical aspects, customs and political strife.

"Villanovans" Obtain Songstress For Hop

For the first time since the inception of the college orchestra, the "Villanovans" will feature a girl vocalist for the Owl Hop, to be held on Nov. 14 in the Field House. Dancing will be from 9 to 1 A. M.

Tickets for the annual affair sponsored by Phi Kappa Pi, engineering fraternity are now on sale at $1.65, tax included. They may be purchased from the co-chairmen, James Spinelli and Thomas Hushen, or from any of the dance committee members.

At a meeting held yesterday morning, final arrangements were made for the dance. Decoration of the Field House, under the supervision of James Earley, will begin early next week. Final touches will be made following the last practice of the basketball team next week.

Dance publicity has been spread through flyers distributed at the various colleges.

Military Motifs

Continued From Page One

like Wildcat inside it. On top of this will be spelled the words, "Beat Temple," in letters brilliantly covered with tin-foil.

With a somewhat duplicate theme of Nautical National Defense, Alumni will make a suprise movement by decorating the rear of their hall this year. Taking advantage of the building's structure, the frosh have formed a view of an on-coming battleship. The intent of destroying Temple by maritime means will be designated by huge, well-lighted signs. Spotlights will complete the lighting scheme.

The Day-Hops of C. & F. will complete a colorful array of decorations based on the patriotic hues of red, white and blue. Large letters "V" and "T" will be placed at respective ends of the building front. Two football players strangling an owl with ropes will adorn the roof.

A. C. S. Puts College On "Approved" List

The Oct. 25 issue of the "News Edition", American Chemical Society publication, reveals that Villanova's department of chemistry has been added to the list of those chemistry departments of universities and colleges approved by the society.

Villanova's admission to the select group makes it the only Catholic college of its size to be so honored. Five Catholic institutions in all are included in the list.

Throughout the country there are 111 approved institutions. Sixty-eight of these are universities and a number of others are large technical institutions; 17 colleges of Villanova's size are included.

Important among the benefits to be derived from approval by the A. C. S. is the fact that it qualifies graduates for full memberships in the society after only two years' experience in the field of engineering or post-graduate study instead of the five years otherwise required.

Z

IS FOR ZAMAK

ZAMAK is an alloy of zinc, aluminum and magnesium. It was most widely used in the manufacture of "housings" for telephone sets.

Now, however, new telephones are being made with plastic instead of Zamak "housings."

This is only one of many substitutions already made in the Bell System's program to cut down its use of vital defense materials. These substitutions are being made promptly because Bell Laboratories have been foresighted—preparing to meet the shortages before they happened.

GLORIA AND BARBARA BREWSTER
Popular twins of stage and screen

To give you the one and only cigarette that Satisfies... it takes the right kinds of the world's best cigarette tobaccos... the best from our own Tobaccoland and rare aromatic tobaccos from Turkey... the best tobaccos that money can buy.

... and listen to this: it takes the Right Combination of these best cigarette tobaccos, the blend that can't be copied... to give Chesterfield the extra smoking pleasure that makes smokers say THEY SATISFY.

Two Swell Reasons why

It's Chesterfield

THE MILDER BETTER-TASTING COOLER-SMOKING CIGARETTE

Copyright 1941, Liggett & Myers Tobacco Co.

KEEP SUPPLIED WITH
SCHOOL TICKETS
GOOD ON BUSES AND RAIL CARS UNTIL USED
5c a Ride, Including Special Free Transfers. Obtain Identification Cards at School Office.
RED ARROW LINES
Philadelphia Suburban Transportation Co.
Aronimink Transportation Co.

Aristocrat
ICE CREAM
"Deliciously Different"
PHILA. DAIRY PRODUCTS CO.
4th & Poplar Sts., Phila., Pa.

VILLANOVAN

Vol. 14—No. 6 N. A. S. Z-660 VILLANOVA COLLEGE, VILLANOVA, PA. TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 18, 1941

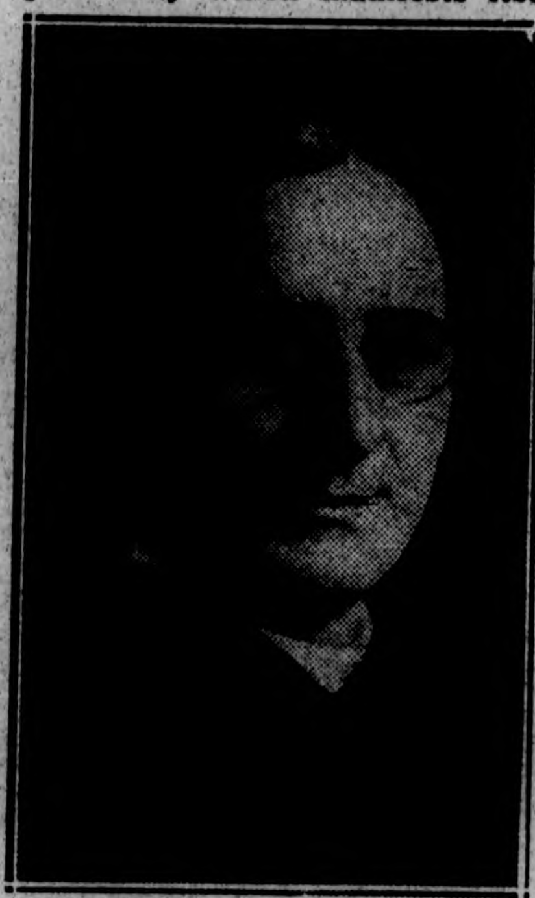
College Seen As Basic Training

Dr. Hickey Discusses Development of Catholic Lay Leaders at Confraternity

"The particular function of the college is to furnish the basic equipment, so to speak, required for the development of responsible leadership," Very Rev. Joseph A. Hickey, O. S. A., Assistant General of the Augustinian Order, stated yesterday morning at a session of the Confraternity of Christian Doctrine devoted to a discussion of developing lay leaders in Catholic colleges, held in the Bellevue-Stratford Hotel.

Dr. Hickey said that the Catholic college is not intended to furnish specific courses dealing with the direct training of leaders, but that it should train indirectly.

The college should train the mind, offer a background of knowledge, develop a spirit of responsibility which manifests itself in zeal and enthusiasm, and thus produce men well qualified and willing to accept the duties of leadership, he said.



DR. JOSEPH A. HICKEY

Catholic College Has Heritage

Dr. Hickey also declared that "the rich heritage of philosophy, based upon a frank recognition of the truths of natural religion with their corresponding duties, which is the birthright of every Catholic college, establishes its claim of superiority in this regard over colleges and universities which are purely secular in character."

He stated that the college prepares the student for future lay leadership through its formal courses, its courses in religion and philosophy, and by a strengthening of religious character and providing of opportunity for group activity for the fostering of zeal.

Urges Actions

Concluding, he urged a greater measure of participation on the part of Catholic students in the lay movements of the Church, such as the Confraternity, the National Federation of Catholic College Students, and similar groups.

The session of the Confraternity at which the Assistant General spoke, was presided over by the Most Rev. Francis W. Howard, D. D., Bishop of Covington. The chairman was Most Rev. Francis M. Kelly, D. D., Bishop of Winona.

Student Addresses

Following Dr. Hickey's address, six college students gave activity

CONFRATERNITY
Continued on Page Four

Belle Masque Won't Function This Year

Belle Masque, the college dramatic organization, will be inactive this year, Rev. Francis X. Boyle, O. S. A., moderator of the group, disclosed yesterday.

The Dramateurs' Reception, a Belle Masque presentation of one-act plays, will not be held as scheduled in the student handbook. The annual play, however, will be given as usual in the spring under the direction of Mr. Anthony J. Frayne.

The date for tryouts for this play will be announced later in the year and all on the campus who are interested will be cordially invited to participate.

Election Today

The oft-scheduled and heretofore oft-postponed junior election for the position of class vice-president will definitely be held today, according to Student Council president Thomas J. McKimmey.

All preliminary details have been ironed out and ballots are to be cast between 12:30 and 1:30 P. M. in room 110, Mendel Hall.

Six nominees are running for the position vacated by Richard F. Anderson. They are Samuel J. Canning, John F. Newell, and Joseph T. Halpin, of the commerce school; Angelo Macchia and George N. Eriksen, Jr., of the School of Science; and James J. Donnelly, engineer.

Debating League Season Opens Fri.

Beta Gamma Debating Society will open its season in the Philadelphia Forensic League Friday evening with a decision debate against the representatives of the University of Pennsylvania Evening School. The contest will be held at Penn.

Topic for debate will be, "Resolved: That the Federal Government should regulate by law all labor unions in the United States." Contrary to previous announcement, the procedure followed will be the orthodox plan, consisting of two constructive speeches and one rebuttal.

At a meeting of the league directors held last week, it was decided to discontinue the practice of holding league debates according to the Oregon Plan, which includes cross-questioning by both sides.

Villanova will probably be represented by Chairman John P. Fullam and Thomas J. McKimmey, both senior education majors, and Joseph F. Mahoney, junior artsman. Beta Gamma's trio will uphold the affirmative, while Penn Evening will speak against governmental supervision of the unions.

The second Villanova league debate of the season will be held here on Dec. 4, against St. Joseph's College.

D. P. E. Switches

Initiation Shifted From Tomorrow Evening to Next Monday; Pledgees on Probation

In view of the recent examinations and other detaining circumstances, Delta Pi Epsilon, business school fraternity, has decided to postpone its initiation ceremonies, scheduled for tomorrow evening, to Monday, Nov. 24, according to David N. Reardon, president.

This delay will enable the pledging committee to formulate more elaborate plans for the initiation and the induction period which will precede it.

Black and yellow pledge badges will be issued to tentatively-accepted new members today, in order that they may be readily recognized during the "dog" week to be held previous to the formal initiation. A list of those sophomores and juniors who make up this group was posted yesterday, and a special meeting of the new men was held in the commerce school auditorium.

A regular meeting of the fraternity members will be held this Thursday at 11:45 A. M. in Simpson Hall, when forthcoming activities will be discussed.

Collingsw'd Defense Training Enrolls 53

Classes in the Engineering Defense Training courses, begun last Thursday evening at the Collingswood High School, Collingswood, N. J., have an enrollment of 53 students, according to an announcement made yesterday by J. Stanley Morehouse, Dean of the School of Engineering and director of the local defense training program.

Courses are being offered in basic heat power engineering, marine power plant calculations, and marine heating and air conditioning. Each course is conducted two hours a night, two nights a week for 12 weeks, a total of 72 hours of class work.

Instructors are Kenneth Moser, assistant professor on the regular faculty, Samuel Arnow, and Gerhardt Klapper.

Like the other courses under the E. D. T., these are being offered to men working in industries connected with the national defense effort. Most of the students at Collingswood are employees of the New York Shipbuilding Company in Camden.

Over 150 High Schools Represented In Class Of '45, Analysis Reveals

An analysis of the freshman registration figures released yesterday by P F. Banmiller, college registrar, reveals that the 325 first year men come from 151 different secondary schools, 15 states, and two foreign countries.

As in the past, the nearby West Philadelphia Catholic High School for Boys has the largest representation, with 31 men. This marks an increase over last year when they were also first with only 17 students.

St. Joseph's College High School of Philadelphia is second with 15 of its graduates in the freshman class, while the Augustinian Academy of Staten Island, N. Y., is next with 13 alumni enrolled here.

Many Schools Represented

South Philadelphia High School has eight graduates here as first year men, while Norristown High School, La Salle College High School, Northeast Catholic High School, and St. John's Preparatory School, Danvers, Mass., each have seven men in the freshman class.

Five men each came from Malvern Preparatory School, St. Thomas More High School, and Southeast Catholic High School. The remaining 215 freshmen represent 140 schools scattered throughout the country.

Geographical Range

Further analysis of registration figures discloses that members of the full-time student body represent 20 different states from Maine to Florida and six foreign countries.

As is to be expected, the greatest number, 578, hail from Pennsylvania. Next come New Jersey with 137 and New York with a total of 128.

New England States are well represented, with 44 from Massachusetts, 21 from Connecticut, two from Vermont, and one representative each from Maine, New Hampshire and Rhode Island.

Representing the South are two students from Mississippi, and one each from Alabama, Florida and Virginia.

Two From Far West

Getting nearer home, there are five residents of Delaware, five from Maryland, and two from the nation's capital.

The Midwest contributes 11 from Illinois, four from Ohio, and one from Oklahoma. The Far West is represented by two men, whose home states are California and Nebraska.

The student whose home is farthest from Villanova is Henry Payeras, sophomore engineer, who comes from Cali, Columbia. Puerto Rico, which sends 11 students here, has the greatest representation from outside the continental United States.

The island republic of Cuba sends seven men here, while Mexico claims two students and the Canal Zone one.

This distribution is substantially the same as that of last year.

Total Figures

Altogether a total of 3,168 students will have attended courses offered by Villanova for the school year 1941-42.

Included in this figure are the 1099 who attended the summer session and the 691 attending the part-time courses now being offered.

The evening school now has an enrollment of 329 students at Hallahan High School taking courses for college credits.

Total registration for the course offered under the sponsorship of the Civilian Aviation Administration for the year will be 17, and the enrollment in the Engineering Defense Training courses to date is 470.

Gallagher And Melton Receive First Senior Class Appointments: Posts As Belle Air Ball Chairmen

John T. Gallagher and Andrew J. Melton, both seniors in the School of Commerce and Finance, have been named co-chairmen of the Belle Air Ball committee, according to an announcement released today by John P. Kirchner, president of the senior class.

Members of the class who will serve on the committee will be chosen this week, as will the chairman and committee of the Dinner-Dance. Their names will be released as soon as the selection has been approved by the college authorities.

In announcing this decision Kirchner stated, "My choice is primarily founded on the experience and proven ability of the two men. Both have shown themselves more than qualified to do a good job."

Gallagher has been business manager of the VILLANOVAN since his freshman year and has been chairman of the staff's annual dinner-dance for the past two years. He also acted as business manager of the Belle Masque for two years.

Melton, was a member of the Orientation Committee in his sophomore year and served two terms in the office of class treasurer. He is an active member of the Belle Masque and Choral Societies.

Experienced at Dances

The co-chairmen have collaborated on a number of other activities during their three years here. Both are members of the Sanctuary and Holy Name Societies and both received their experience in arranging dances as members of the Sophomore Cotillion and Junior Prom Committees.

Appointment of the dance heads has been made early this year, in accordance with the usual custom, in order that the chairmen and their committee may have ample time to make all arrangements. The Belle Air Ball, highlight of the senior social calendar, is scheduled this year for Friday evening, Feb. 13, in the Field House. Held on the day preceding the senior Dinner-Dance, the Ball marks the beginning of the last social week-end sponsored by the class.

Ask Early Payment

Upon receiving word of their appointment, Gallagher and Melton stressed the importance of prompt payment of the class assessment by all seniors to assure the success of the affair.

"As a large proportion of the money must be paid in advance to defray the expense of decoration materials and the down payment required by all name bands, we are asking the members of the class to get their assessments in no later than after returning from Christmas holidays," they said.

"The assessment will be returned to any senior who is drafted."

They'll Direct

JOHN GALLAGHER

Senior Affair

ANDREW MELTON

E. P. T. To Initiate Pledgees Tonight

Rev. John F. Burns, O. S. A., dean of the School of Arts, and Maurice "Clipper" Smith will be the principal speakers tonight at the initiation of new members of the Epsilon Phi Theta, arts school fraternity. The induction of the pledges will take place in the Field House at 7:30 P. M.

Other invited guests include Rev. John E. Bresnahan, O. S. A., Rev. John J. Gavigan, O. S. A., and Rev. Thomas A. Kiley, O. S. A. All are members of the arts school faculty.

In addition to the usual initiation indignities, the new members will undergo the questionable hardship of a pie-eating contest. "Each new member is to bring his own paddle," announced David F. Daly, president. "This is in order to make him feel more at home during the proceedings," he explained.

Other necessary articles of equipment for each prospective brother are a letter of approval and encouragement from the student council president of Rosemont, Immaculata, or Chestnut Hill College, a photograph of himself in girl's attire, and a ten-line poem about his best girl friend.

Sandwiches, cakes, and coffee will be served after the initiation proper, and the facilities of the Field House will be at the disposal of both old and new members.

The pledges will have completed a week of intensive trial tonight. During the past week they were known as "dogs" and had to furnish chewing gum and life savers upon request of frat members. The "dogs" were distinguished by pieces of red ribbon attached to their lapels.

President To Attend Educators' Meeting

Very Rev. Edward V. Stanford, O. S. A., president of the college, Rev. Joseph I. Boyle, Chaplain, and Paetrus F. Banmiller, Registrar, will represent Villanova at the annual meeting of the Middle States Educational Association in Atlantic City this Friday and Saturday, Nov. 21 and 22.

Fr. Boyle will attend the sessions of the Eastern Region of the National Catholic Educational Association, while Banmiller will take part in the discussions of the Middle States Registrars' meeting; both groups meet during the general convention.

Duty To Faith

THE Seventh Annual National Congress of the Confraternity of Christian Doctrine, which will close at Convention Hall tonight, should bring home to all the fact that religion is an active, vital thing.

"He who is not with Me is against Me," our Divine Savior has reminded us, leaving no room for dead weight on the craft carrying us to salvation. We who have Christ with us as so intimate a companion should accept willingly the task which He has consigned to us, that of communicating our Faith to those less fortunate than ourselves.

If we do not recognize this responsibility, or, recognizing it, fail to meet it, we run the risk of falling into the mansuetude of indifference or even active, though unintentional, opposition to the designs of Christ.

And as Catholic college students we are in a uniquely advantageous position for the spreading of the teachings of Our Lord. As Very Rev. Joseph A. Hickey, O. S. A., explained at a session of the Confraternity yesterday, our college education is equipping us indirectly to be leaders in this new apostolic mission.

It is for us — Catholic students today, Catholic men tomorrow — to make active use of the opportunities and advantages afforded us by our education and to assume the burden which is ours as Catholic lay leaders. Christ has made His appeal for laborers, "for the harvest is great."

—T. F. D.

Weaving A Downfall

THE weather, the Red resistance, the need for urgent supplies, and the uprisings among the supposedly vanquished peoples — these are the reasons for the present German military inefficiency.

The German attack was heralded in the past month as "digging in" on the Red front. Now it appears that the invading forces have dug too deeply, for the German armies have bogged down in the mire of the Russian landscape. More than that, they have had little occasion to demonstrate the effectiveness of their war machine because of the reverses dealt by the violent counter-attacks of Soviet troops. The heavy burden placed upon Germany by this resistance and the manner in which it is disrupting the plans of that nation is attested by the great difficulty with which the Nazi soldiers and equipment are being rushed from place to place in the line to plug the Red thrusts.

All of these last forced, unexpected maneuvers on the part of the Axis power have done much to drain a diminishing oil supply, an essential product if Hitler is to continue the "blitz" at the same rapid, devastating clip of the past. The oil reserve was pressed into service at the beginning of the drive against Stalin. It should be almost exhausted at this point, and if not will surely be by next year if the Feuhrer can not replenish his stock from other conquests.

These manifestations of the stalled invasion of Russia and the new need which Hitler must remedy are viewed encouragingly by all peoples. Yet, there is still another opposition which the Nazi state must face which may weigh more in turning events to come than any other. It is the spirit of the conquered nations, which Hitler could not conquer or kill in all instances.

Already, people, forced to flee in exile, are rebelling throughout Europe on a mass scale. They are recapturing their homelands, waging guerrilla warfare with a fury born of a love of liberty and peace, and generally "worrying" the occupation troops of the foe. One exploited example of this revolt against slavery is that of 80,000 Serbs who are banded and now in control of three-fourths of Serbia, which they have reseized from the Axis.

Hitler, as present, is at a standstill, and, thankfully, there are many who are making the most of his position.

—H. A. McC.

VILLANOVAN

Issued twenty-five times a year from Villanova College, Villanova, Pa.

THOMAS H. DOYLE, JR., '42 ....Editor-in-Chief
ROBERT J. FUNABASHI, '42 ....Sports Editor
THOMAS F. DEVINE, '43 ....College Editor
WILLIAM E. SCHUBERT, '42 ....Managing Editor
THOMAS A. SULLIVAN, '42 ....Copy Editor
HOWARD A. McCALL, '42 ....Literary Editor
JOHN T. GALLAGHER, '42 ....Business Manager
ALBERT D'ALONZO, '42 ....Photography Editor
JOHN P. FULLAM, '42 ....Feature Editor
ROBERT F. DONOVAN, '42 ....Subscription Manager
BRUNO J. TALVACCHIA, '42 ......Exchange Editor
BERNARD C. CRUMB, ex-'42, Honorary Circulation Manager

Columnists
F. J. Clark, '42 D. N. Reardon, '42

Staff Writers
F Bagot, '43; G. Belz, '42; E. Bennis, '43; H. Binder, '44; J. Bongiovanni, '43; R. Canfield, '43; S. Canning, '43; S. Caplan, '42; J. Coleman, '43; W. Craven, '43; L. DeSimone, '44; J. Dudley, '43; J. Earley, '42; L. Esposito, '43; W. Guncheon, Jr., '43; D. Haley, '42; J. Jakovic, '42; J. Mahoney, '43; J. Mauch, '43; J. McCabe, '42; R. McIntyre, '42; T. Muraski, '43; J. Nunemaker, '43; F. Reese, '43; T Shallow, '42; C. Schaumann, '42; J. Tortoreto, '44; R .Young, '44.

Business Assistants
C. Callahan, '43 L. Jones, '43 E. Smith, '43
J. Walsh, '43

Circulation Assistants
J. Cerulo, '42 G. Fitzgerald, '42 E. Frank, '42
N. Eni, '43 J. Keays, '44 J. Monroe, '44

Photography Staff
R. Amicone, '43 L. Eni, '44 J. Sandonato, '42

Faculty Advisor—Rev. Edward B. McKee, O. S. A.

This paper is dedicated to one of the finest men who ever entered Villanova; scholar, athlete, gentleman — LEO GOODREAU

Subscription: $2.00 per year. Circulation: 3500.
Entered as second class matter at the Villanova Post Office December 27, 1928.

Member of Associated Collegiate Press; Distributor of Collegiate Digest.
Member of Catholic School Press Association, Catholic College Press Association, and National Scholastic Press Association.

Letter To The Editor

November 13, 1941

Dear Mr. Doyle:

As the editorials, up to date, in your paper have been definitely one-sided, that of anti-British, I have written this letter to explain the opposite side: that side in favor of the foreign policy of the United States.

The assumption that all national policy must be based on a conception of America First is to perpetuate selfishness, and to promote the friction that similar movements engender in other countries and among other peoples. To insist that other nations must make the sacrifices first before we can do likewise is to misunderstand the power of example as it has been evolved in human relations for centuries.

The most powerful and the richest nations can afford to indicate the nature of the sacrifices they are ready to make for world peace. We in America should not be preaching a doctrine of abandonment so far as the rest of the world is concerned but a doctrine of cooperation. A committee which could further such a purpose would be a committee on Humanity First.

If the Axis Powers Are Victorious . . .

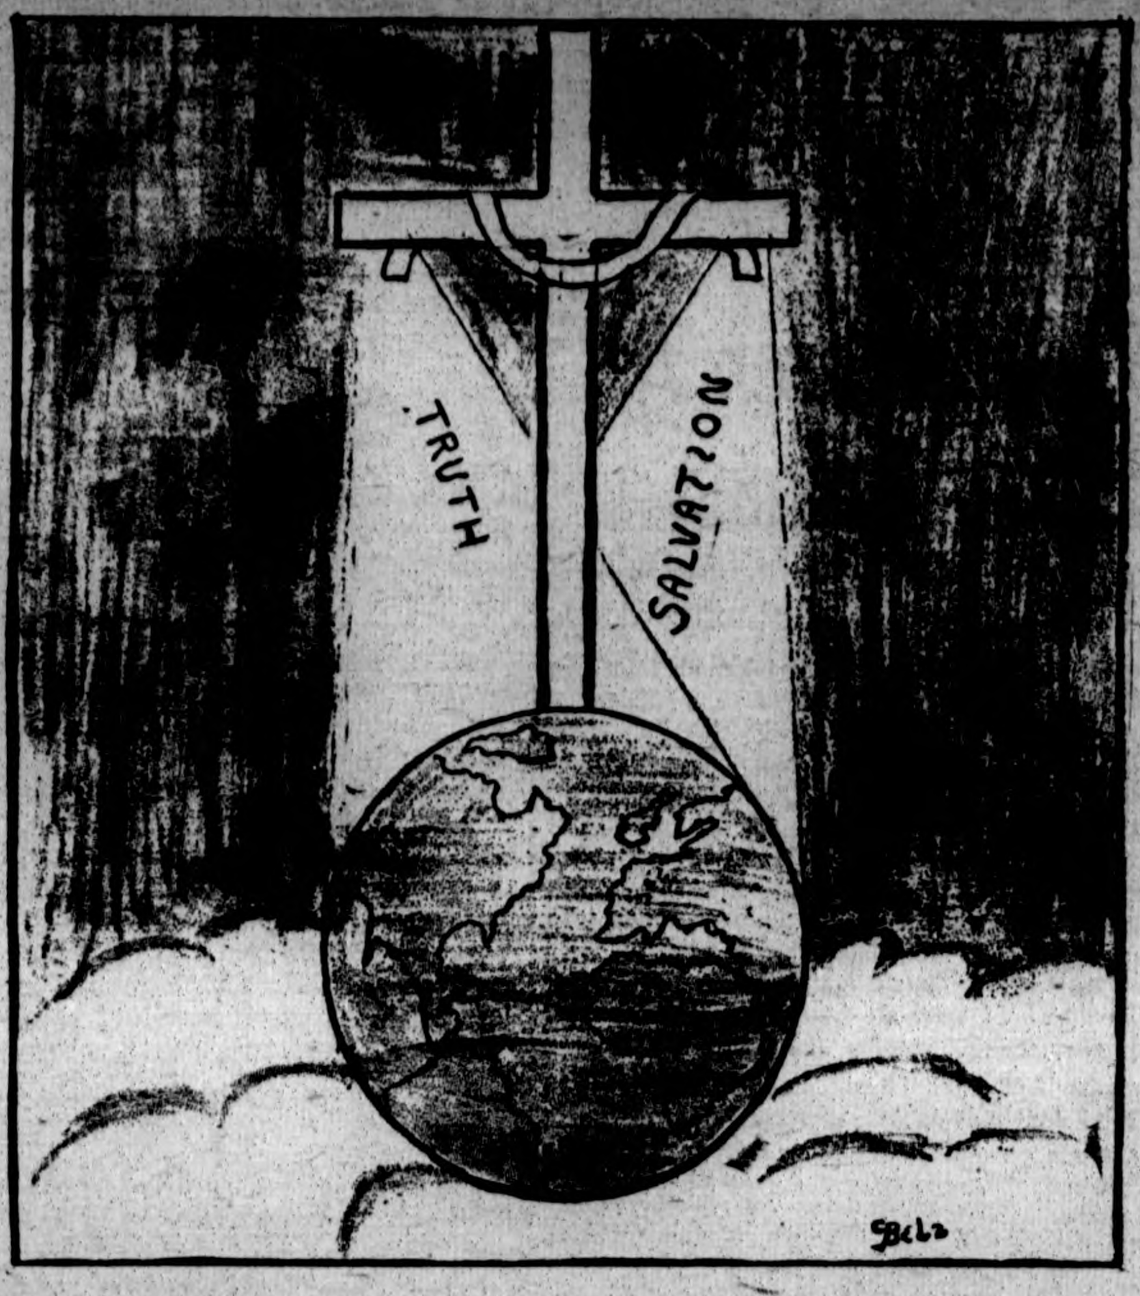
Some sentiment in favor of accommodating ourselves to this possible new setup already exists in this country, the hold of which would unquestionably be stronger with the prestige of the Axis powers heightened by victory in the present warfare. Adherents of this view, while sharing in the popular demand for adequate defense against invasion, regard that as an unlikely eventuality, and contend that we should do as much business as possible, on a normal trading basis, with the totalitarian powers, otherwise attending strictly to our own affairs.

It would be most comforting if we could assume that everything would be as simple as this, in particular that trade with Europe would continue along "normal" (i. e., traditional) lines, and that we would be allowed to attend to our own affairs in undisturbed peace and security. But there is no shred

TO THE EDITOR

Continued on Page Three

Confraternity At Work . . . . . by BELZ



FACULTY COMMENTS

Curiosity And The Student

By DR. MACBETH

CURIOSITY, like most human traits, has its good aspects as well as its bad ones. What I am concerned with here is the use to which curiosity may be put in education.

In this regard, there are three features of the typical American college system that should be noticed. First, the whole area of education is cut up into many separate pieces, with a good proportion of the whole area left unclaimed and making up a kind of uncharted intellectual wilderness.

Specialization Emphasized

Second, within the several educational departments the instruction is carried on by specialists who present facts and principles to be absorbed by the student without his being required ordinarily to associate what is learned in one department with what is learned in another. Third, great emphasis is placed upon specialization by the requirements for graduation whereby a student is encouraged to become thoroughly familiar with only one major division of knowledge.

There are of course good reasons for the persistence of these features of the American college system. But it will be seen that if a student is to obtain anything approaching a complete education he will have to do something more than accumulate the required number of credits in his chosen branch of knowledge. This is where the trait of curiosity plays its part.

Searches Out Knowledge

A student who has a curiosity to know things — a curiosity keen enough to overcome any natural indolence or love of profitless amusement—will not be satisfied with reproducing on demand what his instructors and textbooks have told him, conveniently closing his mind to any wider question of how his separate fragments of knowledge are related to one another and to other subjects of which he has only a dim and uneasy consciousness.

The curious student will undertake to do something about these matters by thinking hard about problems, by exchanging ideas with teachers or students who can help him, and especially by entering upon a self-initiated course of study that will take him far beyond the confines of his particular courses. His desire to know will lead him on and on, from field to field, till in time he will have achieved a balanced and coherent education.

Life Will Be Rich

Now let us see how such a student will fare in his later life. The most immediate benefit will be the sense of fulfillment that this broad education will give him. He will truly understand ideas and events, because he will perceive their relations and mutual illuminations. He will range at ease in the realm of the intellect; and when new materials of knowledge come before him he will know where to place them in his scheme of things. His life will be a rich one from the diversity of his interests.

Ths student, too, will be prepared to live a highly productive life. He will be more than successful in his career, because he will be at once a specialist and one who is aware of the wider implications of his field. Should he be an engineer, he will be conscious of the social problems that the machine has created; should he be a manufacturer, he will not be ignorant of the cultural significance of his product. Whatever his work, his breadth of knowledge will permit him to develop in fresh ways the potentialities of his field of activity.

Finally, this student will later prove to be a good citizen. He will bring to bear upon current issues the same keen desire to know and understand that impelled him in his college work; and he will form sane judgments upon these issues. He will not fall prey to the great evil of our times—the evil of hatred fostered in the ignorant by ambitious and unscrupulous men, leading to deeds that threaten to destroy the world as we have known it. He will be too intelligent, too well-informed, to be the dupe and tool of anyone. This student in later life will not be one of the crowd; he will be a leader of his generation.

Spirit Made A Winner

BY THEIR exhibition in their last two games, the varsity players have given concrete evidence of the manner in which they will respond to student support. After the Temple game, in which every man played his heart out in an attempt to bring home the victory which just wasn't in the books, the spontaneous burst of applause must have been at welcome salve fo rthe bruises of defeat.

And spirit does make a winner! Against a Detroit team which, on paper, had the physical requisites to administer to Villanova a decisive defeat, the inspired Wildcats responded with a victory that makes us all proud they represent us.

Wildcat Whirl

By Dave Reardon

EXAMS over and with the idea of forgetting it all, the campus gigoloes set out for two consecutive weekends of dances, proms and everything that goes with them. Last Friday, the Owl Hop in the gym highlighted the night's affairs but quite a few of the fellows were drawn to Rosemont's campus for the Senior Ball with Herbie Wood's music. Both, however, were well-attended and apparently social successes.

Adding to this inevitable conflict of dates, Immaculata will hold their Senior Prom on the campus come Friday night and Chestnut Hill College will have their Senior Dance at the same time at the Mount. They'll do it every time.

* * *

A very dumb rookie
Is Private MacDuff,
He thinks that time bombs
Are bought on the cuff.

* * *

WHISPERING GRASS:

Jim Spinelli and Tom Hushen, Owl Hop chairmen, went up to I. C. to place a poster advertising their dance. Upon entering the campus they inquired of Miriam Hogan and Bette Claire Titus as to where the best place to put it would be. Hearing that they were from Villanova, the girls told them to "move on." However, when the boys were leaving both girls were more than anxious to accept their offer of a ride into town.

Tom "Doc" Lyons and Joe McCabe have been seen recently with Peggy and Virginia, two Bryn Mawr College lassies. . . Nick Eni has taken Evelyn to practically every affair since his freshman year but who was that with him at the Temple game?

Fr. McKee, ardent Intramural enthusiast, has vigorously protested the Student Council's judgment of the decorations, to which is added the utmost disapproval of Fr. O'Donnell's commerce men. . . Harry Binder journeyed up to the College of New Rochelle for a dance last Friday, while Jack Farrow took some fellows up there on Sunday for a visit to the Glen Island Casino.

* * *

OVERHEARD:

Frank Fitzpatrick, '40, ex-staff member, will marry Lydia Bingham, his sweetheart of college days, this Saturday. Good luck, Frank. . . Tomorrow, Rosemont and Chestnut Hill will tangle hockey sticks in their annual gridiron fracas on the locals' sod. The odds are about even, so take your choice.

Tom Delehanty visits the hometown girl every week-end. She's from Hazelton and is studying nursing in Phila. . . Bob Shapperd, despite a daily letter and weekly phone call from N. Y., still trips out to Immaculata.

What is this rumor that Rosemont "Rambler's" publication may be temporarily suspended? . . . Jim Bonner is dating Mary Gabriel from across the way. At least he's consistent in the selection of the school. . . Joe Mahoney was down at the municipal airport the other night to see the airliners come in, among other things.

Fraternity initiations account for the odd attire adorning the soph and junior pledgees. . . The recently organized day-hop touch football league under the direction of Joe Gill is gaining momentum and feeling between the schools is running high.

* * *

LAST GASPS:

Latest Villanovans to join the services are Andy McCabe, ex-'42, who's enlisted in the Navy, and Jack Grabosky, ex-42, whose exact whereabouts are still undetermined. . . . John P. Fullam seems to be doing quite well; doesn't he, Isabelle? . . . After winning the C. & F. day-hop tennis tourney from a strong field, West Virginian "Casper" Pike has retired from athletics until March; he hesitantly promises to come out of retirement then to do battle with an unbeaten local battler in the intramural fights.

Meet The Boys: Two High-Voltage Engineers, Gabuzda And Gordon Merit Your Cheers

By PAT McWILLIAMS

FROM a thriving up-state town, Freeland by name, comes the subject of this biography. This pride and joy of all home town folks is known in local circles as George Gabuzda, senior engineer.

Before coming to Villanova, George spent most of his life in the aforementioned town; he attended the Freeland Public School and prepped at the Daniel Cox Mining and Mechanical Institute.

Upon graduating from high school, George found himself on the receiving end of a few bad breaks. College seemed to be an impossibility, so he promptly became the town's most proficient butcher. This profession gained him, for some strange reason, the nickname, "Butch."

For five years, "Butch" was engaged in this occupation, but he continued to nourish an ambition to attend college some day. He kept himself mentally in shape toward the return to school by taking several courses at a technical night school.

The future keeper of Simpson Hall finally fulfilled his ambition and, in the fall of '38, came down-state to Villanova. He entered the engineering school, selecting chemistry as his major. At the end of freshman year, the class of '42 elected him its secretary. He has been re-elected to this position every year since.

George played freshman and one year of varsity football, but his work and studies made him give up varsity sports and settle down to the books. Among other achievements George has acquired quite a reputation as a consistent honor-roll man.

It was in his sophomore year that the "object of our admiration' assumed the "janitorial reins of Simpson Hall. Needless to say, spare time has been at a premium during the past two years. Yet despite these many obligations, George has managed to cram several extra-curricular activities into his crowded schedule. He belongs to the Mathematics Club, Phi Kappa Pi fraternity, and the Chemical society. He concludes his list of duties with a job coaching intramural football at Valley Forge Military Academy up the pike.

During the past two summers, George has been employed with an up-state explosive company and hopes to obtain a position there when he receives his B. S. in Chemistry this June.

VINCENT "POOCH" GORDON is the other half of this engineering combination. A day-hop, commuting from Drexel Hill, his ability and efforts have been rewarded this year by election to office in almost every organization to which he belongs.

Born in Washington, D. C., he soon moved to Drexel Hill; "headquarters" have remained in that locality ever since. St. Andrew's Parochial School and St. Joseph's Prep supplied Vince's early education. In both institutions he won scholastic honors and found time to play football as well.

In his sophomore year, "Mr." Gordon began joining the engineering societies — he didn't miss many. He was president of the Mathematics Club, assisted in the arrangements for the Phi Kappa Pi dinner, and was a member of the Owl Hop committee. In addition, he played 150-pound football and served on the Soph Cotillion committee.

During his junior year, "Pooch" was vice-president of Phi Kappa Pi, secretary-treasurer of the A. S. M. E., chairman of the Junior Dinner-Dance, and was again a mainstay on one of the most successful 150-pound teams in the history of the school.

This year, Vince was elected president of both Phi Kappa Pi and Chi Epsilon Mu, and chairman of the A. S M. E. Just to give his extra-curricular activities the proper background, he has been on the honor roll of the mechanical engineering department every quarter since his enrollment.

Conflict between lab periods and practice sessions have forced Vince to give up football for the first time since his entry into high school. He is filling the gap by taking an active part in the organization and direction of an intramural touch football league. Vince seems to have spurred his classmates to display a too-strenuous interest in the sport; senior engineers are nursing a variety of sprains and bruises.

Described in his high school year book as "everybody's pal," Vince has continued to merit that distinction in college. Pinochle is the only exception to the rule; in this particular "extra-curricular activity" he has made several deadly enemies.

After graduation, "Pooch" is tentatively slated to join the Philadelphia Electric Company. He has no worries about the long arm of Uncle Sam getting him for a while, as he celebrated his twenty-first birthday just last September.

In the usual order: George Gabuzda and Vince Gordon.

Directory Shows Similar 'Handles'

IF you have trouble with names, if you don't remember a thing about him except that he's just so tall and has hair and goes to Villanova and his name is John, don't try to find him here. We have 103 fellows who have hair, are just so tall, and are named John. The Johns make up one-ninth of the student body, and you'll have a great deal of trouble weeding a particular one out of that mob.

And if you're looking for Smith, you have your choice of seven men of that name, to say nothing of one lonely Smyth. We also have 50 pairs of students with identical last names. There are 19 trios with the same affliction. Two quartets and eight quintets complete the difficulty.

This information was gleaned from the student directory issued last Friday from Fr. Maguire's office.

Brother acts are plentiful at Villanova. There are exactly twenty dashing about the halls, two sets of three and eighteen sets of two. Some of these brothers are in the same class so that the faculty doesn't lack the difficulty of trying to tell them apart.

The trickiest first name in the list is "Angel"; the catchiest last name is "Plum." We're always thinking about something to eat. Shortest last names were three-lettered: Eni, Hin, and Rao are samples. There is a ten-way tie for the longest last name, and a fifteen-way tie for the next to longest. "Mastrogiovanni" is one of the mouthfuls we have to deal with, though not the worst, by far.

The newly-issued directory is impressive in size, but really helpful in its ability to put the finger on the name, home town, hall, class, school, and section of any student in the place. There is a copy at the information office. Ask for your party there, but for crying out loud, don't bother us!

Letter To The Editor Protesting Policy

Continued From Page Two

of evidence to indicate that these assumptions would be valid. Indeed, every consideration points to exactly the opposite conclusion.

The conclusion is that this nation would confront certain easily definable dangers. The least of these, provided we push to a successful conclusion our preparations for military defense, would appear to be an actual attempt at invasion. The difficulties of carrynig out military operations at points distant from one's bases, confronted besides by strong naval and air forces, serve to render this a rather remote possibility. Far more likely would be efforts to sow dissention and disunity within our borders, to set each country in this hemisphere against its neighbors, and to use the resultant chaos to bring about a bloodless conquest of the Americas.

The collapse of our war trade, the continuance of troublesome agricultural surpluses, the reappearance of mass unemployment, the high prestige of victorious totalitarianism — all these would create a situation made to order for the Nazis.

Then too, we are not a self-sufficient country. We depend upon outside sources for supplies of many vital products.

A recent study by the Army and Navy Munitions Board lists fourteen "strategic" and fifteen "critical" materials for the supply of which we are dependent either wholly or in important part "on sources outside the continental limits of the United States."

Latin America is at present "sitting on the fence"; they will, it is a known fact, be compelled economically if not otherwise to follow along with the policies of a victorious Axis.

BY AIDING BRITAIN WE ARE AIDING THE UNITED STATES

It would seem axiomatic that it is always better for a nation to influence the course of world developments in a direction harmonious with the national interest than passively to await those developments, then make the necessary adjustments to them. In terms of present realities, it appears equally patent that the establishment of a totalitarian world order would put our institutions, our way of life, our very independence as a nation, in the gravest danger.

To concentrate solely upon building up our armed forces and upon preparations for hemisphere co-operation would be to make ready to isolate ourselves in the west. It is a policy which concedes the probability of an Axis victory and prepares to make the best of it. It is also a very costly policy.

The direct and indirect economic costs of bringing about a large-scale reorganization not only of the economies of Latin America but of our own as well would be great. Much capital must be scrapped, much training sacrificed, and many raw materials obtained from less productive sources. The outlay necessary to build up and maintain a military establishment adequate to the new conditions is staggering. Moreover, the broader social costs resulting from the militarization of our lives, from the regimentation necessary to the economic reorientation of two continents and to a policy of hemisphere isolation, are even less pleasant.

So long, however, as Britain fights on with even a remote chance of success, it is open to us to follow a policy which is positive rather than passive — which if successful will make unnecessary the difficult and costly readjustments imposed by a threatening "new world order." Such a policy is the continuation and the intensification of aid to Britain and all others (including Russia, more about this later) fighting aggressors. By unstinting support of her valiant efforts, her victory may well be assured.

This is and should remain our primary objective. It is our first line of defense. Hemisphere co-operation, while essential as a second line, is secondary. Its preparation must go ahead, rapidly if possible, but not at the expense of Britain's cause.

INDIRECT AID TO ENGLAND BY AIDING RUSSIA . . .

Catholics believe that the Nazi regime is the greatest menace of our time because it incorporates within its philosophy all the worst features of Communism while conducting its program with a subtlety and thoroughness to which the Communists could never lay claim.

Catholics have never pretended that the British Government and people have always acted from the highest motives. They do not even believe that the Christian faith is consciously regarded as the most precious inheritance which our armies are called to protect. What Catholics have always maintained is that the British, having risen to arms to defeat Nazism, are crusading against the forces of anti-Christ.

No unbiased observer can have any doubt that Hitler and his regime seek the destruction of Christianity. The swastika, in the words of Pope Pius XI, is not the Cross of Christ.

Sincerely yours,
Paul C. Waters,
Class of 1942

Tally Ho!

By Bruno Talvacchia

PHI KAPPA PI'S week-end party began with the Owl Hop on Friday night and wound up sometime Sunday evening after the Detroit game. If there is any doubt about the truth of this statement, just ask a few of P. K. P's favorite sons.

Thus we dedicate a wee bit of a writ inspired by the Reporter of the Polytechnic Institute of Brooklyn. (This publication is not to be confused with either of the two members of our faculty who call P. I. B. "alma mater.")

At the Greek's, Phi Kappa Pi had gone to town,
And the least thought of school
Was looked on with a frown;
It was an evening of gaiety, good time and cheer,
And to top it all off
The engineers had their. . . cola;
But all good things must come to an end,
So with playing of taps
It was home the bugle did send.
Now with the air of a playboy we took our bill so cool;
You guessed it. . .darn it
In our coat was a slide rule!

* * *

Life's Run:

What is meant by the three "r's"? The three "r's" run all through life—at twenty it's romance, at forty it's rent, and at sixty-five it's rheumatism.

—The Trinity Times.

* * *

Horrible Thought:

The Notre Dame Scholastic was a little worried over a rumor to the effect that the Naval R. O. T. C. lads, who traveled to Baltimore as a unit for the Navy game, stayed the night at Annapolis. "In these troubled times, you never can tell," they mused. "What if they woke up the next morning on the U. S. S. Roosevelt, bound for Shanghai, or the Persian Gulf?"

* * *

Neighbor: "Say, have you folks got a bottle opener around here?"
Parent: "Yeah, but he's away at college."

—Los Angeles Loyolan.

* * *

Short, Short Story:

A steady, no study.
No steady, study!
—St. Mary Taper (Kansas).

* * *

Commerce and Finance:

An old darkey was hauling a woman's coal for her, and when he had finished, the woman asked for his bill. After much thought, he gave his bill:

"Three comes and three goes at four bits a went. . .$3.00."

The Keystonian of Scranton believes he had his own accounting system We agree that such originality is worthy of payment.

Radio Group To Select Cast

Preparations for the enactment of three plays before the student body by members of the Radio Club are progressing with the distribution of scripts for the players by Rev. John J. Vrana, O. S. A., and the acquisition of some of the sound effects.

The exact cast has not yet been selected, but it will probably be chosen at the next meeting. Impromptu presentations of several plays were given at the last meeting, but the casts were only tentative.

Although the plays have been selected, they will not be announced until the club is ready to present them to the students in the Amphitheatre. However, they will probably be of the same type as the "Lights Out" series written by Arch Oboler, which employs an underemphasizing narrator to build up suspense.

The moderator of the Radio Club at Immaculata College has requested Fr. Vrana to select several of Villanova's group to take part in some presentations to be given by that school. These students have not yet been chosen, since their abilities and voice qualities must first be considered to fit the required parts.

On next Monday at 2:30 P. M. another meeting of the organization will be held.

Confraternity

Continued From Page One

reports. St. Mary's College of Notre Dame, Ind., Notre Dame University, Trinity College of Washington, Chestnut Hill College, Rosemont and Immaculata were represented.

The season ended with a discussion led by Rev. Brother Emilian, F. S. C., the president of LaSalle College.

Dr. Hickey's talk was one of many highlights of the four-day session of the Confraternity, which opened in Philadelphia on Saturday and closes tonight with Solemn Benediction.

Largest in State

This gathering, the largest Catholic convention ever held in Pennsylvania, has been distinguished by the presence of many Church dignitaries.

On Sunday morning, a Solemn Pontifical Mass was celebrated by His Eminence, D. Cardinal Dougherty, Archbishop of Philadelphia. The sermon was preached by the Most Rev. A. G. Cicognani, D. D., Apostolic Delegate to the United States.

An address by Rt. Rev. Msgr. Fulton J. Sheen, D. D., Ph. D., of the Catholic University of America, featured the Sunday evening session at Convention Hall.

Msgr. Sheen pointed out the close connection between religious and patriotism, indicating that the true source of authority lies in God, Who places this authority in the people, to be delegated to their legally elected representatives. He also sowed how the Catholic Church produces good citizens by inculcating a sense of sacrifice and respect for legal authority.

During the sessions many varied topics have been discussed.

Today's discussions deal with religious instruction of Mexicans; religious instruction of the blind, and the Confraternity and men in the U. S. service.

Included in Saturday's program was a discussion of "The Catholic College Student and the Confraternity." A special session for alumni and alumnae of Catholic colleges, academies, and high schools was also held.

Highlights of Sunday's schedule were a radio address on "The Catholic and Inter-American Relations," by the Most Rev. John F. O'Hara, C. S. C., D. D., and the Solemn Pontifical Mass.

Yesterday, in addition to the discussion on the development of lay leaders there were sessions on the Confraternity and religious instruction, and on Catholic literature.

THE WILSON
LAUNDRY CO.
of Bryn Mawr

Always the Friend of
Villanova Students

10% discount to students for "cash and carry" work.
No charge for replacing buttons or making minor repairs.

An American institution owned, operated by and employing Americans.

Fort Bragg Releases Bring News Of Five Villanovans Completing Selective Service Basic Training There

Brosmer, Reitmeier, Crumb, and Flood are in N. C. Center

FORT BRAGG, N. C., Nov. 11.—Four Villanova College men are "back in school again." They are in the Field Artillery Replacement Center here at Fort Bragg, receiving 13 weeks of basic training as Selective Service Soldiers in the United States Army.

They are Gordon J. Brosmer, Woodrow Reitmeier, Bernard C. Crumb, and George Flood. Brosmer and Flood graduated in '41 and '40, respectively; Reitmeier and Crumb finished three years at Villanova and hope to go back after release from the Army.

Brosmer, Crumb, and Flood are being trained as cannoneers; Reitmeier's major instruction is in signal work, an essential part of the procedure in firing big guns.

Brosmer Kept at H. Q.

Assigned to Battery "C," 7th Battalion in the third training regiment of the world's largest Field Artillery Replacement Center—16,000 trainees pass through every 13 weeks—Brosmer learned the routine of setting up and firing 155 millimeter howitzers. Like all trainees, he was instructed in other basics of soldiering: drilling, gas precautions, truck driving, rifle firing, military courtesy, etc.

His training battery has completed its basic training and has been assigned to regular line organizations, but Brosmer was retained in his regimental headquarters as a clerk in the classification section. At Villanova last year he was chairman of the Belle Air Ball and copy editor of the Belle Air.

Crumb Instructor

Crumb, circulation manager of the VILLANOVAN prior to induction, has completed training in the Replacement Center's Battery "B" of the 4th Battalion in the third training regiment. Except that he worked wih smaller cannon than Brosmer — 75 millimeter guns — Crumb received practically the same training. He will probably be retained in the regiment as an instructor.

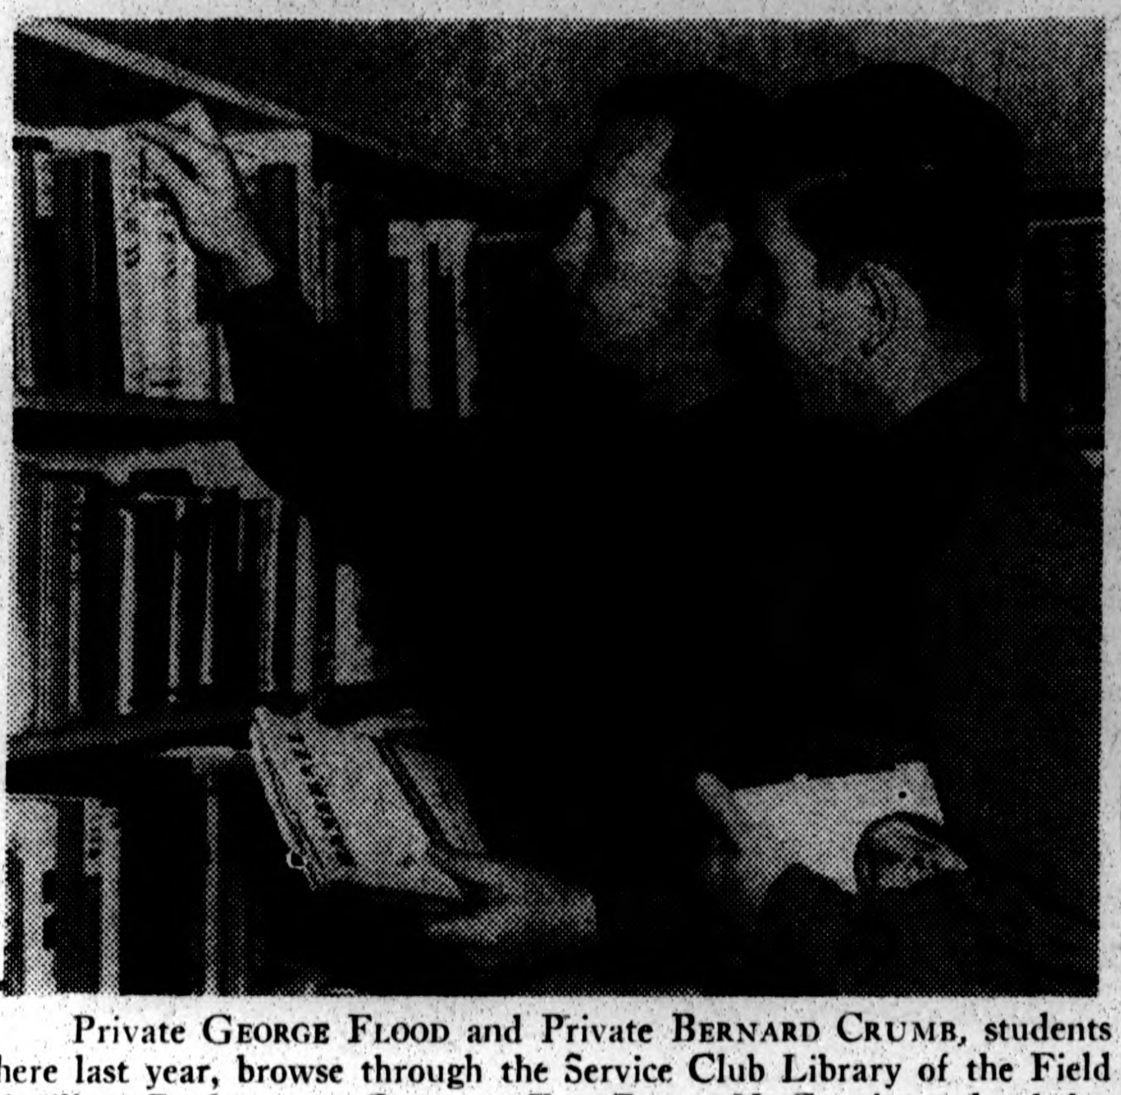
Newest Villanova arrival in the Field Artillery Replacement Center is Flood, assigned to Battery "B," 6th Battalion of the second regiment. His training is in the 155 millimeter howitzer. At Villanova he was an outfielder on the varsity baseball team as a sophomore and catcher in his final year of college. He arrived in the Replacement Center in time to take over for the final two games the catching berth on his battery baseball team which won the regimental championship.

Ft. Knox for "Woody"

Having completed basic training as a signalman in Battery "B," 10th Battalion of the fourth regiment, Reitmeier has been notified of his transfer to Fort Knox, Ky.

As a signal trainee, he learned, in addition to the usual drilling, truck driving, rifle marksmanship, etc., how to use telephone and flag for transmitting messages in connection with the aiming of field artillery pieces. This included stringing telephone wires, operating a switchboard, and splicing wire. "Woody" was Villanova's varsity second baseman for two years.

Two Soldiers Relax From Drilling



Private George Flood and Private Bernard Crumb, students here last year, browse through the Service Club Library of the Field Artillery Replacement Center at Fort Bragg, N. C., after a hard day on the field. Both men are going through their thirteen weeks' basic training in the care and use of the Artillery's big guns.

You trust its quality
Pause ... Go refreshed
Coca-Cola
Each time you taste ice-cold Coca-Cola, you are reminded that here is the quality of genuine goodness. Experience... many a refreshing experience... has taught people everywhere to trust the quality of Coca-Cola.

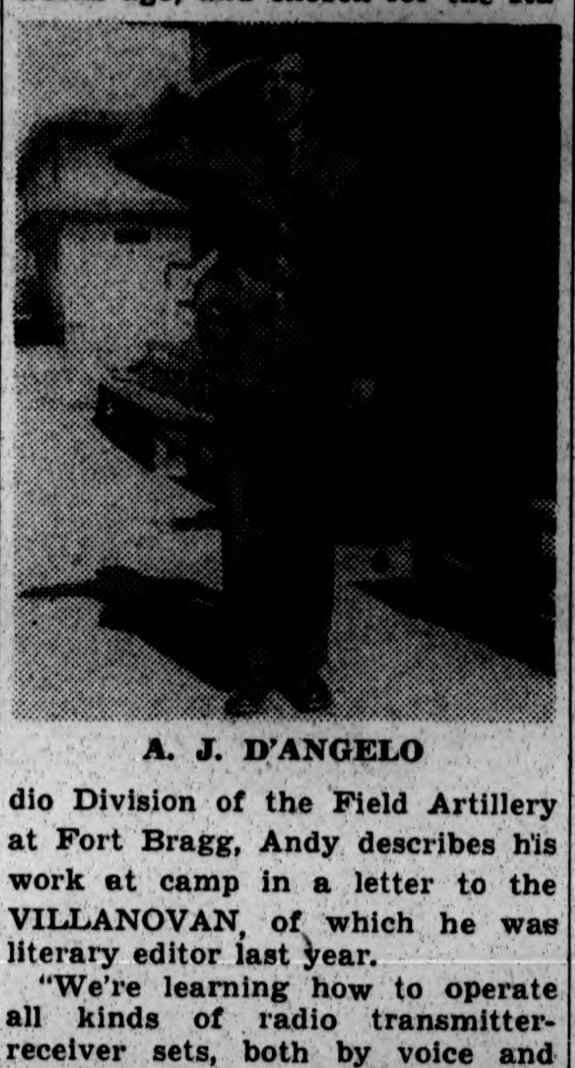
5¢

BOTTLED UNDER AUTHORITY OF THE COCA-COLA COMPANY BY
THE PHILADELPHIA COCA-COLA BOTTLING CO.

Andy D'Angelo Tells of Work as Radio Man

Additional confirmed and unconfirmed reports continue to circulate through the college regarding former students or members of the alumni who have been called to the colors. The following concerns itself with Private Andrea J. D'Angelo, '41.

Inducted into the army three weeks ago, and chosen for the Radio Division of the Field Artillery at Fort Bragg, Andy describes his work at camp in a letter to the VILLANOVAN, of which he was literary editor last year.



A. J. D'ANGELO

"We're learning how to operate all kinds of radio transmitter-receiver sets, both by voice and code (telegraph). They're teaching us the various codes, International, Morse, Semaphore, etc. We have to code and decode military messages by various devices; some of them are quite intricate affairs.

Studies Theory

"We've done most of our basic drill work; now we'll spend most of the time studying theory in classrooms and putting the same into practice in the field. The majority of our work will be either liason or forward observing with the big gun batteries. We also receive a general instruction in handling the big guns; already we've worked on the famous French 75 mm. babies. At present, we're scheduled to start on an overnight hike in a few hours.

"Oh, yes, I'm supposed to write a feature article for the 'Fort Bragg Post' here, and I have a part in the Fourth Regiment Revue, a musical.

Hard to Find

"I understand that there are other Villanovans here in camp but they're hard to locate unless you have rather specific details of their whereabouts in the past."

High-honors student D'Angelo received his B. S. Education degree from the college last June. A member of the weekly and Belle Air staffs for four years, he was also active in several dramatic organizations.

News Briefs

L. K. D. to Elect New President; Engineers' Council Accredits Technical School

Lambda Kappa Delta fraternity will hold nominations for a successor to Robert Dugan as president tomorrow and will elect next Monday. Dugan was forced to leave school early in the year because of illness.

The college was notified last week that at the recent meeting of the "Engineers' Council for Professional Development," a conference of engineering bodies, the engineering department was placed on the accredited list of this body.

Last fall a committee of inspection of this council visited the college and inspected the curricula in civil, electrical and mechanical engineering. The present action was taken on the basis of the report mittee early next week.

Mother Mary Paula of Rosemont College is to be in charge of the rehearsals of the Choral Society during the confinement to the hospital of Rev. Ralph J. Handran, O. S. A., moderator of the organization. Rehearsals will be resumed tomorrow and Thursday at Rosemont College.

William P. Walpole, president of the junior class, will release the Junior Prom chairman and committee later this week.

The Spanish Club will meet on Thursday at 1:00 P. M. in the C. & F. Auditorium.

Regular weekly meeting of the day-hop Music Seminar will be held tomorrow at 12:30 P. M. in the Mendel Amphitheatre. The resident students' seminar will be conducted tomorrow at 7:30 P. M. in Simpson Hall.

Repeating their former conquests of the Connelly Award for the pre-Temple game decorations, the residents of Fedigan Hall captured the coveted prize for the fifth consecutive year in the face of stiff competition from the other halls.

With the theme "The Barnum of Football Presents the Greatest Show on Earth," Fedigan greeted the campus and the decoration judges on the Thursday night before the game with a blaze of light, noise, and color. Huge pictures of a strong man, a wild man, an Indian chief, and other similar circus performers portrayed the various members of the squad under the direction of "Clipper" Smith as the Barnum of football.

Replete with innumerable lights and colored flags, the scene was complete even to hawking of peanuts and the rasping voice of a sideshow barker.

Austin Hall, Alumni Hall, the C. & F. Dayhops, and Mendel Hall followed Fedigan in that order.

The
Bryn Mawr
Trust
Company

BRYN MAWR, PENNA.

●

Every Banking Facility

●

Member Federal Deposit
Insurance Corp.

Sportorial

By Bob Funabashi
Sports Editor

THREE FOOTBALL seasons back, forty young men with gridiron aspirations came to Villanova as part of the class of 1942. All came with the same hopes and expectations of making good but that was not the whole story for today out of that bunch only ten remain. Out of the group that came in one stuck around and three went by the wayside, principally because they failed to make the grade.

Saturday they slip on their jerseys and pants for the last time in three years, the last Saturday for taping, rubdowns and possible injuries. This will be their last time for carrying the pigskin or any of the other duties which they usually perform at their positions. After that whistle blows, it will be all over. Sacrifice and well-spent time will no longer be their objectives and they go as they please.

Seniors Should Play

Whether the ten play Saturday will be left to the discretion of Clipper and Smith, but in fitting farewell and in appreciation for their work all year long, we would like to see every one of the seniors in the game even if it means for just a play or two. Surely the very fact that the boys have been out there every day should amply justify a few minute's play in a regular game. Some seniors have not played for one minute since the season started nor even been called up off the bench. Is it because they weren't one-sixtieth as good as the other fellow or not? We'll never know.

Korisky Gets Our Vote

For the year's outstanding work on the line, we nominate Ed Korisky for honors. We've seen those games where Andy Chisick spelled one-man defeat for his opponents and we've seen games this year and last year where Ed has done those same feats. Defeat wasn't the regular course in Chisick's day but Korisky still played valiantly in Villanova's eight losses in this two-year span. For a line-backer, he is tops and hits with a startling force in comparison with his 185 lbs. It was normal for Ed to lose 15 and 20 lbs. in every game he played and it certainly was hard work which dropped that poundage. As far as passing the ball back, that's another field where he shines. Not once this season did we see a bad pass back from center. This, in itself, is invaluable to the success of the backs.

Runner-up to Korisky would come Tony Anderson and Paul Stenn. Both were troubled by injuries all year but came through in the manner expected. Anderson's specialty, downfield blocking, will be remembered for a long time and Stenn's art of blocking kicks and his savage charging earn him a position along side the best of tacklers. Ed Kasky, the lusty-footed kicker, didn't have the proper chance to use his foot at the right times because of Villanova's scarcity in touchdowns but when he kicked them they were accurate.

Alternate Captain

FRANCIS CRIMMINNS—AUBURN

Auburn Provides Final Grid Test

IRON MAN OF DEFENSE is Villanova's great pivot man, Ed Korisky. Hailed by many as one of the best all-around centers in the East, Korisky is that all important link that has held Villanova's line together, both physically and morally. Against Auburn he will be playing his last game.

Kasky's Conversion Enables 'Cats To Beat Out Detroit Eleven, 7-6

25,000 Watch Blue Snap Out of Three Game Losing Streak; Smith Scores

By JACK DUDLEY

Ed Kasky's successful try for a point after touchdown gave Villanova a 7 to 6 victory over the University of Detroit before 25,000 at Shibe Park Sunday afternoon.

All the scoring was sdone in the second half. Each team had a field goal chance in the opening half but neither side made good.

Villanova scored first, going 58 yards in ten plays, nine of them on the ground. George Smith went over on a reverse from the one foot line.

Detroit Scores

Taking the ensuing kickoff, Detroit did not relinquish the ball until Bob Keene went wide around the Wildcat's right end for a touchdown. Art Link's try for the point after touchdown was not good and the score remained 7 to 6.

It was an off-day for the place-kickers. In the second period Detroit's John Hart got off one that seemed labeled for three points, but it deflected off the upright above the crossbar into the end zone. Not long afterwards, Lou DePalo, 'Cat end, attempted one from the thirty-one yard line but it was short of the mark.

A third period attempt for a field goal by Ed Kasky just missed. As did Titan Hart's try a period before, Kasky's hit the upright and bounced away.

Villanova attempted four passes. Each was thrown by Postus and Al was true with each one. Five Titan passes were snagged by Wildcat defenders.

Zamlynski Defensive Hero

Ziggy Zamlynski stopped two Detroit advances deep in Villanova territory with interceptions. The Titans had fourth down on the 'Cats' ten when Sophomore Madarik attempted a pass. Ziggy was there for it and returned the interception to Villanova's eleven. Again Madarik started pitching. His long pass was taken again by Zamlynski on the twelve and returned to Villanova's twenty-four.

The only pass thrown by Villanova during its touchdown drive was thrown on the first play. From

DETROIT

Continued on Page Six

Coaching In California

Edward "Red" Martin and Biff Gardner, both former grid stars at Villanova, under Harry Stuhldreher, are now coaching high school teams in California. Martin is now coach of St. Augustine Prep School in San Diego while Gardner coaches at Sweetwater High, nearby San Diego.

INJURIES SLOW BLUE QUINTET

Gerland and Drizen Sidelined for a Few Days; Severance Holds Surprises

Scrimmaging daily for many weeks, the Blue and White basketball team is now showing a few injuries. Absent for a couple of days will be Herman Drizen, who has been bothered with a bad knee, and Fred Gerland, who has been on the sidelines due to a bad foot injury. Both of these boys will see plenty of action this year if they can stay away from the injured list.

This year the Wildcats will deviate from their usual tall and rangy team to a small, fast and smart quintet. The tallest man on the squad this year will be Gerland while the remainder of the team will average 5 feet, 10 inches. Bill Woods and Red Klotz are improving a great deal as the practice sessions continue.

In past years, outside circumstances beyond the control of Coach Severance have limited Villanova's opponents and this year the team and coach will have a number of surprises in store for the followers of the quintet.

The basketball schedule just announced by the Athletic Office shows that the Wildcats will have to play heads up ball to come out on top.

Captain

LLOYD CHEATHAM

Villanova Due For Battle Against Seasoned Rivals

Plainsmen With Suicide Schedule Show Power Despite Defeats; Ten Blue Gridders Don Colors For Last Time

By JACQUES MAUCH

An up-and-down football team somewhat similar to the weather, will make its appearance in Philadelphia this coming Saturday afternoon at Shibe Park, to oppose Villanova in the final game of the year. Those galloping Plainsmen from Auburn, who are noted for their long mileage in making the rounds of the football circuit, will invade the Wildcat's lair for the first time since the 1939 visit.

And with this coming game in which Coach Jack Meagher's team enjoys so much, it will mark the closing chapter in the football careers of ten seniors of Villanova. Whether all will see action is doubtful but Ed Korisky, Joe Yednock, Tony Anderson, Elk Murray, Bill Howlett, Tom Morgan, John Nieman, Paul Stenn, Ed Kasky and Joe Behot wear the colors for the last time.

Suicide Schedule

Playing a suicide schedule, Auburn, under Meagher will be looking for its third win in nine games, already having met defeat in five games and posting one tie, that with L. S. U., this past week-end. This is Meagher's eighth year with the Southern institution and not a very successful one because of so-called "green" material. But this unit is now seasoned, having met with S. M. U., Tulane, Georgia, Mississippi State, Georgia Tech and L. S. U., and can promise many a tough moment for Villanova this Saturday.

Their record does not tell the whole story, for only six regulars from the past two seasons form the nucleus of his club which suffered heavily from graduation losses. These six are center Tex Williams, local lad from Llanerch, Pa., guard Nick Ardillo, tackle Francis Crimmins, end James Samford, Captain and quarterback Lloyd Cheatham, and fullback Ty Irby. Captain Cheatham is one of the greatest blockers in the country today, being chosen as the outstanding path-clearer in the Southern Conference last year. He's a wizard as a signal caller and has beeen aptly tgged "The Blocking Fiend."

The other starting linemen will probably be Clarence Grimmett at end, John Chalkly at tackle, and Max Morris running opposite Ardillo at guard. Incidentally, Ardillo is the leading lineman of the Orange and Blue. He's a fiery little player, good blocker and hard to get out of the way.

The halfback chores will be divided among Clarence Harkins, sterling kicker, who replaces famed Dick McGowan in that department, Buck Jenkins, and Monk Gafford. Gafford is a good passer and last season compiled a ball crrying mark of slightly more than four yards per try.

The Wildcats first met the Plainsmen in Havana on New Year's Day of 1937. The contest ended in a 7-7 tie. That fall they fought to a scoreless draw. The following year the Wildcats, led by Nick Basca romped to a 25-12 victory. And the last two years the Orange and Blue have squeezed out victories, 10-9, and 14-10. Saturday, the smarting Wildcat is determined to even up the series.

Court Schedule Shows 29 Games For Basketeers

Twelve Home Games Listed; Virginia, Duquesne, Brooklyn College, Brown, Detroit, New Teams

One of the largest basketball schedules in the history of the school, 29 in number will be played this coming campaign by Coach Al Severance's varsity tossers. Out of this number, Villanova will play 12 home games and play the remainder away. Of the away games, several will be played in Wilmington, Del., as part of a double-header basketball program, sponsored by the Sportsmen's Association of Wilmington.

Many new teams are listed on the Wildcat schedule while other teams have been played last year. Niagara, Colgate, William and Mary, Detroit, Williams, Scranton, Virginia, Brooklyn College, Muhlenberg, Duquesne and St. Bonaventure's are newcomers to Villanova while Lehigh, Loyola, Geneva, Rider, Waynesburg, Westminster and Washington and Jefferson were all played last season.

Open in December

The Wildcats open their schedule on Dec. 5, at the Field House where they oppose Loyola of Baltimore and then the following night St. Francis of Brooklyn comes to town to provide the opposition. After these two games at home the Blue and White will be entertained up in New York State against Siena College at Albany, then to Buffalo where they take on Niagara University on the 14th of December in Albany. Two nights later will find the 'Cats playing Colgate at Hamilton.

Washington College will be the next team and that will be on the 18th of December. The next date is open but will be filled when negotiations have been reached. Altogether there are four open dates on the schedule. William and Mary will travel from Virginia to meet the 'Cats in the next game, that on the 20th. Following is an open

COURT

Continued on Page Seven

Grid Banquet For Team, Dec. 2

The 20th annual football dinner, given in honor of the members of the varsity football squad, will take place Tuesday, Dec. 2, in the Main Ballroom of the Penn A. C. in Philadelphia.

This annual dinner, given by the Alumni Club of Philadelphia each year, will have Joseph P. Gaynor, '32, as its chairman and the principal speaker will be Col. Arthur Foran, State Senator from New Jersey. Foran is a graduate of Villanova.

At the same time the Loyalty Award will be presented to the outstanding alumnus of Villanova. Last year the award was given to John Keffer, now president of the Philadelphia alumni.

The list of speakers has not been compiled as yet but Clipper Smith will make a speech to the group discussing the football squad of 1941.

Reservations for the dinner which will cost $3.00 can be made by writing or phoning Mr. William Slaughter, here at Villanova College.

Linesman

MAX MORRIS—AUBURN

Bacteria Or Football, Ed Korisky Displays Same Gusto In Both

By TOM McFARLAND

In the warm months, when the only Villanovans thinking about football are the coaches and the members of the Athletic Association, Chopper Korisky helps the Pratt-Whitney branch of United Aircraft to salvage stuff. In the Fall, when the only Villanovans not thinking about football are dead, he helps the Wildcats salvage other stuff—a loose ball, an opposing back, the enemy's goal-stripe—or the ball game.

For two years he has worn 11 jersey. Over this period he has played in every game, at home and away. He is an intelligent center, a line backer par excellence, a bruising blocker, and a tackler whom few have been fortunate enough to evade. His game is consistently hard-fought; it is always good.

A Well-Groomed Center

Born, raised, and educated at Hartford, Conn. ,he came to Villanova in '38, presented Clipper Smith with a record of three years at center on his high school team, and in his junior year was promptly selected as first string center. That's where he is now.

Off the gridiron, he is affable and serious. He intends to be a bacteriologist. With his white coat and test tubes and microscope, he will, we feel sure, put a classy block on a toxin or run interference for a beneficial bacteria with as much gusto as he displays on the field. This is not a mere pat on the back; this is straight. He has been in the second quarter of his class all the way through, and it is quite certain he will finish up in this same desirable position.

If you follow the ball during the entire game, the only time you will see Ed Korisky is at the beginning of every Blue and White play. If you follow the man carrying the ball, you will never see him, except in the event that he intercepts a pass, or receives a kick; but if you follow the man who follows the man carrying the ball—that's Koriky and does he dump him!

Korisky's Always in There

Some men play the game with their heads; others play it with their shoulders; Ed plays it with his heart, head and shoulders. He is "in there" on every play. If an opposing back gets through the line, he is met by the "Chopper" who has been known to down two interference men and the ball carrier with a single block — And he gets up after the play.

He rooms at Fedigan and was touted in one of the huge decorative caricatures that emblazoned the walls of that noble pile before the Temple game. He loves his home town and New England in general. The boys sometimes call him "King Kong," a very bad description, since Ed weighs a mere 185 pounds, and stretches upwards only 5 feet, 11 inches, from the ground.

Barring injury, he will finish out the season at the same old stand — in the same old efficient way. Watch him in the Auburn game, you'll see what we mean.

Lightweights Reverse Proceedings And Gain Win Over Lafayette, 7-6

Villanova's 150 lb. team after four successive defeats, made a spectacular comeback last Friday afternoon at Easton Pa. when they took the Lafayette lightweights into camp to the tune of a 7-6 victory, in an action-packed contest. Clean play and thrills throughout marked the return of the Wildcats to their true form.

For three hectic quarters the game see-sawed back and forth with neither team gaining any tangible advantage, then in the opening minutes of the last frame, in a play which seemed to baffle the entire Villanova aggregation, Lafayette's driving fullback took the ball on a line play through center and swivvel-hipped his way through the secondary for 60 yards for a touchdown. Failing to convert, Lafayette led 6-0, with eight minutes remaining.

Villanova Scores

The Villanova bantams quickly recovered the shock and taking the ensuing kick-off deep in their own territory, they marched up the field on several brilliantly executed pass plays. Jack McManus and Jim Cahill alternated in throwing the passes which were gathered in by the left end, Stan Kazior. Swede Donovan then tucked the ball under his arm and galloped around left end from the 33-yard line for a Villanova touchdown, the one that tied the score at 6-6. The all-important extra point which was the margin of victory was kicked through the uprights by Bill Menseck.

In the remaining five minutes to play, Lafayette resorted to every trick in their repertoire but to no avail for the 'Cats were not to be denied.

Villanova's quarterback, Tony Peruta, was held over for observation by the Lafayette school physician when it was thought he had incurred internal injuries. Peruta was carried from the field midway in the third quarter after quarterbacking the 'Cats through many tight spots. Peruta's injuries were of no serious consequence however and he is expected to be in the lineup for the clash with the Penn lightweights this week.

Bill Marchese captained the team and concluded a fine performance on the field by yielding possession of the ball to Peruta—the conclusion of the contest. This week's game with Penn also marks the end of Swede Donovan's football career since he will be in the Army next year.

Bowling Tourneys To Start Soon

Again bowling is the talk of the campus as the leaves begin to fall and the first signs of Winter take on their appearance. Last week the alleys down the gym were being turned-over at a high rate of speed; scarcely would the pin-boys have time to set up before another whizzing ball would come roaring toward them.

This year's director, Francis Bagot, '43, is sponsoring a tournament in the very near future, in both bowling and pool. The C. & F. fraterntiy is planning to organize a bowling league as are the different Engineering fraternities, Last year a number of good bowlers came out of the Phi Kappa league and the interest was high with over fifteen teams participating.

Individual prizes for the best pool player will be awarded when the pool tournament is over.

The Lamp Post Inn
Luncheon and Dinners
Strafford, Pa.

CONESTOGA
★★★ MILL
County Line & Conestoga Rd.
Bryn Mawr

FULL COURSE DINNERS

DANCING
Every Evening

KEEP SUPPLIED WITH
SCHOOL TICKETS
GOOD ON BUSES AND RAIL CARS UNTIL USED
5c a Ride, Including Special Free Transfers. Obtain Identification Cards at School Office.
RED ARROW LINES
Philadelphia Suburban Transportation Co.
Aronimink Transportation Co.

An Inside Tip On The Games

Teams	Smith	McNally	Aisenbrey	Jacobs	Whelan	Funabashi	Haughton	Doyle	Clark	Consensus
Army	A	A	A	A	A	A	A	A		A
W. Virginia									WV	8-1
Florida	F			F		F				GT
Georgia Tech		GT	GT		GT		GT	GT	GT	6-3
Fordham	F	F	F	F	F	F	F	F	F	F
St. Mary's										9-0
Yale										H
Harvard	H	H	H	H	H	H	H	H	H	9-0
Temple	T		T		T		T	T		T
Holy Cross		HC		HC		HC			HC	5-4
Minnesota	M	M	M	M		M	M	M	M	M
Wisconsin					W					8-1
Northwestern	N	N	N	N	N	N	N	N	N	N
Illinois										9-0
Notre Dame	ND	ND	ND	ND	ND	ND	ND	ND	ND	ND
S. Calif.										9-0
Penn	P		P	P	P	P	P	P	P	P
Cornell		C								8-1
Princeton										N
Navy	N	N	N	N	N	N	N	N	N	9-0
Penn State	PS	PS	PS		PS	PS			PS	PS
Pittsburgh				P			P	P		6-3
Villanova	V	V	V		V	V	V	V	V	V
Auburn										8-0
Right	37	38	38	38	36	36	39	39	31
Wrong	23	22	22	17	24	24	21	29	21

Detroit

Continued From Page Five

Postus to Behot, it was good for thirteen yards. Following this, the Wildcat's put on their best offensive show of the season, with Postus and Smith gaining through the Titan line.

The game was acknowledged as the best played by Villanova all year. The team is all set to wind up the season with a similar win over their Southern foes from Auburn. Although Villanova was outrushed by their opponents, the line played good defensive ball. Outstanding for his line play was center Ed Korisky who couldn't be kept out of Detroit's way. Time and again, he set the Titans in the whole which forced them to kick on fourth down. Madarik was bottled up by Korisky and his mates. In the backfield Joe Behot and Al Postus shone of the offense; Behot for his smart signal calling and Postus for his aid in running and passing.

STATISTICS

	Villa.	Detroit
First downs	8	14
Yards gained rushing	116	183
Yards lost rushing	15	11
Net yards gained rushing	101	172
Passes attempted	4	16
Passes completed	4	4
Passes intercepted by	5	0
Yards gained: passing	40	33
Yards lost: passing	4	3
Net yards gained: passing	36	30
Punts, number	10	6
Punts, yards average	40	35
Punts, runback yards	33	89
Punts, blocked	0	0
Kick-off returns, yards	15	68
Fumbles	2	0
Fumbles, own recovered	2	0
Yards lost, fumbles	2	0
Yards lost, penalties	25	35

SCORE BY PERIODS

Villanova	0	0	7	0—7
Detroit	0	0	0	6—6

Lineup:

Villanova		Detroit
Christman	LE	Keating
Stenn	LT	Harrington
Harkins	LG	Pugh
Korisky	C	Banonis
Ericson	RG	McLaughlin
B. O'Connor	RT	Rice
Sullivan	RE	Ruth
Dzitko	QB	Biringer
Postus	LHB	Madarik
Smith	RHB	Keene
Zamlynski	FB	Schmidt

"Meet Me Friday Night"
at
Spread Eagle Inn
Garden Restaurant
on Lancaster Pike
Strafford, Pa.

Loren Murchison
& Co., Inc.
S. W. Hampsen, Rep.
Jeweler
for Standard College
Rings
Fraternity Pins
Keys & Medals
JUNIORS: Place your orders with Gene Smith at Fedigan Hall

Men's Clothes
Made-to-Measure
COLEBY
Tailoring
Inc.
57th & MARKET STS.
Suits & Topcoats
$27.75
See Steve Aisenbrey
110 Fedigan Hall

Swimming Team Calls For Members

With six returning lettermen as a nucleus prospects for a representative team are good. A lot depends on the new material. Although the schedule is not complete many new teams have been added and a year of good competition is expected.

A call has been issued for all those upper-classmen interested in swimming to report at a meeting to be held sometime this week. Those who have had previous experience are especially urged to report.

A coach has not yet been designated to fill Bill Leahy's shoes.

Frederick H. Hurd
Photographer
851 Lancaster Pike
Bryn Mawr, Pa.
Bryn Mawr 776

This Space
Reserved for
Sun Cleaners and
Dyers

Austin Firemen Falter, Lose Lead To Fast-Moving Day Hop Quintet

After a week of wild and furious play featured by two big upsets, the Mendel Day-Hops stand in undisputed possession of first place by two games, with Austin Hall in second place, Fedigan and C. & F. in third, Alumni fourth and Mendel Residents fifth.

The Austin Firemen who had been burning up the court during the first weeks of the tournament lost both their games, one to Alumni, 41-29, and the other to C. & F., 40-36. Jim Buxeda set a new scoring record for the year with 20 points to lead C. & F. to a well-earned victory over their resident opponents. Austin had a 12-0 lead well into the first half of the game until C. & F. started clicking and brought the score up to 18-14 in favor of Austin at the end of the half. But once again the Residents led by Joe Crotti opened up with a scoring attack which was met by a similar one of the Business Men's who tied the game up with only minutes left to play and then went ahead on Hagen's two baskets to win, 40-36, and topple Austin out of first place.

Find Pace Tough

The Fedigan Gigoloes met more opposition than they expected when they took on the Penthousers from Mendel Hall and barely came out on top of the 40-34 score. Paced by Sam Canning and Bill Walsh, who rang up 19 points, the Gigoloes got off to an early lead holding a 28-14 margin at half time. But Mendel's two aces, Al Simmons and Don Lemire kept picking away at the cords until the score was tied at 30 all. Fedigan realized in time that the situation was serious and they dispensed with their zone defense and broke into a man-to-man defense which stopped the freshman scoring and won the game for the upperclassmen.

Seizing the opportunity of capturing first place after Austin had lost to C. & F., the Mendel Commuters pounced on Fr. Dunne's famous Green Wave and avenged their previous and only defeat of the season by swamping the Frosh, 34-20. The league leaders followed up this victory with a 38-13 rout of their arch-rivals, the Mendel Residents. The freshman residents were held to 2 points during the entire first half while the commuters were tallying 20. Just to make the victory certain, the Day-Hops piled on 18 more points to the Residents' 11 to bring the final to 38-13.

Alumni Upsets the Dope

The second big upset of the week was the trouncing that Alumni gave Austin, who have lost their last two games. The frosh kept pace with the upperclassmen in scoring until the last few minutes of the first half when they jumped into a four-point lead and never lost it during the remainder of the game. Jubilant over their first half lead, the Green Wave displayed their first real scoring attack of the season as they rang up 23 points to the amazed Austin's 15, in the second half to win by a 41-29 trouncing.

The whole Intramural League is astounded by the sudden surge of the C. & F. Day-Hops who are knocking off all the top-ranking teams after loosing their first three games in a row. This week they did away with Austin Hall and followed this triumph with a 30-26 victory over the third place Fedigan Gigoloes. Jim Meehan, last year's All-Intramural forward, and present high scorer of the league, tallied 14 points to lead his day-hop contingent to victory. Bill Wash was high for Fedigan with 10. Fedigan pressed hard but just couldn't catch the Day-Hops once they got a four-point lead.

INTRAMURAL SCORING

	Player	Team	Pts.
1.	Meehan	C. & F.	65
2.	Simmons	Men. Res.	60
3.	Buxeda	C. & F.	49
4.	O'Donnell	Alumni	47
5.	Moore	Fedigan	47
6.	Graziano	Men. Day	36
7.	Daly	Austin	37
8.	Cuirreri	Men. Day	36
9.	Macek	Austin	35
10.	Grangiello	Men. Day	29

Redskins Top League In Football Race

After two weeks of some rip-roaring competition, the Grapefruit Touch Football League with thirteen teams battling it out, has the Redskins on top of the league with three games won and only one lost. The Americans are in second place by way of points with 2 wins, 1 loss, and 1 tie. Points are given as follows, 2 for winning, 1 point for a tie and none for a loss.

The Packers have amassed the greatest number of points to date having registered 60 points in four games while the Redskins are only two points short with 58.

The point scoring for the first seven leaders are as follows:

Team	W	L	T	Pts
Redskins	3	1	0	6
Americans	2	1	1	5
Eagles	2	1	0	4
Packers	2	2	0	4
Seals	2	0	0	4
Rams	1	1	0	2
Steelers	1	2	0	2

Court

Continued From Page Five

date ,set for Wilmington, the first of the double-headers.

New Year's Day will find Villanova in Wilmington for their second double-header game with Williams College of Massachusetts. Detroit and Geneva make their appearances at Villanova on Jan. 2 and 5. On the 6th, two Pennsylvania teams, Villanova and Scranton will battle at Wilmington. Jan. 13 will find the 'Cats opposing Scranton in the latter's home court. Three nights later the 'Cats head back for Wilmington, where they have an open date as yet. Albright will be met the next night at Reading. The last of the open dates follow on Jan. 20 and it will also be played in Delaware.

Play Virginia Away

Villanova meets its eighteenth foe on Jan. 23 where the 'Cats go to Trenton to seek out Rider College. The following eve will find them back in Pa. in Allentown where they pit their strength against strong Muhlenberg. The last of the double-header games will be played when the dribblers go against the University of Virginia in another intersectional tilt. This game will also be played at Wilmington.

After Virginia, always-strong Brooklyn College will make their bid against the 'Cats in a home game. On Feb. 7, Lehigh's Engineers will play host the Blue at Bethlehem. Four home games will enable the Wildcat rooters see them in action when the 'Cats return home from the warpaths. On Feb. 11 Duquesne University brings a fast squad into the Field House to battle with Villanova. Six days later Waynesburg will invade Villanova to meet the Severancemen and then the following eve, Westminster comes to Villanova for their annual battle on the court. Feb. 20th will see the 'Cats preparing to meet a new team, St. Bonaventure's from up in New York State. Those four will mark another period of short trips for the courtsters. On March 6 Geneva College will be played at Beaver Falls, Pa., and then the following night Villanova will close her season when the team plays Wilmington and Jefferson at Washington, Pa. Last year the 'Cats were upset by this great club.

Brown University, with whom the Blue and White meets after a lay-off of a year is scheduled to be played between Dec. 27th and Jan. 3rd and the date will be set in the near future. In regards to the open dates, they should be filled within the next few weeks.

HERE AND THERE

By FRED CLARK

THE stock of the two gridiron combines on the local campus has taken quite a favorable rise due to the results of the brace of contests in which the two Villanova elevens participated in during the past week-end.

Both the varsity and the 150-pound team deserve special praise for their identical 7-6 victories over Detroit and Lafayette, thus bringing to a decisive end two losing streaks which were beginning to assume major proportions. Previously, Clipper Smith's charges had dropped three straight decisions while the lightweights had emerged on the short end of the score four weeks in succession.

As a sidelight to the main clash between the Wildcats and the Titans on Sunday afternoon the thousands of fans who jammed Shibe Park expected to witness a private duel between two of the most highly rated centers in the country, Vin Banonis of Detroit and Ed Korisky of Villanova. The fans were not disappointed in this expectation.

Praises for Korisky

Banonis, who is the captain of the Detroit eleven, is one of the favorites in the race for All-American honors at the pivot position while Korisky is the key man in the Villanova defense. It would be a difficult if not impossible task to choose between the two from their Sunday performances, for each lived up to his reputation.

Banonis had been billed as a ground-gaining center by virtue of the fact that his teammates often lateraled the ball to him after receiving passes. This proved to be no myth for the Detroit pivotman did fashion two fairly long gains in this manner.

However, 'Chopper' Korisky was not outshone by his rival for he made a large percentage of the Villanova tackles and a large part of the fifty-odd minutes that he was in the game was spent in the Titan's backfield.

—V—

With four of his regular guards confined to the sidelines because of injuries, Clipper Smith was forced to convert Roy Ericson, an end, and Jim Harkins, a tackle, into guards for the Detroit contest and this move proved a wise one. Ericson and Harkins both turned in first-class performances and left little to be desired in carrying out their assignments at the unfamiliar positions. Ericson especially looked good and will likely see plenty of action against Auburn this Saturday.

—V—

Lightning Strikes Twice

Both the Titans and the Wildcats missed field goals by the width of a goal post in the first half of the game. From the sidelines both kicks seemed to be sure three-pointers until they were deflected by hitting the uprights and bouncing back. This rarely happens even once in a game and we can recall no previous occasion in our limited experience when it happened twice.

Ed Kasky's disappointment at missing a score by such a narrow margin was lessened to a great extent when he kicked what proved to be the deciding point in the second half.

—V—

The win that the 150-pounders turned in over Lafayette was an important one since it marked the first time this year that the lightweights chalked one up in the win column. This dearth of victories cannot be traced to any faults or defects in the system taught by Co-coaches Eusko and Koproski or to any lack of skill or spirit by the players. The players are efficient and skilled enough but there are not enough of them. Lack of reserves is the answer.

Maybe a little more interest and encouragement by the student body would help to overcome this lack of reserves. The final game of the season will be played this Friday afternoon against Penn in the Villanova Stadium. If you want to see a well-played and hard-fought game of football, be there on Friday.

DOLLY MADISON ICE CREAM
"Deliciously Different"
PHILA. DAIRY PRODUCTS CO.
4th & Poplar Sts., Phila., Pa.

Meet Your Friends
AT THE GREEKS
We Serve Lunches
Superior Soda Service
Delicious Dinners

BROOKLINE
COUNTRY CLUB
Dancing Every Thursday to America's Top Name Bands
Saturday - Nov. 22
Ina Ray Hutton
In Person, and His Orchestra
Admission: $1.00 plus tax
Phone: Hilltop 1600

George Fein & Co.
Printer & Publishers
2116 to 2130 Arch St.
PHILADELPHIA, PA.
RITtenhouse 6983

For Expert Convenient Attention

SERVICE IS OUR FIRST THOUGHT
Patronize
THE CAMPUS
BARBER SHOP
- First Class Work -
- Popular Prices -

TO YOUR GOOD TASTE,
GENTLEMEN!

Roger Kent was founded in the belief that dressing well is a matter of taste and not of money. Why should a small budget force a man who knows better to accept clothing that is obviously made for indiscriminate mass consumption? This attitude, combined with specialization and its resultant values, has built a business unique in clothing history.

ROGER KENT
Suits, Outercoats and Formal Wear for Men
at the one $38.50 price
NEW-YORK
40 Broadway • 321 Broadway • 12 West 33rd St.
15 East 45th St. • 225 West 57th St.
NEW HAVEN 1058 Chapel St.
CAMBRIDGE Lampoon Bldg.
PHILADELPHIA 1607 Walnut St.
© R.K.

On the Silver Screen

Direction Warner Bros.
TOWER
69th & MARKET STS.
Tues., Wed. & Thurs.
Nov. 18, 19 & 20
"A Yank in the R. A. F."
with
Tyrone Power
Betty Grable
Fri., Sat., Sun. & Mon.
Nov. 21, 22, 23 & 24
Charles Boyer
Olivia DeHavilland
Paulette Goddard
"Hold Back the Dawn"

SUBURBAN
ARDMORE
Tues. to Thurs.
Bob Hope in
"NOTHING BUT THE TRUTH"
Starting Friday for Six Days
Fred Astaire - Rita Hayworth in
"YOU'LL NEVER GET RICH"

ANTHONY WAYNE
THEATRE WAYNE
Tues. & Wed.
On the Stage, the Play of the Week
"SKYLARK"
Thurs., Fri. & Sat.
"YOU'LL NEVER GET RICH"
Sun. & Mon.
A. J. Cronin's
"THE STARS LOOK DOWN"

SEVILLE
THEATRE BRYN MAWR
Tues., Wed. & Thurs.
Robert Montgomery in
"HERE COMES MR JORDAN"
Fri. & Sat.
"LADY BE GOOD"
Sun. & Mon.
"THE WOMAN IS MINE"

WILDCATS!
STOP HERE
LA DOW'S PHARMACY
On the Edge of the Campus
LANCASTER PIKE
VILLANOVA, PA.

ARDMORE
THEATRE
Tuesday & Wednesday
JOAN CRAWFORD
ROBERT TAYLOR
GREER GARSON in
"When Ladies Meet"
Saturday & Sunday
"Law Of The Tropics"
with
Constance Bennett - Jeffrey Lynn
Monday
"Married Bachelor"
Ruth Hussey - Robert Young

RIDE FREE ON P. & W.
RAILWAY MOVIE TICKETS
GRAND
NORRISTOWN
Tues., Wed. & Thurs.
Franchot Tone in
"THIS WOMAN IS MINE"
Fri. & Sat.
Constance Bennett in
"LAW OF THE TROPICS"
Mon. & Tues.
"ALOMA OF THE SOUTH SEAS"
with Dorothy Lamour

NORRIS
NORRISTOWN
Tues., Wed. & Thurs.
Merle Oberon in
"LYDIA"
Fri., Sat. & Mon.
Ann Sheridan - Jack Oakie in
"NAVY BLUES"

GARRICK
NORRISTOWN
Wed. & Thurs.
Spencer Tracy in
"DR. JEKYLL & MR. HYDE"
Fri. & Sat. - Double Feature
James Stewart in
"NAVY BLUE & GOLD"
also
"SHERIFF OF TOMBSTONE" with Roy Rogers

C&F Dean Institutes More Rigid Graduation, Promotion Standards

More rigid requirements for graduation and promotion in the School of Commerce and Finance have been instituted by Rev. Joseph C. Bartley, O. S. A., Dean, effective with this year's freshman class. Seniors must have a grade point average of 2.00 or higher and have satisfactorily completed all necessary courses in order to be eligible for graduation under the new system.

Freshmen who have an average of 1.50 or higher and have completed successfully the prerequisite courses may be promoted to the sophomore class, while sophomores attaining a rating of 1.75 or better will be eligible for promotion to the junior class, provided that they have passed all required freshman and sophomore subjects.

A Probation System

For promotion to the senior class, juniors must have a grade point average of 1.90 or higher and have satisfactorily completed all freshman, sophomore, and junior courses.

A new probation system has also been established, whereby any student whose grade point average at the end of a semester is below that specified for promotion shall be placed on probation and may have his extra-curricular activities curtailed at the dean's discretion.

Must Raise Rating

If the student on probation does not raise his rating to that specified for promotion by the beginning of the next academic year, he shall be dismissed and may not re-register in the commerce school.

Any freshman whose quality point average is below 1.00 at the end of his first year will also be dismissed.

Two Ways Open

There are two ways by which a quality point average below the requirement at the end of the year may be raised. The student may repeat a course, substituting the new grade, if higher, for the old one. Or, he may take one or more new courses approved by the dean, including these grades in his quality point calculation.

The quality point averages used as a base for determining these standards may be computed by multiplying the number of units of credit assigned to each subject taken by the student and the quality point value of the letter grade, adding the products thus obtained, and dividing the sum by the total number of units that the student should have taken according to the requirements of his course.

Reserve Officer To Depict Naval Flying

Lieutenant John J. Curran of the United States Naval Reserve Air Corps will visit the college on Wednesday, Nov. 26, to show students motion pictures of the life and activities of aviation students at Pensacola, Fla., which is known as "the Annapolis of the Air."

He will be in the Amphitheatre at 1:00 P. M. to explain the qualifications, courses, and rewards of a Naval Cadet and to answer questions on the subject.

Oil Executive Speaks At ASME Smoker

Lester Goldsmith, vice-president of the Atlantic Refining Co., gave the principal address at the annual smoker of the Villanova chapter of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers held last night in the Blue Room of the Field House. The topic of the talk was, "A Job Is What You Make It."

Representatives of the University of Pennsylvania, Drexel Institute, and Swarthmore and Delaware Colleges were among the gathering of over 100 who also heard Lee P. Hynes, president of the Hynes Electric Heating Co. and Chairman of the Committee on Student Relations of the Philadelphia Chapter of the A. S. M. E.

J. Stanley Morehouse, dean of the engineering school, headed a group of faculty members in attendance at the smoker. Refreshments were served and the facilities of the Field House were open for the use of the students and their guests.

Educators Form Training Plans

Holding its first meeting in Washington last Thursday, the U. S. Commission on Colleges and Civilian Defense drew up preliminary plans for the co-operation of the nation's colleges in the program of civilian defense.

The commission, whose membership consists of ten college and university presidents and the executive directors of five national educational associations, decided to inaugurate short practical aid training courses toward the possibility that this country is ever invaded.

In accordance with these plans, Very Rev. Edward V. Stanford, O. S. A., president of Villanova and one of the ten college presidents on the board, has disclosed that joint committees of the faculty and students will be formed here.

It is expected that provision will be made to train some students in first aid work under qualified Red Cross instructors and in fire protection to tie in with the county air raid protection service.

Besides Fr. Stanford, the national commission includes the following college presidents: Harold W. Dodds, Princeton; Ray Lyman Wilbur, Stanford; Major General Campbell B. Hodges, Louisiana State University; Donald M. Erb, Univ. of Oregon; Katherine Blunt, Connecticut College; Henry D. Gideonse, Brooklyn College, F. D. Patterson, Tuskegee Institute; George A. Selke, Minnesota State Teachers; and Thomas O. Walton, Texas A. & M.

Frosh Debaters

Rev. Robert M. Sullivan, O. S. A., moderator of Villanova's freshman debating squad, has announced that the initial meeting of that organization will be held this week and has invited all freshmen interested in debating to attend.

Most important business planned for this session is the appointment of a manager, who will handle all correspondence.

Last year's freshman team met such institutions as Northeast Catholic High School; University of Pennsylvania and St. Joseph's College freshmen; St. Joseph's Prep., and St. Thomas More High School. An attempt will be made to include these teams on the 1941-42 schedule.

This freshman debating squad has been used in the past as a "training school" for Beta Gamma, the varsity team.

Callahan Active At C. S. P. F. Conference

Charles J. Callahan, junior commerce student, represented Villanova at the first regional meeting of the Catholic Student Peace Federation held last Saturday at Notre Dame College of Staten Island.

Callahan, who is vice-president of the Middle Atlantic Region, participated in the discussion on "America's Responsibility in the Present Crisis."

Outcome of the conference was a proposal that the United States should aid in the formation of a World Community. Many practical details of the proposal were laid open to discussion.

Fourteen colleges of the Middle Atlantic states sent 150 delegates to the conference.

Belle Air Wants Pictures Of Past

William E. Schubert, editor-in-chief of the Belle Air, issued an appeal today to priests and alumni of the school for pictures and historical data pertaining to the third 25-year period of Villanova's existence.

Following the custom of the past two years, the editors will devote a part of this year's book to the history of the school. Two years ago, the period from the school's founding in 1843, until 1868 was discussed; last year the second 25 years were explained. This year's Belle Air will contain an illustrated history of the third quarter-century at Villanova.

Noteworthy progress has already been made in this regard, but much more material will be necessary to complete the work. The particular need is for pictures. Anyone having material which might be helpful is asked to communicate with one of the staff members or with Rev. Daniel P. Falvey, O. S. A., moderator of the book.

There will be a meeting of all staff members and those interested in joining the staff in the Belle Air office, room 51 Mendel today at 1:00 P. M.

The editors expect to finish the football and senior sections before the Christmas holidays. Biographies will be returned to the seniors for approval as soon as they have been completed.

Next year's class, the Centennial Class, will brnig the history up to date in its year book, continuing from 1918 until the present day.

WRIGLEY'S
SPEARMINT
CHEWING GUM
V-107

No Cramming Necessary!
For swell flavor and real chewing fun—the answer is delicious Wrigley's Spearmint Gum

Let's Celebrate
It's CHESTERFIELD
Chesterfield
CIGARETTES
LIGGETT & MYERS TOBACCO CO.
They Satisfy

MARJORIE WOODWORTH
Chesterfield's Girl of the Month in the Hal Roach hit
"All-American Co-ed"
a United Artists Release

Pass around the Chesterfields and it's pleasure time for everybody . . . smoking pleasure that only the right combination of the world's best cigarette tobaccos can give you.

Chesterfields make good friends . . . they're milder, definitely better-tasting and cooler-smoking. Everybody who smokes them likes them.

Copyright 1941, Liggett & Myers Tobacco Co.

VILLANOVAN

Vol. 14—No. 7 N. A. S. Z-660 VILLANOVA COLLEGE, VILLANOVA, PA. TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 25, 1941

Being Paddled Into Membership

These hapless sophomores don't look as though they suffered too much pain when Sam Canning, secretary of Delta Pi Epsilon, administered the traditional strokes to pledgees of that organization at their initiation last night. From left to right, and exhibiting varying degrees of emotions, are Bob Young, Bob White, Joe Coll, and John Bambrick. That's a pledgee sign around White's neck.

Dean Chairman At Convention

J. Stanley Morehouse, dean of the engineering school, will serve as chairman of the Agenda Committee of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers at that group's national convention, to be held in New York City from Nov. 30 to Dec. 3.

This committee acts as a clearinghouse for the business of the convention; Dean Morehouse has been working on its program since his election as chairman last year.

The Agenda Committee will determine the consensus of opinion of member bodies on problems, criticisms, and suggestions to be taken up at the convention, as expressed by the 82 local sections in the country through their delegates to eight regional conventions held last month.

Dean Morehouse will also attend the luncheon at the Hotel Astor on Student Day, Dec. 3, where members of the student chapters in attendance meet members of the A. S. M. E. Council and others prominent in the engineering professions. The student guests will be taken on trips that afternoon. A number of Villanova student members have signified their intention of attending the Student Day activities.

Last Chance Today To Make Changes In Senior Biographies

Seniors will have a final opportunity to make changes or revisions in their yearbook write-ups by calling at the Belle Air office, room 51, Mendel Hall, between 12:30 and 4:00 P. M. today.

Those who do not take advantage of the chance to make changes, which was offered both yesterday and today, will be considered to have left any corrections to the discretion of the staff. Walter J. Fox, copy editor of the annual, expects to have the write-ups completed and ready for the printer immediately following the Thanksgiving holiday.

Due to the fact that many seniors were not prepared to order pictures during her first visit here, Miss Ann McCarthy, Zamsky's Studio representative, will return next Tuesday, Dec. 2, to receive orders. All seniors must not only make their individual arrangements for the purchase of pictures at this time but must likewise designate the informal shot to be used in the yearbook.

Frank McKay, photography editor, has stressed the fact that seniors who do not cooperate will have no redress if their pictures do not appear in the Belle Air.

Squad pictures of the frosh, 150-lb., and varsity football teams will be taken today to complete the pictures of the section on fall sports.

D. P. E. Welcomes 39 New Members At Its Initiation

By ED BENNIS

If certain commerce and finance sophomores and juniors seem to have a far away look in their eyes today, you can be sure that they were among the 39 new members who were initiated into Delta Pi Epsilon fraternity last night—and what an initiation it was!

It all began last Frday when the pledging committee required the pledgees to dress in a distinctive manner on the campus — so, you see, those queerly-garbed fellows weren't so crazy after all. They were just future fraternity members following orders: that is, wearing their shirts and ties backwards and their pants rolled up to the knees, revealing two different colored socks. They also carried large cardboard signs in front and back designating them as D. P. E. pledgees — not sandwich men.

The Real McCoy

But the real ceremonies, which were presided over by the fraternity members, began last night at 7:30 in the C. & F. Auditorium. The pledgees, who by this time were fearful of what was about to happen, were dressed in pajamas and each carried his own paddle — the size of which had previously been specified.

After brief instructions by the initiation committee, the ceremonies began for the lads, who looked rather smooth in their rainbow-hued night garb.

Ordeal Begins

The pledgees were led to the C. & F. Auditorium where the ordeals of the initiation were inflicted. After being blindfolded, they were led to the stage, where a rather large spoonful of good old castor oil was administered to each with a great deal of nose holding—followed by a short, shocking, and unexpected dousing with water.

Then each pledgee sang a song he composed for the fraternity. The tunes were supposedly theme songs,

DPE INITIATES
Continued on Page Four

Shows Naval Flying Picture At 1 P. M.

A motion picture and lecture dealing with the aeronautical division of the United States Naval Reserve will compose the main part of a program to be conducted by Lieut. John J. Curran, U. S. N., in the Mendel Hall Amphitheatre at 1:00 P. M. today.

Lieut. Curran will tell students in attendance how they may apply for admission to the Reserve, discuss the qualifications required for this type of work, and take the names and addresses of those interested in possible enlistment. Those present will be given an opportunity to ask questions following the lecture.

The program is sponsored by the Villanova placement service; all students are invited to attend.

Debaters Win First Contest

Victor Over Penn Evening School; Season's Schedule Includes Princeton, Fordham

Beta Gamma, college debating society, won the first league debate sponsored by the Philadelphia Forensic league this year by defeating Penn Evening School last Friday evening.

Joseph F. Mahoney, junior artsman, and John P. Fullam, senior education student, upheld the affirmative side of the question: "Resolved: That the Federal Government should regulate all labor unions in the United States."

In arguing this question, Villanova's representatives pointed out the fact that since labor groups have demonstrated their inability to settle their own disputes amicably, it is necessary for some outside force to attempt to bring about these settlements and to restore some semblance of order to the industrial scene.

Against Control

Penn presented the negative viewpoint of the question and argued that governmental machinery already established is capable of handling all labor disputes. Villanova's opponents held that progress in other fields has been effected without any government interference and cited the American Medical and Bar Associations as examples of independent control.

Beta Gamma will engage the St. Joseph's College team in their next debate in league competition, on Dec. 4 at 3:30 P. M. in Simpson Hall on this same topic. Villanova will be represented by Thomas DeSipin, senior engineer, David N. Reardon, senior commerce man, and Thomas F. McKimmey, senior education major. Beta Gamma will defend the negative of the question.

Schedule Arranged

On Dec. 7, the debaters will meet the University of Pennsylvania before the Young Men's Hebrew Association, with Villanova taking the negative of the topic, "Resolved: That the U. S. should declare war on Japan."

A debate has also been scheduled with Rosemont College for Dec. 10, and a series of non-decision practice debates have been arranged with the University of Pennsylvania Evening School.

After the Christmas holidays, the society will meet Princeton, at home and away; Fordham at Villanova; Upsala at East Orange, N. J., and at Villanova; Providence at home; and Misericordia away.

Canning Victor

Commerce Man Elected Vice-President of Junior Class to Fill Vacancy

Samuel J. Canning, commerce and finance student, was elected last week to fill the position of vice-president of the junior class, Student Council president Thomas J. McKimmey disclosed yesterday after tabulation of the votes.

Canning has been active in class affairs since his freshman year. A number of the VILLANOVAN sports staff for three years, he was secretary of the Centennial Class and a member of the Orientation Committee last year. He is now secretary of Delta Pi Epsilon, commerce school fraternity.

Other candidates in last Tuesday's election included John F. Newell and Joseph F. Halpin, of the commerce school; Angelo Macchia and George Eriksen, Jr., science men; and James J. Donnelly, of the engineering school.

I. R. C. Sends Men To Lehigh Forum

Gerard F. Belz, senior artsman, and Robert T. Canfield, junior business student, will serve as Villanova's delegates to the Middle Atlantic International Relations Club Conference this Friday and Saturday, Nov. 28 and 29, at Lehigh University, Bethlehem, Pa.

Rev. William J. Lunney, O. S. A., moderator of the local chapter, will accompany the official delegates. Several other members of the club have signified their intention to attend the conference as unofficial observers.

The Lehigh conference will follow the usual plan of the regional meetings of the international relations organizations. Official delegates have been invited from each of the schools belonging to the organization. Those named by the various schools are asked to participate in the activtiies of the conferenc; anyone else belonging to the local clubs may attend and take part in the open discussions.

Sessions of the meeting are to be devoted to problems of international interest. Some of these meetings will feature prominent speakers, but the majority are held in the form of panel or round-table discussions in which students will be both chairmen and participants.

Topics for special consideration at Lehigh include: "The Challenge to Democracy"; "The Organization for Peace"; "Japan's New Order"; "American Solidarity"; "Russia and the Future Peace"; and "The United States and the World at War."

Pity The Fate Of The Resident: A Turkeyless Holiday His Prospect

By JOHN P. FULLAM

In this time of national emergency, citizens of this great land of ours are naturally called upon to make great sacrifices. Automobiles will cost more than before; women's legs will be warmer, though less shimmering; the newlywed will heat canned goods in iron, rather than aluminum, cook-pots. And so on.

But one of the greatest sacrifices anyone could be expected to make must be made this year by many a Villanova student, for geographical rather than emergency reasons. It all comes about as the result of the difference between Thanksgiving and "Frank's-giving" — or when Turkey Day refused to talk turkey.

Supreme Sacrifice

Students from New Jersey, Maryland, and New York, three of the 32 states that observed the holiday last week, have in many cases been forced to make the supreme sacrifice — their Thanksgiving dinner. For everyone isn't as fortunate as John Gallagher, chubby commerce senior, who has hopes of tackling a big feed Thursday.

Instead, the average student is in the same boat as, say, Henry Rzonca, whose home is in Elizabeth, N. J. He's not at all sure he'll get even one turkey feast. Dave Daly, senior artsman from Montclair, N. J., is faced with much the same problem.

Most of the college's New Yorkers, like senior artsman Jack Robinson and an almost endless list of others, have been writing home in a state of hopeful, but not at all certain, anticipation.

Week Late for Dinner

For the folks back home have, in the majority of cases, already had their feast. And what mother could be expected to go out and get another bird just because young Villa Nova gets his holiday then. Thursday's the maid's day off and he can pitch in on a wholesome salad or soup made from the old bird's bones.

As if the loss of the big feed weren't enough, the wrong-state Villanovan will be faced with the problem of entertainment. He'll probably have to spend his time studying because his old home-town pals and gals will be having classes and he'll just feel that he's playing hookey with no one to accompany him.

Lucky Philadelphians

It's the day-hop in general, the resident of Pennsylvania, who has the laugh on him. He can eat and be merry, since his family and friends will be observing the day, too.

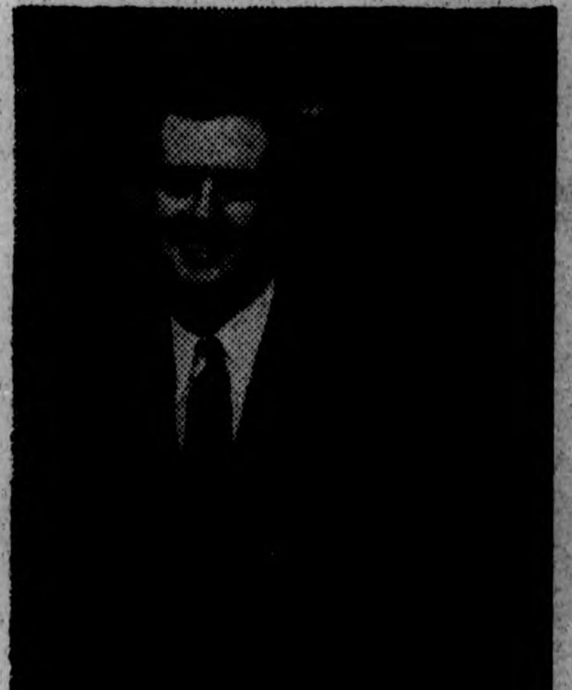
But relief isn't far off—just until next year, when President Roosevelt has proclaimed that Thanksgiving will again be the last Thursday of the month in every state. That is, unless some state has liked the new date so well it's going to keep it.

Klappenbach Is Banquet Head

Large Committees Chosen for Dinner Dance and Belle Air Ball; Pick Sub-Chairmen

Ernest L. Klappenbach, a commerce school student, has been appointed to the chairmanship of the Senior Dinner Dance, to be held Feb. 14, John P. Kirchner, senior class president, announced today.

The appointment of the Dinner Dance chairman is the second of the senior class appointments and follows closely upon the appointment of the Belle Air Ball chairmen, John T. Gallagher and Andrew J. Melton.



ERNEST KLAPPENBACH

Committees for both these socials were released at the same time.

Reward For Services

Ernie Klappenbach received his appointment "in view of the fine services he rendered as a member of the Junior Prom Decorations Committee last spring." The decorations, giving the gym a semblance of a beautiful roof garden, were planned by him and installed under his direction; they received much favorable comment.

Klappenbach's extra-curricular activities are otherwise limited to golf. He has been a member of the varsity golf team ever since his sophomore year when he transferred to Villanova from the University of Notre Dame. This year he will lead the team as acting captain

Exclusiveness Sought

Having just received his appointment, chairman Klappenbach was unable to offer any plans but stated that, as customary, the affair will probably be held at a Phialdelphia hotel or other appropriate site in the city. In addition, he expressed his intention of doing everything possible to secure the site of the Dinner Dance exclusively for the senior class.

Those appointed to the various Belle Air Ball committees are as follows: Decorations Committee, Herbert Saner, engineer, sub-chairman; Mark Fitzgerald and Arthur Connor, education students; John

COMMITTEES PICKED
Continued on Page Eight

Next Alumnus Issue To Come Out Monday

Second issue of the year of the "Villanova Alumnus," official publication of the college Alumni Association, will make its appearance next Monday, Dec. 1, William G. Slaughter, secretary-treasurer of the Alumni Association, announced yesterday.

The issue will feature articles by Very Rev. Edward V. Stanford, O. S. A., president of the college; John P. Keffer, president of the Alumni Association; and Joseph A. Barnes, head of the sports department of the "Alumnus" this year.

Latest reports on the centennial fund drive, which is intended to aid in the equipping of a new library on the campus, will be included. Regular alumni news and several articles of current interest are scheduled for the issue.

Light Needed, Harrisburg

ACCIDENTS which have occurred recently on Lancaster Pike in front of the college have brought up again the necessity for a traffic light at the crossing to the parking lot and the P. and W. station.

After all, the college is a community of over a thousand people and a comunity of such size should have the protection of a traffic light at its most-used crossing. An officer is on duty there in the morning, but there is no protection at any other time of the day except for a short time in the afternoon. The result is that the pedestrian just has to take his chance with the speeding traffic and the only surprise is that there aren't more accidents.

The ideal solution would be a light of the type that is set by the pedestrian; when a person wanted to cross he would push a button and the light would change against traffic for a sufficient time for him to cross. The state couldn't go wrong in putting in a light, for even if it prevented just one accident it would more than repay for the expense and inconvenience it might cost.

Residents of the locality, the college administration, and the township authorities have asked for a light before, but the state refuses to install a light where there isn't an intersection. This is certainly a weak point, for more people cross here than do at many intersections protected by lights; their safety shouldn't be jeopardized because of any arbitrary rule.

It is to be hoped that the township will be able to move the state authorities to take action before any further accident occurs.

—T. A. S.

Sweep Out The Dirt!

MANY ARE the indictments that could be cited against the motion picture industry for its unscrupulous "stagings" and themes of today, but one in particular is the glorified presentation of propaganda and immorality which the bosses seem to feel forced to combine. Their aim may be twofold: either to intensify the action of the war-photoplays or to introduce again a new campaign for suggestive films while another stronger emotional influence is before the people.

The indecent distortions which the producers are offering to the public have grown to a proportion which reminds us of a similar status this type of film enjoyed several years ago. At that time it was necessary that a nationwide reactionary movement be started before the men behind them were persuaded that the public wanted clean, respectable entertainment, and not filth.

—H. A. McC.

VILLANOVAN

Issued twen'y-five times a year from Villanova College, Villanova, Pa.

THOMAS H. DOYLE, JR., '42 ....Editor-in-Chief
ROBERT J. FUNABASHI, '42 ....Sports Editor
THOMAS F. DEVINE, '43 ....College Editor
WILLIAM E. SCHUBERT, '42 ....Managing Editor
THOMAS A. SULLIVAN, '42 ....Copy Editor
HOWARD A. McCALL, '42 ....Literary Editor
JOHN T. GALLAGHER, '42 ....Business Manager
ALBERT D'ALONZO, '42 ....Photography Editor
JOHN P. FULLAM, '42 ....Feature Editor
ROBERT F. DONOVAN, '42 ....Subscription Manager
BRUNO J. TALVACCHIA, '42 ....Exchange Editor
BERNARD C. CRUMB, ex-'42, Honorary Circulation Manager

Columnists
F. J. Clark, '42 D. N. Reardon, '42

Staff Writers
F Bagot, '43; G. Belz, '42; E. Bennis, '43; H. Binder, '44; J. Bongiovanni, '43; R. Canfield, '43; S. Canning, '43; S. Caplan, '42; J. Coleman, '43; W. Craven, '43; L. DeSimone, '44; J. Dudley, '43; J. Earley, '42; L. Esposito, '43; W. Guncheon, Jr., '43; D. Haley, '42; J. Jakovic, '42; J. Mahoney, '43; J. Mauch, '43; J. McCabe, '42; R. McIntyre, '42; T. Muraski, '43; J. Nunemaker, '43; F. Reese, '43; T Shallow, '42; C. Schaumann, '42; J. Tortoreto, '44; R .Young, '44.

Business Assistants
C. Callahan, '43 L. Jones, '43 J. Walsh, '43 E. Smith, '43

Circulation Assistants
J. Cerulo, '42 G. Fitzgerald, '42 E. Frank, '42
N. Eni, '43 J. Keays, '44 J. Monroe, '44

Photography Staff
R. Amicone, '43 L. Eni, '44 J. Sandonato, '42

Faculty Advisor—Rev. Edward B. McKee, O. S. A.

This paper is dedicated to one of the finest men who ever entered Villanova; scholar, athlete, gentleman — LEO GOODREAU

Subscription: $2.00 per year. Circulation: 3500.
Entered as second class matter at the Villanova Post Office December 27, 1928.

Member of Associated Collegiate Press; Distributor of Collegiate Digest.
Member of Catholic School Press Association, Catholic College Press Association, and National Scholastic Press Association.

TUESDAY . . . . . NOVEMBER 25, 1941

Annually And Daily

THIS YEAR more than any other, Americans have much to be thankful for. Since that first Thanksgiving of the Pilgrims, more than 300 years ago, our nation has survived much strife, foreign and internal, but never before was its destiny threatened as it is now. We should be grateful that we have been spared war thus far.

The prayer that millions of families make on Thanksgiving Day should be one of request as well as one of thanksgiving. We should make an earnest solicitation that God will continue to bless America with the principles of freedom of worship, private property, individual liberty, and national peace.

In these troublous times an aspect that is being assailed most vehemently is worship of God. Russia doesn't even recognize the principle and Germany is rapidly extinguishing the light of faith in its own state as well as in the seventeen countries it has conquered.

Let every American reflect on his rights and duties, especially the latter, for it is every American's duty to keep the light of freedom burning brightly. Let every Catholic feel obligated and proud to keep aflame the light of his faith and freedom.

—D. J. H.

Answer To A Letter

Dear Sir:

While I can readily understand the reluctance to sacrifice space in this paper for a second week, still I consider it only fair that an opportunity be given to refute the rather rambling expression of pro-British sentiment which appeared in the last issue of the VILLANOVAN.

At the outset, I would like to correct a very flagrant error of terminology. The overwhelming majority of those opposed to war in this country are anti-war, not anti-British. This is the policy which the VILLANOVAN has advocated. A rejection of the virtuous qualities so freely and frequently attributed to the British is merely one of the less important arguments in supporting the anti-war proposition.

Following the example of one of their most ardent spokesmen, Mr. Walter Winchell, interventionists have acquired the knack of "interpreting" the words of any group not in harmony with their aims. They have grown adept at drawing fine distinctions. They vigorously assert that those who are not pro-British are necessarily pro-Nazi; yet groups which endorse aid to Russia are not, by the same token, pro-Communist.

Out of this involved maze of pros and cons, the war makers have drawn intricate doctrines of paradoxical dogmas, the acceptance of which they are seeking to enforce upon the country by means of press, radio, and motion pictures.

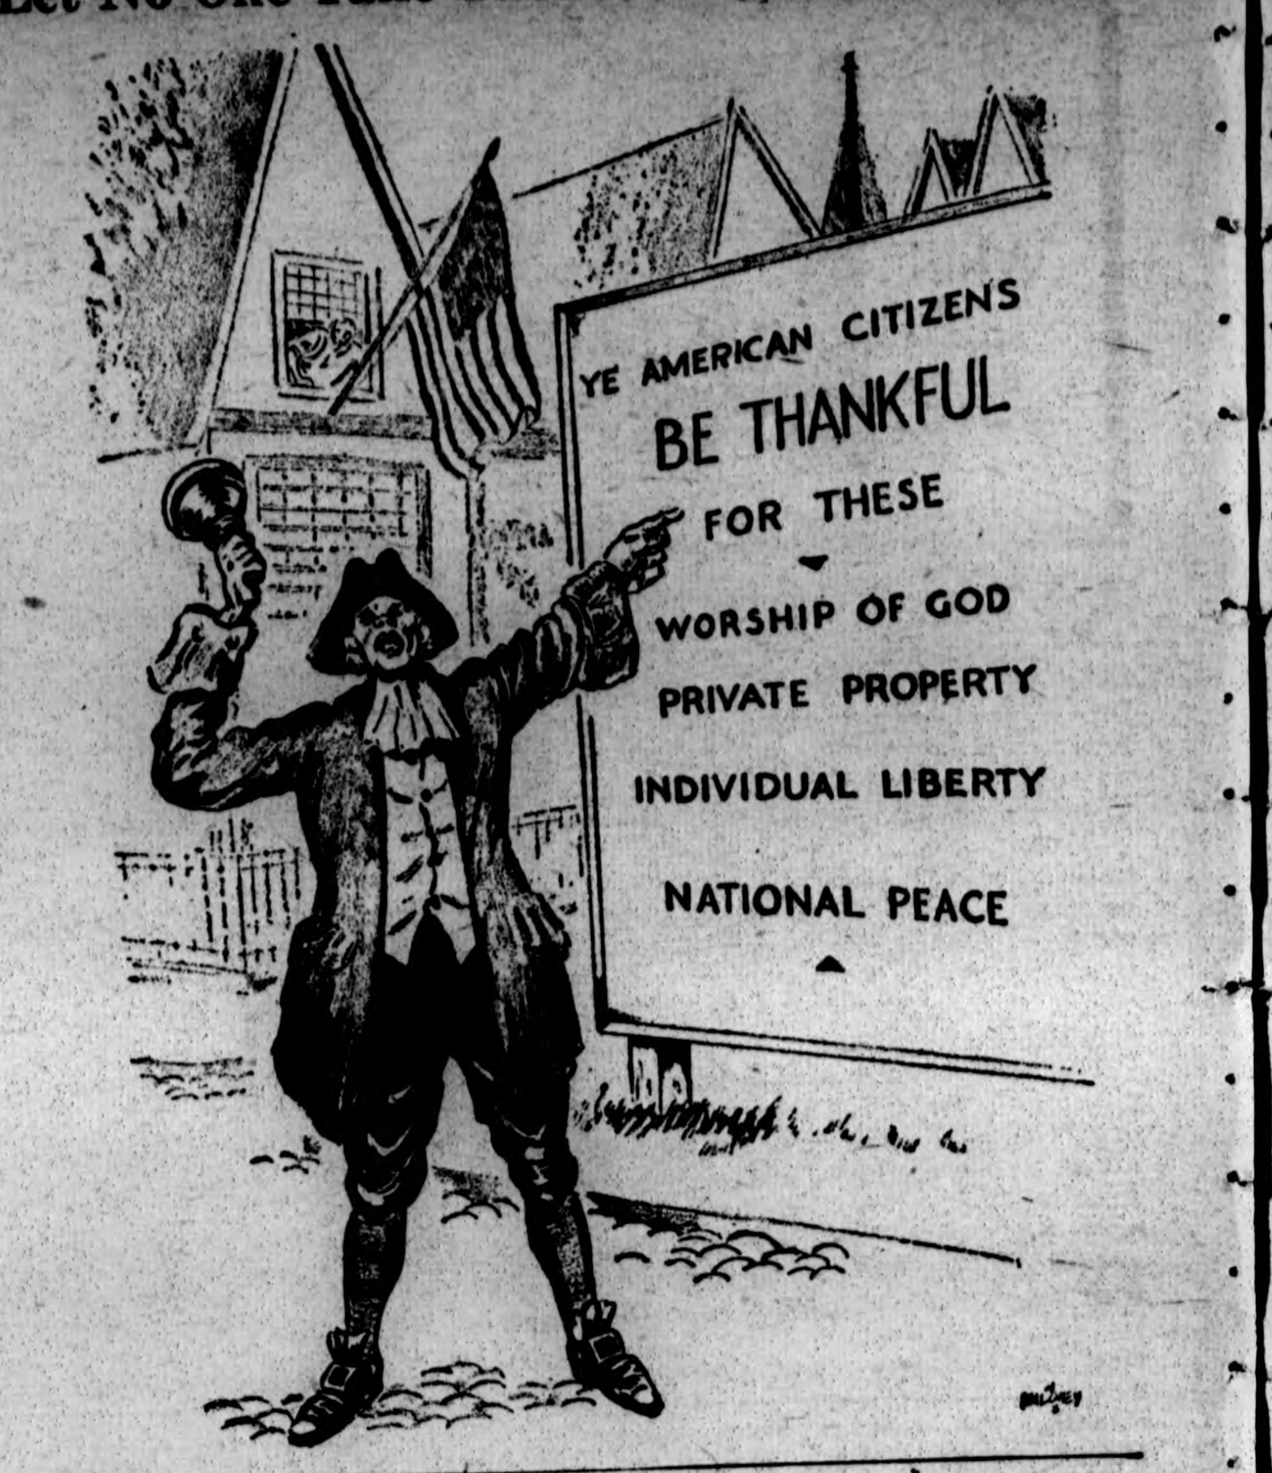
Laws enacted by our statesmen in the cool reason of the pre-war period have been completely overthrown before the first fruits of the effort could be reaped. With mob simplicity, a minority of citizens in a twentieth century democracy have rallied to the support of a few misguided or unscrupulous orators. Almost overnight their ideas on such basic concepts as the futility of war and the dangers of Communism have suffered a complete revision.

Those who would hurl us into this catastrophe use as one of their strongest reasons the economic one. The force of this fallacious

LETTER TO EDITOR

Continued on Page Four

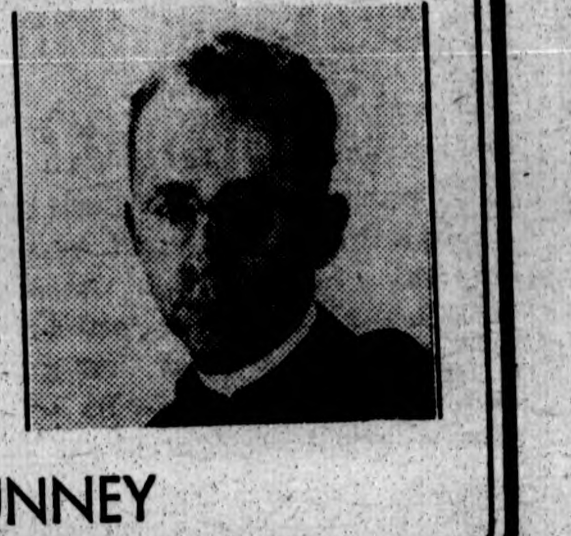
"Let No One Take Them Away From You!"



FACULTY COMMENTS

"That All May Be One"

By FR. LUNNEY



AT a time when pleas for unity come to us from all sides, and for the most divergent reasons, it may be well for us to consider some aspects of the inherent oneness of mankind, so that our unity will be founded on principle and not on passing emotion.

Material advancement in the fields of transportation and communication has brought us closer together, but we are not more united on that account. In every field of scientific endeavor and of art, we know and esteem the efforts of others and celebrate their attainments without really deducing the most important conclusion of all, namely, that there is a common humanity in us which appreciates that which is good, and true, and beautiful; that there is a common brotherhood which is predicated necessarily on the Fatherhood of god, who is the Author and Creator of every gift.

A Universal Belief

This essential unity of the human race with regard to the origin of man and his destiny, so succinctly portrayed in Holy Writ, has been generally maintained by all who believed in the Sacred Scriptures and, oddly enough, even by peoples who could have had no knowledge of the written Word of God. Profane science of years gone by attempted to undermine this belief but has succeeded only in strengthening it.

Scientific investigation today confirms this truth of the essential unity of mankind from whatever angle we may care to consider it. Even those who would ridicule the Old Testament story must now admit there is much scientific evidence in support of it.

We limit our considerations here to the unity of origin, and this in three particulars: 1) the unity of bodily origin; 2) the unity of the origin of language; 3) the unity of cultural evolution. Naturally, we can only touch upon these in this brief space.

Single Bodily Origin

Scarcely a century and a half ago, secular science of the so-called "Age of Enlightenment" maintained that it was impossible for all the apparent so divergent races of men to have had a common origin; that it was impossible to explain these divergences except upon the assumption of separate origins. However, the Darwinian theory, despite the many serious objections offered against it, revolutionized this situation, maintaining as it did that man must have had a single and not a multiple origin. And in this almost all scientists in this field today essentially agree.

But not only in his bodily origin, even in his intellectual development as well, is there increasing evidence for the thesis of the unity of mankind in the origin of its speech. As recently as fifty years ago, however, this was stoutly denied. But today, in the field of comparative philology there is practically complete agreement on this score. For although many difficulties remain to be solved, the investigations of the last few decades bid fair to present solutions of all the remaining problems in the none too distant future.

Unity of Human Culture

Research in human culture as well presents further testimony. Ethnology has advanced to the point of maintaining not merely a potential oneness of origin in the principle of culture, namely, the human spirit, but proclaims a unity of origin of culture itself, that human culture is one in its spiritual growth. Thus this theory "either harmonizes directly with the biblical data or tends in that direction."

And to use the words of Father Schmidt: "Science in its most recent and advanced stages points to the oneness of origin on the part of all religious development of the whole human race, an origin such as Holy Writ teaches."

Reason for Disunity

Why is it then that despite our multiplied knowledge of this essential unity we are farther removed from true unity among ourselves and our brothers throughout the world than we were centuries ago? The answer is to be found in the field of human actions, and, to go back to origins, in Original Sin. For what we know and believe in is not always the basis of our actions. Rather is pride and selfishness frequently the motivation of our dealings with others. The Love of God and of our Brother must determine our united efforts, otherwise our "unity" had better be designated as diabolical chaos. St. Augustine has the Christian answer for the difficulty as to how this true unity may be preserved or restored when broken by crime. It is simply that we be filled "with hatred of sin, but love for the brother man."

Wildca Whirl

By Dave Reardon

MANY of the so-called campus elite burned the candle at both ends and in the middle over the past week. On Sunday the place looked like the land where men are men and women are non-existent; only the hearty survived the social turmoil. Tomorrow will commence the first holiday of note this year and one which will be greatly appreciated because, for many, it means the first trip home this semester.

* * *

JOTTINGS:

The Immaculata campus last Friday night found the Senior Prom in progress with Clarence Fuhrman's music echoing o'er the scene. Among those Villanovans in attendance were Joe Shea, George Fitzgerald, Frank McKay, Paul Waters, Bim Bambrick, and Sam Canning.

Over at Chestnut Hill College, Bud McWilliams' rhythms were heard at the Senior Ball. Jim Cashin, Ed Frank, Bill Walsh, Frank Buckley, Tom McKimmey, and Jack Enright were there, along with Jack "Big Deal" Gallagher with his one and only Mary Kay Drueding of Rosemont.

John "Dutch" McCarthy, trackman, is currently dating one Elvita, a Harcum gal. . . Bill "4-F" Kelly took petite Lillian Mullen to a dance at Baldwin's last Friday P. M.

Larry McStravog and Sue Gartland have decided to lease the Wayne, which is the Main Line's most popular spot. . . Dan Haley is encountering no little trouble with Terry, who is wandering around with a Penn State he-man.

* * *

CAMPUS CRIBBINGS:

At the Auburn game last Saturday, Frank Reese had a date. Everyone is wondering if she is the highly popularized Norristown girl. . . . The members of the track team seem to have a social round-robin. Dixie Dunbar frequently accompanies Mary Keefrider, Harry's sister, while Bud Jones regularly dates Mary DiCarlo, John's sister. Incidentally, Harry reads "big-little" books for recreation. . . Jim "The Birds" Halpin, O'Dwyer dude, is understood to carry on a heavy correspondence with a Brooklyn pal, she-pal.

The other day Fr. Grimes was substituting in Fr. Dunne's class. Roy Lind, arriving a few seconds late, was quick to remark, "Oh, the wrong class" and dashed out. Gathering his thoughts and checking on the location of the class, he came back ten minutes later and puffed, "Oh, the right class."

Nick Eni, Joe Turner and Gene Labowski convinced Frank Rosenberg that he should attend the Catechetical Congress. . . We are glad to hear that the present staff of the Georgian Court Page are unaware of the unfortunate happenings of last year. . . Bob McIntyre is no longer the possessor of the Immaculata ring he once wore with pride. Strangely enough, he doesn't have his own ring, either. What has happened to this purely platonic friendship?

* * *

POME:

The excursion train jerked to a stop,
The brakeman suppressed a laugh;
"There's serious trouble up front," he said;
"The cow-catcher's had a calf!"

* * *

THE DAY'S DOINGS:

Notes taken at the Epsilon Phi Theta initiation last week: John Quinn wasn't made to translate thirty lines of Cicero as he feared, but those paddle-wielders weren't thinking about Latin verbs. . . Paul Stenn expressed his regret that "Ruffy Joe" Hagerty wasn't being initiated. . . . Jim Connelly was asked, in the midst of the proceedings, the name of his favorite song. His reply, "Everything Happens to Me," merited him just that.

Chick Peifer's predilection for Tommy Dorsey has been supplanted by an equally intense one for Claude Thornhill. . . Bill Craven has discovered that accounting can be much more interesting at night school. . . Does jealousy motivate Bill Mundy's caustic comments to Larry Eichman on the subject of Agnes?

Meet The Boys: Not Plato, Van Dyck, Or Noel Coward; Just Dave And Our Man Howard

By JOHN P. FULLAM

Take a human being. Add a high school diploma, a matriculation card, three dates a week, and a green or tan sport coat, and you have a college student. Add a pancake hat, a key chain, an accounting book, and a mercenary outlook, and you have a C. & F. student. Subtract two of the three dates, add a slide rule and a week's beard, and you have an engineering student. Subtract the slide rule and add yellow shoes and a long white coat, and you have a science student.

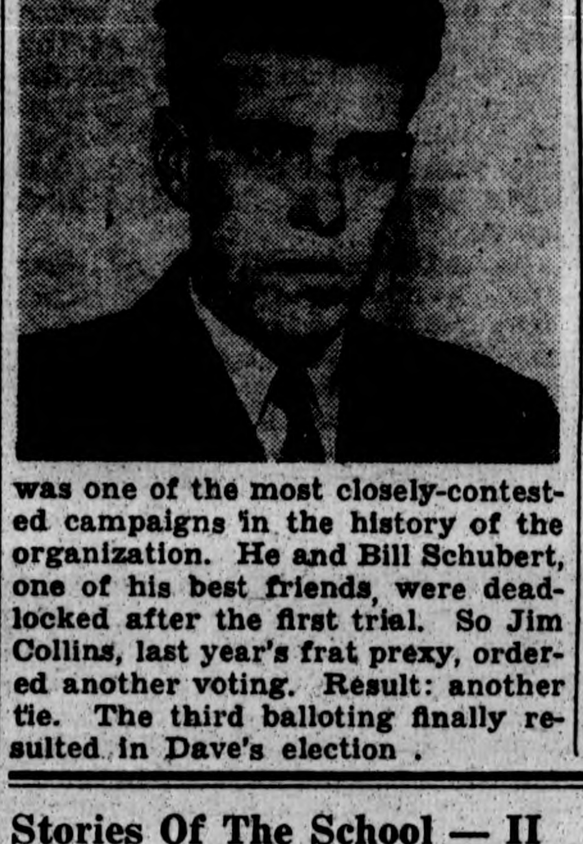
Now go back to the beginning. Add a fair knowledge of Latin, French, history, and Philosophy, together with an appreciation of how little he really does know, and you have an arts student. At least, that's the way the arts student sees it.

And, as nearly as anyone has ever been typical of anything, David F. Daly and Howard A. McCall are typical of the arts school. Scholastic interests, athletics, and extra-curricular activities — all three.

PERHAPS the chief distinction of Dave Daly is his presidency of Epsilon Phi Theta, the campus' oldest fraternity. He himself considers on almost an equal plane residence in Montclair, N. J., for 16 of his 21 years.

In his own quiet way, Dave has managed to make his four years here fully as busy as anyone else's—plus. A chronic honor roll-ist, he is also this year's tennis captain, senior class treasurer, and one of the best shortstops in the intramural leagues. He also tries to be helpful down at the pool during the swimming season in a managerial capacity.

Incidentally, Dave's election to the presidency of his fraternity was one of the most closely-contested campaigns in the history of the organization. He and Bill Schubert, one of his best friends, were deadlocked after the first trial. So Jim Collins, last year's frat prexy, ordered another voting. Result: another tie. The third balloting finally resulted in Dave's election.



Dave writes sports for the Belle Air, and is one of the old faithfuls of the Sanctuary Society. Something of a lion in the social line, Montclair's hardware scion was a member of last year's Junior Prom Committee, the Sophomore Cotillion Committee, and the Orientation Committee.

Two "Bibles"

His roomie for four years is another dyed-in-the-wool artsman, John P. Maher — whom Dave frequently criticises for his broad viewpoint.

Mr. Daly (not Daily, Daley, or Dali), relies upon two "bibles" — his copious class notes and the New York papers. Among his most prized possessions are "two brothers and two beautiful sisters."

Dave insists that he doesn't get along very well with girls—but anyone who has seen him at his sharpest would hesitate to stake his bottom dollar on the truth of the claim.

Progress

So, that's the story. From the Immaculate Conception Grammar School, through St. Benedict's Preparatory School, Newark, and through four years here at Villanova, Dave Daly has progressed steadily. After graduation, he hopes to continue to progress, through law school.

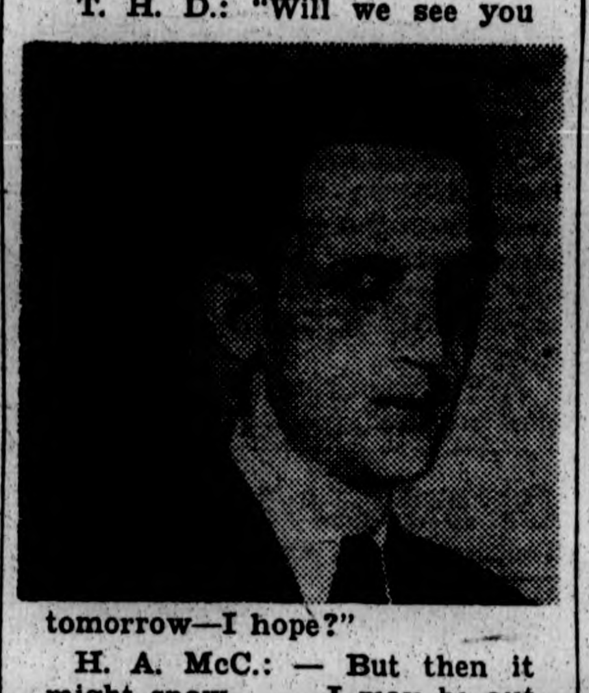
And after that, we venture to predict, he'll keep on progressing. As a philosopher might say, Dave will grow closer and closer to the Ideal—but let's leave that stuff to Plato.

HOWARD A. McCALL also has plenty to say for himself in the three fields of scholarship, athletics, and extra-curricular activities. For Howard McCall has played intra-mural basketball. He, too, has appeared on the honor roll not infrequently. He is at present literary editor of Villanova's student weekly, secretary of Epsilon Phi Theta, and a past president of the International Relations Seminar. . .

Tom Doyle: "Well, Howdie, how are the editorials this week?"

H. A. McC.: "It's a nice day today."

T. H. D.: "Will we see you tomorrow—I hope?"



H. A. McC.: — But then it might snow. . . . I may be out with them on Sunday."

. . . Howard McCall attended Our Lady of Lourdes Parochial School and St. Joseph's College High School in Philadelphia before enrolling at Villanova four years ago.

Current Events Student

Howdie has won himself a reputation as an unquenchable non-interventionist. He is usually to be found poring over an abandoned daily paper—and not just because he has to figure out something to write about for Tuesday's editorials. Mr. McCall has a profound interest in current affairs. And, in addition to the poring, there is also quite often a pouring process taking place the object of which is Louie's coffee.

Feminine interests? Quotes Howard. "I won't say another word!"

At Navy Yard

Howdie's summers have been spent either at the seashore or at work. Last summer found him in the employ of the Drydock Associates of the Philadelphia Navy Yard.

T. D.: "Well, Howard, I'm afraid we'll have to cut down on the editorials this week . . . long 'Faculty Comments,' and all that. . ."

H. A. McC.: "You dog! After I spend all my time—the edits are the most important part of the whole paper! Why . . ."

Yes, law school next year will probably take another true arts student to its bosom.

Stories Of The School — II

Plane Remains Gather Dust

Part of a vast quantity of miscellany which finds a final resting place beneath the massive concrete hulk of the Villanova Stadium are the remains of a World War I Curtis-built Navy airplane.

Strangely out of place, the wreckage of one of our nation's old fighting planes gathers dust beside worn-out and out-moded athletic equipment, collector's items, and what-not. And although the story of its being there is not a dramatic one, it is nevertheless as interesting in its own way as it would have been romantic had the plane crashed there.

Problem of Surplus Stock

At the end of the war, the United States Navy Department decided to get rid of a large amount of surplus stock. Since the various engineering schools in the country could use such stock in their courses, it was to the engineering schools that most of the equipment was distributed.

Villanova obtained about $30,000 worth of material at the time—in airplane parts, motors, etc. Included was one complete plane, two Liberty engines, one Packard engine, and miscellaneous spare parts. The transportation to the college of this vast quantity of freight proved a vexing problem.

"El" of a Fix

The various machines were taken apart and crated in Philadelphia. The crates have been described as "big as a house"; they were hauled on low-slung truck trailers of the type commonly used for the transportation of steam shovels and other heavy equipment. All well and good. The problem arose from the fact that the Navy Yard and the Main Line are separated by an abominably down-to-earth Market Street Elevated.

The men tried at 51st St. No go. They tried at 60th St. Ditto. Finally, they had to undertake a detour by way of Marshall Road through 69th St. But, by that time, the shades of night were fast falling and they had to let their cumbersome burden spend the night on the open road. At least they could be sure that no one would run off with it.

Here and There

When the freight finally pulled in, the plane was assembled and remained on exhibition at the Gym for some time. The motors were transported to the college's machine shops, where they have remained ever since. The pontoons were given to the Malvern Preparatory School—they had a pond. The instruments and other removable paraphernalia were slowly but surely removed and scattered. Finally, the plane itself began to disintegrate.

What, besides the motors, remains today? Just outside the door of the wood-working shop, a few pieces of wing framework leaning against the wall. And under the Stadium, the ghost of a bygone day.

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the second of a series of stories on Interesting Events in Villanova's History.

Lindbergh Gets Ex-Student Into Game

Lindbergh has been praised, Lindbergh has been damned, but rarely has Lindbergh been so down-to-earth materially useful as he was at last Saturday's game with Auburn.

A former student here who, as a member of the America First organization, carries many pictures of the Colonel around on some of the group's literature came to the game—though he desired to attend, he desired not to pay a price.

The f. stude's picture had parted company with his old matriculation card, so he fixed it up for presentation at the gate. Because he covered the old date with his thumb and because there were few numbers on it punched out, he had no difficulty convincing the "man-on-the-gate" that the card was legal and his own — for who would have expected to see Lindy's picture on a Villanova matric card?

And Ed does resemble the Lone Eagle.

Afterthought

By CHRIS KIEFER

My soul sneaks into the darkness,
The dust above me stirs in its passing.
I am evanescent Beauty.
Drink deeply, I will be gone soon.
The dust stirs no more;
The wind hums no more;
No more the beating of the leaves
On the quiet walls of night.

Why is there such a stillness about me?
Am I then so devoid of sense?
I am fleet; you never drank.
Too late now, too late.

EDITOR'S NOTE: With this issue, we resume printing weekly a poem by a staff member.

Tally Ho!

By Bruno Talvacchia

THANKSGIVING holidays which begin tomorrow for Villanovans are being observed by students in sixteen states. We have, of course, much to be thankful for. A patriotic viewpoint prompts our sincere gratitude to God for being Americans; in a scholastic sense, we are just as sincerely grateful for the ending of mid-semester exams.

The exchange publications brought out many other points for which we might be happy. One in particular which came to our attention appeared in the Gleaner, Nazareth College publication hailing from Rochester, N. Y.

Two southern belles enrolled at the institution found some things new and strange. "Why, ah nevah heard of girls buyin' theah tickets foh a dance!" said the Charlotte lass. "Even if ah asked a boy to a dance he still would pay foh the ticket."

"Another thing," drawled the other North Carolinian, "do ah have to dance with mah own date all nite?"

Upon receiving an affirmative reply, she shook her head and proceeded to tell about the southern custom in that respect. It seems that only the first and last dance belong to your escort exclusively. During all the other numbers one may change partners and . . .the girls want to slink away and hide if they aren't constantly cut!

. . .too many Ashley Wilkes down South and not enough Rhett Butlers.

* * *

Come Now, Phoenix:

A campus comment of the Swarthmore Phoenix informs us of the typographical error which was caught at the last moment in a recent issue.

"See Dorothy Lamour," read one of the movie ads, "in A COMA OF THE SOUTH SEAS."

* * *

The Retort Naturel:

Student: (in car, to sweet young thing): "Pardon me—er—but"

Sweet young thing: "No, you've never met me at Palm Beach, Newport, or Saranac Lake. I wasn't in the Pullman car on the New York express last Tuesday afternoon. I know I'm good looking and I'm not bashful. I'm not going your way and I wouldn't ride with you on a bet. I didn't ever go to school with you; I'm not waiting for a street car; I don't want a lift and I know plenty of college boys. Furthermore, I have a 220-pound fiance waiting for me. Now, were you about to say something?"

Student (still in car): "Yes, where's the Post Office?"

—La Salle Collegian.

* * *

Modern Salesmanship:

Customer: "Do you have a book called, 'Man, the Master of Woman'?"

Alert salesman: "The fiction is on the other side, sir."

—Duquesne Duke.

* * *

Paging Fr. Dwyer:

Let's hope that Fr. Dwyer's freshman logic class hasn't taken advantage of his sickness to indulge in the type of specious reasoning found in an issue of the Fordham Ram

A class is a group.
A group is a section.
A section is a cut.
Therefore, classes are meant to be cut.

* * *

Now It Can Be Told:

A recent issue of the Ferris Torch has settled conclusively and finally (at least for this department, which had a decided bias in the matter anyway) that age-old and oft and furiously debated question as to the relative intelligence of men and women.

The intelligence test administered to the Freshman students at Ferris Institute revealed that the average male I. Q. was 108 while the women were able to average only 105.

As the Torch so fairly points out, the girls may be staying home or getting married. But we gloating males are willing to rejoice in the mere fact without searching for underlying causes.

Sees Science As Detective's Aid

Bongiovanni Explains Determination of Blood Stains to Research Seminar

"The contributions of the scientific expert in the matter of detecting and determining blood stains are of great importance in decreasing the crime rate of any given area," said John J. Bongiovanni, junior science student, who discussed the subject at the meeting of the Research Seminar last Thursday.

In the course of his talk, entitled "Blood and the Criminal," the speaker stressed the fact that while the role of science in crime detection is recognized in Europe, its value is not stressed so much in the United States. The purpose underlying the address was to show the importance of the task undertaken by the scientific jurist in the identification of certain spots which the investigating officers recognize as or suppose to be human blood.

Bongiovanni continued, stating that, "More than just a knowledge of chemistry is required, for the expert must also possess a vast amount of knowledge and facts related to the application of the field of chemistry in the service of the law."

Examples of cases where the guilt or innocence of men accused of serious crimes was proven by the testimony of experts who had as their only evidence blood stains of incriminating articles were given. These were mentioned as concrete illustrations that the statements of the speaker were supported by actual cases in the police and criminal records of the past.

Bongiovanni concluded his address by expressing the belief that crime detection through a study of blood stains will be increasingly important and valuable in the future. His support for this belief he also based on the success of past cases.

Freshmen science students will be selected to address the Research Seminar on various topics for the next three or four sessions. This procedure has been adopted in order to encourage a more active interest on the part of the underclassmen.

Fund Drive Shows Progress In Every Local Alumni Club

According to William G. Slaughter, secretary-treasurer of the Alumni Association, the Alumni Centennial Fund Drive is progressing with success in every club in the country. Recently three different committees have been formed to insure the personal solicitation of each alumnus.

A class committee, which is formed by having members of the same graduating class call on their respective classmates for a donation to the fund, and a special gifts committee, made up by appointing outstanding men from the individual Alumni clubs to visit members of the Alumni in their districts and receive contributions, are two of the types employed successfully thus far.

The most recent type of committee which has been put into use is the club committee. Under this method, the president of the sectional club nominates members under him to assume the duties of contacting those alumni who have not yet been reached by other committee members.

Carnegie Endowment Swells I.R.C. Library

The International Relations Club, which is a member of the National Catholic Peace Federation, has placed several books recently acquired from the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace in its library in Simpson Hall.

Among the new works received are: "Canada and the United States," by F. R. Scott; "Canada and the Far East, 1940," by A. R. M. Lower; "Canada in Peace and War," edited by Chester Martin; "Australia and the United States," by Fred Alexander; "The United States and Japan's New Order," by William C. Johnstone Jr.; "The Reconstruction of World Trade," by Edward Meade Earle; "Union Now With Britain," by Clarence K. Streit; "Economic Defense of Latin America," by Percy W. Bidwell; "For What Do We Fight," by Norman Angell.

Briefs On The News

Phi Kappa Pi to Schedule Systematic Program; Spanish Club Plans Dance

President of Phi Kappa Pi Vincent Gordon, has announced that a schedule of bi-monthly meetings of the fraternity is being arranged in response to a need for a positive systematic program of value to its engineer members.

A committee will soon be appointed to sketch an outline of the procedure to be embraced during the meetings, Gordon said.

Tentative unconfirmed features of the meetings include a talk of technical worth by a Villanova faculty member from another department, and an informal discussion on art appreciation by another faculty member.

An article written by Rev. Edward F. Jenkins, O. S. A., George Gabuzda, and H. Albert Saner appeared in a recent issue of the "Journal of Chemical Education," explaining a system of demonstrating the continuous manufacture of rayon.

The apparatus, originally constructed for exhibition at Open House, was the first working model built to actually demonstrate in the laboratory the rayon process as it is used in industry.

Gabuzda, a senior in the chemistry department, and Saner, a senior chemical engineer, spent about three months building the laboratory model under the supervision of Fr. Jenkins.

Senior William Lynch, chairman of the local branch of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers, was the speaker at the regular meeting of the society yesterday . He told of his employment experiences during the past summer.

Junior members of the organization are to give brief talks at future meetings on new inventions, improvements, etc., in the field of electrical engineering. Those now scheduled to speak are Malachy Boyle, John Chamberlain ,and Samuel Burrtano.

"Stereographic Projections," a topic concerned with the mapping of planar curves on a sphere, was covered by James J. Donnelly, junior chemical engineer, at a meeting of the Math Club last Friday evening.

No issue of the VILLANOVAN will be published next Tuesday, because of the holidays this week. The next issue will be that of Tuesday, Dec. 9.

Three, Arch Oboler plays have been selected by members of the Radio Club for presentation to the student body. They are: "The Man to Hate," "Mr. Ginsburg," and "I Do." No definite casting arrangements have been made as yet.

Plans for an informal dance to follow the showing of a motion picture were formulated by members of the Spanish Club at their last meeting.

The date of the dance has not been decided upon as yet, but it will be held some time before the students leave for the Christmas holidays. The club is making arrangements with a motion picture company for the exhibition of a Spanish film, to be shown to the members and their guests before the dance.

William Swan, sophomore commerce student and vice-president of the organization, was named corresponding secretary to send invitations to the girls' colleges in the vicinity.

DPE Initiates

Continued From Page One

but most of them didn't seem to have any theme. After the songs were rendered, each fraternity member was assigned a pledgee — friend, roommate, rarely stranger — on whom he used the big wooden paddles to best advantage.

Following the paddling, the new members repeated the fraternity oath after David N. Reardon, president,to conclude the initiation. The thoroughly drenched and disheveled, new members were then welcomed by the whole fraternity which, by now, had assumed a brotherly feeling toward them. Refreshments were served to close the evening.

Spaghetti (Ex-Lab Specimens?) Fed To Arts Frat Pledgees

Featuring official pictures of the Villanova - Baylor football game with a running commentary by Maurice "Clipper" Smith, and a short welcoming address by Rev. Francis X. McGuire, O. S. A., vice-president of the college, Epsilon Phi Theta, arts school fraternity, initiated new members last Tuesday night.

The pledgees, who were completing a week of intensive trial, were blindfolded and conducted through a series of tests to determine their qualifications for entrance into the organization.

First step in the process was a modified inquisition by David F. Daly, president of the fraternity. Each prospective member had to produce his credentials, which consisted of a paddle, a photograph of himself in girl's clothing, a letter of recommendation and encouragement from the president of the student council of Rosemont, Immaculata, or Chestnut Hill College, and a poem of at least ten lines addressed to his sweetheart.

To the accompaniment of clashing cymbals, the subject of the initiation was conducted from the Field House Blue Room to the rear of the stage, where several strong-armed members put the paddles to good use.

The still-blindfolded pledgee was now fed spaghetti which had been immersed in cold water. Meanwhile, low-voiced members, feigning horror, muttered as to the difficulties of smuggling "the things" out of the labs.

After they had taken the water jump, the pledgees were led back to the Blue Room where, the blindfolds having been removed, they repeated the fraternity pledge after Daly.

Pictures of the game were shown, Fr. McGuire spoke briefly to the new members and sandwiches and coffee were served.

Apostolate Adds Many Pamphlets

Many new pamphlets were added on Friday to the five pamphlet racks which have been placed in Mendel Hall and the C. &F. building by the Catholic Press Apostolate.

Aimed to be of special interest to seniors are the pamphlets relating to and treating of the Sacrament of Matrimony. These include: "Marriage Problems," by Scott; "The Ideal Marriage," O'Brien; "Problems of Courtship and Marriage," Malloy; "The Eve of Marriage," Bergner; "Boy Meets Girl The Christian Way," Garthland; and "Company Keeping," McGill.

Other pamphlets are recommended for the use of the underclassmen. Pamphlets intended especially for the sophomores and juniors include: "A Brief Study of the Four Gospels," by Malloy; "Are Anglican Ministers Catholic Priests?", Woodlock; and "Why Attend Sunday Mass?", O'Brien.

Pamphlets which, according to the director, the freshmen should find helpful include: "Character Formation," by O'Brien; "Sex Instruction, Breickner; "Youth's Struggle for Decency," O'Brien; "Nazism and Christ," O'Brien; and "The Sin of Anti-Semitism," Doyle.

Rev. Edward B. McKee, O. S. A., director of the Catholic Press Apostolate, has issued an appeal to the students to be more careful in their handling of the pamphlet racks. He deplored the fact that the maltreatment of these racks, which can only result in additional expense to the college, is still continuing.

Frosh Debate Men Hold Meeting Today

First meeting of the frosh debating squad will be held this afternoon at 1:00 P. M. in 110 Mendel Hall, Rev. Robert M. Sullivan, O. S .A., moderator, announced today.

Problems of organization and plans for the coming year will be discussed at length and an attempt will be made to fix the number of debates which the members of the group will enter this season.

Since the league season does not begin until January, no definite schedule will be arranged until after the mid-year examinations. Meanwhile, Fr. Sullivan intends to instruct the freshmen aspirants in the techniques used in the league debates.

All interested freshmen are urged by the moderator to attend this meeting.

"Like Crow"

Watch it, fellows, here comes the Bad Humor Man!

You expect life from Wednesday at 12:30 P. M. until Monday at 8:55 A. M. to be one glorious round of social and gastronomic activities, don't you?

If such is the case, you may be doomed to disappointment, for a neat little surprise is in store for you. It will arrive inside a harmless-looking little envelope, and is likely to change what started out as an informal visit with the family into a very formal interview.

That's right: report cards.

As Fr. Dougherty, dean of the science school, remarked at the opening of the semester, "If you get a few F's on your first quarter report, your Thanksgiving turkey will taste like crow."

Smith Rights Wrong Ring Impressions

Junior ring chairman Eugene P. Smith, in a statement to the VILLANOVAN yesterday, asked for opportunity to correct any erroneous impressions juniors may have concerning the ordering of class rings.

"Many juniors are under the impression that the deadline for orders has passed," he said. "It hasn't.

"The false impression arose because the deadline has passed for ordering them for Christmas delivery. But there is no deadline for getting a ring; juniors may contact me at any time this year to purchase a ring. The same prices, conditions, types of stones, design, and colors of gold desired will be in effect."

Continuing, Smith mentioned that, he has already taken orders for last year's class rings at this year's prices from seniors who did not get them then. "But," he stated, "seniors who want to get rings this year should order them from their own ring chairman, Dick Gray.

"Loren Murchison Co., of Newark, is making the rings. They keep the dies on hand so that rings for either class may be made at any time. Delivery will be made within a few weeks of the order."

Smith commented on the relative popularity of the jewelry so far ordered, mentioning that, "The most popular stones to date in point of junior demand are the blue sapphire and the blue spinelle. The most popular types of gold are the military, or dark rose, and the green gold; to date, no one has taken a liking to the light rose gold as he tbody of their class ring.

Engineers To Get Problem Course In Industrial Relations

A course on industrial relations dealing with practical problems of management and organization in industry will be offered to the senior engineering class for the first time next semester, under the direction of Rev. Vincent A. McQuade, O. S. A.

During the course, eight or ten men occupying responsible positions in industry will be brought in to give the students their views. In this way a variety, and perhaps even a conflict, of opinion will be presented and the students will get a comprehensive view of the subjects. These lectures will be given in the evenings, as desirable speakers can more easily be secured to speak at that time.

This course, listed in the catalogue as Industrial Management, Eco. 206, will be given three hours a week and is coordinated with the course in business law and engineering economics now being taken by senior engineers.

The latter has been organized so that the first three-quarters of it are taught by Joseph C. Savage, M. B. A., who teaches the principles underlying the consumption, production, and distribution of economic goods, while the last quarter will be under the direction of John A. Oakey, M. S., and will include the study of the application of these principles to engineering practice, with special attention to the problem of cost in design.

Seminar Notes Policy Conflicts

Problems arising when a conflict occurs between the foreign policies exercised by two nations were discussed at a meeting of the History Seminar held in Simpson Hall last Thursday under the direction of Dr. Harold F. Hartman, moderator.

Restricted purposely to one of a general nature, the analysis revealed several of the basic factors underlying the formation of a foreign policy. Geography, natural resources, and national traditions were all recognized by the group as important elements controlling the attitude of each particular country toward the other nations of the world.

The ideas and interests of the men occupying governmental administrative positions, a generally overlooked component of a foreign policy, was pointed out during the seminar as being particularly significant in modern international relations.

Real issues responsbile for the provocation of international disputes have been partially clouded in recent years by the emergence of particularly dominant personalities and political figures, the members agreed. They cited Roosevelt, Hitler, Mussolini, and Stalin as examples.

The next meeting of the seminar will not take place until the Thursday after the Thanksgiving vacation.

Letter To Editor

Continued From Page Two

reasoning becomes obvious when we realize our foreign trade amounts to only 5 per cent of our total business and that its present huge proportions are due to the 40 billions worth of supplies which American taxpayers have absolutely given away in the past 25 years.

We were not able to profitably deal with Europe before the war and the probability is that the situation will be the same after the crisis, unless we again lend that continent more money in order to buy our goods.

Human Life Counts

But even if it were more beneficial economically for us to enter the war, and this we deny, we would still be absolutely opposed to it. It appears that the interventionists differ from us primarily in that they have found the proportional equality between a human life and a dollar bill. We maintain that money and humanity are incapable of being placed in the same equation. No economic value can possibly be equal to the loss of lives and the suffering of millions of people.

Our position, we suppose, seems illogical to the materialist, the practical man. The trouble is, we're idealists. Idealists to the extent that we try to picture what this world ought to be like in the future.

In Name Only

We can see that any "peace" which is brought about by the complete subjugation of the rest of the world by one or two nations—be they Germany and Italy, or England and the United States— is a peace in name only. We can see that the only true peace will be one which comes from cooperation and understanding among all nations. And we can see that cooperation and understanding are not brought about at the point of a gun.

Yes, we're idealists—trying as far as possible to imitate that Great Idealist who walked the earth 1900 years ago. He may not have been an economist, but He knew what He was talking about.

Sincerely yours,
DONALD V. SPEESE
Class of 1942

Jeanette's Bryn Mawr Flower Shop, Inc.
Where Villanova Men
SAY IT WITH FLOWERS
Are Sure of Quality
823 Lancaster Ave. Bryn Mawr 570 Bryn Mawr, Pa.

VILLANOVAN SPORTS

TROUBLESOME GAFFORD IN ACTION as he sweeps around end for 25 yards in the third period. Coming up from behind to make the tackle is George Smith while, No. (61) Zamlynski and (53) Carlesimo bear down at top speed to close in on him. Gafford had a real field day against the 'Cats, Saturday, accounting for two touchdowns and making over two hundred yards in carrying the ball.

Sportorial

By Bob Funabashi
Sports Editor

It was a debatable question whether or not to discuss football in this column this week, but uneasy as we are about this completed campaign it's best to drop the situation and take it up some other time. Also that long ride home Saturday afternoon with the football squad could offer us no consolation so we best shift the scene up a bit and take a prevue glimpse of what Al Severance is doing with his basketball team.

The schedule is out and to compare it with that thin 16 game schedule of last year seems to bring about a perplexing thought. It's funny the way the world runs. Last year Severance did a little doctoring on the height of the team. He was running here and there for his games, and generally had the blues and a mounting fever every time the team took the court. It was good to have such height but the schedule wasn't too appealing mainly because Villanova didn't play enough games or the teams had a slight case of discoloring. Now this year Villanova goes out and takes on a 29 game schedule with probably the smallest team in history to back it up. As Al puts it "with those two big amazons or etc."—of course meaning Art Spector and Ted Rapella — "why we would have licked any team in the country!"

And what we have just quoted is not the stuff, for granting the return of these two, six foot, four inch "Goliaths," there could be 29 "Davids" and we'd still lick them. But we can't take this for granted, they're gone and we'll have to wait a few more years for a couple of overgrown boys.

So now Mr. Severance must be contented with the material he has and we appear optimistic in saying that he has something! They're all slight except for Bob Kelty and Fred Garland but my how they can run! Running is their first asset and by that we include trickery, treachery, and timing. These three T's will have a lot to do with Villanova's success. Equally as well, the boys are adroit in shooting. Give them any spot on the floor and keep count of all that "swishing" noise you hear in practice session. They're dead-eyes, everyone of them.

Now we come to Al's problem—who to play? There are at least five combinations to play but which is the right one? We'll name them, each a star in his own right, and you pick the right one. Get your pencil out for here they are: Dick Gray, Red Klotz, Herm Drizen, Bill Gerland, Fred Kelty, Joe Lord, Bill Wood, Ernie Melafchik, John McFadden, Bill Fenton and Major McDonald.

Midget 'Cats Drop Final To Penn After Rivals Push Over Late Score

Team Fares Well in Hard Battle But Breaks Give Quakers 13-7 Win

Villanova's 150-lb. eleven battled long and hard for three periods and was on the verge of holding a highly-favored Quaker team to a tie on Friday at Villanova but a quick-scoring thrust by Penn with four minutes to go in the fourth quarter gave them a victory over the 'Cats, 13-7. In the final game of the year for both teams, Villanova lost their fifth tilt in the Eastern Intercollegiate League, while Penn won their fifth and thereby copped second place in the final standings.

The day was similar to the one last year when the midget 'Cats lost to Penn at River Field. A strong wind hampered any Villanova passing game and at the necessary times this strong gale kept Villanova's kicking to a minimum. Each team had only few advantages to score and in the final count Penn had capitalized on their fortunes.

Stack Goes 82 Yards

Villanova drew first blood in the game after eight minutes of play in the opennig quarter. Taking the ball on their own 18 yard line, Villanova went the length of the field in one sensational play, that, an 82-yard dash by George Stack. Stack took the ball from center, raced to the right, weaving in and out and then from nowhere, Joe Carbine, soph tackle, took two would-be tacklers out on a savage block and Stack proceeded downfield to scamper over the goal. The extra-point was kicked by Bill Marchese and the 'Cats led, 7-0.

A fumbled ball on a reverse play by Jack McManus enabled Penn to come back and tie the score midway in the second period. After the 'Cats had checked one Penn offensive, the visitors kicked back to the Villanova 5 and then on the first play, McManus dropped the ball and a Penn linesman recovered on the 3-yard marker. From that point, Penn's Bob Beck circled end and scored. Beck then passed to Bob Mease for the extra point and the Quakers had tied the score.

The Winning Score

The third period saw Penn and

MIDGET 'CATS
Continued on Page Seven

K. Of C. Sponsors Cross-Country Meet

The Knights of Columbus of Philadelphia will sponsor a cross-country run for Catholic high schools of Philadelphia this coming Sunday on Villanova's campus .

The 2½-mile course around the campus will be the grounds for the meet, which is being held for the first time at Villanova. Approximately eight Catholic schools in Philadelphia will have entrants in this meet. A trophy will be awarded to the winning team.

The following are the final standings of the teams in the Eastern Intercollegiate Lightweight League which came to a conclusion this past week-end.

Team	Won	Lost	Pct.
Princeton	6	0	1.000
Penn	5	1	.833
Yale	4	2	.667
Rutgers	2	4	.333
Lafayette	2	4	.333
Villanova	1	5	.167
Cornell	1	5	.167

The Li'l Fellows Bow

Out Just Like Varsity Footballers; Phillips, Lyons, Lozowski, Caplan and Team Manager Halpin Say "So-Long" to 150's

By JACQUES MAUCH

Saturday ten senior varsity gridmen played their last game for Villanova. This fact was brought to the public eye through the local newspapers and it was philosophized upon all about the campus.

But there are four other senior football men — four stalwart linemen, little fellows, tough and gritty—they bowed out too. On Friday they played their last game for the Wildcats as members of the 150 pound football team. Guards, Charlie Lozowski and Tommy Lyons, tackle, Logan Phillips, and end, Sid Caplan are the loyal quartet that ended their grid careers against the Pennsylvania lightweights. And they too, deserve all the eulogies and the recognition that their big brothers on the varsity receive.

Lozowski

Charlie Lozowski hails from Mt. Carmel Township, Pa., and from the way he talks one would think he was head of the Chamber of Commerce. He tried out for the high school team four straight years but size and weight were too much of a handicap. His biggest chance came in his senior year when he totaled all of 120 pounds.

Charlie made the 150's his first year at Villanova and in four seasons has played every position in the line except center. This year he captained the team in the opening game against Princeton and the closing fracas against Penn, but his greatest satisfaction came in leading the Wildcats to a victory over Yale in his junior year.

Lyons

Brooklyn always seems to have a representative on the lightweight club, and this year it is Tommy Lyons. Lyons entered Villanova from Brooklyn Prep where he competed in cross-country and swimming. Tommy has been on the team for two seasons, last year as an end and this year in his regular guard position. But football is only his second love. "Doc" as he is known is in the pre-med school and hopes to enter one of the big medical schools in the east upon graduating.

Phillips

All season Wildcat opponents ran into a tough tackle in Logan Phillips. This young gentleman has served the 150's for three seasons and he has done his job well. Logan is the only one of the seniors who had football experience in high school. He played guard for Bayshore High of Long Island. Phillips was captain of the Cornell game and this honor was very pleasing to his Rosemont following.

Caplan

Atlantic City High produced our left end Sid Caplan, but all his gridiron experience came in his three seasons with the Wildcats. However, he was an ice hockey player of no mean ability in high school. This sport in high school and his job of railroad policeman in the summer have kept the young science student in shape.

Sid's greatest thrill was starting his first game against Lafayette just two weeks ago and helping the Wildcats gain an exciting 7-6 victory.

Halpin

The forgotten senior is Jim Halpin, but it would be blasphemy to forget him here. He deserves a place just as high as those who competed. In the bustle and excitement of taking care of equipment, players, and administering to coaches Jim always had a word of encouragement and praise for every one of his boys on the 150's.

Despite the fact that the 150's were only victorious in one out of their six encounters, they displayed a good brand of ball. It was mainly lack of reserves which held them back from winning more than they did. Much praise should also go to the co-coaches, Jack Kuproski and Stan Eusko, for a difficult job in tutoring the players in such a short time and working with such a scarcity in material.

Perhaps next season will find the midget 'Cats up on top of the ladder where they should have been this season.

Tankmen Hopeful Of New Strength

The Wildcat swimmers this year have the possibility of becoming one of the best balanced squads in the history of the sport at the Main Line institution.

The graduation of ex-captain Walter Kelley has in itself created havoc in the ranks and the loss of his buddy, John Pholeric, will also be lamented. However, there are six returning lettermen, so specialized, that they form the nucleus of a good all-around club. They have been practicing for the past three weeks in the college pool and are slowly but surely rounding into shape.

These six veterans include: seniors, John Maher, backstroker, and Bob Koness, sprinter; juniors, John Green, diver, Frank Desmond, breaststroker, and Jake Mauch and Ed Riley, freestylers.

Calls were issued the past two weeks for new members but the results were not very encouraging. The veterans can hold up their end, but they are only one man deep in most of the events. Strength is lacking.

A coach will be appointed this week when the Athletic board meets, and after this a captain will be elected. The schedule is almost completed and will be published in a later issue.

First Home Defeat

Of the four defeats registered this year to Clipper Smith's team, Saturday's by Auburn was the first on the home grounds. Manhattan, Duquesne and Temple losses were on the opponent's field.

Villanova Ends Flimsy Campaign, Again Bowing To Auburn, 13 To 0; Ten Seniors Conclude Grid Days

Opportunity knocked on Villanova's door last Saturday afternoon but the 'Cats could not open the door to admit this much-desired and ever-welcomed visitor. As a result of this the Wildcats' grid record for 1941 was balanced at four wins and four losses with the addition of Auburn to the loss column.

No sooner had the ten thousand fans in Shibe Park settled themselves comfortably in their seats after the opening kickoff than they were brought back to an upright position when big Paul Stenn, Villanova's left tackle and captain of his team for the last game of his college career, charged through the Auburn defense and blocked left-halfback Gafford's punt.

Ed Kasky was the first to reach the loose pigskin and he smothered it on Auburn's 18 yard stripe. Thus did the Wildcats receive a golden opportunity to draw first blood and put their Southern visitors at a disadvantage before the game was even a minute old. But that was not to be.

Try For Field Goal

Two line plunges and an incomplete pass netted a total of only four yards and Clipper Smith sent Lou DePalo into the game to attempt a field goal. DePalo's kick went wide of the uprights and Villanova had failed to capitalize on what later proved to be it's only scoring opportunity of the afternoon.

From that point on, Villanova rooters had few occasions to cheer. After that first minute when his punt was blocked by Stenn, Roy (Monk) Gafford, 170 pounds of greased lightning, took it upon himself to guide the fortunes of the battle for the remaining 59 minutes and he did it in no half-way fashion.

Gafford not only scored both of Auburn's touchdowns but also he turned in just about the best all-around individual performance of any back faced by the Wildcats this season. Besides assuming most of the kicking and passing chores for the Plainsmen, Gafford amassed an individual total effort of 286 yards gained. Included in this total are returns of kickoffs, returns of punts, pass receiving, and plain ordinary rushing.

Crowd Likes Gafford

Pre-game publicity had built up Lloyd Cheatham, captain and quarterback of the Auburn eleven, as the triple threat man and big gun, in the offensive game of the visitors. So it was that at the start of the contest most of the eyes in the stands were focused on the 66 on Cheatham's orange jersey but it was the number 25 on Gafford's slim frame that soon became the interest of all eyes.

The ineffectiveness of the Villanova running attack and the inability to carry out a sustained drive into pay dirt was very much in evidence again as shown by the total of only four first downs for the Wildcats as against fourteen for the Plainsmen.

About the only ray of sunshine in an otherwise dismal afternoon presented itself in the defensive play of Bill Sullivan, sophomore end. On at least four different occasions Sullivan evaded blockers and nailed the Auburn safety man in his tracks after receiving punts from the good right foot of Joe Yednock. Weighing only 175 pounds, Sully is not very cooperative when an opponent tries to block him out of a play.

Austin To Defend Swim Crown, Dec. 3

Austin Hall will defend its Intra-Mural Swimming Crown December 3 in the Field House Pool. With Intramural competition running close this year, all the members will be out to boost their standing by copping this meet.

Father McKee's Firemen came home in front last year, scoring 36 points. They took six first places in seven events to lead all the way. Fedigan Hall garnered 13 points. Alumni, Mendel, and C. & F. earned 7, 4, and 3 points, respectively.

Austin's chances to repeat this year seem bright. A word from the end of the campus has it that C. & F., gradually advancing in ranks hopes for a strong contender this year.

The varsity team will give an exhibition after the meet.

Oerth Fifth In I-C.4-A Meet

Villanova competed for the first time in the history of the I. C. 4-A. last Monday in the annual Cross Country meet. After being just admitted to this select group of colleges last spring, the Wildcats started off on the right foot by entering men in both the varsity and freshman contests. Upperclassmen Bill Hooper and "Dixie" Dunbar were among the 154 entered in the varsity 5-mile meet, while Carl Oerth ran in the frosh 3-mile race.

Van Cortland Park was the site of the meet with approximately twenty-four schools represented. Rhode Island State and New York University came through as expected to finish 1-2 as far as team honors were concerned, with Manhattan, the favorite, being dumped over in the freshman event.

Leslie MacMitchell, of New York University, equalled a mark set by Jones, of Cornell, in 1912 when Les captured his third varsity race in as many years of competition. In winning on Monday, MacMichell not only tied Jones' mark but really set a new one that will never be broken. He also won the freshman event four years ago which makes it four for four in four years. MacMitchell's chief competitors in the varsity event were Glenn Masten, of Colgate, and Bob Nichols, of Rhode Island State.

The frosh event is always considered the most unpredictable as far as picking a winner is concerned, but this year it ran more true to form with the favorite, Ray Zoellner, finishing second. Our own Carl Oerth, after a fine record in the N. C. 4-A. last year in which he finished sixth, came in fifth. At the half way mark, Oerth had the lead but from there on in the competition became very tough and a less experienced runner would not have finished at all.

"Dixie" Dunbar previous to the race was laid up with a badly sprained ankle but after careful treatment by Coach Elliott was allowed to compete. Captain Hooper was not able to get into his top physical condition because his afternoon classes would not permit regular training.

Quakers Threaten Redskin Supremacy

At the close of the third week of the Grapefruit Touch Football league the Redskins still lead the Americans by the slim margin of one point.

The Quaker eleven had a good day last week by trouncing the Rams, 26-0 and now threaten the league leaders.

The Lamp Post Inn
Luncheon and Dinners
Strafford, Pa.

George Fein & Co.
Printer & Publishers
2116 to 2130 Arch St.
PHILADELPHIA, PA.
RITtenhouse 6983

THE WILSON LAUNDRY CO.
of Bryn Mawr
Always the Friend of Villanova Students
10% discount to students for "cash and carry" work.
No charge for replacing buttons or making minor repairs.
An American institution owned, operated by and employing Americans.

KEEP SUPPLIED WITH
SCHOOL TICKETS
GOOD ON BUSES AND RAIL CARS UNTIL USED
5c a Ride, including Special Free Transfers. Obtain Identification Cards at School Office.
RED ARROW LINES
Philadelphia Suburban Transportation Co.
Aronimink Transportation Co.

Elk Murray Found Tough Riding Because Of Injuries, While Tom Morgan's Wit Is All Part Of His Grid Game

ELK MURRAY

MURRAY and Morgan, those two good-looking gentlemen often referred to as the "ivy-leaguers" go together almost synonymous in a lot of ways. But the third and fourth members of that league have either had their "in" or are about to—speaking of course about Anderson and Howlett. "King" Anderson—and how he hates it, appeared a few issues back while the "big-righthander," Mr. Howlett confines his biography to another column which features the campus gems.

First put the microscope under Elk Murray and you find a lovable old bachelor one day and next he's Romeo up on the ladder. Put another suit of clothes on him, like Jacob Reeds' and Son always does and he becomes the gridiron Murray. He may be the "slow poke" fellow in other ways but Murray made the grade when the going was tough. That was in sophomore year. Detroit was Villanova's opponent and mastering the Titans was a tough problem for Clipper Smith.

Reliable No. 27

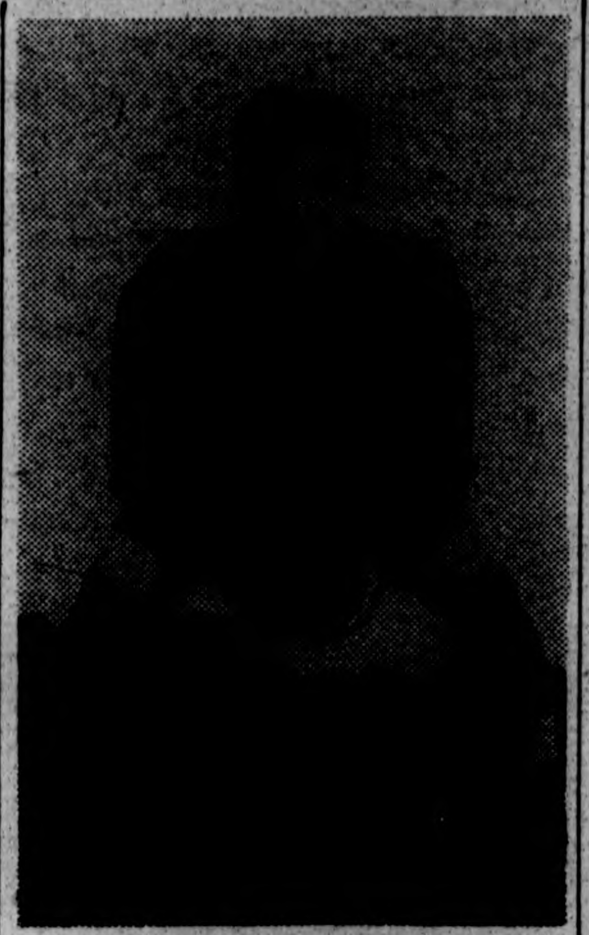
It was a do-or-die game for the underdog 'Cats but reliable Murray hobbled off the bench, ran up and down for a minute, and then got the "go" sign from Clipper. In went Murray and a moment later Villanova had the ball game. Buzz Howlett faded back and way down field spotted his fleet end, number 27, pitched it and said a short prayer. On the way down Murray also recited a short one, shook loose the defensive safety and gathered the pigskin into his arms and crossed the goal line. An unnoticed Sophomore, Elk Murray, made Villanova that afternoon, two seasons back.

But since that afternoon an old time bugaboo crept upon him and claimed his glory. Injuries which he had sustained in Northeast Catholic in Philadelphia while playing for them gave him the once-over. Twice last year Elk was in his prime and had played varsity end but a bad shoulder and then later on a dislocated shoulder put him on the side lines. Then after sacrificing his job with a clothing store to go to Maine to try to develop his shoulder Elk again came back this year, but only to have the same arm dislocated in the Temple game. It was a tough break for anyone and even when you're the captain that day.

Other circumstances entered in but Elk still rambled around the hard way in an effort to play good football for Villanova. But now his football days are over and he strives for another goal in a successful business course which will lead him to a future in accounting. He's a boy with brains, the winning personality and can find a pot of gold where ever he goes.

PART two of our story puts Tom Morgan on the spot. The Bloomfield, N. J., blues singer, and they say he does sing for something, gets the title of one of the "wittiest" players on the squad. Morgan is a quarterback and evidenced it last year with some good headwork for the Wildcats. This year however found him in on a "shake-up" and for the most part his laughs were a morale builder for some forty teammates everyday at practice.

It was rather hard to have to step down but Morgan still went on trying every day and that's where he gets his "okay" by us. Check him off for a real fellow. Aside from all his cracks Tom really can play a game of football with the best in his department. One thing he does admit and that is that he isn't an A-1 blocker but he'll try every time.



TOM MORGAN

The Morgan-Specialty

Catching the opponent off-guard is a Morgan-specialty, probably adopting it from his well-groomed days at Bloomfield High where they play an excellent brand of football. Last year when Tom played enough quarters to be a letterman, he kept that cool head working for all the time he was in there and helped Villanova out of many a puzzled situation.

Knowing and understanding the operations of the game is a big factor in a man's ability to play football and you can put Morgan in that category. All that wit he displays off the gridiron is not folly for when one is such a fast-thinking comeback personage such as Morgan, he usually is a good football general on the field.

HART & HALL, Inc.
Insurance
825 LANCASTER AVE.
Bryn Mawr, Pa.

BROOKLINE COUNTRY CLUB
Dancing Every Thursday to America's Top Name Bands
Sat. - Nov. 29 - No Stag
Charlie Barnett
In Person, and His Orchestra
Admission: $1.00 plus tax
Phone: Hilltop 1600

Aristocrat
ICE CREAM
"Deliciously Different"
PHILA. DAIRY PRODUCTS CO.
4th & Poplar Sts., Phila., Pa.

The taste that charms and never cloys
Coca-Cola

You'll welcome ice-cold Coca-Cola just as often and as surely as thirst comes. You taste its quality, the quality of genuine goodness. Ice-cold Coca-Cola gives you the taste that charms and never cloys. You get the feel of complete refreshment, buoyant refreshment. Thirst asks nothing more.
5¢
BOTTLED UNDER AUTHORITY OF THE COCA-COLA COMPANY BY
THE PHILADELPHIA COCA-COLA BOTTLING CO.
You trust its quality

DPE Schedules Bowling Contest

The bowling competition throughout the campus, which this year will be greater than ever before, is scheduled to begin after the Thanksgiving holidays. The C & F fraternity, Delta Pi Epsilon, a newcomer to the bowling ranks this year, will use the alleys in the gym on certain afternoons each week. According to reports, there will be eight teams within the fraternity, which will compete with one another. During the season, records will be kept, with the high average man, and the members of the winning team being awarded prizes at the end of the season.

Although it is not an established fact as yet, there will probably be at different times during the year, intra-competition between the DPE and the PKP, the Engineering fraternity. The Engineers were quite active last year, having bowled on the Ardmore alleys every Saturday during the season last year.

According to Francis Bagot, '43, this year's director, there will also be a Pool Tournament, sponsored by himself, which will undoubtedly begin immediately after the Christmas holidays. Everyone interested is invited to enter. There will be a thirty-five cent entrance fee for each contestant, which will cover all his expenses throughout the tournament. This is for the price of using the tables, plus the cost of a substantial prize for the winner.

HEY, HEADING FOR HOME?
Start right and easy! Send your luggage round-trip by trusty, low-cost RAILWAY EXPRESS, and take your train with peace of mind. We pick-up and deliver, remember, at no extra charge within our regular vehicle limits in all cities and principal towns. You merely phone
RAILWAY EXPRESS AGENCY INC.
NATION-WIDE RAIL-AIR SERVICE

Young & Kaber
- Florist -
FLOWERS
See George Gabuzda at Simpson Hall
The Campus Representative

The Bryn Mawr Trust Company
BRYN MAWR, PENNA.
●
Every Banking Facility
●
Member Federal Deposit Insurance Corp.

Loren Murchison & Co., Inc.
S. W. Hampson, Rep.
Jeweler for Standard College Rings Fraternity Pins Keys & Medals
MR. S. W. HAMPSON,
Company Representative
6033 Crittenden St., Mt. Airy, Pa.
Phone: VICtor 3773

Day Hops Win First-Half Title

Few Teams Cope With Fine Play Of Mendel Team

By SAM CANNING

Those high-scoring, sharp-shooting Mendel Day Hops who have thrilled the Intramural League with their superb passing attack, have won the Intramural Basketball Championship for the first half. The amazing commuters, coached by the able Fr. Sullivan, won 9 of their 10 games, with Alumni Hall being the only team to top them.

The Green Wave nosed the Day Students out by a 20-17 score way back on October 15, but the grey team was never humbled again. Much of Mendel's success is due to their fine defense. Very few teams can find an attack to penetrate this air tight defense but the lightning passing and marvelous shooting of the Mendelites tear down all opponents' barriers.

Carmen Graziano, a transfer student, is undoubtedly one of the best hook-shot artists seen in the league for a long time. Graziano along with Giangiulio, and Curreri, is in the first ten high scorers ranking seventh and ninth places respectively. John Callahan has done a great job in filling the place of the injured Ray Amicone, who will be back in action soon.

Clinch Title

The champions clinched the title this week by trouncing Austin and Fedigan, the second and third place teams. The Gigoloes were first on the list, bowing 41-19. Trailing by only 4 points at half-time, the residents tied the game up at 19 all but the Day Hops turned on the heat and ranFr.McCarthy's big red team right in the floor scoring 22 points and holding Fedigan scoreless.

Their next licking was dealt out to Austin Hall, 46-30 and as a result Austin dropped into a second place tie with C & F Day Students. Austin fought hard and well with Joe Daly leading the attack, scoring 12 points for the Firemen but the champs were a better team as Carmen Graziano rang up 16 points to take the scoring honors for the game. Austin only trailed by 1 point at half time, the score standing 16-15. But Fr. McKee's residents bogged down in the second hold under the terrific pace set by the fleet-footed Day Hops, who scored 30 points to Austin's 15 in the second period to win 46-30.

Fedigan Tops Alumni

The most thrilling game of the week was the Fedigan-Alumni contest which saw the upperclassmen edge out the freshmen from Alumni 44-43 in the final seconds of play. The Greenies got off to a fast start and led the red team 25-16 at the mid-point of the game. But driven on by Bill Walsh and Jim McElligot, the Fediganites crept up on Alumni and passed them at 28-27 on a beautiful pivot shot by Walsh who dropped six more points in the final minutes of play. Alumni matched him with five more points on Bradburn's two baskets and White's foul, just as the game ended 44-43 in Fedigan's favor. Jack O'Donnell was high scorer with 22 points.

C & F Day Hops pulled themselves up into second place after losing their first three games. Once the Commercemen ironed out their different methods of play they were unbeatable. This week they won both their games winning by a forfeit from the Mendel Residents and beating Alumni 36-33 in a hotly contested game. Jim Meehan and Jim Buxeda once again paced the Businessmen with 24 points which gave Meehan the high scoring title with 79 points and Buxeda fifth place with 59 counters. C & F were five points ahead at the end of the first period, 15-10 and managed to score point for point with the freshmen from Fr. Dunne's "Paste Board Palace" although the frosh opened up a 23 point scoring barrage.

The Mendel Penthousers have been ousted from their lofty perch in the Intramural League and are way down in the cellar having lost nine out of their ten games. They topped the Green wave in the first game of the season and haven't won a game since. Austin Hall administered the last defeat to the freshmen team by a 44-27 score. The Firemen had little trouble with the Mendelites holding a 22-17 lead at half time and then adding 22 more in the second period to Mendel's 10.

Hail To The Champs!

Victorious in nine of its ten games was the Mendel Day Hop quintet, first-half champions of the I-M court league. Shown in the picture are (kneeling), Curreri, Powers, Bruni, Callahan, Amicone, Gill, Simpson, and Weber. In the rear row (l.r.) O'Donnell, Graziano, Boyle, Breen, Fr. Sullivan, moderator, Orloff, Traitz, Koob and Harris.

Quintet Active After Holidays

Al Severance's basketball team will swing into action after the Thanksgiving holidays, facing the first of their 29 opponents, Loyola of Baltimore, at the Field House. On Friday, Dec. 5, the team starts the 1941-42 campaign with the hopes of topping the 13-won and 3-lost record of last year's quintet.

Villanova had a bit of trouble subduing the Greyhound quintet last season but finally posted a 39-34 win over the former Maryland Collegiate Champions. This outfit is coached by a one-time Villanovan, Lefty Reitz and he has a first-hand knowledge of how Villanova works on the court.

The following night will see an always-dangerous St. Francis quintet invading the Field House and this battle will be the first stiff test for the Blue and White. Just who Coach Severance will have in his starting line-up is hard to say for he has at least ten men who have adapted themselves to his style of play.

Opponent Team Next

In the next issue of the VILLANOVAN whcih appears on Dec. 9, the All-Opponent team as picked by the members of the varsity football team will be disclosed. Each year it has been the custom for the football and basketball teams to choose such a team of the best opposing players.

In addition the varsity swimming schedule and the new coach, who will be picked by the Athletic Board will appear in the sports pages.

I-M HIGH SCORERS

Player	Team	Pts.
Meehan	C. & F.	79
O'Donnell	Alumni	77
Simmons	Mendel Res.	66
Moore	Fedigan	65
Buxeda	C. & F.	59
Daly	Austin	59

FINAL STANDINGS

Team	Won	Lost
Mendel Day-Hops	9	1
Austin	6	4
C. & F.	6	4
Fedigan	5	5
Alumni	3	7
Mendel Residents	1	9

Midget 'Cats

Continued From Page Five

Villanova battle back and forth but minus any scoring. Late in the fourth frame, Penn aided by a poor kick. took possession of the ball on Villanova's 35. Four plays later found them on the 11-yard line and with fourth down coming up Ed Mitten fooled the Villanova secondary and raced wide around left-end with three or four tacklers missing him, to score the winning touchdown for Penn. Dick Whitmeyer's kick was blocked by Stan Kazior.

This game marked the end of the grid careers of Capt. Charles Lozowski, Logan Phillips, Sid Caplan, Tom Lyons, Bill Sykes, Jack Faraci and the manager, James Halpin. Lozowski was captain for this game while the others had served their captaincy in the previous encounters.

Villanova		Penn
Kazior	LE	Mease
Carbine	LT	Wolkowsky
Lozowski (C)	LG	Eppinger
Marchese	C	Bowman
Lyons	RG	Heussner
Phillips	RT	Rackett
Caplan	RE	Ealy
Peruta	QB	Hannat
Stack	LHB	Beck
McManus	RHB	Mitten
Cahill	FB	Whitmeyer

Men's Clothes
Made-to-Measure
COLEBY Tailoring Inc.
57th & MARKET STS.
Suits & Topcoats
$27.75
See Steve Aisenbrey
110 Fedigan Hall

BEING WELL DRESSED IS MERELY A MATTER OF BUYING YOUR CLOTHES AT Jacob Reed's Sons
CHESTNUT STREET AT 15th

HERE AND THERE

By FRED CLARK

WHEN the hand on the huge time-clock at Shibe Park ticked off the last second of the Auburn game last Saturday afternoon, football ceased to be of primary interest to Villanova sport fans. Of course, there will linger on a certain amount of interest in the national gridiron picture and the annual bowl games, but locally the season is over and basketball takes over the spotlight.

Before we close the books on the 1941 season, though, we might say that, while it does not compare favorably with the records of a few years back, still matters might have been worse.

It is true that the Wildcats dropped a few close games and never could seem to uncover an offensive attack that could mould an impressive first-down total or build up the yardage. But when you consider these items you must also take into consideration the fact that the type game taught by Clipper Smith is fundamentally a defensive one.

It is nothing new for Wildcat opponents to assume a great advantage in first downs and total yards gained. As a proof of this, witness the Baylor and Detroit contests of a few short weeks ago. Or go back to the records of a few years ago when Clipper turned out his smooth combinations of 1937, 1938, and 1939. During those years, the Titans of Detroit particularly held a wide margin of superiority over the 'Cats in everything but the score. But the score is still the only figures they pay off on and nobody realizes that better than Clipper Smith.

—V—

Although the Villanova basketball schedule has already been made public, it is not yet definite or complete. However, from all indications and appearances, the 1941-42 card will be one of the most ambitious and attractive ones ever played by a Blue and White quintet.

Of course, the surprising fact concerning the schedule is that double-headers are once again on the list after a lapse of two years. It will be recalled that 1939 brought an end to the custom of engaging in court double-headers in Convention Hall, Philadelphia.

The schedule does not call for a return to that custom; rather these dual attractions will take place in Wilmington, Delaware. The 'Cats will take part in five or six of these twin bills, meeting the University of Virginia and Williams College in two of them, while the opponents for the remaining tilts have not as yet been designated.

Among the other first-rate quintets scheduled to tangle with Coach Al Severance's boys are St. Francis of Brooklyn, Duquesne, Colgate, Westminster, Brown, Washington and Jefferson, and Brooklyn College.

—V—

Coaching a high school eleven is not an extraordinary occupation for a college gridman after receiving his sheepskin. A good many of these boys are interested in coaching as a career and find a high school coaching job the initial and often necessary stepping-stone to the more attractive college posts.

There are more than a few Villanova players of the past who hold high school positions but the efforts of two of them are especially notable because of the fine jobs they turned in this season and also because of the fact that they are working near the scene of their college activities. We refer to Tom Casper, head coach at Roman Catholic High in Philadelphia, and Walt Nowak, assistant coach at Camden High.

Casper, in his first year as coach of the Phiadelphia school won seven out of eight tilts ,losing only to West Catholic, the champions of the Catholic League for the second straight time.

The record of the Camden eleven, with which Nowak is affiliated is still more phenomenal—six straight wins for a total of 211 points against two for their opponents. Needless to say they are champs of their group in South Jersey and are favorites to cop the state title.

On the Silver Screen

ARDMORE THEATRE
Tues. & Wed.
"MARRIED BACHELOR"
with
Robert Young - Ruth Hussey
Thurs. to Sunday
Continuous Performances from 1:15 to 11
Doors Open at 1
"NAVY BLUES"
with
Ann Sheridan - Jack Oakie
Martha Raye - Jack Haley

Direction Warner Bros.
TOWER
69th & MARKET STS.
Wednesday to Sunday
Nov. 26 to 30
CLARK GABLE
LANA TURNER
"HONKY TONK"
with
Frank Morgan
Continuous Performances Thanksgiving Day
12:30 to 11:30 P. M.

SUBURBAN
ARDMORE
Tues. & Wed.
"YOU'LL NEVER GET RICH"
Thurs. to Tues.
"A YANK IN THE R. A. F."

SEVILLE
THEATRE BRYN MAWR
Tues. & Wed.
"THE STARS LOOK DOWN"
with Margaret Lockwood
Thurs.
"BUY ME THAT TOWN"
Fri. & Sat.
"HENRY ALDRICH FOR PRESIDENT"
Monday
"NOTHING BUT THE TRUTH"

ANTHONY WAYNE
THEATRE WAYNE
Tues. & Wed.
"LADY BE GOOD"
Thurs., Fri. & Sat.
"A YANK IN THE R. A. F."
Sun. & Mon.
"THIS WOMAN IS MINE"

WILDCATS!
STOP HERE
LA DOW'S PHARMACY
On the Edge of the Campus
LANCASTER PIKE
VILLANOVA, PA.

RIDE FREE ON P. & W. RAILWAY MOVIE TICKETS
NORRIS
NORRISTOWN
Tues. to Fri.
"HONKY TONK" with
Clark Gable - Lana Turner
Sat. & Mon.
"SUNDOWN"
with Gene Tierney

GRAND
NORRISTOWN
Wed. to Fri.
"WEEKEND IN HAVANA" with Alice Faye - John Payne
Sat. & Mon.
"MALTESE FALCON" with Mary Astor

GARRICK
NORRISTOWN
Wed. & Thurs.
"KNUTE ROCKNE ALL-AMERICAN"
with Pat O'Brien and
"SAILORS ON LEAVE"
with Shirley Ross
Fri. & Sat.
"HER ENLISTED MAN" and
"ARIZONA BOUND"

Offensive War Is Better, Blatz Says

Teacher of Military Tactics at Cornell Explains Topic to Science Forum

Lieut. Durand Blatz, U. S. A., teacher of military tactics at Cornell University, discussed the relative merits of offensive and defensive warfare in his address to the Science Forum here last week.

Offensive warfare is preferable, he declared, because the attacking forces choose the time for battle and because morale is higher under such conditions.

Uncertain of Time

On the other hand, while it is true that the defending army may choose the site of the battle, with all the advantages of terrain that this implies, it still is uncertain of the exact time of actual combat. Furthermore, Lt. Blatz pointed out, a war cannot be won by defensive action alone.

He also declared that airplanes cannot replace artillery because the former are only 25% accurate.

In discussing our present day army, Lt. Blatz said that the main source of dissension and difficulty is the fact that civilians, often with very little military experience but possessed of political influence, are made officers.

Attitude of Discontent

This creates an attitude of discontent among the enlisted men as well as the old-line officers, due to the lack of knowledge of these new officers and their lack of respect for their superior officers.

Those men who have come into the army under the Selective Service Act for the most part lack confidence in and respect for their officers. Their equipment is very poor and living conditions are not much better. Most effective guns manufactured in this country are being sent to Great Britain under the terms of the Lend-Lease Act instead of being given to the army. Lt. Blatz indicated that our "all-out aid to Britain" policy is our chief setback in equipping our army, because it creates such a drain on our vital war materials.

Thanksgiving

Letter, Editorial, Proclamations Give S'delights on Formation of Our National Holiday

Today, on the Mendel Hall bulletin board, will be posted several documents relative to the formation of our national Thanksgiving Day. These authentic documents recently came into the possession of the Villanova College Library.

One of particular interest is a letter from Mrs. Sarah J. Hale to the Governor of Nebraska, Samuel W. Black. It is dated September 14, 1860, from Philadelphia and in it Mrs. Hale implores the governor to set aside a day of Thanksgiving on the last Thursday of November. She also states, "If all the States and Territories hold Thanksgiving on that day, the Festival will become National, and our Christian and Social Union will be complete for 1860."

With this letter there was enclosed a reprint, also on dipslay, from an editorial of the "Lady's Book," of which Mrs. Hale was editor, on the importance of having a National Thanksgiving Day.

Two Thanksgiving Day Proclamations are on display. One, dated October 14, 1859, and proclaiming Thanksgiving Day as Thursday, November 24, was issued by the then Governor of Kentucky, Beriah Magoffin. The other is a similar proclamation by Thomas Turner, Governor of Rhode Island, whereby he set Thanksgiving on the same day as the Governor of Kentucky had proclaimed it in 1859.

L. K. D. Will Elect New President Today

Pending the approval of the candidates by the proper authorities, Lambda Kappa Delta, science school fraternity, will hold elections for the offices of president and Student Council representatives in room 210, Mendel, at 1:00 P. M. today.

Robert Dugan, elected president of the organization at the end of the last scholastic year, failed to return to school because of sickness, while Carmen Ciatteo, who was chosen to represent the fraternity in the Student Council at the same election, left school to obtain a position in a defense industry.

Holiday Schedule

Thanksgiving Day recess will begin tomorrow at 12:30 P. M., according to the college calendar. Resident students must return by 8:30 P. M. next Sunday, and report to their hall prefects, while classes will resume for all students next Monday morning, Dec. 1, according to individual schedules.

"Engineer" Features Map-Making Article

The November issue of the "Villanova Engineer," monthly publication of the engineering school students, appeared yesterday.

Map-making and the metallurgist, "the Sherlock Holmes of metals," are the featured articles of the magazine, which combines pictures and text this year.

The portion devoted to map-making discusses various types of surveying, their purposes, and instruments and methods employed in the actual surveying. Topographical maps of Villanova are included, as well as photos of student engineers surveying on the campus.

The value of metallurgy in scientific research and the difficulties encountered in examination of minute pieces of metal are the questions under consideration in the second article of the issue. Polishing metal specimens to be studied and viewing them by reflected light are described in detail.

News of the engineering societies and social activities are also included in the issue; pictures taken at the fall dances are printed.

Committees Picked

Continued From Page One

Cerulo, commerce man; and Roger Logan, engineer.

Ticket Committee: Thomas McKimmey, education major, subchairman; William Ehmer, engineer; and James McCauley, science student.

Program and Patron Committee: Vincent Gordon, engineer, subchairman; Thomas Sheehy and Thomas Lyons, science men; and Edmond Hagan, engineer.

Publicity Committee: William Mowen, commerce student, subchairman; and Joseph Rozum, science student.

Refreshments Committee: Joseph McCabe, commerce student, subchairman; and Charles Schaumann, engineer.

A committee of four, to be announced at a later date, will be appointed to take care of details relative to seniors in the services.

Chairmen Melton and Gallagher have announced that a meeting of the entire committee will be held at 1:00 P. M. on Tuesday, Dec. 2, in room 104 Mendel Hall.

Those named to aid Klappenbach are: Fred Clark and David Reardon, commerce students; Robert Ayerle, Joseph Dorsey, and Philip Mallarkey, engineers; Hugh Matthews and Joseph Scornavacchi, science men; and John Maher and Richard Gray, artsmen.

With the formulation of plans for the second senior social event, David F. Daly, Class treasurer, reminded the seniors to get their class assessments in early to insure successful socials.

Fr. Stanford To Give Invocation

Very Rev. Edward V. Stanford, O.S.A., president of Villanova, will deliver the invocation at a luncheon in the auditorium of Mitten Hall, Temple University, on Thursday, Dec. 4, following the inauguration of Robert L. Johnson as the third president of that university.

College presidents and representatives of more than 200 colleges and universities will attend the inauguration; the university's guests from other institutions and learned societies will attend the luncheon.

The inauguration itself will take place in the auditorium of the Baptist Temple; President Johnson—who has been acting in that capacity for some months—will take his charge from Federal Judge George A. Welsh, vice president of Temple University. Dr. Dixon R. Fox, president of Union College, Schenectady, N. Y., will be the principal speaker.

Robert L. Johnson is the fourth man to become president of a college in this vicinity within a year. In 1940, John Nason was inaugurated president of Swarthmore College and Felix Morley president of Haverford College. Last fall Rev. Brother Emilian, F.S.C., became president of La Salle College.

How to Win Friends
in one easy lesson
Treat yourself and others to wholesome, delicious Wrigley's Spearmint Gum. Swell to chew. Helps keep breath sweet, teeth bright. The Flavor Lasts.

WRIGLEY'S
SPEARMINT
CHEWING GUM
42
V-108

Out our way...It's Chesterfield

Out on the range
it's "Howdy pardner, have a Chesterfield"
That's true Western hospitality.

For bringing smokers together, giving them exactly what they want, Chesterfield's RIGHT COMBINATION of the world's best cigarette tobaccos is right at the top.

There is more downright pleasure in Chesterfield's COOL MILDNESS and BETTER TASTE than in anything else you ever smoked.

Make your next pack Chesterfield

COOLER
MILDER
Chesterfield

A World Champion
Rodeo Rider
EDDIE CURTIS

Copyright 1941, Liggett & Myers Tobacco Co.

VILLANOVAN

Vol. 14—No. 8 N. A. S. Z-660 VILLANOVA COLLEGE, VILLANOVA, PA. TUESDAY, DECEMBER 9, 1941

Amateurs Ready For Talent Show Tomorrow Night

Austin, Perennial Victors, Primed to Retain Crown; Mendel Day-Hops in Competition for First Time

While six intramural groups make feverish last-minute preparations, the entire student body awaits the curtain-raising on the annual Amateur Night productions, to be presented tomorrow at 7:45 P. M. in the Field House.

Austin Hall, winner of the event for the past four years, is girding for the added competition of the Mendel day student group, represented for the first time, as well as that of the usual participants, Mendel, Alumni, and Fedigan Halls, and the C. & F. day students. Final rehearsals will take place today.

The audience is to be restricted to full-time students and male members of the college and athletic staffs; it is to be "stag" exclusively. Students must show matriculation cards at the gym door.

Commerce Students First

First on the program will be the commerce students, who will depict the adventures of a group of British sailors in Philadelphia and the typically American reception tendered them. They will be entertained in a Yankee version of their own public house by such acts as a Scotch quartet, a bizarre xylophone performance, and an Apache dance.

Robert J. McIntyre, fourth-year student who is directing the production, refused to disclose any further details, but, speaking for the entire group, insisted that the grand finale would be the feature attraction of the evening.

What! No "Mole"?

Residents of Alumni Hall will follow the commerce students, basing their show on the actions of well-known comic strip characters. Such famous personages as Superman, Popeye, the Spirit, Li'l Abner, Major Hoople, Mandrake, and the Bumpstead family will appear.

Thomas Hitchell and Edward Morin will offer a specialty tap dance and piano recital, respectively. James Flanagan will be the announcer; other students have been put in charge of the band, lyrics, and costumes.

Under the direction of Thomas J. McKimmey, senior education student, the Mendel residents will regale the audience with "One Night at the Mendel Penthouse." Against a night-club background will be presented a floor show featuring the "Mendel Coquettes" or "Six Little Maids in Blue" and the "Embarques," a dancing team specializing in rhumba and conga rhythms.

Swing Trio Featured

Among the added attractions will appear the swing trio of Fazzini, Fazzini, and Smith, as well as the finale in a terpsichorean pageant in swing. Such stage and screen stars as Sophie Tucker, George Jessel, Eddie Cantor, Milton Berle,

AMATEURS READY
Continued on Page Eight

Debaters To Engage Rosemont Monday

Beta Gamma Debating Society will engage Rosemont College next Monday, Dec. 15, at Rosemont. Topic of the debate is as yet undecided.

On Sunday a debate with the University of Pennsylvania before the Young Men's Hebrew Association was scheduled on the topic, "Resolved: That the United States should declare war on Japan." However, in view of Sunday's developments in international affairs, a round table discussion was held, instead. Edward Manderfield and Louis DeSimone represented Villanova.

Japan's Declaration of war on us will necessitate a change in several other debates which were also to have been concerned with this topic.

President On The War

Very Rev. Edward V. Stanford, O. S. A., president of the college, issued the following statement to the student body through the VILLANOVAN yesterday afternoon upon the declaration of war:

"From the beginning of the present emergency Villanova College, in every way possible, has cooperated with various governmental agencies to further National Defense. Now that war has been forced upon the United States this cooperation will be continued and intensified wherever practicable. I know that Villanova students will be loyal to their country without exception.

"I urge the students to be calm and to continue most diligently with their college work. The government has already indicated that an uninterrupted supply of trained men is essential in the emergency. The most effective service that college students can render to their country is to continue purposefully at their work until such time as our country calls them to some other line of duty.

"A period of unknown duration now lies before us in which intense national effort will require great sacrifices from all of us. At college you can prepare now for that effort through a sincere spiritual awakening and by adopting more order and discipline in your daily lives. Neglect of your spiritual and physical welfare, failure to employ your best efforts in your studies, waste of materials of any kind are now offenses against the patriotism which you owe to your country."

Dean Elected

J. Stanley Morehouse, dean of the engineering school, was unanimously elected president of the Middle Atlantic Section of the Society for the Promotion of Engineering Education at the annual fall meeting of that organization at the City College of New York last Saturday.

Dean Morehouse succeeds Charles G. Thatcher, associate professor of mechanical engineering at Swarthmore College, in the presidency.

The Society for the Promotion of Engineering Education is composed of educators and others who are interested in the advancement of engineering. Its last meeting was held at Villanova in May.

Eight members of the engineering school faculty attended the fall meeting. In addition to Dean Morehouse, Emil Amelotti, M. S., Harry Blumenfeld, M. S., Harry S. Bueche, M. S., John J. Gallen, C. E., Harold LeTart, B. S., James Quagliano, M. S., and Rudolph F. Drenick, Ph. D., were present.

Commissions As Ensigns Offered To Engineers

Naval Reserve Will Appoint Juniors and Seniors Pending Their Graduation

A recent communication from Rear Admiral A. E. Watson, Commandant of the Fourth Naval District, to Very Rev. Edward V. Stanford, O. S. A., president of the college, stated that Villanova is one of the engineering institutions approved by the Navy Department whose junior and senior students are eligible for commissions in the Naval Reserve.

Members of this year's graduating class whose applications for such commissions are accepted will be given their appointments immediately upon graduation and will be ordered to active duty at various stations.

Juniors whose applications are approved will be appointed probationary Ensigns in the Naval Reserve until graduation, when permanent commissions will be awarded.

The type of duty for which Villanova graduates are desired is technical, requiring special training and education along engineering lines. Some of the graduates will be utilized in aviation; some will be attached to the Bureau of Ships, which is concerned with the construction of ships and with all engineering equipment therein; while others will be employed by the Bureau of Ordnance.

In the near future, probably on Monday, Dec. 15, a Naval officer representing the Commandant will come to the campus to explain the matter fully to junior and senior engineers.

To Present Program Of Christmas Music Tomorrow Afternoon

A special program consisting entirely of Christmas music has been arranged by Dr. Edward L. Haenisch, moderator of the day-hop Music Seminar, for the meeting of that group tomorrow afternoon in the Mendel Amphitheatre.

Heading the list of selections to be played is Tchaikowsky's "Nutcracker Suite," a piece written about a little girl who receives a nutcracker for Christmas and, in her dreams, imagines it to be a doll that takes her on a trip to fairyland. The program will also include Humperdinck's "Dream Pantomime" and other Christmas carols.

Tomorrow's meeting will be the final one for the seminar until after the Christmas holidays; no resident seminar will be held tomorrow evening.

Dr. Haenisch will address the Kistler Club, Rosemont College's honor society, tonight.

Black-And-White Formal Planned For Senior Dance, Co-Chairmen State

Endeavoring to bring an innovation to Villanova dances, the Belle Air Ball committee, headed by co-chairmen John T. Gallagher and Andrew J. Melton, announced yesterday that the senior prom, to be held Feb. 13 in the Field House, will be a Black-and-White Formal.

This type of formal derives its name from the dress of the couples rather than from the tone of the decorations. The ladies will be requested to wear either black, white, or black-and-white gowns and the gentlemen are expected to wear the customary "tails" or "tux."

This plan was adopted because of the unusual success of such formals at leading colleges and universities throughout the country. Recently, Black and White formals have made their appearance at Texas, Oklahoma, and Kansas Universities, and the University of Pennsylvania.

New Sub-Committee

Conjointly with this announcement, the co-chairmen disclosed the creation of a new sub-committee and the appointment of four new committeemen.

The new sub-committee, created to give particular attention to former students serving in the armed forces, will be known as the U. S. Service Men's Committee and is to be headed by Joseph V. McCabe.

New committee member Robert J. Moore will assume the duties of refreshment chairman, the post relinquished by McCabe. Robert Koness, another new appointee, will serve on the same committee. Logan Phillips has been appointed to the U. S. Service Men's Committee, and Richard Frey has been named on the Publicity Committee.

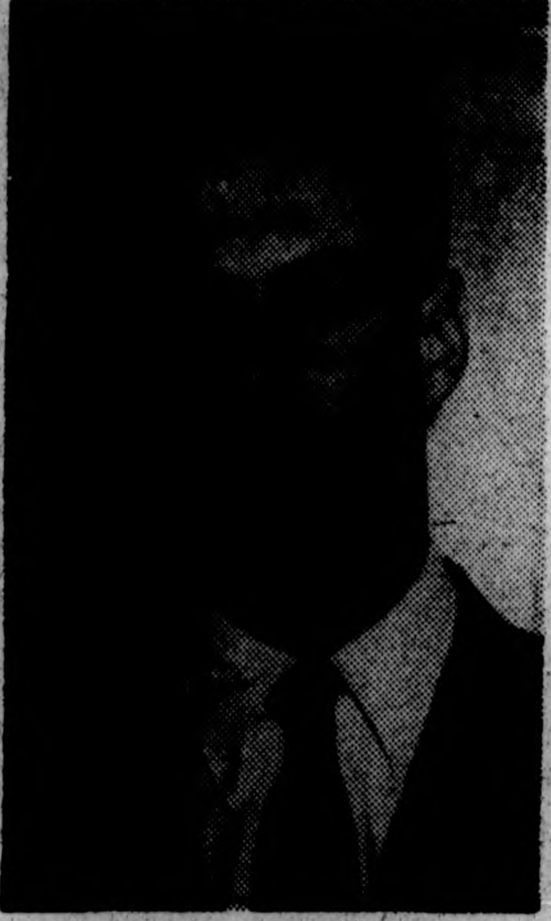
Assessments Due

With the announcement of plans for the senior prom, the co-chairmen emphasized the importance of prompt payment of class assessments. "We cannot do one thing, or approach any orchestra, until there is money in the treasury."

The following students have been authorized to collect assessments: John Kirchner, George Gabuzda, and Thomas Hushen, of the engineering school; Andrew Melton, John Gallagher, and David Reardon, commerce students; Donald Speese and Joseph Rozum, of the science school; and Thomas McKimmey and David Daly, artsmen.

Walsh Appointed Junior Prom Head; Sub - Committee Chairmen Named

Leads Junior Social



JAMES A. WALSH

Commerce Student Will Direct Spring Social; Twelve Chosen to Assist

James A. Walsh, commerce and finance junior, has been appointed chairman of the Junior Prom, to be held this year on May 8, William P. Walpole, president of the Centennial Class, disclosed today. Also released were the names of twelve other juniors who will serve as sub-committee chairmen and committee members.

Walsh, a pre-law major, last year directed the Sophomore Cotillion, the first dance given by his class. The success of this affair, both socially and financially, was largely responsible for his present appointment. Active in numerous campus organizations, he is president of the Spanish Club and a member of the VILLANOVAN business staff.

The prom committee has been divided into four sub-committees to facilitate the handling of the numerous details involved.

Meehan, McGrath Named

James Meehan, C. & F. student, and Walter McGrath, scienceman, have been named to the general committee to assist Walsh in coordinating the work of the sub-committees. The other men have been appointed directly to sub-committees on publicity, refreshments, tickets, and decorations.

Malachy Boyle, of the engineering school, will head the publicity division. He will be assisted by John Bongiovanni, science student, and Arthur Martin, artsman.

Refreshments will be under the supervision of Nicholas Eni, chairman, and Joseph Silva, both of the science school, and Robert Koob, engineering student.

Ticket sales will be headed by Edward Reilly of the commerce and finance school. His assistants will be Arthur Smith, Thomas Devine, and William Stevens, from the engineering, arts, and science schools, respectively.

Meeting Next Week

Members of the decoration committee will be announced next week. Selection was postponed in order that more serious consideration might be given to the names of those students nominated as qualified and capable.

A meeting of the entire committee will be held after this group has been named.

Chairman Walsh, commenting on the outlook for this year's dance, expressed the opinion that "with the cooperation of both the committee and the junior class, the Junior Prom of 1942 will equal and even exceed those of previous years and will be in keeping with the aims of the Centennial Class."

Good Will

Spanish Club to Hold Reception for Colombian Students Friday Evening

Thirty-one Spanish students and their professor who are making a good will tour of the United States will be guests at a reception of the Villanova Spanish Club this Friday evening.

The young men and women, students at schools in Colombia, South America, arrived in Philadelphia last Thursday to take up a two-months course of study at the University of Pennsylvania. Rev. Lorenzo Lozano, O. S. A., moderator of the Spanish Club, immediately contacted them and secured their acceptance of his invitation.

During the evening's program, which will begin at 8:30 P. M. in the Field House, many of the Colombian guests will discuss their country and give their ideas on the United States.

After the talks have been concluded, a Spanish motion picture will be shown and refreshments served. Dancing to Spanish, Latin-American, and popular United States recordings will follow.

Invited to the affair are all Villanova students of Spanish and members of the Spanish Club, Spanish students at Rosemont, Immaculata, and the College of Chestnut Hill, and faculty members at Villanova and the girls' colleges in the vicinity.

The South American students, who are under the double sponsorship of the University of Pennsylvania and the International Institute of Education, New York, are making this tour during their "summer" vacation. They are taking special courses in English at Penn, as well as many other varied subjects ranging from city planning to social sciences.

Included in the group are three women and 28 men. The male contingent is under the direction of Professor Victor Rodriguez, of the University of Bogota, Colombia.

Choral Concert Off Until After Holidays

The joint Villanova-Rosemont Choral Concert, previously scheduled for this Sunday, Dec. 14, has been postponed until an indefinite date after the Christmas holidays, John P. Fullam, secretary of the Villanova Choral Society, has announced.

This postponement was made necessary because of the illness of Rev. Ralph J. Handran, O. S. A., moderator of the combined group. In the absence of Fr. Handran, Mother Mary Paula of Rosemont College has taken over the direction of the organization.

Rehearsals will continue to be held twice a week at Rosemont until the date of the concert. The group consists of approximately 85 members, 35 of whom are members of Villanova's Choral Society.

D. P. E. To Sponsor Education Program During Second Half

A series of programs which will include lectures by important businessmen, motion pictures, and various types of demonstrations will be sponsored by Delta Pi Epsilon during the second semester, the members of the commerce and finance fraternity decided at a meeting held last Thursday in Simpson Hall.

Though definite plans have not as yet been drawn up, it has been tentatively decided that the sessions will be conducted on alternate Thursdays in the C. & F. Auditorium and will be open to all interested students. Membership in the fraternity will not be required for admission. A committee of three men to arrange for these programs will be appointed in the near future.

Fraternity president David N. Reardon also announced that a general chairman, sub-chairmen, and committee members for the Financiers' Frolic, the fraternity's annual dance, will be chosen before the Christmas holidays.

In the future, the regular meetings of the organization will be held in the business school auditorium. The fraternity now has a membership of 90 students.

The War And The Student

WAR HAS COME to the United States — war that was unsought — war against a foreign power that viciously struck against our citizens and our possessions.

When President Roosevelt yesterday asked Congress for recognition that a state of war with Japan exists he spoke as a collective voice for all United States citizens; and when Congress swiftly passed his resolution it concretely expressed the sentiment of Americans suddenly inflamed by a puzzling-to-reason thrust at their safety.

Americans did not dissent, they did not hesitate. For here was no fight for freedom overseas, no declaration of war to support another country whose way of life is similar to ours. Isolationists did not disagree, for America was not declaring war with herself to blame for the doing. America was defending herself.

So today we find ourselves at war — a war which we believe to be just. And, since it is a just war, some few may leap to the conclusion that it is their duty to offer their services to the government effective immediately — that college is no more for them or for anyone else. Others may lose interest in their studies and develop a "what's it all matter, anyway" attitude.

The plain truth is that we must avoid such indications of hysteria. It is our patriotic duty — and no Villanova man has ever repudiated or will ever disavow a patriotic duty — to follow such a course as will best aid our nation to win the war.

As Fr. Stanford pointed out yesterday, "The most effective service that college students can render to their country is to continue purposefully at their work until such time as our country calls them to some other line of duty."

"The government has already indicated that an uninterrupted supply of trained men is essential in the emergency"; the services prefer to have a college-trained man, one who can do his country more good than can a man without his knowledge and abilities.

It is the student's job to amass all the knowledge he can so that when duty calls he will be ready.

—T. H. D., JR.

VILLANOVAN

Issued twenty-five times a year from Villanova College, Villanova, Pa.

THOMAS H. DOYLE, JR., '42 ....Editor-in-Chief
ROBERT J. FUNABASHI, '42 ....Sports Editor
THOMAS F. DEVINE, '43 ....College Editor
WILLIAM E. SCHUBERT, '42 ....Managing Editor
THOMAS A. SULLIVAN, '42 ....Copy Editor
HOWARD A. McCALL, '42 ....Literary Editor
JOHN T. GALLAGHER, '42 ....Business Manager
ALBERT D'ALONZO, '42 ....Photography Editor
JOHN P. FULLAM, '42 ....Feature Editor
ROBERT F. DONOVAN, '42 ....Subscription Manager
BRUNO J. TALVACCHIA, '42 ....Exchange Editor
BERNARD C. CRUMB, ex-'42,
Honorary Circulation Manager

Columnists

F. J. Clark, '42 D. N. Reardon, '42

Staff Writers

F. Bagot, '43; G. Belz, '42; E. Bennis, '43; H. Binder, '44; J. Bongiovanni, '43; R. Canfield, '43; S. Canning, '43; S. Caplan, '42; J. Coleman, '43; W. Craven, '43; L. DeSimone, '44; J. Dudley, '43; J. Earley, '42; L. Esposito, '43; W. Guncheon, Jr., '43; D. Haley, '42; J. Jakovic, '42; J. Mahoney, '43; J. Mauch, '43; J. McCabe, '42; R. McIntyre, '42; T. Muraski, '43; J. Nunemaker, '43; F. Reese, '43; T Shallow, '42; C. Schaumann, '42; J. Tortoreto, '44; R .Young, '44.

Business Assistants

C. Callahan, '43 L. Jones, '43 E. Smith, '43
J. Walsh, '43

Circulation Assistants

J. Cerulo, '42 G. Fitzgerald, '42 E. Frank, '42
N. Eni, '43 J. Keays, '44 J. Monroe, '44

Photography Staff

R. Amicone, '43 L. Eni, '44 J. Sandonato, '42

Faculty Advisor—Rev. Edward B. McKee, O. S. A.

This paper is dedicated to one of the finest men who ever entered Villanova; scholar, athlete, gentleman — LEO GOODREAU

Subscription: $2.00 per year. Circulation: 3500.
Entered as second class matter at the Villanova Post Office December 27, 1928.

Member of Associated Collegiate Press; Distributor of Collegiate Digest.
Member of Catholic School Press Association, Catholic College Press Association, and National Scholastic Press Association.

TUESDAY • • • • • DECEMBER 9, 1941

It Can Happen Here

CONCERNING the reasons for the comparatively recent military defeat of the nation of France there has been much debate. American statesmen, British royalty, German war-lords, and journalists of sundry nationalities and abilities have all ventured opinions. The causes of France's downfall thus far theorized by these men have been many and outlandishly varied. No two men have agreed on all points. We have heard and read a great number of ideas; we have been plagued with

> "Whispers and hints which go from ear to ear,
> And mixed reports no judge on earth can clear."

Certainly, if we are to learn any semblance of the truth it would be wise to lend the victimized French people an attentive ear. If they know not what is the real cause of their grief, surely we cannot know much about it. For a truthful and an intelligent answer to our question, let us consider the judgment of a Paris newspaper which, shortly after German occupation, had this to say:

"We are going to pay for sixty years of de-Christianization, falling birth-rate, decline into paganism and materialism, decline into political anarchy. We are paying dearly for the errors and crimes of our great French Revolution of 1789-1793. At the Marne in the last war, St. Genevieve, St. Louis, St. Joan of Arc, Our Lady of Paris had interceded for us. Providence granted us twenty-five years of respite in which to recover ourselves. We returned to our free-thinking, materialistic vomit, to our 'popular front' moral and political anarchy. We have worn out the patience of Providence! We have disgusted the good God Himself! And now, when will the Lord grant us the recovery and resurrection of France?"

If we were seeking excuses from the French, if we were expecting them to "cry the blues," or if we supposed that they would immediately shift all blame, we surely find nothing but disappointment in the spirit of this passage.

France has no one to blame save herself, and she is honest and sincere in admitting the fact. She doesn't curse her enemies for defeating her; she finds fault with her own grave sins of presumption and pride. Before the war, she had the blush of health on her cheek but, within, she was rotting with the detestable canker of national immorality. She realizes this now, but it is late—perhaps too late.

It would be well if Americans would take steps to avert a like fate. It would be well if we fought immorality, as well as Japan. It would be well if we scoured our own dust-smudged ideals, for, contrary to popular misconception, "It can happen here!" A decline in morality can bring a nation to the feet of her enemies!

—T. P. McF.

Don't Miss It

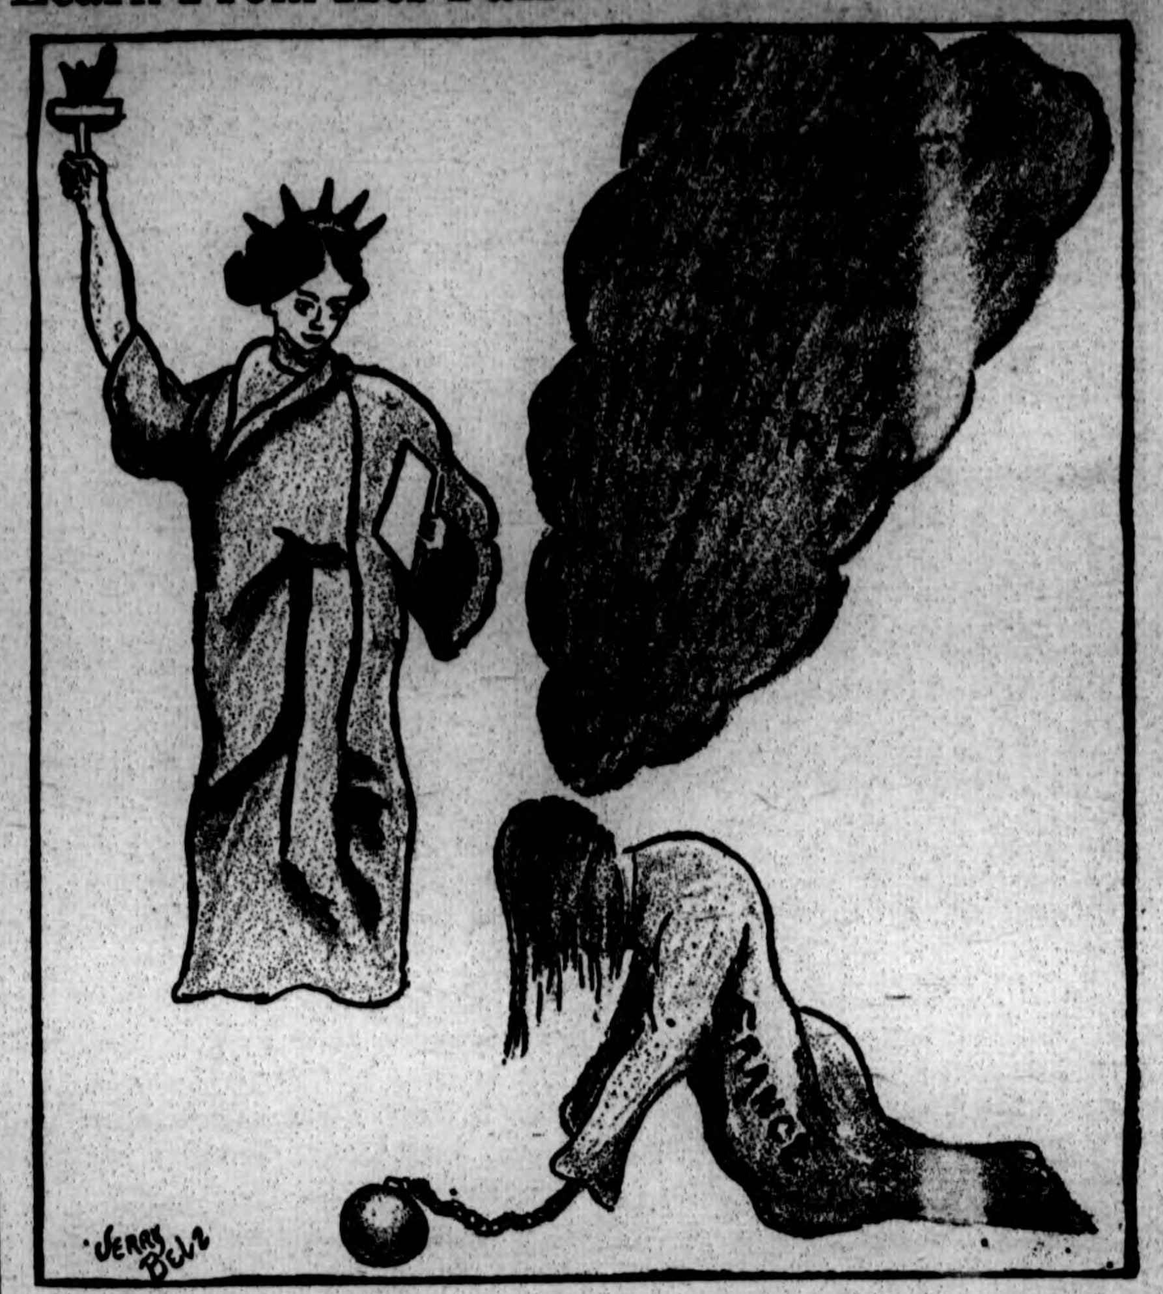
IT'S ALWAYS a lot of fun when a bunch of fellows get together and start clowning around. Tomorrow night's amateur show will settle once and for all any doubts you may have in this regard.

Any "oldtimer" will tell you that a Villanova Amateur Night is the funniest single affair ever captured and confined under one roof. The participants are funny, their shows are well written, their principals excellent ad-libbers. The audience?—they're even funnier; or, at least, the audience has been known to steal the show on many occasions.

Tomorrow night we students in the audience might try — but not too hard, of course — to give the actors a chance to do their stuff in comparative peace. After all, they did go to rehearsals.

—J. P. F.

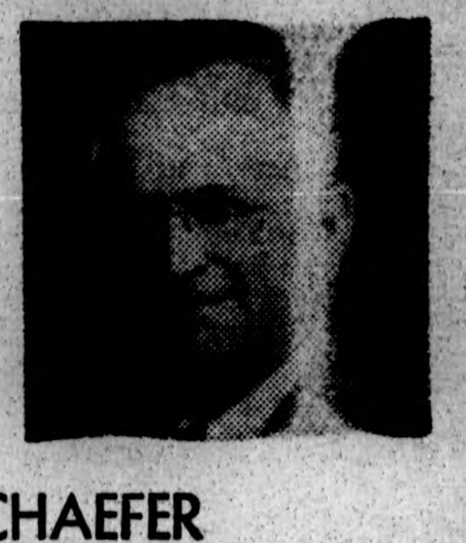
Learn From Her Fall - - - - by BELZ



FACULTY COMMENTS

History Of Our Income Tax

By MR. SCHAEFER



FOR the past two decades all people have known there is an income tax. During the past few years some of the people have become tax conscious. By March 15, 1942, nearly everyone will be tax conscious and some will be in a state of shock.

Income tax increases are staggering. Under the new 1941 Law the taxpayer will have to pay increases ranging from 100% to 500%. For example: a married couple with no dependents who paid, with perhaps no great hardship, $30.80 in 1941 will find themselves paying $138 on the returns to be filed on March 15. For many in this income bracket there have been no increases in the pay envelope. With the increase of 8.4% in living costs in this state, the taxpayer will soon be asking, "Where is this extra money coming from to pay our taxes?"

Regardless of our foreign policy viewpoint, right or wrong, the public will be forced into the realization that to police the world not only entails hardships and bloodshed, but also costs money.

Tax History Reviewed

Inasmuch as all people are somewhat tax conscious and some people vitally concerned in paying income tax, a brief review of Income Tax history in the United States may be of interest.

As early as 1815 an income tax was suggested in the United States to provide revenue for the War of 1812. The early declaration of peace made additional revenue unnecessary; consequently, the proposal to tax income was abandoned.

With the outbreak of the Civil War the government again found it necessary to provide additional revenue. A general Revenue Act embodying an income tax provision was introduced and passed by the House on July 29, 1861, by a vote of seventy-seven to sixty. With a few amendments suggested by the finance committee, the Senate passed the law with the income tax section which provided for a tax of 3% on the excess over eight hundred dollars of the "annual income of every person residing in the United States or elsewhere, or from any source whatever."

Subsistence Theory

Two conclusions stand out in the passage of the first income tax law in the United States. First, the income tax grew out of the dissatisfaction of a general property tax as the only means of taxation. Second, the law was a recognition of the "minimum of subsistence theory" in exempting eight hundred dollars. This theory is a corollary of the so-called "faculty principle or ability to pay theory," the first of Adam Smith's four axioms in regard to taxes in general.

"The subjects of every state ought to contribute toward the support of the government, as nearly as possible in proportion to their respective abilities; that is, in proportion to the revenue which they respectively enjoy under the protection of the state." In other words, after the necessary amount to keep body and soul together, i. e., to exist or merely subsist, the worker should contribute to the support of the government that enables him to make this subsistence.

This figure has varied and gone as high as $4,000. Last year for a single person it was $800. For the 1942 return, it will be $750. Comparing the standard of living today with 1861, the present day exemption is but a shadow of the minimum of subsistence theory.

Acts Passed in '60's

According to the provisions of the 1861 Income Tax law, the tax was to go into effect on June 30, 1862, but as a matter of fact, the Act of 1861 was never put into force, the reason being that the revenue which would be derived was considered inefficient by the reassembled Congress to compensate for the cost of putting the law into operation. However, four other acts were passed: Acts of 1862, 1863, 1864, and 1867.

About the time the Act of 1867 was to expire there was much argument for and against its retention. Finally, it was allowed to die a natural death in 1873 because there was no longer the necessity for raising the revenue. For about twenty years thereafter, the question of taxing income was practically dormant in the political life of the times. These were years of plenty and the demand for revenue was not great.

Pollock Case Cited

In the early nineties, however, a great decline in prices became more and more marked and the prosperity of the past two decades gradually gave way to a period of depression. The accumulation of vast fortunes in the industrial and financial centers caused a breach between these classes and the agricultural class. Out of this conflict of interests, political movements sprang up which resulted in the passage of the Act of 1894, an income tax which was to begin January 1, 1895, and continue through a period of five years.

This act never became effective because it was declared unconstitutional, primarily on the grounds that it was a direct tax. The opin-

FACULTY COMMENTS
Continued on Page Four

Wildcat Whirl

By Dave Reardon

FOR the second successive week, an extended week-end was enjoyed by all with an added day to recuperate from their off-campus wanderings. Friday and Saturday night saw the inauguration of the court season in the Field House. Many of the campus gigolos attended these games, some escorting fair damsels, while others made sure that their colleagues' dates were well entertained. These games would be much more entertaining and profitable if abbreviated dances to recorded music were held following the weekend contests.

* * *

NOCTURNAL NOTES:

The Ivy Leaguers, Tom Morgan, Elk Murray, and Bill Howlett are back in social circulation. Tom has been calling signals with a New York model, Elk has been seen with Betty, his Montclair, N. J., star, and Bill was enjoying proceedings at the Warwick with a St. Mary's Hospital nurse. . . Publicity-minded Joe Connor is having a hard time deciding what to give Dolores for Christmas. . . "Gaylord" Galysh has been petitioned to dispose of his semester uniform.

At the intra-mural swimming meet, Fathers Dunn and McKee disagreed over an apparent disqualification to such an extent that it nearly reached the kindling point. . . . At the I. R. C. convention at Lehigh, Gerry Belz, Bill Schubert, Johnny Fullam, and Bob Canfield took over the Mount delegates after the St. Joe men brought the co-eds up. We understand that Gerry messed things up at dinner by spilling everything all over the place.

What goes on at these Rosemont-Villanova glee club rehearsals across the way? No one seems to know anything about them. . .Incidentally, Rosemont's "Rambler" publication will return to active circulation after a lapse.

Ziggy Zamlynski and Al Postus should be candidates for the debating team after those classy orations delivered at that football rally at S. T. M. . . One of Loring Jones' interests, Marie Louise Mansfield, had her photograph on a local picture page presenting the Mayor of the Quaker City with a pin.

* * *

CUFF NOTES:

Those Anthony y Cleopatra cigars that Johnny Sandonato was distributing were as strong as they were odorous. . . Joe Mahoney, who has recently attained his majority, has lately been escorting different girls whose average age is five years his junior.

Gal says the juniors and seniors should pay their class assessments with the money they make at Christmas season jobs, mainly in the P. O. .In this way they will be assured of top-flight class socials. . . . Vince Tigani paid $38 for that special pair of hand-made shoes he totes around. . . Bud Newell is reportedly going to make an announcement concerning Betty on the 25th. . . Cozy Bill DeGrace still maintains direct connections with Bunny, his Mary Washington College, Va., co-ed.

* * *

DAFFYNITIONS:

Farmer—One who has a sense of humus.

Old Age — That which everyone should respect, particularly when it's bottled.

Elocution—The way criminals in the United States are put to death.

Porch Swing — Happiness on hooks; a contrivance whereby love-making may be suspended but by no means stopped during the summer.

* * *

NEWS NOTES:

Georgian Court College, the home of beautiful women, held its Senior Ball at the Plaza Hotel in N. Y. C. to the music of Joe Moss. Buckley and McKimmey were in attendance as usual. They spent the weekend at the Biltmore.

Ed Rabidoux is now one of the boys, having taken Rita, Rosemont's social soprano, to a show last Friday P. M. . . Bob "Cuddles" Young rushed all the way home (600 miles), just to have a date with Ann on Sunday night. . . Roy Lind apparently had a very enjoyable time with his unknown nurse friend at that dance (all expenses paid).

Meet The Boys: Buckley's Mayor Of Austin Hall; Melton Heads the Senior Ball

By ED BENNIS

OUR WEEKLY biographies begin with that "wonder kid," Buckley. Frank was born in the fair city of Philadelphia on Oct. 29, 1920. Rumor has it that he was so surprised when he was born that he didn't talk for a year, and those who know him will tell you that that is very unusual for Mrs. Buckley's son. At the early and tender age of three he moved to Lakewood, N. J., a thriving metropolis in the pine land, and has lived there ever since.

Upon attaining the age of reason, Frank attended the local grammar school and joked his way into the hearts of everyone. He then moved to Lakewood High; here it was that his talents began to take shape. He was a member of the dramatics club for four years and acted in many school plays. Our lad confesses to having participated in sports, but dramatics took up most of his time.

Having heard of and seen Villanova, he timidly entered as a freshman in '38 and commenced to make himself well known.

Frank has been an officer of the Belle Masque and has taken part in two of the society's principal productions. In "The Tavern," presented in 1940, he was Zack, the landlord's dumb son—with emphasis on the dumb. In last year's "Margin for Error," he had one of the leads as Moe Finklestein, the Jewish cop. He has also participated in the Amateur Night plays and has been a member of the Music Seminar for four years.

Young Mr. Buckley has been in the social swirl ever since his arrival on our campus; in fact, he has been in the middle of it. It is known that he has attended social affairs at every local college except Immaculata; how he missed the girl's college on the hill we'll never know. He claims his true love is Georgian Court.

This may be due to the fact that the Lakewood College is only about a mile from his house—lucky lad. Your reporter heard rumors about a certain young lass in Philly, but Frank seems rather bashful about her.

"Moe" has lived in Austin for three years and his lengthy sojourn there has earned for him the title of the "Mayor of Austin." Many fellows are beginning to come to his room to sign out, whereupon Frank has to direct them to the right room.

Getting into the more serious aspect of life, Frank is majoring in finance and hopes to go to the Harvard graduate school next fall. But he has an idea that perhaps his Uncle Sam will want him at Fort Dix come next draft registration. Whatever happens, Frank has the spirit to make a success of life and here's luck to him.

In a quiet moment: Frank Buckley, left, and Andy Melton.

WE NOW COME to the other half of our story—Andy Melton. Our future glamour boy was ushered into this world on March 4, 1920, at Bay Shores, L. I. To listen to Andy one would think that Brooklyn is a suburb of Bay Shores — and far be it from us to doubt him.

When he became old enough to learn the three "R's," young Andrew was sent to Saint Patrick's grammar school in his home town. It was here that he met Logan "Meathead" Phillips; he has gone to school with him ever since. Graduating with high honors, Andy moved on to Bay Shores High. While at Bay Shores the true Melton began to show himself. He was on the wrestling team for four years and played football. He also was a member of the student council and participated in the school plays.

In the fall of '38 our hero ventured south to begin his college days at Villanova. He entered the C. & F. school to follow the pre-law curriculum.

Besides keeping well up in his marks, Andy has found time for many extra-curricular activities. He was treasurer of his class during his sophomore and junior years, a member of the Sophomore Cotillion and Junior Prom committees, has been in the glee club for four years, and is on the Belle Air staff.

Last year he handled the direction of a one-act play and the Amateur Night play for Father McKee — ask Father Dunne about that. To top all this Andy is handling the switchboard in Mendel Hall part of every day.

At the present time he is co-chairman of the coming Belle Air Ball. Andy claims that its going to be one of the best dances ever held at Villanova — "and that's a promise."

Like Mr. Buckley, Andy is in high standing in the social whirl. He has been around the college fair set and this fall posed for a Chestnut Hill dance poster. It is said that his picture drove many a girl to weeping and gnashing of teeth. He has more than a passing interest in Packer College in Brooklyn, a cute little trick by the name of Mary Ann. The ones who know claim that she is patiently waiting for him. Meanwhile, Andy drops over Rosemont way every now and then to squire a certain pretty sophomore.

Upon graduation in June, the younger Melton is slated to join the Marines for four years — —a handsome leatherneck. He will be stationed at the Philadelphia Navy Yard and will be in the Reserve Officers' training school. When and if he gets out of the Marines he plans to go to law school to continue his studies. But at the present time Andy isn't thinking of the marines, he's dreaming of the Belle Air Ball and of the great dance that it's to be.

Villanovans Did Their Training On Campus Under Army Direction During First World War

By THOMAS C. MURASKI

WITH the entry of the United States into another world conflict, the account of the life of the average Villanova student during the last war takes on an added interest and importance.

The history of the class of '22 is the story of the school in the latter months of the War. This class was the first to register at the college for military training. Previous classes had had military training, but it was not sponsored by the U. S. Army.

On April 27, 1917, Military Training was begun as a part of the regular curriculum of the college. Training was under the direction of Sergeant-Major Hamilton; drills were held for an hour to an hour-and-a-half, four days a week. As far as can be determined, this training can be likened to the present R. O. T. C. of other colleges. In October of 1918, the Student Army Training Corps took the place of this training.

Students Became Soldiers

The S. A. T. C. was brought into being by a revision on Aug. 31, 1918, of the Selective Service Act. Registrants in the corps became soldiers in the Army of the United States and were subject to military discipline at all times. They wore the uniforms of privates and were distinguished by an olive drab cord on their service hats.

Infantry training was the general rule, except in the case of those studying technical subjects. Such students were drilled in both infantry and technical work.

Various Branches Offered

Villanova registered 274 soldiers and four sailors under the terms of the act. The college offered courses in infantry, engineering, pre-medical work, chemistry, field artillery, heavy artillery, air service, ordnance and quartermaster corps, signal corps, and motor transport and truck service. The unit was under the direction of Lieut. A. B. Scott.

The following quotation from the VILLANOVAN, then a quarterly publication, illustrates what the students thought of the set-up: "In 1918, when the only correct shade for gentlemen was khaki, '22, the 'War Babies', was born. (sic) Villanova impressed us more as a barracks than as an institution of learning. Classes and professors were only of secondary importance, a perfect was a thing beyond our conception.

Days Were Full

"Lieutenant A. B. Scott, and his staff of lieutenants, introduced us to the new word, 'Discipline', and the introduction was not a gentle one. The days were full ones, from the shivering roll-call in front of the flag pole at Reveille, to solemn taps that Bugler Lyons sounded from the bridge at night. In retrospect, it all seems wonderful, but at the time, it was quite difficult."

Although the general induction day of the S. A. T. C. was Oct. 1, the first of these classes was started Sept. 22, 1918. By Oct. 1, the flu had reached Villanova and, because of this, the induction program was curtailed.

Villanova suffered less than most colleges during this epidemic. Only three of the 173 stricken with the disease died, and one death was due to a previous illness.

Work Suspended

Nine trained nurses were employed to care for the sick during the seige. All classes and military formations were suspended because all those who were not actually sick were required for the thousand kinds of detail work necessary. One article tells us that those who were well, wished that "the flu might get us—just a little bit."

Due to the military activity and the sickness, football was suspended during the Fall of 1918, but the government rectified this condition by advising that football teams be formed in each unit of the S. A. T. C. It was during this year that Villanova had the lightest team in its history.

The day the armistice was signed the Villanova unit of the Corps paraded to Bryn Mawr, receiving spontaneous applause all along the route, and then returned to the campus to burn the Kaiser in effigy.

Corps Disbanded

Military discipline was relaxed after the Armistice. It is said that the method finally resorted to by the non-coms to arouse the students was to ring the fire bell. On Dec. 11, the S. A. T. C. was disbanded by government order.

A small, but eager, group of students returned after the Christmas holidays to make up for the time lost through military drills. They found a different place; the prefects were again the disciplinarians. Class work was intensified and a class was graduated as usual in June.

Through the efforts of Father Dean, president of the college, and Lieut. Scott, an R. O. T. C. unit supplanted this strictly governmental training. A group of about fifty men spent six weeks of summer training at Camp Lee, Va.

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the third of a series of stories on Significant Events in Villanova's History.)

Tally Ho!

By Bruno Talvacchia

Flunked in Socio, failed in Math,
They heard him softly hiss—
"I'd like to meet that guy who said,
'Ignorance is bliss'."
—Northeastern News.

* * *

Receipt of quarterly grades during the past week has prompted many similar laments among campus inhabitants. The source of this collegiate affliction, professionally termed "flunkitis," is a subject of controversy among "passological" specialists.

A distinguished member of this group gave forth his opinion, which was printed in the St. Anselm Tower, Manchester, N. H. The treatise is entitled "Why Boys Leave College":

Four boys came up to college,
To learn good men to be,
One was thought to stay out nights,
And then there were but three.

Three boys in search of knowledge,
With plenty of work to do;
One was fond of "rolling bones"—
And now there are but two.

Two boys with but a single thought—
To stay till the year was done.
One of them flunked in Latin
And all that was left was one.

One boy sad and lonely,
of Bosom friends bereft,
He soothed his grief with a can of beer,
And of four not one is left.

* * *

Wanted—A Name:

The seniors of Chestnut Hill College are sponsoring a contest for the selection of a title for the senior yearbook. Although eligibility is restricted to Chestnut Hill students, we would like to help by making a few suggestions. However, the mailing address of the college is somewhat confused in our minds since the Fournier News lists Philadelphia on the front page and Chestnut Hill on the masthead!

* * *

Bowl Talk:

The bowl fiasco of the current year was climaxed by the promoters' snubbing of one of the nation's most powerful gridiron combinations of the season. We refer to the erstwhile Wildcat opponent and conqueror, Duquesne University. The Duquesne Duke is certainly justified in howling to the extent of its limit, editorially and otherwise. This column supports the contention that this undefeated, untied team deserved a bowl bid.

* * *

This Modern Whirl(d):

Grampa had to rent a horse to do his courting. Dad had to buy an auto. Now you have to buy an auto to take her someplace where you can rent a couple of horses.
—Westminster Holcad.

* * *

One Man's Viewpoint:

Commenting on an election to determine "Miss Auburn," a columnist in the Auburn Plainsman defines a college "Miss" election as "that time of year when a girl who wouldn't nod to you most of the time becomes a clinging vine and sees the Real You."

Postcript

To A Courtship

By JOHN M. QUINN

Between the sky and the soul
Between the geranium and the root
The earth is damp and cold
And wet winds finger the hair.
The hours are empty cups, the apple coreless.
No ticking aeons, no loose-stretched skies
Of sad sweet bliss, only the lap-swirl of
The sea-voices churning panzer columns up the sand.
I am a madman counting
The raindrops, eating
The tough grass, feeling
The soft loam-eyes oozing.
My soul is a sand-dune bracelet.
Sweet as the pop of the tight cork leaving the bottle,
Deep as the champagne glass.

The War And The Student

WAR HAS COME to the United States — war that was unsought — war against a foreign power that viciously struck against our citizens and our possessions.

When President Roosevelt yesterday asked Congress for recognition that a state of war with Japan exists he spoke as a collective voice for all United States citizens; and when Congress swiftly passed his resolution it concretely expressed the sentiment of Americans suddenly inflamed by a puzzling-to-reason thrust at their safety.

Americans did not dissent, they did not hesitate. For here was no fight for freedom overseas, no declaration of war to support another country whose way of life is similar to ours. Isolationists did not disagree, for America was not declaring war with herself to blame for the doing. America was defending herself.

So today we find ourselves at war — a war which we believe to be just. And, since it is a just war, some few may leap to the conclusion that it is their duty to offer their services to the government effective immediately — that college is no more for them or for anyone else. Others may lose interest in their studies and develop a "what's it all matter, anyway" attitude.

The plain truth is that we must avoid such indications of hysteria. It is our patriotic duty — and no Villanova man has ever repudiated or will ever disavow a patriotic duty — to follow such a course as will best aid our nation to win the war.

As Fr. Stanford pointed out yesterday, "The most effective service that college students can render to their country is to continue purposefully at their work until such time as our country calls them to some other line of duty."

"The government has already indicated that an uninterrupted supply of trained men is essential in the emergency"; the services prefer to have a college-trained man, one who can do his country more good than can a man without his knowledge and abilities.

It is the student's job to amass all the knowledge he can so that when duty calls he will be ready.

—T. H. D., JR.

VILLANOVAN

Issued twenty-five times a year from Villanova College, Villanova, Pa.

THOMAS H. DOYLE, JR., '42 .... Editor-in-Chief
ROBERT J. FUNABASHI, '42 .... Sports Editor
THOMAS F. DEVINE, '43 .... College Editor
WILLIAM E. SCHUBERT, '42 .... Managing Editor
THOMAS A. SULLIVAN, '42 .... Copy Editor
HOWARD A. McCALL, '42 .... Literary Editor
JOHN T. GALLAGHER, '42 .... Business Manager
ALBERT D'ALONZO, '42 .... Photography Editor
JOHN P. FULLAM, '42 .... Feature Editor
ROBERT F. DONOVAN, '42 .... Subscription Manager
BRUNO J. TALVACCHIA, '42 .... Exchange Editor
BERNARD C. CRUMB, ex-'42, Honorary Circulation Manager

Columnists
F. J. Clark, '42 D. N. Reardon, '42

Staff Writers
F. Bagot '43; G. Belz, '42; E. Bennis, '43; H. Binder, '44; J. Bongiovanni, '43; R. Canfield, '43; S. Canning, '43; S. Caplan, '42; J. Coleman, '43; W. Craven, '43; L. DeSimone, '44; J. Dudley, '43; J. Earley, '42; L. Esposito, '43; W. Guncheon, Jr., '43; D. Haley, '42; J. Jakovic, '42; J. Mahoney, '43; J. Mauch, '43; J. McCabe, '42; R. McIntyre, '42; T. Muraski, '43; J. Nunemaker, '43; F. Reese, '43; T. Shallow, '42; C. Schaumann, '42; J. Tortoreto, '41; R. Young, '44.

Business Assistants
C. Callahan, '43 L. Jones, '43 E. Smith, '43
J. Walsh, '43

Circulation Assistants
J. Cerulo, '42 G. Fitzgerald, '42 E. Frank, '42
N. Eni, '43 J. Keays, '44 J. Monroe, '44

Photography Staff
R. Amicone, '43 L. Eni, '44 J. Sandonato, '42

Faculty Advisor—Rev. Edward B. McKee, O. S. A.

This paper is dedicated to one of the finest men who ever entered Villanova; scholar, athlete, gentleman — LEO GOODREAU

Subscription: $2.00 per year. Circulation: 3500.
Entered as second class matter at the Villanova Post Office December 27, 1928.

Member of Associated Collegiate Press; Distributor of Collegiate Digest.
Member of Catholic School Press Association, Catholic College Press Association, and National Scholastic Press Association.

TUESDAY - - - - - DECEMBER 9, 1941

It Can Happen Here

CONCERNING the reasons for the comparatively recent military defeat of the nation of France there has been much debate. American statesmen, British royalty, German war-lords, and journalists of sundry nationalities and abilities have all ventured opinions. The causes of France's downfall thus far theorized by these men have been many and outlandishly varied. No two men have agreed on all points. We have heard and read a great number of ideas; we have been plagued with

"Whispers and hints which go from ear to ear,
And mixed reports no judge on earth can clear."

Certainly, if we are to learn any semblance of the truth it would be wise to lend the victimized French people an attentive ear. If they know not what is the real cause of their grief, surely we cannot know much about it. For a truthful and an intelligent answer to our question, let us consider the judgment of a Paris newspaper which, shortly after German occupation, had this to say:

"We are going to pay for sixty years of de-Christianization, falling birth-rate, decline into paganism and materialism, decline into political anarchy. We are paying dearly for the errors and crimes of our great French Revolution of 1789-1793. At the Marne in the last war, St. Genevieve, St. Louis, St. Joan of Arc, Our Lady of Paris had interceded for us. Providence granted us twenty-five years of respite in which to recover ourselves. We returned to our free-thinking, materialistic vomit, to our 'popular front' moral and political anarchy. We have worn out the patience of Providence! We have disgusted the good God Himself! And now, when will the Lord grant us the recovery and resurrection of France?"

If we were seeking excuses from the French, if we were expecting them to "cry the blues," or if we supposed that they would immediately shift all blame, we surely find nothing but disappointment in the spirit of this passage.

France has no one to blame save herself, and she is honest and sincere in admitting the fact. She doesn't curse her enemies for defeating her; she finds fault with her own grave sins of presumption and pride. Before the war, she had the blush of health on her cheek but, within, she was rotting with the detestable canker of national immorality. She realizes this now, but it is late—perhaps too late.

It would be well if Americans would take steps to avert a like fate. It would be well if we fought immorality, as well as Japan. It would be well if we scoured our own dust-smudged ideals, for, contrary to popular misconception, "It can happen here!" A decline in morality can bring a nation to the feet of her enemies!

—T. P. McF.

Don't Miss It

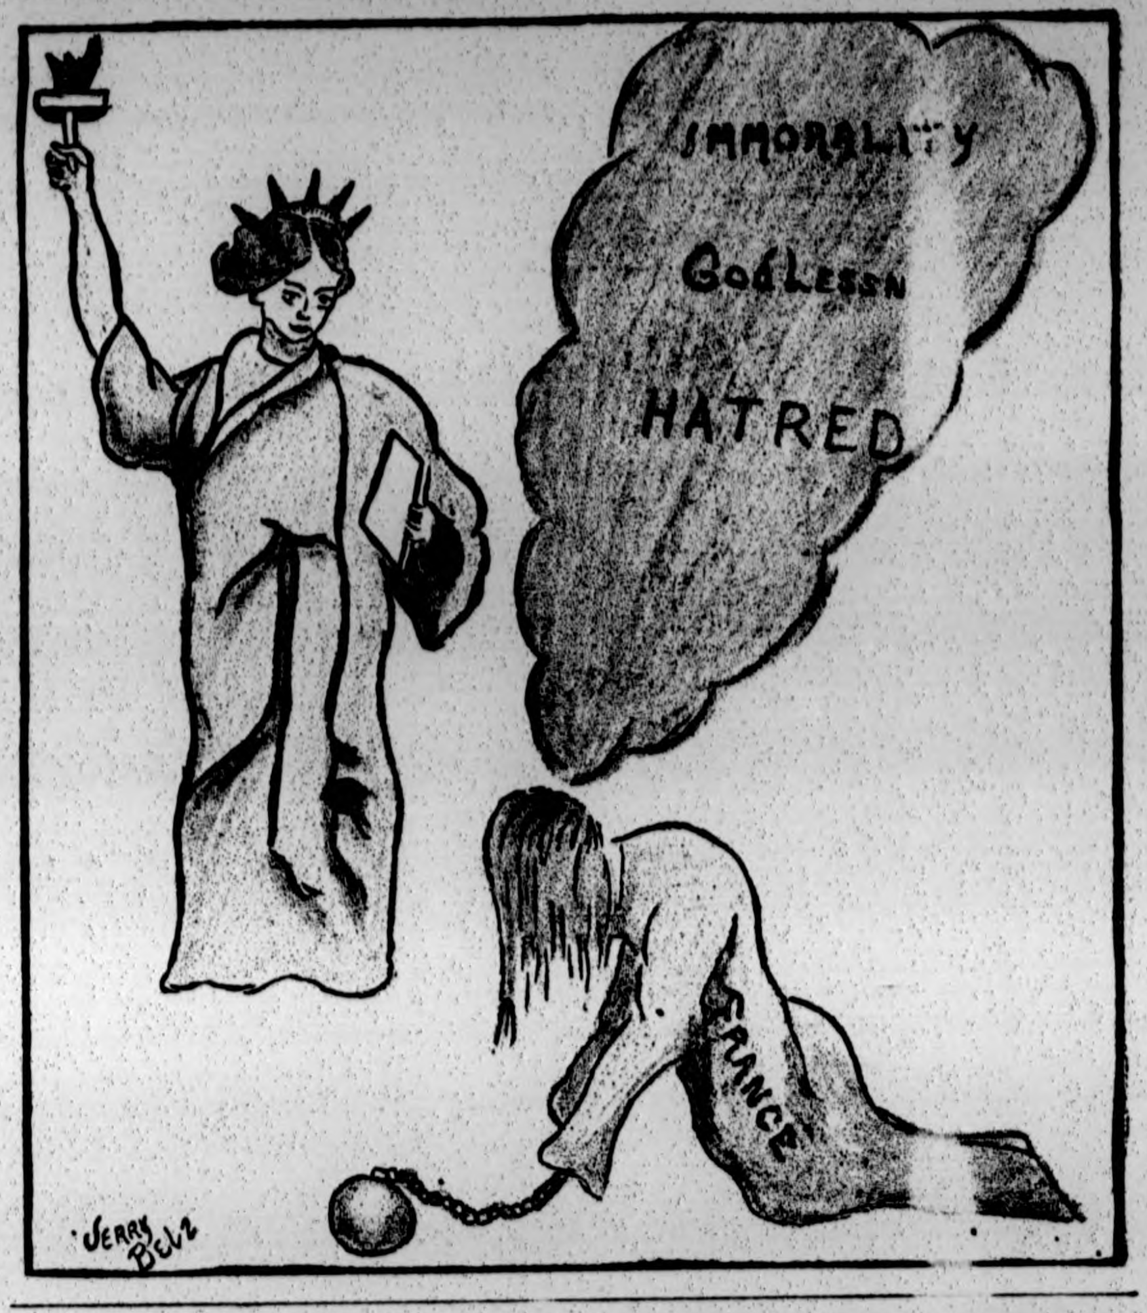
IT'S ALWAYS a lot of fun when a bunch of fellows get together and start clowning around. Tomorrow night's amateur show will settle once and for all any doubts you may have in this regard.

Any "oldtimer" will tell you that a Villanova Amateur Night is the funniest single affair ever captured and confined under one roof. The participants are funny, their shows are well written, their principals excellent ad-libbers. The audience?—they're even funnier; or, at least, the audience has been known to steal the show on many occasions.

Tomorrow night we students in the audience might try — but not too hard, of course — to give the actors a chance to do their stuff in comparative peace. After all, they did go to rehearsals.

—J. P. F.

Learn From Her Fall - - - - by BELZ



FACULTY COMMENTS

History Of Our Income Tax

By MR. SCHAEFER

FOR the past two decades all people have known there is an income tax. During the past few years some of the people have become tax conscious. By March 15, 1942, nearly everyone will be tax conscious and some will be in a state of shock.

Income tax increases are staggering. Under the new 1941 Law the taxpayer will have to pay increases ranging from 100% to 500%. For example: a married couple with no dependents who paid, with perhaps no great hardship, $30.80 in 1941 will find themselves paying $138 on the returns to be filed on March 15. For many in this income bracket there have been no increases in the pay envelope. With the increase of 8.4% in living costs in this state, the taxpayer will soon be asking, "Where is this extra money coming from to pay our taxes?"

Regardless of our foreign policy viewpoint, right or wrong, the public will be forced into the realization that to police the world not only entails hardships and bloodshed, but also costs money.

Tax History Reviewed

Inasmuch as all people are somewhat tax conscious and some people vitally concerned in paying income tax, a brief review of Income Tax history in the United States may be of interest.

As early as 1815 an income tax was suggested in the United States to provide revenue for the War of 1812. The early declaration of peace made additional revenue unnecessary; consequently, the proposal to tax income was abandoned.

With the outbreak of the Civil War the government again found it necessary to provide additional revenue. A general Revenue Act embodying an income tax provision was introduced and passed by the House on July 29, 1861, by a vote of seventy-seven to sixty. With a few amendments suggested by the finance committee, the Senate passed the law with the income tax section which provided for a tax of 3% on the excess over eight hundred dollars of the "annual income of every person residing in the United States or elsewhere, or from any source whatever."

Subsistence Theory

Two conclusions stand out in the passage of the first income tax law in the United States. First, the income tax grew out of the dissatisfaction of a general property tax as the only means of taxation. Second, the law was a recognition of the "minimum of subsistence theory" in exempting eight hundred dollars. This theory is a corollary of the so-called "faculty principle or ability to pay theory," the first of Adam Smith's four axioms in regard to taxes in general.

"The subjects of every state ought to contribute toward the support of the government, as nearly as possible in proportion to their respective abilities; that is, in proportion to the revenue which they respectively enjoy under the protection of the state." In other words, after the necessary amount to keep body and soul together, i. e., to exist or merely subsist, the worker should contribute to the support of the government that enables him to make this subsistence.

This figure has varied and gone as high as $4,000. Last year for a single person it was $800. For the 1942 return, it will be $750. Comparing the standard of living today with 1861, the present day exemption is but a shadow of the minimum of subsistence theory.

Acts Passed in '60's

According to the provisions of the 1861 Income Tax law, the tax was to go into effect on June 30, 1862, but as a matter of fact, the Act of 1861 was never put into force, the reason being that the revenue which would be derived was considered inefficient by the reassembled Congress to compensate for the cost of putting the law into operation. However, four other acts were passed: Acts of 1862, 1863, 1864, and 1867.

About the time the Act of 1867 was to expire there was much argument for and against its retention. Finally, it was allowed to die a natural death in 1873 because there was no longer the necessity for raising the revenue. For about twenty years thereafter, the question of taxing income was practically dormant in the political life of the times. These were years of plenty and the demand for revenue was not great.

Pollock Case Cited

In the early nineties, however, a great decline in prices became more and more marked and the prosperity of the past two decades gradually gave way to a period of depression. The accumulation of vast fortunes in the industrial and financial centers caused a breach between these classes and the agricultural class. Out of this conflict of interests, political movements sprang up which resulted in the passage of the Act of 1894, an income tax which was to begin January 1, 1895, and continue through a period of five years.

This act never became effective because it was declared unconstitutional, primarily on the grounds that it was a direct tax. The opin-

FACULTY COMMENTS
Continued on Page Four

Wildcat Whirl

By Dave Reardon

FOR the second successive week, an extended week-end was enjoyed by all with an added day to recuperate from their off-campus wanderings. Friday and Saturday night saw the inauguration of the court season in the Field House. Many of the campus gigolos attended these games, some escorting fair damsels, while others made sure that their colleagues' dates were well entertained. These games would be much more entertaining and profitable if abbreviated dances to recorded music were held following the weekend contests.

* * *

NOCTURNAL NOTES:

The Ivy Leaguers, Tom Morgan, Elk Murray, and Bill Howlett are back in social circulation. Tom has been calling signals with a New York model, Elk has been seen with Betty, his Montclair, N. J., star, and Bill was enjoying proceedings at the Warwick with a St. Mary's Hospital nurse. . . Publicity-minded Joe Connor is having a hard time deciding what to give Dolores for Christmas. . . "Gaylord" Galysh has been petitioned to dispose of his semester uniform.

At the intra-mural swimming meet, Fathers Dunn and McKee disagreed over an apparent disqualification to such an extent that it nearly reached the kindling point. . . . At the I. R. C. convention at Lehigh, Gerry Belz, Bill Schubert, Johnny Fullam, and Bob Canfield took over the Mount delegates after the St. Joe men brought the co-eds up. We understand that Gerry messed things up at dinner by spilling everything all over the place.

What goes on at these Rosemont-Villanova glee club rehearsals across the way? No one seems to know anything about them. . . Incidentally, Rosemont's "Rambler" publication will return to active circulation after a lapse.

Ziggy Zamlynski and Al Postus should be candidates for the debating team after those classy orations delivered at that football rally at S. T. M. . . One of Loring Jones' interests, Marie Louise Mansfield, had her photograph on a local picture page presenting the Mayor of the Quaker City with a pin.

* * *

CUFF NOTES:

Those Anthony y Cleopatra cigars that Johnny Sandonato was distributing were as strong as they were odorous. . . Joe Mahoney, who has recently attained his majority, has lately been escorting different girls whose average age is five years his junior.

Gal says the juniors and seniors should pay their class assessments with the money they make at Christmas season jobs, mainly in the P. O. In this way they will be assured of top-flight class socials. . . . Vince Tigani paid $38 for that special pair of hand-made shoes he totes around. . . Bud Newell is reportedly going to make an announcement concerning Betty on the 25th. . . Cozy Bill DeGrace still maintains direct connections with Bunny, his Mary Washington College, Va., co-ed.

* * *

DAFFYNITIONS:

Farmer—One who has a sense of humus.

Old Age — That which everyone should respect, particularly when it's bottled.

Elocution—The way criminals in the United States are put to death.

Porch Swing — Happiness on hooks; a contrivance whereby love-making may be suspended but by no means stopped during the summer.

* * *

NEWS NOTES:

Georgian Court College, the home of beautiful women, held its Senior Ball at the Plaza Hotel in N. Y. C. to the music of Joe Moss. Buckley and McKimmey were in attendance as usual. They spent the weekend at the Biltmore.

Ed Rabidoux is now one of the boys, having taken Rita, Rosemont's social soprano, to a show last Friday P. M. . . Bob "Cuddles" Young rushed all the way home (600 miles), just to have a date with Ann on Sunday night. . . Roy Lind apparently had a very enjoyable time with his unknown nurse friend at that dance (all expenses paid).

Meet The Boys: Buckley's Mayor Of Austin Hall; Melton Heads the Senior Ball

By ED BENNIS

OUR WEEKLY biographies begin with that "wonder kid," Buckley. Frank was born in the fair city of Philadelphia on Oct. 29, 1920. Rumor has it that he was so surprised when he was born that he didn't talk for a year, and those who know him will tell you that that is very unusual for Mrs. Buckley's son. At the early and tender age of three he moved to Lakewood, N. J., a thriving metropolis in the pine land, and has lived there ever since.

Upon attaining the age of reason, Frank attended the local grammar school and joked his way into the hearts of everyone. He then moved to Lakewood High; here it was that his talents began to take shape. He was a member of the dramatics club for four years and acted in many school plays. Our lad confesses to having participated in sports, but dramatics took up most of his time.

Having heard of and seen Villanova, he timidly entered as a freshman in '38 and commenced to make himself well known.

Frank has been an officer of the Belle Masque and has taken part in two of the society's principal productions. In "The Tavern," presented in 1940, he was Zack, the landlord's dumb son—with emphasis on the dumb. In last year's "Margin for Error," he had one of the leads as Moe Finklestein, the Jewish cop. He has also participated in the Amateur Night plays and has been a member of the Music Seminar for four years.

Young Mr. Buckley has been in the social swirl ever since his arrival on our campus; in fact, he has been in the middle of it. It is known that he has attended social affairs at every local college except Immaculata; how he missed the girl's college on the hill we'll never know. He claims his true love is Georgian Court.

This may be due to the fact that the Lakewood College is only about a mile from his house—lucky lad. Your reporter heard rumors about a certain young lass in Philly, but Frank seems rather bashful about her.

"Moe" has lived in Austin for three years and his lengthy sojourn there has earned for him the title of the "Mayor of Austin." Many fellows are beginning to come to his room to sign out, whereupon Frank has to direct them to the right room.

Getting into the more serious aspect of life, Frank is majoring in finance and hopes to go to the Harvard graduate school next fall. But he has an idea that perhaps his Uncle Sam will want him at Fort Dix come next draft registration. Whatever happens. Frank has the spirit to make a success of life and here's luck to him.

WE NOW COME to the other half of our story—Andy Melton. Our future glamour boy was ushered into this world on March 4, 1920, at Bay Shores, L. I. To listen to Andy one would think that Brooklyn is a suburb of Bay Shores — and far be it from us to doubt him.

When he became old enough to learn the three "R's," young Andrew was sent to Saint Patrick's grammar school in his home town. It was here that he met Logan "Meathead" Phillips; he has gone to school with him ever since. Graduating with high honors, Andy moved on to Bay Shores High. While at Bay Shores the true Melton began to show himself. He was on the wrestling team for four years and played football. He also was a member of the student council and participated in the school plays.

In the fall of '38 our hero ventured south to begin his college days at Villanova. He entered the C. & F. school to follow the pre-law curriculum.

Besides keeping well up in his marks, Andy has found time for many extra-curricular activities. He was treasurer of his class during his sophomore and junior years, a member of the Sophomore Cotillion and Junior Prom committees, has been in the glee club for four years, and is on the Belle Air staff.

Last year he handled the direction of a one-act play and the Amateur Night play for Father McKee — ask Father Dunne about that. To top all this Andy is handling the switchboard in Mendel Hall part of every day.

At the present time he is co-chairman of the coming Belle Air Ball. Andy claims that its going to be one of the best dances ever held at Villanova — "and that's a promise."

Like Mr. Buckley, Andy is in high standing in the social whirl. He has been around the college fair set and this fall posed for a Chestnut Hill dance poster. It is said that his picture drove many a girl to weeping and gnashing of teeth. He has more than a passing interest in Packer College in Brooklyn, a cute little trick by the name of Mary Ann. The ones who know claim that she is patiently waiting for him. Meanwhile, Andy drops over Rosemont way every now and then to squire a certain pretty sophomore.

Upon graduation in June, the younger Melton is slated to join the Marines for four years — —a handsome leatherneck. He will be stationed at the Philadelphia Navy Yard and will be in the Reserve Officers' training school. When and if he gets out of the Marines he plans to go to law school to continue his studies. But at the present time Andy isn't thinking of the marines, he's dreaming of the Belle Air Ball and of the great dance that it's to be.

In a quiet moment: Frank Buckley, left, and Andy Melton.

Villanovans Did Their Training On Campus Under Army Direction During First World War

By THOMAS C. MURASKI

WITH the entry of the United States into another world conflict, the account of the life of the average Villanova student during the last war takes on an added interest and importance.

The history of the class of '22 is the story of the school in the latter months of the War. This class was the first to register at the college for military training. Previous classes had had military training, but it was not sponsored by the U. S. Army.

On April 27, 1917, Military Training was begun as a part of the regular curriculum of the college. Training was under the direction of Sergeant-Major Hamilton; drills were held for an hour to an hour-and-a-half, four days a week. As far as can be determined, this training can be likened to the present R. O. T. C. of other colleges. In October of 1918, the Student Army Training Corps took the place of this training.

Students Became Soldiers

The S. A. T. C. was brought into being by a revision on Aug. 31, 1918, of the Selective Service Act. Registrants in the corps became soldiers in the Army of the United States and were subject to military discipline at all times. They wore the uniforms of privates and were distinguished by an olive drab cord on their service hats.

Infantry training was the general rule, except in the case of those studying technical subjects. Such students were drilled in both infantry and technical work.

Various Branches Offered

Villanova registered 274 soldiers and four sailors under the terms of the act. The college offered courses in infantry, engineering, pre-medical work, chemistry, field artillery, heavy artillery, air service, ordnance and quartermaster corps, signal corps, and motor transport and truck service. The unit was under the direction of Lieut. A. B. Scott.

The following quotation from the VILLANOVAN, then a quarterly publication, illustrates what the students thought of the set-up: "In 1918, when the only correct shade for gentlemen was khaki, '22, the 'War Babies', was born. (sic) Villanova impressed us more as a barracks than as an institution of learning. Classes and professors were only of secondary importance, a perfect was a thing beyond our conception.

Days Were Full

"Lieutenant A. B. Scott, and his staff of lieutenants, introduced us to the new word, 'Discipline', and the introduction was not a gentle one. The days were full ones, from the shivering roll-call in front of the flag pole at Reveille, to solemn taps that Bugler Lyons sounded from the bridge at night. In retrospect, it all seems wonderful, but at the time, it was quite difficult."

Although the general induction day of the S. A. T. C. was Oct. 1, the first of these classes was started Sept. 22, 1918. By Oct. 1, the flu had reached Villanova and, because of this, the induction program was curtailed.

Villanova suffered less than most colleges during this epidemic. Only three of the 173 stricken with the disease died, and one death was due to a previous illness.

Work Suspended

Nine trained nurses were employed to care for the sick during the seige. All classes and military formations were suspended because all those who were not actually sick were required for the thousand kinds of detail work necessary. One article tells us that those who were well, wished that "the flu might get us—just a little bit."

Due to the military activity and the sickness, football was suspended during the Fall of 1918, but the government rectified this condition by advising that football teams be formed in each unit of the S. A. T. C. It was during this year that Villanova had the lightest team in its history.

The day the armistice was signed the Villanova unit of the Corps paraded to Bryn Mawr, receiving spontaneous applause all along the route, and then returned to the campus to burn the Kaiser in effigy.

Corps Disbanded

Military discipline was relaxed after the Armistice. It is said that the method finally resorted to by the non-coms to arouse the students was to ring the fire bell. On Dec. 11, the S. A. T. C. was disbanded by government order.

A small, but eager, group of students returned after the Christmas holidays to make up for the time lost through military drills. They found a different place; the prefects were again the disciplinarians. Class work was intensified and a class was graduated as usual in June.

Through the efforts of Father Dean, president of the college, and Lieut. Scott, an R. O. T. C. unit supplanted this strictly governmental training. A group of about fifty men spent six weeks of summer training at Camp Lee, Va.

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the third of a series of stories on Significant Events in Villanova's History.)

Tally Ho!

By Bruno Talvacchia

Flunked in Socio, failed in Math,
They heard him softly hiss—
"I'd like to meet that guy who said,
'Ignorance is bliss'."
—Northeastern News.

* * *

Receipt of quarterly grades during the past week has prompted many similar laments among campus inhabitants. The source of this collegiate affliction, professionally termed "flunkitis," is a subject of controversy among "passological" specialists.

A distinguished member of this group gave forth his opinion, which was printed in the St. Anselm Tower, Manchester, N. H. The treatise is entitled "Why Boys Leave College":

Four boys came up to college,
To learn good men to be,
One was thought to stay out nights,
And then there were but three.

Three boys in search of knowledge,
With plenty of work to do;
One was fond of "rolling bones"—
And now there are but two.

Two boys with but a single thought—
To stay till the year was done.
One of them flunked in Latin
And all that was left was one.

One boy sad and lonely,
of Bosom friends bereft,
He soothed his grief with a can of beer,
And of four not one is left.

* * *

Wanted—A Name:

The seniors of Chestnut Hill College are sponsoring a contest for the selection of a title for the senior yearbook. Although eligibility is restricted to Chestnut Hill students, we would like to help by making a few suggestions. However, the mailing address of the college, is somewhat confused in our minds since the Fournier News lists Philadelphia on the front page and Chestnut Hill on the masthead!

* * *

Bowl Talk:

The bowl fiasco of the current year was climaxed by the promoters' snubbing of one of the nation's most powerful gridiron combinations of the season. We refer to the erstwhile Wildcat opponent and conqueror, Duquesne University. The Duquesne Duke is certainly justified in howling to the extent of its limit, editorially and otherwise. This column supports the contention that this undefeated, untied team deserved a bowl bid.

* * *

This Modern Whirl(d):

Grampa had to rent a horse to do his courting. Dad had to buy an auto. Now you have to buy an auto to take her someplace where you can rent a couple of horses.

—Westminster Holcad.

* * *

One Man's Viewpoint:

Commenting on an election to determine "Miss Auburn," a columnist in the Auburn Plainsman defines a college "Miss" election as "that time of year when a girl who wouldn't nod to you most of the time becomes a clinging vine and sees the Real You."

Postcript

To A Courtship

By JOHN M. QUINN

Between the sky and the soul
Between the geranium and the root
The earth is damp and cold
And wet winds finger the hair.
The hours are empty cups, the apple coreless.
No ticking aeons, no loose-stretched skies
Of sad sweet bliss, only the lap-swirl of
The sea-voices churning panzer columns up the sand.
I am a madman counting
The raindrops, eating
The tough grass, feeling
The soft loam-eyes oozing.
My soul is a sand-dune bracelet.
Sweet as the pop of the tight cork leaving the bottle,
Deep as the champagne glass.

I.R.C. Conference Talks Center On Japan's Policies

A delegation from the Villanova International Relations Club took part in the Middle Atlantic I. R. C. Conference at Lehigh University on Friday, Nov. 28, at which discussions centered about the Japanese problem and American solidarity.

Gerard F. Belz, president of the local club, William E. Schubert, and John P. Fullam attended the meeting in which the position of Japan and the Axis was debated.

The Land of the Rising Sun's invasion of China was condemned, as well as the methods she has employed in the attempt to satisfy her needs for raw material and additional territory.

At the meeting on American solidarity, attended by Robert T. Canfield, the methods of improving inter-American relations were discussed. The group emphasized the fact that the United States must make substantial sacrifices in order to foster confidence and good will among the Latin American nations, and viewed strengthening of economic ties through the financing of surplus commodities as necessary to hemispheric defense.

Villanova's Club will send delegates to a regional meeting of the Foreign Policy Association at Swarthmore this Saturday.

Faculty Comments

Continued From Page Two

ions of the court occupied sixty pages; the opinions of the dissenting judges, sixty-one pages. This was the famous Pollock case decided April 8, 1895. It came up for a rehearsing on May 6, 1895, and was decided May 20 by a vote of five to four.

Before further income tax could be exacted an amendment to the Constitution was necessary. Almost immediately after the ratification of the Sixteenth Amendment, Congress formulated the 1913 Income Tax Law. Since then, as every school boy knows, we have had a new act every year or two, but the last Act of 1941 will, undoubtedly, arouse the greatest interest of all, some of which will be expressed in criticism.

Taxpayer Confused

About March 15 many a taxpayer will be asking: "Why?" to a number of questions related to the high tax he is to pay; "For what?" he will say. Mr. Webster defines democracy as: "Government in which supreme power is directly exercised by the people." Perhaps a change in long-accepted terminology might leave the taxpayer a little less confused.

Down through the years tax authorities have held rather generally that the taxation of income conforms more closely to the "ability to pay theory" than other forms of taxation. Depending upon the times and the needs, changes are bound to be made from time to time. But the basic idea is economically sound and here to stay.

KEEP SUPPLIED WITH
SCHOOL TICKETS
GOOD ON BUSES AND RAIL CARS UNTIL USED
5c a Ride, including Special Free Transfers. Obtain Identification Cards at School Office.
RED ARROW LINES
Philadelphia Suburban Transportation Co.
Aronimink Transportation Co.

For Expert Convenient Attention
SERVICE IS OUR FIRST THOUGHT
Patronize
THE CAMPUS BARBER SHOP
· First Class Work ·
· Popular Prices ·

Briefs On The News

Glee Club Sings at Defense Show; No Honor Rolls This Quarter; "Alumnus" Out Dec. 15

Copies of the winter issue of the "Alumnus," quarterly publication of the Alumni Association, are in the last stages of preparation and will be in the mail on Dec. 15. Delay in the appearance of the forthcoming issue was caused by certain mechanical difficulties.

According to the deans of the four schools, no quarterly honor rolls will be released this quarter.

Villanova's Choral Society joined forces with other Eastern Pennsylvania college glee clubs to form a group of 600 voices and sang at the Unity Day Rally, climax of Philadelphia's Defense Week, last Saturday evening in Convention Hall.

Dr. Matthews, noted American composer, conducted the chorus in a rendition of his own musical composition, "The Voice of America." The students were guests at a dinner preceding the rendition and at an informal dance after it.

All phases of national defense were highlighted during the week in Philadelphia; featured on Saturday's program were several nationally-known spearers who based their addresses on the theme of the evening, "Civilian Defense Is Self-Defense."

At the weekly meeting of the Research Seminar held last Thursday afternoon in Simpson Hall, Jerry Bencivenga, freshman science student, presented a discussion of the topic, "Internal Worms and How They Affect the Human System."

Bencivenga described the general characteristics of the worms and mentioned the kinds of diseases, especially of the intestine, that they create. He also described the environment of the various worms and of the type of people that contact the maladies. Various types of precautions against the diseases were given

Senior members of the local branch of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers and their honorary chairman, Kenneth L. Moser, assistant professor on the engineering faculty, attended the annual meeting of the society in New York City last Wednesday, Dec. 3.

Students attending were Vincent J. Gordon, chairman of the group; Thomas J. DeSipin, Joseph P. Gill, Edmund J. Hagan, Thomas M. Hushen, Arthur Koerner, Henry G. Martinez, Joseph McMahon and Thomas A. Shallow.

Presentation of three of Arch Oboler's plays by the Radio Club will take place shortly after the return from the Christmas Holidays.

Casts for the dramas have been selected and weekly practices are currently being held in Simpson Hall. "Mr. Ginsburg," a character study, "The Man to Hate," an anti-Nazi play, and "I Do," a light comedy, are the three to be given over a loudspeaker in the Amphitheatre.

L. K. D. elections for a president and Student Council representative have been postponed; no definite date for voting has been set.

Graduate Study Aids At Fordham Open

The Fordham University Graduate School of Arts and Sciences has announced that twenty-two assistantships and twenty scholarships are available to Villanova seniors who will receive their degree in June.

The assistantships, valued from $275 to $900, are offered in the departments of biology, chemistry, classics, English, history, philosophy, physics, political philosophy and social sciences, psychology, and Romance languages.

Scholarships, granting exemption fom tuition fees, are available in the following fields of study, classics, English, history, mathematics, philosophy, political philosophy and social sciences, psychology, and Romance languages.

Application forms and further information may be obtained from the Dean of the Graduate School of Arts and Sciences, Fordham University, New York City. Applications, together with all credentials, must be filed before March 1, 1942.

The Lamp Post Inn
Luncheon and Dinners
Strafford, Pa.

George Fein & Co.
Printer & Publishers
2116 to 2130 Arch St.
PHILADELPHIA, PA.
RITtenhouse 6983

Sun Cleaners and
Dyers

Meet Your Friends
AT THE GREEKS
We Serve Lunches
Superior Soda Service
Delicious Dinners

Have You Talked to
RENO WHITE?
NO? Then you'd better see him today. He'll tell you how to ship your baggage home and return—right from your dorm rooms, and save your cash by doing it. Call Reno at Fedigan 2539.
RAILWAY EXPRESS AGENCY INC.
NATION-WIDE RAIL-AIR SERVICE

Seniors Autograph

Individual photographs which are to appear in the senior section of the Belle Air will be autographed, the editorial board of the annual publication announced today.

Autographed photographs were last used in the 1939 issue of the Belle Air; the practice was discontinued during the past two years. The decision to have the seniors sign their pictures was reached because of the difficulty which those not immediately connected with the members of the graduating class often experienced in associating senior biographies with the proper picture. The editors also believe that the signatures will add a more personal note to the book.

Keep Abreast Of Events

Tuesday, Dec. 9—
VILLANOVAN Staff Meeting	1:00 P.M.
A. S. C. E. Meeting	1:00 P.M.
International Relations Club	2:30 P.M.
Wednesday, Dec. 10—
Day-Hop Music Seminar	12:30 P.M.
Amateur Night	7:45 P.M.
Thursday, Dec. 11—
Science Forum	10:45 A.M.
Delta Pi Epsilon	11:45 A.M.
Beta Gamma	1:00 P.M.
History Seminar	3:30 P.M.
Research Seminar	4:30 P.M.
Friday, Dec. 12—
Varsity Basketball: Villanova vs. Siena College (at Albany, N. Y.)	8:00 P.M.
Spanish Club Affair	8:30 P.M.
Sunday, Dec. 14—
Varsity Basketball: Villanova vs. Niagara U. (at Niagara Falls, N. Y.)	8:00 P.M.
Scheduled Villanova-Rosemont Concert Postponed.
Monday, Dec. 15—
Epsilon Phi Theta	1:00 P.M.
Radio Club	2:30 P.M.
Varsity Debate: Villanova vs. Rosemont (at Rosemont)	4:00 P.M.

Four New Books Now Available

Four books, including three novels and a biography, were added to the list of the works available to the members of the Book Club during the past week.

"All the Day Long," written by David Sargent, is the life story of Bishop James A. Walsh, co-founder of Maryknoll. The author describes the "human and lovable character" of the man whose tangible results have made his life so remarkable.

Among the novels is "Botany Bay," by Charles Nordhoff and James Norman Hall. Its plot is based on the experiences of Hugh Tallant and is concerned with the story of the penal colony which was Australia's first settlement in the late eighteenth century.

The other two books are "Windswept," by Mary Ellen Chase, and "The Amazing Summer," by Philip Gibbs.

Chem. Students Visit Industries Exposition

Approximately thirty seniors and juniors from the chemical engineering and chemistry departments of the college went to New York last Friday to attend the Eighteenth Exposition of the Chemical Industries, which was held this year at Grand Central Palace from Dec. 1 to 6.

The exposition, which featured demonstrations of various new chemical methods and apparatus that have been developed, was sponsored by the leading chemical concerns of the nation. Each company had its own booths, demonstrators, and salesmen. Dr. W. T. Read, of Rutgers University, delivered a brief address on Friday afternoon, pointing out the features and highlights of the show.

Rev. Edward F. Jenkins, O. S. A., Dr. Edward L. Haenisch, and Harry J. Blumenfeld, M. S., accompanied the student group.

BE POPULAR!
These Arthur Murray Dance Studios Offer
Special Holiday Rates to Students
• Guarantee yourself the best holiday of your life by brushing up on your dancing as soon as you come home from school! You'll enjoy learning the latest Rumba and Fox Trot. In just a few hours you'll surprise your partners with the thrilling new steps. Gain poise and confidence. Call at the Studios and ask about special rates for college students. Don't wait until the last minute.
ARTHUR MURRAY
BOSTON . . . 294 Boylston St.
CHICAGO . Hotel Drake & 57 E. Jackson
CLEVELAND . . . Hotel Statler
DETROIT . . . Hotel Statler
EAST ORANGE . . 44 Brick Church Plaza
MILWAUKEE . . . Hotel Astor
MINNEAPOLIS . . . Hotel Nicollet
NEW YORK . 11 E. 43rd St. & 695 5th Ave.
PHILADELPHIA . . . 1518 Walnut St.
PITTSBURGH . . . Hotel William Penn
ST. LOUIS . . . 7742 Forsythe Blvd.
WASHINGTON, D. C., 1101 Conn. Ave. N.W.

Pause ...
Go refreshed
Coca-Cola
5¢

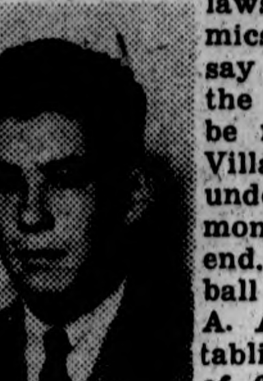
BOTTLED UNDER AUTHORITY OF THE COCA-COLA COMPANY BY
THE PHILADELPHIA COCA-COLA BOTTLING CO.

VILLANOVAN SPORTS

Sportorial

By Bob Funabashi
Sports Editor

IT must be the higher costs of living which prompted the athletic board to charge such an extreme rate to see Villanova play basketball at the Field House. Only if, and that's a big "if", Villanova can continue to keep winning despite the St. Francis defeat will attendance figures cope with the price paid to bring teams to the gym.



For the past several years the price seems to be mounting and laws of economics clearly say that soon the ceiling will be reached and Villanova will undoubtedly lose money in the end. For football games the A. A. board established a price of 60 cents for the lowest seats in Shibe Park and now for basketball games the board charges 85 cents to see the Wildcats perform. To ask any sport enthusiast which he would rather see, the probable answer would be a football game. And why not? The teams brought in are much more publicized and football is a natural drawing card anywhere. Meanwhile basketball at its best must be made to struggle through on a bare existence, yet this should not be the reason to charge such a price as 85 cents.

Someone said that regardless of this high price Villanova is not losing her "old crowd"; that may be true but still the old stand-bys will not make basketball a profitable sport. Why not get out and get some new faces at the Field House? The only answer which we can see is to lower the price and thus increase the attendance. The games we play here this year demand that Villanova play before larger crowds, but at that price people are hard to budge.

—V—

Once upon a time freshmen football players used to sport numerals to show that they were members

SPORTORIAL
Continued on Page Six

St. Francis Tops 'Cats In Overtime

Friday night saw the formal opening of the '41-'42 hoop season. This year's squad, with the sophomore element predominant, was introduced individually, with the spotlighting and fanfare that made Barnum famous. They got a real send-off, and lived up to it. They licked Loyola, 56-33, and lost a close one to St. Francis', 44-42.

Loyola drew first blood with a foul shot, increased this score to 2 and, after fifteen minutes of play, sank their first field goal. Meanwhile, Captain Dick Gray, Woods, Kelty, and Klotz to Drizin were functioning with versatility and rapidity for the Alma Mater. The first half ended with the Blue and White out in front, 25-14.

The second half was much the same story. Loyola did not get within nine points of Villanova for the entire period, and the game ended, 56-35.

After this conquest, the boys went to bed, the field house court was re-waxed, and the student body waited for the St. Francis' tilt of Saturday night.

The minute the opening whistle sounded, bedlam broke loose. There were arguments, scuffles, and above all, a teriffic amount of good basketball. The regular game ended in a 37-37 deadlock. In the extra period, the 'Cats suffered heartbreak when they were nosed out of a win to the tune of 44-42.

In the course of the fray, Gray sustained a bad eye and, thus hampered, missed a free throw awarded him. The praise of the boys who played Saturday's game cannot be anything but overwhelming. Klotz to Drizin, Woods, Kelty, Gray, Gerland, Lord, and Melafchik, all played wonderful basketball, and were deprived of a victory only because of the breaks of the game. For a while it seemed that the game was in the proverbial, but the Terriers came through, and more credit is due them.

From the looks of the boys in these first two games, Coach Severance has another of his fine teams. Height is definitely lacking, but it seems to make little difference; what the boys lack in size, they make up in fight and ability. They should have a bang-up season.

A flurry of action as a Loyola player makes an unsuccessful attempt to wrest the ball from Villanova's Billy Woods during the second half of last Friday night's game which comprised the initial test for the 1941 Wildcat aggregation. Meanwhile, Bob Kelty stands by to offer his assistance and two Loyola players look on. Villanova emerged victorious, 56-35.

Pupil To Coach, Moore New Head

Athletic Board Selects Former Varsity Swimmer; Co-Captains Are Maher and Koness

Thomas J. Moore was named coach of the Villanova swimming team for 1942 by the Athletic board at a meeting last week. From pupil to coach in one year is a big jump, but Moore has accomplished it.

Moore, graduate of the Arts School last June, is enrolled in the University of Penn Law School at present. He was an outstanding figure for four years at Villanova in many activities, and was on the swimming team for four years, chiefly as a breaststroker.

At the first meeting called by Moore last Thursday, elections for a captain were held. The result was the choosing of co-captains John Maher and Bob Koness. Maher, senior in the Arts School, has been the mainstay at backstroke for the past two years, while Koness, Accounting Senior, has been a regular sprinter for two seasons.

Both From New York

Both boys are from New York State. Koness hails from Wantaugh, Long Island, where he attended Hempstead High. Maher lives in Brooklyn but went to Upper Darby High in Upper Darby, Pa.

At the meeting on Thursday, the new coach made plans for organized practices which started last Friday. The varsity had been practicing on their own for the past three weeks. The young mentor stressed the need of practice. "We

SWIMMING
Continued on Page Six

Jacobs High Man In Weekly Grid Poll

During the past football season we've brought you the opinions of our own board of experts as to what was likely to happen on the country's leading gridirons. Our experts showed themselves to be fallible to a certain extent, but the record of the season shows that they were right twice as often as they were wrong. Their judgment was quite sound as week after week they put themselves out on a limb with prognostications.

Number one game-picker was Doc Jacobs, who batted .705. There was a four way tie for number two position, Clipper Smith, Fred Clark, Jim Haughton and Steve Aisenbrey each having an average of .658. Bob Funabashi and Doc Whelan tied for third place with .630 apiece. Vince McNally came in fourth in the guessers' parade, and "Longshot Tom" Doyle last, having .616 and .600 respectively

Tomasic And Three Others Repeat As All-Opponents

Cheatham, DeMao and Russell Honored Again; Bernie Bierman, Minnesota Coach, Chosen as "Coach of the Year"

Andy Tomasic of Temple, Lloyd Cheatham of Auburn, Al Demao of Duquense and Jack Russell of Baylor were named the outstanding opponents for the second year in a row in a poll conducted by the VILLANOVAN among the members of varsity football team. This quartet of "grid threats" in the books of the Villanova players were the only repeaters on the 1941 All-Opponent team. In addition, Bernie Bierman of Minnesota was named as the "outstanding coach of the year" by the players.

Along with those stalwarts, seven other "trouble-makers" of high ability were listed. Completing the backfield with Tomasic and Cheatham were Milt Crain of Baylor and Monk Gafford of Auburn. The line shows Russell and John Rokisky of Duquesne at the end posts, Sal Marone of Manhattan and Odell Griffin of Baylor at the guard slots, Jim Hull of Florida and Bubo Barnett at the tackle positions and DeMao at the pivot spot.

Tomasic Tops Votes

This is the team of outstanding men who probably could be an All-American team if assembled under one head. The backs have everything a coach could ask for. Tomasic for the second straight year was the main reason for Villanova's two defeats at the hands of the Owls. In fact, every team he played against he was selected on the All-Opponent team. Temple never had a greater back with so much ability like Tomasic's. In every department he was the shining light and, therefore, he was given the left-halfback position. By rights, Tomasic can be considered the best man on the squad for he polled more votes than any of the other players selected.

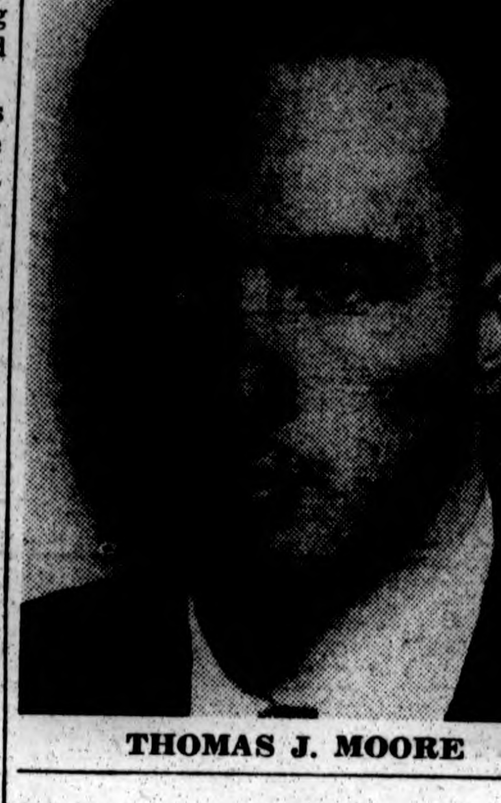
Another repeater, Cheatham was put in the blocking back post and how this boy performed his job! For two years Villanova met defeat at the hands of Auburn and half that credit goes to Cheatham. A brainy quarterback and a bruising blocker he can well be regarded in earning his honors. His running mate would be Monk Gafford, 165 lbs. of dynamite, who took top honors in the 'Cats last game against Auburn. Gafford personally accounted for more yardage than Villanova did in the entire game. Behind Cheatham's blocking, Gafford could run anywhere and everywhere. His two touchdowns beat the 'Cats.

Crain Like a Train

The main cog in Baylor's backfield was Milt Crain, a big 202 pound lad from the southwest who sup-

ALL-OPPONENT
Continued on Page Seven

Tank Coach



THOMAS J. MOORE

Honors Pile Up On Capt. Korisky

"Most valuable player award for 1941" is the inscription on the watch given to Captain Ed Korisky for his valuable play on the football team. This honor along with numerous others keep Ed a busy man these days. The watch was presented to him by the Blue and White Club of Philadelphia at the annual banquet last week and since then honors have piled up on the varsity center.

After season Koriskey was chosen by his mates as their honorary captain for the past campaign. Then came the honor of being chosen on the Associated Press's All-State team where he was placed at the guard position. After that, the A. P. news bureau made him a member of the All-East team. He was selected over Al Demao of Duquesne. The New York Sun listed him as honorable mention, All-American among the outstanding stars of the gridiron.

Since several more All-Star teams have yet to make their appearance Korisky is likely candidate for further honors. It is more than likely that he will be named center on the All-Philadelphia team selected by the sports writers in the Quaker City. Besides all this, Ed will be playing a lot of center in the North-South game on Dec. 27.

'Cats Head North To Meet Niagara, Siena and Colgate

Team on First Road Trip Will Play Three Games in Five Days; Eagles Rate Strongly

By FRED CLARK

This Thursday morning the varsity basketball quintet will head for the uppermost regions of New York State where it will engage in three contests in five days before returning to the home court for its meeting with Washington College on Dec. 18.

This trip is the longest of the season for the Villanova squad and after its conclusion Coach Al Severance and Wildcat basketball adherents should have some standard by which to compare this year's team with those of seasons gone by and also be able to pick out its weak and strong points.

Albany, the state capital, will be the scene of the first encounter with Siena College on Friday evening. Practically an unknown in college basketball circles a few years ago because the college was founded only five years back, Siena has built up and taken huge strides toward renown in the past two seasons.

Coached "Wonder Five"

Hopes are especially high for the Loudonville team this year not only because of the calibre of the material on hand but also because of the acquisition of a new coach—Dan Cunha. Cunha was the mentor of the Vincentian Institute's "Wonder Five" three years ago when that team won 29 of 30 games and captured the Eastern States Tourney.

The Siena five is similar to Villanova in two respects — it has three sophomores in the starting lineup and it must depend on speed and deception rather than size. The two forwards, Dick Bednarkiewicz and Vic Mastriani, possess an average height of only 5' 6, while guards Howard Tucker and Bill Wolven stand 5' 5 and 5' 11 respectively. Bill Magin at the center slot is the only six-footer in the starting five.

Siena Has a "Yund"

One name on the Siena roster which has a familiar ring to Wildcat fans is that of Yund. This one is Ted and he is the brother of Chuck who was a mainstay on Villanova quintets of the past three seasons.

The second contest of the trip will see the Wildcats journeying to Buffalo to engage the Purple Eagles of Niagara University on Sunday. Niagara bowed to the 'Cats last year here at Villanova but later on in the season pulled one of the court upsets of the year when they defeated C. C. N. Y., a team which rated with the best in the nation.

Coach John "Taps" Gallagher has a veteran crew returning which possesses plenty of scoring power as shown by their 54 to 36 romp over Waynesburg last week. Coach Gallagher will probably call on Jim Sheridan and Frank Gasparovic at forward berths, Nick Grunzweig at center, and Jim McGuire and Matt Fulham to fill the guard posts. McGuire led the Purple Eagles in scoring last year and is a junior.

Touch Footballers Meet In Play-Offs

Winding up the first regular season of the Grapefruit Touch Football League, we find ties for both the first and the third places. In view of this fact, Joe Gill, the chairman of the league, has decided upon a playoff among these teams who are in each of the two-way deadlocks.

Amassing a total of eighty-two points, the Quakers, a vastly improved C. & F. team, finished their schedule in a tie with the Eagles, both teams having won four and lost one, to have a net total of eight points each. In third place, with a net total of seven points, were the Americans and Seals, each team having had three victories, a loss, and a tie.

In the semi-final round of the playoffs, the Quakers are pitted against the Americans, while the Eagles tackle the Seals. Although they are favorites in their semi-final tests, the Eagles and Quakers will have no easy path to the final. Given another crack at their first place rivals the two-third place clubs will not yield easily. To attempt to pick the winner now, therefore, is quite a task, but the champion will be determined by Friday of this week.

Gridders Feted At 20th Banquet

Clipper Serves Notice That Practice Will Get Under Way Earlier

The twentieth annual football dinner given by the Blue and White Club of Philadelphia was held last Tuesday evening at the Penn Athletic Club with Captain Ed Korisky receiving the "most valuable player award." Presenting the award to Korisky was Tom Casper, '40, head coach of Roman Catholic High in Philadelphia, who praised Villanova's great center for his yeoman work in every game.

Commenting upon Villanova's poor season, head coach Clipper Smith said, "We worked with a tireless squad of boys who were always trying but our season next year will be much brighter than the one which we have undergone."

Auburn Wants Two Games

Clipper also served notice that spring practice will get under way earlier next year and he hoped that there would be a marked improvement. The large crowd which attended were disappointed in not hearing of the new schedule, for it has been the custom to announce the future plans at the annual banquet but both Clipper and Vince have been making negotiations for a fine schedule. It was commented by Clipper that Auburn would like to play Villanova two games next year, one in October at Philadelphia and the other in December at Alabama, but Smith declined to say if he would accept such a plan.

Among the honored guests was Colonel Arthur H. Foran, who attended Villanova in 1899, and told of his experiences when he was a student.

Other notables included: Very Rev. Joseph Hickey, O. S. A., and the Very Rev. John T. Sheehan, O. S. A., Very Rev. Francis X. McGuire, Vice-President of Villanova and moderator of athletics; John Keffer, president of the general Alumni; and John J. Crowley, president of the Villanova club of Philadelphia.

These Five Were Best

Mainly because of the two Hin brothers, Austin repeated in the swimming championships. Fr. McKee, moderator, stands proudly behind (l.r.) Leo Hin, Tom Dolan, Bill Swan, Pete Hin and Bob Schappert, as the Austinites give their best poses.

Sportorial

Continued From Page Five

of the team and that they had rightfully earned them by their consistent practice sessions from September to December. Evidently that policy has gone astray and at the same time Villanova's freshmen athletes have probably formed the opinion that Villanova doesn't seem to care about her future sportsmen. Every other college in this vicinity can point to the fact that their frosh athletes display numerals or letters indicating that they reward their workers.

Freshmen may be naive and not know the score as some people have them think but a boy who has come to college realistically prizes his honors in school, whether they be scholastic or athletic.

Swimming

Continued From Page Five

are going to work hard and long," he said, "but not so that swimming will become a drudgery. We are going to get fun out of our workouts." Moore also mentioned the idea of putting up a prize to be given at the end of the season to the swimmer who has shown the most effort and interest in the practices.

Present at the meeting were the new co-captains, the other members of last year's squad including Tom Lyons, Frank Desmond, Ed Riley, Jake Mauch, John Green and several new members.

New candidates are invited to come out to the practices which started Friday. Several swimmers showed up well in the Intramural last week and Coach Moore has his eye on them.

Brother Act Carries Austin Hall To Second Sweep In I-M Swimming

The Firemen of Austin Hall were quite at home in the college pool last Wednesday night when they successfully defended their Intramural swimming crown. In winning the title for the second straight year Austin compiled 25 points. Fedigan, their strongest rivals finished second with 16, while C & F and Mendel commuters tied for third with 8 apiece. Mendel Residents were fourth with 5 and Alumni trailed with 1 marker.

Austin won three of the seven events chiefly through the efforts of the Hin brothers, Pete and Leo, and Tom Dolan. Leo won the breaststroke and swam on Austin's two winning relay teams. Pete swam on both relays and also placed second in the backstroke event, while Dolan took seconds in the 50 and 100 freestyles and anchored the freestyle relay.

The outstanding performer of the evening was Fedigan's Bill Naylor. Naylor accounted for the Gigolos' two first places, winning the 50 and 100 freestyles in 26.2 and 1.04 respectively. both very good times.

A fine exhibition was given in the diving by stocky Bill Steiert, Mendel Day Hop freshman. Steiert, last year's Interscholastics champ, was far ahead of Jack Dwyer and Bob Moore.

The other first place was taken by George Brinjac, Mendel Resident who just nosed out Austin's Pete Hin by one-tenth of a second.

Summaries

50 yard freestyle: 1. Naylor, Fedigan; 2. Dolan, Austin; 3. Schappert, Austin. Time 26.2 seconds.

50 yard breaststroke: 1. Leo Hin, Austin; 2. Carbine, Mendel D. S.; 3. Haley, C & F. Time 33.6 seconds.

50 yard backstroke: 1. Brinjac, Mendel Res.; 2. Pete Hin, Austin; 3. McGovern, Alumni. 37.5 seconds.

100 yard freestyle: 1. Naylor, Fedigan; 2. Dolan, Austin; 3. Moore, Fedigan. Time 1.04.

Diving: 1. Steiert, Mendel D. S.; 2. Dwyer, C & F; 3. Moore, Fedigan.

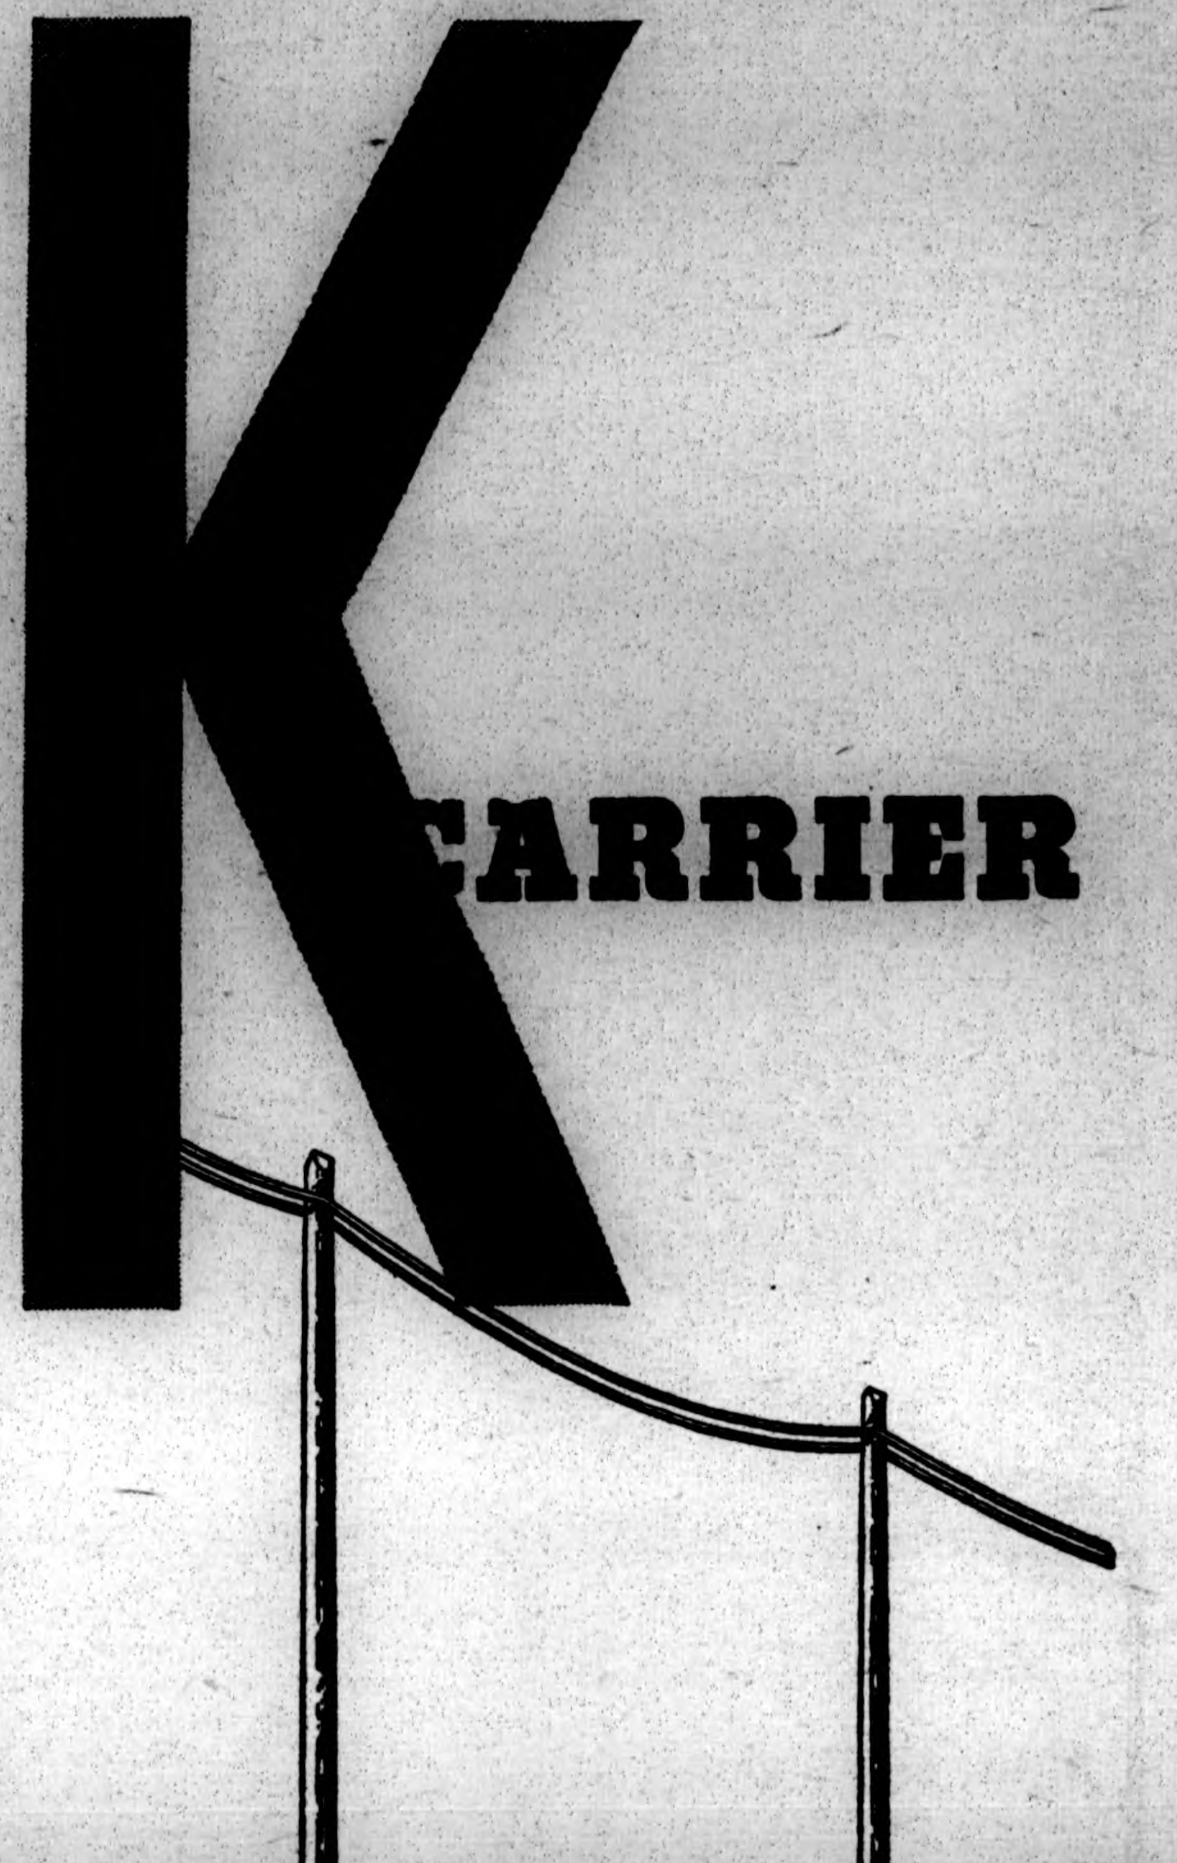
Medley Relay: 1. Austin, (Pete Hin, Leo Hin, Schappert); 2. C & F; 3. Fedigan.

Freestyle Relay: 1. Austin, (Pete Hin, Leo Hin, Labor, Dolan); 2. Fedigan; 3. C & F.

Harriers Prepare For Coming Meets

Practices for the next indoor meet continue daily by the members of the varsity track team. Coach Jumbo Elliott is priming his runners for their first indoor meet at the Boston Garden on January 10. This meet will be sponsored by the Veterans of Foreign Wars. The following week Elliott's runners might compete in the K. of C. meet in Boston.

From now until the holidays the harriers will keep up their rigid paces and the day following Christmas the team will assemble again to practice twice a day under his careful training.



YOU may never have heard of a K carrier circuit, but it has often heard you.

It's a Bell Telephone Laboratories development by which two pairs of wires in parallel cables can carry as many as twelve separate conversations at the same time!

K carrier circuits are being built into many miles of Long Distance cables. This is one of the ways we have of adding a lot of long circuits in a hurry to meet the needs of national defense.

BROOKLINE COUNTRY CLUB

Dancing Every Thursday to America's Top Name Bands

Saturday - Dec. 13

Will Osborne

In Person, and His Orchestra

Admission: $1.00 plus tax

Phone: Hilltop 1600

Loren Murchison & Co., Inc.

S. W. Hampson, Rep.

Jeweler for Standard College Rings Fraternity Pins Keys & Medals

MR. S. W. HAMPSON,
Company Representative
6832 Crittenden St., Mt. Airy, Pa.
Phone: VICtor 3773

The Bryn Mawr Trust Company

BRYN MAWR, PENNA.

Every Banking Facility

Member Federal Deposit Insurance Corp.

Have you a "College Special"

For Your Trip Home at Christmas

Even if you don't have a return portion of a College Special Reduced Fare ticket . . . you can go home by train on a definite schedule, safely and economically. Fares are low!

HERE'S HOW YOU, TOO, CAN TRAVEL ON "COLLEGE SPECIAL"

REDUCED ROUND TRIP FARES

Students and teachers travel from and to their homes at great savings on these College Special tickets. To make this saving, all you have to do is purchase one from your hometown railroad ticket agent before returning from the Christmas holidays. The cost is amazingly low—liberal return limits fit your school program—you can make stop-overs, too! There are reduced round trip Pullman rates, also. When Spring holidays come you can use the return coupon to travel home again or use it at close of school.

IMPORTANT—It is expected that on account of a heavy volume of Military furlough travel, as well as civilian holiday traffic, passenger travel during the forthcoming Christmas-New Year's Holiday period will be extremely heavy this year. If it can possibly be arranged for students to leave school December 17th or before and return to school January 7th or later, it is urged they do so. It will also be found easier to make reservations and more comfortable to travel on or before December 17, 1941, and on or after January 7, 1942.

Be Thrifty—with Safety—Travel by Train

ASSOCIATED EASTERN RAILROADS

CONESTOGA
★ ★ ★ MILL
County Line & Conestoga Rd.
Bryn Mawr

FULL COURSE DINNERS

DANCING

Every Evening

I-M Court Teams Seek New Punch To Fight Mendel

The Intramural Basketball League will open again after the Christmas vacation. The first game will be played on January 6 between the league champions, the Mendel Day Hops, and the C & F Day Hops. The sharp shooting Mendel Commuters will have a more difficult time winning the championship for the second half than they had for the first, since other teams are definitely out to end their undefeated string of games and to eliminate the Mendelites from any chance of taking the final championship without a play-off.

Among the leading contenders will be the much under-estimated C & F Day Hops who went great guns after loosing their first three games. The Businessmen have two of the leading scorers in the league besides two of the most experienced men, in Jim Meehan and Jim Buxeda.

Austin Should Be Improved

Another contender for the crown will be second place Austin Hall which started out in great style but folded up when the Mendelites were putting on the pressure. Father McKee is planning on his team having that extra punch, that will enable them to overcome the endless march of the first half champions.

Fedigan Hall also intends on being in the play-offs at the end of the season and if the Gigoloes pull together and get out for all the games, they should be able to make the going very difficult for the Day Hops, C & F and Austin.

As for the Alumni, they certainly should be able to play a few exceptional games like the one in which they handed Mendel Day Students the only defeat of their season, and by this pull themselves up a little higher on the win column. Alumni has the tallest team in the league but the frosh are too inexperienced to win over the smooth-working upperclass teams.

Frosh Need Experience

Mendel Hall ended up in the cellar of the league due to the smallness of their team and also to their inexperience. These men have never played together before and it is very difficult to click. The Penthousers may be able to win more than one game as they have a pretty good club but will have to play a lot better ball than they did in the first half.

When it all boils down, the outlook for the second half will definitely be that a much better grade of basketball will be played and the games will be fought much harder. This will be the last chance for the other five teams to get in the final play-offs with the first half champions, the Mendel Commuters.

To Honor 150 lb. Player

This afternoon ,members of the Athletic board will meet and select the outstanding member of the 150 lb. team, for the past season. The announcement of the most valuable player will be made public, most likely in the next issue of the VILLANOVAN.

Behot Best Remembered For His 80-Yard Run To Beat Arkansas

Joe Behot, genial co-occupant of a second floor room in Fedigan Hall invited us to join the bull session that was raging at that moment in his room. As best we could with such experienced orators as Joe himself and his roommate, Bob O'Conner, we steered the conversation towards the life of this Burlington, N. J., senior.

Behot prepped at Bordentown Military Institute prior to his entrance into Villanova. At B. M. I. Joe was quarterback on the first team. Incidentally every member of that first eleven has gone on to college to win varsity honors. A surprising note is that he was used strictly in a blocking role in those days. In addition to his football prowess Joe won top scholastic honors at the Institute.

As a freshman at Villanova, Joe was placed at left halfback. This was the first time in his football career that he was given an opportunity to carry the ball. As the records later showed, this move was a wise one—Joe led his team in scoring.

Meeting an Old Teammate

Frequently during his sophomore year, Joe broke loose for thrilling runs. In the Muhlenberg game he raced forty yards before he was hauled to earth on the three yard line. Scrambling to his feet he found his tackler was a former teammate from Bordentown. His feat in the Arkansas game will long be remembered. An eighty yard dash for a touchdown gave Villanova a 7-0 victory.

In search of a good quarterback, Clipper Smith moved Joe back to that position in his junior year. During the past season he held down the first string signal-caller spot.

The Behot of the classroom is the same Behot of the gridiron. A quiet hard working fellow has made a good record scholastically. Joe majors in Social Studies in the School of Education.

Each summer he finds work in a North Jersey wire mill near his home. Speaking of home Joe spends as many weekends as possible in Burlington. He is also a frequent visitor to Haddonfield so he can be with Billie.

Praises Crain of Baylor

While we had Joe on the topic of his football days at Villanova, we learned that the toughest opposing player he faced this past season was Milt Crain, Baylor's bruising fullback. Joe credits Villanova with the collapse of Baylor against Texas A. & M. the week after their game here.

What time he spends off the campus about these parts is spent in the company of Bob O'Conner. Joe has come to value Bob's friendship highly. Bob was invaluable in bringing to the surface little sidelights on Joe that the more reticent senior would not have disclosed. It was O'Conner who informed us that Joe had made the second team of the United Press's All Eastern Pennsylvania selections.

When he receives his diploma in June, Joe will report to Uncle Sam to do his part in the National Defense. With the uncertainty that lurks in the future, Joe's plans have become more or less indefinite. From our association with this affable senior we feel that he will do justice to any undertaking he attempts.

All-Opponent

Continued From Page Five

plied plenty of power in those driving legs. He hit on all cylinders against the 'Cats in Shibe Park and averaged well over seven yards in each try. It was no stopping Crain that night.

That all-important center spot was awarded to Demao of Duquesne, who, by the way, collected several other prominent awards by leading sports writers. This All-American center played the best offensive and defensive ball against the 'Cats all year. Villanova's line play was completely stopped by this big center and statistics which show Villanova with only one first down can be accredited to Demao's superb play at center.

The two wingmen chosen, rightfully deserve such an honor. Russell and Rokisky were men who spent a lot of time in Villanova's backfield. Both are expert pass receivers and rated highly in their respective districts. Well over 200 lbs. these two ends operated in high gear at all times.

Hull of Florida and Barnett of Baylor get the nod at the tackle positions. When it came to carrying out a play through their part of the line, these two bruising tackles usually performed their assignments without missing. On the defense Villanova never came across a better pair of charging linemen.

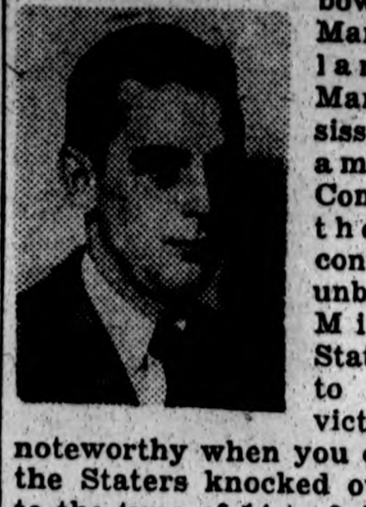
The fourth Baylor man to receive honors was Odell Griffin who along with Sal Marone of Manhattan was named as the outstanding guard. Both were singled out as the best in their department.

Coach of the year was awarded to that popular gentleman of the gridiron, Bernie Bierman of Minnesota. As the mentor of the Gophers, Bierman showed the finest job of coaching throughout the land by leading the Big Ten team to their second national championship.

HERE AND THERE

By FRED CLARK

DUQUESNE University, one of the four major unbeaten college football teams in the country during 1941, was dished out of a bowl. This may sound like a culinary essay, but it expresses the position of the Pittsburgh school after the choices for the various post-season extravaganzas were announced by the authorities in charge. The Pittsburgh powerhouse was dished out of a bowl bid.



The Dukes ran roughshod through an eight-game schedule, bowling over Marquette, Villanova, St. Mary's, and Mississippi State among others. Coming up to the Duquesne contest with an unbeaten record, Mississippi State bowed, 16 to 0, but this victory is more noteworthy when you consider that the Staters knocked over Alabama to the tune of 14 to 0. Yet Alabama received a bid to one of the New Year's Day skirmishes while the authorities at Duquesne sat hopefully but in vain by their telephones awaiting the all-important call that would bring with it the honor and recognition due to their great eleven.

Comparative Scores Inaccurate

It has been proven that comparative scores are not always accurate in comparing the potential strength of two gridiron teams. As a matter of fact, a prominent radio sports announcer figured out by comparative scores that Sterling College (location unknown), was only three points worse than Minnesota and, therefore, should be chosen for the Rose Bowl game since the Gophers were the top team in the country but turned a cold shoulder to all post-season encounters.

However, comparative scores are the only means we have of judging the strength of two clubs who have not come in contact with each other and we must place some faith in them. On this basis, then, of the scores metnioned above, Duquesne is 30 points better than Alabama. Take it for what it is worth.

Of the eight teams chosen for the four major Bowls only one, Duke University, was the owner of an unblemished record for the season. Each of the other seven suffered at least one defeat during a season replete with upsets.

Various reasons have been advanced for this snubbing of the Dukes but none of these seem to hold water. One theory is that Duquesne's schedule is not sufficiently big-time to warrant a bowl bid. If that is the case, we would like to know on what basis Duke was handed the Rose Bowl assignment. Except for Tennessee and possibly Colgate, the Blue Devils' schedule was a succession of breathers. Four of the schools which Duke met on the gridiron this year, Wake Forest, Pittsburgh, Georgia Tech, and North Carolina, may have had top-notch elevens in years gone by, but that is not the case this year.

—V—

In the excitement of one of the most thrilling basketball contests ever played in the Villanova Field House last Saturday evening between the Wildcats and the Terriers of St. Francis' College (Brooklyn), one element seemed to be lacking. There were no Villanova cheer-leaders present and, hence, no organized cheering.

How About a Cheer?

This lack of cheering on our part was brought to the fore by the fact that some of the St. Francis student body traveled all the way from New York to see the game and as a group made their presence known by the ample use of their vocal chords.

The amazing comeback by the fighting quintet from Brooklyn in overcoming a five point deficit in the last few minutes of play and then going on to win in an overtime period may not be attributable to this cause — but then again it may. At any rate, we believe it would be a wise policy to have cheer-leaders present at all of our home games to organize the cheering. How about it, you cheer-leaders?

On The Local Screens

ARDMORE THEATRE

Wednesday to Saturday
CLARK GABLE
LANA TURNER in
"HONKY TONK"

Sunday and Monday
JEANETTE MacDONALD
BRIAN AHERNE in
"SMILIN' THROUGH"

Direction Warner Bros.
TOWER
69th & MARKET STS.

Tues., Wed. & Thurs.
Ida Lupino - Louis Hayward in
"LADIES IN RETIREMENT"
Thrills - Laughs - Romance

Fri., Sat., Sun. & Mon.
Fredrick March - Martha Scott
— in —
"ONE FOOT IN HEAVEN"

SUBURBAN
ARDMORE
Tues. for One Week
"WEEKEND IN HAVANA"
In Technicolor
John Payne - Alice Faye
Carmen Miranda - Anthony Wayne

SEVILLE
THEATRE BRYN MAWR
Tues., Wed. & Thurs.
"WEEKEND IN HAVANA"
In Technicolor
John Payne - Alice Faye
Carmen Miranda - Anthony Wayne

Fri. & Sat.
"TEXAS"

ANTHONY WAYNE
THEATRE WAYNE
Wed. & Thurs.
Tyrone Power - Betty Grable in
"A YANK IN THE R. A. F."

Fri. & Sat.
Ann Sheridan - Martha Raye in
"NAVY BLUES"

RIDE FREE ON P. & W. RAILWAY MOVIE TICKETS
GRAND
NORRISTOWN
Wed. & Thurs.
Rosalind Russell - Don Ameche in
"FEMININE TOUCH"

Fri. & Sat.
William Holden in
"TEXAS"

NORRIS
NORRISTOWN
Tues. & Wed.
Fredrick March - Martha Scott in
"ONE FOOT IN HEAVEN"

Thurs., Fri. & Sat.
Barbara Stanwyck - Henry Fonda
in "YOU BELONG TO ME"

GARRICK
NORRISTOWN
Wed. & Thurs.
Bob Hope - Paulette Goddard in
"NOTHING BUT THE TRUTH"

Fri. & Sat.
Lloyd Nolan in
"BUY ME THAT TOWN" and
Ronald Reagan in
"NINE LIVES ARE NOT ENOUGH"

WILDCATS!
STOP HERE
LA DOW'S PHARMACY
On the Edge of the Campus
LANCASTER PIKE
VILLANOVA, PA.

Men's Clothes
Made-to-Measure

COLEBY
Tailoring
Inc.
57th & MARKET STS.

Suits & Topcoats
$27.75

See Steve Aisenbrey
110 Fedigan Hall

TO YOUR GOOD TASTE, GENTLEMEN!

Roger Kent was founded in the belief that dressing well is a matter of taste and not of money. Why should a small budget force a man who knows better to accept clothing that is obviously made for indiscriminate mass consumption? This attitude, combined with specialization and its resultant values, has built a business unique in clothing history.

ROGER KENT
Suits, Outercoats and Formal Wear for Men
at the one $38.50 price

NEW YORK
40 Broadway • 321 Broadway • 12 West 33rd St.
15 East 45th St. • 225 West 57th St.
NEW HAVEN 1058 Chapel St.
CAMBRIDGE Lampoon Bldg.
PHILADELPHIA 1607 Walnut St.
© R.K.

DOLLY MADISON ICE CREAM
"Deliciously Different"
PHILA. DAIRY PRODUCTS CO.
4th & Poplar Sts., Phila., Pa.

Gridders Feted At 20th Banquet

Clipper Serves Notice That Practice Will Get Under Way Earlier

The twentieth annual football dinner given by the Blue and White Club of Philadelphia was held last Tuesday evening at the Penn Athletic Club with Captain Ed Korisky receiving the "most valuable player award." Presenting the award to Korisky was Tom Casper, '40, head coach of Roman Catholic High in Philadelphia, who praised Villanova's great center for his yeoman work in every game.

Commenting upon Villanova's poor season, head coach Clipper Smith said, "We worked with a tireless squad of boys who were always trying but our season next year will be much brighter than the one which we have undergone."

Auburn Wants Two Games

Clipper also served notice that spring practice will get under way earlier next year and he hoped that there would be a marked improvement. The large crowd which attended were disappointed in not hearing of the new schedule, for it has been the custom to announce the future plans at the annual banquet but both Clipper and Vince have been making negotiations for a fine schedule. It was commented by Clipper that Auburn would like to play Villanova two games next year, one in October at Philadelphia and the other in December at Alabama, but Smith declined to say if he would accept such a plan.

Among the honored guests was Colonel Arthur H. Foran, who attended Villanova in 1899, and told of his experiences when he was a student.

Other notables included: Very Rev. Joseph Hickey, O. S. A., and the Very Rev. John T. Sheehan, O. S. A., Very Rev. Francis X. McGuire, Vice-President of Villanova and moderator of athletics; John Keffer, president of the general Alumni; and John J. Crowley, president of the Villanova club of Philadelphia.

BROOKLINE
COUNTRY CLUB
Dancing Every Thursday to
America's Top Name Bands
Saturday - Dec. 13
Will Osborne
In Person, and His Orchestra
Admission: $1.00 plus tax
Phone: Hilltop 1600

Loren Murchison
& Co., Inc.
S. W. Hampson, Rep.
Jeweler
for Standard College
Rings
Fraternity Pins
Keys & Medals
MR. S. W. HAMPSON,
Company Representative
6832 Crittenden St., Mt. Airy, Pa.
Phone: VICtor 3773

The
Bryn Mawr
Trust
Company
BRYN MAWR, PENNA.
●
Every Banking Facility
●
Member Federal Deposit
Insurance Corp.

These Five Were Best

Mainly because of the two Hin brothers, Austin repeated in the swimming championships. Fr. McKee, moderator, stands proudly behind (l.r.) Leo Hin, Tom Dolan, Bill Swan, Pete Hin and Bob Schappert, as the Austinites give their best poses.

Sportorial

Continued From Page Five

of the team and that they had rightfully earned them by their consistent practice sessions from September to December. Evidently that policy has gone astray and at the same time Villanova's freshmen athletes have probably formed the opinion that Villanova doesn't seem to care about her future sportsmen. Every other college in this vicinity can point to the fact that their frosh athletes display numerals or letters indicating that they reward their workers.

Freshmen may be naive and not know the score as some people have them think but a boy who has come to college realistically prizes his honors in school, whether they be scholastic or athletic.

Swimming

Continued From Page Five

are going to work hard and long," he said, "but not so that swimming will become a drudgery. We are going to get fun out of our workouts." Moore also mentioned the idea of putting up a prize to be given at the end of the season to the swimmer who has shown the most effort and interest in the practices.

Present at the meeting were the new co-captains, the other members of last year's squad including Tom Lyons, Frank Desmond, Ed Riley, Jake Mauch, John Green and several new members.

New candidates are invited to come out to the practices which started Friday. Several swimmers showed up well in the Intramural last week and Coach Moore has his eye on them.

Have you a "College Special"
For Your Trip Home at Christmas
Even if you don't have a return portion of a College Special Reduced Fare ticket . . . you can go home by train on a definite schedule, safely and economically. Fares are low!
HERE'S HOW YOU, TOO, CAN TRAVEL ON "COLLEGE SPECIAL"
REDUCED ROUND TRIP FARES
Students and teachers travel from and to their homes at great savings on these College Special tickets. To make this saving, all you have to do is purchase one from your hometown railroad ticket agent before returning from the Christmas holidays. The cost is amazingly low—liberal return limits fit your school program—you can make stop-overs, too! There are reduced round trip Pullman rates, also. When Spring holidays come you can use the return coupon to travel home again or use it at close of school.
IMPORTANT—It is expected that on account of a heavy volume of Military furlough travel, as well as civilian holiday traffic, passenger travel during the forthcoming Christmas-New Year's Holiday period will be extremely heavy this year. If it can possibly be arranged for students to leave school December 17th or before and return to school January 7th or later, it is urged they do so. It will also be found easier to make reservations and more comfortable to travel on or before December 17, 1941, and on or after January 7, 1942.
Be Thrifty—with Safety—Travel by Train
ASSOCIATED EASTERN RAILROADS

CONESTOGA
★ ★ ★ MILL
County Line & Conestoga Rd.
Bryn Mawr
FULL COURSE DINNERS
DANCING
Every Evening

Brother Act Carries Austin Hall To Second Sweep In I-M Swimming

The Firemen of Austin Hall were quite at home in the college pool last Wednesday night when they successfully defended their Intramural swimming crown. In winning the title for the second straight year Austin compiled 25 points. Fedigan, their strongest rivals finished second with 16, while C & F and Mendel commuters tied for third with 8 apiece. Mendel Residents were fourth with 5 and Alumni trailed with 1 marker.

Austin won three of the seven events chiefly through the efforts of the Hin brothers, Pete and Leo, and Tom Dolan. Leo won the breaststroke and swam on Austin's two winning relay teams. Pete swam on both relays and also placed second in the backstroke event, while Dolan took seconds in the 50 and 100 freestyles and anchored the freestyle relay.

The outstanding performer of the evening was Fedigan's Bill Naylor. Naylor accounted for the Gigolos' two first places, winning the 50 and 100 freestyles in 26.2 and 1.04 respectively. both very good times.

A fine exhibition was given in the diving by stocky Bill Steiert, Mendel Day Hop freshman. Steiert, last year's Interscholastics champ, was far ahead of Jack Dwyer and Bob Moore.

The other first place was taken by George Brinjac, Mendel Resident who just nosed out Austin's Pete Hin by one-tenth of a second.

Summaries

50 yard freestyle: 1. Naylor, Fedigan; 2. Dolan, Austin; 3. Schappert, Austin. Time 26.2 seconds.

50 yard breaststroke: 1. Leo Hin, Austin; 2. Carbine, Mendel D. S.; 3. Haley, C & F. Time 33.6 seconds.

50 yard backstroke: 1. Brinjac, Mendel Res.; 2. Pete Hin, Austin; 3. McGovern, Alumni. 37.5 seconds.

100 yard freestyle: 1. Naylor, Fedigan; 2. Dolan, Austin; 3. Moore, Fedigan. Time 1.04.

Diving: 1. Steiert, Mendel D. S.; 2. Dwyer, C & F; 3. Moore, Fedigan.

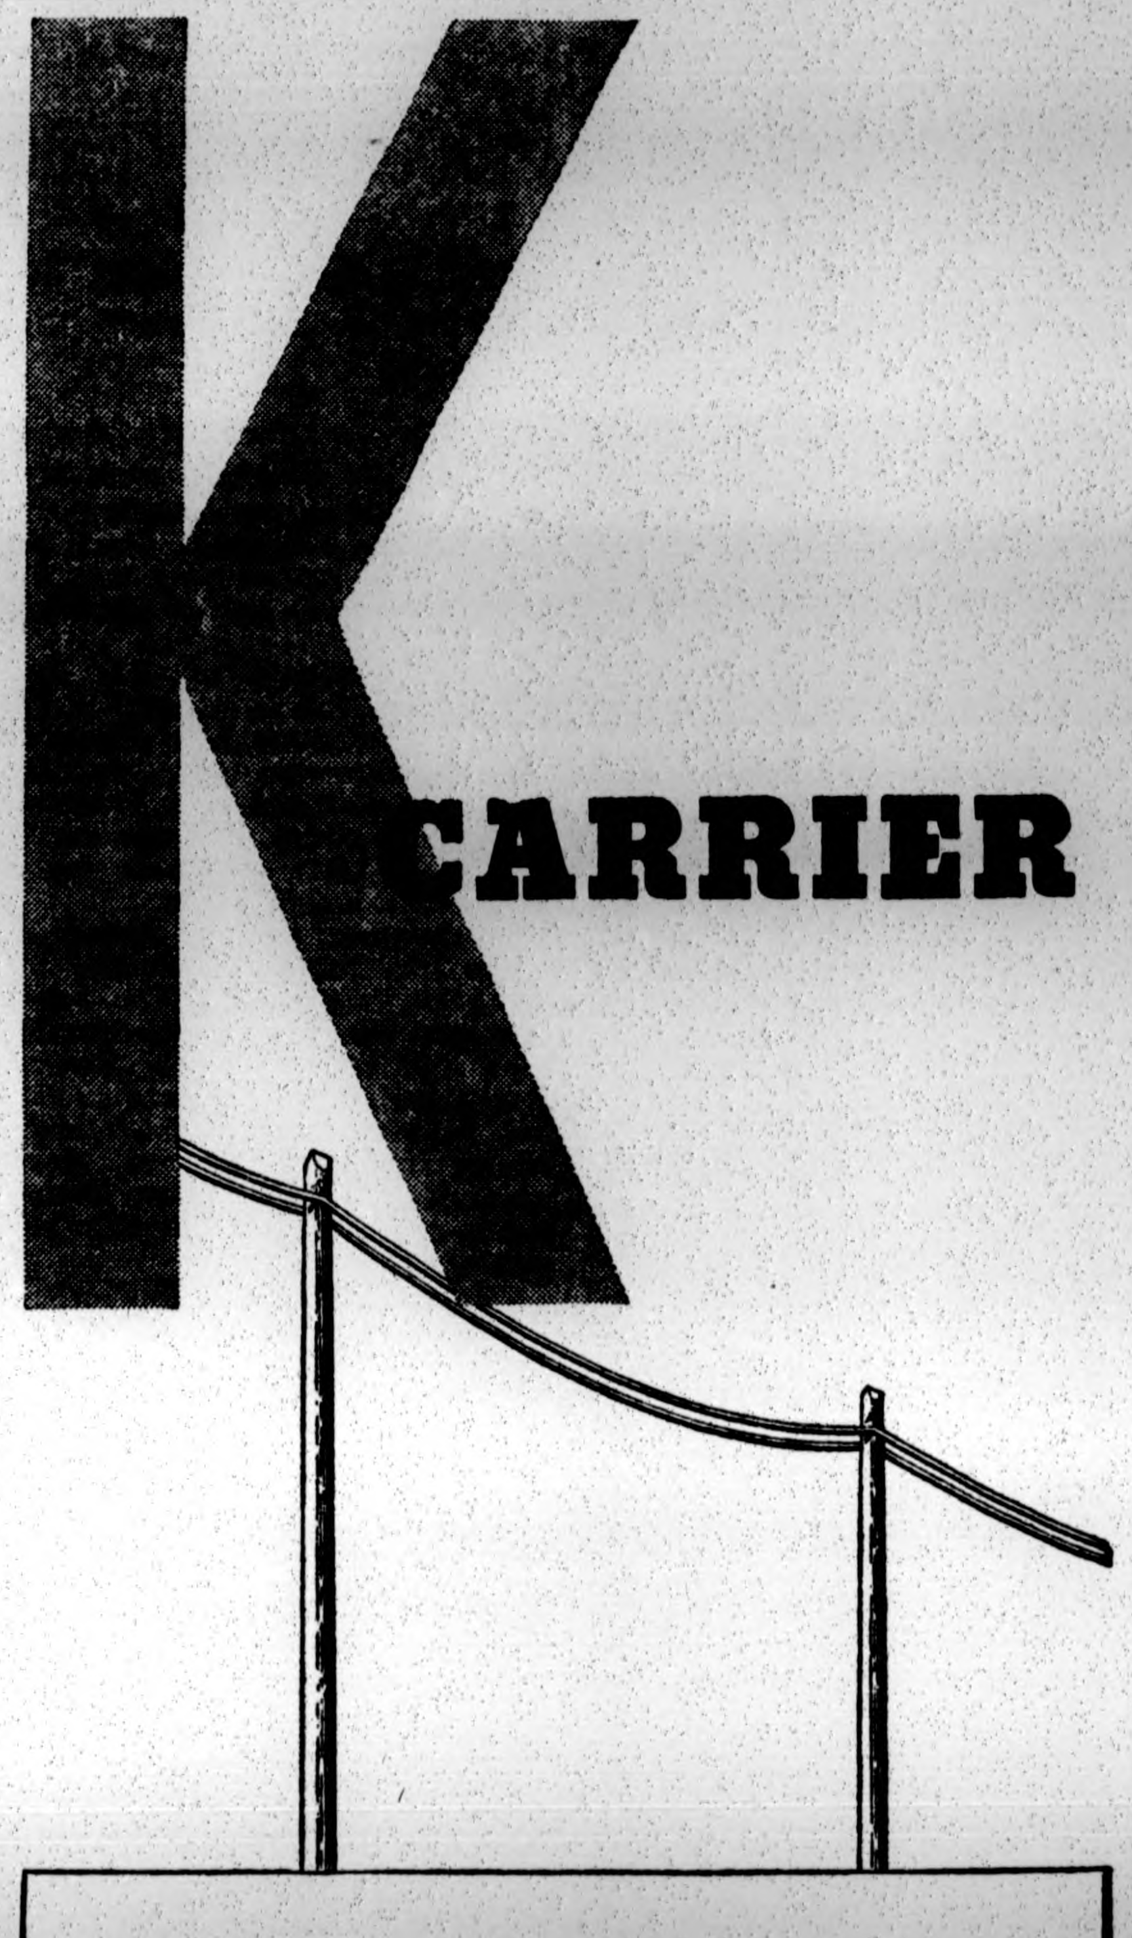
Medley Relay: 1. Austin, (Pete Hin, Leo Hin, Schappert); 2. C & F; 3. Fedigan.

Freestyle Relay: 1. Austin, (Pete Hin, Leo Hin, Labor, Dolan); 2. Fedigan; 3. C & F.

Harriers Prepare For Coming Meets

Practices for the next indoor meet continue daily by the members of the varsity track team. Coach Jumbo Elliott is priming his runners for their first indoor meet at the Boston Garden on January 10. This meet will be sponsored by the Veterans of Foreign Wars. The following week Elliott's runners might compete in the K. of C. meet in Boston.

From now until the holidays the harriers will keep up their rigid paces and the day following Christmas the team will assemble again to practice twice a day under his careful training.



YOU may never have heard of a K carrier circuit, but it has often heard you.
It's a Bell Telephone Laboratories development by which two pairs of wires in parallel cables can carry as many as twelve separate conversations at the same time!
K carrier circuits are being built into many miles of Long Distance cables. This is one of the ways we have of adding a lot of long circuits in a hurry to meet the needs of national defense.

I-M Court Teams Seek New Punch To Fight Mendel

The Intramural Basketball League will open again after the Christmas vacation. The first game will be played on January 6 between the league champions, the Mendel Day Hops, and the C & F Day Hops. The sharp shooting Mendel Commuters will have a more difficult time winning the championship for the second half than they had for the first, since other teams are definitely out to end their undefeated string of games and to eliminate the Mendelites from any chance of taking the final championship without a play-off.

Among the leading contenders will be the much under-estimated C & F Day Hops who went great guns after loosing their first three games. The Businessmen have two of the leading scorers in the league besides two of the most experienced men, in Jim Meehan and Jim Buxeda.

Austin Should Be Improved

Another contender for the crown will be second place Austin Hall which started out in great style but folded up when the Mendelites were putting on the pressure. Father McKee is planning on his team having that extra punch, that will enable them to overcome the endless march of the first half champions.

Fedigan Hall also intends on being in the play-offs at the end of the season and if the Gigoloes pull together and get out for all the games, they should be able to make the going very difficult for the Day Hops, C & F and Austin.

As for the Alumni, they certainly should be able to play a few exceptional games like the one in which they handed Mendel Day Students the only defeat of their season, and by this pull themselves up a little higher on the win column. Alumni has the tallest team in the league but the frosh are too inexperienced to win over the smooth-working upperclass teams.

Frosh Need Experience

Mendel Hall ended up in the cellar of the league due to the smallness of their team and also to their inexperience. These men have never played together before and it is very difficult to click. The Penthousers may be able to win more than one game as they have a pretty good club but will have to play a lot better ball than they did in the first half.

When it all boils down, the outlook for the second half will definitely be that a much better grade of basketball will be played and the games will be fought much harder. This will be the last chance for the other five teams to get in the final play-offs with the first half champions, the Mendel Commuters.

To Honor 150 lb. Player

This afternoon ,members of the Athletic board will meet and select the outstanding member of the 150 lb. team, for the past season. The announcement of the most valuable player will be made public, most likely in the next issue of the VILLANOVAN.

Men's Clothes
Made-to-Measure
COLEBY
Tailoring
Inc.
57th & MARKET STS.
Suits & Topcoats
$27.75
See Steve Aisenbrey
110 Fedigan Hall

Behot Best Remembered For His 80-Yard Run To Beat Arkansas

Joe Behot, genial co-occupant of a second floor room in Fedigan Hall invited us to join the bull session that was raging at that moment in his room. As best we could with such experienced orators as Joe himself and his roommate, Bob O'Conner, we steered the conversation towards the life of this Burlington, N. J., senior.

Behot prepped at Bordentown Military Institute prior to his entrance into Villanova. At B. M. I. Joe was quarterback on the first team. Incidentally every member of that first eleven has gone on to college to win varsity honors. A surprising note is that he was used strictly in a blocking role in those days. In addition to his football prowess Joe won top scholastic honors at the Institute.

As a freshman at Villanova, Joe was placed at left halfback. This was the first time in his football career that he was given an opportunity to carry the ball. As the records later showed, this move was a wise one—Joe led his team in scoring.

Meeting an Old Teammate

Frequently during his sophomore year, Joe broke loose for thrilling runs. In the Muhlenberg game he raced forty yards before he was hauled to earth on the three yard line. Scrambling to his feet he found his tackler was a former teammate from Bordentown. His feat in the Arkansas game will long be remembered. An eighty yard dash for a touchdown gave Villanova a 7-0 victory.

In search of a good quarterback, Clipper Smith moved Joe back to that position in his junior year. During the past season he held down the first string signal-caller spot.

The Behot of the classroom is the same Behot of the gridiron. A quiet hard working fellow has made a good record scholastically. Joe majors in Social Studies in the School of Education.

Each summer he finds work in a North Jersey wire mill near his home. Speaking of home Joe spends as many weekends as possible in Burlington. He is also a frequent visitor to Haddonfield so he can be with Billie.

Praises Crain of Baylor

While we had Joe on the topic of his football days at Villanova, we learned that the toughest opposing player he faced this past season was Milt Crain, Baylor's bruising fullback. Joe credits Villanova with the collapse of Baylor against Texas A. & M. the week after their game here.

What time he spends off the campus about these parts is spent in the company of Bob O'Conner. Joe has come to value Bob's friendship highly. Bob was invaluable in bringing to the surface little sidelights on Joe that the more reticent senior would not have disclosed. It was O'Conner who informed us that Joe had made the second team of the United Press's All Eastern Pennsylvania selections.

When he receives his diploma in June, Joe will report to Uncle Sam to do his part in the National Defense. With the uncertainty that lurks in the future, Joe's plans have become more or less indefinite. From our association with this affable senior we feel that he will do justice to any undertaking he attempts.

All-Opponent

Continued From Page Five

plied plenty of power in those driving legs. He hit on all cylinders against the 'Cats in Shibe Park and averaged well over seven yards in each try. It was no stopping Crain that night.

That all-important center spot was awarded to Demao of Duquesne, who, by the way, collected several other prominent awards by leading sports writers. This All-American center played the best offensive and defensive ball against the 'Cats all year. Villanova's line play was completely stopped by this big center and statistics which show Villanova with only one first down can be accredited to Demao's superb play at center.

The two wingmen chosen, rightfully deserve such an honor. Russell and Rokisky were men who spent a lot of time in Villanova's backfield. Both are expert pass receivers and rated highly in their respective districts. Well over 200 lbs. these two ends operated in high gear at all times.

Hull of Florida and Barnett of Baylor get the nod at the tackle positions. When it came to carrying out a play through their part of the line, these two bruising tackles usually performed their assignments without missing. On the defense Villanova never came across a better pair of charging linemen.

The fourth Baylor man to receive honors was Odell Griffin who along with Sal Marone of Manhattan was named as the outstanding guard. Both were singled out as the best in their department.

Coach of the year was awarded to that popular gentleman of the gridiron, Bernie Bierman of Minnesota. As the mentor of the Gophers, Bierman showed the finest job of coaching throughout the land by leading the Big Ten team to their second national championship.

TO YOUR GOOD TASTE,
GENTLEMEN!
Roger Kent was founded in the belief that dressing well is a matter of taste and not of money. Why should a small budget force a man who knows better to accept clothing that is obviously made for indiscriminate mass consumption? This attitude, combined with specialization and its resultant values, has built a business unique in clothing history.
ROGER KENT
Suits, Outercoats and Formal Wear for Men
at the one $38.50 price
NEW YORK
40 Broadway • 321 Broadway • 12 West 33rd St.
15 East 45th St. • 225 West 57th St.
NEW HAVEN 1058 Chapel St. CAMBRIDGE Lampoon Bldg. PHILADELPHIA 1607 Walnut St.
© R.K.

DOLLY MADISON ICE CREAM
"Deliciously Different"
PHILA. DAIRY PRODUCTS CO.
4th & Poplar Sts., Phila., Pa.

HERE AND THERE

By FRED CLARK

DUQUESNE University, one of the four major unbeaten college football teams in the country during 1941, was dished out of a bowl. This may sound like a culinary essay, but it expresses the position of the Pittsburgh school after the choices for the various post-season extravaganzas were announced by the authorities in charge. The Pittsburgh powerhouse was dished out of a bowl bid.

The Dukes ran roughshod through an eight-game schedule, bowling over Marquette, Villanova, St. Mary's, and Mississippi State among others. Coming up to the Duquesne contest with an unbeaten record, Mississippi State bowed, 16 to 0, but this victory is more noteworthy when you consider that the Staters knocked over Alabama to the tune of 14 to 0. Yet Alabama received a bid to one of the New Year's Day skirmishes while the authorities at Duquesne sat hopefully but in vain by their telephones awaiting the all-important call that would bring with it the honor and recognition due to their great eleven.

Comparative Scores Inaccurate

It has been proven that comparative scores are not always accurate in comparing the potential strength of two gridiron teams. As a matter of fact, a prominent radio sports announcer figured out by comparative scores that Sterling College (location unknown), was only three points worse than Minnesota and, therefore, should be chosen for the Rose Bowl game since the Gophers were the top team in the country but turned a cold shoulder to all post-season encounters.

However, comparative scores are the only means we have of judging the strength of two clubs who have not come in contact with each other and we must place some faith in them. On this basis, then, of the scores metnioned above, Duquesne is 30 points better than Alabama. Take it for what it is worth.

Of the eight teams chosen for the four major Bowls only one, Duke University, was the owner of an unblemished record for the season. Each of the other seven suffered at least one defeat during a season replete with upsets.

Various reasons have been advanced for this snubbing of the Dukes but none of these seem to hold water. One theory is that Duquesne's schedule is not sufficiently big-time to warrant a bowl bid. If that is the case, we would like to know on what basis Duke was handed the Rose Bowl assignment. Except for Tennessee and possibly Colgate, the Blue Devils' schedule was a succession of breathers. Four of the schools which Duke met on the gridiron this year, Wake Forest, Pittsburgh, Georgia Tech, and North Carolina, may have had top-notch elevens in years gone by, but that is not the case this year.

—V—

In the excitement of one of the most thrilling basketball contests ever played in the Villanova Field House last Saturday evening between the Wildcats and the Terriers of St. Francis' College (Brooklyn), one element seemed to be lacking. There were no Villanova cheer-leaders present and, hence, no organized cheering.

How About a Cheer?

This lack of cheering on our part was brought to the fore by the fact that some of the St. Francis student body traveled all the way from New York to see the game and as a group made their presence known by the ample use of their vocal chords.

The amazing comeback by the fighting quintet from Brooklyn in overcoming a five point deficit in the last few minutes of play and then going on to win in an overtime period may not be attributable to this cause — but then again it may. At any rate, we believe it would be a wise policy to have cheer-leaders present at all of our home games to organize the cheering. How about it, you cheerleaders?

On The Local Screens

ARDMORE
THEATRE
Wednesday to Saturday
CLARK GABLE
LANA TURNER in
"HONKY TONK"
Sunday and Monday
JEANETTE MacDONALD
BRIAN AHERNE in
"SMILIN' THROUGH"

Direction Warner Bros.
TOWER
69th & MARKET STS.
Tues., Wed. & Thurs.
Ida Lupino - Louis Hayward in
"LADIES IN RETIREMENT"
Thrills - Laughs - Romance
Fri., Sat., Sun. & Mon.
Fredrick March - Martha Scott
— in —
"ONE FOOT IN HEAVEN"

SUBURBAN
ARDMORE
Tues. for One Week
"WEEKEND IN HAVANA"
In Technicolor
John Payne - Alice Faye
Carmen Miranda - Anthony Wayne
SEVILLE
THEATRE BRYN MAWR
Tues., Wed. & Thurs.
"WEEKEND IN HAVANA"
In Technicolor
John Payne - Alice Faye
Carmen Miranda - Anthony Wayne
Fri. & Sat.
"TEXAS"
ANTHONY WAYNE
THEATRE WAYNE
Wed. & Thurs.
Tyrone Power - Betty Grable in
"A YANK IN THE R. A. F."
Fri. & Sat.
Ann Sheridan - Martha Raye in
"NAVY BLUES"

WILDCATS!
STOP HERE
LA DOW'S PHARMACY
On the Edge of the Campus
LANCASTER PIKE
VILLANOVA, PA.

RIDE FREE ON P. & W.
RAILWAY MOVIE TICKETS
GRAND
NORRISTOWN
Wed. & Thurs.
Rosalind Russell - Don Ameche in
"FEMININE TOUCH"
Fri. & Sat.
William Holden in
"TEXAS"
NORRIS
NORRISTOWN
Tues. & Wed.
Fredrick March - Martha Scott in
"ONE FOOT IN HEAVEN"
Thurs., Fri. & Sat.
Barbara Stanwyck - Henry Fonda
in "YOU BELONG TO ME"
GARRICK
NORRISTOWN
Wed. & Thurs.
Bob Hope - Paulette Goddard in
"NOTHING BUT THE TRUTH"
Fri. & Sat.
Lloyd Nolan in
"BUY ME THAT TOWN" and
Ronald Reagan in
"NINE LIVES ARE NOT ENOUGH"

Seminar Splits On Labor Curbs

History Group Views Both Sides of Government Supervision of Unions

The question of regulating labor unions provoked sharp disagreement among members of the History Seminar last Thursday afternoon when they discussed the proper role of the federal government in time of labor disturbances.

Meeting in Simpson Hall under the direction of Dr. Harold F. Hartman, moderator, the group resolved itself into two vehement factions.

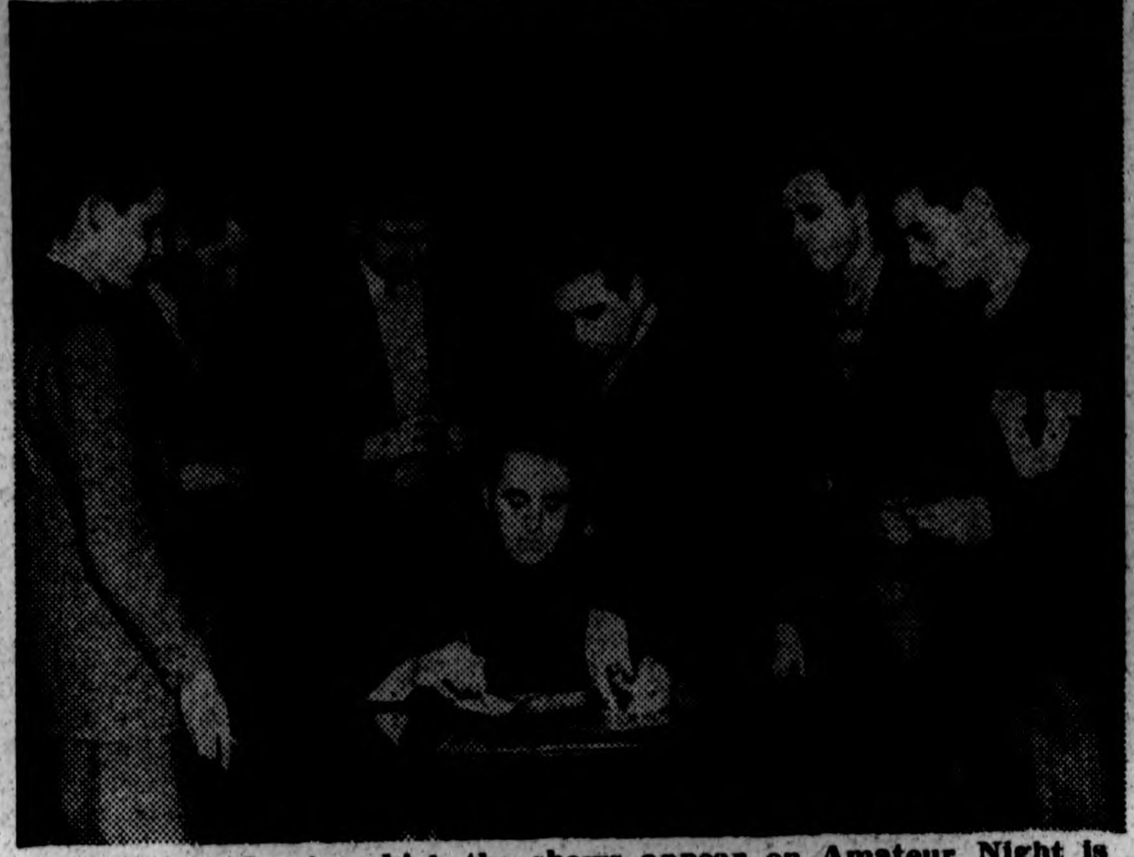
One faction expressed strong disapproval of the recent steps which the government has taken toward greater regulatory control of labor union activities, basing its conviction on the argument that, "In order to protect the magnificent achievements which labor has made after a century of struggle, the government should allow labor unions to solve their own problems by means of internal reform. If given the chance, most union members are able to purge their organizations of radical elements."

The opposing faction pointed out the general disruption in the national defense program caused by the strikes and disputes and urged immediate passage of appropriate legislation by Congress.

Those advocating such governmental regulation emphasized the seriousness of the situation by stating that ". . . no particular group or special interest can ever be permitted to wield more power than the federal government if the United States are to remain united. Unscrupulous union leaders must not be allowed to attempt to make themselves bigger than the government."

They stated that labor should be forced to cooperate at this time when those in the armed forces are making such great sacrifices for their country. In normal times such regulation would not be as important, but conditions today demand that some legislative measures be taken.

Drawing For Positions At Amateur Night



Since the order in which the shows appear on Amateur Night is determined by chance, a representative of each group drew lots in the Field House last Thursday. Pictured from the left are Hector Martinez, Mendel; Lou Iademarco, Mendel day-hops; Fr. McGuire; Joe Costa, C. & F.; Tom Hitchell, Alumni; and Dick Gray, Fedigan.

Amateurs Ready

Continued From Page One

and prominent political figures will be impersonated as guests of the club.

In their inaugural appearance, the Mendel day students, coached by Rev. Robert M. Sullivan, O. S. A., will enact a play entitled "Dazapoppin." Based on the successful "Hellzapoppin" of Olsen and Johnson, it will burlesque life at college and will be complete even to the appearance of the Flying Duck, hit of the Broadway show.

"Ferd McFedigan's Tavern" will be the Fediganites' production. Included in the entertainment will be Vincent Cassavieo and a duet consisting of Tom Gildea and Dan Casey, who will sing Italian and Irish songs, respectively. With Bob Hursh as master of ceremonies, the hall will also present a chorus of twelve and an orchestra under the direction of Mark Fitzgerald.

To close the evening, the residents of Austin Hall will do a play called "Reminiscing," in an attempt to annex top honors for the fifth straight year.

The opening scene will show an old man deep in slumber, reclining in front of his fireplace. As he rests in the arms of Morpheus, his life passes in review before him: his actions in childhood, the escapades of his youth, and the unforgettable happenings of his college days.

Judges for Amateur Night will be Anthony J. Frayne, dramatic coach, two priests, and two members of the Student Council.

To Study Bridges

Final plans for an inspection trip of a number of bridges along the Schuylkill River between Spring Garden St. and Ridge Ave. will be discussed at a meeting of the local student chapter of the American Society of Civil Engineers this afternoon at 1:00 P. M. in room 102, Mendel Hall.

All engineering students are invited to take the trip on Friday afternoon. Those wishing to participate are requested to see Trip Chairman Bruno J. Talvacchia for transportation accommodations.

John Dougherty, '18, Given Loyalty Award

John J. Dougherty, '18, was presented with the Villanova Loyalty Award at the annual football banquet last Wednesday evening.

The trophy, which is given each year to an outstanding alumnus, was awarded to Dougherty for his untiring efforts and unselfish services in behalf of all things that are typical of Villanova.

The recipient, a district engineer in West Philadelphia for the Bureau of Highways, was an outstanding member of the Wildcat football teams of 1914 and 1915. He helped to found and organize the Villanova Club of Philadelphia, which he served ten years as secretary and two years as the president.

The presentation was made by John J. Cowely, president of the Philadelphia Chapter of the Villanova Club before 400 alumni and friends of the college gathered at the Penn Athletic Club.

Desires To Add New Pamphlets

Rev. Edward B. McKee, O. S. A., moderator of the Catholic Press Apostolate, today requested that the students cooperate in making possible the regular addition of new pamphlets to the racks in the college halls.

Fr. McKee explained that the funds obtained from the sale of the pamphlets are used to replenish the supply of reading material. When the students are considerate of this fact and make an offering for each pamphlet taken, it is possible for the Apostolate to add new booklets to the racks.

He added that the students are welcome at any time to read the pamphlets and then return them without making any contribution, but if they intend to keep the literature they should deposit a coin. It has been noticed in the past that several pamphlets have been taken without proper returns being made.

Fr. McKee again urged the students to examine the material in these racks, especially that which will be helpful to them in their regular religion courses. He explained that members of every class will find articles there of great interest and help to them.

The pamphlets on the Commandments should be of interest to freshmen and Fr. Connell's treatment of the Sacraments is recommended by Fr. McKee as being the best to be found anywhere. Sophomores study the Sacraments during the second semester.

WRIGLEY'S SPEARMINT CHEWING GUM
V-166

Have fun—be friendly
Treat yourself and others to fresh-tasting Wrigley's Spearmint Gum
The Flavor Lasts

Tune in the Christmas Spirit
It's Chesterfield Pleasure Time
Enjoy the music that everybody likes
N. B. C. Stations

Merry Christmas everybody ... this is your old friend Fred Waring

This time I'm coming to you
With a timely shopping tip . . .
Drop in at your tobacco store
Take a look at the handsome way
Your Christmas Chesterfields are packed.
You never saw the like
Of these swell gifts . . .
Big ten package cartons
Cartons holding four tins of 50
And brand new this year
Special greeting cartons
Holding just three packs.
This year It's Chesterfield
For more pleasure than Anything else you can buy
For the money.

Milder Better-Tasting ... that's why It's Chesterfield

Copyright 1941, Liggett & Myers Tobacco Co.

VILLANOVAN

Vol. 14—No. 9 N. A. S. Z-660 VILLANOVA COLLEGE, VILLANOVA, PA. TUESDAY, DECEMBER 16, 1941

Merion Site For Weekly's Banquet

Chairman Gallagher Picks General Wayne Inn for VILLANOVAN Affair Jan. 10

The tenth annual VILLANOVAN staff dinner-dance will be held at the General Anthony Wayne Inn, Merion, on Tuesday evening, Jan. 13, John T. Gallagher, business manager of the publication, announced today.

For the third successive year, Gallagher will act as chairman and toastmaster at the affair.

Highlight of the event will be the official announcement by Rev. Edward B. McKee, O. S. A., moderator, of the new editorial board selected by the retiring editor, Thomas H. Doyle, Jr., and approved by Fr. McKee.

The first issue of this new staff will appear on the following Tuesday, Jan. 20. The names of those freshmen who have been accepted for membership will appear in the masthead at the same time.

Will Present Keys

Dinner will be served at 7:00 P. M., and will be followed by speeches by Doyle; Robert J. Funabashi, the retiring sports editor; and the new editor-in-chief and sports editor. With the culmination of these addresses, Fr. McKee will present keys to the senior staff members who have served on the publication for three years. In view of former services rendered, keys will be awarded to John P. Maher, Joseph F. Bee, ex-'42, and Bernard C. Crumb, ex-'42.

As customary, the keys will be replicas of the linotype matrix of the letter "V". Name of the publication, name of the staff member, and his position will appear on the key.

Music for the dance following the dinner will be supplied by the General Wayne Inn orchestra, under the direction of Frank Roberts.

Retiring Staff Members

Retiring staff members, in addition to Doyle and Funabashi, are: William E. Schubert, Thomas A. Sullivan, Howard A. McCall, John T. Gallagher, Albert D'Alonzo, John P. Fullam, Robert F. Donovan, Bruno J. Talvacchia, Fred J. Clark, David N. Reardon, Gerard F. Belz, Sidney E. Caplan, James J. Earley, Daniel J. Haley, John F. Jakovic, Joseph V. McCabe, Robert J. McIntyre, Thomas A. Shallow, Charles W. Schaumann, John F. Cerulo, George E. Fitzgerald, Edward R. Frank, and John T. Sandonato.

Chairman Gallagher has asked that the staff members make their reservations immediately following the Christmas holidays. The affair is formal and restricted to members of the staff and their guests.

Profs To Speak During Holidays

Members of the faculty will attend and speak at various educational conferences during the Christmas holidays.

Rev. Vincent A. McQuade, O. S. A., assistant professor of social sciences, will address the American Sociological Society, meeting at the Hotel Roosevelt in New York City from Dec. 27 to 30, on the topic, "Contemporary Race Problems in the United States." Fr. McQuade will also attend the convention of the American Catholic Sociological Society, to be held at New York's Hotel Astor from Dec. 28 to 30.

Rev. John J. Vrana, O. S. A., instructor of music and fine arts, will present a paper, entitled "General Culture as an Aim in High School Teaching," at the annual Augustinian Educational Convention in Washington, D. C., on Dec. 29 and 30. Several other Villanova priests will also be in attendance at the conferences.

Harry S. McCaffrey, C. P. A., instructor of business administration, and Leo H. Schaefer, M. B. A., associate professor of business administration, will attend the convention of the American Accounting Association in New York City on Dec. 30 and 31.

"Venite, Venite In Be-eth-le-hem"

Huddled beneath a lamp-post in front of Mayfield Hall at Rosemont as they sang Christmas carols Sunday evening are Epsilon Phi Theta's members. John P. Fullam, back to the camera, is leading them through a well-rounded program in spite of the wintry wind. The members sang at Immaculata, then at Rosemont, and finished the evening at Chestnut Hill before appreciative audiences.

Carolers Show Christmas Spirit On Local Campi

What say, old chap, to a bit of jolly caroling this fine winter's eve? The Yuletide is approaching, and the stars are bright tonight. Bundle up warmly, though, for there's a nip in the air. . .

How about visiting Immaculata, Rosemont, and Chestnut Hill? Fine. Sleighs are a bit slow, of course, so Epsilon Phi Theta piles into autos and is off.

The lights from Immaculata windows gleam in cheery welcome as we arrive. It's Sunday night, and week-enders have just returned. Quietly, now—we want to surprise them, not scare them.

Heads appear at windows. "Adeste Fideles," "The First Noel," and "Silent Night" bring a sizable group to the balcony. We never knew we were that good, did we, fellows? And loud, too.

More Than Singing

"Stand, Navy, down the field . . ." A collegiate medley now. Impromptu exchange of Alma Mater from the balcony chorus, who titter appreciatively at "Let Me Call You Sweetheart."

And now for the really interesting part of caroling——a half-hour of chatting, eating, and dancing at the "Campi." We were plagued near frozen, weren't we, old man?

Evening Well-Spent

Plenty to talk about as we drive over to Rosemont, where we divide our time between singing, being photographed, and eating a sumptuous repast. Beautiful girls in the remote upper reaches: one or two on the actual battlefield.

At Chestnut Hill the audience is so large and so appreciative that we go through our entire repertoire, and only with regret deny their clamoring for more.

And all the cookies, hot chocoalte, and candy we are urged to consume, and all the laughing and joking and talking afterward make every loyal artsman more than glad he came.

God bless 'em, every one!

NYA Aid To Drop Thirty Per Cent

Curtailment of N. Y. A. assistance to the extent of 30% instead of the 50% drop originally anticipated will begin with the December-January pay period, William G. Slaughter, director of the Placement Bureau, announced today.

This means that nearly one-third of the present N. Y. A. workers will have to be dismissed.

Due to the fact that all nondefense expenditures have been curtailed, the funds that were set aside at the beginning of the present school year have been impoundpounded by the government. The assistance will probably be disbanded altogether next year.

At present no plan has been formulated here to pick the onethird that must be dropped.

College Host To Philosophy Group

Villanova will handle local arrangements for the 17th annual meeting of the American Catholic Philosophical Association, which will convene at the Benjamin Franklin Hotel, Philadelphia, on Dec. 29 and 30.

One of eleven local Catholic schools playing host, Villanova will have Rev. Edward M. Dwyer, O. S. A., assistant professor of philosophy, as chairman of the Committee on Attendance. He will be aided by several faculty members, alumni, and undergraduates of the local colleges.

As a feature of the "Ethics and Philosophy of Society Division," on Tuesday, Dec. 3, Rev. Charles J. McFadden, O. S. A., assistant professor of philosophy, will discuss "The Metaphysical Basis of Action in the Philosophy of Marxism." In collaboration, Dr. Otto Bird, of St. John's University, Brooklyn, will speak on "The Christian Basis for Marxist Hope."

Sessions of the convention will be held morning, afternoon, and evening on both days in various rooms of the hotel. Rt. Rev. Fulton J. Sneen, president of the association, will address the Monday evening session on the topic, "Man, the Image of God."

Several brief broadcasts from local radio stations, including one by Fr. Dwyer, giving popular treatment of "Philosophy and Order," the general theme of the meeting, are being arranged.

Four Air Raid Protection Units Are Formed Here

General Committee, Wardens, First Aid Group to Handle Civilian Defense

Formation of four committees to handle civilian defense at Villanova was announced yesterday by Very Rev. Edward V. Stanford, O. S. A., president.

A general committee to oversee the arrangements, a group of air raid wardens, a group of auxiliary fire wardens, and a committee on first aid were chosen to take care of the college's protection in event of air raids.

The committees have been formed, in the belief that "an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure," to have definite arrangements ready in case sporadic raids occur. Governmental authorities do not expect any steady bombing in this country, but admit the possibility of isolated raids to scare United States civilians.

To Coordinate Work

Fr. Stanford, professor Harry S. Bueche, John P. Kirchner, Thomas J. McKimmey, Rev. John J. McMenamin, O. S. A., Thomas D. McQuade, Rev. Vincent A. McQuade, O. S. A., associate professor John A. Oakey, and Thomas F. Sheehy, Jr., make up the general committee in charge of coordinating the work of the groups handling the special functions.

The air raid wardens will keep order and direct proceedings in the halls when, and if, bombings occur. The auxiliary fire service will direct the training of men in putting out fires caused by bombs and other sources. The first aid group will provide students trained by short courses under Red Cross supervision to treat injuries.

Survey Being Made

Three senior engineers, Vincent Gordon, John Muench, and Philip Malarkey, are surveying the buildings of the campus to determine the safest places for air raid shelters. Professors Bueche and Oakey will draft final plans for these when the survey is completed.

Fr. McQuade will act as chief air-raid warden to direct priests and resident students in the various halls of the campus appointed as wardens of their buildings.

Hall Wardens

Faculty wardens will be Rev. John J. Anderson, O. S. A., Rev. John H. Crawford, O. S. A., Rev. John R. Dunne, O. S. A., Rev. Edward M. Dwyer, O. S. A., Rev. Francis W. Ludwig, O. S. A., Rev. Edward B. McKee, O. S. A., and Rev. John J. Vrana, O. S. A.

Students already appointed as air raid wardens—others wil be added later — are Reno White, Redento Rampo, Joseph Elward, and Arthur

CIVILIAN DEFENSE
Continued on Page Four

Colombian Students Praise U. S. A.—But Some Funny Things Happen Here

The Spanish Club held a reception last Friday evening for 28 South Americans, young men from Colombia who are studying at the University of Pennsylvania during their summer vacation. The program included short speeches, musical entertainment, a motion picture, and dancing—but these were no more interesting than the Latin Americans themselves.

For, through an interpreter, they disclosed: a) that the United States' good will program is working fine; b) that the U. S. is a swell, hospitable country; and, c) that a foreigner, strange to our ways and tongue, can have some funny things happen to him.

Courses in Their Fields

Four of the students, Gilberto Rodriguez, Hernando Vargas, Gabrielle Toro, and Gabrielle Velasquez, explained that the group arrived two weeks ago for two months of study; they are taking courses in public speaking and phonetics, as well as in their respective fields of study. The contingent, all students of the National University in Bogota, Colombia, South America's third largest country, came here to become acquainted with the United States.

Rodriguez and Vargas, for instance, who will be architects, are studying that subject here. They have nothing but praise for American architecture, believing that Philadelphia has some of the most wonderful specimens they've ever seen.

Like the U. S.

All were warm in their praise for the United States; they "never thought before (they) came here that there was such a great friendship for Latin America." In Colombia, which has made great cultural and educational progress during the last ten years, there is nothing but good feeling toward the United States.

Things about our country which we accept without thinking impress them. Vargas likes "the practical organization of life and business in this country, even in the smaller details such as the excellent police forces." Velasquez, another medical student, says that our excellent educational system accounts for our progress.

Speeches Swell

Toro "likes the speeches here most, even though (he's) heard more in one day here than in (his)

CLUB RECEPTION
Continued on Page Eight

President Urges All Students To Keep Calm View

Cautioning Against Hysteria, Fr. Stanford, in Two Talks, Entreats Them to Keep At Their Work

While war clouds thickened, Very Rev. Edward V. Stanford, O. S. A., president of the college, in two informal addresses to the student body, cautioned against panic and urged students to maintain the calm determination for and cooperation with, the defense program which marked their attitude before our entry into war.

Fr. Stanford spoke to the resident students at chapel services on Tuesday evening and to the day students in the Mendel Amphitheatre on Friday.

Seriousness Not Minimized

Stressing the fact that it was not his purpose to minimize the seriousness of the situation, the president nevertheless reminded his listeners that examples of civilian panic exhibited thus far make it doubly vital that students keep at their jobs and to those jobs even better, if possible.

Declaring that those who will exert pressure for enlistment upon the students will not be taking a real view of the situation, Fr. Stanford warned against any precipitate act.

Deferments Received

Conferences held in Washington on Thursday and Friday of last week were for the purpose of ironing out the difficulties of college students in the emergency, he said. He himself attended a meeting of college presidents in New York on Wednesday to deal with the problem.

The president devoted a portion of his address to the students already registered under the Selective Service Act. He stated that every day since Sunday, deferment cards — even second deferments — have been coming into his office. Individual draft boards have been making rash statements, he said, but the general Selective Service policy has remained unchanged.

Fr. Stanford stated yesterday that the proposed revision of the draft age limits does not change what he said concerning the duty of the students.

Discounts Rumors

A number of unfounded rumors, supposedly news issued from Fr. Stanford's office, circulated about the campus last week. These reports, which concerned such phases of the war as that graduation would be advanced this year and that diplomas would be issued to seniors who did not complete their courses, were collected together and presented by a VILLANOVAN editor to the President.

He gave assurance that any time there is news to report or changes are contemplated students will be given plenty of notice in a definite way At present there are no such plans in mind.

Fr. Stanford Named To Educators' Board

At its recent fall meeting, the Association of American Colleges appointed Very Rev. Edward V. Stanford, O. S. A., president of Villanova, to a commission on "Colleges and Post-War Problems." Nine other college presidents were named to serve on the commission.

Fr. Stanford will attend the annual convention of the association in Cleveland on Jan. 8 and 9 and, as chairman of the Committee on Nominations, present a report. On Jan. 7, he will attend the convention of the National Conference of Church Related Colleges, also meeting in the Hotel Cleveland.

Both groups will concern themselves with college problems in the war and American education and world responsibility.

Seminar Splits On Labor Curbs

History Group Views Both Sides of Government Supervision of Unions

The question of regulating labor unions provoked sharp disagreement among members of the History Seminar last Thursday afternoon when they discussed the proper role of the federal government in time of labor disturbances.

Meeting in Simpson Hall under the direction of Dr. Harold F. Hartman, moderator, the group resolved itself into two vehement factions.

One faction expressed strong disapproval of the recent steps which the government has taken toward greater regulatory control of labor union activities, basing its conviction on the argument that, "In order to protect the magnificent achievements which labor has made after a century of struggle, the government should allow labor unions to solve their own problems by means of internal reform. If given the chance, most union members are able to purge their organizations of radical elements."

The opposing faction pointed out the general disruption in the national defense program caused by the strikes and disputes and urged immediate passage of appropriate legislation by Congress.

Those advocating such governmental regulation emphasized the seriousness of the situation by stating that ". . no particular group or special interest can ever be permitted to wield more power than the federal government if the United States are to remain united. Unscrupulous union leaders must not be allowed to attempt to make themselves bigger than the government."

They stated that labor should be forced to cooperate at this time when those in the armed forces are making such great sacrifices for their country. In normal times such regulation would not be as important, but conditions today demand that some legislative measures be taken.

Drawing For Positions At Amateur Night

Since the order in which the shows appear on Amateur Night is determined by chance, a representative of each group drew lots in the Field House last Thursday. Pictured from the left are Hector Martinez, Mendel; Lou Iademarco, Mendel day-hops; Fr. McGuire; Joe Costa, C. & F.; Tom Hitchell, Alumni; and Dick Gray, Fedigan.

Amateurs Ready

Continued From Page One

and prominent political figures will be impersonated as guests of the club.

In their inaugural appearance, the Mendel day students, coached by Rev. Robert M. Sullivan, O. S. A., will enact a play entitled "Dazapoppin." Based on the successful "Hellzapoppin" of Olsen and Johnson, it will burlesque life at college and will be complete even to the appearance of the Flying Duck, hit of the Broadway show.

"Ferd McFedigan's Tavern" will be the Fediganites' production. Included in the entertainment will be Vincent Cassavieo and a duet consisting of Tom Gildea and Dan Casey, who will sing Italian and Irish songs, respectively. With Bob Hursh as master of ceremonies, the hall will also present a chorus of twelve and an orchestra under the direction of Mark Fitzgerald.

To close the evening, the residents of Austin Hall will do a play called "Reminiscing," in an attempt to annex top honors for the fifth straight year.

The opening scene will show an old man deep in slumber, reclining in front of his fireplace. As he rests in the arms of Morpheus, his life passes in review before him: his actions in childhood, the escapades of his youth, and the unforgettable happenings of his college days.

Judges for Amateur Night will be Anthony J. Frayne, dramatic coach, two priests, and two members of the Student Council.

To Study Bridges

Final plans for an inspection trip of a number of bridges along the Schuylkill River between Spring Garden St. and Ridge Ave. will be discussed at a meeting of the local student chapter of the American Society of Civil Engineers this afternoon at 1:00 P. M. in room 102, Mendel Hall.

All engineering students are invited to take the trip on Friday afternoon. Those wishing to participate are requested to see Trip Chairman Bruno J. Talvacchia for transportation accommodations.

John Dougherty, '18, Given Loyalty Award

John J. Dougherty, '18, was presented with the Villanova Loyalty Award at the annual football banquet last Wednesday evening.

The trophy, which is given each year to an outstanding alumnus, was awarded to Dougherty for his untiring efforts and unselfish services in behalf of all things that are typical of Villanova.

The recipient, a district engineer in West Philadelphia for the Bureau of Highways, was an outstanding member of the Wildcat football teams of 1914 and 1915. He helped to found and organize the Villanova Club of Philadelphia, which he served ten years as secretary and two years as the president.

The presentation was made by John J. Cowely, president of the Philadelphia Chapter of the Villanova Club before 400 alumni and friends of the college gathered at the Penn Athletic Club.

Desires To Add New Pamphlets

Rev. Edward B. McKee, O. S. A., moderator of the Catholic Press Apostolate, today requested that the students cooperate in making possible the regular addition of new pamphlets to the racks in the college halls.

Fr. McKee explained that the funds obtained from the sale of the pamphlets are used to replenish the supply of reading material. When the students are considerate of this fact and make an offering for each pamphlet taken, it is possible for the Apostolate to add new booklets to the racks.

He added that the students are welcome at any time to read the pamphlets and then return them without making any contribution, but if they intend to keep the literature they should deposit a coin. It has been noticed in the past that several pamphlets have been taken without proper returns being made.

Fr. McKee again urged the students to examine the material in these racks, especially that which will be helpful to them in their regular religion courses. He explained that members of every class will find articles there of great interest and help to them.

The pamphlets on the Commandments should be of interest to freshmen and Fr. Connell's treatment of the Sacraments is recommended by Fr. McKee as being the best to be found anywhere. Sophomores study the Sacraments during the second semester.

WRIGLEY'S SPEARMINT CHEWING GUM
V-165
Have fun–be friendly
Treat yourself and others to fresh-tasting Wrigley's Spearmint Gum
The Flavor Lasts

Tune in the Christmas Spirit
It's Chesterfield Pleasure Time
Enjoy the music that everybody likes
N. B. C. Stations

Chesterfield
CIGARETTES
LIGGETT & MYERS TOBACCO CO.
CHESTERFIELD

Merry Christmas everybody ... this is your old friend Fred Waring

This time I'm coming to you
With a timely shopping tip . . .
Drop in at your tobacco store
Take a look at the handsome way
Your Christmas Chesterfields are packed.
You never saw the like
Of these swell gifts . . .
Big ten package cartons
Cartons holding four tins of 50
And brand new this year
Special greeting cartons
Holding just three packs.
This year It's Chesterfield
For more pleasure than Anything else you can buy
For the money.

Milder Better-Tasting ... that's why It's Chesterfield

Copyright 1941, Liggett & Myers Tobacco Co.

VILLANOVAN

Vol. 14—No. 9 N. A. S. Z-660 VILLANOVA COLLEGE, VILLANOVA, PA. TUESDAY, DECEMBER 16, 1941

Merion Site For Weekly's Banquet

Chairman Gallagher Picks General Wayne Inn for VILLANOVAN Affair Jan. 10

The tenth annual VILLANOVAN staff dinner-dance will be held at the General Anthony Wayne Inn, Merion, on Tuesday evening, Jan. 13, John T. Gallagher, business manager of the publication, announced today.

For the third successive year, Gallagher will act as chairman and toastmaster at the affair.

Highlight of the event will be the official announcement by Rev. Edward B. McKee, O. S. A., moderator, of the new editorial board selected by the retiring editor, Thomas H. Doyle, Jr., and approved by Fr. McKee.

The first issue of this new staff will appear on the following Tuesday, Jan. 20. The names of those freshmen who have been accepted for membership will appear in the masthead at the same time.

Will Present Keys

Dinner will be served at 7:00 P. M., and will be followed by speeches by Doyle; Robert J. Funabashi, the retiring sports editor; and the new editor-in-chief and sports editor. With the culmination of these addresses, Fr. McKee will present keys to the senior staff members who have served on the publication for three years. In view of former services rendered, keys will be awarded to John P. Maher, Joseph F. Bee, ex-'42, and Bernard C. Crumb, ex-'42.

As customary, the keys will be replicas of the linotype matrix of the letter "V". Name of the publication, name of the staff member, and his position will appear on the key.

Music for the dance following the dinner will be supplied by the General Wayne Inn orchestra, under the direction of Frank Roberts.

Retiring Staff Members

Retiring staff members, in addition to Doyle and Funabashi, are: William E. Schubert, Thomas A. Sullivan, Howard A. McCall, John T. Gallagher, Albert D'Alonzo, John P. Fullam, Robert F. Donovan, Bruno J. Talvacchia, Fred J. Clark, David N. Reardon, Gerard F. Belz, Sidney E. Caplan, James J. Earley, Daniel J. Haley, John F. Jakovic, Joseph V. McCabe, Robert J. McIntyre, Thomas A. Shallow, Charles W. Schaumann, John F. Cerulo, George E. Fitzgerald, Edward R. Frank, and John T. Sandonato.

Chairman Gallagher has asked that the staff members make their reservations immediately following the Christmas holidays. The affair is formal and restricted to members of the staff and their guests.

Profs To Speak During Holidays

Members of the faculty will attend and speak at various educational conferences during the Christmas holidays.

Rev. Vincent A. McQuade, O. S. A., assistant professor of social sciences, will address the American Sociological Society, meeting at the Hotel Roosevelt in New York City from Dec. 27 to 30, on the topic, "Contemporary Race Problems in the United States." Fr. McQuade will also attend the convention of the American Catholic Sociological Society, to be held at New York's Hotel Astor from Dec. 28 to 30.

Rev. John J. Vrana, O. S. A., instructor of music and fine arts, will present a paper, entitled "General Culture as an Aim in High School Teaching," at the annual Augustinian Educational Convention in Washington, D. C., on Dec. 29 and 30. Several other Villanova priests will also be in attendance at the conferences.

Harry S. McCaffrey, C. P. A., instructor of business administration, and Leo H. Schaefer, M. B. A., associate professor of business administration, will attend the convention of the American Accounting Association in New York City on Dec. 30 and 31.

"Venite, Venite In Be-eth-le-hem"

Huddled beneath a lamp-post in front of Mayfield Hall at Rosemont as they sang Christmas carols Sunday evening are Epsilon Phi Theta's members. John P. Fullam, back to the camera, is leading them through a well-rounded program in spite of the wintry wind. The members sang at Immaculata, then at Rosemont, and finished the evening at Chestnut Hill before appreciative audiences.

Carolers Show Christmas Spirit On Local Campi

What say, old chap, to a bit of jolly caroling this fine winter's eve? The Yuletide is approaching, and the stars are bright tonight. Bundle up warmly, though, for there's a nip in the air. . .

How about visiting Immaculata, Rosemont, and Chestnut Hill? Fine. Sleighs are a bit slow, of course, so Epsilon Phi Theta piles into autos and is off.

The lights from Immaculata windows gleam in cheery welcome as we arrive. It's Sunday night, and week-enders have just returned. Quietly, now—we want to surprise them, not scare them.

Heads appear at windows. "Adeste Fideles," "The First Noel," and "Silent Night" bring a sizable group to the balcony. We never knew we were that good, did we, fellows? And loud, too.

More Than Singing

"Stand, Navy, down the field . . ." A collegiate medley now. Impromptu exchange of Alma Mater from the balcony chorus, who titter appreciatively at "Let Me Call You Sweetheart."

And now for the really interesting part of caroling——a half-hour of chatting, eating, and dancing at the "Campi." We were plagued near frozen, weren't we, old man?

Evening Well-Spent

Plenty to talk about as we drive over to Rosemont, where we divide our time between singing, being photographed, and eating a sumptuous repast. Beautiful girls in the remote upper reaches: one or two on the actual battlefield.

At Chestnut Hill the audience is so large and so appreciative that we go through our entire repertoire, and only with regret deny their clamoring for more.

And all the cookies, hot chocoalte, and candy we are urged to consume, and all the laughing and joking and talking afterward make every loyal artsman more than glad he came.

God bless 'em, every one!

NYA Aid To Drop Thirty Per Cent

Curtailment of N. Y. A. assistance to the extent of 30% instead of the 50% drop originally anticipated will begin with the December-January pay period, William G. Slaughter, director of the Placement Bureau, announced today.

This means that nearly one-third of the present N. Y. A. workers will have to be dismissed.

Due to the fact that all nondefense expenditures have been curtailed, the funds that were set aside at the beginning of the present school year have been impoundpounded by the government. The assistance will probably be disbanded altogether next year.

At present no plan has been formulated here to pick the one-third that must be dropped.

College Host To Philosophy Group

Villanova will handle local arrangements for the 17th annual meeting of the American Catholic Philosophical Association, which will convene at the Benjamin Franklin Hotel, Philadelphia, on Dec. 29 and 30.

One of eleven local Catholic schools playing host, Villanova will have Rev. Edward M. Dwyer, O. S. A., assistant professor of philosophy, as chairman of the Committee on Attendance. He will be aided by several faculty members, alumni, and undergraduates of the local colleges.

As a feature of the "Ethics and Philosophy of Society Division," on Tuesday, Dec. 3, Rev. Charles J. McFadden, O. S. A., assistant professor of philosophy, will discuss "The Metaphysical Basis of Action in the Philosophy of Marxism." In collaboration, Dr. Otto Bird, of St. John's University, Brooklyn, will speak on "The Christian Basis for Marxist Hope."

Sessions of the convention will be held morning, afternoon, and evening on both days in various rooms of the hotel. Rt. Rev. Fulton J. Sneen, president of the association, will address the Monday evening session on the topic, "Man, the Image of God."

Several brief broadcasts from local radio stations, including one by Fr. Dwyer, giving popular treatment of "Philosophy and Order," the general theme of the meeting, are being arranged.

Four Air Raid Protection Units Are Formed Here

General Committee, Wardens, First Aid Group to Handle Civilian Defense

Formation of four committees to handle civilian defense at Villanova was announced yesterday by Very Rev. Edward V. Stanford, O. S. A., president.

A general committee to oversee the arrangements, a group of air raid wardens, a group of auxiliary fire wardens, and a committee on first aid were chosen to take care of the college's protection in event of air raids.

The committees have been formed, in the belief that "an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure," to have definite arrangements ready in case sporadic raids occur. Governmental authorities do not expect any steady bombing in this country, but admit the possibility of isolated raids to scare United States civilians.

To Coordinate Work

Fr. Stanford, professor Harry S. Bueche, John P. Kirchner, Thomas J. McKimmey, Rev. John J. McMenamin, O. S. A., Thomas D. McQuade, Rev. Vincent A. McQuade, O. S. A., associate professor John A. Oakey, and Thomas F. Sheehy, Jr., make up the general committee in charge of coordinating the work of the groups handling the special functions.

The air raid wardens will keep order and direct proceedings in the halls when, and if, bombings occur. The auxiliary fire service will direct the training of men in putting out fires caused by bombs and other sources. The first aid group will provide students trained by short courses under Red Cross supervision to treat injuries.

Survey Being Made

Three senior engineers, Vincent Gordon, John Muench, and Philip Malarkey, are surveying the buildings of the campus to determine the safest places for air raid shelters. Professors Bueche and Oakey will draft final plans for these when the survey is completed.

Fr. McQuade will act as chief air-raid warden to direct priests and resident students in the various halls of the campus appointed as wardens of their buildings.

Hall Wardens

Faculty wardens will be Rev. John J. Anderson, O. S. A., Rev. John H. Crawford, O. S. A., Rev. John R. Dunne, O. S. A., Rev. Edward M. Dwyer, O. S. A., Rev. Francis W. Ludwig, O. S. A., Rev. Edward B. McKee, O. S. A., and Rev. John J. Vrana, O. S. A.

Students already appointed as air raid wardens—others wil be added later — are Reno White, Redento Rampo, Joseph Elward, and Arthur

CIVILIAN DEFENSE
Continued on Page Four

Colombian Students Praise U. S. A.— But Some Funny Things Happen Here

The Spanish Club held a reception last Friday evening for 28 South Americans, young men from Colombia who are studying at the University of Pennsylvania during their summer vacation. The program included short speeches, musical entertainment, a motion picture, and dancing—but these were no more interesting than the Latin Americans themselves.

For, through an interpreter, they disclosed: a) that the United States' good will program is working fine; b) that the U. S. is a swell, hospitable country; and, c) that a foreigner, strange to our ways and tongue, can have some funny things happen to him.

Courses in Their Fields

Four of the students, Gilberto Rodriguez, Hernando Vargas, Gabrielle Toro, and Gabrielle Velasquez, explained that the group arrived two weeks ago for two months of study; they are taking courses in public speaking and phonetics, as well as in their respective fields of study. The contingent, all students of the National University in Bogota, Colombia, South America's third largest country, came here to become acquainted with the United States.

Rodriguez and Vargas, for instance, who will be architects, are studying that subject here. They have nothing but praise for American architecture, believing that Philadelphia has some of the most wonderful specimens they've ever seen.

Like the U. S.

All were warm in their praise for the United States; they "never thought before (they) came here that there was such a great friendship for Latin America." In Colombia, which has made great cultural and educational progress during the last ten years, there is nothing but good feeling toward the United States.

Things about our country which we accept without thinking impress them. Vargas likes "the practical organization of life and business in this country, even in the smaller details such as the excellent police forces." Velasquez, another medical student, says that our excellent educational system accounts for our progress.

Speeches Swell

Toro "likes the speeches here most, even though (he's) heard more in one day here than in (his)

CLUB RECEPTION
Continued on Page Eight

President Urges All Students To Keep Calm View

Cautioning Against Hysteria, Fr. Stanford, in Two Talks, Entreats Them to Keep At Their Work

While war clouds thickened, Very Rev. Edward V. Stanford, O. S. A., president of the college, in two informal addresses to the student body, cautioned against panic and urged students to maintain the calm determination for and cooperation with, the defense program which marked their attitude before our entry into war.

Fr. Stanford spoke to the resident students at chapel services on Tuesday evening and to the day students in the Mendel Amphitheatre on Friday.

Seriousness Not Minimized

Stressing the fact that it was not his purpose to minimize the seriousness of the situation, the president nevertheless reminded his listeners that examples of civilian panic exhibited thus far make it doubly vital that students keep at their jobs and to those jobs even better, if possible.

Declaring that those who will exert pressure for enlistment upon the students will not be taking a real view of the situation, Fr. Stanford warned against any precipitate act.

Deferments Received

Conferences held in Washington on Thursday and Friday of last week were for the purpose of ironing out the difficulties of college students in the emergency, he said. He himself attended a meeting of college presidents in New York on Wednesday to deal with the problem.

The president devoted a portion of his address to the students already registered under the Selective Service Act. He stated that every day since Sunday, deferment cards — even second deferments — have been coming into his office. Individual draft boards have been making rash statements, he said, but the general Selective Service policy has remained unchanged.

Fr. Stanford stated yesterday that the proposed revision of the draft age limits does not change what he said concerning the duty of the students.

Discounts Rumors

A number of unfounded rumors, supposedly news issued from Fr. Stanford's office, circulated about the campus last week. These reports, which concerned such phases of the war as that graduation would be advanced this year and that diplomas would be issued to seniors who did not complete their courses, were collected together and presented by a VILLANOVAN editor to the President.

He gave assurance that any time there is news to report or changes are contemplated students will be given plenty of notice in a definite way. At present there are no such plans in mind.

Fr. Stanford Named To Educators' Board

At its recent fall meeting, the Association of American Colleges appointed Very Rev. Edward V. Stanford, O. S. A., president of Villanova, to a commission on "Colleges and Post-War Problems." Nine other college presidents were named to serve on the commission.

Fr. Stanford will attend the annual convention of the association in Cleveland on Jan. 8 and 9 and, as chairman of the Committee on Nominations, present a report. On Jan. 7, he will attend the convention of the National Conference of Church Related Colleges, also meeting in the Hotel Cleveland.

Both groups will concern themselves with college problems in the war and American education and world responsibility.

The Holy And The Holly

EACH December 25 we celebrate Some one's birthday. Jesus, the Christ, Son of and one with the Almighty God. Jesus promised Redeemer of the world, was born to this earth 1941 years ago this Christmas. With His birth He gave us the religion we Catholics profess to this day.

Christmas is a grave and solemn occasion. Paradoxically, we celebrate it with outward joviality and inward joy. Yet we do not overstep the bounds of solemnity; we are serious. And we are serious about being gay. By being so we are fulfilling the wish of the Almighty, whose angelic chorus re-echoed a promise of "Peace on earth to men of good will" across the rolling pastureland of Bethlehem. We have always been happy at Christmas, and always will be, be the conditions of the world as they may.

The spirit of this Christmas, therefore, will follow the spirit of past Christmases. We will be charitable to those less fortunate than ourselves. We will pray and sing, drink and love and laugh. We will fast on the Eve of Christmas and feast on Christmas Day. We will enjoy ourselves thoroughly in a pious and fitting manner.

Going home tomorrow, we will have the pictures of our families and friends constantly in our minds. Our eagerness to see them will scarcely be controllable. The old folks, (in years, not in mind) as well as the young await us with an impatience that equals our own. What a joy will it be to be home at Christmas! There will be handshakes and back-slappings, and kisses on the cheek from Aunt Martha and Grandmother. It is strange that we never become too old or too wise to enjoy such little plays of affection.

There will be turkeys and geese and ducks, pies and puddings and cranberry sauce, mirth and wit and friendly jest. There will be the tree, ablaze with decorations, the presents in their red and green wrappings, the stockings of the small ones, crammed with little pleasures. It will be a wonderful holiday—a holiday full of friendship and love.

We will have a difficult time controlling our spirits for the remaining day of class. But school will soon be over until next year. When the lunch bell rings tomorrow, it's

"Heigh-ho the holly,
This life is most jolly."

—T. P. McF.

VILLANOVAN

Issued twenty-five times a year from Villanova College, Villanova, Pa.

THOMAS H. DOYLE, JR., '42 .... Editor-in-Chief
ROBERT J. FUNABASHI, '42 .... Sports Editor
THOMAS F. DEVINE, '43 .... College Editor
WILLIAM E. SCHUBERT, '42 .... Managing Editor
THOMAS A. SULLIVAN, '42 .... Copy Editor
HOWARD A. McCALL, '42 .... Literary Editor
JOHN T. GALLAGHER, '42 .... Business Manager
ALBERT D'ALONZO, '42 .... Photography Editor
JOHN P. FULLAM, '42 .... Feature Editor
ROBERT F. DONOVAN, '42 .... Subscription Manager
BRUNO J. TALVACCHIA, '42 .... Exchange Editor
BERNARD C. CRUMB, ex-'42,
Honorary Circulation Manager

Columnists
F. J. Clark, '42 D. N. Reardon, '42

Staff Writers
F Bagot, '43; G. Belz, '42; E. Bennis, '43; H. Binder, '44; J. Bongiovanni, '43; R. Canfield, '43; S. Canning, '43; S. Caplan, '42; J. Coleman, '43; W. Craven, '43; L. DeSimone, '44; J. Dudley, '43; J. Earley, '42; L. Esposito, '43; W. Guncheon, Jr., '43; D. Haley, '42; J. Jakovic, '42; J. Mahoney, '43; J. Mauch, '43; J. McCabe, '42; R. McIntyre, '42; T. Muraski, '43; J. Nunemaker, '43; F. Reese, '43; T Shallow, '42; C. Schaumann, '42; J. Tortoreto, '44; R .Young, '44.

Business Assistants
C. Callahan, '43 L. Jones, '43 E. Smith, '43
J. Walsh, '43

Circulation Assistants
J. Cerulo, '42 G. Fitzgerald, '42 E. Frank, '42
N. Eni, '43 J. Keays, '44 J. Monroe, '44

Photography Staff
R. Amicone, '43 L. Eni, '44 J. Sandonato, '42

Faculty Advisor—Rev. Edward B. McKee, O. S. A.

This paper is dedicated to one of the finest men who ever entered Villanova: scholar, athlete, gentleman — LEO GOODREAU

Subscription: $2.00 per year. Circulation: 3500.
Entered as second class matter at the Villanova Post Office December 27, 1928.

Member of Associated Collegiate Press; Distributor of Collegiate Digest.
Member of Catholic School Press Association, Catholic College Press Association, and National Scholastic Press Association.

TUESDAY • • • • DECEMBER 16, 1941

The Twains Must Meet

WHEN the United States recognized the declarations of war made upon us by Germany and Italy, we became a belligerent power in the world conflict. We allied with Great Britain and the Soviet Union, have now dedicated ourselves to the defeat of the Axis.

Our nation has vowed that there shall be no place for stinting of any kind in the task confronting it. All the resources of our land are to be utilized to vanquish the forces threatening the safety and liberty which it has safeguarded through all perils. America is ready to do its part and asks only that the other countries engaged against the common enemy share fully the burdens which befall.

Quickly and successfully to conduct the battle in the East toward the desired end, America has need of strategic air and naval bases near Japan. The eastern Siberian coast is possibly the most ideal location to be had as a "home" port for military operations against the Nippon government. Russia, however, is somewhat reluctant to have us establish headquarters there because of a mutual non-aggression pact made with Japan before our entrance into the war.

Fear of attack by Tokio while she is locked with Hitler on another front is predominantly responsible for Russia's hesitation in releasing Siberia to our use. Speculations that the Nazis will halt their offensive against the Soviet during the winter, however, should mean much to the Russians in the way of calming their fears about Japan. America's need and confidence in our ability should mean much more to them. If we could acquire these bases for our own, perhaps before Spring, Russia could be liberated from the anxiety about an attack from the rear for the duration of the war.

If Russia does not know better than to trust Japan and her "heroic actions," America could possibly warn her with guarantees of adequate lend-lease materials.

—H. A. McC.

A Challenge

JUST a day after our country declared war, our college president addressed you from the altar railing at evening chapel services. He gave you a message, a message that was a challenge. A challenge to you as Americans.

He spoke of the necessity for clear thinking and coolheadedness. He spoke of the necessity and duty to remain at school until our country definitely needs us and, if anything, to study harder so as to better prepare ourselves. Then he spoke of the necessity, duty, and sacrifice of daily Mass and frequent Communion to pray for our fellow men who are fighting far from home, virtually isolated from such privileges, and to pray that our leaders are divinely inspired to direct us rightly. This is the challenge.

Daily Mass and frequent Communion are necessary for encouragement, faith, and peace of mind during such a crisis. It is a duty because it is the most sincere act we can offer for the benefit of those who are in actual combat. It is a material sacrifice in getting up an hour or so earlier, but more important, it is a divine sacrifice in that it is an offering to God.

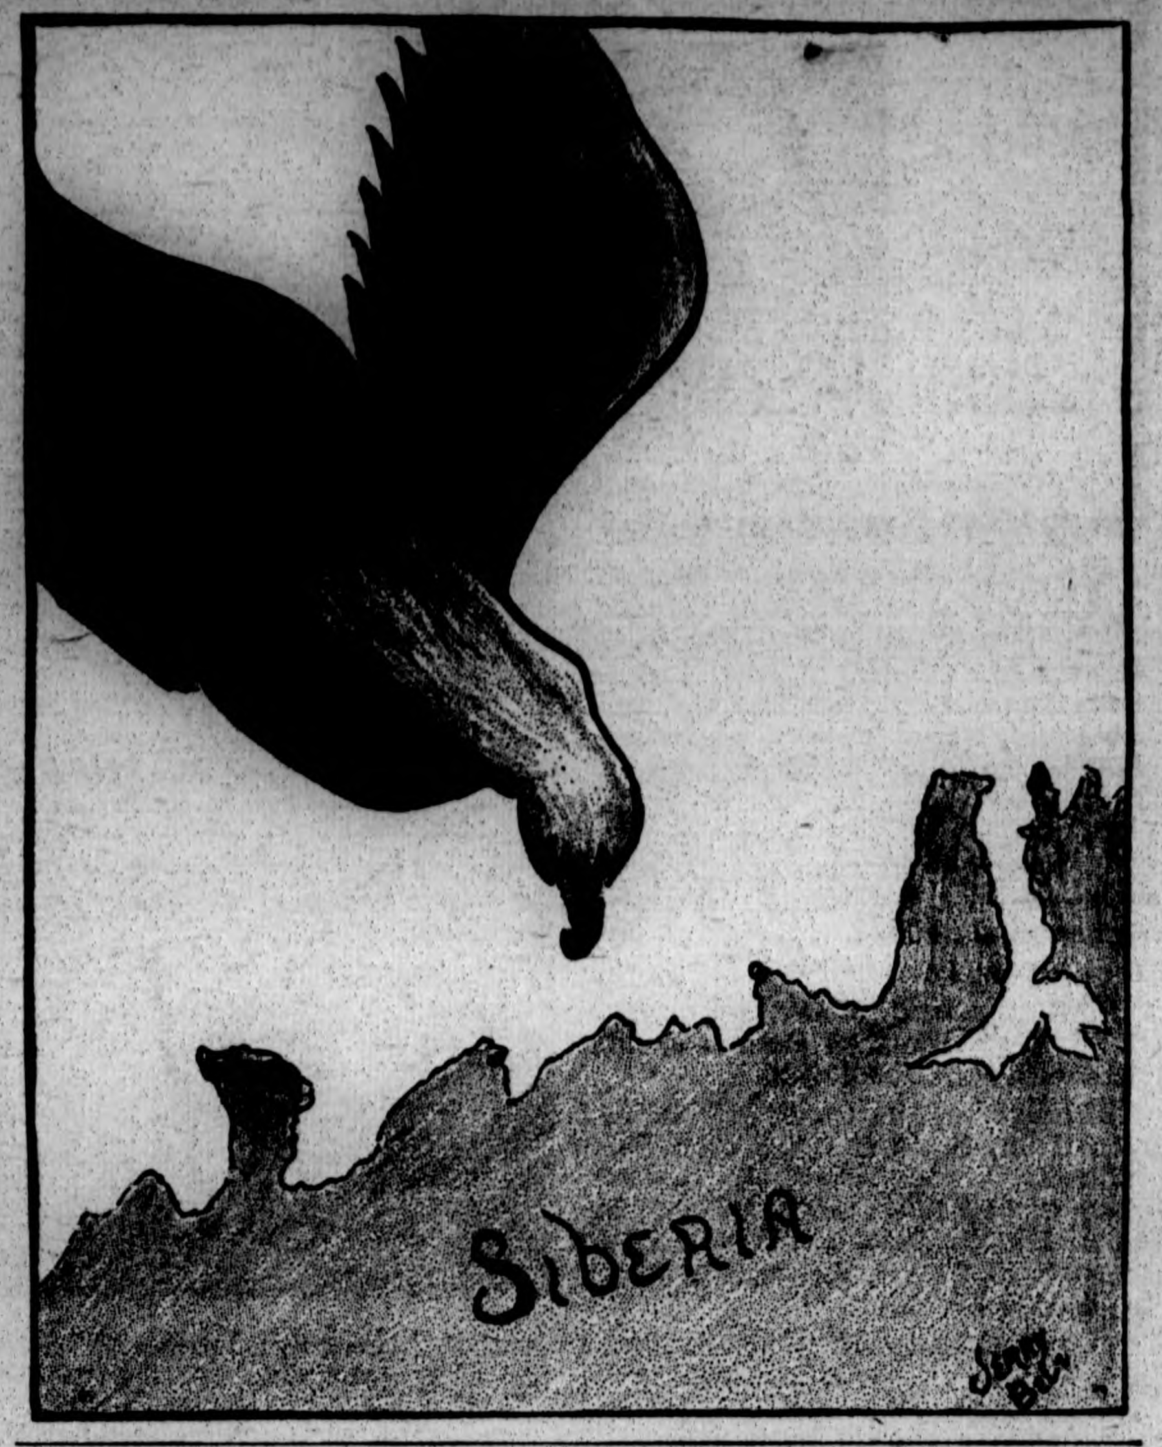
And the slight physical sacrifice entailed in the loss of an hour's sleep is more than made up by the incalculable spiritual benefits which accrue from participation in the Holy Sacrifice.

If you accept this challenge now, you will be more willing to accept the challenge of conflict when you are called for service. For you will know that you left behind you classmates who are doing their bit for you.

—T. C. M.

New Nest?

by BELZ



FACULTY COMMENTS

Excessive Nationalism— A Prime Cause Of The War

By FR. BARTLEY

IN any consideration of peace objectives, attention must be placed upon one of the prime causes of the present world war—excessive nationalism.

Nationalism, whether capitalistic or totalitarian, is excessive when it pursues its own interests, irrespective of the rights of other nations. Whenever and wherever possible, national gain is its goal even at the expense and injury of other nations. Nationalism produces a bitter spirit of rivalry and fosters fierce competition in world markets. Nationalism recognizes no moral restraint; its only fear is retaliation and armed force.

Results of Nationalism

As a result of the economic philosophy of nationalism, we have broken treaties, prohibitory tariffs, trade restrictions, discriminations, retaliations and vast armaments. As a result of this philosophy, we have a never-ending struggle of nations for power—a struggle which periodically breaks out into war. Intense nationalism promotes international collapse.

The cult of economic nationalism in its modern form dates back to the middle of the 19th century. It is the product of false philosophy and false teaching. Pope Pius XII has condemned economic nationalism as "opposed to the law of human solidarity and charity."

Cause of First World War

Nationalism paved the way of statesmen and prepared the mind of peoples for the first World War. This war, the costliest in history till now, was chiefly nationalist. Its fighting was done and its cost sustained by "nations in arms" whose morale was sustained by nationalist propaganda through press, schools and special associations. The most immediate result was the triumph of the principle of national self-determination in central Europe. From the ruins of the Austrian, Russian and Ottoman empires were constructed new and enlarged states: Finland, Estonia, Lithuania, Poland, Czechoslovakia, Jugoslavia, Rumania and Greece. The first World War emanated from nationalism and has led to a more intense nationalism.

These new states soon vied with older national states in establishing nationalist tariffs, armies, schools and other agencies of propaganda, and in discriminating socially if not legally against minorities. Demagogues and dictators have risen to positions of power and influence in several European countries and have used their position to preach or enforce a more intensive and more exclusive nationalism.

Need for Corrective Measures

The second World War is now upon us. Unless plans are now made to correct one of the chief causes of both these wars, it is an easy forecast that when nations have sufficiently recuperated, nationalism will produce a third World War.

Overdeveloped nationalism is a difficult disease to master. But peace-desiring statesmen should find hope in developing plans for a strong and more enduring organization than the League of Nations. By revising the doctrine of state sovereignty, by yielding a certain amount of autonomy by agreement states should be able to create an international organization with sufficient centralized power to overcome the excesses of nationalism.

Nations Must Co-operate

To preserve international order calls for much more than the reestablishment of the gold standard, the setting up of new tariff barriers and the reallocation of colonies. Nationalism had all these things and failed. Instead of unrestricted national competitions, we must have an ordered international cooperation. An international union of nations should have power to enforce agreements between and among nations; supervise colonies; remove export taxes; keep open the lines of international trade; ration raw materials; control national monopolies and give assistance in international finance.

Nations should create economic councils or committees composed of experts on domestic production and consumption; on credit and banking and on wages and working conditions. Each council should have power to act with authority in predetermined areas. The various councils would form an international federation whose decisions within agreed areas are binding on each and all nations.

It is only along lines of such planning that future generations can picture the hope of enduring international peace.

Wildcat Whirl

By Dave Reardon

WITH world events happening at an unheard of pace, the campus has been quite interested. Many of the gigolos have become serious for the first time in four years when they realize that their Uncle Sam really means business.

Despite these affairs of the day, tomorrow will commence the long anticipated Christmas holidays which will afford a lengthy respite from the scholastic grind and permit the boys to return to their local lairs and renew their social acquaintances.

* * *

Friend: Was your son home from college for the Christmas holidays?

Villanovan's Father: Well if he wasn't someone stole the car.

* * *

ODDENDA:

Junior Prom Chairman Jim Walsh has spent more than his time ($$$) at the Wellington. We're all hoping to meet her at the Prom. . . At the amateur show the other night, Austin's simon-pure reminiscence overtook Ferd McFedigan's barleque. . Jim Meehan has currently been seen squiring a Chestnut Hill lass, Mary Meehan. . .She's not his wife, in fact she isn't even related to him. . .Joe Pollino's interest is also from the Mount and answers to the name of Mary.

The other week Bernie Swartz was en route home to Atlantic City via the thumb. When a driver picked him up, Bernie asked "Are you going over the bridge?" After an affirmative reply had been given they rode on and on until he found himself on the other side of the river but above Trenton. He arrived home about 8:00 P. M.. . . Frank Kenney, forlorn frosh, maintains a constant vigil at the P. O. six times daily, awaiting the arrival of the letter that unfortunately never comes. . .Who is the siren whom Walt Fox and Ernie Klappenbach are frequently visiting at the 52nd St. Club?

Joe McEvoy suggests sending the Emperor of Japan a diving suit for Christmas so that he may review his navy. . .Joe Coke was seen shopping in town the other day—alone. Why wasn't Ann F. along?. . .Bill Bordon, frosh premed student, was picked as the perfect escort at a recent St. Mary's Hospital Dance, the smoothie.

* * *

DAFFYNITIONS:

Night Club—Where the girls are boisterous and the boys girl-sterous.

Publican—A receptacle which everybody uses.

* * *

HORS D'OEUVRES:

Tony "King" Anderson, after an extended period of time, still maintains connections with ex-Prom queen Gloria "Doie" Spatola. . . Ed Korisky was recently invited to feast at the home of an admirer of his in North Philly. . .another footballer, Ed Kasky, pens a letter a day to Jean, his Glen Cove, L. I., lady-in-waiting.

Bob White has finally entrenched himself solidly at Rosemont by rushing Dale, a comely sophomore . . .Bob "George C. Dates" Hursh and Leroy "Thomas" Simonsen have resorted to using Glover's Mange Medicine to stem the continued recession of their hairlines . . . One of the longest existing affairs of the heart on this campus involves quiet Moe Keating and Carlene, dating back indefinitely.

Tom Devine received an enormous portrait of his gal, Betty, for Christmas. . .It is understood that Rosemont held a quiet little tea dance on Sunday. . .Yesterday on yonder campus, Beta Gamma matched wits with the co-ed orators before a large crowd. . .Ed Riley gets moody when he doesn't hear regularly from Jeanne, his N. Y. C. heartbeat.

Juan Silva has been called home by his father in Cuba but cannot secure transportation to the island republic. . .Bill Craven, claims that Marion, his recent night-school acquaintance, has replaced a Penn State co-ed on his list. . .Austin Gavin is once again trying to get back in social circulation. . .Logan "Meathead" Phillips and Jack Grabosky have enlisted in the Naval Reserve Air Corps.

Meet The Boys: Don's A Boy Who's Been Around; Jim's Not So Far Above The Ground

By JOHN P. FULLAM

NO DOUBT about it: this is a changing world. Even before the foreign situation took a change for the worse, we had to contend with all sorts of variation — in the football team's fortune, or the price of eggs, for instance. Then, a few years earlier, there was the repeal of the 18th Amendment. Before that, the stock market did a snappy about-face.

And while all these things were going on, Donald V. Speese was undergoing changes so frequently as to make national and international affairs seem quite stable.

He set out on his long and tortuous path of life in Germantown, Philadelphia, on July 29, 1918.

At a very tender age he, accompanied by his parents, moved to Ocean City, N. J. A year later, he decided to try a more southerly climate and established himself at St. Petersburg, Florida. That was when he was two.

Four years later, just for the heck of it, he came back to Glenside ,Pa., where he entered St. Luke's grammar school. When he reached fifth grade, he decided to try St. Benedict's in Germantown. And then, somehow or other, he wound up his grammar school days at Glenside-Weldon.

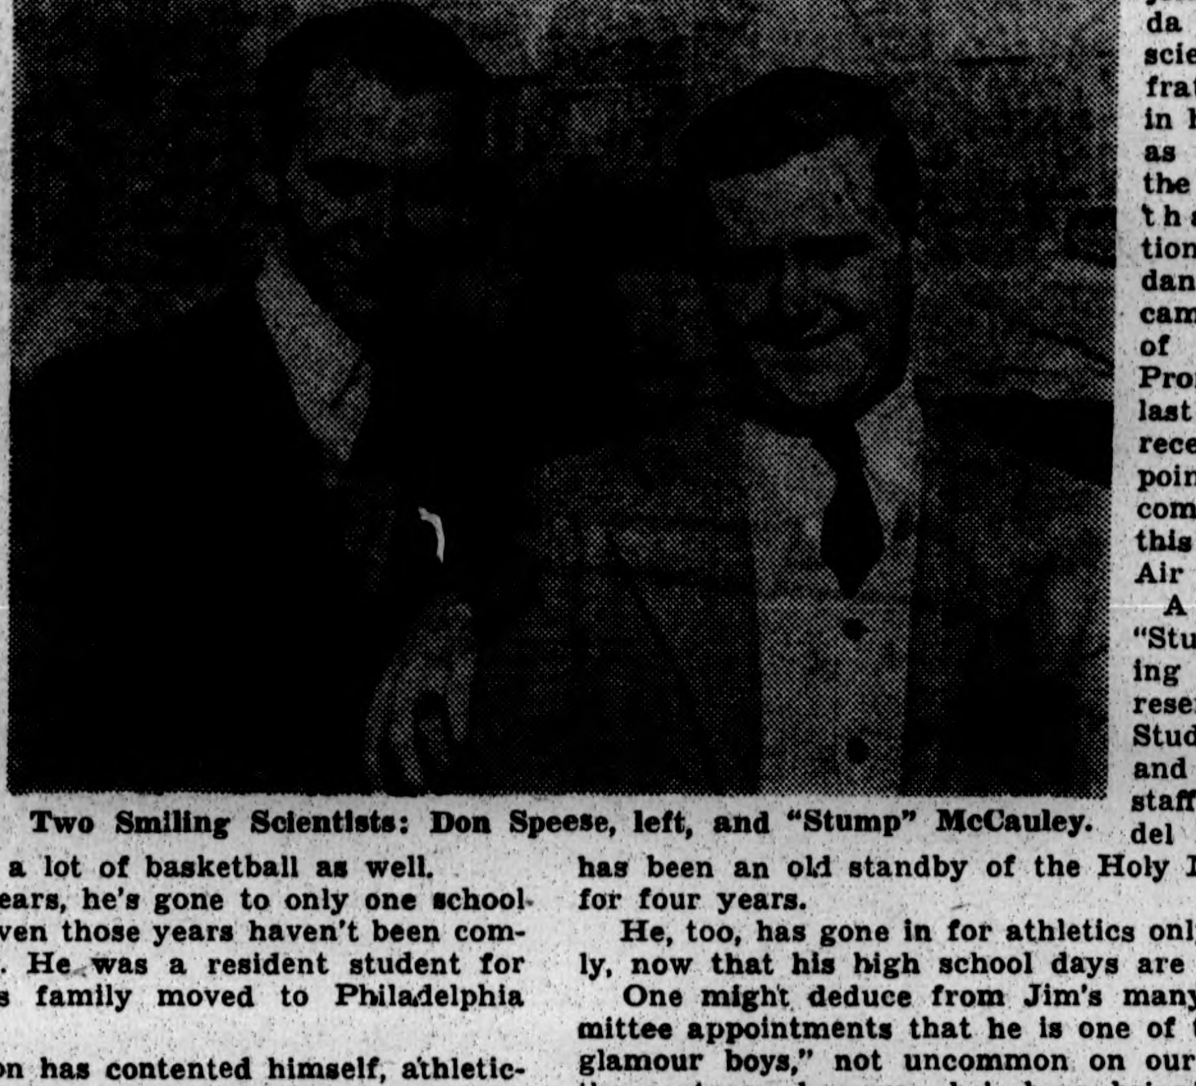
Malvern Prep was the next stop on the Speese Local. During his two years there he played quite a bit of football and basketball. Then he rejoined his family in Atlantic City. At Holy Spirit High School there, he played two years of varsity football which the townspeople are still talking about, and a lot of basketball as well.

For four long years, he's gone to only one school — Villanova. But even those years haven't been completely unchanging. He was a resident student for one year until his family moved to Philadelphia again.

At Villanova, Don has contented himself, athletically, with participation in intramurals. He was a member of last year's Junior Prom Committee, is at present vice-president of the Research Seminar, and vice-president of the senior class.

A true science man, he plans to enter medical school next year. He shouldn't have any trouble about entrance requirements; not only does he have a good class record, but in addition he can quote a definitely impressive list of statistics about the shortage of internes.

Don will have you know, first, that gentlemen prefer red-heads; and secondly, that he considers himself a gentleman.



Two Smiling Scientists: Don Speese, left, and "Stump" McCauley.

THERE'S SOME kind of a law in physics about opposites attracting each other, isn't there? Well, in the case of "Stump" McCauley, science senior, it would be safe to go even farther than that.

For James E. McCauley is an example of one small individual being one "big shot." — But quietly.

It's hard to figure out where to start in enumerating "Stump's" accomplishments. He himself started in East Mauch Chunk, Pa., but not many others consider that his most important characteristic. Perhaps his very well-chosen nickname ranks high on the list.

Eight years at St. Joseph's parochial school served as a prelude to four action-packed years at Mauch Chunk Catholic High. In the latter institution he did almost everything but tend the furnace: he was class president for four years; he played varsity football for three years and varsity basketball for two; and he received an American Legion Medal upon graduation.

But when he came to Villanova, Jim proved that all that had gone before was just a warm-up period.

First of all, he joined the Lambda Kappa Delta, science school frat, and served, in his junior year, as a member of the committee for that organization's annual dance. He became a member of the Junior Prom committee last year, and has recently been appointed to the committee for this year's Belle Air Ball.

At present "Stump" is serving as class representative on the Student Council, and is on the staff of the "Mendel Bulletin." He has been an old standby of the Holy Name Society for four years.

He, too, has gone in for athletics only intramurally, now that his high school days are over.

One might deduce from Jim's many dance committee appointments that he is one of those "roving glamour boys," not uncommon on our campus. On the contrary, however, he's been bringing the same little miss to the football games and dances for four years now. Some unkind souls explain this phenomenon—at Villanova, brother it is a phenomenon—by saying that "he's lucky to find anyone his size"; but they are not the ones who really read the McCauley heart.

And, after the manner of people who have nothing better to do, certain loungers-about in the vicinity of 124 Fedigan have been known to pass derogatory remarks about the McCauley gait. But no one ever complains about the McCauley smile or the McCauley disposition.

Austin's Memory Outshines Fedigan's Review To Cop Amateur Prize; Audience Is Vociferous

WITH a helpful student audience freely voicing approval, encouragement, and even suggestions for improvement, Austin Hall repeated last year's triumph to attain highest honors in the annual Amateur Night contest held last Wednesday evening.

Second and third places in the hotly-contested competition went to Fedigan and Alumni Halls, respectively. The C. and F. Day-Hops, Mendel Residents, and Mendel Day-Hops finished fourth, fifth, and sixth, in that order.

"Reminiscing," top show of the evening, presented heavily-bearded Jim Halpin sprawling in an armchair and reviewing his life from childhood to college days.

When the dreamer in Austin Hall's winning Amateur Night show viewed his past life, the first scene that sprang to mind was this one. Here the dreamer as a baby in his carriage ("Bull" Molnar) gets his bottle from grandma ("Major" McDonnell).

Charles Molnar played the part of the baby with an inclination for beverages stronger than milk. Frank Buckley portrayed the awkward high school youth and the debonair college man, finally dancing several intriguing numbers with coy George Szucs, the feminine lovelight of the story.

Into the central plot, numerous features were woven by a talented author. Vince Carlesimo out-voiced the audience to render several popular songs and "Major" McDonald offered numerous imitations of famous characters, including the "Mole." The entire performance was narrated in cynically mellow tones of George Rabidoux.

Fedigan Hall won second honors with "Ferd McFedigan's Tavern." Ernie Klappenbach presided as master of ceremonies over an unique version of an evening in an inn.

Several of Fedigan's "most charming couples" added local color to the scene. Included on this program were many terse and extremely thoughtful statements regarding campus and international affairs.

Several feature acts were offered, including singer Tom Gildea and John Koslowski, the Joisey City youngster. The latter burlesqued the garb and actions of "Paul, the Painter," a more than-familiar figure on the campus for the past twelve years.

Third place winner was the Alumni show. Passing in review before the Bumpstead family were such characters as Popeye, the Spirit, Li'l Abner, and Mandrake. This show in particular aroused the audience to a state of feverish excitement; students urgently exhorted their favorite characters to appear.

Tom Hitchell tap-danced two numbers and Edward Morin tickled the ivories for several boogie-woogie pieces. Everyone in Alumni Hall seemed to appear in the show; even moderator Fr. Dunne was unconsciously drawn on the stage from the wings in the enthusiasm of his direction.

The C. & F. Day-Hops, who appeared first on the evening's program, took fourth place with a review supposedly dealing with the adventures of two British sailors in Philadelphia; the "adventures" included everything from an Apache dance to a piano rendition of Tschaikowski's "Piano Concerto." The latter was rendered on a toy piano by Jim Lattanza, who had never played a note before Amateur Night rehearsals. He was accompanied by a recording machine. Bob McIntyre, producer, was blamed for the show.

The Mendel Residents, under the direction of Tom McKimmey, were more musically inclined than the other groups. An accordion and saxophone duet and an "interpretative" dance by John Scola ended in more or less of a round-table discussion between actors and audience.

Mendel Day-Hops, performing this year for the first time, finished in the last position with a play based upon the more successful show, "Hellzapoppin."

Tally Ho!

By Bruno Talvacchia

AMERICAN history was the principal subject on the curiculum of every college student last week. Most of us were ear-witnesses to the congressional enactments recognizing the existence of a state of war with Imperial Japan, Germany, and Italy.

* * *

Collegiate Declaration:

At a special meeting of the Princeton University Senate on the night of the Hawaiian "infamy" occurrence, war was declared by a vote of 55-0.

* * *

First Freshman:

Temple University News published an "Inaugural Issue" dedicated to the recent inauguration of its third president, Robert L. Johnson. Included in the issue was a picture of our own president, Fr. Stanford, who gave the invocation at a luncheon in honor of the University's new head.

Well-known as a co-founder of the "Time," "Fortune," and "Life" magazines, Mr. Johnson is described in the News as follows: "He has a friendly smile and a happy word for everyone; he likes the idea of students calling him 'Bob' Johnson behind his back; he will find time to see everybody about anything and enjoys discussing problems with his 'fellow students'; but most of all, 'Temple's First Freshman' likes Temple — to talk about, to see, to improve."

* * *

Tally Ho-sophy:

Ten good soldiers, wisely led,
Will beat a hundred without a head.

* * *

Oh, Brother:

Sigma Delta Chi, national professional journalistic fraternity, University of Southern California, has selected its eighth generation of Four-Star Co-eds. According to the U. S. C. Alumni Review, brunette Duane Berryman, blonde Beverly Royston, and brownette Jean Dyer were chosen on a basis of beauty, brains, personality, and "Oh, Brother!" The article further defines "Oh, Brother," as the 1941 collegiate version of "Oomph."

* * *

U. S. C. Verse:

Be strong, be strong!
We are not here to play, to dream, to drift;
We have hard work to do and loads to lift;
Shun not the struggle: face it— 'tis God's gift.
Be strong, be strong!

* * *

Bright Sayings:

Speaking of draftees — when Bette Co-ed was asked what she would do if she had fifty thousand dollars, she resplendently replied, "I'd buy chairs for the standing army."

—Nazareth Gleaner.

* * *

Business Release:

The national crisis also requires unusual ability in the business world. The man behind the man behind the gun demands of the college graduate a variety of coordinated qualifications.

The Boston College Heights refers us to a survey conducted by John F. Mee, Director of Indiana University's Personnel and Placement Bureau. The study was made by tabulating qualifications demanded of graduates by the personnel directors of business organizations throughout the nation. The first requisite is a contradiction of the modern idea (so-called) of de-emphasizing scholastic aptitude.

Strange as it may seem, the results show that employers desire high scholarship, good personality, leadership and organizing ability, some experience, partial earning of one's way through school, ease of expression in writing, tall stature, and that applicants be unmarried. These are listed in their order of importance.

* * *

Season's Greetings:

The eve of an extended holiday invariably gives us a Saturday-nite feeling. Anticipation of the "books aweigh" period straight through into the New Year is "good for what ails you." This column wishes you all the fruits of Santa's good nature.

Engineers Hear Naval Officers

Lieut. Hall Describes Plan of Ensign Commissions for Technical Graduates

Approximately 125 engineers attended a meeting in Mendel Hall yesterday at which Captain C. M. Hall, U. S. N., and Lieutenant R. C. Hall, U. S. N. R, described the program in which commissions as Ensigns in the United States Naval Reserve are open to engineering graduates.

Preliminary applications, entailing no obligations to join, were distributed at the meeting; these are to be turned in to the dean of the engineering school within three days after the conclusion of the Christmas holiday.

A naval medical board will visit the school at the end of January, Lieutenant Hall announced, and the candidates who pass their examination will be given formal applications. Approval of these applications by the Bureau of Navigation in Washington will give seniors appointment as ensigns upon graduation and juniors appointment as probationary ensigns until they graduate.

These men will be assigned to technical duties, requiring special training along engineering lines. They will serve in aviation, the Bureau of Ships, and in the Bureau of Ordnance.

Qualifications for all candidates are that they be between the ages of 19 and 26, citizens of the United States, possess officer-like qualities, and pass the required physical examination.

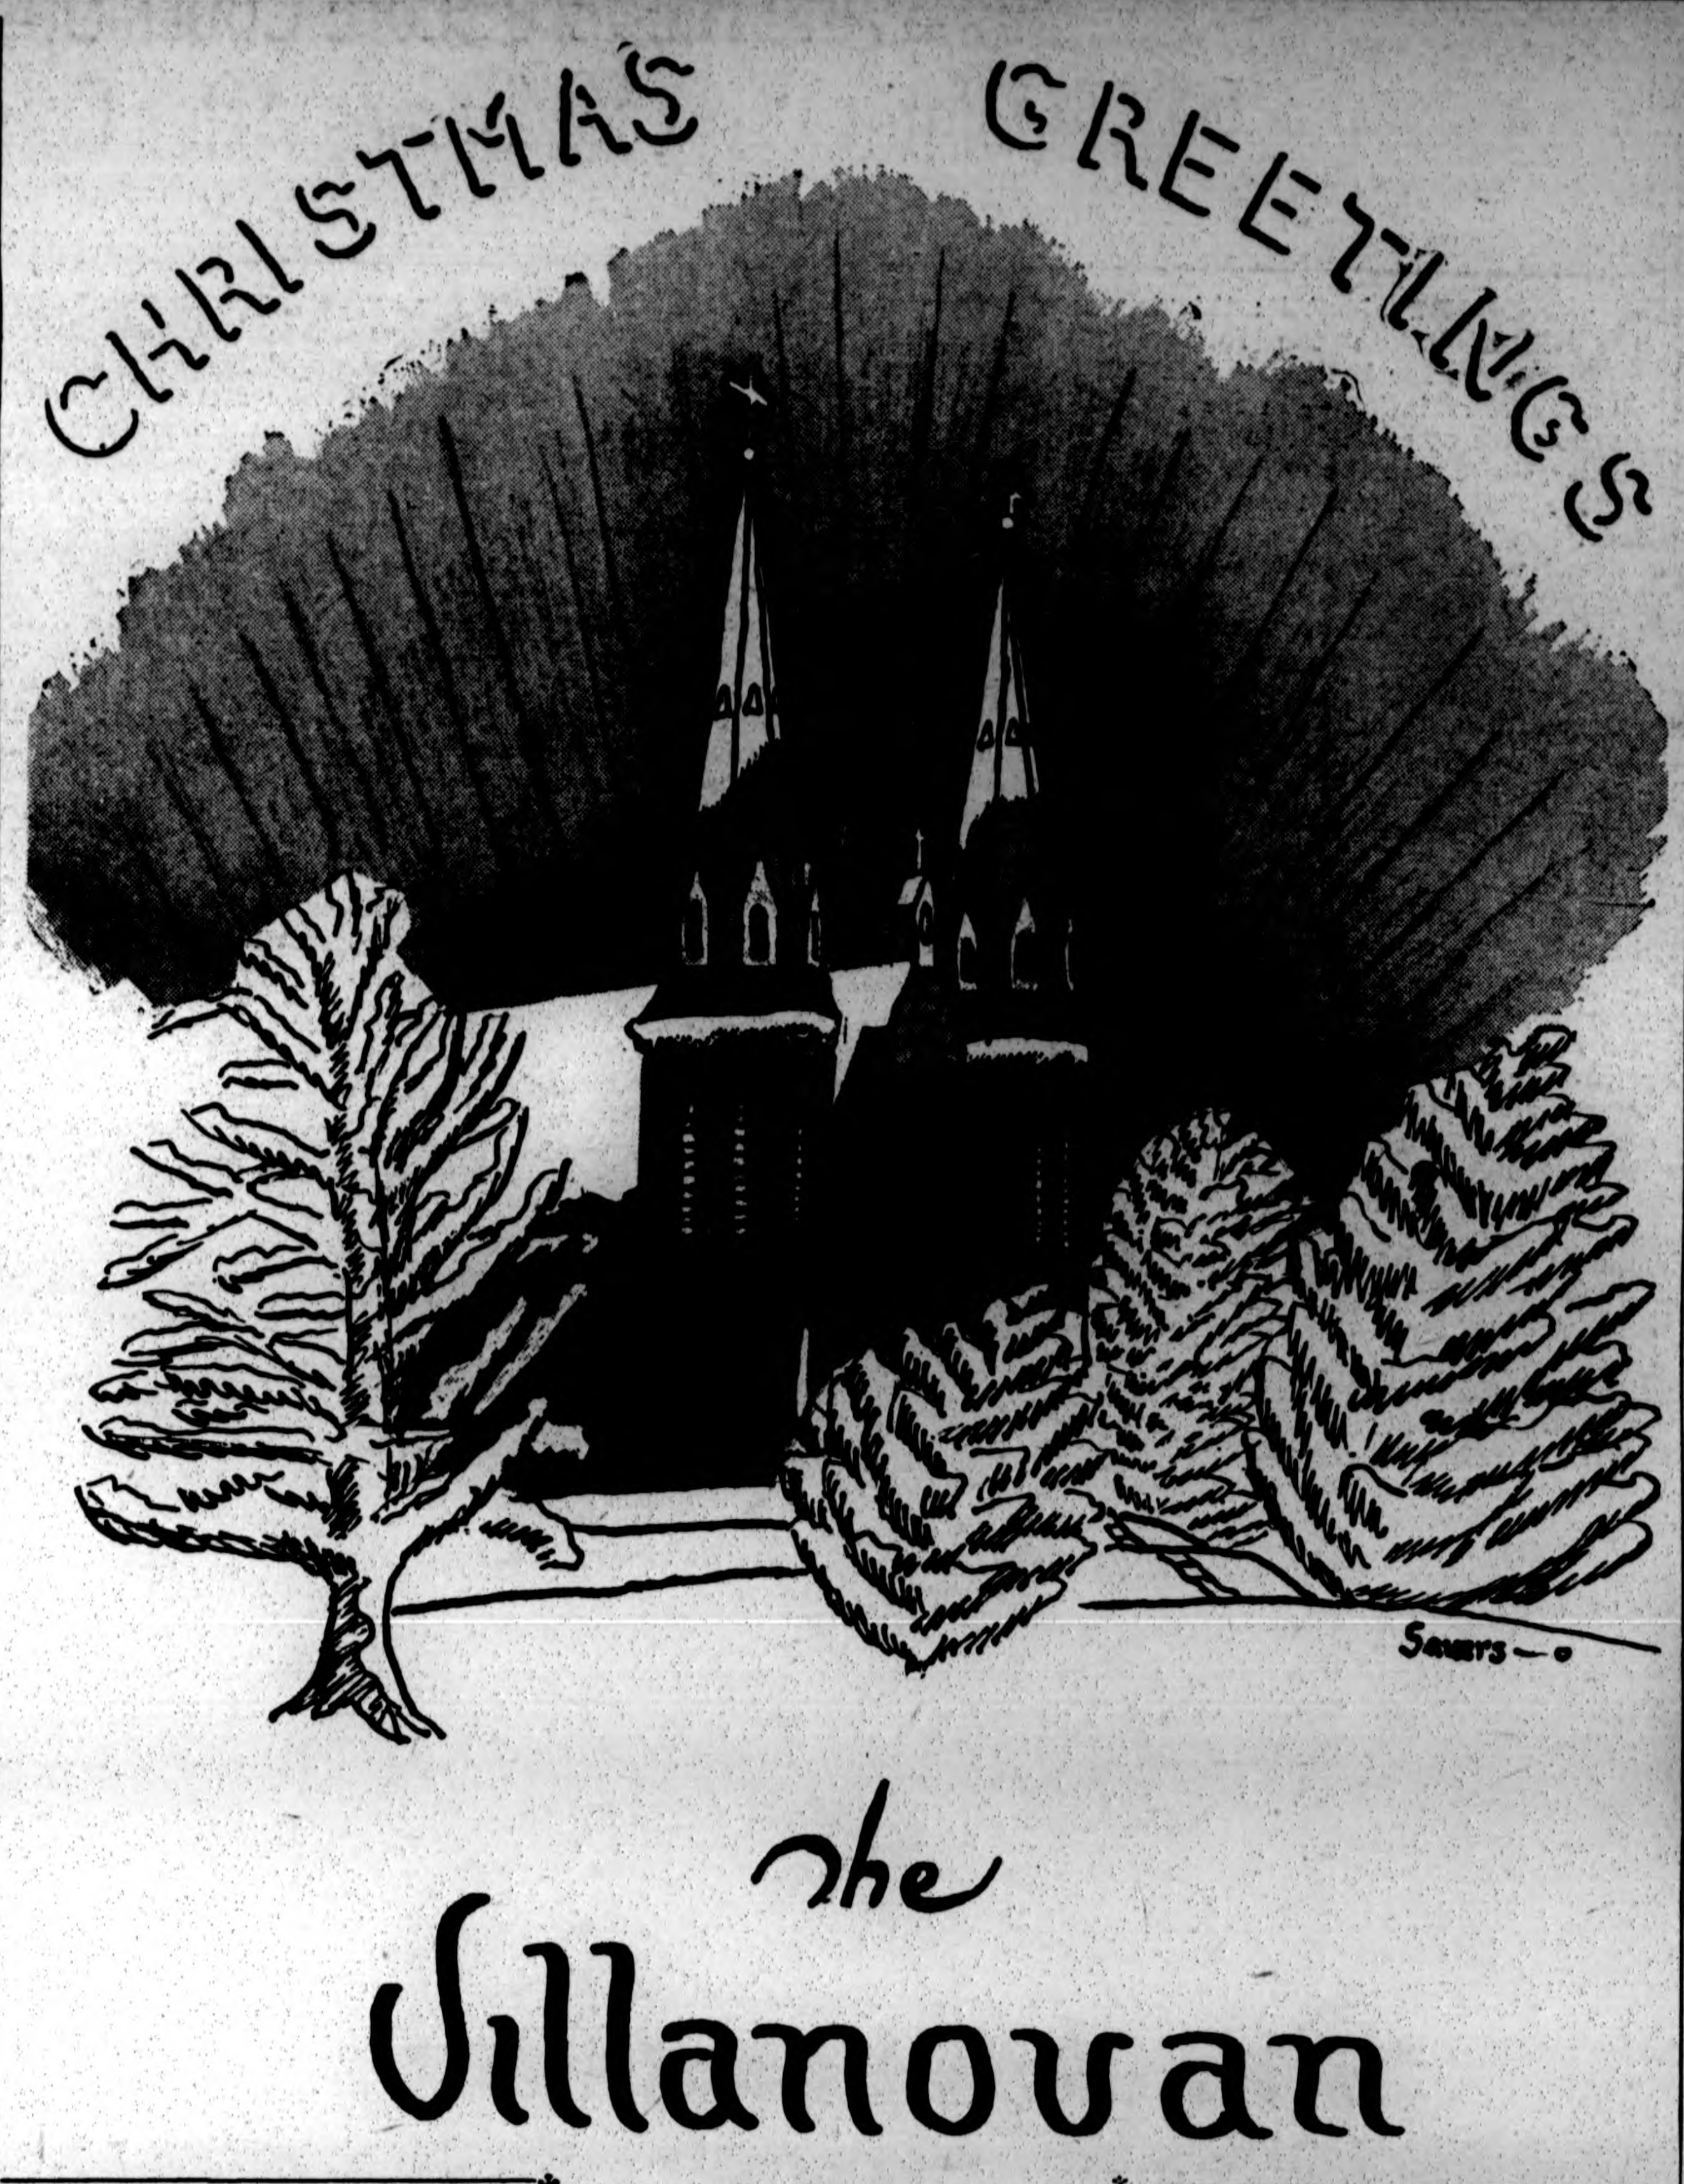
J. Stanley Morehouse, dean of the engineering school, introduced Captain Hall who, after a brief description of the program, introduced the lieutenant, who described it in detail. After the meeting, the officers stayed to answer individual questions.

Thinks College Taxes Possible

At a meeting of the Villanova chapter of the American Association of University Professors, held last Friday evening in Simpson Hall, Dr. William M. McHugh, professor in the education department and vice-president of the local chapter, introduced the topic, "Some Anticipated Problems in Private Higher Education."

Included in the hazards foreseen by Dr. McHugh were the problem of endowments for private colleges and the possibility of taxation of such institutions in the future. During his discourse, he listed the many advantages of private colleges over the state-controlled institutions.

Following the chairman's address, the members of the faculty in attendance engaged in a round-table discussion of the points suggested by his remarks. The object of the meeting was not to reach any definite conclusion on the topic, but rather to promote an exchange of opinions among the professors.



Alumni Board Votes Continuance of Drive For Centennial Fund

The Alumni Centennial Fund Campaign will not be discontinued, even in the face of existing world conditions, the Board of Governors of the Alumni Association decided at its second quarterly meeting on Sunday, Dec. 7.

The majority of the twenty-eight graduates attending, representatives of the Villanova Clubs of Washington, Baltimore, New York, and Philadelphia, expressed the opinion that forty thousand dollars, the goal of the drive, is so small and insignificant an amount to be raised by an alumni group of the size and calibre of Villanova that present conditions should not affect the campaign.

Experts Predict Four-Year War; See Need For World Reorganization

"By her recent foreign policies and involvement in the second world war, the United States not only by necessity, but by choice, has definitely committed herself to a major role in the reorganization of the nations of the world following the allied victory," said Capt. John Craige, U. S. M. C., Ret., in opening the regional meeting of the Foreign Policy Association at Swarthmore College last Saturday.

Robert T. Canfield, junior commerce student, and Thomas Quigley, freshman in the arts school, represented Villanova as delegates from the International Relations Club.

Predicts Long War

In analyzing the military and naval implications of the present conflict, Craige, a war analyst for International News Service, continued, "In any case, the United States is faced with a long and vigorous struggle with the definite probability of a war lasting at least four years."

Featured as round-table experts at the discussion were Robert Strausz-Hupe, editor of "Current History," and Maxwell Stewart, editor of "The Nation."

The former, a native of Austria, emphasized the feasibility of a post-war peace agreement and asserted "that the nations of the world, in settling their differences, must never lose sight of the essential unity of human society."

Round Table Discussion

Canfield participated in the round-table discussion entitled, "Should the U. S. assist in the reconstitution of the League of Nations or some alternative world organization?"

In summing up the conclusions reached by his group, he said, "In considering the responsibility of the United States in the post-war period, two more or less distinct points of view must be examined.

Post-War Viewpoints

"The first of these is that concerned with the short term outlook, or transition period, following directly on the heels of the peace treaties. It is during this period that the victorious allies will, in all probability, be required to exert considerable force, or at least moral persuasion, in aligning the disintegrated European nations into some semblance of order.

"The second period is that of the long-time trend, which will be characterized by a gradual lessening of the instruments of force accompanied by a corresponding revival of the spirit of cooperation."

A Song

By THOMAS F. DEVINE

The sweet, symphonic notes of breaking day,
As o'er the world martial arms do ring;
The strident tones of Jove's cruel lay,
The angel choirs which gently sing,
Mingle, clash, and are strangely hushed.
Soft lows the cattle, soft the ass,
As Truth is born and Error crushed.
What avail the flinty steel and sounding brass
When kings bow down before a Child,
In adoration of all glories shorn;
We care not for the battles wild,
Christ, Our Lord, is born.

Civilian Defense

Continued From Page One

Connor in Fedigan Hall; John Conway and Jack Dowd, Mendel; Frank Buckley, Austin; and Charles Schaumann in O'Dwyer.

Faculty members of the auxiliary fire warden group, headed by Fr. McMenamin, will be Rev. Joseph I. Boyle, O. S. A., Dr. Rudolf F. Drenick, Rev. Daniel P. Falvey, O. S. A., Rev. Edwin T. Grimes, O. S. A., Rev. Edward J. McCarthy, O. S. A., and Rev. Vincent J. Meaney, O. S. A.

Students on this group will include Thomas Muraski, John Sweeney, and Paul Hinski in Fedigan; Frank Gorman, Austin; and day-student Dennis Boyle.

Rev. James A. Donnellon, O. S. A., is chairman of the committee on first aid. He will be assisted by Rev. Joseph J. Gildea, O. S. A., Joseph Coll, McKimmey, George Gabuzda, Schaumann, Fred Clark, Robert Hursh, Arthur Smith, Herbert Saner, and John Quinn.

Another committee, to handle conservation on the campus, may be appointed late; others will be formed as the need for them arises.

The committees already appointed will announce their plans and regulations to the student body during January.

NEXT IN 1942

With this issue, publication of the VILLANOVAN is suspended until after the Christmas holidays. The next edition will appear on Jan 13.

News Briefs

All Seniors May Take Math Courses; German Club Entertained at Chestnut Hill

In order to enable seniors who have not had the courses to qualify for commissions in the Naval Reserve, there is a possibility that classes in plane trigonometry and college algebra will be offered to interested seniors after the Christmas holidays.

Men with A. B., B. S., or engineering degrees can obtain commissions in the Naval Reserve provided that they have credit for at least two semesters of college mathematics.

Those interested in taking such courses are requested to contact the deans of their schools.

Thirty members of the Villanova German Club were entertained by the German Club of Chestnut Hill College at a joint meeting of the language groups held there last Friday evening.

Under the direction of Dr. Wolfgang Michaels, moderator of the Chestnut Hill organization, the girls, in a series of tableaux with accompanying hymns, depicted the events from the time of the Annunciation until Christmas Day. Miss Mary Mosca presented a solo rendition of Schubert's "Ave Maria."

Both groups joined in the singing of Christmas carols and the evening was brought to a close with dancing and refreshments.

Yesterday, members of Beta Gamma engaged the debaters of Rosemont College on the topic, "Resolved: That the Federal Government should regulate by law all labor unions in the United States." George H. Harris, junior education student, and Thomas J. McKimmey, senior education student, represented Villanova in the non-decision debate.

The annual Rosemont-Villanova Choral Concert will be held on Sunday, Jan. 18, at 8:30 P. M. in the Villanova Field House. Admission to the 100-voice concert will be $.99, including tax.

Ex-Student Ends Basic Air Course

John J. Parson, Junior Prom Head, Completes Training at Randolph Field

RANDOLPH FIELD, TEXAS, Dec. 12.—John J. Parson, Villanova, ex-'42, was one of the 254 student pilots who graduated today in the ninth and last graduating class of Aviation Cadets for 1941 at Randolph Field. He is the second Villanovan to complete training here, Bert Passanante, '39, having finished last February.

A student in the School of Commerce and Finance, Parson was chairman of last year's Junior Prom. The Prom marked the first time in Villanova's history that a Queen was chosen to reign over the proceedings.

Ending the primary phase of their thirty-week course on Oct. 1, the men in Parson's class had completed ten weeks of intensive flying training at civilian-operated elementary schools where they mastered the fundamentals of flying in rugged, low-powered airplanes. Sixty-five hours aloft were logged in this type of craft.

JOHN J. PARSON

Moving on to Randolph Field, the transition to the Air Corps' speedy, 450-horsepowered basic trainer was made and 70 additional hours were listed in their log books.

Course Extensive

Night flying, aerial course acrobatics, cross country, instrument and formation flying—all were included in this secondary, or basic, ten-week period. Ground school subjects such as radio code, weather, engine maintenance, and military law were included in the curriculum.

These cadets will now move on for the final ten weeks training at specialized Air Corps schools. There they will fly faster, more powerful planes; night navigation flights will be stressed.

To Get Commissions

Later, commissioned second lieutenants in the Air Corps Reserve and wearing the wings of a flying officer, they will go to duty with units of the Air Force Combat Command or be reassigned to training fields as instructors.

The "West Point of the Air" has been the focal point of the training schedule that calls for 30,000 trained military pilots each year. With a personnel of 550 officers and 3500 enlisted mechanics it is the nucleus of the Gulf Coast Air Corps Training Center, operating 31 training schools with headquarters at Randolph Field.

December 'Engineer' To Feature Article On Defense Classes

An article dealing with the organization and function of the Engineering Defense Training classes conducted by Villanova will be featured in the December issue of the "Villanova Engineer," which will appear during the Christmas holidays and be distributed to the students upon their return to school.

To be contained in this article is a series of pictures showing the classes conducted on the campus, in Philadelphia, and at Camden and Collingswood, N. J.

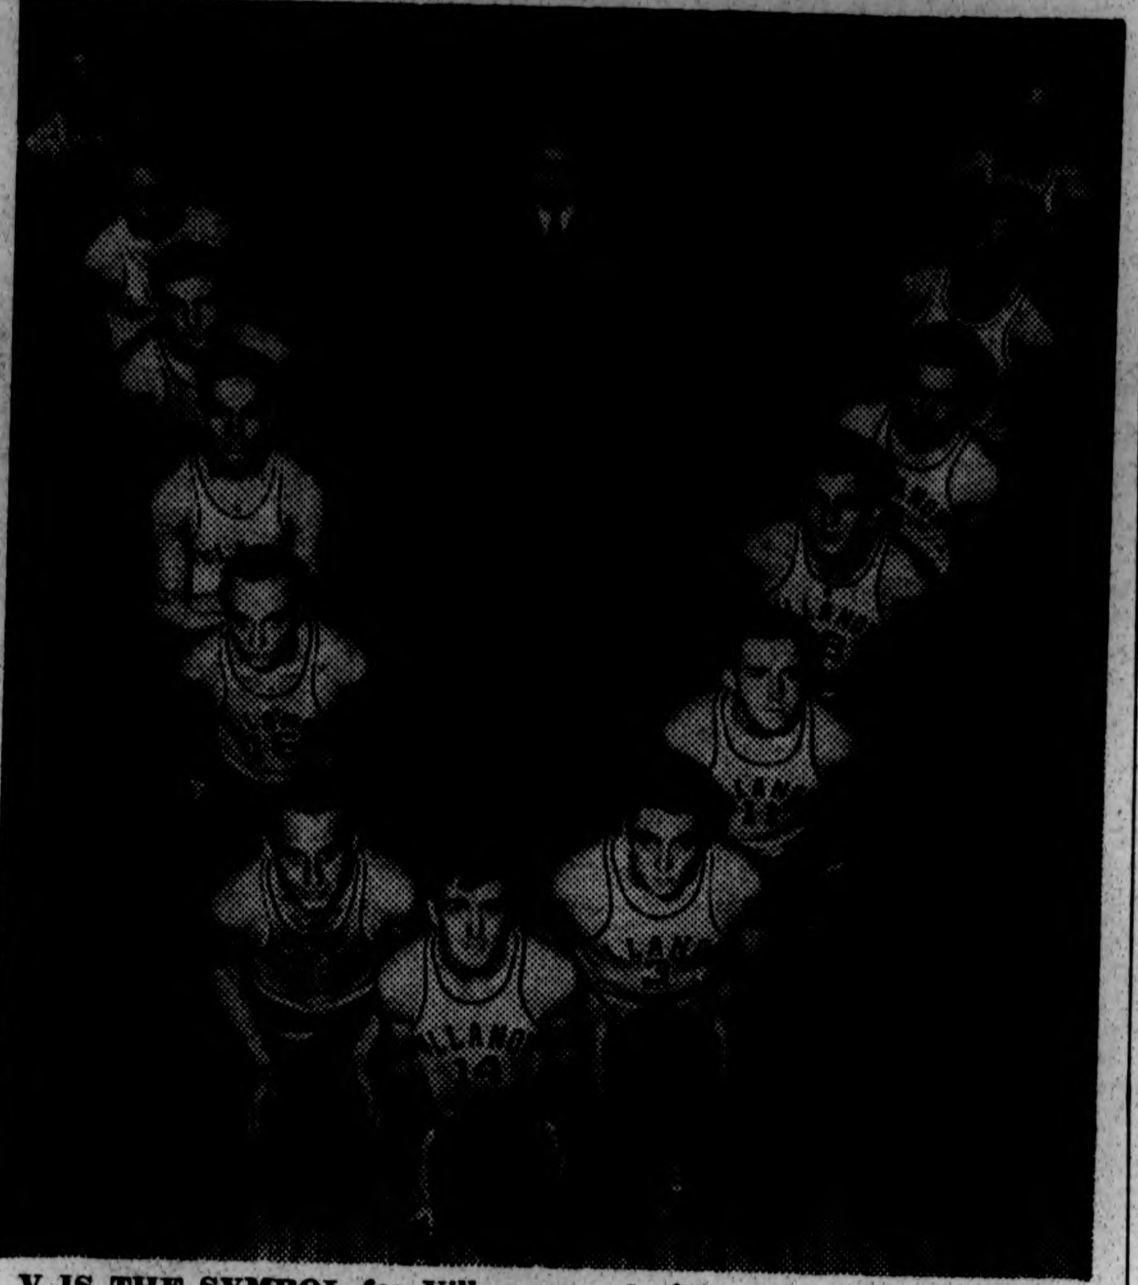
A full page will be devoted to an organizational chart concerned with the different faculties and the supervisors in charge.

Another feature is to be an article on the measurement of the flow of fluids, by Albert Saner, senior chemical engineer. The methods of measurement employed in the Villanova Units Lab will be discussed and further exemplified by four drawings.

This December issue was originally scheduled to appear today.

VILLANOVAN SPORTS

..The 1941-42 Varsity Court Team



V IS THE SYMBOL for Villanova and victory as Coach Al Severance and his squad take time out from their hard work for a bit of publicity. Forming the V are (l.r.) Gerland, McFadden, Wood, Drizen, Mildey, Klotz, McDonnell, Capt. Gray, Finnegan, Melofchik, Lord, Fenton, and Kelty.

SPORTORIAL

By BOB FUNABASHI
Sports Editor

VILLANOVA'S current road trip over the past week-end so far as the final scores went, was disastrous. Now only a victory over Colgate tonight at Hamilton, N. Y. will take some of the sting away from the two slaps in the face by little unknown Siena and a high-rising Niagra team. This can't be called a treacherous blow for losing three in a row, which is a very rare occasion in Villanova basketball, was inevitable as the games were reeled off.

The one consolation that we might unearth from the disaster, is the fact that Villanova will always be remembered for putting Siena on the map. As one writer put it after our defeat, "Siena finally hit the big time trail for it was the first time in their five years that they knocked off a better-than-average college basketball team." Now that makes us down-right happy and if we remain gentlemen for the rest of the season we might let six or seven more teams gain the honor of beating us so that they can live in happy delirium for the rest of the campaign.

Problem Of Losing

So far as we go, the problem of losing so many ball games puts a sports editor on the spot. Not to make ourself significant, but people usually come to the writer of this column and ask him what's wrong with Villanova's sports in the past few years. As if we could rekindle the flame of victory, our answer would be to just sit back and wait. There's still a lot of time (or is there?) for the freshman and sophomores to someday visualize an undefeated season in one sport or another. Who can tell? Perhaps it will be next year when the sophomore element advances to a higher stage of ability and old man experience has its firm grip upon the fortunes of the youthful athletes. The present seniors are less aroused and don't feel the shock of losing like the other underclassmen who usually display the greatest amount of egotism when they point proudly to their team's winning ways.

The oft-repeated cry, since St. Francis of Brooklyn lowered our tails last week is uttered about the campus that the present quintet can't make any satisfactory headway because of the smallness in size. Coach Al Severance reaffirmed that fact long before the season started. Villanova can be no match against a quintet which shelters men over 6 ft. Our players can only go up so high off the floor

SPORTORIAL
Continued on Page Seven

Honored By School

FRANK DESMOND

Major "V" Given ToFrankDesmond

An outstanding event in Villanova's athletic history took place last Wednesday night during intermission time of Amateur Night when Frank Desmond, '43, Intercollegiate Outboard Racing Champion, was presented with a major "V" and a sweater by the Rev. Fr. Francis McGuire, Vice-President. This was the first time an undergraduate student was ever given such an award by the school for some sport which Villanova as a team does not participate in.

Desmond who holds several other championships besides his intercollegiate crown was awarded this letter as a result of the great amount of publicity which he has brought the school in his racing exploits of the last two summers. Upon his return to school this past fall, Desmond presented the National Amateur Class C, Trophy to Villanova for the second straight year.

This Intercollegiate champ will continue to win more honors next summer when he again resumes the sport. He will take time out from his pre-law studies at the Commerce and Finance School.

Siena And Niagara Score Court Upsets Over Villanova; Quintet Plays Six Games After Colgate Tilt Tonight

Holiday Period Will See Severancemen Take Up Stand Against Detroit, Baltimore and Williams

After their three game road trip Coach Al Severance's varsity dribblers face a total of six games during the holiday period. From the time the student body scatters to the different parts of the country till they return on January 4 from the Christmas vacation, the basketball squad with thirteen members will be engaging in a bit of warfare at home and abroad.

Tonight Villanova ends its jaunt up in New York State by meeting a fairly-strong Colgate quintet and then the boys return home tomorrow, take a rest for a day, and then resume play at the Field House where they are the hosts to an unknown Washington College quintet. Friday night will see the Wildcats in their debut with Baltimore University at Wilmington, Delaware. This fracas with Baltimore promises to be a grudge battle for the 'Cats, for Baltimore ruined a perfectly good season for Villanova, two years ago.

First Double-Header

The game with the Marylanders is Villanova's first venture into double-header basketball at the Wilmington Arena and it is the first of four such engagements which the 'Cats undertake this season. Baltimore usually comes up with a good quintet made up of local boys and likes to knock off big-time clubs. They are coached for a fast-break and each member of the quintet spends considerable time in developing the finer points of shooting.

On Saturday night the Wildcats return home to play William and Mary and this game promises plenty of tight struggles for both squads. This is the first time that Villanova will meet the Virginians in basketball and no doubt the relationships will continue in seasons to come. Since basketball season is only in a premature stage in so far as the sports world goes, little is known of William and Mary's court strength.

Coming down from New England, Williams College will tangle with the 'Cats on New Year's Day at Wilmington as part of the double-header program. This will be one of the five games the Williams quintet will play during the Christmas holidays. All told during that time they meet Yale, Rutgers, Hofstra, Polytechnic of Brooklyn, along with Villanova. The Purple team plays a total of seventeen games for the entire season, three more than the previous year in which they won only six and lost eight.

Dale Burnett Coaches Purple

Dale Burnett, popular pro football and basketball star, is the coach of the Williams team, and this his second year at the Williamstown institution, will find him less handicapped by the necessity of teaching his fast-breaking system from the ground up for he will be aided by working with players more familiar with this type of play.

Co-captains Wils Barnes and Humby Quintana who led the team in scoring last year, will be on hand this season. Barnes, who works

SIX GAMES
Continued on Page Six

Frosh Aim For 3rd Victory Tomorrow

Carrying over from their undefeated season of last year when Coach Al Severance had Red Klotz, Chuck Drizen, Ernie Melafchik, Joe Lord and Bob McDonell to bear the brunt, this year's freshman quintet has posted two victories thus far. Last week in the preliminary games to the varsity matches, the frosh posted wins over the Loyola Jayvees and Archbishop Ryan Athletic Club.

Thus, in the eight-year span that Severance has coached the freshmen, his yearlings have lost only six games and have won over one hundred. This stands out as a very handsome record for a coach who can play guardian to two quintets.

The frosh will continue their winning ways tomorrow night in the preliminary game to Washington College. Their opponents are not named as yet. The probable line-up will include Dutch Sivertsen, former Lower Merion star, Tom Dunleavy from St. Joe's Prep, Tom Duffy from Ohio, and also two other starters of Severance's choice. The team, as a whole, is still a bit weak in all departments, especially passing, but time will tell if they can improve.

"Most Valuable"

LOGAN PHILLIPS

Phillips Chosen For 150-lb Award

Senior Tackle Honored by Vote of His Mates; Will Receive A Watch

Logan Phillips, '42, of Bay Shore, L. I., is the new recipient of the Alumnus Award for the "most valuable player" on the 150-lb. team for the past season. Phillips was chosen by a vote of his mates at a meeting held last Wednesday. Runner-up to the varsity tackle was Charles Lozowski, also a member of the Senior class.

For this honor which is in its third year, Phillips will be presented a watch bearing the honorary inscription on the back. Previously, Victor Domenick and Frank Lombardo were given the Alumnus award which is given to the member of the lightweight squad "who shows the greatest sportsmanship on and off the field, gives the greatest support for the team and has the greatest interest in the team's advancement."

Phillips has been a member of the lightweights for three years holding down the tackle position for those same three seasons. He is the only one of the five graduating seniors who had high school experience. He played guard for Bay Shore High and then moved on to Villanova for more outstanding play. This year he led his team against Cornell, in which game he was elected captain.

Eagles New Champs Of Football League

Displaying the same brilliant form which enabled them to hold down first place throughout the regular season, the Eagles won the championship of the Grapefruit Touch Football League, in the playoffs last week.

They defeated the Quakers, 18-12, in one semi-final bracket, while the Americans were defeating the Seals, 8-0, in the other. The final was an exceptionally tight game, with the Eagles scoring on a pass in the closing minutes to defeat the Americans, 6-0.

Having won the title, "Dayhop Champions," these same Eagles will now join in an elimination tournament with a team from each of the resident halls, to determine the Intramural Touch Football Champions. This tournament is an added attraction to the regular Dayhop League, due to the great amount of interest which has been shown throughout the resident halls, concerning the dayhop circuit.

As the regular schedule is now officially over, it seems fitting and proper, here, to give a vote of thanks to Joe Gill, '42, for doing such a grand job in his capacity as chairman of the league, in the first season of organized Touch Football here at Villanova.

Korisky Honored Again

Ed Korisky, center and captain of the varsity football team was one of the several Philadelphia college grid players who were honored by the Whitemarsh Country Club last Friday evening. The outstanding award made annually by this club was split between Gene Davis of Penn and Andy Tomasic because of their fine work.

Team Suffers Two Setbacks by New York Staters; Eagles Beat 'Cats in Sunday Game

By JACK DUDLEY

Hindered woefully by its lack of height, Villanova lost its second straight game of the current New York State trip. It was the third consecutive loss of the season for the Wildcats.

Friday night at Albany the 'Cats went down before a second half spurt on the part of little Siena College, 37 to 34. Villanova led 34-33 with a minute left to play, but two field goals by Dick Bednarkiewics pulled the game out of the fire for the home team.

'Cats Led At Half

Villanova dominated the play during the opening half and left the floor leading 24 to 20. Fighting back in the ensuing half Siena evened the count. Before the end the lead had changed hands several times. A field goal by Reds Klotz had put the 'Cats out in front 34-33 when Bednarkiewics tossed in his two and there was the game.

The Siena hero was good for nineteen points, seven goals and five fouls. Bednarkiewics entered the game in the middle of the first half to score more than half of his team's points.

Reds Klotz was high scorer for Villanova, tossing in five field goals. Bob Kelty drew praise for his fine floor game.

Moving on to Niagara Falls on Sunday afternoon, the Wildcats sustained the second defeat of the week-end as Niagara coasted to a 50 to 35 win.

Niagara Hard To Stop

The lofty New Yorkers led 26-20 at the half, but center Nick Gurnzweig combined with forward Jim McGuire and Nel Ifallo to widen the gap. Gurnzweig was able to get possession of the ball under the basket and feed it to McGuire and Ifallo who tossed in 13 and 12 points respectively. The six foot-four inch pivot man accounted for ten points himself.

Bill Woods and Reds Klotz were the leading men in the Villanova attack. Woods tallied 10 points, getting all his four goals in the opening half. Klotz scored three field goals and two fouls for a total of eight points.

The story of this losing streak of the 'Cats, something new in Villanova court history, is a story of smallness of stature which threatens to mar what should be a fine season. Possesing all the fight and

ROAD TRIP
Continued on Page Six

Harriers To Hold Informals At Penn

Time Trials Will Be Held With Quakers After Holidays to Test Team

Villanova's trackmen will open up their regular winter season the day after Christmas with a series of workouts on the wooden track beneath the stadium. A few days after ,the date being uncertain as yet, the team will journey down to Penn for time trials with the Quaker squad, in an effort to determine the places on the one and two mile relay teams for the forthcoming indoor meets.

The spikesters open their season with the Penn A. C. Meet on about Jan. 15, which holds forth at Convention Hall and then on consecutive week-ends indoor meets will be held in New York, Washington, Boston, and Baltimore. If the team shapes up to Coach Elliott's expectations, it is possible that they will go to Cleveland and Chicago for those meets.

In the sprint department George Guida and Johnny DiCarlo loom as this season's threats while Stan Nazian and Bud Jones will handle the hurdles and high jump, respectively. The two-mile relay team make-up will probably list Bill Hooper, John McCarthy, Dixie Dunbar and Bob O'Sullivan and then Elliott might reshuffle Dunbar and O'Sullivan so that they can fit into the one-mile relay team along with DiCarlo and Guida.

The cross-country squad has about finished up its schedule and for the first season it appears that the team did well considering their first venture into that field. No doubt, this sport will become a permanent phase of the track curriculum in the future.

Engineers Hear Naval Officers

Lieut. Hall Describes Plan of Ensign Commissions for Technical Graduates

Approximately 125 engineers attended a meeting in Mendel Hall yesterday at which Captain C. M. Hall, U. S. N., and Lieutenant R. C. Hall, U. S. N. R, described the program in which commissions as Ensigns in the United States Naval Reserve are open to engineering graduates.

Preliminary applications, entailing no obligations to join, were distributed at the meeting; these are to be turned in to the dean of the engineering school within three days after the conclusion of the Christmas holiday.

A naval medical board will visit the school at the end of January, Lieutenant Hall announced, and the candidates who pass their examination will be given formal applications. Approval of these applications by the Bureau of Navigation in Washington will give seniors appointment as ensigns upon graduation and juniors appointment as probationary ensigns until they graduate.

These men will be assigned to technical duties, requiring special training along engineering lines. They will serve in aviation, the Bureau of Ships, and in the Bureau of Ordnance.

Qualifications for all candidates are that they be between the ages of 19 and 26, citizens of the United States, possess officer-like qualities, and pass the required physical examination.

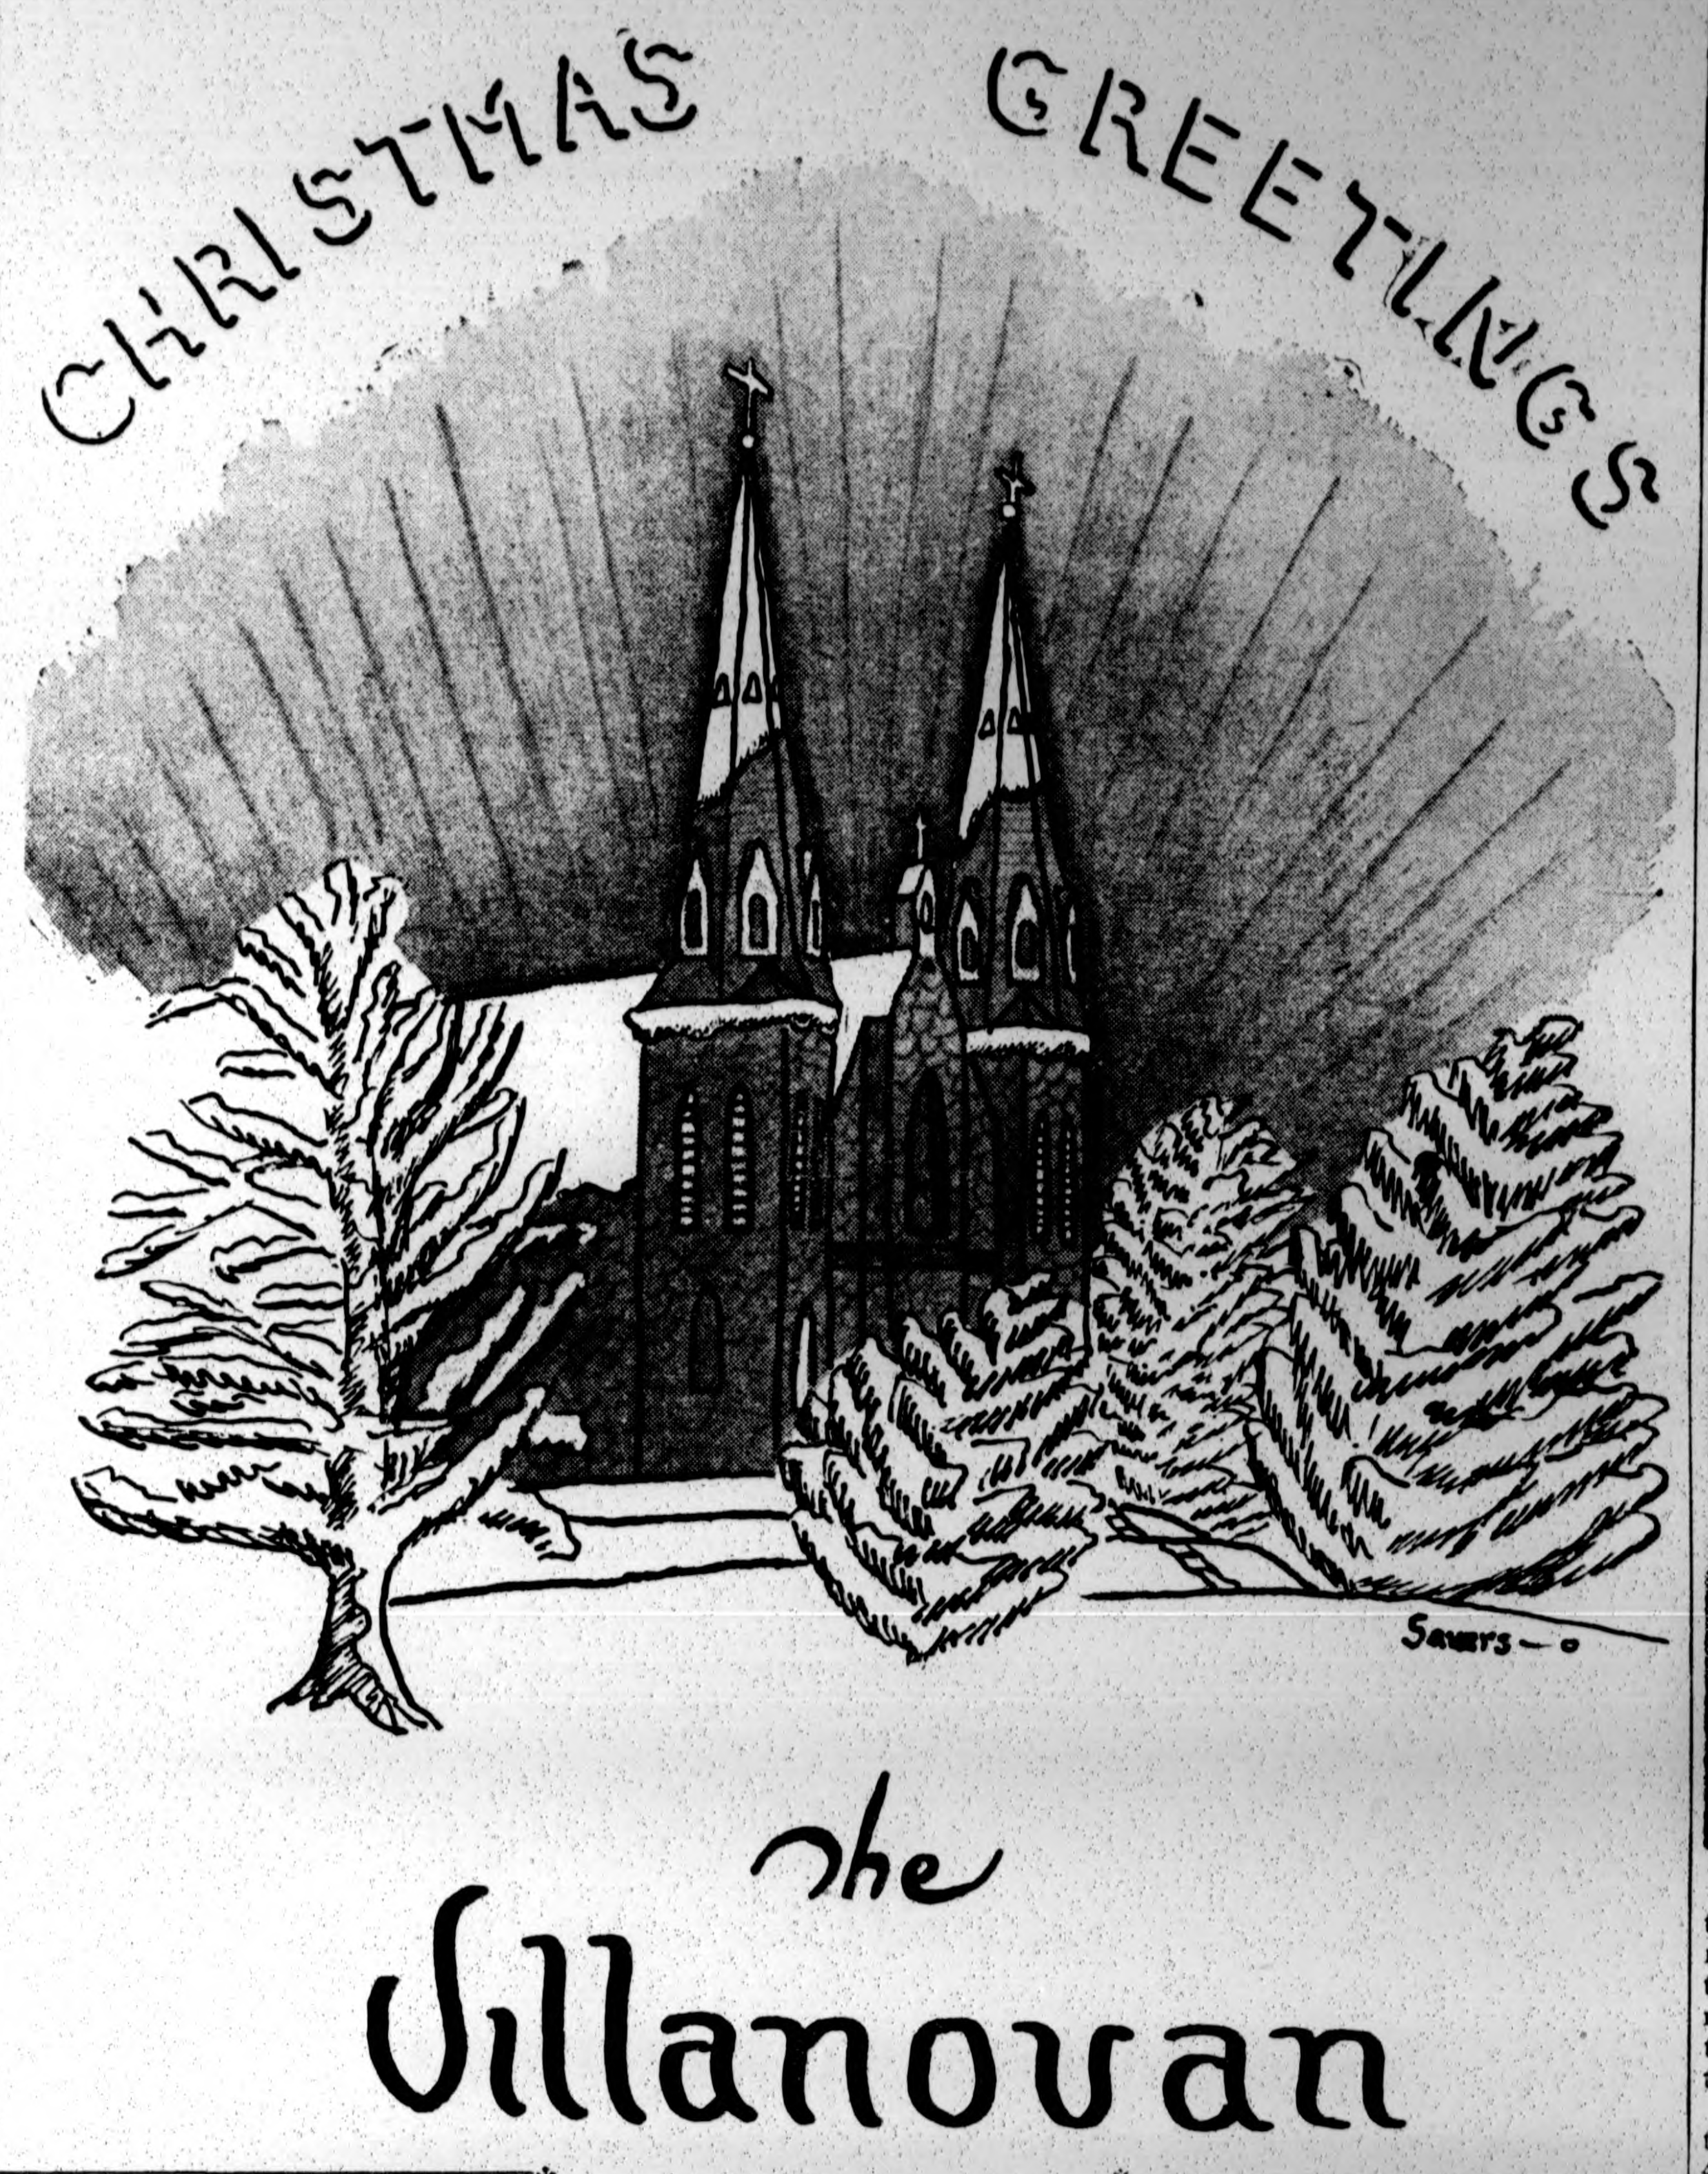
J. Stanley Morehouse, dean of the engineering school, introduced Captain Hall who, after a brief description of the program, introduced the lieutenant, who described it in detail. After the meeting, the officers stayed to answer individual questions.

Thinks College Taxes Possible

At a meeting of the Villanova chapter of the American Association of University Professors, held last Friday evening in Simpson Hall, Dr. William M. McHugh, professor in the education department and vice-president of the local chapter, introduced the topic, "Some Anticipated Problems in Private Higher Education."

Included in the hazards foreseen by Dr. McHugh were the problem of endowments for private colleges and the possibility of taxation of such institutions in the future. During his discourse, he listed the many advantages of private colleges over the state-controlled institutions.

Following the chairman's address, the members of the faculty in attendance engaged in a round-table discussion of the points suggested by his remarks. The object of the meeting was not to reach any definite conclusion on the topic, but rather to promote an exchange of opinions among the professors.



Alumni Board Votes Continuance of Drive For Centennial Fund

The Alumni Centennial Fund Campaign will not be discontinued, even in the face of existing world conditions, the Board of Governors of the Alumni Association decided at its second quarterly meeting on Sunday, Dec. 7.

The majority of the twenty-eight graduates attending, representatives of the Villanova Clubs of Washington, Baltimore, New York, and Philadelphia, expressed the opinion that forty thousand dollars, the goal of the drive, is so small and insignificant an amount to be raised by an alumni group of the size and calibre of Villanova that present conditions should not affect the campaign.

Experts Predict Four-Year War; See Need For World Reorganization

"By her recent foreign policies and involvement in the second world war, the United States not only by necessity, but by choice, has definitely committed herself to a major role in the reorganization of the nations of the world following the allied victory," said Capt. John Craige, U. S. M. C., Ret., in opening the regional meeting of the Foreign Policy Association at Swarthmore College last Saturday.

Robert T. Canfield, junior commerce student, and Thomas Quigley, freshman in the arts school, represented Villanova as delegates from the International Relations Club.

Predicts Long War

In analyzing the military and naval implications of the present conflict, Craige, a war analyst for International News Service, continued, "In any case, the United States is faced with a long and vigorous struggle with the definite probability of a war lasting at least four years."

Featured as round-table experts at the discussion were Robert Strausz-Hupe, editor of "Current History," and Maxwell Stewart, editor of "The Nation."

The former, a native of Austria, emphasized the feasibility of a post-war peace agreement and asserted "that the nations of the world, in settling their differences, must never lose sight of the essential unity of human society."

Round Table Discussion

Canfield participated in the round-table discussion entitled, "Should the U. S. assist in the reconstitution of the League of Nations or some alternative world organization?"

In summing up the conclusions reached by his group, he said, "In considering the responsibility of the United States in the post-war period, two more or less distinct points of view must be examined.

Post-War Viewpoints

"The first of these is that concerned with the short term outlook, or transition period, following directly on the heels of the peace treaties. It is during this period that the victorious allies will, in all probability, be required to exert considerable force, or at least moral persuasion, in aligning the disintegrated European nations into some semblance of order.

"The second period is that of the long-time trend, which will be characterized by a gradual lessening of the instruments of force accompanied by a corresponding revival of the spirit of cooperation."

A Song

By THOMAS F. DEVINE

The sweet, symphonic notes of breaking day,
As o'er the world martial arms do ring;
The strident tones of Jove's cruel
lay,
The angel choirs which gently sing,
Mingle, clash, and are strangely
hushed.
Soft lows the cattle, soft the ass,
As Truth is born and Error
crushed.
What avail the flinty steel and sounding brass
When kings bow down before a
Child,
In adoration of all glories shorn;
We care not for the battles wild,
Christ, Our Lord, is born.

Civilian Defense

Continued From Page One

Connor in Fedigan Hall; John Conway and Jack Dowd, Mendel; Frank Buckley, Austin; and Charles Schaumann in O'Dwyer.

Faculty members of the auxiliary fire warden group, headed by Fr. McMenamin, will be Rev. Joseph I. Boyle, O. S. A., Dr. Rudolf F. Drenick, Rev. Daniel P. Falvey, O. S. A., Rev. Edwin T. Grimes, O. S. A., Rev. Edward J. McCarthy, O. S. A., and Rev. Vincent J. Meaney, O. S. A.

Students on this group will include Thomas Muraski, John Sweeney, and Paul Hinski in Fedigan; Frank Gorman, Austin; and day-student Dennis Boyle.

Rev. James A. Donnellon, O. S. A., is chairman of the committee on first aid. He will be assisted by Rev. Joseph J. Gildea, O. S. A., Joseph Coll, McKimmey, George Gabuzda, Schaumann, Fred Clark, Robert Hursh, Arthur Smith, Herbert Saner, and John Quinn.

Another committee, to handle conservation on the campus, may be appointed late; others will be formed as the need for them arises.

The committees already appointed will announce their plans and regulations to the student body during January.

NEXT IN 1942

With this issue, publication of the VILLANOVAN is suspended until after the Christmas holidays. The next edition will appear on Jan 13.

News Briefs

All Seniors May Take Math Courses; German Club Entertained at Chestnut Hill

In order to enable seniors who have not had the courses to qualify for commissions in the Naval Reserve, there is a possibility that classes in plane trigonometry and college algebra will be offered to interested seniors after the Christmas holidays.

Men with A. B., B. S., or engineering degrees can obtain commissions in the Naval Reserve provided that they have credit for at least two semesters of college mathematics.

Those interested in taking such courses are requested to contact the deans of their schools.

Thirty members of the Villanova German Club were entertained by the German Club of Chestnut Hill College at a joint meeting of the language groups held there last Friday evening.

Under the direction of Dr. Wolfgang Michaels, moderator of the Chestnut Hill organization, the girls, in a series of tableaux with accompanying hymns, depicted the events from the time of the Annunciation until Christmas Day. Miss Mary Mosca presented a solo rendition of Schubert's "Ave Maria."

Both groups joined in the singing of Christmas carols and the evening was brought to a close with dancing and refreshments.

Yesterday, members of Beta Gamma engaged the debaters of Rosemont College on the topic, "Resolved: That the Federal Government should regulate by law all labor unions in the United States." George H. Harris, junior education student, and Thomas J. McKimmey, senior education student, represented Villanova in the non-decision debate.

The annual Rosemont-Villanova Choral Concert will be held on Sunday, Jan. 18, at 8:30 P. M. in the Villanova Field House. Admission to the 100-voice concert will be $.99, including tax.

Ex-Student Ends Basic Air Course

John J. Parson, Junior Prom Head, Completes Training at Randolph Field

RANDOLPH FIELD, TEXAS, Dec. 12.—John J. Parson, Villanova, ex-'42, was one of the 254 student pilots who graduated today in the ninth and last graduating class of Aviation Cadets for 1941 at Randolph Field. He is the second Villanovan to complete training here, Bert Passanante, '39, having finished last February.

A student in the School of Commerce and Finance, Parson was chairman of last year's Junior Prom. The Prom marked the first time in Villanova's history that a Queen was chosen to reign over the proceedings.

Ending the primary phase of their thirty-week course on Oct. 1, the men in Parson's class had completed ten weeks of intensive flying training at civilian-operated elementary schools where they mastered the fundamentals of flying in rugged, low-powered airplanes. Sixty-five hours aloft were logged in this type of craft.

JOHN J. PARSON

Moving on to Randolph Field, the transition to the Air Corps' speedy, 450-horsepowered basic trainer was made and 70 additional hours were listed in their log books.

Course Extensive

Night flying, aerial course acrobatics, cross country, instrument and formation flying—all were included in this secondary, or basic, ten-week period. Ground school subjects such as radio code, weather, engine maintenance, and military law were included in the curriculum.

These cadets will now move on for the final ten weeks training at specialized Air Corps schools. There they will fly faster, more powerful planes; night navigation flights will be stressed.

To Get Commissions

Later, commissioned second lieutenants in the Air Corps Reserve and wearing the wings of a flying officer, they will go to duty with units of the Air Force Combat Command or be reassigned to training fields as instructors.

The "West Point of the Air" has been the focal point of the training schedule that calls for 30,000 trained military pilots each year. With a personnel of 550 officers and 3500 enlisted mechanics it is the nucleus of the Gulf Coast Air Corps Training Center, operating 31 training schools with headquarters at Randolph Field.

December 'Engineer' To Feature Article On Defense Classes

An article dealing with the organization and function of the Engineering Defense Training classes conducted by Villanova will be featured in the December issue of the "Villanova Engineer," which will appear during the Christmas holidays and be distributed to the students upon their return to school.

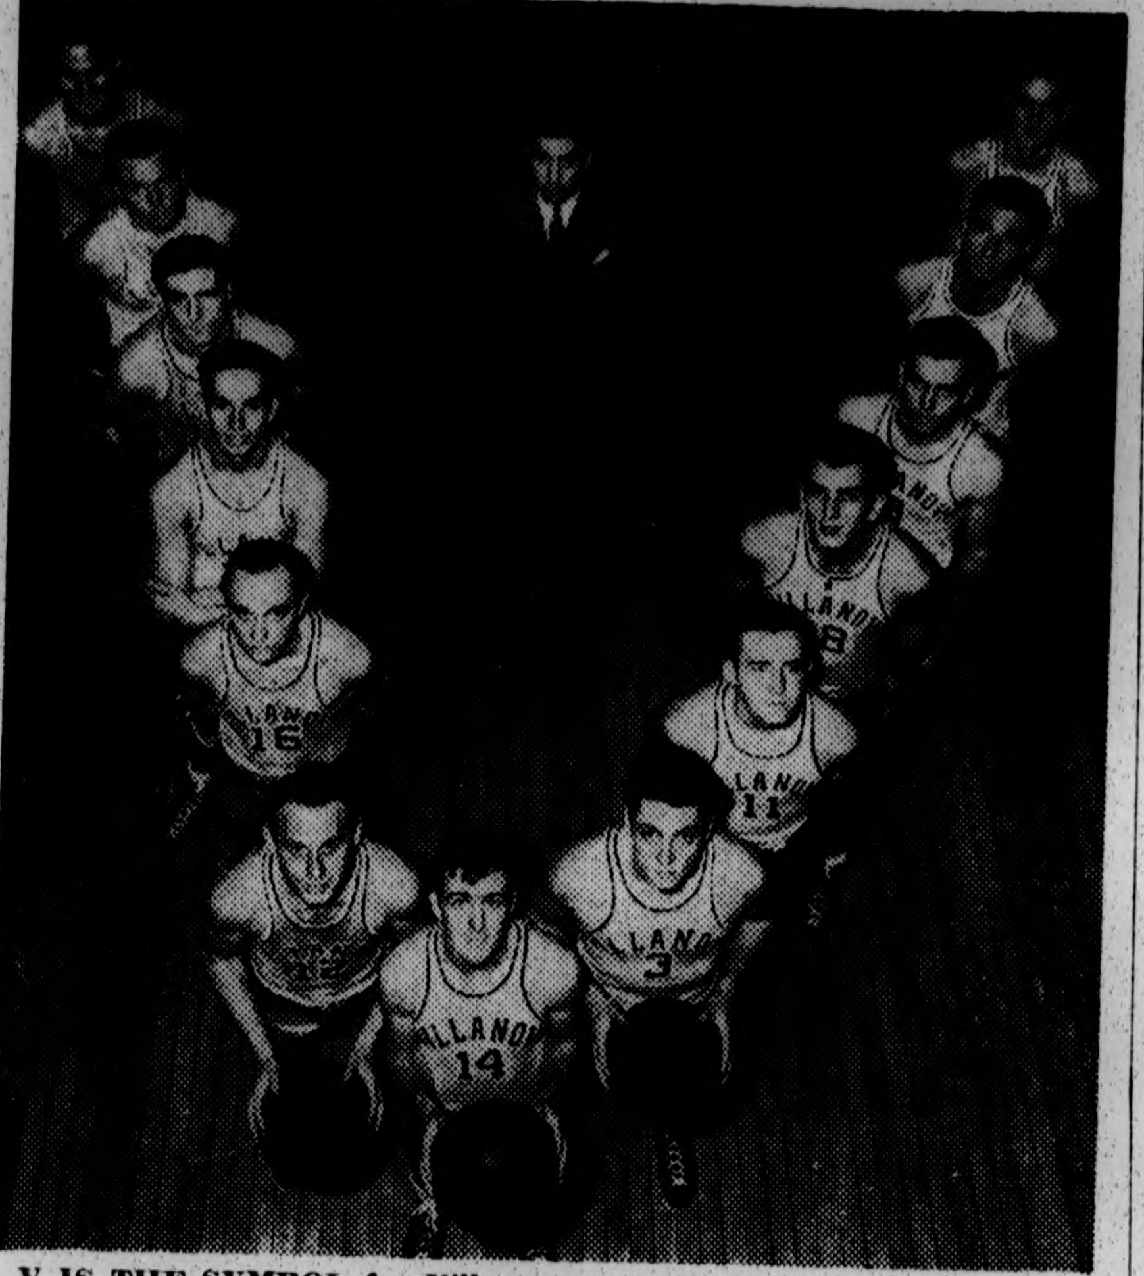
To be contained in this article is a series of pictures showing the classes conducted on the campus, in Philadelphia, and at Camden and Collingswood, N. J.

A full page will be devoted to an organizational chart concerned with the different faculties and the supervisors in charge.

Another feature is to be an article on the measurement of the flow of fluids, by Albert Saner, senior chemical engineer. The methods of measurement employed in the Villanova Units Lab will be discussed and further exemplified by four drawings.

This December issue was originally scheduled to appear today.

..The 1941-42 Varsity Court Team



V IS THE SYMBOL for Villanova and victory as Coach Al Severance and his squad take time out from their hard work for a bit of publicity. Forming the V are (l.r.) Gerland, McFadden, Wood, Drizen, Mildey, Klotz, McDonnell, Capt. Gray, Finnegan, Melofchik, Lord, Fenton, and Kelty.

SPORTORIAL

By BOB FUNABASHI
Sports Editor

VILLANOVA'S current road trip over the past week-end so far as the final scores went, was disastrous. Now only a victory over Colgate tonight at Hamilton, N. Y. will take some of the sting away from the two slaps in the face by little unknown Siena and a high-rising Niagra team. This can't be called a treacherous blow for losing three in a row, which is a very rare occasion in Villanova basketball, was inevitable as the games were reeled off.

The one consolation that we might unearth from the disaster is the fact that Villanova will always be remembered for putting Siena on the map. As one writer put it after our defeat, "Siena finally hit the big time trail for it was the first time in their five years that they knocked off a better-than-average college basketball team.' Now that makes us down-right happy and if we remain gentlemen for the rest of the season we might let six or seven more teams gain the honor of beating us so that they can live in happy delirium for the rest of the campaign.

Problem Of Losing

So far as we go, the problem of losing so many ball games puts a sports editor on the spot. Not to make ourself significant, but people usually come to the writer of this column and ask him what's wrong with Villanova's sports in the past few years. As if we could rekindle the flame of victory, our answer would be to just sit back and wait. There's still a lot of time (or is there?) for the freshman and sophomores to someday visualize an undefeated season in one sport or another. Who can tell? Perhaps it will be next year when the sophomore element advances to a higher stage of ability and old man experience has its firm grip upon the fortunes of the youthful athletes. The present seniors are less aroused and don't feel the shock of losing like the other underclassmen who usually display the greatest amount of egotism when they point proudly to their team's winning ways.

The oft-repeated cry, since St. Francis of Brooklyn lowered our tails last week is uttered about the campus that the present quintet can't make any satisfactory headway because of the smallness in size. Coach Al Severance reaffiirmed that fact long before the season started. Villanova can be no match against a quintet which shelters men over 6 ft. Our players can only go up so high off the floor

SPORTORIAL
Continued on Page Seven

Honored By School

FRANK DESMOND

Major "V" Given To Frank Desmond

An outstanding event in Villanova's athletic history took place last Wednesday night during intermission time of Amateur Night when Frank Desmond, '43, Intercollegiate Outboard Racing Champion, was presented with a major "V" and a sweater by the Rev. Fr. Francis McGuire, Vice-President. This was the first time an undergraduate student was ever given such an award by the school for some sport which Villanova as a team does not participate in.

Desmond who holds several other championships besides his intercollegiate crown was awarded this letter as a result of the great amount of publicity which he has brought the school in his racing exploits of the last two summers. Upon his return to school this past fall, Desmond presented the National Amateur Class C Trophy to Villanova for the second straight year.

This Intercollegiate champ will continue to win more honors next summer when he again resumes the sport. He will take time out from his pre-law studies at the Commerce and Finance School.

Siena And Niagara Score Court Upsets Over Villanova; Quintet Plays Six Games After Colgate Tilt Tonight

Holiday Period Will See Severancemen Take Up Stand Against Detroit, Baltimore and Williams

After their three game road trip Coach Al Severance's varsity dribblers face a total of six games during the holiday period. From the time the student body scatters to the different parts of the country till they return on January 4 from the Christmas vacation, the basketball squad with thirteen members will be engaging in a bit of warfare at home and abroad.

Tonight Villanova ends its jaunt up in New York State by meeting a fairly-strong Colgate quintet and then the boys return home tomorrow, take a rest for a day, and then resume play at the Field House where they are the hosts to an unknown Washington College quintet. Friday night will see the Wildcats in their debut with Baltimore University at Wilmington, Delaware. This fracas with Baltimore promises to be a grudge battle for the 'Cats, for Baltimore ruined a perfectly good season for Villanova, two years ago.

First Double-Header

The game with the Marylanders is Villanova's first venture into double-header basketball at the Wilmington Arena and it is the first of four such engagements which the 'Cats undertake this season. Baltimore usually comes up with a good quintet made up of local boys and likes to knock off big-time clubs. They are coached for a fast-break and each member of the quintet spends considerable time in developing the finer points of shooting.

On Saturday night the Wildcats return home to play William and Mary and this game promises plenty of tight struggles for both squads. This is the first time that Villanova will meet the Virginians in basketball and no doubt the relationships will continue in seasons to come. Since basketball season is only in a premature stage in so far as the sports world goes, little is known of William and Mary's court strength.

Coming down from New England, Williams College will tangle with the 'Cats on New Year's Day at Wilmington as part of the double-header program. This will be one of the five games the Williams quintet will play during the Christmas holidays. All told during that time they meet Yale, Rutgers, Hofstra, Polytechnic of Brooklyn, along with Villanova. The Purple team plays a total of seventeen games for the entire season, three more than the previous year in which they won only six and lost eight.

Dale Burnett Coaches Purple

Dale Burnett, popular pro football and basketball star, is the coach of the Williams team, and this his second year at the Williamstown institution, will find him less handicapped by the necessity of teaching his fast-breaking system from the ground up for he will be aided by working with players more familiar with this type of play.

Co-captains Wils Barnes and Humby Quintana who led the team in scoring last year, will be on hand this season. Barnes, who works

SIX GAMES
Continued on Page Six

Frosh Aim For 3rd Victory Tomorrow

Carrying over from their undefeated season of last year when Coach Al Severance had Red Klotz, Chuck Drizen, Ernie Melafchik, Joe Lord and Bob McDonell to bear the brunt, this year's freshman quintet has posted two victories thus far. Last week in the preliminary games to the varsity matches, the frosh posted wins over the Loyola Jayvees and Archbishop Ryan Athletic Club.

Thus, in the eight-year span that Severance has coached the freshmen, his yearlings have lost only six games and have won over one hundred. This stands out as a very handsome record for a coach who can play guardian to two quintets.

The frosh will continue their winning ways tomorrow night in the preliminary game to Washington College. Their opponents are not named as yet. The probable lineup will include Dutch Sivertsen, former Lower Merion star, Tom Dunleavy from St. Joe's Prep, Tom Duffy from Ohio, and also two other starters of Severance's choice. The team, as a whole, is still a bit weak in all departments, especially passing, but time will tell if they can improve.

"Most Valuable"

LOGAN PHILLIPS

Phillips Chosen For 150-lb Award

Senior Tackle Honored by Vote of His Mates; Will Receive A Watch

Logan Phillips, '42, of Bay Shore, L. I., is the new recipient of the Alumnus Award for the "most valuable player" on the 150-lb. team for the past season. Phillips was chosen by a vote of his mates at a meeting held last Wednesday. Runner-up to the varsity tackle was Charles Lozowski, also a member of the Senior class.

For this honor which is in its third year, Philips will be presented a watch bearing the honorary inscription on the back. Previously, Victor Domenick and Frank Lombardo were given the Alumnus award which is given to the member of the lightweight squad "who shows the greatest sportsmanship on and off the field, gives the greatest support for the team and has the greatest interest in the team's advancement."

Phillips has been a member of the lightweights for three years holding down the tackle position for those same three seasons. He is the only one of the five graduating seniors who had high school experience. He played guard for Bay Shore High and then moved on to Villanova for more outstanding play. This year he led his team against Cornell, in which game he was elected captain.

Eagles New Champs Of Football League

Displaying the same brilliant form which enabled them to hold down first place throughout the regular season, the Eagles won the championship of the Grapefruit Touch Football League, in the playoffs last week.

They defeated the Quakers, 18-12, in one semi-final bracket, while the Americans were defeating the Seals, 8-0, in the other. The final was an exceptionally tight game, with the Eagles scoring on a pass in the closing minutes to defeat the Americans, 6-0.

Having won the title, "Dayhop Champions," these same Eagles will now join in an elimination tournament with a team from each of the resident hails, to determine the Intramural Touch Football Champions. This tournament is an added attraction to the regular Dayhop League, due to the great amount of interest which has been shown throughout the resident halls, concerning the dayhop circuit.

As the regular schedule is now officially over, it seems fitting and proper, here, to give a vote of thanks to Joe Gill, '42, for doing such a grand job in his capacity as chairman of the league, in the first season of organized Touch Football here at Villanova.

Korisky Honored Again

Ed Korisky, center and captain of the varsity football team was one of the several Philadelphia college grid players who were honored by the Whitemarsh Country Club last Friday evening. The outstanding award made annually by this club was split between Gene Davis of Penn and Andy Tomasic because of their fine work.

Team Suffers Two Setbacks by New York Staters; Eagles Beat 'Cats in Sunday Game

By JACK DUDLEY

Hindered woefully by its lack of height, Villanova lost its second straight game of the current New York State trip. It was the third consecutive loss of the season for the Wildcats.

Friday night at Albany the 'Cats went down before a second half spurt on the part of little Siena College, 37 to 34. Villanova led 34-33 with a minute left to play, but two field goals by Dick Bednarkiewics pulled the game out of the fire for the home team.

'Cats Led At Half

Villanova dominated the play during the opening half and left the floor leading 24 to 20. Fighting back in the ensuing half Siena evened the count. Before the end the lead had changed hands several times. A field goal by Reds Klotz had put the 'Cats out in front 34-33 when Bednarkiewics tossed in his two and there was the game.

The Siena hero was good for nineteen points, seven goals and five fouls. Bednarkiewics entered the game in the middle of the first half to score more than half of his team's points.

Reds Klotz was high scorer for Villanova, tossing in five field goals. Bob Kelty drew praise for his fine floor game.

Moving on to Niagara Falls on Sunday afternoon, the Wildcats sustained the second defeat of the week-end as Niagara coasted to a 50 to 35 win.

Niagara Hard To Stop

The lofty New Yorkers led 26-20 at the half, but center Nick Gurnzweig combined with forward Jim McGuire and Nel Ifallo to widen the gap. Gurnzweig was able to get possession of the ball under the basket and feed it to McGuire and Ifallo who tossed in 13 and 12 points respectively. The six foot-four inch pivot man accounted for ten points himself.

Bill Woods and Reds Klotz were the leading men in the Villanova attack. Woods tallied 10 points, getting all his four goals in the opening half. Klotz scored three field goals and two fouls for a total of eight points.

The story of this losing streak of the 'Cats, something new in Villanova court history, is a story of smallness of stature which threatens to mar what should be a fine season. Possesing all the fight and

ROAD TRIP
Continued on Page Six

Harriers To Hold Informals At Penn

Time Trials Will Be Held With Quakers After Holidays to Test Team

Villanova's trackmen will open up their regular winter season the day after Christmas with a series of workouts on the wooden track beneath the stadium. A few days after ,the date being uncertain as yet, the team will journey down to Penn for time trials with the Quaker squad, in an effort to determine the places on the one and two mile relay teams for the forthcoming indoor meets.

The spikesters open their season with the Penn A. C. Meet on about Jan. 15, which holds forth at Convention Hall and then on consecutive week-ends indoor meets will be held in New York, Washington, Boston, and Baltimore. If the team shapes up to Coach Elliott's expectations, it is possible that they will go to Cleveland and Chicago for those meets.

In the sprint department George Guida and Johnny DiCarlo loom as this season's threats while Stan Nazian and Bud Jones will handle the hurdles and high jump, respectively. The two-mile relay team make-up will probably list Bill Hooper, John McCarthy, Dixie Dunbar and Bob O'Sullivan and then Elliott might reshuffle Dunbar and O'Sullivan so that they can fit into the one-mile relay team along with DiCarlo and Guida.

The cross-country squad has about finished up its schedule and for the first season it appears that the team did well considering their first venture into that field. No doubt, this sport will become a permanent phase of the track curriculum in the future.

Coaches All Await Xmas And Santa In Hopes For Some "Super" Players

By A. YULETIDE

Just keep your shirts on, folks, for in nine days from date, that fat and jolly man from the North Pole makes his appearance to all the chilluns' homes and while he quiets his six, seven, or eight reindeers and forces his way down your chimney, you can bet he'll have plenty to fill your little stocking with.

Santa Claus brings his yuletide greetings this year and nowhere will he be more greeted than on the campus. Probably there isn't a coach in the whole wide land who doesn't want some super-duper ball players to find their way into his haven. Santa this year could probably bring more peace to a coach's wife than all the fellows who give out on their goodwill hours. For after the completion of each athletic season, the coach who finds that his team didn't do too well sits rather uneasy on the edge of his chair and any moment expects his alumni following to pounce upon him and keep asking him, "Why?"

The Family Wants

Mom wants a new set of dishes just in case company drop in once in a while. Pop doesn't care, it's a day off for him and he forgets the boss's ugly face. Junior just wants some toys and Sis holds out for her first set of make-up. But pity the poor old coach, one year they give him something, the next year they take it away from him. We can imagine what Villanova's coaches want for the coming year and also what a few of the well-known faces about the campus would care to find in their stockings. But, gee, I wish it would come true!

Come next season and Villanova's football team must mark time with the centennial celebration of the college. Therefore, it probably means that Clipper Smith and Vince McNally will be hoping for the best football schedule that Villanova has ever had. Now, if Santa would cooperate, he might give us something around nine games all dressed up with coloring and with at least six or seven games to be played at home. Who could ask for anything more? Clipper might also ask Santa if he has any stray lineman about who can resemble Korisky, Stenn, Kasky and Anderson. And would it be too much if that old gent gave us a couple of touchdown twins and some fast-stepping backs of triple-threat calibre?

"Give Me Something Big"

Well, to move on to the basketball court, Al Severance could use some very tall lads so that he could look up and talk to them instead of looking down to converse. If we were Santa Claus, we would suggest that Al trail Clair Bee at L. I. U. and see how he collects so many giants to parade around Madison Square Garden. Of course, Coach Bee never goes beyond the 6-ft., 11-inch, type so maybe that plan wouldn't be so good. Santa, won't you please give him a man?

It's a little early in the season to find out what Doc Jacobs can use beneath his tree but something tells us that the good Doc is a bit irked about losing his infield, with the exception of Joe Yednock, and his outfield, to the world. Last Spring, Doc wasn't worthy of receiving any presents for he had more than his share, but since then he has dropped from the "riches-to-rags" coach and will probably need a few dozen headache pills as an Xmas present.

"Please Santa!"

Coach Tom Moore of the swimmers-less team needs a bit of luck for his first year, but, alas, with a fine schedule on hand, the students don't seem to take to the cold waters of the pool. Mr. Santa Claus, won't you give the students a "hot-foot" and make them come out for Tom?

Never-ending Feud

Last year only two members were engaged in the interhall "grudge" battle, but this time we find that the disease has spread so that now Father Ludwig and Fr. Sullivan join in the battle with Fr. McKee and Fr. Dunne. Boys will be boys and here there are no allies, each one is out to battle the other. First it's Austin, then Fedigan, then Alumni, and finally, the poor Day-Hops. Competition becomes gruesome between these four but what can you do about it? Well, if Santa gave them all good basketball players, the whole shooting match would probably end up in a tie—so what's the use? Should we subsidize the whole thing?—Heck, no! It ain't fair!

Before Santa hits the trail he usually takes a look into the darkest corner of the gym and bids his greetings to Tony and Val, those loving caretakers who just ducked out of their work for a short smoke and to enjoy the tranquility of the never-ceasing noises of their second home. Just what would Tony like? Just give him a higher-quality grade of floor wax and a few of those aromatic stogies and you'll do right well.

The greatest delight that Val, the keeper of the keys, could get from this Xmas would be a perfect balance in his equipment book. It's like giving and receiving the same thing. You know—give a pair of sweat-socks and expect a pair of sweat-socks back.

Mellus, '38, Gains AP All-Pro Grid Team

Johnny Mellus, '38, All-American tackle at Villanova in his senior year under Clipper Smith was named as one of the All-Professional tackles by the Associated Press last week. Mellus is a member of New York Giants professional football team and will play in the final game next Sunday against the winning Chicago Bears.

This is the first honor he received since graduating from Villanova. During his college days he was hailed as one of the greatest tackles ever produced at Villanova and made several All-American teams in his final year. He and John Wysocki were the famous pair of linemen who enabled Villanova to have such a great team a few years back.

Road Trip

Continued From Page Five

finesse which goes with a top rank team, the Wildcats are still looking for a way to offset this handicap they are playing under.

Villanova

	G	F	P
Klotz	3	2	8
Drizen	1	3	5
Gray	1	1	3
Lord	2	1	5
Kelty	0	1	1
Gerland	0	0	0
Melofchick	0	1	1
Woods	4	2	10
McDonnell	1	0	2
	12	11	35

Niagara

	G	F	P
Sheridan	1	1	3
Ifallo	5	2	12
Gasparavic	1	0	2
Cahill	1	1	3
Laffin	0	0	0
Gurnzweig	3	4	10
Durkash	0	1	1
Cullen	2	0	4
Owens	0	0	0
McGuire	6	1	13
Kane	1	0	2
Horrigan	0	0	0
Powell	0	0	0
	20	10	50

Halftime score: Niagara 26; Villanova 20.

Best Wishes

The VILLANOVAN sports staff, along with the editor, take this opportunity to wish the members of the student body, the faculty and the reverend Fathers a most merry Christmas and a happy New Year, and it is our hope that the new year will be a prosperous one for the coaches and their teams.

Austin Leads

The Intramural Point Standings as First Half Draws to a Close

Nearing the half-year mark, with just the Touch Football League to be completed, Austin Hall is the leading dormitory in the Intramural point standings. The Austinites hold a slim three point lead over the second-place Fedigan team with 37 and 34 points respectively.

By gaining firsts in Amateur Night and in the Swimming Championship and second places in I-M Basketball and Hall Decorations, Austin has assumed its lead. Fedigan took first in the Decorations and have two second places in Amateur Night and Swimming.

The following is the I-M point standing of the teams:

Team	Points
Austin Hall	37
Fedigan Hall	34
Mendel Day Hops	25
Alumni Hall	18
C & F	16
Mendel Hall	8

Six Games

Continued From Page Five

equally well from both forward and pivot positions, will probably be at forward; and Quintana is sure to hold down one of the guard spots, where his speed and experience in ball-handling will be most advantageous.

After the induction of the new year, the 'Cats once again take up their posts at the Field House to battle it out with a touring Detroit quintet. Last year during the holiday period the 'Cats took the measure of the Titans by licking them, 49-37, in a hard fought game. After Villanova's win in football this past season against Gus Dorais' eleven, the Titans will probably sport a lot of determination to even things up on the court. Detroit so far, has been quite successful in the Mid-West having chalked up several wins to their advantage.

It Can Happen Here!

The sixth game of the vacation period will also be played in Villanova's backyard when, on January 3, St. Francis, of Loretta, Pa., comes to town. Usually considered a breather on the schedule, this quintet promises to make life very uneasy for Severance and his boys. They have steadily improved in every game and by the time they clash with the Wildcats, the unexpected might happen.

'Small Men Don't'—Gray Disproves Such Theories, And Now Is Captain

Three years ago, Coach Al Severance stated that his idea of a potential star was Dick Gray. Scoffers, who judge the merits of a basketball player by his height, were wont to discredit this prophesy. "He's only 5-ft., 9-inches—he'll never see the ball—small men don't make good basketball players." These were the sentiments of those hasty prognosticators. But Dick Gray did make good despite all these rumors and today he leads the team as their captain.

Perhaps you know that Trenton's slogan is: "What Trenton makes, the world takes." Well, Trenton is the stamping grounds for young Richard and, undoubtedly, he can be classified in that category. Right out of Immaculate Conception High in Trenton, Dick came to Villanova via a scholastic scholarship, not a basketball scholarship. He has been varsity for the past three years and along with Red Klotz, the soph ace, can be considered as the trickiest dribbler on the ball club. He has an "eye" which is scarcely less than phenomenal and possesses plenty of the well-known fight and stamina. Everything he has, he puts into every minute of the game. Along with that he is a team man and gives a moral uplift to the squad by his presence.

The coach and the team realize his ability and spirit and thus it was that he was elected this year's captain. These same qualities fit Dick in the classroom. He is a senior and a student in the Arts school. His cleancut and handsome features are well blended with his pleasing personality. Through those advantages he was chosen the chairman of the ring committee last year and this year led Fedigan Hall in preparing for Amateur Night. A serious mood gets Dick in the proper frame of mind for playing basketball and thus he carries this earnestness on the court with him . For the past two successful season in basketball, much credit can be given to Dick Gray for his splendid work.

Sets Up the Points

Give Captain Dick the ball when he is anywhere past the centre stripe, and he'll drop it through the net. He shoots with left and right hands from any angle. He and Klotz invariably share individual scoring honors. In the first half of the Loyola game, Dick scored ten points, and set up, by his pass-and team work, just as many more.

The epithet, "Dead-eye," certainly applies to this lad. He is absolute "murder" on foul shots, making good approximately eight out of ten. The foul shot, as executed by Gray, is a rhapsody of ease and coolness. The arms draw back, the ball is aimed, and another point is marked in the Villanova side of the score-board. It's as easy as that.

His spirit and vigor were easily discernable in the St. Francis' fracas, and his "fight-for-the-blue-and-white" attitude cost him a bruised eye. He showed us that he can take it as well as he can administer it.

Ex-Track Captain Joins Army Air Corps

Johnny Maher, '41, captain of last year's track team will leave for Alabama after the holidays to join the Army Air Corps.

Maher was a star performer for Coach Elliot during his first two years on the varsity. Elected captain in his senior, Johnny suffered a grave illness which put an end to his collegiate running career.

Since his graduation Maher has been employed in Philadelphia.

BROOKLINE COUNTRY CLUB
Dancing Every Thursday to America's Top Name Bands
Saturday - Dec. 19
Al Donahue
In Person, and His Orchestra
Admission: $1.00 plus tax
Phone: Hilltop 1600

The Lamp Post Inn
Luncheon and Dinners
Strafford, Pa.

Young & Kaber
- Florist -
FLOWERS
See George Gabuzda
at Simpson Hall
The Campus Representative

HART & HALL, Inc.
Insurance
825 LANCASTER AVE.
Bryn Mawr, Pa.

Loren Murchison & Co., Inc.
S. W. Hampson, Rep.
Jeweler for Standard College Rings
Fraternity Pins
Keys & Medals
MR. S. W. HAMPSON,
Company Representative
6832 Crittenden St., Mt. Airy, Pa.
Phone: VICtor 3773

Sun Cleaners and Dyers

The Bryn Mawr Trust Company
BRYN MAWR, PENNA.
Every Banking Facility
Member Federal Deposit Insurance Corp.

W. C. MARTIN
THE COLLEGE & FRAT JEWELERS
908 CHESTNUT ST.
PHILADELPHIA, PA
PENnypacker 6747

'Cat Swimmers Book Nine Meets

Penn, Rutgers Met As Foes For Varsity

Coach Moore Makes Appeal for Swimmers to Report

By JACQUES MAUCH

A big assignment faces the Wildcat varsity swimming squad this season. A major schedule, the largest and strongest in the team's history, spreads itself before them.

Nine opponents fill the bill. Plans are just about completed for the season; one of the meets however, is tentative. Contacts with Loyola College of Baltimore, one of the Mason and Dixon swimming powers, have not been completed, but a definite date is expected by the end of the holidays.

The Blue and White open the season at Easton, Pa., on January 10th when they engage the Leopards of Lafayette. One week later they will make their first home appearance against St. Peter's College of Jersey City.

Three Meets at Home

The St. Peter's meet is one of three home contests. The others are Franklin & Marshall College and Delaware University, which returns to the Wildcat roster after a lapse of one year.

Heading the contests away from home will be the Quaker City rivals, Pennsylvania, and Rutgers University of New Brunswick, N. J. Rutgers is the outstanding opponent of the Wildcats this season. The Scarlet has an array of stars that places them in the East second only to Yale, one of the greatest swim schools in the country. The other opponents are Rider College of Trenton, Seton Hall of South Orange, N. J., and probably Loyola.

Four New Foes

Four of the nine foes appear on the Villanova schedule for the first time. They are Lafayette, St. Peter's, Rutgers, and Loyola. Two others, Seton Hall and Delaware, are returning for the first time since their 1940 appearance. They are expected to be much stronger than the teams of two years ago.

Meanwhile, the Wildcat swimmers continue their daily workouts under the guidance of Coach Moore. Time trials were held last Friday and Moore was well pleased with some of the results. A new diving board was installed last week and the divers are getting plenty of good practice.

However, the team still lacks several good freestyle sprinters to fill in the relay teams, and Coach Moore urges men to come out to practice. Practices are held every day from 2:30 P. M. until the end of the afternoon.

SWIMMING SCHEDULE

January
10—Lafayette.
16—St. Peter's.
21—Rider.
24—Seton Hall.
February
7—Loyola (tentative).
14—Franklin & Marshall
17—Delaware.
21—(Interscholastics).
25—Pennsylvania.
March
4—Rutgers.
(Teams indicated by bold type are scheduled for home meets.)

Three 'Cats Honored

Ed Korisky, Paul Stenn and Tony Anderson, three varsity gridders were given mention by the National Intercollegiate Sports Writers Association in their eighth annual poll of an All-America football team. The team was selected by a poll of 83 college sports writers representing 35 states and the District of Columbia; the VILLANOVAN was one of the papers whose representative cast a ballot.

Sportorial

Continued From Page Five

and that isn't sufficient to stop any giant from putting the ball in the basket.

It Remains A Problem

However there still remains a possibility that our team can counteract any heighth disadvantage. It's possible to beat the other team to the gun and by that we mean Villanova will have to insert a fast-breaking club that can and will outrun and outscore their opponents. To do this the team will have to be on the go more than they have been before—not that they didn't do so previous to this bit of writing.

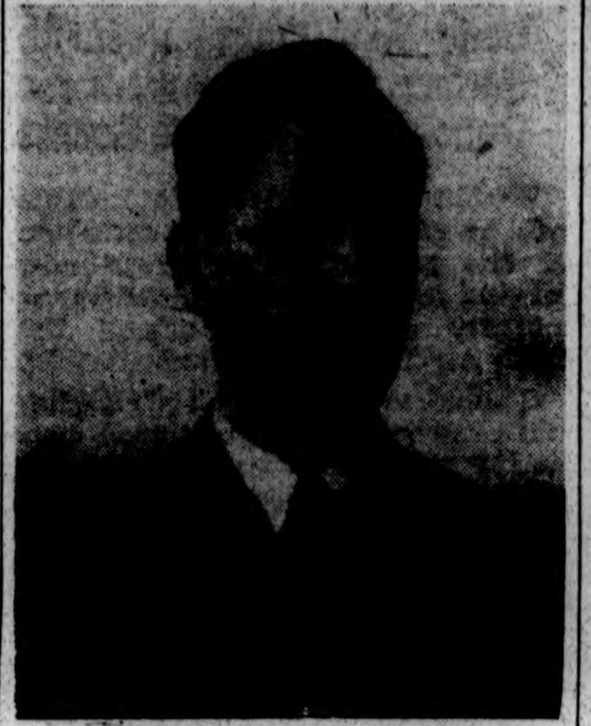
Dale Burnett, former pro football and basketball star, who now coaches Williams basketball team, employs such a system. City College of New York, tutored by Nat Holman, a great basketball coach, uses a fast-breaking offense. His teams rarely go beyond any great height and yet they continually come up with one of the best teams in the New York City area. And who can deny that the metropolitan center isn't a great basketball region?

Army Gets DePalo; Melofchik May Go

The army finally got Lou DePalo. DePalo, sophomore wingman on the football team last season left school last week to report to his draft board at White Plains, N. Y. He had been deferred because of an injury to his knee suffered in scrimmage, but in a later physical exam was declared fit.

Further adding to the coaches' woe this time, was the calling of Ernie Melofchik, of Bayonne, N. J. The sophomore forward on the court team reported to his draft board last week and then joined the team in New York. Nothing definite has been heard yet.

Hopes For The Best



COACH AL SEVERANCE

Villanova Losses Blamed Upon Small Sizes Of Players

"Villanova's current losses on the ribbed court can be attributed to the smallness in stature of the players on the team." That seems to be the opinion of some of the followers of the 'Cats as they make their annual survey of this year's crop of basketball players.

"We have a good team—fellows who can shoot and pass with the best of them but in the tight spots the opposing team has the definite advantage in height and therefore can capitalize in that department." That seems to be the whole story of Al Severance's team, some say, and disregarding the defeats already, Villanova's team will have to be alert in the rest of the games.

These statements can also be backed up partially by Coach Severance, for after Villanova's loss to St. Francis of Brooklyn Al stated that his team should and could have won if they had a few big men to guard the lead. Especially dangerous is the situation when the other team has the ball and works it beneath our basket. Villanova's team, which averages about 5-foot 10-inches, must battle continually for possession of the ball and, after a period of time, the team begins to tire—which is quite natural. A big team is better than a little team, as the saying goes, and that holds true in basketball.

Comparing the size of Villanova's players with those of some New York, Mid-West and Far Western teams, one will find that the 'Cats would be dwarfed by such outfits.

HERE AND THERE

By FRED CLARK

THE war in which we find our country entangled at the present time will have its effect on every walk of American life, and the sports world should prove no exception to this. Thus, we can expect certain changes to be brought about as a direct result of the conflict.

Both college and professional sports will be effected primarily because of the loss of players to the armed forces of Uncle Sam. The average age of those who participate in football, baseball and basketball, which three sports are the backbone of our American sports world, is probably somewhere around the middle or late twenties. This makes our average gridiron, diamond, or court player ideal material for soldiering.

Of course, this is as it should be, and all over the country prominent names, which we have seen time and time again in headlines on our sports pages, were among the first in the lists of those who offered their services to their country.

Among these may be mentioned Rabbit Maranville, former shortstop for the Boston Braves, who entered the navy as a physical education specialist, and pitcher Bob Feller of the Cleveland Indians, who also will serve under Lieutenant Commander Gene Tunney. Also eight members of Fordham's Sugar Bowl bound football squad have already signed up with Naval Air Corps and this bodes evil for Jimmy Crowley's team next year.

Lay Aside Freshman Rule

However, Fordham will have plenty of company in her misery and many a college and professional football player who saw action on a gridiron this fall will likely wear khaki this time next year and participate in a more serious and deadly game than football. Because of this expected shortage of material we believe that most colleges will be forced to lay aside, at least temporarily, the rule that forbids freshman to participate in varsity sports. This will open up a new field for the coaches to cultivate but in some cases will probably prove insufficient to overcome the shortage.

It is to be hoped that this will not result in the curtailment of the intercollegiate athletic program. When strained times like the present come upon us, we should think of bolstering and building our athletic program and other such diversions instead of curtailing and doing away with them.

Nobody can doubt the wisdom of the statement that during wartime it is essential to the morale of the people that they have a means of relaxation and entertainment which will take their minds off the ugly aspects of war and make them forget the front-page headlines for a while. Here, in the United States, sports have long been the favorite diversion and entertainment of the common man. We believe it would be a mistake to take away this diversion at a time when he needs it most.

Baseball Will Suffer

The professional ranks also will be hard-hit by the demand for manpower. Instead of searching for young players as is the usual custom each year, the big league baseball teams will be hunting for older players who are at least sure of being around for the whole season. Players like Jimmy Foxx, who has seen his best days, but is still a good first-baseman, are the type we refer to. Jimmy is well into his thirties and has two children, so it is very unlikely that he will be called to the colors.

One team should be right at home in this set-up, anyway—the Phillies. They have been using a bunch of has-beens for years and getting away with it.

KEEP SUPPLIED WITH SCHOOL TICKETS
GOOD ON BUSES AND RAIL CARS UNTIL USED
5c a Ride, Including Special Free Transfers. Obtain Identification Cards at School Office.
RED ARROW LINES
Philadelphia Suburban Transportation Co.
Aronimink Transportation Co.

Have You Talked to RENO WHITE?
NO? Then you'd better see him today. He'll tell you how to ship your baggage home and return—right from your dorm rooms, and save your cash by doing it. Call Reno at Bryn Mawr 2539.
RAILWAY EXPRESS AGENCY INC.
NATION-WIDE RAIL-AIR SERVICE

NOW YOU CAN SEE FOR YOURSELF
If you are coming to New York or Philadelphia for the holidays, you have a perfect opportunity for coming to one of the Roger Kent shops and discovering the miracle that attracts University men from all over the East. Said miracle being Suits, Outercoats and Formal Wear designed in impeccable taste . . . at one modest $38.50 price.
ROGER KENT
Suits, Outercoats and Formal Wear for Men at the one $38.50 price
NEW YORK
4C Broadway • 321 Broadway • 12 West 33rd St.
15 East 45th St. • 225 West 57th St.
NEW HAVEN 1058 Chapel St. CAMBRIDGE Lampoon Bldg. PHILADELPHIA 1607 Walnut St. © R.K.

Men's Clothes
Made-to-Measure
COLEBY Tailoring Inc.
57th & MARKET STS.
Suits & Topcoats
$27.75
See Steve Aisenbrey
110 Fedigan Hall

On The Local Screens

ARDMORE THEATRE
Dec. 16 & 17
Merle Oberon in "LYDIA"
Thurs. - Fri. & Sat.
Rosalind Russell
Don Ameche
Kay Francis in
"THE FEMININE TOUCH"
Sun. & Mon.
Humphrey Bogart in
"THE MALTESE FALCON"

Direction Warner Bros.
TOWER
69th & MARKET STS.
Fri. - Sat. - Sun. & Mon.
Dec. 19 - 20 - 21 & 22
Irene Dunne
Robert Montgomery
Preston Foster
— in —
"UNFINISHED BUSINESS"

SUBURBAN
ARDMORE
Starts Wed. for One Week
"WEEK-END IN HAVANA"
(In Technicolor)
with
Alice Faye - Carmen Miranda

ANTHONY WAYNE
THEATRE WAYNE
Wed. & Thurs
"MAJOR BARBARA"
Fri. & Sat.
"LADIES IN RETIREMENT"
with Ida Lupino
Sun. & Mon.
Clark Gable - Lana Turner in
"HONKY TONK"

SEVILLE
THEATRE BRYN MAWR
Wed. & Thurs.
"NEW WINE"
Fri. & Sat.
"TOM, DICK & HARRY"
Sun. & Mon.
"HOLD BACK THE DAWN"

WILDCATS!
STOP HERE
LA DOW'S PHARMACY
On the Edge of the Campus
LANCASTER PIKE
VILLANOVA, PA.

RIDE FREE ON P. & W. RAILWAY MOVIE TICKETS
NORRIS
NORRISTOWN
Tues. & Wed.
Betty Grable in
"HOT SPOT"
Taken from "I Wake Up Screaming"
Thurs. & Fri.
Ida Lupino in
"LADIES IN RETIREMENT"
Sat., Mon. & Tues.
Jeannette MacDonald in
"THE CHOCOLATE SOLDIER"

GRAND
NORRISTOWN
Wed. & Thurs.
Joan Blondell in
"2 LATINS FROM MANHATTAN"
Fri., Sat. & Mon.
Claudette Colbert in
"SKYLARK"

GARRICK
NORRISTOWN
Wed. & Thurs.
Alice Faye - Carmen Miranda in
"A WEEK-END IN HAVANA"
Fri. & Sat.
Clark Gable - Lana Turner in
"HONKY TONK"

Coaches All Await Xmas And Santa In Hopes For Some "Super" Players

By A. YULETIDE

Just keep your shirts on, folks, for in nine days from date, that fat and jolly man from the North Pole makes his appearance to all the chilluns' homes and while he quiets his six, seven, or eight reindeers and forces his way down your chimney, you can bet he'll have plenty to fill your little stocking with.

Santa Claus brings his yuletide greetings this year and nowhere will he be more greeted than on the campus. Probably there isn't a coach in the whole wide land who doesn't want some super-duper ball players to find their way into his haven. Santa this year could probably bring more peace to a coach's wife than all the fellows who give out on their goodwill hours. For after the completion of each athletic season, the coach who finds that his team didn't do too well sits rather uneasy on the edge of his chair and any moment expects his alumni following to pounce upon him and keep asking him, "Why?"

The Family Wants

Mom wants a new set of dishes just in case company drop in once in a while. Pop doesn't care, it's a day off for him and he forgets the boss's ugly face. Junior just wants some toys and Sis holds out for her first set of make-up. But pity the poor old coach, one year they give him something, the next year they take it away from him. We can imagine what Villanova's coaches want for the coming year and also what a few of the well-known faces about the campus would care to find in their stockings. But, gee, I wish it would come true!

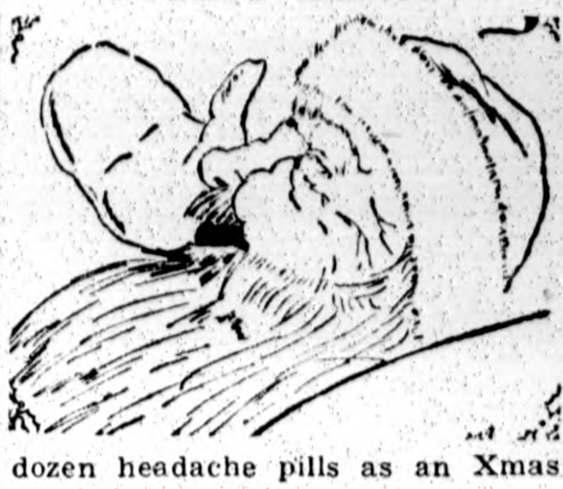
Come next season and Villanova's football team must mark time with the centennial celebration of the college. Therefore, it probably means that Clipper Smith and Vince McNally will be hoping for the best football schedule that Villanova has ever had. Now, if Santa would cooperate, he might give us something around nine games all dressed up with coloring and with at least six or seven games to be played at home. Who could ask for anything more? Clipper might also ask Santa if he has any stray lineman about who can resemble Korisky, Stenn, Kasky and Anderson. And would it be too much if that old gent gave us a couple of touchdown twins and some fast-stepping backs of triple-threat calibre?

"Give Me Something Big"

Well, to move on to the basketball court, Al Severance could use some very tall lads so that he could look up and talk to them instead of looking down to converse. If we were Santa Claus, we would suggest that Al trail Clair Bee at L. I. U. and see how he collects so many giants to parade around Madison Square Garden. Of course, Coach Bee never goes beyond the 6-ft., 11-inch, type so maybe that plan wouldn't be so good. Santa, won't you please give him a man?

It's a little early in the season to find out what Doc Jacobs can use beneath his tree but something tells us that the good Doc is a bit irked about losing his infield, with the exception of Joe Yednock, and his outfield, to the world. Last Spring, Doc wasn't worthy of receiving any presents for he had more than his share, but since then he has dropped from the "riches-to-rags" coach and will probably need a few dozen headache pills as an Xmas present.

"Please Santa!"



Coach Tom Moore of the swimmers-less team needs a bit of luck for his first year, but, alas, with a fine schedule on hand, the students don't seem to take to the cold waters of the pool. Mr. Santa Claus, won't you give the students a "hot-foot" and make them come out for Tom?

Never-ending Feud

Last year only two members were engaged in the interhall "grudge" battle, but this time we find that the disease has spread so that now Father Ludwig and Fr. Sullivan join in the battle with Fr. McKee and Fr. Dunne. Boys will be boys and here there are no allies, each one is out to battle the other. First it's Austin, then Fedigan, then Alumni, and finally, the poor Day-Hops. Competition becomes gruesome between these four but what can you do about it? Well, if Santa gave them all good basketball players, the whole shooting match would probably end up in a tie—so what's the use? Should we subsidize the whole thing?—Heck, no! It ain't fair!

Before Santa hits the trail he usually takes a look into the darkest corner of the gym and bids his greetings to Tony and Val, those loving caretakers who just ducked out of their work for a short smoke and to enjoy the tranquility of the never-ceasing noises of their second home. Just what would Tony like? Just give him a higher-quality grade of floor wax and a few of those aromatic stogies and you'll do right well.

The greatest delight that Val, the keeper of the keys, could get from this Xmas would be a perfect balance in his equipment book. It's like giving and receiving the same thing. You know—give a pair of sweat-socks and expect a pair of sweat-socks back.

Mellus, '38, Gains AP All-Pro Grid Team

Johnny Mellus, '38, All-American tackle at Villanova in his senior year under Clipper Smith was named as one of the All-Professional tackles by the Associated Press last week. Mellus is a member of New York Giants professional football team and will play in the final game next Sunday against the winning Chicago Bears.

This is the first honor he received since graduating from Villanova. During his college days he was hailed as one of the greatest tackles ever produced at Villanova and made several All-American teams in his final year. He and John Wysocki were the famous pair of linemen who enabled Villanova to have such a great team a few years back.

Road Trip

Continued From Page Five

finesse which goes with a top rank team, the Wildcats are still looking for a way to offset this handicap they are playing under.

Villanova

	G	F	P
Klotz	3	2	8
Drizen	1	3	5
Gray	1	1	3
Lord	2	1	5
Kelty	0	1	1
Gerland	0	0	0
Melofchick	0	1	1
Woods	4	2	10
McDonnell	1	0	2
	12	11	35

Niagara

	G	F	P
Sheridan	1	1	3
Ifallo	5	2	12
Gasparavic	1	0	2
Cahill	1	1	3
Laffin	0	0	0
Gurnzweig	3	4	10
Durkash	0	1	1
Cullen	2	0	4
Owens	0	0	0
McGuire	6	1	13
Kane	1	0	2
Horrigan	0	0	0
Powell	0	0	0
	20	10	50

Halftime score: Niagara 26; Villanova 20.

Best Wishes

The VILLANOVAN sports staff, along with the editor, take this opportunity to wish the members of the student body, the faculty and the reverend Fathers a most merry Christmas and a happy New Year, and it is our hope that the new year will be a prosperous one for the coaches and their teams.

Austin Leads

The Intramural Point Standings as First Half Draws to a Close

Nearing the half-year mark, with just the Touch Football League to be completed, Austin Hall is the leading dormitory in the Intramural point standings. The Austinites hold a slim three point lead over the second-place Fedigan team with 37 and 34 points respectively.

By gaining firsts in Amateur Night and in the Swimming Championship and second places in I-M Basketball and Hall Decorations, Austin has assumed its lead. Fedigan took first in the Decorations and have two second places in Amateur Night and Swimming.

The following is the I-M point standing of the teams:

Team	Points
Austin Hall	37
Fedigan Hall	34
Mendel Day Hops	25
Alumni Hall	18
C & F	16
Mendel Hall	8

Six Games

Continued From Page Five

equally well from both forward and pivot positions, will probably be at forward; and Quintana is sure to hold down one of the guard spots, where his speed and experience in ball-handling will be most advantageous.

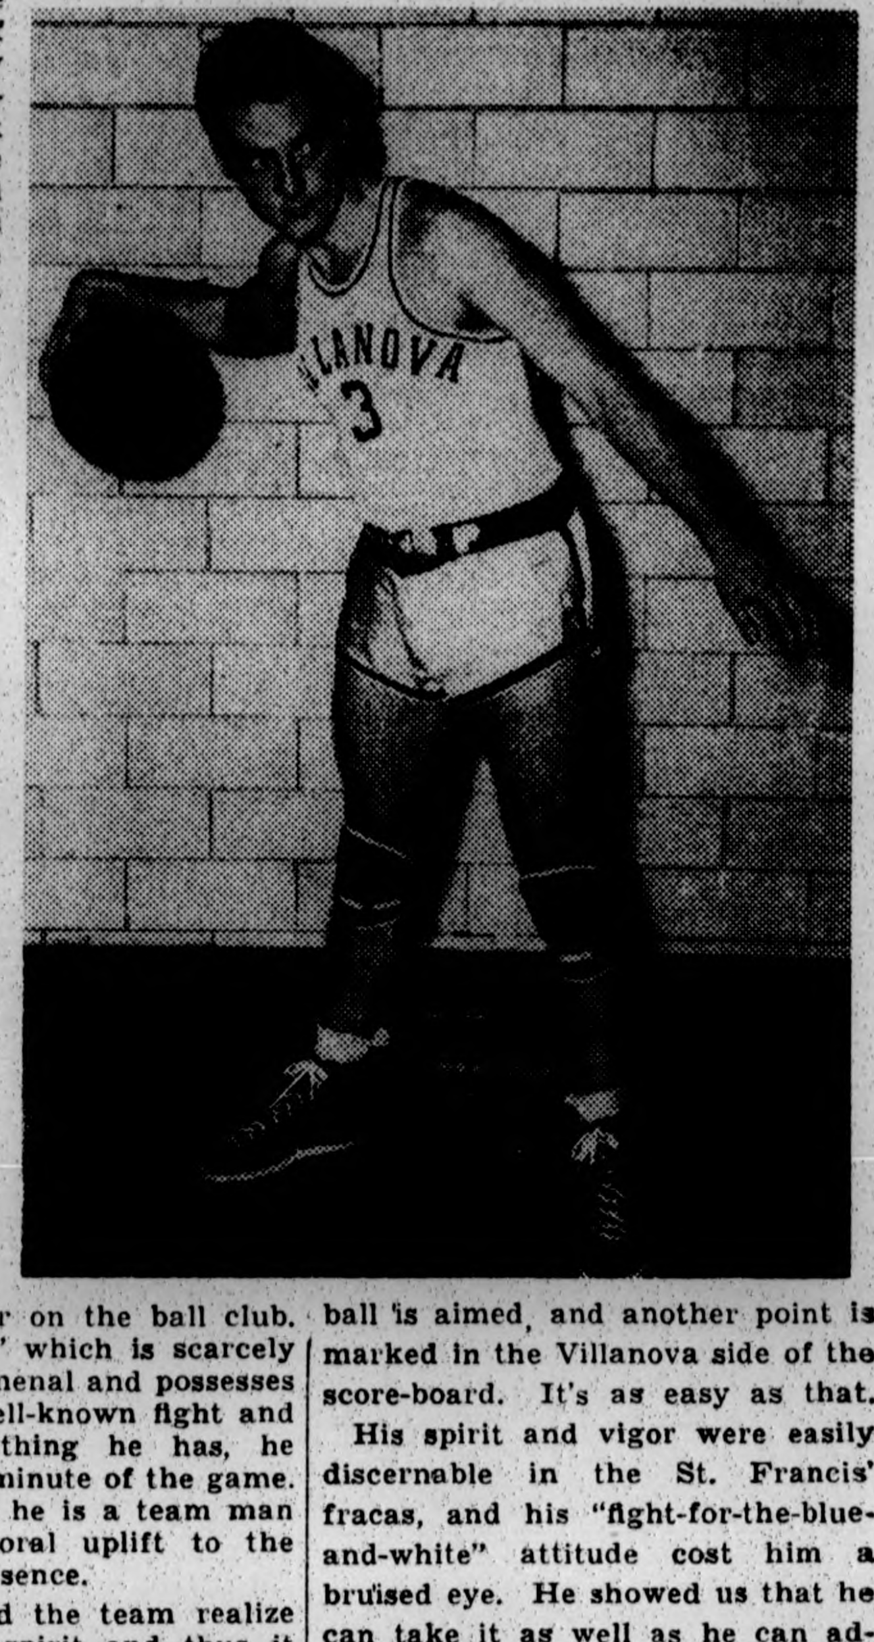
After the induction of the new year, the 'Cats once again take up their posts at the Field House to battle it out with a touring Detroit quintet. Last year during the holiday period the 'Cats took the measure of the Titans by licking them, 49-37, in a hard fought game. After Villanova's win in football this past season against Gus Dorais' eleven, the Titans will probably sport a lot of determination to even things up on the court. Detroit so far, has been quite successful in the Mid-West having chalked up several wins to their advantage.

It Can Happen Here!

The sixth game of the vacation period will also be played in Villanova's backyard when, on January 3, St. Francis, of Loretta, Pa., comes to town. Usually considered a breather on the schedule, this quintet promises to make life very uneasy for Severance and his boys. They have steadily improved in every game and by the time they clash with the Wildcats, the unexpected might happen.

'Small Men Don't'—Gray Disproves Such Theories, And Now Is Captain

Three years ago, Coach Al Severance stated that his idea of a potential star was Dick Gray. Scoffers, who judge the merits of a basketball player by his height, were wont to discredit this prophesy. "He's only 5-ft., 9-inches—he'll never see the ball—small men don't make good basketball players." These were the sentiments of those hasty prognosticators. But Dick Gray did make good despite all these rumors and today he leads the team as their captain.



Perhaps you know that Trenton's slogan is: "What Trenton makes, the world takes." Well, Trenton is the stamping grounds for young Richard and, undoubtedly, he can be classified in that category. Right out of Immaculate Conception High in Trenton, Dick came to Villanova via a scholastic scholarship, not a basketball scholarship. He has been varsity for the past three years and along with Red Klotz, the soph ace, can be considered as the trickiest dribbler on the ball club. He has an "eye" which is scarcely less than phenomenal and possesses plenty of the well-known fight and stamina. Everything he has, he puts into every minute of the game. Along with that he is a team man and gives a moral uplift to the squad by his presence.

The coach and the team realize his ability and spirit and thus it was that he was elected this year's captain. These same qualities fit Dick in the classroom. He is a senior and a student in the Arts school. His cleancut and handsome features are well blended with his pleasing personality. Through those advantages he was chosen the chairman of the ring committee last year and this year led Fedigan Hall in preparing for Amateur Night. A serious mood gets Dick in the proper frame of mind for playing basketball and thus he carries this earnestness on the court with him . For the past two successful season in basketball, much credit can be given to Dick Gray for his splendid work.

Sets Up the Points

Give Captain Dick the ball when he is anywhere past the centre stripe, and he'll drop it through the net. He shoots with left and right hands from any angle. He and Klotz invariably share individual scoring honors. In the first half of the Loyola game, Dick scored ten points, and set up, by his pass- and team work, just as many more.

The epithet, "Dead-eye," certainly applies to this lad. He is absolute "murder" on foul shots, making good approximately eight out of ten. The foul shot, as executed by Gray, is a rhapsody of ease and coolness. The arms draw back, the ball is aimed, and another point is marked in the Villanova side of the score-board. It's as easy as that.

His spirit and vigor were easily discernable in the St. Francis' fracas, and his "fight-for-the-blue-and-white" attitude cost him a bruised eye. He showed us that he can take it as well as he can administer it.

Ex-Track Captain Joins Army Air Corps

Johnny Maher, '41, captain of last year's track team will leave for Alabama after the holidays to join the Army Air Corps.

Maher was a star performer for Coach Elliot during his first two years on the varsity. Elected captain in his senior, Johnny suffered a grave illness which put an end to his collegiate running career.

Since his graduation Maher has been employed in Philadelphia.

BROOKLINE COUNTRY CLUB
Dancing Every Thursday to America's Top Name Bands
Saturday - Dec. 19
Al Donahue
In Person, and His Orchestra
Admission: $1.00 plus tax
Phone: Hilltop 1600

The Lamp Post Inn
Luncheon and Dinners
Strafford, Pa.

Young & Kaber
- Florist -
FLOWERS
See George Gabuzda at Simpson Hall
The Campus Representative

HART & HALL, Inc.
Insurance
825 LANCASTER AVE.
Bryn Mawr, Pa.

Loren Murchison & Co., Inc.
S. W. Hampson, Rep.
Jeweler for Standard College Rings
Fraternity Pins
Keys & Medals
MR. S. W. HAMPSON, Company Representative
6832 Crittenden St., Mt. Airy, Pa.
Phone: VICtor 3773

Sun Cleaners and Dyers

The Bryn Mawr Trust Company
BRYN MAWR, PENNA.
Every Banking Facility
Member Federal Deposit Insurance Corp.

W. C. MARTIN
THE COLLEGE & FRAT JEWELERS
908 CHESTNUT ST.
PHILADELPHIA, PA
PENnypacker 6747

'Cat Swimmers Book Nine Meets

Penn, Rutgers Met As Foes For Varsity

Coach Moore Makes Appeal for Swimmers to Report

By JACQUES MAUCH

A big assignment faces the Wildcat varsity swimming squad this season. A major schedule, the largest and strongest in the team's history, spreads itself before them.

Nine opponents fill the bill. Plans are just about completed for the season; one of the meets however, is tentative. Contacts with Loyola College of Baltimore, one of the Mason and Dixon swimming powers, have not been completed, but a definite date is expected by the end of the holidays.

The Blue and White open the season at Easton, Pa., on January 10th when they engage the Leopards of Lafayette. One week later they will make their first home appearance against St. Peter's College of Jersey City.

Three Meets at Home

The St. Peter's meet is one of three home contests. The others are Franklin & Marshall College and Delaware University, which returns to the Wildcat roster after a lapse of one year.

Heading the contests away from home will be the Quaker City rivals, Pennsylvania, and Rutgers University of New Brunswick, N. J. Rutgers is the outstanding opponent of the Wildcats this season. The Scarlet has an array of stars that places them in the East second only to Yale, one of the greatest swim schools in the country. The other opponents are Rider College of Trenton, Seton Hall of South Orange, N. J., and probably Loyola.

Four New Foes

Four of the nine foes appear on the Villanova schedule for the first time. They are Lafayette, St. Peter's, Rutgers, and Loyola. Two others, Seton Hall and Delaware, are returning for the first time since their 1940 appearance. They are expected to be much stronger than the teams of two years ago.

Meanwhile, the Wildcat swimmers continue their daily workouts under the guidance of Coach Moore. Time trials were held last Friday and Moore was well pleased with some of the results. A new diving board was installed last week and the divers are getting plenty of good practice.

However, the team still lacks several good freestyle sprinters to fill in the relay teams, and Coach Moore urges men to come out to practice. Practices are held every day from 2:30 P. M. until the end of the afternoon.

SWIMMING SCHEDULE

January
10—Lafayette.
16—St. Peter's.
21—Rider.
24—Seton Hall.
February
7—Loyola (tentative).
14—Franklin & Marshall
17—Delaware.
21—(Interscholastics).
25—Pennsylvania.
March
4—Rutgers.

(Teams indicated by bold type are scheduled for home meets.)

Sportorial

Continued From Page Five

and that isn't sufficient to stop any giant from putting the ball in the basket.

It Remains A Problem

However there still remains a possibility that our team can counteract any heighth disadvantage. It's possible to beat the other team to the gun and by that we mean Villanova will have to insert a fast-breaking club that can and will outrun and outscore their opponents. To do this the team will have to be on the go more than they have been before—not that they didn't do so previous to this bit of writing.

Dale Burnett, former pro football and basketball star, who now coaches Williams basketball team, employs such a system. City College of New York, tutored by Nat Holman, a great basketball coach, uses a fast-breaking offense. His teams rarely go beyond any great height and yet they continually come up with one of the best teams in the New York City area. And who can deny that the metropolitan center isn't a great basketball region?

Army Gets DePalo; Melofchik May Go

The army finally got Lou DePalo. DePalo, sophomore wingman on the football team last season left school last week to report to his draft board at White Plains, N. Y. He had been deferred because of an injury to his knee suffered in scrimmage, but in a later physical exam was declared fit.

Further adding to the coaches' woe this time, was the calling of Ernie Melofchik, of Bayonne, N. J. The sophomore forward on the court team reported to his draft board last week and then joined the team in New York. Nothing definite has been heard yet.

Three 'Cats Honored

Ed Korisky, Paul Stenn and Tony Anderson, three varsity gridders were given mention by the National Intercollegiate Sports Writers Association in their eighth annual poll of an All-America football team. The team was selected by a poll of 83 college sports writers representing 35 states and the District of Columbia; the VILLANOVAN was one of the papers whose representative cast a ballot.

Hopes For The Best

COACH AL SEVERANCE

Villanova Losses Blamed Upon Small Sizes Of Players

"Villanova's current losses on the ribbed court can be attributed to the smallness in stature of the players on the team." That seems to be the opinion of some of the followers of the 'Cats as they make their annual survey of this year's crop of basketball players.

"We have a good team—fellows who can shoot and pass with the best of them but in the tight spots the opposing team has the definite advantage in height and therefore can capitalize in that department." That seems to be the whole story of Al Severance's team, some say, and disregarding the defeats already, Villanova's team will have to be alert in the rest of the games.

These statements can also be backed up partially by Coach Severance, for after Villanova's loss to St. Francis of Brooklyn Al stated that his team should and could have won if they had a few big men to guard the lead. Especially dangerous is the situation when the other team has the ball and works it beneath our basket. Villanova's team, which averages about 5-foot 10-inches, must battle continually for possession of the ball and, after a period of time, the team begins to tire—which is quite natural. A big team is better than a little team, as the saying goes, and that holds true in basketball.

Comparing the size of Villanova's players with those of some New York, Mid-West and Far Western teams, one will find that the 'Cats would be dwarfed by such outfits.

HERE AND THERE

By FRED CLARK

THE war in which we find our country entangled at the present time will have its effect on every walk of American life, and the sports world should prove no exception to this. Thus, we can expect certain changes to be brought about as a direct result of the conflict.

Both college and professional sports will be effected primarily because of the loss of players to the armed forces of Uncle Sam. The average age of those who participate in football, baseball and basketball, which three sports are the backbone of our American sports world, is probably somewhere around the middle or late twenties. This makes our average gridiron, diamond, or court player ideal material for soldiering.

Of course, this is as it should be, and all over the country prominent names, which we have seen time and time again in headlines on our sports pages, were among the first in the lists of those who offered their services to their country.

Among these may be mentioned Rabbit Maranville, former shortstop for the Boston Braves, who entered the navy as a physical education specialist, and pitcher Bob Feller of the Cleveland Indians, who also will serve under Lieutenant Commander Gene Tunney. Also eight members of Fordham's Sugar Bowl bound football squad have already signed up with Naval Air Corps and this bodes evil for Jimmy Crowley's team next year.

Lay Aside Freshman Rule

However, Fordham will have plenty of company in her misery and many a college and professional football player who saw action on a gridiron this fall will likely wear khaki this time next year and participate in a more serious and deadly game than football. Because of this expected shortage of material we believe that most colleges will be forced to lay aside, at least temporarily, the rule that forbids freshman to participate in varsity sports. This will open up a new field for the coaches to cultivate but in some cases will probably prove insufficient to overcome the shortage.

It is to be hoped that this will not result in the curtailment of the intercollegiate athletic program. When strained times like the present come upon us, we should think of bolstering and building our athletic program and other such diversions instead of curtailing and doing away with them.

Nobody can doubt the wisdom of the statement that during wartime it is essential to the morale of the people that they have a means of relaxation and entertainment which will take their minds off the ugly aspects of war and make them forget the front-page headlines for a while. Here, in the United States, sports have long been the favorite diversion and entertainment of the common man. We believe it would be a mistake to take away this diversion at a time when he needs it most.

Baseball Will Suffer

The professional ranks also will be hard-hit by the demand for manpower. Instead of searching for young players as is the usual custom each year, the big league baseball teams will be hunting for older players who are at least sure of being around for the whole season. Players like Jimmy Foxx, who has seen his best days, but is still a good first-baseman, are the type we refer to. Jimmy is well into his thirties and has two children, so it is very unlikely that he will be called to the colors.

One team should be right at home in this set-up, anyway—the Phillies. They have been using a bunch of has-beens for years and getting away with it.

KEEP SUPPLIED WITH SCHOOL TICKETS
GOOD ON BUSES AND RAIL CARS UNTIL USED
5c a Ride, Including Special Free Transfers. Obtain Identification Cards at School Office.
RED ARROW LINES
Philadelphia Suburban Transportation Co.
Aronimink Transportation Co.

NOW YOU CAN SEE FOR YOURSELF
If you are coming to New York or Philadelphia for the holidays, you have a perfect opportunity for coming to one of the Roger Kent shops and discovering the miracle that attracts University men from all over the East. Said miracle being Suits, Outercoats and Formal Wear designed in impeccable taste . . . at one modest $38.50 price.
ROGER KENT
Suits, Outercoats and Formal Wear for Men at the one $38.50 price
NEW YORK
40 Broadway • 321 Broadway • 12 West 33rd St.
15 East 45th St. • 225 West 57th St.
NEW HAVEN 1058 Chapel St. CAMBRIDGE Lampoon Bldg. PHILADELPHIA 1607 Walnut St. © R.K.

Have You Talked to RENO WHITE?
NO? Then you'd better see him today. He'll tell you how to ship your baggage home and return—right from your dorm rooms, and save your cash by doing it. Call Reno at Bryn Mawr 2539.
RAILWAY EXPRESS AGENCY INC.
NATION-WIDE RAIL-AIR SERVICE

Men's Clothes
Made-to-Measure
COLEBY Tailoring Inc.
57th & MARKET STS.
Suits & Topcoats
$27.75
See Steve Aisenbrey
110 Fedigan Hall

On The Local Screens

ARDMORE THEATRE
Dec. 16 & 17
Merle Oberon in "LYDIA"
Thurs. - Fri. & Sat.
Rosalind Russell
Don Ameche
Kay Francis in "THE FEMININE TOUCH"
Sun. & Mon.
Humphrey Bogart in "THE MALTESE FALCON"

Direction Warner Bros.
TOWER
69th & MARKET STS.
Fri. - Sat. - Sun. & Mon.
Dec. 19 - 20 - 21 & 22
Irene Dunne
Robert Montgomery
Preston Foster
— in —
"UNFINISHED BUSINESS"

SUBURBAN
ARDMORE
Starts Wed. for One Week
"WEEK-END IN HAVANA"
(In Technicolor)
with
Alice Faye - Carmen Miranda

ANTHONY WAYNE THEATRE WAYNE
Wed. & Thurs.
"MAJOR BARBARA"
Fri. & Sat.
"LADIES IN RETIREMENT"
with Ida Lupino
Sun. & Mon.
Clark Gable - Lana Turner in "HONKY TONK"

SEVILLE THEATRE BRYN MAWR
Wed. & Thurs.
"NEW WINE"
Fri. & Sat.
"TOM, DICK & HARRY"
Sun. & Mon.
"HOLD BACK THE DAWN"

RIDE FREE ON P. & W. RAILWAY MOVIE TICKETS
NORRIS
NORRISTOWN
Tues. & Wed.
Betty Grable in "HOT SPOT"
Taken from "I Wake Up Screaming"
Thurs & Fri.
Ida Lupino in "LADIES IN RETIREMENT"
Sat., Mon. & Tues.
Jeannette MacDonald in "THE CHOCOLATE SOLDIER"

GRAND
NORRISTOWN
Wed. & Thurs.
Joan Blondell in "2 LATINS FROM MANHATTAN"
Fri., Sat. & Mon.
Claudette Colbert in "SKYLARK"

GARRICK
NORRISTOWN
Wed. & Thurs.
Alice Faye - Carmen Miranda in "A WEEK-END IN HAVANA"
Fri. & Sat.
Clark Gable - Lana Turner in "HONKY TONK"

WILDCATS!
STOP HERE
LA DOW'S PHARMACY
On the Edge of the Campus
LANCASTER PIKE
VILLANOVA, PA.

Watching The Spanish Motion Picture

—Photo by E. E. Mancuso.

Sitting in the front row at the Spanish Club reception are Rev. Lorenzo Lozano, O. S. A., moderator, and Henry Payeras, Villanova student from South America, on his left. Beside them are ranged Colombian students, guests last Friday evening. Over 200, including girls from Immaculata and Rosemont, attended the affair.

Form Red Cross, Bonds Groups

In conjunction with the program fostering student support of the war, Thomas J. McKimmey, president of Student Council, yesterday announced the formation of two campus organizations, a Red Cross Committee and a Defense Bonds and Stamps Committee.

Both committees will begin to function immediately upon return from the Christmas vacation.

Thomas H. Doyle, Jr., senior commerce student, has been named chairman of the Red Cross Committee. Others who have been appointed to serve on this committee are: Robert J. Koness, also a senior in the business school; Jacques E. Mauch, junior artsman; and Thomas C. Muraski, junior engineering student.

By a class-to-class canvass, the committee will contact every student for a donation; memberships in the American Red Cross will also be sold. The committee will attempt to triple the amount collected in last year's campaign, believing it to be an essential part of the war effort.

William P. Walpole, Junior business student, heads the Defense Bonds and Stamps Committee. He will be assisted by John P. Fullam, senior artsman; William E. Hooper, senior science student; and James M .Bonner, sophomore engineer.

Members of this committee will handle all local sales of national defense bonds and stamps.

Club Reception

Continued From Page One

whole life back home." Vargas thinks that "the American custom of putting a joke in every speech is good; speeches in Colombia are always serious." And all definitely like the girls here: "they are very beautiful and charming."

The only feature of United States life that doesn't meet with their wholehearted approval is our music. "While it has plenty of rhythm," commented Vargas, "it isn't sentimental enough."

Like others of the group, the four already have met with amusing experiences here. Toro gave solemn assurance that he had to eat ham and eggs for five days after arrival because he "couldn't say anything else in English."

Vargas, unacquainted with barbershop practice, went to one, told the barber to "do everything," and found himself on the paying end of a $2.50 bill after "everything" had been done to him. Rodriguez received a wan smile from a host when he told him that he was "very glad of leaving" his home. Velasquez saw a girl on the subway and, following South American custom, "told her how beautiful she was"; luckily, it turned out that she, too, was Spanish and understood the custom.

Ball Free To All Ex-'42 In Services

Belle Air Chairmen Invite Former Class Members for Dance Week-End as Guests

Within the next week invitations will be extended to all ex-members of the present senior class now serving in any of the United States military services to attend the Belle Air Ball here on February 13.

Co-chairmen John T. Gallagher and Andy Melton announced yesterday that those service men attending the "black and white" formal dance will be guests of the college for the week-end of the dance.

A special committee is making up the invitation mailing list and arranging for the reception of the ex-members. This is the first time in the history of the dance that such an invitation has been made. The committee expressed the hope that war conditions will permit these men to attend.

No definite negotiations have been undertaken to sign an orchestra for the affair. Both co-chairmen have urged the seniors to pay their assessments now or immediately following the Christmas holiday as "the longer the delay in making arrangements, the less opportunity there will be to sign an orchestra that will appeal to the class."

In answer to many queries from seniors who expect to be called by their draft boards in the near future, Gallagher has given his guarantee that "a refund will be made to any senior who has paid in his assessment and is drafted before the Ball."

There will be a meeting of the senior class today today at 1:00 P. M. in 215 Mendel Hall, to discuss further arrangements.

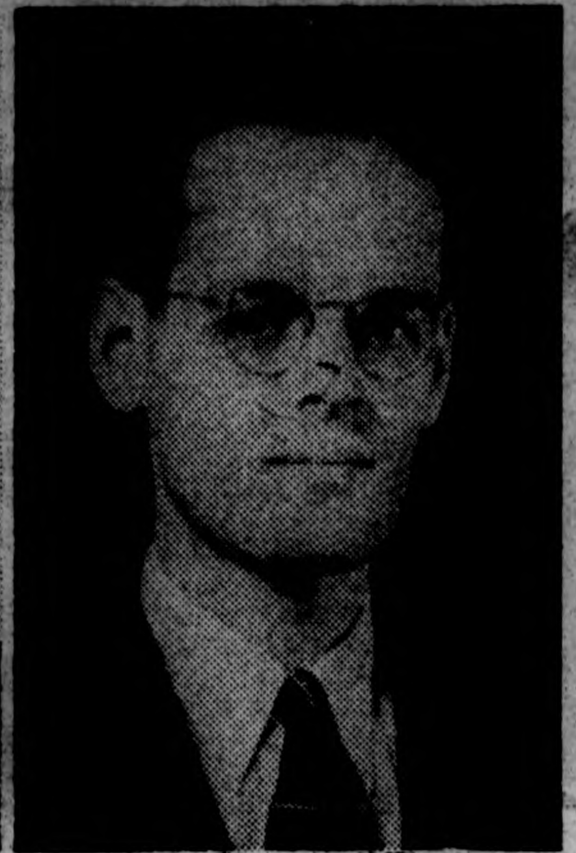
"Villanova" Launched

The 84-foot trawler, "Villanova," was launched last Friday at the Maine Shipyards Corporation plant, South Portland, Me. It was built for F. J. O'Hara & Sons, Inc.

Very Rev. John P. Sheehan, O. S. A., provincial of the Augustinian Order in the United States, blessed the trim blue craft before it slid into the waters of Casco Bay.

Named To Belle Air Editorial Board

DAVID F. DALY



PAUL C. WATERS

First "Bulletin" To Appear Today

The "Mendel Bulletin," quarterly publication of the School of Science, will make its first appearance of the current scholastic year today, according to J. Eugene Nelson, chairman of the editorial board.

Put into practice with the issue will be a policy of using shorter articles covering a wider range than heretofore has been the case, and enlargement of the book review section.

Articles in the December issue will include "Invisible Glass — A Problem of Reflection," "Adventures with Chara Fragilis," "Dubos' 'Gramicidin'," "The Culture and Staining of Euglena," one on the Wagner Free Institute of Science, and a humorous poem.

The new board of editors, for whom the issue is the first, is comprised of Nelson, Ray N. Cacciatore, Daniel C. Cedrone, Anthony P. Gigliotti, John J. Grey, Lawrence J. McStravog, John J. Bongiovanni, Nicholas C. Eni, William A. Hadfield, and Wallace J. Redner.

Two Seniors Get Yearbook Posts

David F. Daly, senior artsman, and Paul C. Waters, senior commerce student, will be sports editor and business manager, respectively, of the 1942 Belle Air, William E. Schubert, editor of the publication, announced yesterday.

Daly, who has been a staff member for three years, is also president of Epsilon Phi Theta, arts school fraternity, and treasurer of the senior class. A consistent honor student, he was selected All-Intramural shortstop in the campus baseball league last year.

A member of the business staff for three years, Waters was appointed as a reward for his efforts in securing advertising patrons for the year book. He was a member of the 150-pound football team and of the commerce school's intramural organization. He is also a member of Delta Pi Epsilon fraternity.

With the announcement of these two appointments, all posts on the editorial board of the annual have been filled.

George Fein & Co.
Printer & Publishers
2116 to 2130 Arch St.
PHILADELPHIA, PA.
RITtenhouse 6983

DOLLY MADISON ICE CREAM
"Deliciously Different"
PHILA. DAIRY PRODUCTS CO.
4th & Poplar Sts., Phila., Pa.

You taste its quality
Pause ... Go refreshed
Coca-Cola

Experience proves that nothing takes the place of quality. You taste the quality of ice-cold Coca-Cola. Again and again you enjoy the charm of its delicious taste... and its cool, clean after-sense of complete refreshment. Thirst asks nothing more.

5¢

You trust its quality

BOTTLED UNDER AUTHORITY OF THE COCA-COLA COMPANY BY

THE PHILADELPHIA COCA-COLA BOTTLING CO.

WRIGLEY'S SPEARMINT CHEWING GUM
V-167

No Cramming Necessary!

For swell flavor and real chewing fun—the answer is delicious Wrigley's Spearmint Gum

---

VILLANOVAN

Vol. 14—No. 10 N. A. S. Z-660 VILLANOVA COLLEGE, VILLANOVA, PA. TUESDAY, JANUARY 13, 1942

Devine Edits Paper; Board Named

Pictured at his desk is THOMAS F. DEVINE, above right, who will take office as Editor-in-Chief of the VILLANOVAN at the annual staff dinner tonight. To the left of Devine is WARD C. GUNCHEON, Managing Editor, while across the bottom from left to right are EUGENE P. SMITH, Business Manager; RAYMOND G. AMICONE, Photography Editor; and ROBERT F. YOUNG, College Editor.

New Weekly Heads To Be Inducted At Dinner Tonight

By GERARD F. BELZ

Thomas F. Devine, a junior in the School of Arts, has been selected as editor-in-chief of the VILLANOVAN for the coming year, according to Thomas H. Doyle, Jr., retiring editor.

The new editor and his staff will officially receive their appointments at the annual VILLANOVAN Dinner-Dance, which is to be held tonight at the General Anthony Wayne Inn in Merion.

Editorial Board Chosen

Others appointed to the editorial board include: Jacques E. Mauch, junior artsman, sports editor; Robert F. Young, sophomore commerce student, college editor; and Ward C. Guncheon and Robert T. Canfield, junior business students, managing editor and copy editor, respectively. Thomas C. Muraski, junior engineer, will serve as literary editor; Raymond G. Amicone, also a junior engineer, as photography editor.

Edward F. Bennis, third-year business student, will handle the college chatter column, while Louis J. Esposito, junior artsman, will edit the exchanges and Samuel J. Canning, junior commerceman, will write "Here and There," the sports column.

Departmental Managers

New managers appointed to the staff are: Eugene P. Smith, commerceman, business manager; Loring A. Jones, commerceman, advertising manager, and Nicholas J. Eni, science student, circulation manager. All are juniors.

Entering college as a recipient of a competitive scholarship, Devine has held first position in his class ratings since he has been here. As a freshman he was a member of the Beta Gamma Debating Society and in his sophomore year was appointed to serve on the Orientation Committee. He has also been an active member of the Belle Air yearbook staff and of Epsilon Phi Theta, arts school fraternity. Prior to his new appointment, he served as staff writer and college editor of the VILLANOVAN.

Sixteen Heelers Accepted

Students who have been accepted as staff members after a semester's trial are: Anthony Berenato, Daniel Ehart, William Golden, Logan Hood, Edward Mancuso, Thomas McFarland, James McWilliams, John Murray, Harold O'Connor, Jr., Thomas Schubert, and Stanley Zeeman, freshmen, and James Correale, George Giacchino, John Quinn, Donald Sauers, and William Walsh, sophomores.

To Present Keys

Retiring editors and staff members who have fulfilled the necessary requirements of three years of cooperative service will be presented with keys by the moderator, Rev. Edward B. McKee, O. S. A., at the banquet tonight.

Presentation of the keys will take place after speeches by Doyle, Robert J. Funabashi, retiring sports editor, Devine, and Mauch. John T. Gallagher, retiring business manager, will serve as toastmaster.

The Dinner-Dance will begin at 7:15 P. M. Music will be supplied by Frank Roberts' Orchestra.

Red Cross Drive Will Open Today

Expecting to triple the amounts collected here in previous years, Villanova's Red Cross Committee will begin a month-long membership and donation campaign today.

Every student in the school, as well as student groups, will be contacted during the campaign. Starting tonight, members of the committee will go around the resident halls to sell memberships to students living on the campus; day students will be enabled to contribute through a class-to-class canvass. Contribution boxes will be posted at strategic points in Mendel Hall and the commerce building later on.

In charge of the Red Cross Roll Call and War Relief Fund Drive here are seniors Thomas H. Doyle, Jr., and Robert J. Koness, and juniors Jacques E. Mauch and Thomas C. Muraski. They will be assisted by other members of the Student Council.

The Red Cross drive will be one of the ways in which students will cooperate with the war effort. Others, among them the purchase of defense stamps and bonds and donations to the Red Cross "blood bank," will be afforded shortly when those campaigns open here.

Over 60 Engineers Act For Commissions

Sixty-four juniors and seniors of the engineering school have applied for commissions in the Naval Reserve, it was announced yesterday by J. Stanley Morehouse, dean of that school.

Preliminary applications for these students have been sent to the Commandant of the Fourth Naval District, who will send to the dean questionnaires on those who have applied.

These questionnaires seek information on the applicants' scholastic record, general reputation, qualifications as officer material, and radical tendencies.

Toward the end of the month, an examining board, consisting of a doctor, dentist, and interviewing officer, will visit the school; those applicants whom they approve will be given formal applications, which will be submitted to the Bureau of Navigation in Washington for final approval.

Acceleration Of Curriculum Likely In Near Future, President Reveals

"It is most likely that an accelerated program of studies will be adopted at Villanova in the near future," Very Rev. Edward V. Stanford, O. S. A., president, disclosed yesterday.

In answer to a question as to whether it is planned to speed up the curriculum here in any way or to schedule graduation earlier than the planned June 4 date, Fr. Stanford stated, "The matter is being studied very carefully at the present time and an announcement will be forthcoming to the students as soon as definite plans have been made."

Faculty conferences are being held and decisions may be expected within two weeks. It is anticipated that Fr. Stanford will meet with student groups during the coming week to discuss with them how they can cooperate with the accelerated program.

Combined Choral Groups To Offer Musicale Sunday

Rosemont and Villanova Societies Will Include Instrumental Selections

More than 100 voices of the Rosemont-Villanova Choral Society will be heard in their fourth annual Winter Concert this Sunday at 8:30 P. M. in the Villanova Field House.

As in the past two years, the program will include classical and semi-classical selections and will feature both vocal and instrumental solos.

Miss Stella Creamer, contralto soloist, will be highlighted in a violin and harp obligato of Rubenstein's "Serpahic Song." Accompanying her will be Miss Miriam Crowley on the violin and the Misses Kathryn Jean Kearns and Consuella Madrigal, harpists. This will be followed by a harp duet performed by the latter two artists.

The remaining soloist will be John Bigley, freshman science student, who will render Best's "Song of the Open Road."

The entire chorus, under the combined direction of Rev. Ralph J. Handran, O. S. A., and Mother Mary Paula, of Rosemont, and accompanied by Mr. Eugene Sullivan, will present selections from Handel, Palestrina, Rubenstein, Strickland, and Cherryman as the bulk of the evening's entertainment.

Tickets for the concert, priced at $.99 and at $.50 for students with matriculation cards, may be purchased at the College Store and in the Book Store.

Officials of the affair, who expect a large attendance, state that a representative group to Rosemont girls will make the trip from the neighboring campus to attend the recital.

D. P. E.'s "Frolic" Due Friday Night

Haley and Koness Direct Committee; "Villanovans" Will Play From 9 'Til 1

Delta Pi Epsilon, commerce and finance school fraternity, will hold its second annual Financiers' Frolic in the college Field House from 9:00 until 1:00 next Friday evening with the "Villanovans" providing the music.

In an effort to make the dance entertaining and distinctive, several innovations will be introduced at the informal affair. The stage of the Field House will be used as a lounge for the dancers; the band will be situated on the left side of the gymnasium instead of in front of the stage, as is the usual custom.

Daniel J. Haley and Robert J. Koness, both seniors, head a committee of 16 members of the fraternity running the affair. Committee members have been assigned to particular tasks on the various subcommittees.

They plan to present an intercollegiate theme in the decorations. Pennants of numerous schools will carry out this theme; finishing touches will be provided by unusual lighting effects and multi-colored balloons. Many other novelties and special dances will feature the evening.

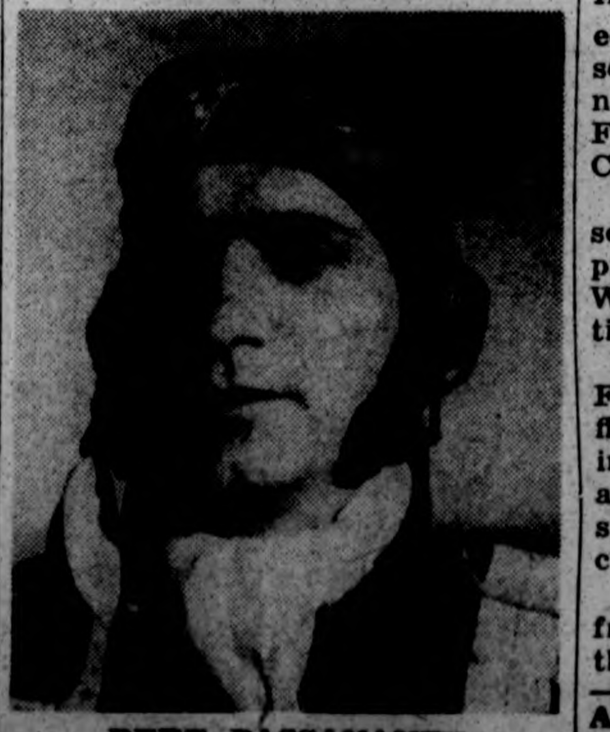
The dance will be the last informal one until April and the last until examinations and the retreat are over when, on Feb. 13, the Senior Prom will be held.

Tickets for the dance may be purchased from any member of the fraternity or at the door for $1.65 per couple, tax included.

Ben Maloney, '37, Lost In Bomber; Bert Passanante, '39, Wounded: They Are First Reported Villanova Casualties

Villanova's first contributions at the altar of this war were made known last week when Second Lieut. J. Benedict Maloney, former editor-in-chief of the VILLANOVAN, was reported missing and Second Lieut. Bartholemew A. Passanante, former copy editor of the weekly, seriously wounded.

Wounded



BERT PASSANANTE

Maloney, who graduated in 1937, was said to be missing by the Army Air Corps when his B-26 two-motored bomber disappeared from a squadron of nine planes on the evening of Dec. 30, approaching March Field in the vicinity of Cajon Pass, California.

Passanante, another flier, was seriously wounded in the Philippines on Dec. 9, according to the War Department. He had been stationed at Nicholas Field, Manila.

The announcement from March Field said that the nine bombers, flying in V's of three each, went into an overcast about 8,500 feet above Cajon Pass about dusk and spread out when they entered the clouds.

They were flying in the overcast from two to five minutes and when they emerged into clear weather

ALUMNI CASUALTIES
Continued on Page Four

Missing

BEN MALONEY

Looking To The Future

PERHAPS you remember studying American history away back in the days you wore knee breeches. Perhaps, too, you studied it in high school and college. It didn't mean much to you then, at least not so much as it does now. You were young then and history was something that you had to take. Now you are older and are in a history-making era that approaches the spectacular.

This World War II is your first war; it is your roommate's first war; it is the first war for a great many of us. War is something new to us. We know little about it except what we have read in history books. So let us go back and see just what the history book says.

It speaks of the Declaration of Independence, Paul Revere and the Minute Men, Valley Forge, the Constitution, the Statue of Liberty, and much more. All these are but a few of a great many of the symbols of freedom that stand out more vividly, now, in our minds. They are a heritage which has come down to us from generation to generation.

Now we find that it is our generation that is called upon to preserve this heritage. It has to be done by fighting as Washington and Pershing fought. It has to be done by industry such as Watt, Whitney, Howe, and Edison have shown us. It has to be done in the mind by faith, courage, patriotism, and religion as all Americans have done.

All this has been in a passive state in our minds, but now it must become active. Not just on Sunday or Monday, but on all seven days in each week and all 24 hours each day. It is, truly: Americans and America, first, last, and always. There is room for no others.

—T. C. M.

What Can I Do?

WHILE the clear-thinking college student readily realizes that he can best serve his country by completing that education which will make him valuable in the reconstruction which must follow the actual hostilities, it is only natural for him as a red-blooded American youth to seek some immediately useful outlet for his energies and talents.

It is in answer to this vigorous query of "What can I do?" that the Red Cross makes its plea today. A worthy cause at any time, this charitable drive takes on an added significance now.

As college students we should be humbly and deeply appreciative of the privilege which is ours. Only the physical sacrifices of those engaged in active combat make it possible for us to acquire the mental discipline and training denied to so many. Here is our opportunity to translate our emotions of gratitude into practical action.

The goal of this year's Villanova Red Cross Drive, which begins today, will be to triple, at least, the amount reached by any peace time drive here. In order to realize that objective, an intense, sustained campaign will be conducted. Each student will be contacted personally and each will be expected to contribute substantially.

Sale of defense bonds and stamps will be inaugurated soon, as will be requests for students to donate blood to the Red Cross blood bank. It's up to us to see that none of these opportunities to recognize our duties in so helpful a manner is ignored.

St. Paul reminds us that "Charity is the bond of perfection." Thus we see that apostolic teaching is in accord with the natural duties expected of us.

Here's the answer to your question. What can you do? Starting today, you can contribute to the Red Cross—money now, blood later. When you are approached by a local Red Cross agent don't hesitate. It will be a long, hard war, so . . . give, give, give!

—T. F. D.

VILLANOVAN

Issued twenty-five times a year from Villanova College, Villanova, Pa.

THOMAS H. DOYLE, JR., '42 ....Editor-in-Chief
ROBERT J. FUNABASHI, '42 ....Sports Editor
THOMAS F. DEVINE, '43 ....College Editor
WILLIAM E. SCHUBERT, '42 ....Managing Editor
THOMAS A. SULLIVAN, '42 ....Copy Editor
HOWARD A. McCALL, '42 ....Literary Editor
JOHN T. GALLAGHER, '42 ....Business Manager
ALBERT D'ALONZO, '42 ....Photography Editor
JOHN P. FULLAM, '42 ....Feature Editor
ROBERT F. DONOVAN, '42 ....Subscription Manager
BRUNO J. TALVACCHIA, '42 ....Exchange Editor
BERNARD C. CRUMB, ex-'42,
Honorary Circulation Manager

Columnists
F. J. Clark, '42 D. N. Reardon, '42

Staff Writers
F. Bagot, '43; G. Belz, '42; E. Bennis, '43; H. Binder, '44; J. Bongiovanni, '43; R. Canfield, '43; S. Canning, '43; S. Caplan, '42; J. Coleman, '43; W. Craven, '43; L. DeSimone, '44; J. Dudley, '43; J. Earley, '42; L. Esposito, '43; W. Guncheon, Jr., '43; D. Haley, '42; J. Jakovic, '42; J. Mahoney, '43; J. Mauch, '43; J. McCabe, '42; R. McIntyre, '42; T. Muraski, '43; J. Nunemaker, '43; F. Reese, '43; T Shallow, '42; C. Schaumann, '42; J. Tortoreto, '44; R .Young, '44.

Business Assistants
C. Callahan, '43 L. Jones, '43 E. Smith, '43
J. Walsh, '43

Circulation Assistants
J. Cerulo, '42 G. Fitzgerald, '42 E. Frank, '42
N. Eni, '43 J. Keays, '44 J. Monroe, '44

Photography Staff
R. Amicone, '43 L. Eni, '44 J. Sandonato, '42

Faculty Advisor—Rev. Edward B. McKee, O. S. A.

This paper is dedicated to one of the finest men who ever entered Villanova; scholar, athlete, gentleman — LEO GOODREAU

Subscription: $2.00 per year. Circulation: 3500.
Entered as second class matter at the Villanova Post Office December 27, 1928.

Member of Associated Collegiate Press; Distributor of Collegiate Digest.
Member of Catholic School Press Association, Catholic College Press Association, and National Scholastic Press Association.

TUESDAY • • • • JANUARY 13, 1942

Meet The Man

SIDE BY SIDE they are marching in the stride of America: the Roman Catholic man and youth with their fellow-cohorts of many other religious denominations. They are tramping in the tempo of a nation which is preparing them for a struggle against the enemy. The privileges which they are elected to preserve are many and precious, but none is more worth fighting for than the freedom of worship.

Here we expect the Catholic service men to assume positions in the front ranks, and to show by example that they love and live their faith. We expect them to go immediately into battle in the camps of their own country in defense of what they now possess through divine inheritance. We expect them to do this because we know they will experience moments when they will be called to exemplify the character which their religion expects of them.

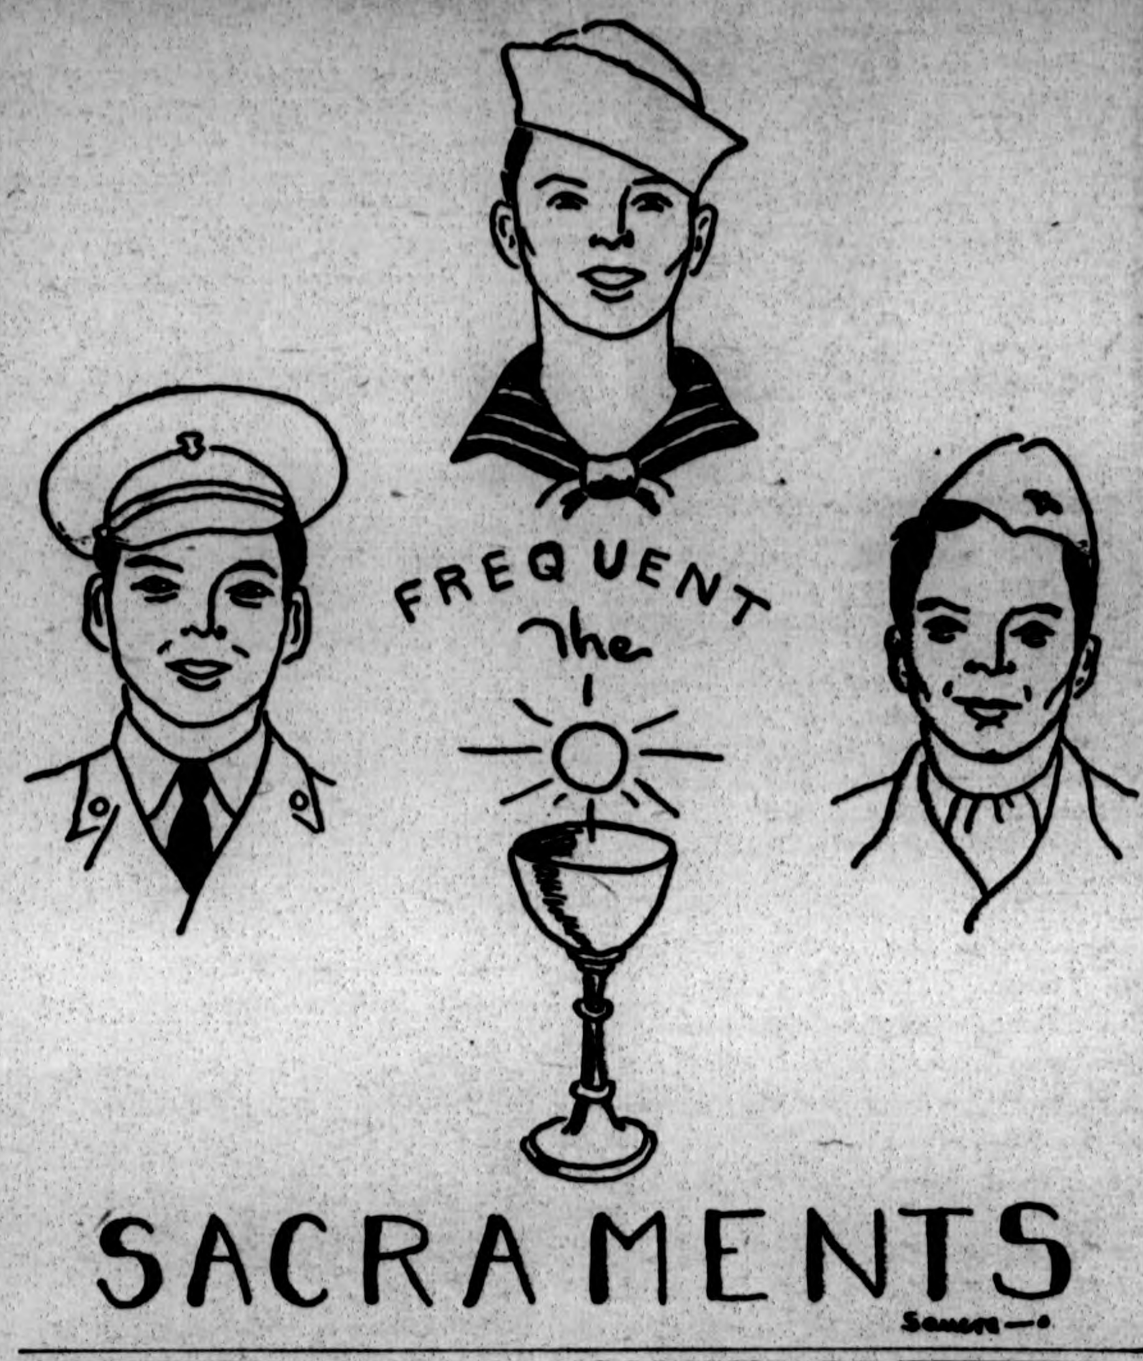
More particularly, we speak to the graduates of Villanova who are in the various branches of our armed forces. We remind you that the nation is warring against a foe and that you are also warring for Christ. You are fighting for God and country. Your abilities are now conscripted for two causes, the greater of which is the former. It is double duty, men —and there can be no hedging in either responsibility, least of all in your spiritual obligations.

Your duties, as they stand, are inseparable. Government officials will guide and direct you in the martial maneuvers. Christ has also delegated men who are ready to serve you toward His end. His official representatives are among you, waiting to meet and know you. They are the chaplains of the service.

One of the foremost leaders in the first world war was Marshal Foch. He was a prominent figure in the uniform of our allies. He also led the legions of Catholic men engaged in that contest, and it was from them that he received the title, "the gray man of Christ." His first visitation was always the altar — his second, the field.

—H. A. McC.

In Touch With God - - - - - by SAUERS



FACULTY COMMENTS

Freshman X And The Past

By FR. GAVIGAN

DURING the school year at Villanova, many a college man will find himself going library-wards. Naturally enough—for the library is always associated with thoughts of treasure-trove for young seekers after knowledge. Day after day, the busy and patient library staff can note the steady flow of these potential scholars as they move about hither and thither in quest of enlightenment on a variety of subjects.

Yes, variety! History, science, literature, mathematics (to mention only a few of the subjects concerned), all come in for their share. Books on such apparently disparate subjects as protozoology, archaeology, chemistry and language may be checked out in rapid succession. Freshman A takes a book on Finance; Freshman B takes one on Trigonometry; and so on down the line.

Studies Linked with Past

Quite a range of subjects, is it not? At first sight, one may think that we have to do with studies that have no common ground, one with another. This is, indeed, partly true: a man in the School of Science is surely not aiming at specialization in civics. A Commerce and Finance student is not expected to learn thoroughly every masterpiece of French literature. But in all complete education we shall find that our modern studies have common roots in the past. Not that our remote ancestors knew as much as is known today about science, medicine and machinery. It is from them, however, that we have received the elements of knowledge that have been so richly developed in our own day.

Imagine Freshman X going to the library to get "material." Imagine further that he is looking up a question in one of the ultra-modern sciences. Can he dispense with the treasures of the past and be content only with what is "up-to-date"? Not for a moment! Take a most elementary part of this student's intellectual equipment. Take his ABC's without which he could not read even the titles of the library books, let alone assimilate their contents! Is this alphabet a product of the twentieth century, or is it a part of the heritage of the past? Quite definitely, the latter!

Our Debts to Others

We owe our consonants to the Semites, our vowels to the Greeks, our letter forms and their transmission to the Romans. Our use of capitals as distinct from small letters comes from antiquity. The use of different fonts of type for differentiation is derived from antiquity and the developments of mediaeval monasteries. The forms of modern capitals are borrowed from ancient inscriptions. Our lower case letters are descended from ninth-century Carolingian letters which are themselves based on ancient writing. Our abbreviation system is mediaeval and contains remnants of earlier usage.

But are we, perhaps, overemphasizing a mere triviality? I hardly think so. Professor Ullman of the University of Chicago makes the following bold claims for the alphabet and gives their justification.

Importance of Alphabet

"The importance of writing, and especially of the alphabet, cannot be exaggerated. Art, culture, religion, politics, commerce, language, all are related and indebted to the alphabet. The progress of art and culture can be traced in the history of writing. Our civilization could hardly have advanced as far as it has, or in the same way, without the alphabet. Religious differences in Jugoslavia are marked by the use of two alphabets. The spirit of nationalism causes Germany to preserve its Gothic writing and Ireland its early script.

"How commerce has been facilitated by the alphabet can hardly be estimated; if commerce follows the flag, the alphabet precedes both. The elimination of three letters from the Bulgarian alphabet in 1922 led to the resignation of two ministers and wide dissatisfaction. The adoption of the Roman alphabet gave Turkey a definite trend toward Western civilization."

Development of Writing

Our own English language has developed in a way parallel to the script used in writing it. The ancient manner of writing was borrowed by the Saxons from Italy, but became completely naturalized so that the ruins are now thought of as a Germanic national alphabet. St. Augustine brought to England both Christian words and a type of writing called half-uncial.

These innovations were likewise assimilated. The Norman Conquest greatly changed the Saxon tongue and introduced the script known as Carolingian. Chaucerian English was written with French Gothic characters. The Italian Renaissance brought to England the humanistic printing from Italy. Thus, Rome, both Christian and pagan, started an influence on our tongue and its writing, that was completed

FACULTY COMMENTS
Continued on Page Four

Wildcat Whirl

By
Dave
Reardon

UPON returning from the extended holidays, many tales of unprecedented social activity were dispensed by the lads. Apparently they were totally successful, especially upon the inception of the New Year. Incidentally, the New Year of 1942, while not too bright in prospects, does call for a little introspection and consequent resolve.

* * *

As this is the writers' concluding column, I think it would be fitting to recall some of the many fellows who have graced it during its year-long life and set down some of the characteristics which will make them forever memorable.

* * *

IN RETROSPECTION:

"Pooch" Gordon for his organizational ability and his bone-crushing blocks in touch-football. . . Bill Hooper for his Junior Week guidance. . . Joe Costa for his rotundity. . . Tom McKimmey for his Student Council chairmanship. . . Johnny Kirchner for his class presidency and roommate. Fred Clark for his sportscasting. . . . "Chuck" Callahan for his merit awards. . . Ed Cubler for his nifty piano renditions. . .

Joe Connor for his publicity craving. . . Tom Sheehy, "Stumpy" McCauley and Don Speese, typical young internes. . . Bruno Talvacchia for his interesting intercollegiate column. . . Bob McIntyre for his perpetual oratory. . .

Jack "Big Deal" Gallagher for his promotional aptitude. . . Andy Melton for his clever handling of class finances and his New Yawk accent . . . Steve Aisenbrey for his football managerial tenure. . . Bill Howlett, "Elk" Murray and Tony Anderson as the "Ivy League" footballers. . . "Major" McDonnell for his impersonations, affability, and court prowess.

* * *

MORE MEMORIES:

Dan Haley for his quotations from "Time" and his homespun philosophy . . . "Cookie" Koness and John Cerulo for their newsmen's activities. . . Jim Walsh for his "How are ya" personality. . . Jim Lattanza for his touch footballing. . . Frank Buckley for his thespian characterizations. . . Bob White and Bob Young for their varied co-ed campi wanderings. . . Bill DeGrace for his suaveness. . . Joe Malone for his driving to Reading.

Ed Hagen and Tom Sullivan for their consistent scholarship leadership. . . Jim Cashin for his week-end escapades. . . Dave Daly for his I. M. diamond antics. . . Jim Halpin for his fidelity to Dotty from Rosemont. . . Joe McCabe and "Meathead" Phillips as the O'Dwyer dudes. . . Jack Schreck for his attentiveness in Dr. Hartman's classes.

Captain Dick Gray for his slick basketball handling. . . John Fullam for his speech rebuttal technique. . . Joe Gill for reorganizing the touch-football league. . . Loring Jones, Gene O'Donnell, Johnny DiCarlo, Ed Frank, and Joe Daly for their C. A. A. pilot training. . . Paul Waters for not missing a football game at home or away. . . Bill Craven for his dancing. . . Joe McEvoy for his warbling with the "Villanovans". . . Gerry Belz for his Glee Club vocalizing, etc, etc.

In tribute to the ex-members of the class of 1942, now in the service:

Johnny Parson for his Junior Prom. . . Johnny Burke for his Belle Masque interest. . . Bernie Clumb for his circulation staff work . . . Woody Reitmeier for his great baseball playing. . . Tom Harford for plugging away on the court squad. . . Kirk Holland for his all-around personality.

* * *

I'M OUT. . .:

In conclusion, it was a distinct pleasure to report the social doings of the men about the campus. I only hope that the articles proved worth reading and were received in the spirit in which they were given. To my successor, Ed Bennis, lots of luck. He will prove an able columnist. Au revoir.

Villanova Alumnus Stationed In British Isles Commends Generous Hospitality Of His Hosts

THERE are not many people who are able to serve their country, develop a pet hobby, prepare for a lifetime career, and have a whale of a good time all in a single operation. But there are a few of these fortunate mortals, and John J. Raney, '40, is one of them.

Lieutenant Raney — he received his commission in the U. S. Army Signal Corps last October—is under going specialized training in scientific aircraft detection "somewhere in the British Isles." The training is aimed to fit him for what is one of the better ways to serve one's country, protecting it when bombers come.

But if it had't been for that aforementioned hobby of John's, Uncle Sam would have had one less technician. For Lieut. Raney had been for nine years, is now, and—he insists—always will be, an amateur radio enthusiast. A member of that far-flung brotherhood whom a common interest binds closely together in utter defiance of the laws of space and time. A "ham."

Station W3EZQ was built by John himself in the basement of his home in Philadelphia. Many were the evenings the electrical engineering student spent at the complicated-looking transmitter. Many were the informal parties held in the paneled recreation room, at which the radio was the center of attention. Kelly, Seelaus, and a whole gong of John's classmates used to be there. They had fun, too.

That was before the war. Now the transmitter has been packed away. Lieut. Raney is applying his training and experience to help solve an important problem for the American people.

In letters from Canada, typewritten because Canadian railroads are none too smooth, England, and Scotland, he tells of a host of interesting experiences.

The milling crowd in a Canadian depot, cheering "Les Americains" . . .the wonderful treatment accorded the Americans by the British officers. . .a safe, uneventful crossing.

My Stick, James!

Now, Lieut. Raney has a valet. He has a plane at his disposal at all times. He takes his tea and scones at 3:30 every afternoon. He enjoys the generous hospitality of the British People. And he loves it.

His letters describe the joyous reaction in England after America declared war. They also tell how he misses American magazines and his mother's "thick steaks, with mushrooms and onions."

Patriotism prompted Raney to join the Army in the first place. In his earlier positions as signal tower operator at the Philadelphia Municipal Airport and as an electrical engineer with a large manufacturing concern, he probably would not have been drafted.

Got Wings First

But he wanted to learn to fly so, after talking the matter over with his parents, he resigned from his position and enrolled in a Civilian Pilot Training course.

Shortly after he completed this training, he read that Uncle Sam needed men with his radio experience who also had a pilot's license. After acceptance, he was commissioned a Lieutenant last October; following a month of basic training at Fort Monmouth, he left, by way of Canada for Europe.

Lieut. Raney intends to remain in the army when this war is over. And that will probably be pretty soon if there are many more like him in the service now.

And where did he read the announcement of the opportunity? Why, in Qst, the magazine for "hams," of course.

—"Philadelphia Evening Bulletin" Photo.
Radio Engineer Raney at the Controls.

Meet The Boys: The "Engineer" Is Led By LaPorte; Oratory's Tom DeSipin's Forte

By JOHN P. FULLAM

IT seems strange to be introducing in these columns the editor of one of our rival publications. Not that we're given to petty jealousies, or anything like that. It's just that—well—almost everything these days is organized on the basis of free competition; and putting in a plug for one's competitor seems to indicate a lack of caginess.

But in the case of Walter LaPorte, editor of the "Engineer," this rationalization fails to apply. The purpose of this space is to introduce outstanding seniors. Walter LaPorte is introduced herewith. Besides he was on the photography staff of this paper in his freshman year.

An Early Traveler

Now to begin, as most things do, at the beginning. The facts about our subject's geography aren't any too coherent, so we'll have to present them as they stand and let you draw your own conclusions. He was born in Chicago, Ill., in June, 1921. He attended Salesian, High School, New Rochelle, N. Y. And he's now a day student here.

His high school activities were restricted to photography in various forms and to a smattering of athletics.

Walt entered the chemical engineering school here four years ago; since then his activities have skyrocketed.

In addition to his work on the "Engineer"—he was circulation manager one year; editor, two—he has been quite active in campus musical organizations. During his freshman year he played the piccolo in the marching band; and he has played the clarinet in both the marching band and symphonic band since that time.

Phi Kappa Pi Member

Walt has been a member of Phi Kappa Pi, the Mathematics Club, and the Sanctuary Society for four years, and of the Chemical Society for three. He was on the staff of the Belle Air, too, for two years, and was a member of the freshman debating society.

The La Porte lad's chief interest is, naturally, chemical engineering. He likes to work at his hobby of photography, and he enjoys doing shop work. Music and dancing are among his favorite recreations.

Walter wants it definitely understood that he is no gigolo. He seemed awfully worried that we might accuse him of having some favorite little lassie, or of having been seen socializing somewhere or other.

We're not quite sure of the reason for this anxiety, but we'll extend him the courtesy always accorded a fellow journalist. We won't say anything about his social affairs.

Two of the More Active Engineers: Walt LaPorte and Tom DeSipin.

DIMINUTIVE, but by no means demure, Thomas DeSipin is another former globe-trotter. Born in Wilmington, Del., 21 years ago this Feb. 3, he spent his formative years in quite a variety of places—Philadelphia, Reading, Philadelphia, Atlantic City, and then Philadelphia again.

After graduating from Most Blessed Sacrament grammar school in Philadelphia, Tom entered West Catholic High. His interests there were chiefly literary—year book, magazine, and all that sort of thing.

Chooses Mechanicals

Then in September, 1938, Villanova, here he comes! He started out as an electrical engineer but at the end of his sophomore year he was converted, or perhaps we should say diverted, to the ranks of the mechanicals.

Tom's extracurricular activities have been quite extensive. The DeSipin name is inscribed on the registers of Phi Kappa Pi, Chi Epsilon Mu, and the A. S. M. E. He is, in fact, secretary-treasurer of the last-named organization. Tom was on the staff of the "Engineer" his freshman year, and is at present the engineers' chief representative on the Belle Air staff.

But all these are merely background material for Mr. DeSipins' chief claim to fame. The DeSipin lad is an orator.

He has been a finalist in the annual Oratorical Contest two years in a row. It is even rumored there was a movement afoot to crown him "Little Demosthenes"; it failed, they say, only because "there were so many other things one could call him." They meant it in a nice way, though.

It is only natural, therefore, that Tom should be a member of the Beta Gamma debating society. Characteristic of his very serious, pre-meditated way of looking at things is the fact that he refuses to argue on any questions unless he is firmly convinced that the side he is upholding is right.

Has Firm Convictions in Arguments

And anyone who has ever tried to argue with him will tell you that he holds very strong opinions on almost everything. It's not that his opinions are immutable; it's just that they can be changed only by changing circumstances and never by someone else's arguments.

There's a reason for this, of course. Tom's method is to devote the time during which his opponent is talking to thinking about what he himself is going to say next. As a result, he doesn't listen to what his opponent says and his own remarks are less extemporaneous. It works.

Tally Ho!

By Bruno
Talvacchia

You can always tell a barber
By the way he parts your hair,
You can always tell a dentist
When you're in a dentist's chair,
And even a musician
You can tell him by his touch,
You can always tell a freshman,
But you can't tell him much!

The above "Frosh Slosh," found in the Westminter Holcad, rates the top this week. However, we like to think of it in terms of the gentlemen of the faculty in anticipation of the fast-arriving mid-year exams:

You can always tell a teacher,
But you can't tell him much!

* * *

Are You Kiddin'?:

He: "Are you fond of nuts?"

She: "What is this, a proposal?"

—San Francisco Foghorn.

* * *

And No Ice:

Teacher: "Johnny, spell straight."
Johnny: "S-T-R-A-I-G-H-T." . . . .
Teacher: "Correct. Now what does it mean?"
Johnny: "Without soda."

* * *

Joe College Says:

. . I think that I shall never see
A girl refuse a meal that's free;
A girl who doesn't ever wear
A lot of dood-dads in her hair—
Girls are loved by fools like me,
Cause who on earth could kiss a tree?
—U. of Maryland Diamondback.

* * *

Sign Language:

A Rider News columnist reports seeing this sign on a trans-continental trailer-truck: "This truck stops for all R. R. crossings, blondes, and brunettes. . .backs up a half-mile for a red-head."

* * *

Why Wars Wage:

Lehigh University's Brown and White published an article by Wilson L. Godshall, association professor of diplomatic history and international relations and an authority on Far Eastern affairs who analyzed the outbreak of hostilities in terms of the pre-war positions of the United States and Japan: Mr. Godshall writes:

"Wars are fought for a wide variety of causes. Those causes include desire for plunder and conquest; dynastic ambitions; racial rivalry; vindication of national honor; revenge for injuries, real or imaginary; nationalism and self-determination; actual or alleged need for strategic frontiers; need for space for surplus population; search for food supplies; markets for industrial products and sources of raw materials which cannot be intercepted by potential enemies; and imperialistic desire to control the destinies of other peoples."

Granted. . .but he did not Remember Pearl Harbor!

* * *

Clever Clipping:

. . .they all laughted at me when I stood up in the night club—how was I to know I was under the table.

—The Columns.

* * *

Facts of Life:

A little bird sits on a tree;
Now he flies away.
Life is like that—
Here today, gone tomorrow.
A little bird sits on a tree;
Now he scratches himself.
Life is that way—
Lousy!

This is claimed by The Cue, University of Dubuque publication, and merits the bottom this week. However, we must think of it in terms of the senior members of the outgoing staff:

A columnist sits at a typewriter;
Now he types away.
Life is like that—
Here today, gone tomorrow.

We could finish this little verse, but. . .we would rather not. Here's a wish for many splendid columns in the coming year to our successor, Lou Esposito and its "Tally Ho" from Bruno.

Looking To The Future

PERHAPS you remember studying American history away back in the days you wore knee breeches. Perhaps, too, you studied it in high school and college. It didn't mean much to you then, at least not so much as it does now. You were young then and history was something that you had to take. Now you are older and are in a history-making era that approaches the spectacular.

This World War II is your first war; it is your roommate's first war; it is the first war for a great many of us. War is something new to us. We know little about it except what we have read in history books. So let us go back and see just what the history book says.

It speaks of the Declaration of Independence, Paul Revere and the Minute Men, Valley Forge, the Constitution, the Statue of Liberty, and much more. All these are but a few of a great many of the symbols of freedom that stand out more vividly, now, in our minds. They are a heritage which has come down to us from generation to generation.

Now we find that it is our generation that is called upon to preserve this heritage. It has to be done by fighting as Washington and Pershing fought. It has to be done by industry such as Watt, Whitney, Howe, and Edison have shown us. It has to be done in the mind by faith, courage, patriotism, and religion as all Americans have done.

All this has been in a passive state in our minds, but now it must become active. Not just on Sunday or Monday, but on all seven days in each week and all 24 hours each day. It is, truly: Americans and America, first, last, and always. There is room for no others.

—T. C. M.

What Can I Do?

WHILE the clear-thinking college student readily realizes that he can best serve his country by completing that education which will make him valuable in the reconstruction which must follow the actual hostilities, it is only natural for him as a red-blooded American youth to seek some immediately useful outlet for his energies and talents.

It is in answer to this vigorous query of "What can I do?" that the Red Cross makes its plea today. A worthy cause at any time, this charitable drive takes on an added significance now.

As college students we should be humbly and deeply appreciative of the privilege which is ours. Only the physical sacrifices of those engaged in active combat make it possible for us to acquire the mental discipline and training denied to so many. Here is our opportunity to translate our emotions of gratitude into practical action.

The goal of this year's Villanova Red Cross Drive, which begins today, will be to triple, at least, the amount reached by any peace time drive here. In order to realize that objective, an intense, sustained campaign will be conducted. Each student will be contacted personally and each will be expected to contribute substantially.

Sale of defense bonds and stamps will be inaugurated soon, as will be requests for students to donate blood to the Red Cross blood bank. It's up to us to see that none of these opportunities to recognize our duties in so helpful a manner is ignored.

St. Paul reminds us that "Charity is the bond of perfection." Thus we see that apostolic teaching is in accord with the natural duties expected of us.

Here's the answer to your question. What can you do? Starting today, you can contribute to the Red Cross—money now, blood later. When you are approached by a local Red Cross agent don't hesitate. It will be a long, hard war, so . . . give, give, give!

—T. F. D.

VILLANOVAN

Issued twenty-five times a year from Villanova College, Villanova, Pa.

THOMAS H. DOYLE, JR., '42 ....Editor-in-Chief
ROBERT J. FUNABASHI, '42 ....Sports Editor
THOMAS F. DEVINE, '43 ....College Editor
WILLIAM E. SCHUBERT, '42 ....Managing Editor
THOMAS A. SULLIVAN, '42 ....Copy Editor
HOWARD A. McCALL, '42 ....Literary Editor
JOHN T. GALLAGHER, '42 ....Business Manager
ALBERT D'ALONZO, '42 ....Photography Editor
JOHN P. FULLAM, '42 ....Feature Editor
ROBERT F. DONOVAN, '42 ....Subscription Manager
BRUNO J. TALVACCHIA, '42 ....Exchange Editor
BERNARD C. CRUMB, ex-'42, Honorary Circulation Manager

Columnists
F. J. Clark, '42 D. N. Reardon, '42

Staff Writers
F. Bagot, '43; G. Belz, '42; E. Bennis, '43; H. Binder, '44; J. Bongiovanni, '43; R. Canfield, '43; S. Canning, '43; S. Caplan, '42; J. Coleman, '43; W. Craven, '43; L. DeSimone, '44; J. Dudley, '43; J. Earley, '42; L. Esposito, '43; W. Guncheon, Jr., '43; D. Haley, '42; J. Jakovic, '42; J. Mahoney, '43; J. Mauch, '43; J. McCabe, '42; R. McIntyre, '42; T. Muraski, '43; J. Nunemaker, '43; F. Reese, '43; T. Shallow, '42; C. Schaumann, '42; J. Tortoreto, '44; R. Young, '44.

Business Assistants
C. Callahan, '43 L. Jones, '43 E. Smith, '43
J. Walsh, '43

Circulation Assistants
J. Cerulo, '42 G. Fitzgerald, '42 E. Frank, '42
N. Eni, '43 J. Keays, '44 J. Monroe, '44

Photography Staff
R. Amicone, '43 L. Eni, '44 J. Sandonato, '42

Faculty Advisor—Rev. Edward B. McKee, O. S. A.

This paper is dedicated to one of the finest men who ever entered Villanova: scholar, athlete, gentleman — LEO GOODREAU

Subscription: $2.00 per year. Circulation: 3500.
Entered as second class matter at the Villanova Post Office December 27, 1928.

Member of Associated Collegiate Press; Distributor of Collegiate Digest.
Member of Catholic School Press Association, Catholic College Press Association, and National Scholastic Press Association.

TUESDAY • • • • JANUARY 13, 1942

Meet The Man

SIDE BY SIDE they are marching in the stride of America: the Roman Catholic man and youth with their fellow-cohorts of many other religious denominations. They are tramping in the tempo of a nation which is preparing them for a struggle against the enemy. The privileges which they are elected to preserve are many and precious, but none is more worth fighting for than the freedom of worship.

Here we expect the Catholic service men to assume positions in the front ranks, and to show by example that they love and live their faith. We expect them to go immediately into battle in the camps of their own country in defense of what they now possess through divine inheritance. We expect them to do this because we know they will experience moments when they will be called to exemplify the character which their religion expects of them.

More particularly, we speak to the graduates of Villanova who are in the various branches of our armed forces. We remind you that the nation is warring against a foe and that you are also warring for Christ. You are fighting for God and country. Your abilities are now conscripted for two causes, the greater of which is the former. It is double duty, men —and there can be no hedging in either responsibility, least of all in your spiritual obligations.

Your duties, as they stand, are inseparable. Government officials will guide and direct you in the martial maneuvers. Christ has also delegated men who are ready to serve you toward His end. His official representatives are among you, waiting to meet and know you. They are the chaplains of the service.

One of the foremost leaders in the first world war was Marshal Foch. He was a prominent figure in the uniform of our allies. He also led the legions of Catholic men engaged in that contest, and it was from them that he received the title, "the gray man of Christ." His first visitation was always the altar — his second, the field.

—H. A. McC.

In Touch With God - - - - - by SAUERS

FACULTY COMMENTS

Freshman X And The Past

By FR. GAVIGAN

DURING the school year at Villanova, many a college man will find himself going library-wards. Naturally enough—for the library is always associated with thoughts of treasure-trove for young seekers after knowledge. Day after day, the busy and patient library staff can note the steady flow of these potential scholars as they move about hither and thither in quest of enlightenment on a variety of subjects.

Yes, variety! History, science, literature, mathematics (to mention only a few of the subjects concerned), all come in for their share. Books on such apparently disparate subjects as protozoology, archaeology, chemistry and language may be checked out in rapid succession. Freshman A takes a book on Finance; Freshman B takes one on Trigonometry; and so on down the line.

Studies Linked with Past

Quite a range of subjects, is it not? At first sight, one may think that we have to do with studies that have no common ground, one with another. This is, indeed, partly true: a man in the School of Science is surely not aiming at specialization in civics. A Commerce and Finance student is not expected to learn thoroughly every masterpiece of French literature. But in all complete education we shall find that our modern studies have common roots in the past. Not that our remote ancestors knew as much as is known today about science, medicine and machinery. It is from them, however, that we have received the elements of knowledge that have been so richly developed in our own day.

Imagine Freshman X going to the library to get "material." Imagine further that he is looking up a question in one of the ultra-modern sciences. Can he dispense with the treasures of the past and be content only with what is "up-to-date"? Not for a moment! Take a most elementary part of this student's intellectual equipment. Take his ABC's without which he could not read even the titles of the library books, let alone assimilate their contents! Is this alphabet a product of the twentieth century, or is it a part of the heritage of the past? Quite definitely, the latter!

Our Debts to Others

We owe our consonants to the Semites, our vowels to the Greeks, our letter forms and their transmission to the Romans. Our use of capitals as distinct from small letters comes from antiquity. The use of different fonts of type for differentiation is derived from antiquity and the developments of mediaeval monasteries. The forms of modern capitals are borrowed from ancient inscriptions. Our lower case letters are descended from ninth-century Carolingian letters which are themselves based on ancient writing. Our abbreviation system is mediaeval and contains remnants of earlier usage.

But are we, perhaps, overemphasizing a mere triviality? I hardly think so. Professor Ullman of the University of Chicago makes the following bold claims for the alphabet and gives their justification.

Importance of Alphabet

"The importance of writing, and especially of the alphabet, cannot be exaggerated. Art, culture, religion, politics, commerce, language, all are related and indebted to the alphabet. The progress of art and culture can be traced in the history of writing. Our civilization could hardly have advanced as far as it has, or in the same way, without the alphabet. Religious differences in Jugoslavia are marked by the use of two alphabets. The spirit of nationalism causes Germany to preserve its Gothic writing and Ireland its early script.

"How commerce has been facilitated by the alphabet can hardly be estimated; if commerce follows the flag, the alphabet precedes both. The elimination of three letters from the Bulgarian alphabet in 1922 led to the resignation of two ministers and wide dissatisfaction. The adoption of the Roman alphabet gave Turkey a definite trend toward Western civilization."

Development of Writing

Our own English language has developed in a way parallel to the script used in writing it. The ancient manner of writing was borrowed by the Saxons from Italy, but became completely naturalized so that the runes are now thought of as a Germanic national alphabet. St. Augustine brought to England both Christian words and a type of writing called half-uncial.

These innovations were likewise assimilated. The Norman Conquest greatly changed the Saxon tongue and introduced the script known as Carolingian. Chaucerian English was written with French Gothic characters. The Italian Renaissance brought to England the humanistic printing from Italy. Thus, Rome, both Christian and pagan, started an influence on our tongue and its writing, that was completed

FACULTY COMMENTS
Continued on Page Four

Wildcat Whirl

By Dave Reardon

UPON returning from the extended holidays, many tales of unprecedented social activity were dispensed by the lads. Apparently they were totally successful, especially upon the inception of the New Year. Incidentally, the New Year of 1942, while not too bright in prospects, does call for a little introspection and consequent resolve.

* * *

As this is the writers' concluding column, I think it would be fitting to recall some of the many fellows who have graced it during its year-long life and set down some of the characteristics which will make them forever memorable.

* * *

IN RETROSPECTION:

"Pooch" Gordon for his organizational ability and his bone-crushing blocks in touch-football. . . Bill Hooper for his Junior Week guidance. . . Joe Costa for his rotundity. . . Tom McKimmey for his Student Council chairmanship. . . Johnny Kirchner for his class presidency and roommate Fred Clark for his sportscasting. . . . "Chuck" Callahan for his merit awards. . . Ed Cubler for his nifty piano renditions. . .

Joe Connor for his publicity craving. . . Tom Sheehy, "Stumpy" McCauley and Don Speese, typical young internes. . . Bruno Talvacchia for his interesting intercollegiate column. . . Bob McIntyre for his perpetual oratory. . .

Jack "Big Deal" Gallagher for his promotional aptitude. . . Andy Melton for his clever handling of class finances and his New Yawk accent . . . Steve Aisenbrey for his football managerial tenure. . . Bill Howlett, "Elk" Murray and Tony Anderson as the "Ivy League" footballers. . . "Major" McDonnell for his impersonations, affability, and court prowess.

* * *

MORE MEMORIES:

Dan Haley for his quotations from "Time" and his homespun philosophy. . . "Cookie" Koness and John Cerulo for their newsmen's activities. . . Jim Walsh for his "How are ya" personality. . . Jim Lattanza for his touch footballing. . . Frank Buckley for his thespian characterizations. . . Bob White and Bob Young for their varied co-ed campi wanderings. . . Bill DeGrace for his suaveness. . . Joe Malone for his driving to Reading.

Ed Hagen and Tom Sullivan for their consistent scholarship leadership. . . Jim Cashin for his weekend escapades. . . Dave Daly for his I. M. diamond antics. . . Jim Halpin for his fidelity to Dotty from Rosemont. . . Joe McCabe and "Meathead" Phillips as the O'Dwyer dudes. . . Jack Schreck for his attentiveness in Dr. Hartman's classes.

Captain Dick Gray for his slick basketball handling. . . John Fullam for his speech rebuttal technique. . . Joe Gill for reorganizing the touch-football league. . . Loring Jones, Gene O'Donnell, Johnny DiCarlo, Ed Frank, and Joe Daly for their C. A. A. pilot training. . . Paul Waters for not missing a football game at home or away. . . Bill Craven for his dancing. . . Joe McEvoy for his warbling with the "Villanovans". . . Gerry Belz for his Glee Club vocalizing, etc, etc.

In tribute to the ex-members of the class of 1942, now in the service:

Johnny Parson for his Junior Prom. . . Johnny Burke for his Belle Masque interest. . . Bernie Clumb for his circulation staff work . . . Woody Reitmeier for his great baseball playing. . . Tom Harford for plugging away on the court squad. . . Kirk Holland for his all-around personality.

* * *

I'M OUT. . .:

In conclusion, it was a distinct pleasure to report the social doings of the men about the campus. I only hope that the articles proved worth reading and were received in the spirit in which they were given. To my successor, Ed Bennis, lots of luck. He will prove an able columnist. Au revoir.

Villanova Alumnus Stationed In British Isles Commends Generous Hospitality Of His Hosts

THERE are not many people who are able to serve their country, develop a pet hobby, prepare for a lifetime career, and have a whale of a good time all in a single operation. But there are a few of these fortunate mortals, and John J. Raney, '40, is one of them.

Lieutenant Raney — he received his commission in the U. S. Army Signal Corps last October—is under going specialized training in scientific aircraft detection "somewhere in the British Isles." The training is aimed to fit him for what is one of the better ways to serve one's country, protecting it when bombers come.

But if it had't been for that aforementioned hobby of John's, Uncle Sam would have had one less technician. For Lieut. Raney had been for nine years, is now, and—he insists—always will be, an amateur radio enthusiast. A member of that far-flung brotherhood whom a common interest binds closely together in utter defiance of the laws of space and time. A "ham."

Station W3EZQ was built by John himself in the basement of his home in Philadelphia. Many were the evenings the electrical engineering student spent at the complicated-looking transmitter. Many were the informal parties held in the paneled recreation room, at which the radio was the center of attention. Kelly, Seelaus, and a whole gong of John's classmates used to be there. They had fun, too.

That was before the war. Now the transmitter has been packed away. Lieut. Raney is applying his training and experience to help solve an important problem for the American people.

In letters from Canada, typewritten because Canadian railroads are none too smooth, England, and Scotland, he tells of a host of interesting experiences.

The milling crowd in a Canadian depot, cheering "Les Americains" . . .the wonderful treatment accorded the Americans by the British officers. . .a safe, uneventful crossing.

My Stick, James!

Now, Lieut. Raney has a valet. He has a plane at his disposal at all times. He takes his tea and scones at 3:30 every afternoon. He enjoys the generous hospitality of the British People. And he loves it.

His letters describe the joyous reaction in England after America declared war. They also tell how he misses American magazines and his mother's "thick steaks, with mushrooms and onions."

Patriotism prompted Raney to join the Army in the first place. In his earlier positions as signal tower operator at the Philadelphia Municipal Airport and as an electrical engineer with a large manufacturing concern, he probably would not have been drafted.

Got Wings First

But he wanted to learn to fly so, after talking the matter over with his parents, he resigned from his position and enrolled in a Civilian Pilot Training course.

Shortly after he completed this training, he read that Uncle Sam needed men with his radio experience who also had a pilot's license. After acceptance, he was commissioned a Lieutenant last October; following a month of basic training at Fort Monmouth, he left, by way of Canada for Europe.

Lieut. Raney intends to remain in the army when this war is over. And that will probably be pretty soon if there are many more like him in the service now.

And where did he read the announcement of the opportunity? Why, in Qst, the magazine for "hams," of course.

—"Philadelphia Evening Bulletin" Photo.
Radio Engineer Raney at the Controls.

Meet The Boys: The "Engineer" Is Led By LaPorte; Oratory's Tom DeSipin's Forte

By JOHN P. FULLAM

IT seems strange to be introducing in these columns the editor of one of our rival publications. Not that we're given to petty jealousies, or anything like that. It's just that—well—almost everything these days is organized on the basis of free competition; and putting in a plug for one's competitor seems to indicate a lack of caginess.

But in the case of Walter LaPorte, editor of the "Engineer," this rationalization fails to apply. The purpose of this space is to introduce outstanding seniors. Walter LaPorte is introduced herewith. Besides he was on the photography staff of this paper in his freshman year.

An Early Traveler

Now to begin, as most things do, at the beginning. The facts about our subject's geography aren't any too coherent, so we'll have to present them as they stand and let you draw your own conclusions. He was born in Chicago, Ill., in June, 1921. He attended Salesian, High School, New Rochelle, N. Y. And he's now a day student here.

His high school activities were restricted to photography in various forms and to a smattering of athletics.

Walt entered the chemical engineering school here four years ago; since then his activities have skyrocketed.

Two of the More Active Engineers: Walt LaPorte and Tom DeSipin.

In addition to his work on the "Engineer"—he was circulation manager one year; editor, two—he has been quite active in campus musical organizations. During his freshman year he played the piccolo in the marching band; and he has played the clarinet in both the marching band and symphonic band since that time.

Phi Kappa Pi Member

Walt has been a member of Phi Kappa Pi, the Mathematics Club, and the Sanctuary Society for four years, and of the Chemical Society for three. He was on the staff of the Belle Air, too, for two years, and was a member of the freshman debating society.

The La Porte lad's chief interest is, naturally, chemical engineering. He likes to work at his hobby of photography, and he enjoys doing shop work. Music and dancing are among his favorite recreations.

Walter wants it definitely understood that he is no gigolo. He seemed awfully worried that we might accuse him of having some favorite little lassie, or of having been seen socializing somewhere or other.

We're not quite sure of the reason for this anxiety, but we'll extend him the courtesy always accorded a fellow journalist. We won't say anything about his social affairs.

DIMINUTIVE, but by no means demure, Thomas DeSipin is another former globe-trotter. Born in Wilmington, Del., 21 years ago this Feb. 3, he spent his formative years in quite a variety of places—Philadelphia, Reading, Philadelphia, Atlantic City, and then Philadelphia again.

After graduating from Most Blessed Sacrament grammar school in Philadelphia, Tom entered West Catholic High. His interests there were chiefly literary—year book, magazine, and all that sort of thing.

Chooses Mechanicals

Then in September, 1938, Villanova, here he comes! He started out as an electrical engineer but at the end of his sophomore year he was converted, or perhaps we should say diverted, to the ranks of the mechanicals.

Tom's extracurricular activities have been quite extensive. The DeSipin name is inscribed on the registers of Phi Kappa Pi, Chi Epsilon Mu, and the A. S. M. E. He is, in fact, secretary-treasurer of the last-named organization, Tom was on the staff of the "Engineer" his freshman year, and is at present the engineers' chief representative on the Belle Air staff.

But all these are merely background material for Mr. DeSipins' chief claim to fame. The DeSipin lad is an orator.

He has been a finalist in the annual Oratorical Contest two years in a row. It is even rumored there was a movement afoot to crown him "Little Demosthenes"; it failed, they say, only because "there were so many other things one could call him." They meant it in a nice way, though.

It is only natural, therefore, that Tom should be a member of the Beta Gamma debating society. Characteristic of his very serious, pre-meditated way of looking at things is the fact that he refuses to argue on any questions unless he is firmly convinced that the side he is upholding is right.

Has Firm Convictions in Arguments

And anyone who has ever tried to argue with him will tell you that he holds very strong opinions on almost everything. It's not that his opinions are immutable; it's just that they can be changed only by changing circumstances and never by someone else's arguments.

There's a reason for this, of course. Tom's method is to devote the time during which his opponent is talking to thinking about what he himself is going to say next. As a result, he doesn't listen to what his opponent says and his own remarks are less extemporaneous. It works.

Tally Ho!

By Bruno Talvacchia

You can always tell a barber
  By the way he parts your hair,
You can always tell a dentist
  When you're in a dentist's chair,
And even a musician
  You can tell him by his touch,
You can always tell a freshman,
  But you can't tell him much!

The above "Frosh Slosh," found in the Westminter Holcad, rates the top this week. However, we like to think of it in terms of the gentlemen of the faculty in anticipation of the fast-arriving mid-year exams:

You can always tell a teacher,
But you can't tell him much!

* * *

Are You Kiddin'?:

He: "Are you fond of nuts?"

She: "What is this, a proposal?"

—San Francisco Foghorn.

* * *

And No Ice:

Teacher: "Johnny, spell straight."
Johnny: "S-T-R-A-I-G-H-T." . . . .
Teacher: "Correct. Now what does it mean?"
Johnny: "Without soda."

* * *

Joe College Says:

. . I think that I shall never see
A girl refuse a meal that's free;
A girl who doesn't ever wear
A lot of dood-dads in her hair—
Girls are loved by fools like me,
Cause who on earth could kiss a tree?
—U. of Maryland Diamondback.

* * *

Sign Language:

A Rider News columnist reports seeing this sign on a trans-continental trailer-truck: "This truck stops for all R. R. crossings, blondes, and brunettes. . . backs up a half-mile for a red-head."

* * *

Why Wars Wage:

Lehigh University's Brown and White published an article by Wilson L. Godshall, association professor of diplomatic history and international relations and an authority on Far Eastern affairs who analyzed the outbreak of hostilities in terms of the pre-war positions of the United States and Japan: Mr. Godshall writes:

"Wars are fought for a wide variety of causes. Those causes include desire for plunder and conquest; dynastic ambitions; racial rivalry; vindication of national honor; revenge for injuries, real or imaginary; nationalism and self-determination; actual or alleged need for strategic frontiers; need for space for surplus population; search for food supplies; markets for industrial products and sources of raw materials which cannot be intercepted by potential enemies; and imperialistic desire to control the destinies of other peoples."

Granted. . . .but he did not Remember Pearl Harbor!

* * *

Clever Clipping:

. . .they all laughted at me when I stood up in the night club—how was I to know I was under the table.

—The Columns.

* * *

Facts of Life:

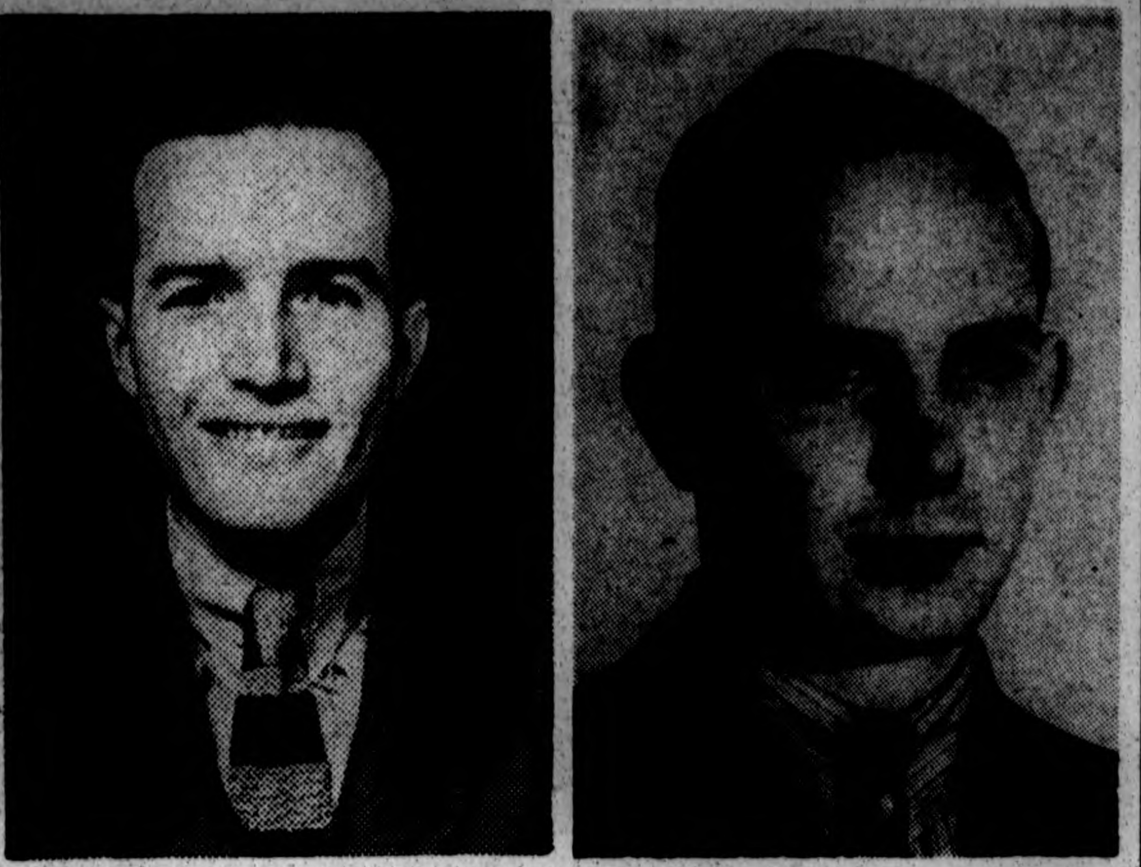
A little bird sits on a tree;
  Now he flies away.
Life is like that—
  Here today, gone tomorrow.
A little bird sits on a tree;
  Now he scratches himself.
Life is that way—
  Lousy!

This is claimed by The Cue, University of Dubuque publication, and merits the bottom this week. However, we must think of it in terms of the senior members of the outgoing staff:

A columnist sits at a typewriter;
Now he types away.
Life is like that—
Here today, gone tomorrow.

We could finish this little verse, but. . .we would rather not. Here's a wish for many splendid columns in the coming year to our successor, Lou Esposito and its "Tally Ho" from Bruno.

Writers Promoted To Editorships



ROBERT T. CANFIELD, left, and THOMAS C. MURASKI take over VILLANOVAN editorial positions beginning with next week's issue. They have been appointed copy editor and literary editor, respectively.

Red Cross To Ask Student Donors For Contributions Of Pint Of Blood

In connection with National Defense and in coordination with the American Red Cross, plans are being formulated through which members of the student body will be asked to donate a pint of blood each to the reserve supply being built up for Army and Navy use.

Two hundred thousand donations of blood have been requested by defense forces to be used on the battlefields in connection with shock and hemorrhage. Philadelphia has a quota of 20,000 donations, and men and women between the approximate ages of 18 and 60 years will be asked to donate blood if they are declared physically fit by their physicians.

It is in accordance with this program that the contributions will be requested of Villanova students. All donations will be entirely voluntary on the part of the students, but Villanova's authorities have approved of the plan and feel sure that it will meet with the eager cooperation of the entire student body.

The entire operation involved in donating the blood requires only 15 minutes. Following the taking of the blood, the donor is requested to rest for ten or 15 minutes; he may then go about his regular business with no ill effects. If he so desires, the donor may give another pint of blood two months later.

Physicians and trained nurses will be in attendance to insure proper methods and procedure of the blood-taking. Donors will be asked to omit fats, particularly butter, cream, and cheese, for four hours before being bled and will be advised to take some nourishment in the form of orange juice, tea or coffee (without cream), and simple crackers before giving the blood.

Exact details and dates pertaining to the acceptance of volunteers here at the college will be announced when final arrangements have been made by the Red Cross.

News Briefs

Phi Kappa Pi to Start Initiations; Freshmen Invited to Try for Debating Team

Phi Kappa Pi fraternity will begin initiation of freshman engineers who are candidates next week in preparation for their annual initiation-banquet of Feb. 9. All frosh engineers are invited to submit applications to president Vincent J. Gordon.

Plans and regulations of of the 4 committees handling civilian defense at Villanova will be announced when they are formulated. The committees are working out details.

A survey of the campus to determine the best sites for air-raid shelters has been completed.

A meeting of the frosh debating squad will be held this Thursday afternoon at 1 P. M. in 110 Mendel Hall, according to Rev. Robert M. Sullivan, O. S. A., moderator.

All interested freshmen are urged by the moderator to attend this meeting.

At yesterday's meeting of the local chapter of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers, Joseph Dorsey, senior, gave a talk on the history of the Westinghouse steam turbine and illustrated his lecture with films. Malachy Boyle, junior, gave a short discussion on current events in the electrical engineering field.

In accordance with the 30 per cent cut in N. Y. A. enrollment announced in December by William G. Slaughter, 28 students have been dismissed from employment.

The regular weekly Spanish Club meeting will be held tomorrow evening at 7:00 P. M. in room 106 Mendel Hall, instead of in the C. & F. Auditorium. All members are asked to be present, as several important matters are to come up for discussion.

Mr. S. W. Hampson, representative of Loren Murchison & Co., will be in room 111, Mendel Hall, this Friday, between 12:30 P. M. and 1:30, to correct errors on the rings.

Graduate Study Aids Offered To Seniors By Two Universities

Several fellowships, assistantships, and tuition scholarships available to Villanova seniors have been announced by the University of Rochester and Marquette University.

Rochester offers to candidates for a degree of Doctor of Philosophy stipends varying from $850 to $1100. Fifty or more assistantships are open every year to students in the College of Arts and Sciences and in the School of Medicine and Dentistry. The stipends vary from $700 to $1300.

A limited number of whole or partial tuition scholarships are offered to accredited graduates. While they are for one year only, they may be renewed from year to year.

Application should be made by March 1, 1942 on blanks provided by the Office of the Dean of Division of Graduate Studies.

Marquette University has open several research assistantships in the College of Liberal Arts, the College of Journalism, and the School of Medicine. Stipends are from $250 to $1000 in addition to free tuition in the graduate school.

Appointments in the College of Liberal Arts will be made in the following fields: botany, chemistry, and zoology. Assistantships in the School of Medicine are available in anatomy, biochemistry, pharmacology, and physiology. Application should be made to the Dean of the Graduate School.

Alumni Casualties, First of War

Continued From Page One

one of the nine—in which Maloney, another second lieutenant, two sergeants, and five privates were flying — was missing and was "presumed to be lost in the vicinity of Cajon Pass." The weather bureau said that flying weather in the vicinity of the pass had been "very bad" for the past week with much ice in the clouds.

Search was immediately pressed by air and ground parties for the bomber; to date, its fate has not been reported.

A graduate of the commerce school, Maloney had been active in the alumni affairs in his home town, Waterbury, Conn., before he joined the Air Corps.

Complete information as to the extent of Passanante's injury has not as yet been disclosed by the War Department. His family, in Philadelphia, received a telegram informing them that he was seriously wounded; as yet, they have had no further word.

Leader of the "Villanovans" orchestra in addition to his newspaper work, Passanante entered the University of St. Louis School of Medicine upon graduation, in 1939, from the science school, but became interested in flying and left it. As a Flying Cadet, he trained at Randolph Field, Texas, and at Kelly Field before he was commissioned.

Debaters Enter National Contest

Beta Gamma Will Write on Topic of Youth's Chances Under Capitalistic System

Beta Gamma, varsity debating society, has registered for participation in the National Intercollegiate Prize Debate, Rev. Robert M. Sullivan, O. S. A., Moderator, announced today.

The debate, conducted by the American Economic Foundation, will have for its topic, "Does youth have a fair opportunity under our American system of competitive enterprise?" A first prize of $1,000 and a second prize of $500 will be awarded to the winning team by the Foundation.

Final contestants, who will be determined by a number of preliminary briefs and debates, will broadcast over a nationwide hookup of the National Broadcasting Company's Blue Network from its studios in Radio City, New York, on May 10, with all expenses paid.

In order to insure equal competition in the discussion of both sides of the assigned question, each participating school is allowed to present two preliminary briefs, one each for the affirmative and negative sides. The students who will prepare and present the briefs for Villanova have not, as yet, been decided upon.

Judges chosen from college and university faculties will determine and present the awards.

Beta Gamma will oppose debaters of the University of Pennsylvania tomorrow at 12:30 P. M. before an Elks' Club luncheon. Representing Villanova will be David N. Reardon, commerce senior, and George A. Harris, education junior, who will uphold the negative of the topic, "Resolved: That a permanent system of compulsory military training should be adopted by the United States."

Students May Take Civil Service Exams

The United States Civil Service Commission has invited Villanova students to take the annually-offered "Junior Professional Assistant" examination, applications for which must be on file with the Commission's Washington office not later than Feb. 3.

Many optional fields of study will be covered by the examination, including statistics, engineering, political science, chemistry, biology, geology, and public administraton.

Positions provide for work in Washington or in the field at beginning salaries of $2,000 a year. Although juniors and seniors here may take the examination, they cannot enter upon duty until they graduate, with major work in the field of their optional subject.

Application forms may be obtained at post offices or from the Civil Service Commission in Washington.

The Answer

By JOHN P. FULLAM

Tonight the VILLANOVAN changes hands.
And so, lest we forget,
We'd like to have just one more stubborn chance
To express a deep regret.

For several months—it hurts us to admit it—
We haven't once rilly
Written stuff that
Hasn't been silly.
And so, in this last issue,
We fondly fervently wish you
Might derive some help
From this:

Professors are wondering—
Have been for some time—
Why everyone's blundering,
No work's in on time.

Rehearsals and practices
Have only produced
Not half so much practice as
Some lousy excuse.
Accounting or Latin,
Shop-work or Chem,
No one's been battin'
His brains out on them.

Here's why:
No form of Accounting
Has yet been found out,
To help to send mounting
The twenty-one bucks per that they'll pound out.

Keep Abreast Of Events

Tuesday, Jan. 13—
Beta Gamma	1:00 P.M.
International Relations Club	2:30 P.M.
VILLANOVAN Staff Dinner Dance, General Wayne Inn	7:15 P.M.
Varsity Basektball: Villanova vs. Univ. of Scranton, (Scranton, Pa.)	8:00 P.M.
Intramural Basketball:
C. & F. vs. Fedigan	3:00 P.M.
Mendel D. S. vs. Mendel Res.	7:15 P.M.
Austin vs. Alumni	8:15 P.M.
Wednesday, Jan. 14—
Kappa Gamma Sigma	1:30 P.M.
Spanish Club	7:00 P.M.
Thursday, Jan. 15—
Science Forum	10:45 A.M.
Delta Pi Epsilon, Special Meeting	11:45 A.M.
Frosh Debate Meeting	1:00 P.M.
Research Seminar	4:30 P.M.
Intramural Basketball:
C. & F. vs. Alumni	3:00 P.M.
Mendel D. S. vs. Fedigan	7:15 P.M.
Austin vs. Mendel Res.	8:15 P.M.
Friday, Jan. 16—
Financier's Frolic (Field House)	9:00 P.M.
Saturday, Jan. 17—
Varsity Basketball: Villanova vs. Albright (Reading, Pa.)	8:00 P.M.
Sunday, Jan. 18—
Rosemont-Villanova Choral Concert (Field House)	8:30 P.M.
Monday, Jan. 19—
Radio Club	2:30 P.M.

Faculty Comments: Freshman X . . .

Continued From Page Two

by mediaeval France and Renaissance Italy.

Need we say more to know how even so seemingly trivial an instrument of labor as our English alphabet is the product of the past? Need we lay further stress upon the way the ancient and mediaeval civilizations have left indelible impressions upon our most taken-for-granted modern institutions?

The Broad View

For this reason, Freshman X and his fellows at Villanova are not given a course consisting only in some "modern" technical or scientific skills. They are given the opportunity to pursue complementary courses in language, literature and history that will open their minds to what has been done by man even centuries before our own day. In this way, let us hope, our graduates will be far more than narrow practitioners of this or that acquired skill. They will possess the further great advantage of having entered into the knowledge of our great human heritage with its enriching influences.

Faculty Busy During Holidays

Attend, Take Active Parts in Conventions; Several Priests Serve on Committees

Members of Villanova's faculty enjoyed a busy Christmas holiday, attending and participating in many conferences.

At the 17th annual convention of the American Catholic Philosophical Association, Rev. Charles J. McFadden, O. S. A., assistant professor of philosophy, was appointed to a three-year term on the Executive Council of the association.

During the course of the convention, which was held at the Benjamin Franklin Hotel, Phila., on Dec. 29 and 30, F. McFadden served on the local committee on attendance; was appointed to the committee for auditing the financial report of the association; presented a paper at the closing session on "The Metaphysical Basis of Action in Marxism; and was appointed to a committee which will establish regional round table meetings throughout the country during the course of the year.

Spoke Over Radio

In conjunction with the convention, Rev. Edward I. Dwyer, O. S. A., assistant professor of philosophy, explained the function of philosophy in the world of today in a radio address delivered on Dec. 28.

The convention was held under the patronage of His Eminence, Denis Cardinal Dougherty and the Catholic universities, senior colleges, and seminaries of the Philadelphia area.

Rev. Edward V. Stanford, O. S. A., college president, was a member of the Nominations Committee of the Association of American Colleges, which met in Baltimore, Md. Dr. Charles E. Diehl, of Southwestern Univ., was elected president and Dr. James Bryant Conant, of Harvard, vice-president of the association. Fr. Stanford also attended the National Conference of Church Related Colleges meeting, gave the invocation at both of these meetings, and was placed on the Committees for Post-War Problems of both organizations.

To Form Association

Rev. Joseph C. Bartley, O. S. A., Dean of the School of Commerce and Finance, attended the annual convention of the American Economics' Association held in New York City on Dec. 27, 28, and 29. During the session, a group of economists from 15 Catholic colleges met to draft a plan for the formation of a National Economics Association.

Mr. William C. Henry, assistant professor in the commerce school, was present at the 17th annual meeting of the American Business Law Association on Dec. 29 and 30, also in New York City.

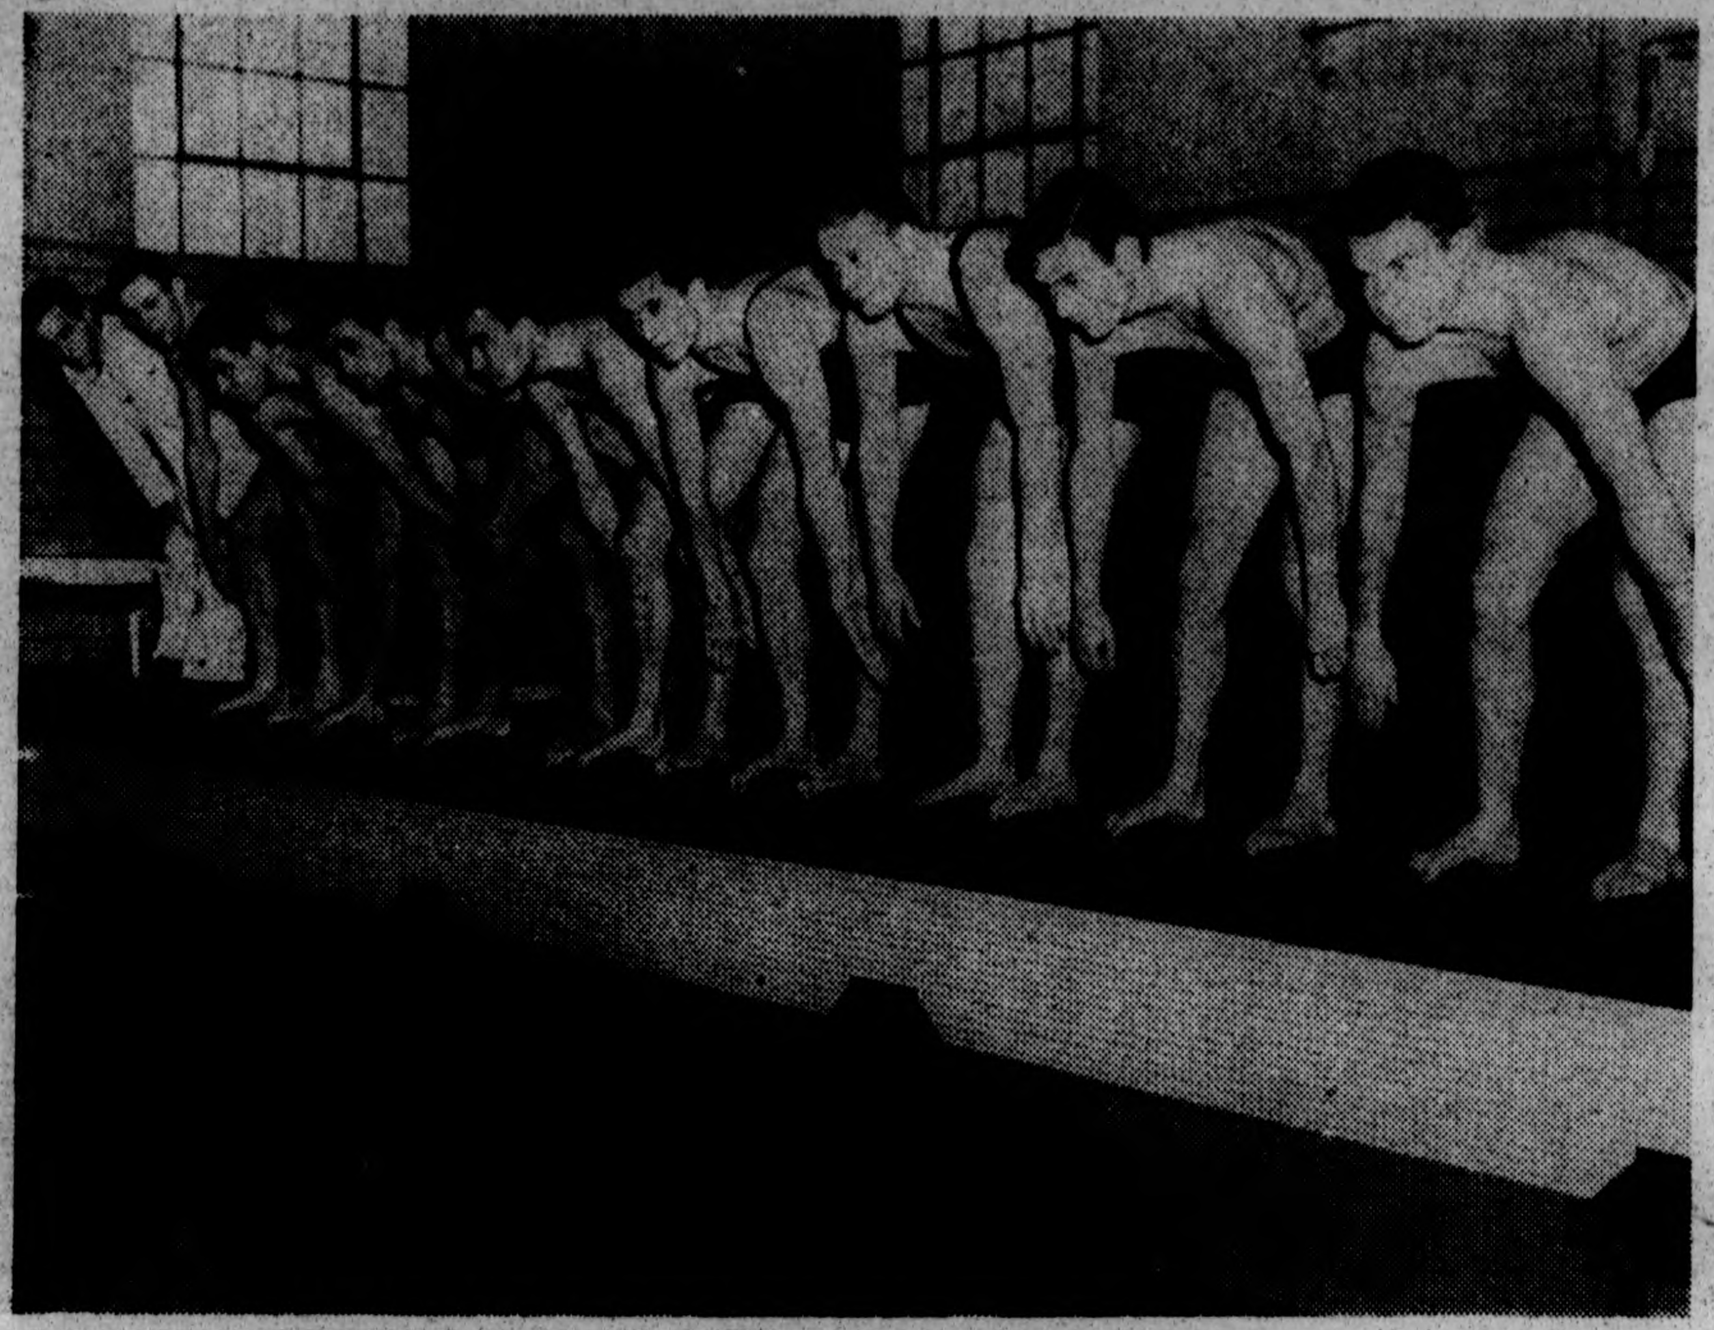
Rev. Edward J. McCarthy, O. S. A., instructor of social sciences, served on the Nomination Committee of the Catholic Historical Society, which held its sessions in Chicago.

Activities of several other faculty members during the holidays were noted in the last issue of the VILLANOVAN. At the Catholic Sociological Society meeting in New York, Rev. Vincent A. McQuade, O. S. A., was chosen chairman of the Resolutions Committee and was named to the Committee for Revising the Constitution.

New Managers On Weekly's Staff

Pictured above are two new departmental heads of the VILLANOVAN. LORING A. JONES, left, will be advertising manager during 1942 and NICHOLAS J. ENI is to be circulation manager.

VILLANOVAN SPORTS



THE MOMENT BEFORE the big splash, Villanova's varsity swimmers were snapped as they lined up along the edge of the pool. This team will meet St. Peter's on Friday. Shown above are (l. r.) Coach Tom Moore, Lee Hin, Jack Maher, Ed Riley, Bob Koness, Jake Mauch, Frank Desmond, Tom Lyons and John Green.

SPORTORIAL

By BOB FUNABASHI
Sports Editor

THE present time has need for rationing of vital materials for the welfare of national defense, but looking into another field, sports, there should be a decided program of expansion. Even regarding the all-out war effort of the American populace, there should not be a respite in the daily flow of men, women and boys who are active in sports. Already the advanced pupils of the sports parade are in active duty. The list is not surprising.

Everyone is potentially athletic-minded and the least bit equipped for a minor part in sports, whether it be the more hardened sports or the games not requiring enormous physical stature such as tennis, squash, golf, and others. Having been endowed with such a physical make-up, it would be the duty of one and all to participate in one or more sports. The "Hale America" program which is gaining rapidity every day stresses the need for more and continued exercise on the part of the American people. Exercise is essential to good health and no body was ever too weary for even the slightest amount of exercise.

Probably the largest offenders of non-exercise are the ones who should not be excused. We refer to college students and others who have plenty of time and yet never give the slightest care about sports or exercise. This does not mean that all students are lazy in that matter but the minority seems to outrank the majority. People have come to know students as the lazy type and very inactive after their clases are over. Now and right now the student should wake up and realize how important sports are to his life. Besides the exercise, sports are socially prominent and perhaps if youth gave the proper amount of time to sports, his ills would be lessened and the majority of rejects in physical fitness would be reduced.

There has been much talk of doing away with sports until the duration but we are inclined to believe that doing away with such a necessity would prove more detrimental than good. Sports will and always should survive. Besides fitness, it means pleasure and relaxation from all the high tension created by war. Sports build morale by forming an outlet for person's inhibitions. And lastly it makes for unity and good teamwork, besides building up a person's own character.

The Olympic Games were probably the greatest form of competitive sports. From almost every country in the world came representatives who were the best in their land. But now this has been done away with—and we hope only temporarily—so now we must seek competition within our own lands. It would be a good idea for every high school and college to at least form some sort of arrangement whereby every student should be made to compete with his fellow student in some sort of sport. For it is competition which makes keeness in sports.

* * *

And with the completion of the above we have come to the end of our trail. Next week Jack Mauch, a good sportsman, takes his turn for a year so we wish him luck and say so-long.

Phi Kappa Pi Bowling League Planned; Winners To Receive Inscribed Trophy

The Phi Kappa Pi (Engineers) Bowling League, under the direction of Messrs. Robert Simpson and Joseph O'Donnell will begin its season soon on the alleys of the Ardmore Recreation Center. Ten to fourteen teams are expected to participate in this year's competition.

The rules for the teams entering the competition are as follows:

1. Every team must have at least 7 men; they must also have 2 extra men for absentees.
2. The entrance fee of 25 cents covers league expenses and awards.
3. The cost of bowling is 70 cents per man for each match.
4. All matches start at 10 P. M.—each match to consist of 3 games—the scoring is: 1 point for each game, and 1 point for total pins.
5. Four men must be present at each match for each team.
6. The League will be run on a handicap basis: a 700 team average is considered the scratch average—teams whose average is below 700 receive 80% of the difference between their average and 700—teams above 700 will receive no handicap.
7. A perpetual award, the Charles Butera Trophy, will be given to the Phi Kappa Pi Bowling League by Charles Butera of the Ardmore Recreation Center — each year's league champion will be inscribed on the trophy.
8. Each team must elect a captain responsible for the welfare of the team.
9. All bowling is to take place on the alleys of the Ardmore Recreation Center.

Wildcat Tankmen Drop 1st Meet To Lafayette Team

Superior Leopard Forces Overcome Small Villanova Team; Tischler Sets Pool Record in 50 Yd. Freestyle

The Wildcat swimmers made their debut of the 1942 campaign at Easton last Saturday night against the Leopards of Lafayette and were beaten, 55-20. The up-staters' all-around strength and their superior forces were too much for the Main Line band.

Marvin Perskie, Lafayette, was the only double winner, taking the 100 and 220 freestyle events. In the former, he beat out Bob Koness, Wildcat co-captain, and in the latter event, he led his teammate Kanter to the wire in 2.29.2. Kanter barely nosed out Villanova's Ed Riley.

Tischler Sets Record

Later in the evening, Kanter and Riley finished one, two in the 440-yard grind. They raced even for twelve lengths and then Kanter gradually pulled away with Riley making a valiant but futile attempt to catch him.

The outstanding performance of the evening was by Lafayette's George Tischler in the 50-yard freestyle. He set a new pool record of 24.8 seconds in racing home ahead of a teammate, Schmidt, and Koness of the Wildcats.

Villanova could only salvage one first place in the whole meet—that in the freestyle relay. The quartet of Tom Lyons, Tom Dolan, Bill Naylor, and Bob Koness won easily in 4 minutes, 14 seconds. Dolan and Naylor are two newcomers and showed good possibilities in their first taste of competition.

Desmond Loses

The Wildcat breaststroker, Frank Desmond, ran into one of his toughest competitors of the season in the person of Lafayette's captain, George Ryder. Ryder, one of the best breaststrokers in the east, won the 200-yard event in the fast time of 2.38.9. Desmond gave him a close race until they reached the 150-yard mark, but couldn't hold the pace and was forced to yield.

This meet was Tom Moore's first appearance in the capacity of coach, and he felt quite pleased with the boys despite their loss. Many of the times were better than those made in previous practices.

300 medley: 1, Lafayette (Smith, Ryder, Johnson); 2, Villanova (Maher, Desmond, Moore). Time, 3.21.

220 free style: 1, Perskie, Lafayette; 2, Kanter, Lafayette; 3, Reilly, Villanova. Time, 2.29.2.

50 free style: 1, Tischler, Lafayette;

TANKMEN Continued on Page Six

'Cats Meet Scranton Tonight

Severancemen Stalk Up-State Foes; Albright Follows On Saturday Night

Al Severance's bashful basketeers who can win only in the confines of their own backyard are again looking for a victory on the road. Having presented their proud mentor with a bouncing four game winning streak during their last home stand the Wildcats now have their tails arched and are stalking up-state rivals this week.

At Scranton, this evening, the Blue and White face the University of Scranton, conqueror of Detroit and Geneva. The Tomcats are showing their usual success this year under their youthful mentor Red Coleman. A combination of veterans and members of last year's freshman team has brought favorable results.

Now in his fourth year as coach of the Purple and White, Red Coleman, former Scranton star, has amassed a total of thirty-six wins against twenty-six losses. His best season was 1939-40 when the Tommies won sixteen and lost seven.

Other Game Cancelled

The Scranton court team is undergoing a heavy basketball program this season, facing a twenty-six game schedule. The 'Cats and the Tommies were booked for a game at the Wilmington Armory last week but the game was cancelled because the Army had taken over this site for barracks. Included in their schedule are such formidable teams as Tulane, Geneva, Detroit, Creighton, La Salle, Manhattan, Seton Hall, Brooklyn College, Georgetown and Lehigh. To date, they have been very successful in their ventures.

Armed with several six-footers in their line-up, the team can be considered as made up of local boys. Every member lives in the keystone state. Topping his teammates in size is their illustrious center, Tom Notchick, who stretches 6'5" and is in his Junior year. His playing mates include Joe Thomas and Len Vesnesky at the forward posts and Walt Serowicz and Frank Gerrity at the guard positions.

Albright Follows

The major problem of Coach Coleman was the replacement of Mike Wallace, highest scorer in Pennsylvania last year, who discontinued school, but since the beginning of the court season Coleman has found several who can replace him.

Moving on to Reading, Saturday, the 'Cats come face to face with the "roaring Lions" of Albright College. Albright is fighting to better their second place showing of last year in the Eastern Pennsylvania Collegiate League. Among the eight returning lettermen are four of last year's starters. In addition are ten members of a highly successful freshman team of last year.

The Lions are noted for their scoring ability and last year they came up with 1123 points in 23 games for top scoring honors in the state. Villanova beat them, 48-39.

High-Scorers

Coach Neal Harris, serving his fourth year as varsity basketball coach expects a better-than-average team before his twenty game season draws to a close. He has five lads at the center spot who can be

MEET SCRANTON Continued on Page Seven

Indoor Runners In Eleven Meets

War Threatens Cancellation of Some Races; Team Concentrates on Relays

The Indoor Track Schedule was released last week, presenting a formidable schedule for the Wildcat trackmen. Despite the fact that Armory meets were cancelled, as a result of the war, there are still eleven meets, which will require quite a bit of travel.

The team will concentrate mainly on the one-mile and two-mile relay events. Bob O'Sullivan, George Guida, Johnny DiCarlo and Dixie Dunbar will probably comprise the mile team, while O'Sullivan, Dunbar, Dutch McCarthy, and Capt. Bill Hooper will, undoubtedly be the team entered in the two-mile events. The two sophomore stars O'Sullivan and Dunbar, will perform the Herculean task of doubling up, as they will undoubtedly run in both events.

Captain Bill Hooper also has an invitation to run in the "Milrose 880", a feature of the Milrose games, to be held in Madison Square Garden on Feb. 7th.

The complete indoor schedule is as follows:

DATE	MEET	PLACE
Jan.
31	Knights of Columbus	Boston
Feb.
7	Milrose	New York
13	Penn A. C.	Philadelphia
14	Boston A. A.	Boston
21	New York A. C.	New York
27	U. of Maryland	Baltimore
28	National A. A. U.	New York
March
7	I. C. A. A.	New York
9	Catholic U.	Washington
14	Knights of Col.	New York
20	Knights of Col.	Cleveland

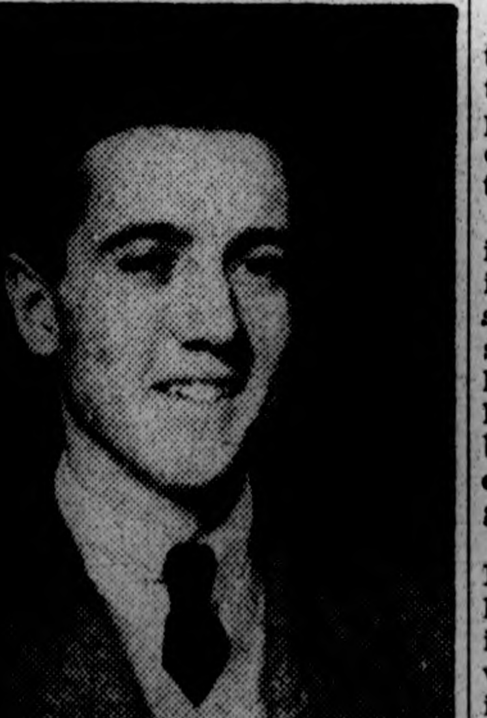
Clipper Attends Coaches Meetings

To Coach Clipper Smith football will be first, last, and always his greatest and most pleasurable work and pastime. His time during the holidays was spent touring the country, attending coaches' meetings, and contacting opponents for next season's gridiron battles.

The week before last, the Clipper was a member of the National coaches' meeting held at Detroit. Here, the complaints against last year's rules were discussed and the introduction of new ones for the coming season were voted on.

Just last week, Mr. Smith attended the Eastern Intercollegiate Coaches' Conference in New York City.

Sports Editor



JACQUES E. MAUCH, '43 of Drexel Hill, Pa., has been selected as the new Sports Editor of the VILLANOVAN by the editorial board and will assume that position in the next issue, Mauch has been a staff writer during the past three years.

Drizen Tops Scoring, Wood Close Behind

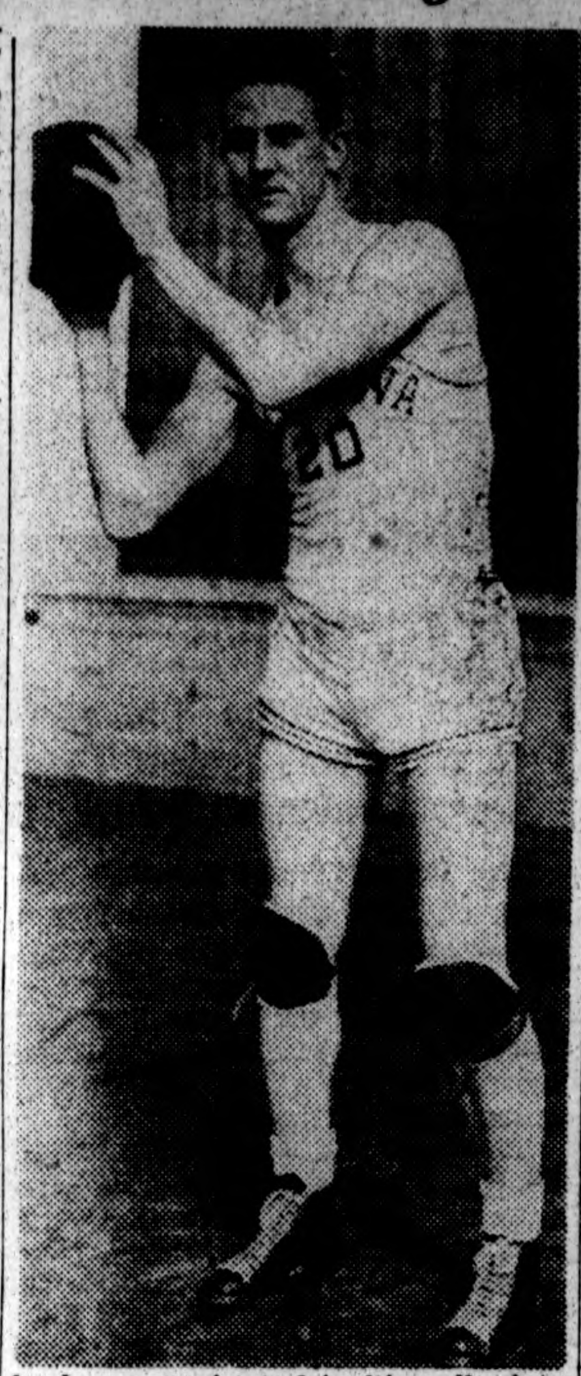
Chuck Drizen, sophomore star of the varsity court team, leads his teammates in scoring with 102 points in eleven games. Following close behind is Bill Wood, who has tallied 101 points to date.

The figures given by the Publicity Department show Drizen superior at the foul line having been successful 42 times. These conversions plus thirty field goals give him a one-point margin. Woods has participated in eleven games but his average fell when he played but two minutes in the Niagara game.

Third in the line of scoring is Red Klotz, diminutive soph who has totaled 82 points to date. Ranking fourth, is Bob Kelty, center with 64 points and following him is Fred Gerland, with 42, and Capt. Dick Gray with 35 points.

Scoring has not been so frequent this year as in past years mainly because of injuries to most of the players. Woods has been bothered by a number of bruises, Klotz has been troubled by a back injury, and Captain Gray has been bothered considerably by a knee injury. Usually a starter, Joe Lord has abandoned the team for a while because of a throat infection.

Gerland's Presence Adds Manpower To A Squad Deficient In Heighth



Dribbling across the sport horizon this week is Frederick "Bill" Gerland, or sometimes referred to as "Snake." How he was tabbed with the latter name has never been brought to light, but never-the-less this big, strapping 6 ft. 3 inch lad is an easy-going individual who is one of the two senior members of the varsity basketball team. Dick Gray upholds the little end while Bill is the "big" of it.

Combining his even and cool temperament with an eager aggressiveness Bill has shown time and again his value to the team by his mere presence. It was only a few weeks ago that the big fellow hit his true stride. The team was playing Baltimore and Bill who was used rather sparingly was called for action. That night his scoring was in the double digits and he found his mark. Since that night he has lost his court nervousness and should fit in well with Coach Al Severance's scheme for the rest of the season.

Team Needs His Heighth

With a hard task ahead of them, no doubt Bill, one of the two six-footers on the squad, will be used quite often. The team definitely needs all the height it can garner and with Gerland in the line-up things will be much easier. He displays good accuracy with his shots and is invaluable when it comes to gathering the ball off the backboard.

He hails from Ozone Park, L. I., attending John Adams High School where he excelled in not one but three sports. During his matriculation Fred played 3 years of varsity basketball, and competed 2 years in track and cross country. Bill is also credited with winning the coveted All-City honors in basketball. His stellar playing while in High School attracted the attention of none other than the coach of the crack L. I. U. squad and but for the intervention of Duke Duzminski, former Villanova star, Bill would have been lost to the Cats. This is easily understood since he considers Duke as one of the greatest basketball players he has ever seen and is constantly lauding his great record established at Villanova.

From the first Bill has proved his merit as a ball player. In his freshman year he was one of the most promising of the rookies, and as a varsity member of the squad, he had been a vital cog in the many victories that the Cats have scored in the past three seasons. According to Bill the biggest thrill he has experienced in his collegiate basketball career at Villanova was the opportunity of playing against the National Championship team of Indiana and helping to maintain a lead over them until the closing minutes of play when they pushed across enough points to best us in one of the greatest games of his career.

Bowling On Alleys Reaches High Pitch

Bowling on the school alleys has reached a high pitch since the return of the students from vacation. Perhaps this enthusiasm has been brought from the home communities for the kegling art is really practiced in a rabid fashion in the world outside.

The highest individual scores turned in to Frank Bagot, manager of the alleys, are Roy Simonsen's 227 and Joe Yednock's 222.

All those interested in participating in the forthcoming pool tournament will leave their names at the pool hall. As soon as a sufficient number of contestants are enrolled, the tournament will get underway. A small entrance fee will be charged to defray the expense of prizes.

Throat Infection Benches Joe Lord

The absence of Lanky Joe Lord, Bridgeport star, from the Wildcat line-up in the past few games has been quite a blow to the Severance five. Lord, one of the taller men on the team, had an infected wisdom tooth and the infection spread down into his throat.

He missed the Washington College game, then came back into the line-up, played one game and has been missing ever since.

Tankmen

Continued From Page Five

2, Schmidt, Lafayette; 3, Koness, Villanova. Time, 24.8.

Diving: 1, Steckel, Lafayette; 2, Hance, Lafayette; 3, Green, Villanova.

100 free style: 1, Perskie, Lafayette; 2, Koness, Villanova; 3, Gaiey, Lafayette. Time, 58.9.

150 breast stroke: 1, Smith, Lafayette; 2, Johnson, Lafayette; 3, Maher, Villanova. Time, 1.51.8.

200 breast stroke: 1, Ryder, Lafayette; 2, Desmond, Villanova; 3, Tobey, Lafayette. Time, 2.38.9.

440 free style: 1, Wanter, Lafayette; 2, Reilly, Villanova; 3, Haire, Lafayette. Time, 5.43.5.

400 relay: 1, Villanova (Naylor, Koness, Dolan, Lyons); 2, Lafayette (Ryder, Smith, Hance, Gauley). Time, 4.14.

Wildcats Resurge During Holidays

Wood and Drizen Pace Attack as Dribblers Take Four Straight Games

Al Severance's Lilliputian basketeers put on the pressure over the Christmas vacation, ran up a string of victories, and made their record look more like those of previous Wildcat contingents.

Prior to this, the standings were one win and four losses, but now the victory column has swelled to six wins against five loses and the Wildcats are rolling at last.

After their disastrous road trip, the courtmen returned home and wreaked their venegence on Washington College, 58-22. Chuck Drizen, aided by Bill Woods, started off the attack that night and finished in fine fashion with 17 markers for top-scoring honors.

The following night, however, the boys ran into a snag against the crack Baltimore University five and lost, 39-34. The Wildcat defense fell apart completely in the final minutes. Trailing by five points with barely two minutes remaining, the southerners got hot and hit the strings for five field goals, while the Wildcats couldn't get near the ball. It was the Main Liner's first double-header of the season in the Wilmington armory, and will be the only one now because of the present crisis.

The Wildcats returned to the home court and when things looked blackest, they shone in all their basketball splendor. Forward Ernie Melofchik was lost to Uncle Sam, Lanky Joe Lord was lost for two weeks, and Captain Dick Gray wrenched his knee so badly in practice that he could only play a few minutes of each game. Yet Severance's men ran through William & Mary 49-28, Detroit 36-31, St. Francis of Loretto 48-36, and Geneva 43-40.

The Detroit and Geneva affairs were stiff tests for Villanova and they had their hands full in winning. Detroit spurted ahead of the 'Cats in the first half of their game on goals by O'Brien and Brice and kept the lead until the end of the period. However, in the second half the Wildcat defense held the Titans to three baskets while Bill Woods, whose 14 points were high led a fast-breaking offense.

HERE AND THERE

By FRED CLARK

THIS is the last issue in which we will have the privilege of expressing our ideas and opinions in print. When the next VILLANOVAN comes off the press a new tenant will occupy this space and it is with the best of wishes that we hand over the assignment to Sam Canning, member of the sports staff for the past two and a half years.

Throughout the past year we have striven to follow the example set by Jim Haughton, our predecessor, in being conservative in our writings and refraining from creating ill-wind between ourselves and others or between our school and other institutions of learning. We hope we have succeeded in this effort.

However, we are here for the purpose of discussing subjects relating to sports and not to create an autobiography or something resembling one so we will close the subject under discussion and at the same time briefly state our personal feelings regarding that subject in three short words—its been fun.

* * *

With four straight wins to their credit, Coach Al Severance's cagemen seem to be on the verge of overcoming the series of reversals and hard luck that has been dogging their heels ever since the boys returned to school in September. At that time hopes were high that the 1941-42 court season would produce a quintet that would match in brilliance and ability any Villanova basketball team of the past. Even Coach Severance was high on the prospects of the squad and that is a rare occasion indeed.

But right from the beginning the breaks seemed to be going the wrong way and even at this late date have shown no signs of letting up and coming the right way for a change. If there is any truth in this law of averages theory, the Wildcat players can expect lady luck herself to park on their respective laps any day now and remain there for an indefinite stay.

An Ill Season

The first blow against Wildcat hopes was struck when Art Spector, first string center last season, and Ted Rapella, giant sharpshooter for the frosh a year ago, both were unable to return to school this fall. Both of these boys towered well over the six-foot mark and would have given the quintet the height that it so urgently needs this year. Given a little more height this year's combination would be a tough one for any club to beat for when it comes to set-shots they are just about tops. But they need someone who can go under the basket and come out with the ball regularly. They lack the old altitude.

The loss of these two key men was the first but by no means the only bad break suffered by the team this year. Injuries and draft trouble also aided in removing the smile from Coach Severance's face.

Captain Dick Gray has been hindered by a series of foot injuries since early in the season and Joe Lord is out of action at the present time because of infected tonsils. Ernie Melofchik heard the call of his draft board a few weeks ago and was forced to bring his basketball career to an abrupt ending.

A Good Comeback

However the picture may not be as black as we have painted it. The team has won four straight and five out of their last six after a poor start in which they dropped four decisions out of their first five contests.

Three encounters scheduled to be played in an armory at Wilmington, Delaware, have been cancelled because the United States Army intends to make use of the armory in other capacities than as a basketball court. The schools that were to be met are Williams College, University of Scranton, and University of Virginia.

Villanova's strongest major foe in the games to come points to the powerful Duquesne quintet which has enjoyed an unblemished season thus far. The football Dukes went undefeated without recognition but her court team cannot fail to amass high honors at the rate they are going.

Meet Your Friends
AT THE GREEKS
We Serve Lunches
Superior Soda Service
Delicious Dinners

The Lamp Post Inn
Luncheon and Dinners
Strafford, Pa.

For Expert Convenient Attention
SERVICE IS OUR FIRST THOUGHT
Patronize
THE CAMPUS BARBER SHOP
• First Class Work •
• Popular Prices •

CONESTOGA
★ ★ ★ MILL
County Line & Conestoga Rd.
Bryn Mawr
FULL COURSE DINNERS
DANCING
Every Evening

Loren Murchison & Co.
Inc.
S. W. HAMPSON, Representative
JEWELER
for Standard College
RINGS
FRATERNITY PINS
KEYS and MEDALS
JUNIORS: Place your orders with
Gene Smith at Fedigan Hall

SAFE and SOUND
for
FIFTY YEARS
•
The
Bryn Mawr
Trust
Company
BRYN MAWR, PENNA.
•
Every Banking
Facility
•
Member of the Federal Deposit Insurance Corp.

Aristocrat
ICE CREAM
PHILA. DAIRY PRODUCTS CO.
4th & Poplar Sts., Phila., Pa.

Day Hops Continue Blistering Pace By Staving Off C&F And Alumni Hall

Final Half of I-M Basketball Resumes Operations With Champion Mendelites Running Win Streak to Ten Games; Other Contests See Fedigan and Austin Split

The Intramural Basketball League has resumed its second-half schedule after a short lapse during the Christmas Holidays. The teams set a fast pace during the opening week with only one of the six games being won by more than five points. Now that the teams have played each other twice, they know just what to look for in each of their opponents, and as a result, all the remaining games should be very closely contested.

The league champions for the first half, the Mendel Day-hops, opened their drive for the second half honors, by continuing their long-winning streak of eight games in downing their fellow commuters, the C. & F. Day-hops, 40-35. Holding a slight 23-20 lead at half time, the Mendelites were tied up at 31-31 well into the second period as high scorer, Jim Meehan, led the Commercemen up to even terms. But Fr. Sullivan's ace forwards, Curreri and Graziano, scored nine successive points to give the champions a 40-35 victory.

Maroon Drafts Players

Fedigan Hall had to draft the services of O'Dwyer Hall, due to insufficient support from within its corridors, and with this contingent they dropped the scrappy Mendel Resident team in a wild and furious game. Sam Canning took the game scoring honors with 16 points as the Gigoloes gained a 36-32 triumph over Mendel.

The Gigoloes from Fedigan held the freshmen from Mendel scoreless for the first 12 minutes of the game, but the Penthousers opened up with an 11-point scoring attack to trail 19-11 at the end of the first period. In the second half the victors were outscored, 21-17, but had built up a big enough lead earlier and won, 36-32.

Austin Hall took its first defeat of the second half in the best game played so far this year in the Intramural league. They bowed before the brilliant efforts of Jim Meehan and Jim Buxeda, who scored 37 points between them as their C. & F. Day-hops won, 51-48, in an overtime game.

The lead changed hands several times with Austin holding it at half time, 22-19. But C. & F. took it right back on successive goals by Joe Nunan and Jim Hagen only to have it switch back and forth several more times. Austin's attack was centered around Faas, Macek, and Hefly, all of whom played valiantly for the Firemen. The last minute remaining saw the game tied up at 45-45 and it ended that way resulting in an exciting five-minute over-time.

Hagen started the fireworks with a nifty over-head shot that sent C. & F. out in front. Meehan and Buxeda followed up with 4 points as Macek scored for Austin. But Meehan tallied again on a close set shot and a foul throw which clinched the game, although Faas dropped a set shot for Austin.

Greenies Threaten Champs

The Green Wave from Alumni Hall almost put the "Indian sign" on the winning streak of the Mendel Day-hops as the champs eked out a 25-22 victory over the Greenies. Jack O'Donnell paced the freshmen with eleven points all scored in the second half.

Alumni boosted their average this week when they trimmed their fellow-freshmen from Mendel Hall, 25-17. The Penthousers never could get rolling, and the Greenies led all the way. O'Donnell led the scoring for Alumni, while Reagan and Simmons were high for Mendel.

A shot by Joe Crotti in the final seconds gave Austin a 43-41 victory over Fedigan last Tuesday night. The Fediganites were handicapped by having only five players for the whole game. They held a 25-20 lead at halftime, but Austin's reserve power told a different story in the second half.

Meet Scranton

Continued From Page Five

alternated and is three deep in the other positions. Leading the attack will be Dick Shollenberger, league scoring winner and diminutive "Chin" Rhoads, both juniors.

The two are almost certain front court starters, while Ken Hopkins, another junior, will cover one of the guard spots. Hopkins was named on last year's all-league five. Fighting for the other back court positions wil be veteran Jim Kane and Dewey Boltz, Harris's most promising sophomore. Spangler and Horn may be used at guard. Forward replacements include speedy Raymor Kent and sophomore George Manderbac.

It appears that Villanova is rapidly overcoming the handicaps it faced when the season started. Smooth teamwork and some consistent scoring on the part of some of the boys are bringing the won and lost average nearer to that of former years. Victories over these two strong up-staters will bode well for the future of the 'Cats.

'Cat Swimmers Face St. Peter's Friday

On Friday afternoon the swimming team will make their first home appearance against St. Peter's College of Jersey City, N. J. The Peacocks, members of the Eastern Catholic swimming league, appear for the initial time on a Wildcat athletic schedule.

Stiff practices are being held all this week by Coach Moore in order to get everyone in tip-top shape for the meet.

Sparks Attack

BILL WOOD

Yearling Quintet Victory Starved

To date Al Severance's struggling freshman team is one game above the .500 mark. The midget 'Cats have been defeated in their last three games after they had posted four straight wins in the earlier part of the season.

In the preliminary game to the Villanova-St. Francis, the yearlings dropped a close one to Roman Catholic High of Philadelphia after leading throughout the contest. This was their second loss for a few nights before Lincoln Business College handed the Villanova freshmen their first defeat in four starts. Tom Manning's late field goal provided the winning margin as the 'Cats bowed, 33-31, after leading most of the way. Lou Reynolds, the sensational frosh tallied 16 points that night despite his team's defeat.

In the last game played the frosh were trounced by the Norristown Y. M. C. A., 41-35. Pillinger led the winners with 15 points, while Lou Reynolds scored 12 points for the Kittens.

Dutch Sivertsen, former Lower Merion star left school during the holidays to weaken the team's position and now the 'Cats seem to be left without any height again.

Severance Comments

"Material Present For Court Team; Should List A Respectful Record"

Team Has Been Hard Hit by Injuries; Coach Praises Spirit in Action

WITH Villanova's Winter sport, basketball, one-third completed, or to put it another way, with six on the favorable side and five in the character building column, we pause for a recapitulation of the events that might have led to this disastrous first stand.

In the opening game with Loyola of Baltimore, Villanova showed indications that they might have the technique to carry a majority of the contests on the roster. The St Francis game, which incidentally, carried into an extra period, definitely confirmed the fact that Villanova was justified in looking toward a successful completion of her 1941 schedule.

Niagara the Test

Of the three games played on the trip, namely Siena, Niagara, and Colgate, let it be said here that only one, Niagara, could possibly be conceded and that game only on the basis of floor and physical conditions.

The Detroit and Geneva games only confirmed further that the material is present and that, properly handled and with proper execution of fundamentals, the Blue and White edition of 1941-42 should list a respectful record.

Villanova has always supplied her coaches with the best and has given them unstintingly of her time and assets, so that it can be truthfully said, "If you can't win here you can't win anywhere."

Takes the Blame

In the Baltimore game, your writer takes the blame for the defeat, for Villanova was always out in front throughout three-quarters of the game. On orders from me, the boys endeavored to play it safe and in attempting to do so saw their lead slip away, to be nipped at the end by a few points. If second guessing is permitted, they should have been allowed to continue their play of the early part of the game and yours truly should have gone for a walk.

There is a slight deficiency in the height department, but the backboard work of Kelty and Gerland has been of the finest. Both men have given their all and both have played practically every minute of the eleven games. Likewise of Wood, Drizen, Klotz, McDonald, and Capt. Gray. Here are five boys, for whom any coach could have the highest respect and appreciation. They don't know what the word quit means and they drive from the opening whistle until the final blast.

Praise for Others

It is fitting that we pause here and make mention of two other men on this squad, Ed Milde and Jim Finnegan, two boys for whom I will always have the greatest respect. Both thoroughly understand the word spirit and the put it into practice, not with their mouth, but in action. It is a fact that their abilities are not letter perfect, however, pause and consider. Never do they pass up a practice session; seldom to date have they had the honor of carrying their school's colors on the hardwood, and yet they are always working, sweating, and pulling for the playing five to bring in the mail.

Take a look around on the varsity squads and show me their counterpart. Joe Lord, who showed such great promise as a freshman, flashed his excellence only in spots this year; his present illness, I think, handicapped him this fall, but I venture to say that a return to health on his part will see Villanova considerably stronger and with much greater staying power.

Anybody that takes a shot at the material in any sport at Villanova, whether he flashes a button, a carnation or an Annie Oakley—and we have plenty of each variety—has as much brains as the infected gent who labels this coach or that coach a genius.

KEEP SUPPLIED WITH
SCHOOL TICKETS
GOOD ON BUSES AND RAIL CARS UNTIL USED
5c a Ride, including Special Free Transfers. Obtain Identification Cards at School Office.
RED ARROW LINES
Philadelphia Suburban Transportation Co.
Aronimink Transportation Co.

BROOKLINE
COUNTRY CLUB
Dancing Every Thursday to
America's Top Name Bands
Saturday - Jan. 17
LOU BREESE
In Person, and His Orchestra
Admission: $1.00 plus tax
Phone: Hilltop 1600

George Fein & Co.
Printers & Publishers
2116 to 2130 Arch St.
PHILADELPHIA, PA.
RITtenhouse 6983

We Get 'Em!
When you send us your clothes you get them back with every little spot and soil removed. Our careful service and economy prices mean that you can build a really "New" looking wardrobe from your present clothes.
CLEANERS SUN DYERS

On The Local Screens

ARDMORE
THEATRE
Tuesday
"INTERNATIONAL SQUADRON"
with Ronald Reagan
The Foreign Legion of the R. A. F.
Wednesday & Thursday
"UNHOLY PARTNERS"
with Edward G. Robinson
Friday & Saturday
"INTERNATIONAL LADY"
with
Ilona Massey - George Brent

Direction Warner Bros.
TOWER
69th & MARKET STS.
Tues., - Wed. - Thurs.
Jan. 13 - 14 - 15
ERROLL FLYNN
OLIVIA DE HAVILLAND
— in —
"THEY DIED WITH THEIR BOOTS ON"
First Suburban Showing
A Story of Undying Faith
Starting Friday
BING CROSBY
MARY MARTIN
— in —
"BIRTH OF THE BLUES"

SUBURBAN
ARDMORE
Tuesday to Saturday
"SKYLARK" with
Claudette Colbert - Ray Milland
Sunday & Monday
"40,000 HORSEMEN"

ANTHONY WAYNE
THEATRE WAYNE
Wednesday & Thursday
"THE CHOCOLATE SOLDIER"
Friday & Saturday
"ONE FOOT IN HEAVEN"
Sunday & Monday
"SUNDOWN"

SEVILLE
THEATRE BRYN MAWR
Thursday & Friday
"THE GIRL IN THE NEWS"
Saturday
"TWO LATINS FROM MANHATTAN"
Sunday
"SMALL TOWN DEB"
and "GUNGA DIN"

RIDE FREE ON P. & W.
RAILWAY MOVIE TICKETS
NORRIS
NORRISTOWN
Today & Wednesday
Greta Garbo in
"TWO FACED WOMAN"
Thursday & Friday
Charles Boyer - Margaret Sullavan
— in —
"APPOINTMENT FOR LOVE"
Saturday & Monday
Abbott & Costello in
"KEEP 'EM FLYING"

GRAND
NORRISTOWN
Today
Jackie Cooper in
"RISE AND SHINE"
Wednesday & Thursday
Jackie Cooper in
"GLAMOUR BOY"
and Jane Frazee in
"SING ANOTHER CHORUS"

GARRICK
NORRISTOWN
Wednesday & Thursday
Rosalind Russell in
"FEMININE TOUCH"
and Lynn Bolr in
"MOON OVER HER SHOULDER"
Friday & Saturday
"FLYING CADETS" and
"FATHER TAKES A WIFE"

WILDCATS!
STOP HERE
LA DOW'S PHARMACY
On the Edge of the Campus
LANCASTER PIKE
VILLANOVA, PA.

Defense School Adds Lab Courses As C&F Starts Two Math Classes

Laboratory courses for the Engineering Defense Training classes being conducted at Villanova, West Catholic, and Northeast Catholic will begin in the Materials Testing Laboratory here on Feb. 4 and continue until March 31.

This will supplement the courses in engineering, materials and strength of materials with which the students started the first semester. It will be the first laboratory course offered on the curriculum of the defense training schools.

About 100 students will take the course, which lists seven experiments on tension, torsion, deflection of a beam, a summary of the steel tests, compression of wood, mixing and casting of concrete, and the test of concrete cylinders and briquets.

Experiments will be under the direction of John J. Gallen, Kenneth J. Moser, and John A. Oakey, all of whom are on the regular engineering school faculty.

Special classes in college algebra and plane trigonometry are now available to all junior and senior students who wish to qualify for training in the U. S. Naval Reserve, according to Rev. Joseph C. Bartley, O. S. A., Dean of the School of Commerce and Finance.

Opening yesterday, the algebra course is scheduled for Monday and Thursday afternoons at 2:25 P. M., while plane trigonometry will be taught on Tuesdays at 1:30 P. M. and Wednesdays at 2:25 P. M.

Each class will last an hour and a half, and the courses will each carry three semester hours of credit.

Dr. Harold F. Hartman, of the commerce school, will teach the algebra classes, while Dr. Emil Amelotti, of the engineering faculty, will conduct the course in plane trigonometry. Already a total of 65 men have registered for the algebra course, of whom 30 are seniors and the remainder juniors.

Both courses are necessary prerequisites for entrance into the V-7 naval reserve group and, since the majority of upperclassmen in the commerce school have never had the opportunity of taking them as part of the regular college curriculum, the administration believes it is rendering a real service both to the student and to the country.

Juniors and seniors interested in taking these courses, which are free of charge, are urged to register immediately with Miss Kelly, secretary in the commerce school.

John J. Sweeney, Former Prof, Dies

College Represented at Funeral of Alumnus Who Taught Here for 17 Years

By THOMAS A. SHALLOW

John J. Sweeney, C. E., a graduate of one of the earliest classes of the School of Engineering and an instructor at Villanova for 17 years, died at his home in Ardmore early on Tuesday, January 6.

Funeral services were held on Friday of last week and attended by Very Rev. Edward V. Stanford, O. S. A., president of the college, and other representatives of the faculty.

Mr. Sweeney entered Villanova in 1908 and graduated with a B. S. in C. E. in 1912. In 1918 he was awarded his professional degree in civil engineering.

He became an instructor here in the fall of 1913 and continued in the civil engineering department until June, 1930, when, because of ill health, he was obliged to change to outdoor work. While teaching here Mr. Sweeney taught most of the civil engineering courses at one time or another.

After leaving he kept in close contact with the school and continued as liason officer between the local student chapter and the Philadelphia branch of the A. S. C. E., of which he was an active member. In this capacity Mr. Sweeney came into contact with the student members and was well known to all of them.

He aided many graduates of the civil engineering department to get placed in industry and gave further evidence of his interest in the students by frequent attendance at the annual Phi Kappa Pi initiation banquet.

Mr. Sweeney had acquired a position of prominence in his profession and at the time of his death held a position as engineer at the Philadelphia Navy Yard.

Dinner Tonight

Local student chapter of the American Society of Civil Engineers will attend a dinner and meeting of the parent society at the Engineers' Club in Philadelphia tonight.

Speaker of the evening will be Lieut. Col. Joseph H. Burgheim, of the U. S. Corps of Engineers, who will discuss, "Phases of the Army's Construction Program."

Men's Clothes
Made-to-Measure
COLEBY
Tailoring
Inc.
57th & MARKET STS.
See Steve Aisenbrey
110 Fedigan Hall
Suits & Topcoats
$27.75

How to Win Friends
in one easy lesson
Treat yourself and others to wholesome, delicious Wrigley's Spearmint Gum. Swell to chew. Helps keep breath sweet, teeth bright. The Flavor Lasts.
WRIGLEY'S
SPEARMINT
CHEWING GUM
V-168
42

Commercemen Who'll Run Friday's Dance

Robert J. Koness, left, and Daniel J. Haley, right, are directing arrangements for the Financiers' Frolic.

Included on their committee are six sub-chairmen: John Jakovic, senior, in charge of tickets; Robert Moore, senior, arranging for blind dates; Eugene Smith, junior, handling publicity; Thomas Devinney, senior, in charge of transportation; Bob Donovan, senior, refreshment supervisor; and George McFadden, junior, soliciting patrons and preparing the souvenir program.

Assisting them are seniors Jaime Buxeda and Joseph Costa; juniors James Meehan and Frank Chaplar; and sophomores Edward Reardon, William Walsh, Robert Young, and Robert Gretz.

Students Who Wish To Fly Are Urged To Contact Driscoll

All students desiring to take the spring Civilian Pilot Training course are urged to contact William G. Driscoll, assistant professor of mathematics and physics, at once, in his office adjoining the physics laboratory on the fourth floor of Mendel Hall, it was announced yesterday.

Driscoll has replaced alumni secretary William G. Slaughter as coordinator of flight training at Villanova, given under the direction of the Civil Aeronautics Authority.

The spring course will begin on Feb. 1 and will continue until June 1. The program includes 72 hours of ground training and 35 hours of flight instruction. As yet, no definite word has been given by the C. A. A. as to the number of students who will be permitted to take the spring course. Every effort, however, is being made to afford opportunity for all interested.

"Carmen" Pieces

Selections from the opera, "Carmen," will be featured at the Dayhop Music Seminar tomorrow afternoon in the Amphitheatre. Between pieces, Dr. Edward L. Haenisch, moderator of the group, will relate the story of "Carmen" and describe the position of each selection in the opera.

The resident Music Seminar will not meet again until the second semester.

Chairmen Plead For Senior Fees

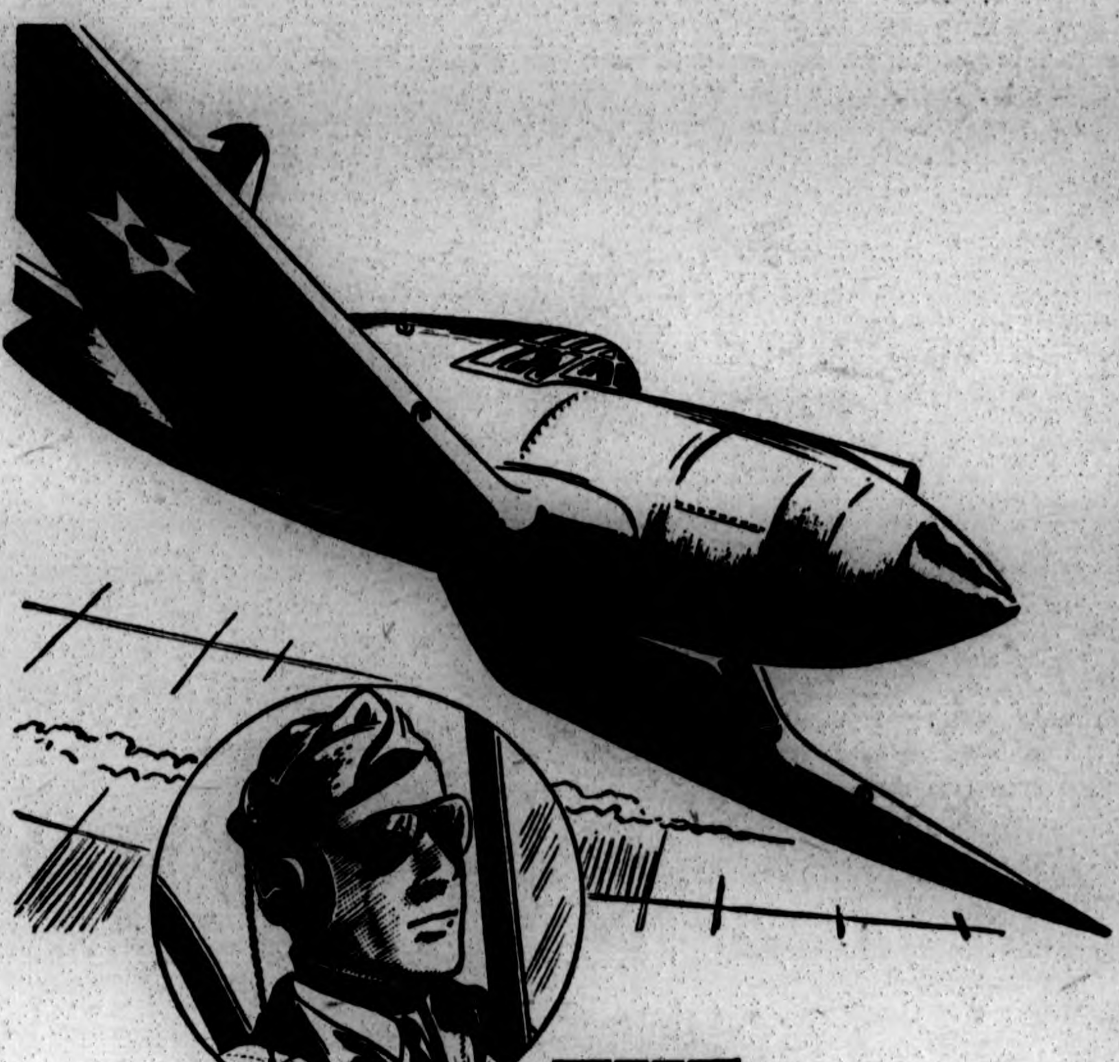
Failure of seniors to pay their class assessments has hindered the completion of committee plans for the Feb. 13 Belle Air Ball. Co-chairmen John T. Gallagher and Andrew J. Melton today issued a final plea to seniors to make payments immediately in order that the "black and white" formal may be successful.

Bids from various orchestra agencies have been submitted to the committee but final consideration has been withheld due to the lack of sufficient funds in the class treasury. No orchestra can be signed unless much of its fee is paid in advance.

This year the committee is endeavoring to make the annual dance a "social affair," rather than a "jitterbug dance." In keeping with this policy, careful selection of a "mellow" orchestra will be made. Decorations will have a subtle atmosphere.

Letters inviting ex-Villanova men now in the service to be guests of the college over that weekend have been sent. Joseph McCabe, in charge of this work, expressed the belief that arrangements can be made for many of these men to attend despite the present emergency.

Tickets for the dance will be placed on sale two weeks from today at $5.00 plus tax per couple. The committee will meet Thursday at 1:00 P. M. to hear a report of the class treasurer in regard to paid-in assessments and to pass on decoration sketches, program designs, and favors.



THE FLYING TELEPHONE

If you couldn't hear your own voice, you couldn't regulate its volume. If airplane pilots had to use an ordinary telephone instrument to talk to the airports, they'd find it impossible to hear their own voices above the roar of the motors. Therefore, they'd yell into their telephones and no one on the ground could understand them.

So telephone engineers have developed a special radio-telephone instrument with two earphones and special circuits which "feed back" some of their own voices into the receivers. There's no mouthpiece to get in the way, either. Instead there's a throat microphone which picks up the pilot's voice with a minimum of motor noise. Now the pilot can hear himself talk and so he naturally speaks in the normal tone of voice which carries best and clearest.

You'll find that on any telephone, the best results come from speaking not too loudly, nor in a whisper, but in a normal voice. Speak distinctly with your lips one-half inch from the transmitter and you'll be heard without trouble.

Good Telephone Habits Are a Business and Social Asset

VILLANOVAN
Vol. 14—No. 11 N. A. S. Z-660 VILLANOVA COLLEGE, VILLANOVA, PA. TUESDAY, JANUARY 20, 1942

New Program Allows Degree In Three Years

Optional Third Semester Open To Underclassmen

Easter Vacation, Junior Week Reduced to Minimum As May 19 Is Set For Graduation; Plan Evolved To Meet Government Requests

In response to requests of government officials, seniors at Villanova will graduate on May 19 this year and an accelerated course of studies will be introduced for interested underclassmen the following month, Very Rev. Edward V. Stanford, O. S. A., president of the college, announced last week.

Stressing the fact that the new program, which was approved by the Board of Trustees, the faculty, and the Student Council, will be voluntary, Fr. Stanford stated that the tentative date for its inception will be June 8.

The purpose of the intensified curriculum, the president said, is to enable students to complete the normal course leading to a degree in a three year period. Students who indicate a sufficient mastery of their subjects would even be enabled to graduate in approximately two and two-thirds years.

Need College Graduates

The new plan was formulated in cooperation with suggestions made by government officials to a meeting of college presidents held in Baltimore on Jan. 3 and 4. The demands of the armed forces for college graduates for commissions and of the Civil Service for trained men made such a step unavoidable.

Since the students who desire to do so may still take the regular four year course, reorganization of the present curriculum will be necessary in order to co-ordinate the two courses of study, the president added.

There will be no shortening of requirements or let-down in standards, but each course will have to be completed within one semester. This will mean fewer courses per semester, but a doubling of the hours per week of each course.

Three Registrations

New students will be admitted to the college three times a year under the provisions of the approved plan, and three classes will be grad-

NEW CURRICULUM
Continued on Page Eight

Seniors Sign Mal Hallett

Noted Prom Band Chosen; Ritz To Be Site Of Dinner

New England Sensation Blends Danceable Music With Hit Novelty Show

Mal Hallett, regarded by the music world as one of the greatest creators and organizers of American dance music, has been signed to play for the Belle Air Ball—"Black and White formal"—Friday evening, February 13, in the Field House. Vocalists to be featured during the dancing from 10 P. M. to 2 A. M. will be Kay Marie Baird and Jerry Perkins. Tickets, at $5.00 plus $.50 tax, will be on sale Thursday.

Final arrangements with the New England band were completed late last week by Co-chairmen John T. Gallagher and Andrew J. Melton. Desiring a band which would emphasize "danceable" music, they presented to the dance committee a list of six nationally known orchestras available. Because of his successful engagements at other college proms across the country, Hallett was given preference over the others.

Recently he completed a six months' engagement at the Bellevidere Hotel in Baltimore, Md. During this time he was heard over the N. B. C. networks. The band bearing the "Boston Tea Party" signature is recognized as one of the greatest producers of men famous in the field of popular music. At one time the organization included such names as pianist-composer, Frankie Carle, Gene Krupa, drummer deluxe, Jimmy and Tommy Dorsey, now leaders of their own bands.

Dinner Dance

Negotiations for the senior Dinner-Dance were completed yesterday by Chairman Ernie Klappenbach. The Roof Garden of the Ritz-Carlton Hotel has been engaged for the final social event on the senior

HALLETT SIGNED
Continued on Page Eight

Annual Retreat Will Start Feb. 1

99th Religious Exercise To Be Directed by Fathers Brennan and Rogers

The ninety-ninth annual student retreat will begin Sunday, Feb. 1, at 8:30 P. M. for the residents, and Monday, Feb. 2, at 8:30 for the day students. In announcing the forthcoming retreat, Rev. Joseph I. Boyle, O. S. A., chaplain, defined it as a "yearly check-up on spiritual deficiencies," and added, "the retreat would stress the dire need of spiritual discipline in the present world situation."

99th ANNUAL RETREAT SCHEDULE

	Residents	Non-Residents
Sunday	8:30 P. M.—Conference and Benediction
Monday and Tuesday	7:30 A. M.—Mass	8:30 A. M.
	9:30 A. M.—Conference	10:30 A. M.
	11:30 A. M.—Conference	12:30 P. M.
	4:30 P. M.—Prayers	1:00 P. M.
	7:00 P. M.—Conference	2:00 P. M.
Wednesday	7:30 A. M.—Mass	8:30 A. M.

Rev. John Brennan, O. S. A., and Rev. Thomas Rogers, O. S. A., of the Augustinian Mission Band, will act as retreat masters.

Confessions will be heard before Mass and at the end of each conference so all may receive the Sacraments. Chapel cards will be used as a check on regular attendance and individual retreat schedules will be distributed.

Breakfast will be served to the non-residents immediately after Mass on Wednesday morning.

Alumnus' Death In Bomber Crash Verified By Army

Fathers Stanford and Boyle to Celebrate Masses Sponsored by VILLANOVAN for Ben Maloney

A Military High Mass will be sung tomorrow at 7:00 A. M. by the Very Reverend Edward V. Stanford, O. S. A., for the soul of Lieutenant J. Benedict Maloney, of the Villanova '37 class, who met death in an Army airplane crash two weeks ago. Tomorrow's Mass will be attended by the resident students, while a second Mass, for the benefit of the day students, will be sung by Rev. Joseph I. Boyle, O. S. A., on Thursday at 8:30 A. M.

Past Editor

The VILLANOVAN will sponsor both Masses, since Maloney is a past Editor-in-Chief. In his student days, aside from his work on the school newspaper, he was a member of the Student Council and of the track team. His death is the first in the war to strike home to the students and alumni of Villanova. A catafalque surmounted by the flag of the United States will be placed in the church to symbolize the body of the deceased.

Entire Crew Lost

The B-26, a bomber in which Maloney was co-pilot, was reported missing December 30, near Cajon Pass, Cal., by the Fourth Air Force Command. On Jan. 15 the wrecked bomber was discovered and the remains of the dead were identified. According to reports, the plane was not set on fire by the crash, and the equipment and instruments were salvaged. It was stated, however, that all of the crew of nine had perished.

The plane was one of nine which were being tested for maneuverability, speed, and endurance. Of these, eight returned safely.

The President and faculty urge the reception of Holy Eucharist at the coming Masses for the repose of Lieut Maloney's soul, along with those of all the faithful who have been victims of the present conflict.

ASME Considers Short Convention

Advisability of making the convention of the student chapters of the Middle Atlantic Section of the A. S. M. E. to be held here in the spring, a one-day affair is being considered by the local chapter because of the premium put on time by the accelerated program, it was announced yesterday by Vincent Gordon, chairman.

At the same time, the co-chairmen of the convention, Joseph McMahon and Edmund Hagen, announced the chairmen of the various sub-committees. They are as follows: Dinner, Thomas Hushen; Registration, Arthur Koerner; Trips, William Ehmer; Housing, Alfred Leone; Entertainment, Joseph Gill; Souvenirs, Henry Martinez; and Program, Thomas Shallow. The chairmen are all seniors in the mechanical engineering department.

The nineteen other schools which will be represented at the convention are being contacted by Thomas J. De Sipin, secretary of the local chapter, to obtain their views on having the program shortened to one day instead of the two days of previous years.

A definite decision on the question is expected soon, so that the committtees can start making definite plans. The date had been set tentatively for April 20 and 21, and if the projected change is made, the convention will most likely be held on the twentieth, Chairman Gordon revealed.

Fr. McQuade Assumes New Post; To Act As Assistant To President

A new position at the college was created last week when Rev. Vincent A. McQuade, O. S. A., assistant professor of social sciences, was named, with the approval of the Board of Trustees, as "an assistant to the president," it was announced by the Very Rev. Edward V. Stanford, O. S. A., college president.

"Growing complexities of duties attached to the president's office," Fr. Stanford said, "have made this step necessary at Villanova." This movement is in line with the policies adopted by other colleges; many of them have made the same appointment in the past two or three years.

Among the most important reasons given for the appointment are the increasing financial burdens caused chiefly by the present war emergency programs and a new problem arising from the war and forced upon the majority of colleges and universities, that of civilian defense programs for the students.

The approach of the Villanova Centennial year necessitates extensive preparations which again adds to the work already performed by the president's office.

Defense Problem

One of Father McQuade's first assignments will be to speed-up the present civilian defense program which was formed in December. He will aid in the coordination of the air-raid, auxiliary fire, and first-aid wardens' activities. Already, professors and students have been assgned to the various defense committees.

In addition to his new duties, Fr. McQuade will continue with his regular classes and in his capacities of moderator of the junior class and counselor in Mendel Hall.

Has New Duties

REV. V. A. McQUADE, O. S. A., who, as assistant to the president, will take charge of additional college matters.

Conservation Plan Goes Into Action

The conservation of all materials capable of being used in the national defense effort will be promoted by a committee appointed by the Student Council for that purpose.

This is one of four fields in which the council has selected men; the others being, the Red Cross, United States Defense Savings Bonds and Stamps, and a student health program.

At a special meeting of the student council last Wednesday evening, the Very Rev. Edward V. Stanford, O. S. A., president of the college, outlined the new acceleration plan being adapted to the college curriculum. Acting immediately, the student representatives gave the plan an unanimous vote of approval.

Thomas J. McKimmey, president of the council, announced that the recently formed civilian defense committees will go into action at once with the aid of the faculty advisors.

Juniors To Meet

An important meeting of the junior class will be held today at 1:00 P. M. in room 215 Mendel Hall.

Plans for the changing of the dates of the Junior Prom and Dinner Dance will be discussed. The accelerated curriculum has necessitated such a change. Purchase of blazers will also be discussed.

"Ex" Views Past Editors, Policies, Envys Not Paper's Task During War

By T. H. DOYLE, JR.
(Former Editor-in-Chief)

I NEVER ate supper with Ben Maloney, nor had a dish of soup with Ed Reiley, but I've known my share of editors.

Four years ago, when my late colleagues of the editorial board and I were uncertain freshmen, we joined the staff under co-editors Jim Tofani and Bob Howe. . . Tofani, the dynamio master of the expletive who'd look busy when he wasn't, keep cool when he had work to do. . . Howe, who could teach a frosh a year's journalism course in ten minutes. A grand group of characters retired with them: "Pagamo," Bert Passanante, McGlade, Pete Mackin. Then came John Harrington, conscientious, above all. He was a "New York Times" in himself for accuracy and conservativeness. A fine editor and guide. Phil "Who Stole My Mail?" Dunn went with him as sports editor; Barney Bellew, and Fitz, too, were there to liven things up.

In our junior year, energetic Jim Collins took over the reins. A swell fellow, Jim did all the work on the paper and gave the credit for his fine job to his associates. The "Hopper" modernized the paper in many ways; last year Gay Nineties type Smiling Tom Doyle looks back.

"EX" RECALLS
Continued on Page Four

In Appreciation . . .

BEGINNING with this issue, the VILLANOVAN will hang out a sign reading "Under New Management."

But to neglect the successes made by our retiring staff of editors and writers—to dismiss lightly the debt of gratitude we owe them for the newspaper experience learned under their guidance—would violate a long-standing tradition among the journalistic elite.

And so we, the new staff, extend our sincere thanks to the retiring staff and in particular to Tom Doyle, our former Editor-in-Chief, for his untiring, and we hope, successful efforts in training this staff; and to Bob Funabashi, for his deft handling of the sports section despite trying conditions. Together with the other retiring members they have left a high standard which we shall endeavor to maintain.

—R. T. C.

A Summer's Day

IN SEPTEMBER of 1939, when the Class of '43 started their career, little did they realize that even before the Class of '42 would be graduated, college students would be called upon to do a task of magnitude almost beyond conception. If you will remember, September of 1939 was the month in which Germany invaded Poland and started the turmoil which through the course of time and events has enveloped the United States.

Now that we are at war we have been asked to make many sacrifices, and we will be asked to make many more. But of all the sacrifices the student has been asked to make that which would affect him most is the one which affects his greatest interest, his studies and curriculum.

Many schools have adopted an accelerated course of studies. Villanova has considered a similiar course and, to co-operate fully, has gone through with it.

This means that in a calendar year you will have three scholastic semesters. Each semester will have as many hours work as each of the previous two semesters. The answer to the "speed-up" is more lecture hours per week. If you have to attend classes more hours than you do now, then you must give up "free nights" so that you can do the extra amount of studying. Not only that, but you must also give up your holidays, including the summer vacation. This means that you will have to work on hot July afternoons and study on hot July nights.

Dances and other types of social life may have to be curtailed somewhat. Many of your privileges and entertainments will have to be put aside. All in all, you will have quite a different and more difficult schedule. It will require more time, more concentration, and more planning.

When we speak of you we mean every student. Although the accelerated courses are optional, the sacrifices will be the same for all. The greatest and perhaps only reason for not taking the accelerated course would be to work during the summer months so that you may return to school in the fall. But again industry is being called upon to make sacrifices.

—T. C. M.

VILLANOVAN

Issued twen'y-five times a year from Villanova College, Villanova, Pa.

THOMAS F. DEVINE, '43	Editor-in-Chief
JACQUES E. MAUCH, '43	Sports Editor
ROBERT F. YOUNG, '44	College Editor
WARD C. GUNCHEON, '43	Managing Editor
ROBERT T. CANFIELD, '43	Copy Editor
THOMAS C. MURASKI, '43	Literary Editor
EUGENE P. SMITH, 43	Business Manager
LORING A. JONES, '43	Advertising Manager
RAYMOND G. AMICONE, '43	Photography Editor
NICHOLAS C. ENI, '43	Circulation Manager
LOUIS J. ESPOSITO, '43	Exchange Editor

Columnists

E. F. Bennis, '43 S. J. Canning, '43

Staff Writers

F. Bagot, '43; A. Berenato, '45; H. Binder, '44; J. Bongiovanni, '43; J. Coleman, '43; W. Craven, '43; L. DeSimone, '44; D. Ehart, '45; T. McFarland, '45; J. McWilliams, '45; J. Mahoney, '43; J. Murray, '45; J. Nunemaker, '43; J. Quinn, 44; F. Reese, '43; D. Sauers, '44; T. Schubert, '45; J. Tortoreto, '44; W. Walsh, '44; S. Zeeman, '45.

Business Assistants

C. Callahan, '43 W. Golden, '45
H. C. O'Connor, Jr., '45 J. Walsh, '43

Circulation Assistants

J. Correale, '44 L. Hood, '45
F. Facciolo, '45 J. Keays, '44
G. Giacchino, '44 J. Monroe, '44

Photography Staff

L. Eni, '44 E. Mancuso, '45

Faculty Advisor—Rev. Edward B. McKee, O. S. A.

This paper is dedicated to one of the finest men who ever entered Villanova; scholar, athlete, gentleman — LEO GOODREAU

Subscription: $2.00 per year. Circulation: 3500.
Entered as second class matter at the Villanova Post Office December 27, 1928.

Member of Associated Collegiate Press; Distributor of Collegiate Digest.
Member of Catholic School Press Association, Catholic College Press Association, and National Scholastic Press Association.

TUESDAY • • • • • • • JANUARY 20, 1942

Our Way Is Clear

THESE are troublous times in which we live. The irrational desires of unscrupulous men have resulted in a chaotic condition the like of which could hardly have been foreseen by the wildest of dreamers.

Most of the civilized world is engaged in the most uncivilized of practices, that of creatures killing others of their own species. Against the forces of such unnatural men the United States has aligned itself to avenge the base murder committed on a peaceful Sunday morning. . . . . .

Schools are not sheltered retreats where we may escape for a time the harsher realities of the rude combat. They have been asked to assume a full share in the war effort of their country. How well they have answered the request is indicated by the intensification of curricula to enable students to complete their education before entering the armed forces.

Under these conditions do we assume the positions entrusted to us by our school. As war has broadened rather than confined the vistas of education, so has it commensurately increased the duties which are ours.

The unprecedented acceleration, not only in education, but in every activity of life, might well result in a loss of mental balance and a consequent disruption of our scale of values. This is the thing most to be avoided. If we allow our values to be conditioned by the changing events of the world then ours is a sorry lot indeed.

Our path in an uncertain world is clear. We shall hew strictly to the line of what we know to be right. We pledge our complete and unequivocal co-operation to our country and our school. We join with our Supreme Pontiff in the sincere prayer that the tragic conflict will soon be brought to an end and that men will once more realize that there is a God whose laws must be recognized.

These, then, are the aims of the VILLANOVAN during the coming year. We realize the demands that are to be made on every student and we welcome them as an opportunity of showing our undying loyalty—for God, for country, for Villanova.

—T. F. D.

For Ben

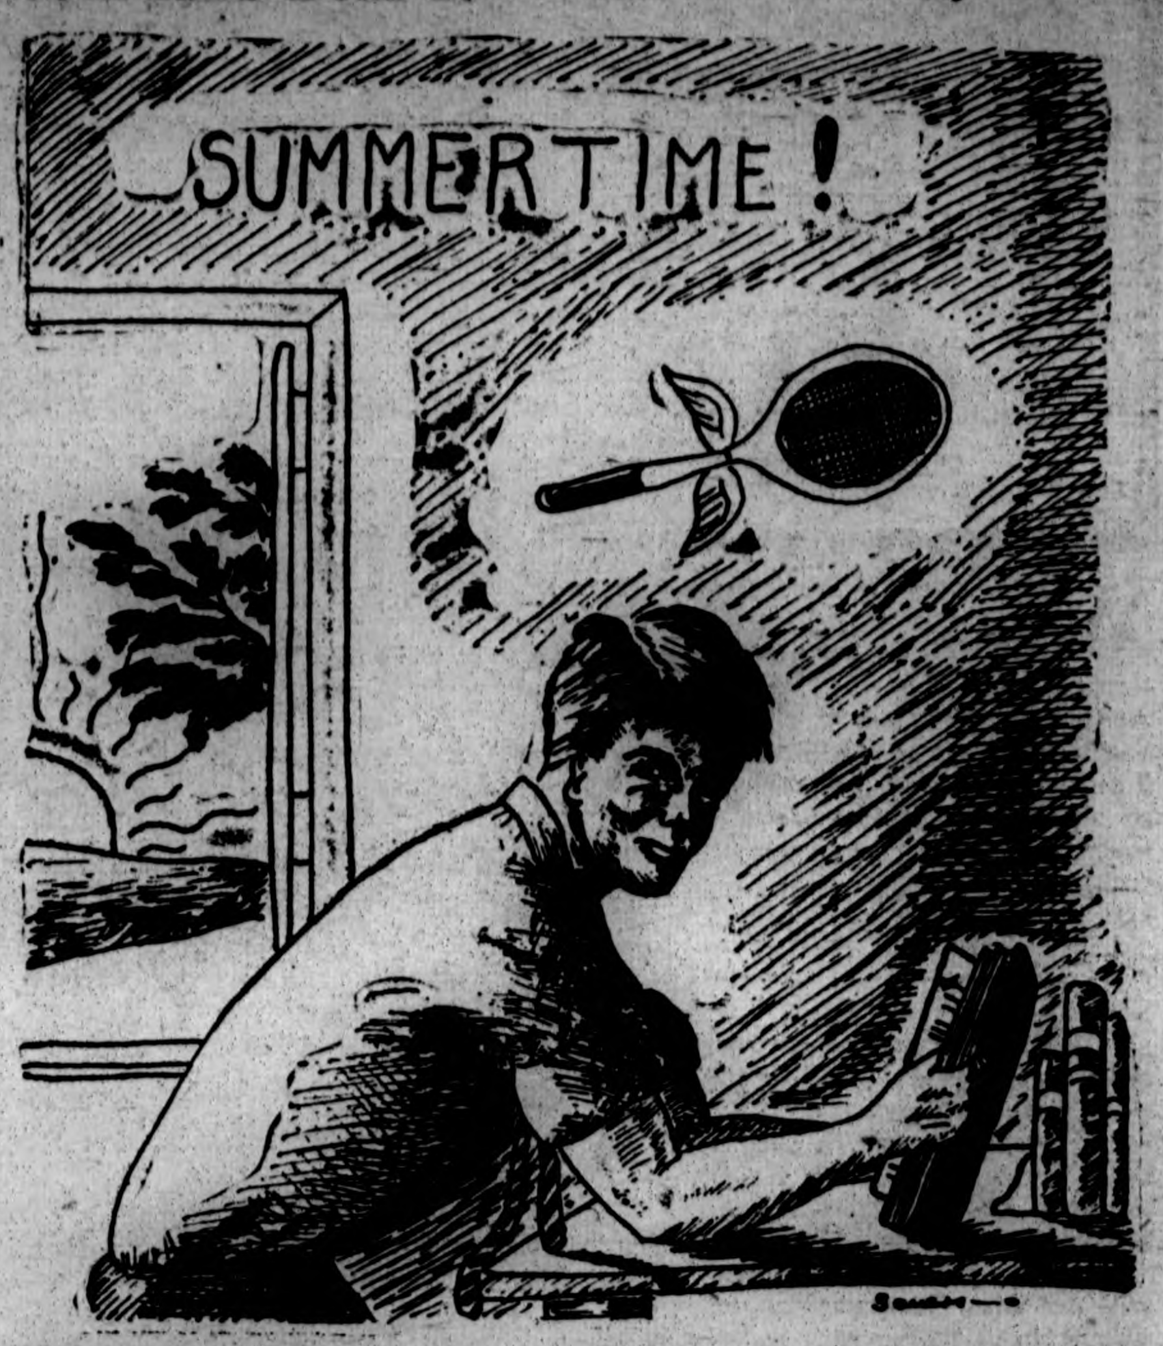
THE suddenness of Ben Mahoney's death has found the VILLANOVAN lacking in words to express the sincere regret which is felt by those who knew him personally or by reputation.

Masses to be offered Wednesday and Thursday in the college chapel are the remaining channels through which we can show our admiration and profound sorrow.

Paradoxically, his death has brought his name from the hall of memories to an outstanding position. His accomplishments, both in college and military service, are now before us as an example of what is to be expected from us in this crisis.

Our only hope is that we may equal the standards of our former editor.

Grin And Bear It - - - - by SAUERS



FACULTY COMMENTS

Our Course In These Times

By FR. DOUGHERTY

ONCE again, in the comparative brief span of twenty-five years, the hallowed walls of Alma Mater re-echo the ominous and awesome word, "WAR!"

When the radio waves crackled the report of the treacherous attack upon Pearl Harbor, the hearts of millions of Americans, young and old, were stirred with deep emotion. The older citizens experienced dismay and sorrow, for the memory of Belleau Wood, Chateau-Thierry and the Argonne loomed larger as sacrifices made vainly in the attempt to end all wars. The hearts of our youth were moved with a burning desire to avenge the insult, an insult rendered the more bitter because it had been leveled at our defenders under the olive branch of peace.

Need for Sacrifice

Whatever be our feelings of dismay, sorrow or patriotism, one fact stands out clearly and boldly: all of us must be prepared to make whatever sacrifices that are entailed for the ultimate triumph of our glorious country. Too long have Americans harbored the delusion that, through man-made schemes and vain programs the sorrows and afflictions which have always beset mankind, could be averted from our country. In the inscrutable designs of Divine Providence, America is once again faced with the awful reality of war. Words and arguments are useless now; we must perforce adopt the philosophy so aptly used by the sorely-tried French, "C'est la guerre!"

Invoke Divine Aid

This is a time for practical realization of spiritual values. In the crisis which impends, Americans need divine assistance to sustain them. Let us call upon our Blessed Mother, Mary the Mother of Sorrows, who will comfort us and sustain us in our hour of tribulation. Let every Villanova man carry with him and recite the Rosary. Wear the medal of Our Lady and she will guide and protect you in this valley of tears.

Road To Peace

WHEN and where can it be found, that peace of which the world has deprived itself? Who shall be the victim that will deliver us from the scourge of the war now engulfing the universe? What nation shall bow in defeat to some conqueror and thus create a foundation upon which subsequent treaties and peace terms can be consummated?

These are the questions which many are asking, and they are the wrong questions. The world has not been deprived of peace; it has discarded it. There shall be no deliverance in the forced acquisition of a victim, for conquest—suppression, are not and cannot be guarantees of triumph. Nor can pacts and agreements assure themselves the restoration of civil conduct throughout the universe.

True Peace cannot be wrought in this manner, for the world, of itself, cannot give it to us. The only peace which can be ours is that which is founded in the Divine. To come from Him it must embody His laws and teachings, which have so long been shelved.

That is why the Holy Father, Pope Pius XII, has beseeched Catholics of the whole world to Pray for peace. This is the reason why he has offered to the world this appeal for peace:

O God, from Whom proceed all holy desires, all right counsels and just works; grant unto us Thy servants that peace which the world cannot give, that our hearts may be devoted to Thy service, and that, being delivered from the fear of our enemies, we may pass our time in peace under Thy protection. Through Christ our Lord, Amen.

Campus Capers

By
Ed
Bennis

WITH this week's issue your new columnist timidly begins his duties of reporting —mind you, I said reporting—the various activities and ramblings of the lads about the campus and far-flung countryside. First of all, we think that we should make a statement or two of our policy for the coming year and we will diligently attempt to follow it.

1. We will pass the news on to you as it reaches our ears or as we see it ourselves.

2. We will attempt to give the schools that cater to the fairer sex —Rosemont, Chestnut Hill, Immaculata, and any others that we may come into contact with—an equal amount of attention in our ramblings.

3. Last, but far from least, we will not play favorites to any particular school or group on the campus.

Now, to get into the serious aspect of the social goings-on of the many Romeos about the campus.

* * *

SOCIAL WHIRL:

This past week has seen a fast and furious quickening of campus activities that have been more or less dormant since the holidays. Last Tuesday evening, the VILLANOVAN held its annual dinner-dance at the General Wayne Inn in order to bid adieu to the old staff and welcome the new. All the lads were present in their best bibs and tuckers and many a lovely young lady was seen with them. Tom Doyle, retiring editor, was given a gift by the staff and this prompted Bob McIntyre to ask if it was mustache wax . . . such a silly question. If you would look a little closer, Bob, you would see that Tom's adornment could not stand the shock of mustache wax.

D. P. E.'s annual Financiers' Frolic on Friday brought many of the boys out of their temporary winter hibernation. They were well rewarded. Co-chairmen Bob Koness and Dan Haley ran a very successful dance for the business men. Among those seen dancing about the dimly-lit floor were Bill Dillon, Ward Guncheon, Sam Canning, Jack Dudley and Johnny Green.

Sunday night witnessed the annual Rosemont-Villanova choral concert in the Field house. . . Fr. Handran and the singers deserve high praise. After the concert the local lads renewed old friendships —or tried to — with the bevy of brunettes, blondes, and redheads from across the way.

* * *

IMPROVEMENTS:

The coat-hangers that have been placed in the Pie Shoppe. . . Better be careful, Louie, some of the fellows will start looking for a valet to hang up their coats.

* * *

TID-BITS:

It's a shame the way little Ed Jones picks on footballer Ben Danik in class . . . maybe our halfback should eat more Wheaties or try vitamin injections. . . Prof. Dougherty says that the coming song hit is "There'll Be Low Marks Over Villanova" . . . he might be right at that. . . "Major" Gray is nervously awaiting acceptance either in the army or medical school . . . well, he'll have plenty of company in the army.

"Elk" Murray is being very quiet about his relations with Betty these days . . . perhaps he and the light of his life have had a little squabble. . . Wonder whether Willie Rafetto enjoyed last Friday night? Seems that he made a date with a certain pretty young friend of Scotty's to go to a party . . . well ,the party was called off and Willie—with his date—went to dinner and a show to the tune of $15. Scotty is now laughing at Willie, who is rather broke and disgusted . . . the big wolf.

Cozy Andy Melton likes to "Remember Pearl Harbor" for certain reasons . . . and none of the reasons have anything to do with the war. It's a rather long story, but our hero will tell you the more intimate details. Engineer Bill Steward would like to use his head for an atom-buster . . . we don't profess to know, but doctors say that anything like that tends to bust the skull at the same time.

Meet The Boys: John's A Success Of The Small Town Lads; The I. R. C. Is One Of Jerry's Fads

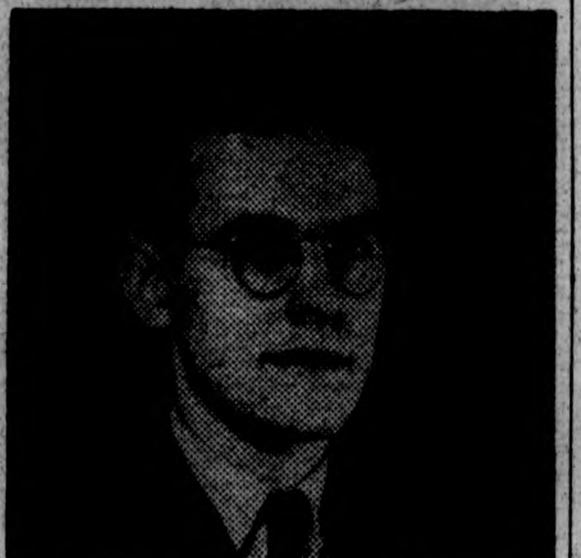
By TOM SCHUBERT

FROM the little hamlet of Gardenville in Bucks County comes one of the year's outstanding seniors. It was on December 21, 1921, that John P. Fullam made his debut into life a few miles from the teeming metropolis of Doylestown, Pa.

John spent eight years in Gardenville Grade School's one room, and, like all "country gentlemen," insists that no better elementary education is offered anywhere. Upon graduation he entered Doylestown, High School.

A Busy Man

Here he immediately proceeded to make a name for himself by becoming active in virtually every department of school life. Besides staying consistently near the top of the honor roll, he was co-editor of the school paper, served on the year book staff, and was active in the debating society. Confining his interest in sports to a managerial capacity, he acted as a track manager and assistant football manager. The school chorus benefited by his fine singing voice, and several dramatic productions numbered Fullam among their personnel.



In June, 1938, in open competition with several hundred students, John came out the winner of a scholarship to Villanova. It would be impossible to pick out any one thing as his outstanding accomplishment here, for he rose to the top of nearly every activity in which he participated.

Feature Writer

For three years he was a staff writer on the VILLANOVAN, and in his last year he overshadowed all his predecessors as Feature Editor with the excellence of his writings. As College Editor of the 1942 Belle Air, he will be largely responsible for whatever success that publication achieves.

His work for three years in connection with Beta Gamma, college debating society, resulted in his being appointed to the difficult position of manager of that organization in his senior year. He has been a member of the choral society since his freshman year, and last year he was chosen to sing with the male quartet. This year he serves as secretary to the singers.

The members of Epsilon Phi Theta fraternity, with which he has been associated for two years, have selected him as their current representative on the student council. He is a member of the International Relations Club, and was a frequent attendant at the History Seminar in his freshman year.

High Marks, Too

In the spare time left over from these activities, John manages to stay at the top of the education school honor roll. He expects to begin practice teaching in his major subject, Latin, sometime in February at Upper Darby High School.

John hasn't much to say about his social life, but confesses to a fear that some of the "good-looking blondes" at Upper Darby will prove to be disciplinary problems. What makes him associate blondes with problems w haven't been able to discover.

John returns home each summer and does farm work. However, he denies any connection between the knowledge he gains in the corn fields during the summer and the calibre of his frequent "puns."

A PROVERBIALLY "good thing in a little package" is Gerard F. Belz, senior artsman. Born in Atlantic City on March 9, 1920, Jerry moved with his family to Philadelphia a year later and has lived there ever since.

His grammar school days were spent at the Incarnation in Olney, where was promptly established a precedent which he has never forsaken: that of appearing on the honor rolls.

At St. Joseph's Prep., where he spent his next four years, Jerry proved efficient in everything he tried. He was made sports editor of the school magazine, the "Chronicle," and of the year book. When he turned his hand to sports, he merited three letters on the varsity tennis team and became high-scorer in the intra-mural basketball league. In connection with the schol sodality, he was appointed a counsellor; and in his junior year, he was elected class officer. In his last year he served on the dance committee.

Heads I. R. C.

On coming to Villanova four years ago, Jerry immediately set out on a college career to match his high school life in many respects. He became a member of the Choral Society in his first year; in his sophomore year he was manager; and in his junior year he was secretary and treasurer. After two years in the International Relations Club, he was elected to the presidency of that organization in his senior year.

For four years he has been a staff writer for the VILLANOVAN and during the past year most of the weekly cartoons have borne the name of Belz. He is also a member of the Arts fraternity. Other organizations to which he has belonged at various times include the Radio Club and Beta Gamma.

A Postman

Most of Jerry's leisure hours for the past few years, in the evening during the school year and all day during the summer, have been spent working at the Post Office. This year he took on the added task of attending journalism school at night. He hopes to engage in some kind of journalistic work after graduation.

Jerry's social life seems inevitably bound up with International Relations. His interest in the good-neighbor policy is said to be fostered by an admiration for a certain young neighbor two doors removed, whose initials are Marie.

His colleagues in the International Relations Club will never let him forget the time when their very self-possessed president knocked over a fruit cocktail at a Lehigh University dinner.

Students Express Varied Opinions On Plan For Accelerated Program

By TOM McFARLAND

With the results of the student vote concerning the accelerated program of study still in the Registrar's office, it is almost impossible to judge how the students themselves feel about the new system. A good method of ascertaining the feelings of the student body is to conduct a cross section poll of opinion. It is, therefore, with a resigned spirit that we submit the following candid quotations. We know that they mean nothing; we feel, however, that they may prove interesting, if nothing else.

Majority Approve

The general run of students approve the scheme; their reasons are varied.

Nick Eni, a junior in the science school, feels that the plan is "excellent for those fellows who contemplate entering medical school and later serving in the Army as doctors." Jim Bonner, sophomore engineers: "Good chance to get degree early." John Kirchner, senior engineer, and president of senior class: "The college is doing its part. The plan may give those about to be drafted a chance to finish school. It's a good idea."

Advantages Cited

Jim Connelly, sophomore artsman reasons, "It's fairly hard getting used to the prospect of school in the summer, but since it is necessary, and to our own advantage, we should waste no time in putting the plan into practice." George Harris, Junior Education: "Very good idea; it seems to be the only solution to a very pressing problem." Don Speese, senior in the science school: "Perfect idea. It gives the underclassmen a chance to graduate, and perhaps, to obtain a commission."

End of Social Life

Robert Bolger, sophomore in the C & F school, presents a new angle: "The new system will mean the elimination of many social activities, and the end of college life as such; but it is the only answer. This is merely the beginning of our sacrifices. We will be called upon to make very many more for the good of our country."

William Walpole, junior class president: "The program gives many students a chance to receive their degrees who would otherwise have found it impossible. Since the system is voluntary it will not work too much hardship on the student."

Dissenting Opinions

So far we have presented only one side of the question. There were a few "nays" on our pad when we were finished asking the pertinent question. Thus far we have heard only those who feel that the college is lending the student untold aid by the adoption of the new accelerated system. Here is the other side.

William Craven, a junior in the commerce school, states:

"I do not relish the prospect of going to school during the summer months. Every student both needs and appreciates a break in the school term. With a well-spent summer behind, he is physically refreshed and eagerly awaits the start of a new term."

James Finnegan, Sophomore C. & F.; "Definitely disapprove of the plan. Many students, myself included, find it necessary to work during the summer months. The loss of the summer vacation will hurt me financially, so that I may be unable to continue my education."

This last opinion was reiterated often as we went the rounds. However, the student who desire to continue with the four year plan may find solace in the fact that the new system is not compulsory. One may do what he wishes; the new program is optional.

Keep Abreast Of Events

Tuesday, Jan. 20—
VILLANOVAN Staff Meeting	1:00 P. M.
Junior Class Meeting	1:00 P. M.
International Relations Club	2:30 P. M.
Wednesday, Jan. 21—
Music Seminar	12:30 P. M.
VILLANOVAN Applicants	1:00 P. M.
Kappa Gamma Sigma	1:30 P. M.
Spanish Club	7:00 P. M.
Thursday, Jan. 22—
Science Forum	10:45 A. M.
Delta Pi Epsilon	11:45 A. M.
Friday, Jan. 23—
Lambda Kappa Delta	1:00 P. M.
Saturday, Jan. 24—
Varsity Basketball: Villanova vs. Muhlenberg (Allentown, Pa.)	8:00 P. M.
Monday, Jan. 26—
Mid-year Examinations Begin	9:00 A. M.

Amusing
The Muse

By a Typical Villanova Student

Two days ago, last Sunday eve,
Our Field House was the scene
Of one of the biggest concerts we've
—Recently, at least—seen.

The hall was filled with audience,
Both relatives and others,
Who paid their nine and ninety cents
To hear sons, daughters, sisters or brothers.

The music we knew naught about
—How excellent it was—
So criticism we shall leave
To better men than us.

The solos, and the harp duet,
Some say, were simply swell,
We really thought so too, and yet
We'd scarcely time to tell.

All we could do was roll and whirl
Our eyes, in glances keen—
We know now why 'tis said,
"Those girls
Are seldom heard: they're seen!"

The Trading Post

By
Lou
Esposito

ON behalf of the Tally Ho readers here's for a successful and happy future to our retired Exchange Editor, Bruno Talvacchia. Tally Ho, Bruno.

On a mule behind, two feet we find,
And two we find before.
We look behind before we find
What two behind be for.

—St. Joe Chronicle.

* * *

Worth Repeating:

"Those having lamps will pass them on to others." In these darkened days is there any more stimulating greeting than these words of Plato? To hold fast to faith in troublous times is the test of character which endures. No blackout can dim that valiant spirit which shines unconquered no matter how rough the way, which pierces the murk to meet the dawn of a better world. For seventy-four years we have upheld and guarded our beacon of kindness, justice and mercy to every living thing. Every passing decade has contributed increasing numbers to the ranks of those who, having seen the light, kindle the torches of neighbors. The day will come when present evil will be vanquished and the rays of love and charity gleam more brightly along the path of humanity in its upward climb toward the stars: the words of Winston Churchill, "A light, calm and resplendent, which will shine over all the lands and over all the seas."

—S. P. C. A. Animaldom.

* * *

Chicken Feed:

Three managers of chicken farms in Russia, so the story goes, were being questioned by an investigator. "What do you feed your chickens?" "Corn."

"You're under arrest. We use corn to feed people."

The second heard this conversation and tried to play safe.

"What do you feed your chickens?" the question came.

"Cornhusks."

"You're under arrest. We use cornhusks to make cloth. And you?" he asked, turning to the third man.

"I give my chickens the money and tell them to go buy their own food."

Marquette U. Journal.

* * *

Taking Shortage Seriously:

The following sign was reported seen in a restaurant in Houston, Texas: "Use less sugar and stir like h——; we don't mind the noise."

* * *

What's Holding Us Together:

According to the census bureau (and they ought to know), it takes more than twelve million gross, or nearly one hundred and fifty million safety pins to do the job safety pins do in this country.

* * *

Profiteering:

"We'd rather do business with ten Japs than one American," reads a sign displayed in the window of a mid-city funeral parlor.

* * *

Intermission:

He put his arm around her
The color left her cheek,
It stayed upon his overcoat
For just about a week.

Utah Chronicle.

* * *

From "The Comedian" we quote an apt description which may be shortly applied to not a few seniors:

Break, break, break,
On the cold gray stones, O sea.
But I'll bet you could break for forty years,
And not be as broke as me.

* * *

Better Get Started:

The following article is reprinted from the Franklin & Marshall "Student Weekly." It is part of the technique used to pass the finals and is known as "Paving the Way": "One week before the exams, start studying. Then every time you know the answer, volunteer. Naturally, after a week of volunteering, the prof will think you've been studying all year."

Notice—Not responsible for any effects contracted from the above advice.

First Villanova M. D. Returns To Tell Science Forum Of New X-Ray Method

By FRANCIS A. REESE

Charles Heiken, M. D., Villanova alumnus and at present a recognized X-ray and heart specialist, returned here last Thursday to speak before the Science Forum. His topic was "New Developments in X-ray Technique."

Dr. Heiken was the first member of the pre-medical school to become a physician. He was in his sophomore year when the School of Science was founded by Rev. Edward G. Dohan, O. S. A., in 1914. He promptly became a member of the school—at that time it was a part of the Arts School—and took up his pre-medical studies.

On leaving Villanova in 1916 Dr. Heiken matriculated at the University of Pennsylvania Medical School, from which he was graduated in 1920. At present he is associated with the Fitzgerald-Mercy Hospital.

Inventor a Layman

The story of the discovery of this new technique is as noteworthy from the viewpoint of human interest as is the story of its development and effects from a viewpoint of medical science. The inventor was not a physician, but a layman.

Louis Keiffer was a patient at a sanatorium in White Haven when the authorities there installed X-ray equipment for the first time. While being treated for tuberculosis he became interested in X-ray work. Before he was discharged he applied for the position as technician there. Inasmuch as he was affectionately known as "the itch," the authorities thought it best to the interests of all concerned to deny his request. Events took their course and the paths of Dr. Heiken (on the staff there at that time) and Keiffer diverged.

New Theory Offered

Several years intervened and in 1934 the two again met. At this time Keiffer revealed his plan for an improvement of the ordinary X-ray technique to Heiken. Keiffer thought that more depth could be attained in an X-ray picture if the energy source (X-ray tube) and the film above the patient were moved in opposite directions at the same speed. This made use of the same principle which applies to an individual who in traveling past a picket fence in an automobile does not see the pickets.

This was a radical departure from the procedure which had been in use for many years. The effect of this new technique was to eliminate the shadows of the ribs and to allow for greater freedom in the observation of lung tissue.

Dr. Heiken became interested in Keiffer's theory and the two worked out plans which, after consultations with other X-ray men, they took to several engineers. They produced a model for taking this new type of X-ray picture. The model produced the results which Keiffer had predicted and another link was added to the knowledge in the field of medicine.

New X-rays Shown

In conjunction with his talk, Dr. Heiken presented several stereoscopic projections. These demonstrated the new technique which produces a picture known as a planogram. This is an improvement over the older type of X-ray pictures. Planograms not only eliminate the shadows of the ribs but also enable exposure of cavities on the lungs because of the greater depth perception. This was impossible with the older type of X-ray pictures. Planograms are now extensively used in the diagnosis of tuberculosis.

Today Louis Keiffer, who several years ago was known as "the itch," is now the director of all X-ray work in Connecticut.

Seniors Relinquish Positions On Managing Board

One the left is WILLIAM E. SCHUBERT, arts student, who, after four years on the staff, has retired as MANAGING EDITOR, prior to which he was COPY EDITOR.

HOWARD A. MCCALL, another arts student at *right, finishes up four years of newspaper work, the last of which he acted as LITERARY EDITOR.

Directly above is JOHN T. GALLAGHER, of the commerce school, who held the post of BUSINESS MANAGER for three years.

Again at the left is another commerce man, THOMAS A. SULLIVAN. After three years as a writer, he became COPY EDITOR.

On the right is JOHN P. FULLAM, of the arts school, who leaves his position as FEATURE EDITOR.

Book Club Lists Current "Bests"

Most of the leading fictional and non-fictional works currently attributed as being best sellers in the New York "Herald Tribune" analysis of "What America is reading" are now obtainable in the circulation collection of the Club.

The first three leading fictional works, "Windswept," by Mary Ellen Chase; "Saratoga Trunk," by Edna Ferber, and "The Keys of the Kingdom," by A. J. Cronin, have been on the club's list since it again became active this year. "Berlin Diary," by William L. Shirer, together with "The Secret History of the American Revolution," "A Treasury of Gilbert & Sullivan," and "Reveille in Washington" are all rated as being among the first seven most popular non-fictional works in America today.

"Botany Bay," by Nordhoff & Hall, and "All that Glitters," by Frances Parkinson Keyes are also among the leading fictional works, while Bellamy Partridge's "Big Family" and Helen Clapesattle's "The Doctors Mayo" receive first rating among the non-fictional works.

The last named work is a biography of the two brothers who founded the Mayo Clinic and who, incidentally, received honorary degrees here at Villanova.

Briefs On The News

Fr. Stanford Addresses Trenton Alumni; Naval Reserve Examinations for Engineers To Be Held Jan. 23 and 24

The freshman debating squad has been invited by the debaters of Norristown High School to meet in a discussion of the question of compulsory military service in peacetime.

It was announced by Rev. Robert M. Sullivan, O. S. A., moderator of the group, that any freshmen who intend to be active on the varsity squad next year must attend the meetings and compete in the matches this year in order to be eligible.

Speaking before the Villanova Club of Trenton, N. J., on Monday night, Jan. 12, Very Rev. Edward V. Stanford, O. S. A., president of the college, told how the school was reacting to the current war situation. He explained the new acceleration plan of three semesters a year instead of two, and how this program will affect the student body and faculty.

Others who spoke to the 35 alumni present from the Trenton area were Daniel Pacenta, president of the club; John P. Keffer, president of the alumni association; and William G. Slaughter, alumni secretary.

The number of applicants for the Naval Reserve who have enrolled at the office of the dean of engineering has now reached a total of sixty-seven.

On Jan. 23 and 24 the Navy will conduct physical examinations for the enrollees. A doctor, a dentist and two orderlies will be in the infirmary from 9:30 A. M. to submit the candidates to the required physical examinations. As two men must be called every twenty minutes, all men must report to the office of the dean of engineering to have their names put on the schedule for examination.

William Cabrera, junior commerce student, by means of a travelogue, conducted the members of the Spanish Club through the isle of Puerto Rico at their weekly meeting last Wednesday evening.

During the course of his remarks, Cabrera placed particular emphasis on the patriotism and religious faith of the Puerto Ricans. "Though we live below the equator and speak a different tongue, we are all Americans," he said.

In summing up the attitudes held by his countrymen, who are predominantly Catholics, Cabrera added, "The tempo of all the island inhabitants is ever aimed at the goal of faithful duty toward God and country." Carbrera traced the history of the island and pointed out the strategically important position it occupies in hemisphere defense.

Interviews of seniors in the engineering school will be conducted Feb. 28 by a representative of the Bethlehem Steel Corporation. The interviews will be arranged by the Placement Service.

During the past week, senior mechanical and civil engineering students met with M. J. Bergen, representative of the DuPont Company. Formal offers will be sent to those students who meet with the company's qualifications.

James M. Sullivan, freshman science student, addressed the Research Seminar last Thursday on the topic, "Photo-chemistry."

In his dissertation, Sullivan pointed out the important part played by photochemistry in the fields of biology, chemistry, and physics. He also discussed the application and relationship of photochemistry to these sciences.

There will be no meeting of the Research Seminar this Thursday because of the mid-year examinations scheduled for next week.

Two Leave Posts On College Weekly

ALBERT D'ALONZO ROBERT F. DONOVAN

After covering Villanova's activities for the past year, Albert D'Alonzo, engineering student, retires as Photography Editor. Also relinquishing his position is Robert F. Donovan, of the commerce school, who finished serving as Subscription Manager with last week's issue.

"Ex" Recalls

Continued From Page One

heads were dropped and replaced by modern ones.

Unforgettable Joe Barnes teamed up with him to produce a sports section that was second to none—and opinions that feared none. Fiery Andy D'Angelo, Gus "If He's Living, I'll Get His Picture for You" Mancuso, Schisler, "Ming" Toy, Murray Zealor, George Flannery—another great bunch left the scene.

It was our turn. The paper's standards dropped when it got its editor, but—and I know I'm right—he got the best staff and editorial assistants since 1927 to see that the work was done and right.

We came in at a difficult time. A war was waging in Europe and the United States was girding. A fighting minority was doing all in its power to prevent the inevitable. It was a time of name-calling, of "lendleasers," of "war-mongers," of "America Firsters," of "all aid, short of war," of "national defense," of "get in before it's too late." The VILLANOVAN chose its path and stuck to it. We condoned "all aid, short of war" for Britain, Russia, and the others fighting the Axis; but we refused to sanction military involvement in World War II.

Then Came War

Then came Dec. 7, just before we were to retire. The Japanese put into action their long-laid plans and hit America at Pearl Harbor, in the Philippines, on Wake and Midway. The Axis followed in declaring war on the United States. It was war — against a foe who'll give no quarter.

We recognized the duty of our citizenry to stand 100% united against the aggressor . . . to fight until oppressive dictatorships are overthrown and the world is once more at peace.

And so we stepped out of collegiate journalism as our war effort gathered momentum, into a world we did not recognize . . . but into a world we are detemined must become a happier place in which to live, a rational earth.

As is the habit with torches, the torch of the VILLANOVAN was flung to the new staff . . . a staff that will find it harder than ever before to keep the torch burning. A staff that faces the task of putting out the paper during a busy wartime . . . of keeping close-track of developments that affect Villanova and interpreting them . . . of publishing the VILLANOVAN until May, as usual, and then continuing on to put it out during the summer. We don't envy their task one bit, but we admire them.

And now we're out, studying harder than before, making sacrifices, preparing.

Music Seminar Sponsors Quiz Contest Wednesday

A musical guessing contest will be conducted by Dr. Edward L. Haenisch tomorrow afternoon, during the meeting of the Music Seminar which will begin promptly at one o'clock in the Mendel amphitheatre and is open to all students.

The participants will be asked to identify both the title and the composer of each of the twenty selections chosen for the quiz by Dr. Haenisch. The type of music will vary from the regular classics to the lighter and more popular semi-classics.

A prize of one dollar's worth of Victor Red Seal records will be awarded to the student making the greatest number of correct choices. In the event of a tie, a duplicate prize will be arranged.

There will also be a half-hour of miscellaneous selections before the contest begins at one o'clock. These pieces have been chosen at random from famous operas and musical scores.

Seminar Discusses Math Use In Music

"Mathematics in Music" was the subject of a paper delivered by Robert P. Koob, junior chemical engineering student, before last Friday evening's meeting of the Mathematics Seminar.

The paper was not only devoted to the uses of mathematical patterns in music but also the different types of sound waves. With the use of the oscillograph, Koob demonstrated the various types of sound waves and how they differ from each other. Two musical instruments, the trombone and the occarina, were used in the demonstration. He climaxed his talk with a method of determining the pitch of tones created by the wind blowing through either trees or rigging. "Given the velocity of the wind and the thickness of the obstacle, it is possible to tell the note or pitch of the tone sounded," he explained. The seminar was also shown the method of analyzing sound waves through the use of Fournier's equation.

The next meeting of the seminar is scheduled for February 20. Thomas C. Muraski, chemical engineering student, is slated to speak on "Tricks in Mathematics." For the following meeting, Joseph Dorsey, senior engineer, will speak on "Magical Squares."

The seminar is considering for the near future joint meetings to include the Mathematics Clubs of Chestnut Hill and Immaculata Colleges.

VILLANOVAN SPORTS

Sportorial

By Jake Mauch
Sports Editor

IT is with deep misgivings that we bid adieu to ex-editor Bob Funabashi, whose complacent countenance graces the two column spread next door. To Bob we are greatly indebted for his guidance during the past year, breaking us in to take over the post he vacated last week.

We also owe thanks to our first two bosses, Phil Dunn, and that Westbrook Pegler edition of Villanova sports writers, Joe Barnes, for initiating us into this business. But it was Bob Funabashi who orientated us into the heavy duties which we are about to undertake, and we're going to miss the guiding hand. We already found that out this past week-end.

Before this same Mr. Funabashi passes from the sports public's eye, we wish to mention something that most fans overlook. He was supporting losing teams during his term as editor; that is, losing teams in view of the past Wildcat athletic records, and this is tough on any editor. But Bob did a fine job and it is our firm hope to continue the good work.

Those forecasters of college sports, who predicted several weeks ago that schools would use freshmen for varsity athletics next year seem to have been at least half-right, anyway. We see that several colleges, including Dartmouth, have already adopted the plan. Probably all the smaller colleges and universities will either take to the plan voluntarily or be forced to adopt it because of lack om material.

Here, at Villanova, it has been given much consideration and it is possible that it will be used by all varsity coaches, especially Clipper Smith. But nothing is definite until the Athletc Board meets to discuss it.

In view of the conditions prevailing at this time in colleges, with students cramming courses in order to finish in three years and with more students being drafted every week, we think this policy should be adopted here. It would be beneficial to coach, athlete, and fan.

SPORTORIAL
Continued on Page Seven

I-M Sports Grow In New Program

Four Extra Months of Baseball; Tennis, Golf, and Swimming Benefit

The accelerated program of study not only affects the scholastic side of things, but will also have a great part in stepping up the Intramural games, according to a statement issued last week by Fr. McKee, moderator.

Beginning June 1, and continuing until the end of the semester, the new sports program will include: baseball, of both the hard and soft varieties, swimming, tennis, and golf. It is doubtful that track will be included. Football, boxing and basketball have not been considered in the warm weather set-up.

Baseball Expanded

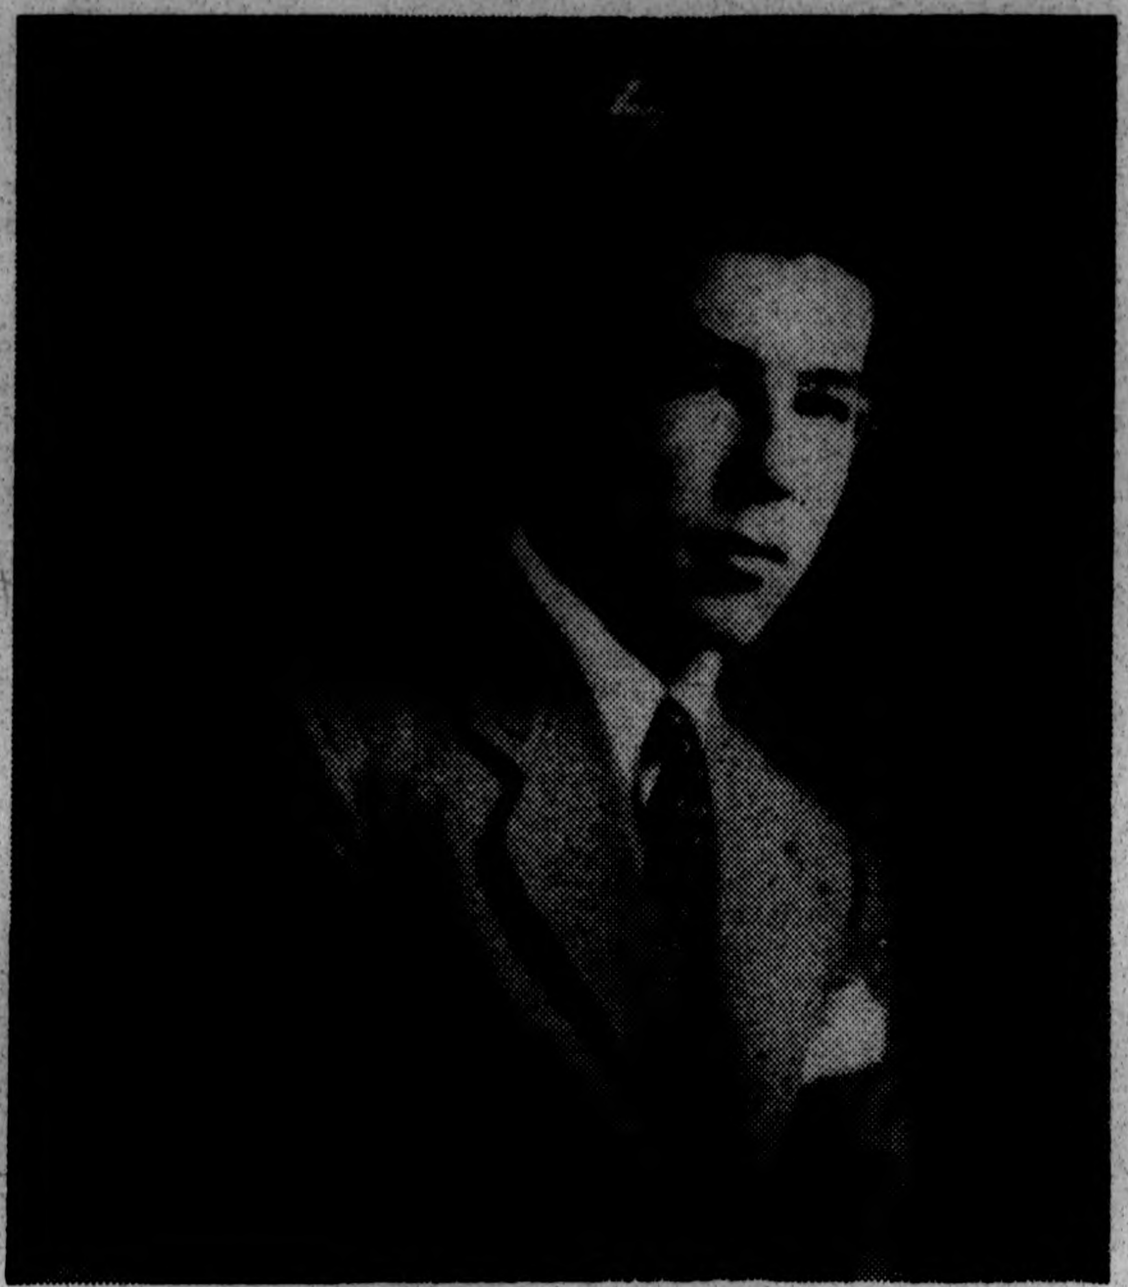
In former years the hardball and softball seasons extended for a mere four weeks; in the new system, these game will be played for approximately four months. The schedule will be as intense as that of basketball. So intense will it be, that is, so many games will be played, that it is very likely the semester will be divided into halves.

Tennis and golf are also helped by the new angle. The tournaments in these two sports will be held during the summer semester, rather than in the Spring. Intramural swimming will probably be the most popular of sports. The next swimming meet on the intramural schedule will take place during the Summer.

Schedules in Making

It is quite obvious that the intramural organizations will derive benefit from the accelerated program. The lack of time devoted to Spring and Summer sports has always been an objection. For the duration of the war, at least, students will have the opportunity of satiating their post-hibernation athletic desires. Schedules are still in embryo and they will be published in early Spring.

Curtain Call



ROBERT J. FUNABASHI
was elevated to the editor's chair, the position he held during the VILLANOVAN. Funabashi served three years on the staff before he was elevated to the editor's char, the position he held during the past year.

Cagers Split; Trounce Scranton, But Succumb To Albright Attack

Tommies Taken 45 - 39; Shollenberger Leads Lions to 50-40 Win Over 'Cats

By BILL WALSH

After being victorious in five consecutive contests when they defeated the powerful Scranton University cagers on Wednesday to the tune of 45-39, Villanova's up and down basketball team struck a tarter in the Albright Lions. Saturday night, when they were defeated in a hard fought contest 50-40. This defeat was a great surprise to all the Wildcats' rooters as it was generally felt that the Severance-men had finally hit their winning stride.

The Scranton game, witnessed by 3000 spectators, undoubtedly produced the best basketball shown this season by the Blue and White courtmen. The Tomcats, conquerors of Detroit and Geneva, were rated to be a very hot club, and on Wednesday evening they lived up to all their pre-game buildups. The Tommies led at the end of the first quarter, 11-9, but Klotz and Drizen began to apply the pressure and Villanova held the lead at halftime, 24-20.

Scranton Rallies

With Drizen really going to town in the third period, the Upstaters were buried under a barrage of field goals, and were fourteen points behind as the final quarter began. The Tomcats then put on a desperate rally which netted them sixteen points, but fell seven markers short of victory.

Boandl, the towering Purple pivotman, threw in three field goals and three fouls in this final period and was high scorer for Scranton with eleven points. For the Wildcats it was the sophomore combination again, as Chuck Drizen was high with seventeen, followed by Red Klotz with twelve.

Shollenberger Hot

Despite the brilliant efforts of Bill Wood, the junior setshot artist, who scored eighteen points on Saturday night, the Wildcats were upset by the surprisingly strong Albright quintet. The Reading team brought the 'Cats undefeated reign to an abrupt ending afer five games. The Crimson and White dribblers avenged their last season's 48-39 setback by virtue of a vastly superior passing attack, before more than 2500 frenzied fans.

With Capt. Dick Shollenberger, 1941 Eastern Pennsylvania Conference scoring leader on a rampage, the Wildcats faced a torrid session, in which the Lions outshot them 19 field goals to 15.

Red Klotz dropped a field goal eight seconds after the opening whistle to give Villanova a 2-0 lead,

ALBRIGHT
Continued on Page Seven

Rider, Seton Hall Met By Natators

The swimming team takes to the road this week and in the space of four days meets two foes in foreign tanks. Tomorrow, Coach Tom Moore takes his natators to Trenton to meet the Rider College swimmers, and on Saturday afternoon they will journey to South Orange, N. J., to face Seton Hall.

Rider is coached by Bill Moore, who, not only possesses the same cognomen as the Wildcat coach, but was likewise a former swimmer at the institution he coaches. In the last few years Rider has entered the swimming spotlight as one of the better small teams in the east and they have produced several natators who gained national prominence.

Hornyak Returns

This year they are minus six of last years' band that compiled a record of six wins and three losses; a team which nosed out Villanova, 39-36, in the final event of the contest. However, they still have the veterans Jim Berta, freestyler, Jules Kazarow, backstroker, and Captain George Hornyak, stellar diver of the past two seasons.

The loss of ex-captain Irwin Goodman, team strong man, was a heavy blow to the Bronchos. Goodman swam three events in every met during the year. He compiled a record of 87 points scored in nine dual meets.

Three days later the 'Cats will meet Seton Hall in their third swimming encounter of the season. Villanova did not meet the Setonians last year but in 1940 walloped them 46-9. This was their first season of the competition and they have grown considerably stronger over last season.

Freshmen Eligibility Rule May Be Waived Next Year

The relaxation of Freshmen Eligibility rules to permit freshmen to compete in varsity sports may become a part of the college athletic curriculum at Villanova in the near future. However, nothing definite has been released by the school.

Statements in local newspapers last week saying that Villanova would adopt this policy beginning next school year, were not confirmed by the athletic authorities here at the Main Line.

Board To Vote

According to Rev. Francis X. McGuire, Vice-President, and Moderator of Athletics, the plan is under consideration by the Athletic Board. The Board will vote on it at their next meeting which will be held within a fortnight.

With the new program of accelerated studies, whereby a student can finish college in three years it may be necessary for the school to adopt the system. Dartmouth College has already chosen it and probably many of the other smaller colleges and universities will favor it within the next month.

Coach Clipper Smith has written to Gus Dorais, coach of the Detroit Titans to get his reaction to the matter, and to see how he feels about playing teams who adopt the policy.

Courtmen Seek More Victories; Meet Rider, Mules, On Week-End

Trentonians Host to Villanova Friday Night as Captain Gray and Bob Kelty Play Before Hometown Fans; Brooklyn College and Lehigh Fives Engaged Next Week

By JACK DUDLEY

There should be a homecoming celebration in Trenton this Friday evening when Villanova meets Rider College. The story begins back when the Trenton Catholic High School lineup contained the names of Dick Gray, Bob Kelty and Gil Rossi. Captained by the last-named young man, this team swept through the opposition to its state group championship. It was recognized as one of the outstanding high school teams in this part of the country.

It was natural to expect the future to bring word of these boys making names for themselves as college stars Friday Night. Captain Gil Rossi of the Rider Bronchos plays host to Captain Dick Gray and able assistant Bob Kelty of Villanova in the first collegiate reunion of these former team-mates.

Rossi Star

Rider College is coached by H. Rex Ellis, Notre Dame alumnus, now in his second year at the Trenton School. Last year his team won eleven and lost seven, victories being scored over St. Francis of Brooklyn, Wake Forrest of the Southern Conference, and Wittenberg. This year the Bronchos are in the midst of their longest and toughest schedule.

Eight lettermen returned this year to give Ellis the nucleus around which he has built his team. Captain Gil Rossi has been an ideal team player, a consistent scorer and a dependable defensive star. Russ Coleman at center has been of value under the basket where his height shows up. Johnny D'Aiutolo, stocky guard is a standout on defense and a good feeder on plays. The Main Liners will attempt to make Rider their seventh consecutive victim.

The following night the Wildcats play Muhlenberg College in Allentown. Presupposing a Villanova victory at Trenton Friday night, a victory over the Mules would extend Villanova's winning streak to eight out of nine games.

Coach Alvin F. "Doggie" Julian has three veterans from last year's team in his starting lineup. Pete Schneider, 6' 2" center; is back at his old position and Charlie Trinkle and Jack Minogue are still holding down the forward spots.

11 Day Layoff

The "Mules," Eastern Pennsylvania Collegiate Conference members have faced such teams as Temple, St. Joseph's, and Manhattan so far this season.

Returning to this campus the 'Cats await a vsit on Feb. 4th from Brooklyn College. The lull in the schedule is to permit preparation for the mid-years. Following such a layoff, the team should be ready for lots of action.

On the seventh of February, Villanova will make its first appearance in Grace Hall, new $300,000 sports arena of Lehigh University at Bethlehem.

Three lettermen of last year's Engineers returned for action this year. In addition, Coach Westerman has five numeral-winners from the freshman team and some senior holdovers.

Captained by Jack Lane of Mt. Lebanon the team is made up of Joe Ambrogi, Lansdowne, Bob Baily, Summit, N. J., Don Brownlee, New York, and Bill Binder, of Steelton.

Trackmen Prime For Millrose Run

Mile and Two Mile Teams Compete; Captain Hooper Entered in 880 Special

On February 7th the varsity track team travels to New York for their first meet of the indoor campaign. The runners will compete in the Classic Millrose games held in the Big City's famed Madison Square Garden.

In this meet the Mile Relay team will face the cream of the eastern track circle crop. Such outstanding clubs as Fordham University, Rhole Island State, Georgetown, and Boston College will provide stiff competition for the Blue and White thinclads.

Mile Team Strong

This year Coach Jim Elliott has the most powerful squad of indoormen in the team's history. He has seven men, all outstanding runners, who are vying for positions. From these, two formidable teams can be fashioned. The mile relay team will be composed of sprinters John Dicarlo and George Guida, together with sophomore middle distance men Bob O'Sullivan and Dixie Dunbar.

Coach Elliott will choose his two mile team from the following men: Captain Bill Hooper, Dutch McCarthy, Harry Keefrider, O'Sullivan, and Dunbar. Hooper has also been invited to run in the famed Millrose 880, a feature of the games.

Time Trials Held

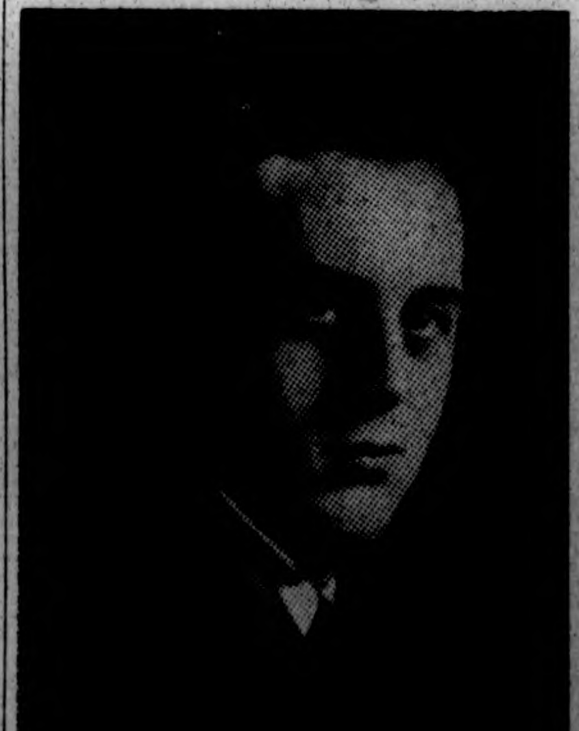
Ace sprinter, John DiCarlo, who will probably be the leadoff man on the Mile team, has been having trouble finding time to practice. DiCarlo is taking the C. A. A. pilot training course which takes up most of his time outside of class. However, Jim Elliott expects to have his star at the peak for the Millrose games.

The runners practice every day on the board track behind the stadium and on Wednesdays and Saturdays coach Elliott takes his boys down to the University of Pennsylvania's track on Museum Field. Last week the first time trials of the season were held there, and although Jumbo would not reveal the results, he appeared to be satisfied with their work.

New Writers

With the retirement of the old staff last week, several positions for sports writers on the VILLANOVAN were left open. Any underclassmen wishing to try out, please report to the office between 1:00 and 1:30 P. M. today.

There will also be a meeting of the regular sports staff at 1:00 P. M. today. It is highly important that all members of this staff be present at this meeting.



FRED J. CLARKE, '42
Writer of the column HERE AND THERE during the past year, Clark retires from the paper. He worked three years on the staff before assuming the duties of columnist.

Day Hops, Austin Strengthen Leads In Mural League

Both Teams Win Two Games During Past Week as Mendel Quintet Stretches Victory Streak

The fast-moving, hard-fighting, Mendel Day Hops basketball team boosted their winning margin to 14 straight victories in the Intramural Basketball Championship as they defeated a weak Mendel Residents' team and Fedigan Hall during the past week's campaign.

Led by their sharp-shooting forwards, Nick Sachetti and Scotty Boyle, the Day Hops downed the Fediganites by the score of 27-18. These boys also aided in the defeat of the Mendel Hall five by a wide margined score of 46-17. The Day Hops led throughout the entire game with the half time score standing at 27-7 and the residents could never recover the top-heavy lead.

Austin Wins

In the most exciting game of the week Alumni Hall was able to draw out a victory over the C and F Commuters in an overtime game with the final count standing at 37-33. The high scorers for the Greenies were Breen and Fitten while the losers boasted Buxeda, who tallied 13 points.

In one of the grudge battles of the year, Fr. McKee's Blues upset the "Pasteboard Palace Boys" by a margin of 10 points. DuBois and Fenton tallied 6 points each for the winners while Bradburn was the high scorer for Alumni.

C & F downed the hard luck Fedigan Gigoloes by one point last week, 40-39 on an over-head shot by Jim Buxeda after the Fediganites had been leading during the greater part of the games. Both teams played an excellent brand of basketball worth watching by more than the few spectators who witnessed the contest.

Macek High

Austin Hall was also a winner on this evening overtaking the Penthousers by a very wide margin of 39-14. The Mendel team fought throughout the entire game, but Macek paved the way for Austin by sinking 5 field goals and one foul shot for a total of 11 points.

This year there has been a decided change in the interest for Intramural Basketball and Fedigan has been the team to suffer. In Fedigan's last few games new faces have been appearing in their lineup due to the fact that the residents of O'Dwyer and Simpson have been playing with the Gigoloes.

The Intramural program will be at a standstill until after the semester exams and the annual retreat when the game will again be resumed.

STANDINGS

	W.	L.	Pct.
Mendel Day Hops	4	0	1.000
Austin Hall	3	1	.750
Alumni Hall	2	2	.500
C & F Day Hops	2	2	.500
Fedigan	1	3	.250
Mendel	0	4	.000

Athletes In Service To Be Listed Soon

Many of Villanova's former athletes are now in army or navy divisions of the service working for Uncle Sam. Arrangements are being made in cooperation with William Slaughter, Alumni secretary, to find out where these men are, and to publish their names and the places where they are stationed.

JOHN NORWOOD, Lehigh, flashy forward from Hamburg, New York. Norwood, along with Captain Lane paces the Brown and White attack.

Wood Overtakes Drizen In Court Scoring Parade

During the past week's varsity basketball games Bill Wood, stellar junior courtman, jumped into the lead for team scoring honors. Herm Drizen, leader a week ago trailed close behind.

Woods scored a total of 125 points on forty-eight field goals and twenty-nine fouls. Drizen has 121 markers on thirty-nine field goals and forty fouls. Woods surpassed Drizen by virtue of his 24 points scored in the Scranton and Albright games. Drizen led the point-getters in the Scranton contest with 17 points but last Saturday night against Albright failed to score from the floor. It was the first time this season that the flashy sophomore, former Brown Prepster, was held without a field goal.

Strong on Fouls

In third place is diminutive Red Klotz. Wood's running mate at guard. He is just over the century mark with 101 points, scored on forty-one field goals and nineteen throws from the fifteen foot mark. Klotz has two more goals than second place Drizen, but hasn't been near as successful as the slim forward in scoring fouls. Drizen has an uncanny way of cutting for the basket and throwing a shot over his shoulder. Many opponents in order to stop him must foul him and even then he sometimes makes the difficult shot.

Kelty, Gerland and Gray bring up the rear of the scoring parade. Captain Dick Gray's small total is due to the fact that he has only played a few minutes of each of the last six games.

Team Scoring

Player	G	F	T
Wood	48	29	125
Drizen	39	43	121
Klotz	41	19	101
Kelty	31	12	74
Gerland	20	9	49
Gray	13	10	36

DARCY IN ARMY

Chuck Darcy, former Atlantic City high star and end on the Wildcat freshmen team last fall, left school to enlist in the Army Air Corps.

Kitten Courtmen Drop 4th Contest To Albright Team

Despite the valiant efforts of Lou Reynolds, the Freshmen cagers lost their fourth game of the season on Saturday night, when they were defeated by the Albright Frosh, 39-32.

Reynolds was high-scorer of the game as he dropped six field goals and five foul shots through the cords for a total of seventeen points. His pivot shots were working to perfection, and he scored five of his field goals in this way.

This scoring spree did not win the game for the Frosh, however, for the rest of the team, lead by Don Duffy, with three field goals, could compile a mere total of fifteen points among them, to give the Wildcats thirty-two points to the Lions' 39.

'Cats Creep Up

The Crimson and White Freshmen led from the opening whistle. Although their lead was never larger than ten points, they outclassed the Blue and White dribblers, and they had possession of the ball most of the time. The lack of height on the Wildcat quintet proved to be a great hindrance as the Albright centre Deardon repeatedly got the ball off the backboard.

The score at the end of the first quarter was 18-8, and although the Wildcats crept up to 23-16 at halftime, the outcome seemed never in doubt. The closest point of the game was reached in the third quarter when three successive field goals by Reynolds, and a foul shot by LaFrance dwindled Albright's lead to three points, but, thereafter, the Lions had no trouble as Deardon and Bunn of the home team found their range and scored with ease.

Win on Fouls

The two teams were tied with thirteen field goals apiece but Albright tallied thirteen foul shots to Villanova's six and therein lay the Lions' victory. Bunn, the right forward for the Crimson and White, dropped in seven of these fouls for the home team, and with his four field goals, he was high for the Lions with a total of fifteen points, only two points short of Reynolds.

Box Score:

Albright

	G.	F.	P.
Staik, forward	3	0	0
Busch, forward	0	0	0
Bunn, forward	4	7	15
Deardon, center	3	3	9
Tushman, guard	1	0	2
Griensch, guard	2	3	7
Totals	13	13	39

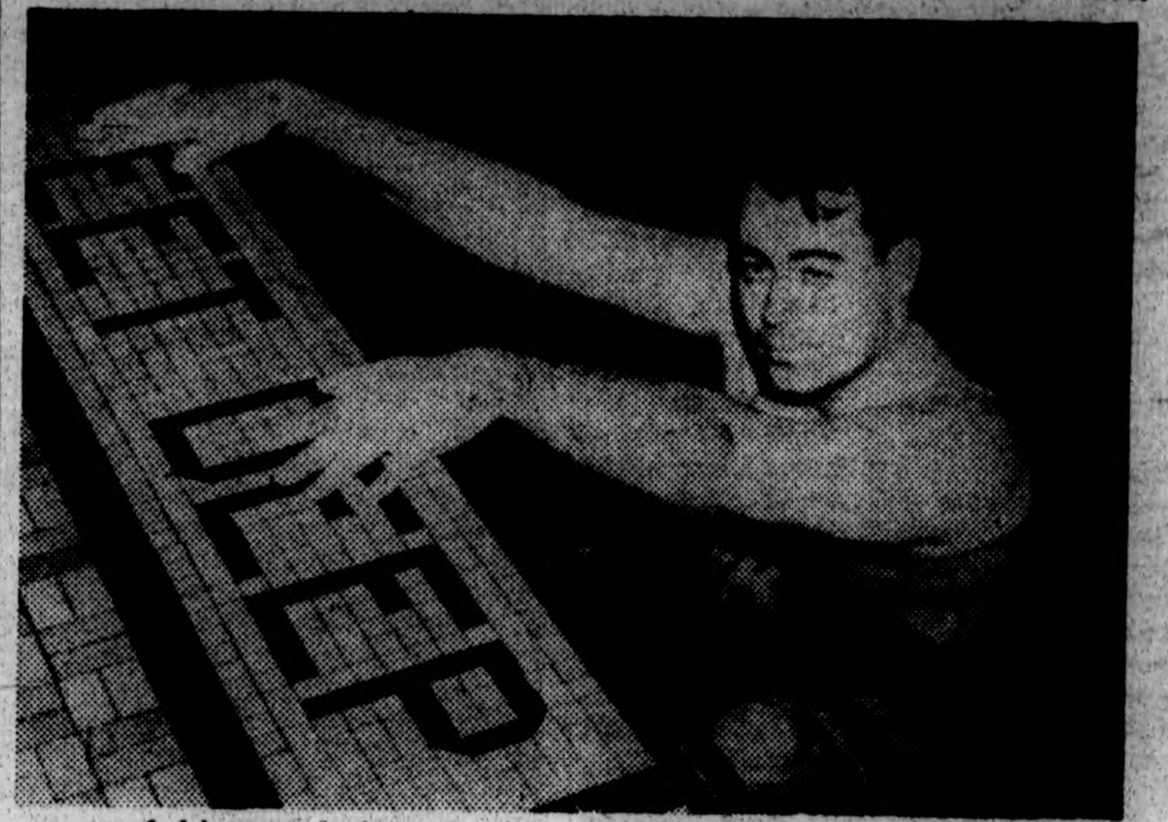
Villanova

	F.	G.	P.
Dunleavy, forward	1	0	2
Coffee, forward	0	0	0
Lemire, forward	0	0	0
Reynolds, center	6	5	17
Duffy, guard	3	0	6
LaFrance, guard	2	1	5
La Belle, guard	1	0	2
Totals	13	6	32

Maher Settles Down After Long Globe Trotting Days

By JIM BONNER

At Paris Island Marine Base down in South Carolina in 1921, there was born a man who was to assume a prominent place in Villanova sports. What does he call himself? Why John Maher, of course. He is one of our finest swimmers and co-captain of this year's edition of the Villanova swimming team.



John's father is a medical officer in the Navy and consequently he has traveled a great deal in the short span of his career. In the course of his wanderings he has claimed as a hometown Haiti, Virginia, New York, and Philadelphia. Just recently he changed his address again when he moved to Newport, Rhode Island from Brooklyn, New York.

Conference Champ

Johnny is a swimmer, first, last, and always. He began his swimming while living in Honolulu. At this time his father was attached to the Naval Base at Pearl Harbor. While there he spent two years at Roosevelt High School. Upon leaving Hawaii he transferred his talents and allegience to Upper Darby High School. He immediately made his presence felt; he topped off his career by copping the Suburban Conference backstroke champion ship. While in high school he also competed as a member of the swimming team of the Penn Athletic Club.

In September, 1938, John enrolled as a freshman in the Arts school. That year he swam on the freshman team and was one of the shining lights on the squad. In his Sophomore year he advanced to varsity competition. Here, as always, he made himself appreciated. Last year he assumed a more prominent place in the spotlight when former captain Ed Leahy graduated. He took over the duties as backstroker. His teammates showed their faith in him when he was elected Co-captain with Bob Koness as a runningmate. John is looking forward to a great year and he should certainly have one if past records are any indication.

When asked what teams he enjoyed competing against, the answer was Franklin and Marshall of Lancaster and Rider College. These are two of the oldest foes that the Wildcat tankmen face. Johnny feels that the toughest meet of the year will be with Rutgers University.

In the course of his four years at Villanova John spent one term as the Advertising Manager of the VILLANOVAN. He was also a member of the golf team for a year. Next to swimming golf seems to be his favorite sport. In the years of his traveling he has played over many courses from Hawaii to Newport, R. I.

Upon graduation John had planned to go on to Harvard Law School with his roommate, Dave Daley. Since the outbreak of war, however, he is not so sure whether this will be possible because of the draft.

George Fein & Co.
Printers & Publishers
2116 to 2130 Arch St.
PHILADELPHIA, PA.
RITtenhouse 6983

KEEP SUPPLIED WITH
SCHOOL TICKETS
GOOD ON BUSES AND RAIL CARS UNTIL USED
5c a Ride, including Special Free Transfers. Obtain Identification Cards at School Office.
RED ARROW LINES
Philadelphia Suburban Transportation Co.
Aronimink Transportation Co.

YOUNG
&
KABER
Florists
FLOWERS
See George Gabuzda
at Simpson Hall
The Campus Representative

CONESTOGA
★ ★ ★ MILL County Line & Conestoga Rd.
Bryn Mawr
FULL COURSE DINNERS
DANCING
Every Evening

DOLLY MADISON ICE CREAM
"Deliciously Different"
PHILA. DAIRY PRODUCTS CO.
4th & Poplar Sts., Phila., Pa.

The Lamp Post Inn
Luncheon and Dinners
Strafford, Pa.

HART & HALL, Inc.
Insurance
825 LANCASTER AVE.
Bryn Mawr, Pa.

Severance Comments

By
AL SEVERANCE
Basketball Coach

During one of our recent road trips in basketball, I met a group of former Villanova athletes and had a long talk with them. Part of the discussion, I feel, is well worth repeating, for it clearly displays the thought of a great number of our Villanova Alumni.

The conversation covered many and varied subjects of mutual interest but touched, naturally enough, on athletics and the question of the all-around athlete came up for some consideration.

Former Greats

"Why is it," one former three letter star remarked, "that you seldom see the names of Villanova athletes adorning the roster of more than one sport? Some eight or nine years ago the Morgans, Harkins, Sheehans, Edwards, Gillespies, Loloses, Slanes, Jacobs, and so on, to names that fade in the distant past, practically all could be numbered among the three sport category and among most could be found the captains and the outstanding athletes of Villanova's history.

"The schedules of those days were studded with rugged and respectful opponents, Boston College, Bucknell, of the Hinkle Vintage, N. Y. U., Georgetown, Penn State, Duke, Temple, Washington State, etc. And following this came basketball with twenty teams or so of the came calibre on the wooden ways. Then the SPORT that really identifiies Villanova all over the country, baseball, introduced the cream of the crop to intercollegiate competition.

"In those days three-sport men caused little or no comment and for the most part were taken as a matter of course, whereas, a one sport man was something of an oddity on the campus of the Blue and White.

No Cooperation

A close check on the personnel of former "Wildcat" teams will find the all-around athletes for the most part captains of their respective squads, as well, as leaders in extra-curricula activities. What a contrast to the present editions of the "Wildcats" when such an occurence is a signal for amazement and shock! True you do now and then find a cooperative soul, who, feeling the need of keeping in shape, will trot out for a few days of limbering up and then when the grind begins, gently folds his tent and silently fades away."

Influence of War

Gradually the conversation drifted to the present emergency and its impact on intercollegiate athletics, and the thought occurred to most that probably, as a result of depleted man power and consequent gaps in the ranks, sheer necessity might force the enlisting of all in building the teams of the future. They feel that it is a sad commentary on true spirit, when it takes a world war, to bring back a spirit that was voluntary in the past and which contributed largely in placing Villanova high in the sport annals of inter-collegiate athletics.

Swim Contest Off; To Be Held Later

The swimming meet with St. Peter's College of Jersey City, New Jersey scheduled for last Friday afternoon has been postponed until later in the season. St. Peter's asked postponment of the meet because their squad had difficulty in finding a pool to practice until the beginning of the new year. The Peacocks have no pool of their own.

This was to be the Wildcats' opening home meet of the current campaign. Previously they had lost to Lafayette College in Easton.

Coach Tom Moore and manager Martin Manley are trying to arrange a suitable date, one that can be worked in with the present schedule. Probably the meeting will be arranged some time in February as the natators have several open dates during that month.

Albright

Continued From Page Five

but quick baskets by Hopkins and Boltz gave the Lions a lead which the Wildcats could not overcome throughout the remainder of the contest.

Wood Shines

Wood dropped three long shots in the second quarter, and with the aid of double-deckers by Klotz and Kelty, Villanova was only eight points behind at halftime, 26-18, but during the second half the home team completely outplayed the visitors.

Wood's brilliant scoring efforts were outshone by those of Shollenberger, the highly-touted forward of the Lions, as he racked up 11 field goals and three fouls for a total of 25 points, the highest individual total compiled against the Wildcats this season. Boltz, the left guard of the Lions, was also a thorn in the Wildcats' side as he chalked up thirteen points, which included four field goals and five free throws.

As a reslt of the two games played last week the record now stands at seven games won and six lost, with ten contests still to be played.

BROOKLINE
COUNTRY CLUB
Dancing Every Saturday to America's Top Name Bands
SATURDAY, JAN. 24th
DICK STABILE
In Person, and His Orchestra
Admission: $1.00 plus tax
Phone: Hilltop 1600

Loren Murchison & Co.
Inc.
S. W. HAMPSON, Representative
JEWELER
for Standard College
RINGS
FRATERNITY PINS
KEYS and MEDALS
JUNIORS: Place your orders with
Gene Smith at Fedigan Hall

Faces 'Cats

JOHN LANE, captain of the Lehigh University quintet, who will lead the Engineers against the Wildcats on February 7.

Sportorial

Continued From Page Five

The average age of college athletes, both freshmen and varsity, is close to twenty-one years, in some cases even higher. These boys are just ripe for the Army. Many coaches, during the past year bewailed the losses of star athletes to Uncle Sam, and with the new registration next month, things will be even worse for them.

It is not that the coaches begrudge the services of their boys to Uncle Sam, but they would like something to be done to fill the ranks that are thinning out gradually but steadily.

This is where the freshmen come into the picture. With first year men eligible, there would only be one squad, no varsity and freshmen distinction. And the graying athletic mentors could once more straighten their shoulders and face the bloodthirsty alumni. Although the men wouldn't be experienced, because they miss that extra year in the new system, the coaches would have more to choose from.

That is particularly true of basketball, track, and all the minor sports at Villanova, and we think that if the plan were adopted, the calibre of the teams in these sports would be better.

HERE AND THERE

By SAM CANNING

IN taking over Fred Clark's column, I hope I haven't bitten off the proverbial "piece that's too big." Fred has set a very high standard for me to follow, for his contributions to the sports staff helped the VILLANOVAN win All-American honors during the past year.

—V—

Interest in swimming, which has been on the down-grade for the last two years, is now beginning to rise again as Tom Moore, '41, former varsity swimmer, has taken over the coaching duties. The team is cooperating thoroughly with the coach who comes to practice every day, which is a new thing for swimming coaches in the past few years. They usually showed up for the meets and hoped for the best.

Tom isn't hoping they practice, he's right there on the job seeing to it that they do practice, and practice hard. They swim anywhere from fifty to a hundred laps a day. The team is composed solely of Juniors and Seniors who have now had two and three years of varsity experience. It is true we don't have a wonder team nor any real champion swimmers like Walt Kelly of last year, but we do have a group of earnest, conscientious tankmen who plug hard, and swim hard, for a new coach who is working hard for them.

—V—

Turning to indoor track, we find that the Wildcat team promises to be the best in many a year. We Villanovan's have been so used to ace teams in all lines of sports that our weak football season and mediocre basketball season have left us with little to really rave about. Even our freshmen basketball team broke a three-year, 38-game winning streak and have failed to start another consecutive line of victories. So the track team may do just the thing we're looking for. The boys are really pointing toward an undefeated season, and especially the Penn A. C. meet on February 13, to even up a score with Penn State after last year's hair-breath defeat.

—V—

Everyone around the campus is glad to see Bill Woods coming into his own lately after a slow start. Bill, who was high-scorer in his freshman year and well up in the top brackets last year, went rather slow in the first seven games averaging about six points a game. But he broke loose against William and Mary, getting 9 buckets for 18 points, and no one has been able to stop him since. He followed this game up with three consecutive 14-point games, one 6 pointer and then 18 more Saturday night against Albright, which put him in first place in team scoring and also made him one of the leaders in the city.

—V—

Having participated in Intramural sports for the past three years, I am naturally interested in the plans for the extended Intramural program. Undoubtedy, there will be many more teams in the soft and hard ball leagues because of the expected large enrollment of freshmen taking advantage of the accelerated school term. The mural moderators are making plans to cope with the situation in regard to uniforms and other equipment. On account of the ban on the manufacture of golf balls, the annual tournament may not be held, but Intramural swimming contests would give the program a lift during the hot summer afternoons.

—V—

I was certainly relieved, as were many of you, when President Roosevelt approved the continuation of the national past-time. This will give the grand and glorious Brooklyn Dodgers another chance to humble the New York Giants and to face the World Champion New York Yankees, who, you can be sure, will be out for good after every third strike.

—V—

It is the sincere hope on the part of the student body that something is done to fix up the bowling alleys down in the field house and also to re-cover a few of the pool-tables. The alleys are so warped that it takes several days to learn how to play for the fades in order to get a strike every once in a while. The ten pins are so old and splintered that the pin boys refuse to set them up if you don't furnish them with gloves.

On The Local Screens

ARDMORE
THEATRE
WEDNESDAY
- Held Over One Day -
GARY COOPER
in
"Sergeant York"
THURSDAY
"Burma Convoy"
with
CHARLES BICKFORD
FRIDAY to MONDAY
ERROL FLYNN
OLIVIA DeHAVILLAND
in
"They Died With Their Boots On"

Direction Warner Bros.
TOWER
69th & MARKET STS.
FRI. - SAT. - SUN. - MON.
January 23, 24, 25, 26
BUD ABBOTT
LOU COSTELLO
Become Flying Cadets
in
"KEEP 'EM FLYING"
with
MARTHA RAYE

SUBURBAN
ARDMORE
Wed., Thurs., Fri. & Sat.
"NEW YORK TOWN"
Fred MacMurray - Mary Martin
Sun. & Mon.
"THE NIGHT OF JAN. 16TH"
Robert Preston - Ellen Drew
ANTHONY WAYNE
THEATRE WAYNE
Tues., Wed. & Thurs.
"NEW YORK TOWN"
Fred MacMurray - Mary Martin
Fri. & Sat.
"INTERNATIONAL SQUADRON"
with Ronald Reagan
Sun. & Mon.
"UNHOLY PARTNERS"
with Edward G. Robinson
SEVILLE
THEATRE BRYN MAWR
Wed. & Thurs.
"HOT SPOT" with Betty Grable
Fri. & Sat.
Edward G. Robinson in
"UNHOLY PARTNERS"
Sun. & Mon.
"INTERNATIONAL SQUADRON"

RIDE FREE ON P. & W. RAILWAY MOVIE TICKETS
GRAND
NORRISTOWN
Today
"SERGEANT YORK"
Wednesday & Thursday
Joan Blondell in
"3 GIRLS ABOUT TOWN"
and "SECRETS OF THE LONE WOLF"
Friday and Saturday
William Holden in
"BADLANDS OF DAKOTA"
NORRIS
NORRISTOWN
Today
"KEEP 'EM FLYING"
Wednesday, Thursday & Friday
Hedy Lamarr - Robert Young in
"H. M. PULHAM, ESQ."
Saturday and Monday
William Powell - Myrna Loy in
"SHADOW OF THE THIN MAN"
GARRICK
NORRISTOWN
Wednesday and Thursday
Edward G. Robinson in
"UNHOLY PARTNERS"
and Jane Withers in
"SMALL TOWN DEB"
Friday and Saturday
Dead End Kids in
"SPOOKS RUN WILD"
and "SIS BOOM BAH"

WILDCATS!
STOP HERE
LA DOW'S PHARMACY
On the Edge of the Campus
LANCASTER PIKE
VILLANOVA, PA.

Graduate Schools Give Fellowships

Georgetown, Johns Hopkins and Catholic U. Offer Numerous Student Aids

Three universities have been added to the Registrar's list of schools offering graduate fellowships and scholarships. Georgetown, Johns Hopkins and Catholic Universities have sent notices of courses being offered.

The Graduate School of Arts and Sciences at Georgetown is offering seven university fellowships distributed among the departments of bio-chemistry, economics, history and mathematics. Applicants must have a bachelor degree from a recognized college or university. Financial assistance ranges from $500 to $800. Financial allotment to a limited number of scholarships ranges from $200 to $300. All applications must be sent to the university before March 1.

Catholic University of America offers twenty-two fellowships. Two, amounting to $500 each, are for study in bio-chemistry; two for studies in diplomacy, and eighteen open to graduates of engineering, architectural, law or social schools. The fellowships for diplomacy or international affairs require one year of graduate work. Additional information can be obtained by writing to 102 McMahon Hall, Catholic U., Washington, D. C. Applications must be received by March 1.

Johns Hopkins announces fellowships and scholarships in twelve fields of education. Biology, chemistry, English, Greek, history, latin and political science are included. Fifty scholarships with stipends of $300 are offered at large. Interested students may write to the University in Baltimore, Md., for detailed information.

Formal announcements as received from the universities will be posted by the registrar's office on the main bulletin board.

He'll Lead

MAL HALLETT

Hallett Signed

Continued From Page One

calendar, Feb. 14. For the first time, the dinner dance will feature a "name" band rather than the local orchestras engaged in past years. Arthur Hynett, popular orchestra frequently heard over the N. B. C. network will provide the music for the Dinner-Dance, which will begin promptly at 8:30 P. M. The Dinner-Dance committee has secured the exclusive use of the roof garden for that night and only seniors attending the dinner will be allowed entrance.

Seniors who have not as yet paid their assessments, which entitle them to a ticket to the affair, must purchase them from the chairman. Tickets are priced at $5.00. Reservations may also be made with him for tables to include parties of from four to ten persons. Those reservations must be made by Feb. 10. After this date no arrangements for parties can be definitely assured. Decorations of the roof garden will consist mainly of individual floral bouquets for each table.

Decorations Kept Secret

Plans for the Field House decorations for the "Black and White formal" have not as yet been revealed. Final drawings have been submitted to the committee and the necessary materials have been purchased. Some difficulty was encountered in the purchase of the decorations due to the defense work of the industries manufacturing decorating supplies.

The twelve pieces of Hallett's band will be spotlight attraction of the evening. Included in his recent engagements is his six month's stand at the Edison Hotel in New York City. During this time he shattered all existing records for box office gross. In the same city he has played at the Commodore and New Yorker Hotels, all with equal success. He has also made recordings for Decca and appeared on the sound stages of Warner Brothers. Hallett places his success in the combination of mellow, danceable melodies with entertaining novelty showmanship.

Show Band

In the latter field, "Buddy" Welcome and Joe Carbonaro, slap-bass man, team together to put on a show which has been greatly responsible for the band's popularity throughout the country. The novelties included in the orchestras repertoire will be intermingled with their varied melodious arrangements.

Design for the favors has been completed.

Tuxedos - $3.00
Full Dress $3.50
Complete Accessories Furnished
- A Perfect Fit Guaranteed -
NEUBAUER'S, INC.
1035 Walnut Street
- See -
Steve Aisenbrey
110 FEDIGAN

New Curriculum

Continued From Page One

uated in each calendar year. Registrations will be held in June, October, and February.

The added fifteen week semester beginning on June 8 would end on Sept. 19; the date for the beginning of the second semester has been tentatively set for Oct. 12. These dates are subject to change, Fr. Stanford declared, depending upon the manner in which the program fulfills student needs.

The possibility of Saturday classes during the summer was admitted by the president, but he emphasized that such a sacrifice was small compared to the ones the people of America will be called on to make in the near future.

Calendar Changes

"Speding up of graduation in order to permit the opening of the new curriculum in June would entail several changes in the school calendar for this year," Fr. Stanford remarked. Chief among these will be the revoking of Easter vacation and the cancellation of the formal Junior Week ceremonies and Open House celebration.

This does not mean, however, that there will be no Spring dances for members of the Centennial Class. It has been left to the discretion of the students to decide upon a date for the Junior Prom which will not conflict with the final examinations, which will begin for all students, including seniors, the week of May 11.

Classes will be suspended on April 3 and 4 (Good Friday and Holy Saturday), but there is a possibility that examinations will be scheduled on May 14 (Ascension Thursday). The third quarter will end on March 21 instead of on April 1, as originally scheduled.

Under the provisions of the plan as it now stands, students in the present junior class who take the intensified course will be graduated in Feb., 1943; those in the sophomore class, September 1943; those in the freshman class, May, 1944. The present freshmen will thus be enabled to shorten their college careers by one full year.

Fees the Same

Payment of the fees for the added semester will be substantially the same as the payment of other fees, Fr. Stanford disclosed.

Speaking before the various student groups last week, the president outlined the provisions of the new plan and answered questions put to him by the students. Questionnaires were distributed in order to give the college officials a preview of the number of students interested in the course so that definite arrangements could be made.

Last 'Till Feb. 10

Due to the semester examinations, which will be held all next week, and to the annual retreat exercises, which are to begin on Feb. 1, there will be no issue of the VILLANOVAN for the next two weeks. The next publication of the college weekly will, therefore, appear on Tuesday, Feb. 10.

Calendar Changes

Tuesday, May 19, 1942, has been decided upon as the Commencement date for this year. Second semester classes will begin as scheduled on Feb. 4. The following calendar changes are made necessary by the early Commencement date:

1. Easter Vacation has been cancelled. There will, however, be no classes on April 3 and 4 (Good Friday and Holy Saturday).
2. The third quarter will end on Saturday, March 21.
3. All final examinations, including those for seniors, will be held beginning with the week of May 11. Examinations may be scheduled on Thursday, May 14 (Ascension Day).

In order to make possible this earlier closing date for the second semester, the following additional changes will be necessary:

4. There will be no formal celebration of Junior Week and no time off to students on this account.
5. An Open House Celebration will be omitted.

Science Fraternity Chooses Koch And Arnold In Election

At a special election of the Lambda Kappa Delta Fraternity of the School of Science held last Thursday, Joseph Koch and John Arnold, both seniors, were elected to the positions of president and Student Council representative, respectively.

The election was necessitated by the vacancies created by Robert Dugan and Carmen Ciatteo, who did not return to school.

It was announced by Joseph Turner, vice-president of the organization, that preparations are being made for the initiation, tentatively scheduled for Feb. 16. The committee appointed by the officers is awaiting approval by authorities and it is believed that the list of members, including the chairman, will be released in the near future.

A meeting has been called for today at 1:00 P. M. in room 210 Mendel Hall where all old business will be completed. All members are urged by the treasurer, Joseph Silva, to pay their dues as soon as possible.

Positions Open

Due to the retirement of several senior members of the VILLANOVAN, several positions are open on all staffs of the college weekly.

Any students, especially freshmen, who are interested in joining the college, sports, business or circulation staffs are invited to submit applications immediately. Applicants will be accepted on a trial basis until they prove their worth, when they will receive permanent appointments.

Those who desire to try out for the positions are requested to report to the VILLANOVAN office, room 119 Mendel Hall, tomorrow at 1:00 P. M., to consult with the editors.

COLEBY
Tailoring
Inc.
57th & MARKET STS.
Suits & Topcoats
$27.75
SEE
Steve
Aisenbrey
110 Fedigan Hall

We Get 'Em!

When you send us your clothes you get them back with every little spot and soil removed. Our careful service and economy prices mean that you can build a really "New" looking wardrobe from your present clothes.

SUN

WRIGLEY'S
SPEARMINT
CHEWING GUM
V-106

Have fun—be friendly
Treat yourself and others to fresh-tasting Wrigley's Spearmint Gum
The Flavor Lasts

VILLANOVAN
Vol. 14—No. 11 N. A. S. Z-660 VILLANOVA COLLEGE, VILLANOVA, PA. TUESDAY, FEBRUARY 10, 1912

"This Won't Hurt You — Much!"

In the throes of the annual initiation process of Phi Kappa Pi, engineering fraternity, last night, is the benighted pledgee pictured above, about to undergo an ordeal at the hands of two members of the organization. Joe McMahon is the lad on the left, while the sadist gleefully throwing the switch is Nick Aceto.

Engineers Hold Lively Initiation Before Banquet

Last night, P. K. P. ushered, (if you like the word), approximately twenty young engineers into the fraternity. Commenting on the initiation, Vincent J. Gordon, presiding officer of the group, stated that, "The new members found last night that they must paddle their own canoes; last night we old members helped them; now they are on their own."

Following the initiation, which began at seven and lasted 'til half-past the nones, there was the usual banquet. At the invitation of Charles W. Schaumann, chairman of the initiation and banquet committee, Mr. Russel F. Hurst, of the Baldwin Locomotive Works, delivered the main address.

A Pleasant Prospect

The freshmen, who comprised the majority of those entering their names on the lists, seemed all too elated at the aspect of the dinner; a feature of the evening was the presentation of a paddle to the pledgee who experienced the most difficulty in joining the fraternity.

As yet the name of the lucky fellow is undisclosed, but a good way to find him is to note the men who stand up for dinner and proceed by elimination.

Complete co-operation on the part of all branches of the college, non-engineering as well as engineering, was in evidence for the proceedings. Rev. Edward B. McKee, O. S. A., moderator of intramural athletics, was glad to provide the boxing-gloves which the pledgees used to such great advantage.

In addition to the traditional paddling, the technical students employed their specialized knowledge to make the evening a lively one. In fact, live wires were all around the place. The new members may not have liked the idea, but they took it with something resembling a smile.

Semester Grades Available This Week

Final grades for the first semester ending Jan. 31 are now being recorded in the office of Paetrus F. Banmiller, Registrar. Banmiller has announced that the grades will be made known to the students during this week through their deans and advisors. The exact date on which the marks will be available will be posted on the respective bulletin boards.

Students in the Schools of Arts, Education, Science, and Commerce and Finance will receive their grades from their respective deans. Engineering students should consult their various advisors. No grades will be available until notice to that effect is posted.

Reports will also be sent home this week, and the honor rolls will be released next week.

Registration For Students Monday

Registration as required by the Selective Service Act will be conducted on Monday, Feb. 16, between the hours of 9:00 A. M. and 6:00 P. M. in the reception room of Mendel Hall. Under the act, all those who were twenty years of age on Dec. 31, 1941, and who are not forty-five years on Feb. 16, 1942, are required to register, provided they have not previously done so.

This registration will be the second to be conducted on the campus. As in the first, held in October, 1940, all resident students will register. Upon registration, home addresses will be designated and registrations forwarded to the proper draft boards. Under this plan, there is no need for resident students to return to their homes to register.

REGISTRATION DATA

DATE: Feb. 16.

PLACE: Reception Room, Mendel Hall.

TIME: Between the hours of 9:00 A. M. and 6:00 P. M.

THOSE CONCERNED: All who were 20 years of age on Dec. 31, 1941, and who are not 45 years of age on Feb. 16, 1942, if they have not registered under the Selective Training and Service Act of 1940.

NFCCS Delegates From Six Colleges Meet At Rosemont

Thomas C. Muraski, junior chemistry student, and John Quinn, junior engineer, represented Villanova at a meeting of the National Federation of Catholic College Students held last Sunday at Rosemont College.

The conference, the first local meeting of the year, concerned itself with the formation of aims and policies to be carried out in fostering cooperation between the Catholic colleges of the country.

In an informal discussion, two of the Federation's national officers, Frank Horka of Loyola College of Baltimore, president; and Gertrude Stevenson of Immaculata, treasurer, outlined plans for the coming year and appointed a Committee composed of delegates from each of the six schools represented at the conference.

Local colleges attending the meeting included Immaculata, Chestnut Hill, Rosemont, St. Joseph's and La Salle.

Tentatively scheduled for the last Sunday in March, the next meeting of the Federation is planned for St. Joseph's College.

Muraski To Edit "Engineer"; Posts On Board Manned

Simpson and Manderfield Assume New Positions on Publication; Lyness and Temple Continue in Present Offices

Thomas C. Muraski, junior chemical engineer, has been appointed editor-in-chief of the Villanova "Engineer," Rev. John J. Vrana, O. S. A., moderator of the monthly engineering publication, announced last week.

Muraski replaces Walter La Porte, senior engineer, who retired from the position with the publication of the last issue. During his freshman year Muraski was elected president of his class for the sophomore year. This year he is Student Council representative of the junior class. A member of the VILLANOVAN staff since his first year, Muraski was recently appointed literary editor.

Replacing Muraski as managing editor is Paul Simpson, freshman engineer. Edward Manderfield, junior chemical engineer, succeeds Robert Ayerle, retiring circulation manager. Arthur Lyness, junior chemical engineer, continues at the post of business manager which he has held since last September while George Temple, sophomore engineer, also retains his position as photography editor.

THOMAS C. MURASKI

The December issue of the publication was distributed last Friday. Feature article of the last issue of the retiring staff is a treatise on the architectural structure of the college chapel. Completely illustrated, the article explains the chapel's discrepancies in respect to strict Gothic standards. The second feature explained the various methods and equipment used in boiler-making.

The January issue is now in preparation. The first issue under the new staff will treat of two phases of radio technique. The first will explain the short-wave-system of broadcast and reception, while the second will discuss one of the most recent discoveries in the field of radio, frequency modulation.

Junior Class Loses 2nd Vice-President

Juniors have just about given up on the idea of having a class vice-president.

Last May, in the regular elections, Richard Anderson, a commerce student, was chosen for the post. But when classes were resumed in September Anderson was at the University of Cincinnati instead of in the C. & F. building.

So the Centennial Class members got together (about five times) to choose a new officer. After countless false starts Samuel Canning, also a commerce man, was elected to the post.

Canning left on Saturday to be inducted into the army. We think that the third-year men will get along without a vice-president.

Week-End Dances Close Senior Social Calendar

Mal Hallett Plays for Belle Air Ball Friday Evening; Field House Prepared for "Black and White" Formal; Dinner-Dance on Saturday

To the danceable rhythms of Mal Hallett's orchestra, the class of '42 will stage the Belle Air Ball next Friday evening in the Field House. Dancing from 10 'til 2 will be in an atmosphere especially designed for the "black and white" formal. Tickets may now be purchased for $5.50, tax included. Beginning promptly at 8:30 P. M. on the following evening, the senior dinner-dance, which closes the senior social calendar, will be held at the Roof Garden of the Ritz-Carlton Hotel.

The "black and white" formal, an innovation for the senior dance, will be carried out to the smallest detail. The theme has received the approval of the class members, who have promised to fulfill their part in the scheme of decorations.

Novel Arrangement

All dates have been asked to wear either white or black formals. Another change made by the decoration committee places the band on the right side of the dance floor, leaving the stage, usually the setting for the orchestra, open for the serving of refreshments. The blue room will not be open.

Seniors who have paid their assessments have been asked by co-chairmen, John T. Gallagher and Andrew J. Melton, to secure their tickets Wednesday afternoon in the reception room of Mendel Hall between the hours of 1:00 and 5:00 P. M.

Ernest J. Klappenbach, chairman of the dinner-dance committee, has announced that tickets for that affair will also be distributed to these seniors at the same time. Those seniors with unpaid assessments who intend to be present at the dinner-dance but not at the Belle Air Ball must make their reservations no later than Wednesday. If their assessments have been paid they will receive both tickets at this time at $5.00 apiece; otherwise tickets for the dinner-dance will be $6.00. Arthur Hinett's Quintet will

WEEK-END DANCES
Continued on Page Four

Prom Thrush

KAY MARIE

Begin Drive For Blood Donations

Having received a request for two hundred pints of blood from the Volunteer Blood Donors Committee of the American Red Cross, the drive for donors was initiated at Villanova yesterday under the direction of the Student Council. A statement issued by vice-president Rev. Francis X. N. McGuire, O. S. A., expressed the willingness of the college to do everything possible to supply the demand.

The Volunteers Blood Donors Committee has the task of obtaining, in a nation-wide drive, two hundred thousand donations of blood of one pint each for the sole use of the armed forces of the United States. Inasmuch as it will aid the Philadelphia area in reaching its quota of twenty thousand pints, Villanova has been asked to contribute a small part of this sum.

"In donating blood, Villanova will be giving necessary aid to the government in the war effort," Fr. McGuire commented.

By coincidence, a person donating a pint of blood this year may be saved by this same blood if he is in a position in the near future where a blood transfusion is necessary. This is possible in many cases insofar as the plasma will be released by the Army and Navy in case of civilian disasters, such as fire and flood.

All students who wish to contribute one pint of blood are urged to give their names to the Student Council representative who may be found in the front corridor on the first floor of Mendel Hall during noon hour every day up to and including Thursday of this week. The donation will be entirely voluntary and will only be accepted after the student has been found to be physically able to give the blood.

Students who are under twenty years of age and who wish to contribute must have the written consent of their parents. Cards will be distributed on which such consent is formally stated.

When a sufficient number have volunteered, the Red Cross will be notified and they will make arrangements to accept these donations at the college sometime during the month of March.

Twenty-Five Pass V-7 Physical Exam Given To Engineers

Twenty-five students have successfully passed the physical examination required by the Naval Reserve V-7 program, J. Stanley Morehouse, dean of the engineering school, announced today. Commissions will probably be offered later this year.

Navy physicians who conducted the examinations pointed out that a few of the fifty-one applicants who failed to meet the rigid requirements are now being reconsidered and may be accepted later. Those who were rejected because of minor defects in teeth or vision are included in this group.

The present program of the Navy department allows seniors to continue in school until they receive their degrees. Members of the present junior class who have passed their examinations will be permitted to remain with their class until graduation. If the juniors do not take advantage of the accelerated program this summer, they will probably be required to spend a sixty-day training period with the navy.

Beta Gamma Meets St. Joe's Tomorrow

Beta Gamma, college debating society, will meet St. Joseph's College at the Lady of Good Counsel School, Moorestown, N. J., tomorrow, under the sponsorship of the Parent Teachers Association.

The topic for debate will be, "Resolved: That the government should regulate by law all labor unions."

Representing Villanova on the negative side will be David Reardon, commerce school senior, George Harris, junior education, and John Fullam, senior education.

On Saturday members of Beta Gamma debated with the University of Pennsylvania group in a non-decision discussion of the permanent compulsory military training topic. Wilfred Gagen, commerce school sophomore, and Fullam upheld the negative for Villanova.

Graduate Schools Give Fellowships

Georgetown, Johns Hopkins and Catholic U. Offer Numerous Student Aids

Three universities have been added to the Registrar's list of schools offering graduate fellowships and scholarships. Georgetown, Johns Hopkins and Catholic Universities have sent notices of courses being offered.

The Graduate School of Arts and Sciences at Georgetown is offering seven university fellowships distributed among the departments of bio-chemistry, economics, history and mathematics. Applicants must have a bachelor degree from a recognized college or university. Financial assistance ranges from $500 to $800. Financial allotment to a limited number of scholarships ranges from $200 to $300. All applications must be sent to the university before March 1.

Catholic University of America offers twenty-two fellowships. Two, amounting to $500 each, are for study in bio-chemistry; two for studies in diplomacy, and eighteen open to graduates of engineering, architectural, law or social schools. The fellowships for diplomacy or international affairs require one year of graduate work. Additional information can be obtained by writing to 102 McMahon Hall, Catholic U., Washington, D. C. Applications must be received by March 1.

Johns Hopkins announces fellowships and scholarships in twelve fields of education. Biology, chemistry, English, Greek, history, latin and political science are included. Fifty scholarships with stipends of $300 are offered at large. Interested students may write to the University in Baltimore, Md., for detailed information.

Formal announcements as received from the universities will be posted by the registrar's office on the main bulletin board.

He'll Lead

MAL HALLETT

Hallett Signed

Continued From Page One

calendar, Feb. 14. For the first time, the dinner dance will feature a "name" band rather than the local orchestras engaged in past years. Arthur Hynett, popular orchestra frequently heard over the N. B. C. network will provide the music for the Dinner-Dance, which will begin promptly at 8:30 P. M. The Dinner-Dance committee has secured the exclusive use of the roof garden for that night and only seniors attending the dinner will be allowed entrance.

Seniors who have not as yet paid their assessments, which entitle them to a ticket to the affair, must purchase them from the chairman. Tickets are priced at $5.00. Reservations may also be made with him for tables to include parties of from four to ten persons. Those reservations must be made by Feb. 10. After this date no arrangements for parties can be definitely assured. Decorations of the roof garden will consist mainly of individual floral bouquets for each table.

Decorations Kept Secret

Plans for the Field House decorations for the "Black and White formal" have not as yet been revealed. Final drawings have been submitted to the committee and the necessary materials have been purchased. Some difficulty was encountered in the purchase of the decorations due to the defense work of the industries manufacturing decorating supplies.

The twelve pieces of Hallett's band will be spotlight attraction of the evening. Included in his recent engagements is his six month's stand at the Edison Hotel in New York City. During this time he shattered all existing records for box office gross. In the same city he has played at the Commodore and New Yorker Hotels, all with equal success. He has also made recordings for Decca and appeared on the sound stages of Warner Brothers. Hallett places his success in the combination of mellow, danceable melodies with entertaining novelty showmanship.

Show Band

In the latter field, "Buddy" Welcome and Joe Carbonaro, slap-bass man, team together to put on a show which has been greatly responsible for the band's popularity throughout the country. The novelties included in the orchestras repertoire will be intermingled with their varied melodious arrangements.

Design for the favors has been completed.

Tuxedos - $3.00
Full Dress $3.50
Complete Accessories Furnished
- A Perfect Fit Guaranteed -
NEUBAUER'S, INC.
1035 Walnut Street
- See -
Steve Aisenbrey
110 FEDIGAN

We Get 'Em!

When you send us your clothes you get them back with every little spot and soil removed. Our careful service and economy prices mean that you can build a really "New" looking wardrobe from your present clothes.

CLEANERS SUN DYERS

New Curriculum

Continued From Page One

uated in each calendar year. Registrations will be held in June, October, and February.

The added fifteen week semester beginning on June 8 would end on Sept. 19; the date for the beginning of the second semester has been tentatively set for Oct. 12. These dates are subject to change, Fr. Stanford declared, depending upon the manner in which the program fulfills student needs.

The possibility of Saturday classes during the summer was admitted by the president, but he emphasized that such a sacrifice was small compared to the ones the people of America will be called on to make in the near future.

Calendar Changes

"Speding up of graduation in order to permit the opening of the new curriculum in June would entail several changes in the school calendar for this year," Fr. Stanford remarked. Chief among these will be the revoking of Easter vacation and the cancellation of the formal Junior Week ceremonies and Open House celebration.

This does not mean, however, that there will be no Spring dances for members of the Centennial Class. It has been left to the discretion of the students to decide upon a date for the Junior Prom which will not conflict with the final examinations, which will begin for all students, including seniors, the week of May 11.

Classes will be suspended on April 3 and 4 (Good Friday and Holy Saturday), but there is a possibility that examinations will be scheduled on May 14 (Ascension Thursday). The third quarter will end on March 21 instead of on April 1, as originally scheduled.

Under the provisions of the plan as it now stands, students in the present junior class who take the intensified course will be graduated in Feb., 1943; those in the sophomore class, September 1943; those in the freshman class, May, 1944. The present freshmen will thus be enabled to shorten their college careers by one full year.

Fees the Same

Payment of the fees for the added semester will be substantially the same as the payment of other fees, Fr. Stanford disclosed.

Speaking before the various student groups last week, the president outlined the provisions of the new plan and answered questions put to him by the students. Questionnaires were distributed in order to give the college officials a preview of the number of students interested in the course so that definite arrangements could be made.

Last 'Till Feb. 10

Due to the semester examinations, which will be held all next week, and to the annual retreat exercises, which are to begin on Feb. 1, there will be no issue of the VILLANOVAN for the next two weeks. The next publication of the college weekly will, therefore, appear on Tuesday, Feb. 10.

Calendar Changes

Tuesday, May 19, 1942, has been decided upon as the Commencement date for this year. Second semester classes will begin as scheduled on Feb. 4. The following calendar changes are made necessary by the early Commencement date:

1. Easter Vacation has been cancelled. There will, however, be no classes on April 3 and 4 (Good Friday and Holy Saturday).
2. The third quarter will end on Saturday, March 21.
3. All final examinations, including those for seniors, will be held beginning with the week of May 11. Examinations may be scheduled on Thursday, May 14 (Ascension Day).

In order to make possible this earlier closing date for the second semester, the following additional changes will be necessary:

4. There will be no formal celebration of Junior Week and no time off to students on this account.
5. An Open House Celebration will be omitted.

WRIGLEY'S
SPEARMINT
CHEWING GUM

Have fun—be friendly
Treat yourself and others to fresh-tasting Wrigley's Spearmint Gum
The Flavor Lasts

Science Fraternity Chooses Koch And Arnold In Election

At a special election of the Lambda Kappa Delta Fraternity of the School of Science held last Thursday, Joseph Koch and John Arnold, both seniors, were elected to the positions of president and Student Council representative, respectively.

The election was necessitated by the vacancies created by Robert Dugan and Carmen Ciatteo, who did not return to school.

It was announced by Joseph Turner, vice-president of the organization, that preparations are being made for the initiation, tentatively scheduled for Feb. 16. The committee appointed by the officers is awaiting approval by authorities and it is believed that the list of members, including the chairman, will be released in the near future.

A meeting has been called for today at 1:00 P. M. in room 210 Mendel Hall where all old business will be completed. All members are urged by the treasurer, Joseph Silva, to pay their dues as soon as possible.

Positions Open

Due to the retirement of several senior members of the VILLANOVAN, several positions are open on all staffs of the college weekly.

Any students, especially freshmen, who are interested in joining the college, sports, business or circulation staffs are invited to submit applications immediately. Applicants will be accepted on a trial basis until they prove their worth, when they will receive permanent appointments.

Those who desire to try out for the positions are requested to report to the VILLANOVAN office, room 119 Mendel Hall, tomorrow at 1:00 P. M., to consult with the editors.

COLEBY
Tailoring
Inc.
57th & MARKET STS.
Suits & Topcoats
$27.75
SEE
Steve
Aisenbrey
110 Fedigan Hall

VILLANOVAN
Vol. 14—No. 11 N. A. S. Z-660 VILLANOVA COLLEGE, VILLANOVA, PA. TUESDAY, FEBRUARY 10, 1942

"This Won't Hurt You — Much!"

In the throes of the annual initiation process of Phi Kappa Pi, engineering fraternity, last night, is the benighted pledgee pictured above, about to undergo an ordeal at the hands of two members of the organization. Joe McMahon is the lad on the left, while the sadist gleefully throwing the switch is Nick Aceto.

Engineers Hold Lively Initiation Before Banquet

Last night, P. K. P. ushered, (if you like the word), approximately twenty young engineers into the fraternity. Commenting on the initiation, Vincent J. Gordon, presiding officer of the group, stated that, "The new members found last night that they must paddle their own canoes; last night we old members helped them; now they are on their own."

Following the initiation, which began at seven and lasted 'til half-past the nones, there was the usual banquet. At the invitation of Charles W. Schaumann, chairman of the initiation and banquet committee, Mr. Russel F. Hurst, of the Baldwin Locomotive Works, delivered the main address.

A Pleasant Prospect

The freshmen, who comprised the majority of those entering their names on the lists, seemed all too elated at the aspect of the dinner; a feature of the evening was the presentation of a paddle to the pledgee who experienced the most difficulty in joining the fraternity.

As yet the name of the lucky fellow is undisclosed, but a good way to find him is to note the men who stand up for dinner and proceed by elimination.

Complete co-operation on the part of all branches of the college, non-engineering as well as engineering, was in evidence for the proceedings. Rev. Edward B. McKee, O. S. A., moderator of intramural athletics, was glad to provide the boxing-gloves which the pledgees used to such great advantage.

In addition to the traditional paddling, the technical students employed their specialized knowledge to make the evening a lively one. In fact, live wires were all around the place. The new members may not have liked the idea, but they took it with something resembling a smile.

Semester Grades Available This Week

Final grades for the first semester ending Jan. 31 are now being recorded in the office of Paetrus F. Banmiller, Registrar. Banmiller has announced that the grades will be made known to the students during this week through their deans and advisors. The exact date on which the marks will be available will be posted on the respective bulletin boards.

Students in the Schools of Arts, Education, Science, and Commerce and Finance will receive their grades from their respective deans. Engineering students should consult their various advisors. No grades will be available until notice to that effect is posted.

Reports will also be sent home this week, and the honor rolls will be released next week.

Registration For Students Monday

Registration as required by the Selective Service Act will be conducted on Monday, Feb. 16, between the hours of 9:00 A. M. and 6:00 P. M. in the reception room of Mendel Hall. Under the act, all those who were twenty years of age on Dec. 31, 1941, and who are not forty-five years on Feb. 16, 1942, are required to register, provided they have not previously done so.

REGISTRATION DATA

DATE: Feb. 16.

PLACE: Reception Room, Mendel Hall.

TIME: Between the hours of 9:00 A. M. and 6:00 P. M.

THOSE CONCERNED: All who were 20 years of age on Dec. 31, 1941, and who are not 45 years of age on Feb. 16, 1942, if they have not registered under the Selective Training and Service Act of 1940.

This registration will be the second to be conducted on the campus. As in the first, held in October, 1940, all resident students will register. Upon registration, home addresses will be designated and registrations forwarded to the proper draft boards. Under this plan, there is no need for resident students to return to their homes to register.

NFCCS Delegates From Six Colleges Meet At Rosemont

Thomas C. Muraski, junior chemistry student, and John Quinn, junior engineer, represented Villanova at a meeting of the National Federation of Catholic College Students held last Sunday at Rosemont College.

The conference, the first local meeting of the year, concerned itself with the formation of aims and policies to be carried out in fostering cooperation between the Catholic colleges of the country.

In an informal discussion, two of the Federation's national officers, Frank Horka of Loyola College of Baltimore, president; and Gertrude Stevenson of Immaculata, treasurer, outlined plans for the coming year and appointed a Committee composed of delegates from each of the six schools represented at the conference.

Local colleges attending the meeting included Immaculata, Chestnut Hill, Rosemont, St. Joseph's and La Salle.

Tentatively scheduled for the last Sunday in March, the next meeting of the Federation is planned for St. Joseph's College.

Muraski To Edit "Engineer"; Posts On Board Manned

Simpson and Manderfield Assume New Positions on Publication; Lyness and Temple Continue in Present Offices

Thomas C. Muraski, junior chemical engineer, has been appointed editor-in-chief of the Villanova "Engineer," Rev. John J. Vrana, O. S. A., moderator of the monthly enginering publication, announced last week.

Muraski replaces Walter La Porte, senior engineer, who retired from the position with the publication of the last issue. During his freshman year Muraski was elected president of his class for the sophomore year. This year he is Student Council representative of the junior class. A member of the VILLANOVAN staff since his first year, Muraski was recently appointed literary editor.

Replacing Muraski as managing editor is Paul Simpson, freshman engineer. Edward Manderfield, junior chemical engineer, succeeds Robert Ayerle, retiring circulation manager. Arthur Lyness, junior chemical engineer, continues at the post of business manager which he has held since last September while George Temple, sophomore engineer, also retains his position as photography editor.

THOMAS C. MURASKI

The December issue of the publication was distributed last Friday. Feature article of the last issue of the retiring staff is a treatise on the architectural structure of the college chapel. Completely illustrated, the article explains the chapel's discrepancies in respect to strict Gothic standards. The second feature explained the various methods and equipment used in boiler-making.

The January issue is now in preparation. The first issue under the new staff will treat of two phases of radio technique. The first will explain the short-wave-system of broadcast and reception, while the second will discuss one of the most recent discoveries in the field of radio, frequency modulation.

Junior Class Loses 2nd Vice-President

Juniors have just about given up on the idea of having a class vice-president.

Last May, in the regular elections, Richard Anderson, a commerce student, was chosen for the post. But when classes were resumed in September Anderson was at the University of Cincinnati instead of in the C. & F. building.

So the Centennial Class members got together (about five times) to choose a new officer. After countless false starts Samuel Canning, also a commerce man, was elected to the post.

Canning left on Saturday to be inducted into the army. We think that the third-year men will get along without a vice-president.

Week-End Dances Close Senior Social Calendar

Mal Hallett Plays for Belle Air Ball Friday Evening; Field House Prepared for "Black and White" Formal; Dinner-Dance on Saturday

To the danceable rhythms of Mal Hallett's orchestra, the class of '42 will stage the Belle Air Ball next Friday evening in the Field House. Dancing from 10 'til 2 will be in an atmosphere especially designed for the "black and white" formal. Tickets may now be purchased for $5.50, tax included. Beginning promptly at 8:30 P. M. on the following evening, the senior dinner-dance, which closes the senior social calendar, will be held at the Roof Garden of the Ritz-Carlton Hotel.

The "black and white" formal, an innovation for the senior dance, will be carried out to the smallest detail. The theme has received the approval of the class members, who have promised to fulfill their part in the scheme of decorations.

Novel Arrangement

All dates have been asked to wear either white or black formals. Another change made by the decoration committee places the band on the right side of the dance floor, leaving the stage, usually the setting for the orchestra, open for the serving of refreshments. The blue room will not be open.

Seniors who have paid their assessments have been asked by co-chairmen, John T. Gallagher and Andrew J. Melton, to secure their tickets Wednesday afternoon in the reception room of Mendel Hall between the hours of 1:00 and 5:00 P. M.

Ernest J. Klappenbach, chairman of the dinner-dance committee, has announced that tickets for that affair will also be distributed to these seniors at the same time. Those seniors with unpaid assessments who intend to be present at the dinner-dance but not at the Belle Air Ball must make their reservations no later than Wednesday. If their assessments have been paid they will receive both tickets at this time at $5.00 apiece; otherwise tickets for the dinner-dance will be $6.00. Arthur Hinett's Quintet will

WEEK-END DANCES
Continued on Page Four

Prom Thrush

KAY MARIE

Begin Drive For Blood Donations

Having received a request for two hundred pints of blood from the Volunteer Blood Donors Committee of the American Red Cross, the drive for donors was initiated at Villanova yesterday under the direction of the Student Council. A statement issued by vice-president Rev. Francis X. N. McGuire, O. S. A., expressed the willingness of the college to do everything possible to supply the demand.

The Volunteers Blood Donors Committee has the task of obtaining, in a nation-wide drive, two hundred thousand donations of blood of one pint each for the sole use of the armed forces of the United States. Inasmuch as it will aid the Philadelphia area in reaching its quota of twenty thousand pints, Villanova has been asked to contribute a small part of this sum.

"In donating blood, Villanova will be giving necessary aid to the government in the war effort," Fr. McGuire commented.

By coincidence, a person donating a pint of blood this year may be saved by this same blood if he is in a position in the near future where a blood transfusion is necessary. This is possible in many cases insofar as the plasma will be released by the Army and Navy in case of civilian disasters, such as fire and flood.

All students who wish to contribute one pint of blood are urged to give their names to the Student Council representative who may be found in the front corridor on the first floor of Mendel Hall during noon hour every day up to and including Thursday of this week. The donation will be entirely voluntary and will only be accepted after the student has been found to be physically able to give the blood.

Students who are under twenty years of age and who wish to contribute must have the written consent of their parents. Cards will be distributed on which such consent is formally stated.

When a sufficient number have volunteered, the Red Cross will be notified and they will make arrangements to accept these donations at the college sometime during the month of March.

Twenty-Five Pass V-7 Physical Exam Given To Engineers

Twenty-five students have successfully passed the physical examination required by the Naval Reserve V-7 program, J. Stanley Morehouse, dean of the engineering school, announced today. Commissions will probably be offered later this year.

Navy physicians who conducted the examinations pointed out that a few of the fifty-one applicants who failed to meet the rigid requirements are now being reconsidered and may be accepted later. Those who were rejected because of minor defects in teeth or vision are included in this group.

The present program of the Navy department allows seniors to continue in school until they receive their degrees. Members of the present junior class who have passed their examinations will be permitted to remain with their class until graduation. If the juniors do not take advantage of the accelerated program this summer, they will probably be required to spend a sixty-day training period with the navy.

Beta Gamma Meets St. Joe's Tomorrow

Beta Gamma, college debating society, will meet St. Joseph's College at the Lady of Good Counsel School, Moorestown, N. J., tomorrow, under the sponsorship of the Parent Teachers Association.

The topic for debate will be, "Resolved: That the government should regulate by law all labor unions."

Representing Villanova on the negative side will be David Reardon, commerce school senior, George Harris, junior education, and John Fullam, senior education.

On Saturday members of Beta Gamma debated with the University of Pennsylvania group in a non-decision discussion of the permanent compulsory military training topic. Wilfred Gagen, commerce school sophomore, and Fullam upheld the negative for Villanova.

Disappointment

DISAPPOINTMENT! This word means something to everyone of us. From the time we first started to play with rattles we have been meeting disappointment. From our elders we are told that we will go through life meeting setbacks. We have become more or less accustomed to them and we have learned to take them in stride along with our satisfactions.

The greatest disappointment that a student of today may have to face is his failure to complete his college curriculum by being called to the Army. We all have seen our classmates, our buddies, leaving for the Army one by one. We all know how disappointed they were. We all know that we too will feel keen pangs if the same happens to us. But are we all prepared to take this disruption of our way of life in the spirit compatible with our training?

If we are not, then we are at a critical point and there is a chance that we may go "sour" on life. This should not be. We have many blessings which we have enjoyed, and Army life is not a life without compensations. If we are called to the Army we should use our knowledge to the best of our ability and become good soldiers.

It will be hard to take at first. For some of us it will be harder than for others, but let us look at the facts of the situation. We will be in the Army bag and baggage. We will have an assignment or job to do. We have had assignments and jobs before, and experience has taught us that the easiest way to do them is honestly and sincerely. So let's be honest and sincere soldiers.

—T. C. M.

Many Happy Returns

THE members of the Villanovan staff, in the name of the entire student body, take this opportunity to express their appreciation of and respect for the Very Rev. Edward V. Stanford, O. S. A., president of the college, in extending to him their best wishes on his forty-fifth birthday, which he will celebrate on Saturday, Feb. 14.

We wish also at this time to thank Fr. Stanford for the personal consideration he is giving the student body during this crisis, and to assure him that such a policy will meet with the complete co-operation it so richly deserves.

VILLANOVAN

Issued twen'y-five times a year from Villanova College, Villanova, Pa.

THOMAS F. DEVINE, '43 ....Editor-in-Chief
JACQUES E. MAUCH, '43 ....Sports Editor
ROBERT F. YOUNG, '44 ....College Editor
WARD C. GUNCHEON, '43 ....Managing Editor
ROBERT T. CANFIELD, '43 ....Copy Editor
THOMAS C. MURASKI, '43 ....Literary Editor
EUGENE P. SMITH, 43 ....Business Manager
LORING A. JONES, '43 ....Advertising Manager
RAYMOND G. AMICONE, '43 ....Photography Editor
NICHOLAS C. ENI, '43 ....Circulation Manager
LOUIS J ESPOSITO, '43 ....Exchange Editor

Columnists
E. F. Bennis, '43 S. J. Canning, '43

Staff Writers
F. Bagot, '43; A. Berenato, '45; H. Binder, '44; J. Bongiovanni, '43; W. Craven, '43; L. DeSimone, '44; J. Dudley, '43; D. Ehart, '45; T. McFarland, '45; J. McWilliams, '45; J. Mahoney, '43; J. Murray, '45; J. Nunemaker, '43; J. Quinn, 44; F. Reese, '43; D. Sauers, '44; T. Schubert, '45; J. Tortoreto, '44; W. Walsh, '44; S. Zeeman, '45.

Business Assistants
C. Callahan, '43 W. Golden, '45
H. C. O'Connor, Jr., '45 J. Walsh, '43

Circulation Assistants
J. Correale, '44 L. Hood, '45
F. Facciolo, '45 J. Keays, '44
G. Giacchino, '44 J. Monroe, '44

Photography Staff
L. Eni, '44 E. Mancuso, '45

Faculty Advisor—Rev. Edward B. McKee, O. S. A.

This paper is dedicated to one of the finest men who ever entered Villanova; scholar, athlete, gentleman — LEO GOODREAU

Subscription: $2.00 per year. Circulation: 3500.
Entered as second class matter at the Villanova Post Office December 27, 1928.

Member of Associated Collegiate Press; Distributor of Collegiate Digest.
Member of Catholic School Press Association, Catholic College Press Association, and National Scholastic Press Association.

Out Of The Darkness

IN RECENT years the American scene has been sadly marked by the brazen attitudes expressed by certain sections of our press.

Glaring half-truths, subversive propaganda, and the most deliberate lies are the outstanding characteristics of the efforts of these unscrupulous publishers. The clever use of biased opinions, misleading statistics and illogically drawn conclusions are all designed to manipulate public opinion.

In this manner, undesirable elements of the press have succeeded in shading political, religious, economic, and other current problems in the light which is most favorable to their own selfish interests—forgetful of their responsibilities to the reader, to the ethics of journalism, and to common honor and decency.

Much of the ignorance, error and prejudice which have been unfortunately prominent in large sections of public opinion today, is directly attributable to such unprincipled editors and publishers.

At no time is this immoral influence more acutely sensed, more widely distributed among the American people, than during wartime, when these activities become an even more serious threat by undermining national morale.

But above this scandalous mire rises a unique factor in American journalism — the Catholic Press.

Proudly holding aloft the blazing shield of Truth, the American Catholic Press is continuing its vigorous struggle against the triple threat to democracy: ignorance, error, and prejudice.

It is fitting that the Hierarchy of the United States has set aside this month of February to pay tribute to the writers, editors and publishers of the Catholic Press. But no amount of printed truth can possibly attain the good end for which it was intended — popular enlightenment — unless the various newspapers and magazines find their way into the hands of intelligent readers.

It is with this thought in mind that we urge every Catholic, college students in particular, to make every effort to foster the reading of Catholic literature. This can only be achieved through good example.

—R. T. C.

Blackout

JUST a week ago tonight we participated in our first blackout. Villanova can proudly say her cooperation with the country's efforts was 100%. She can say this because every resident from the first to the last cooperated with the college. This is to be commended, because in an institution the size of Villanova there are many possibilities for "slip-ups."

Such cooperation shows that Villanova students are real American men and that in the event of an air raid Villanova can and will do her part. Blackouts are prearranged and air raids are not, but Villanova feels that during a surprise raid she can do just as good a job as she did last week.

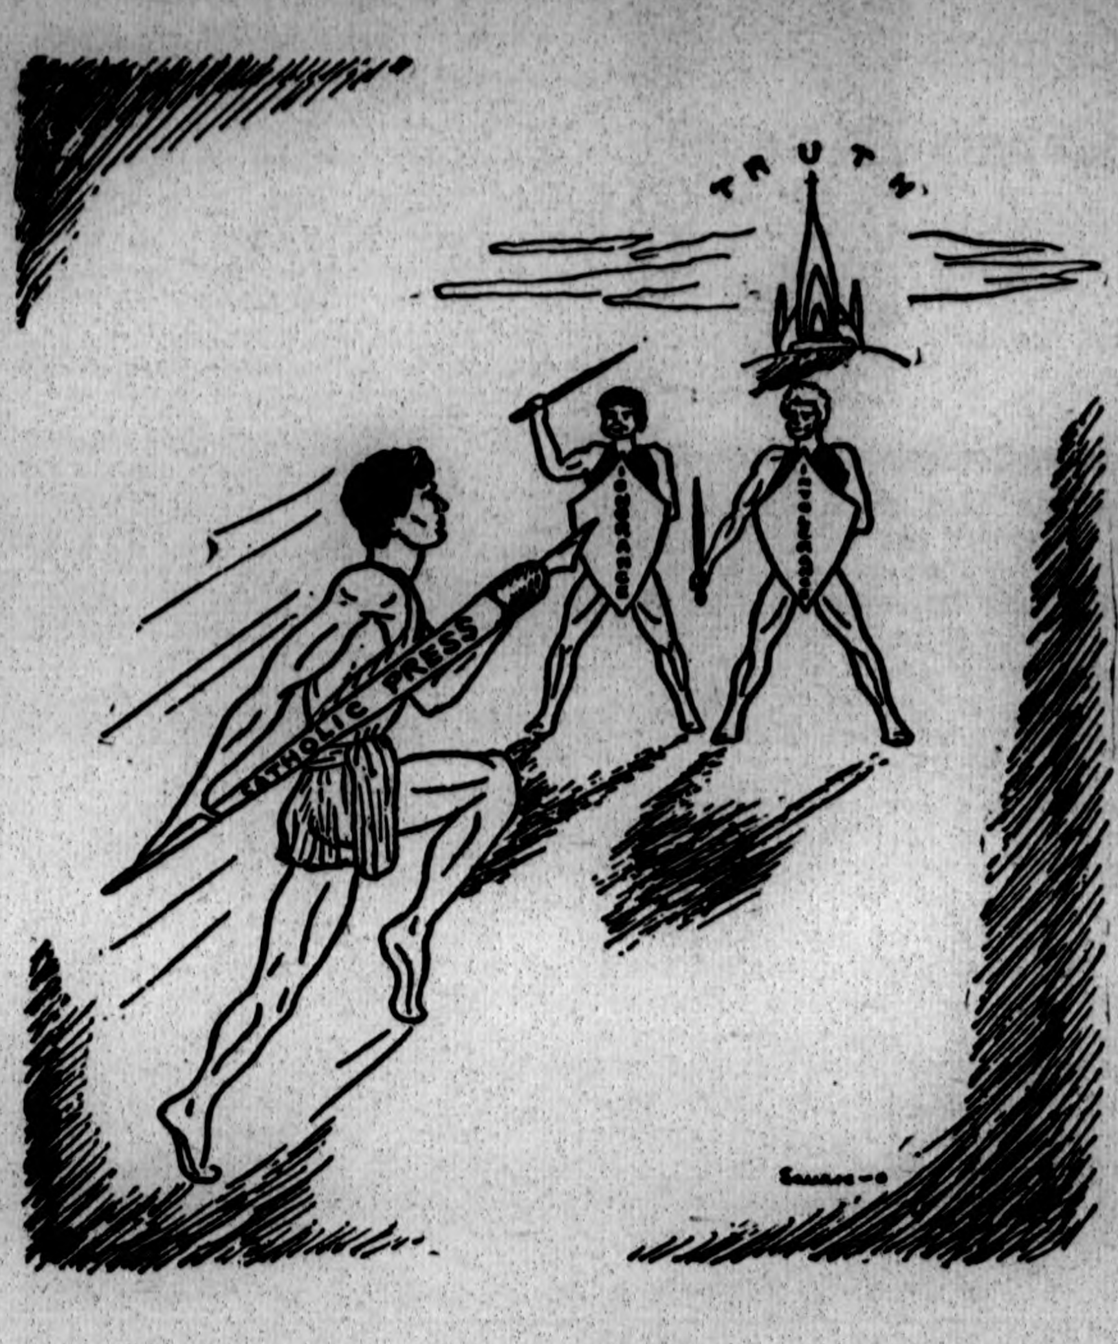
An important factor in coping successfully with enemy attacks is the intelligent cooperation of every citizen with his air raid warden. There is much to be said for sheer courage, but an integral part of well-directed courage is the knowledge of what to do and at what time to act.

Only by diligent and vigorous preparations in times when no bombs are dropping can we assure ourselves of comparative safety in times of stress.

You cooperated before and you will cooperate again.

—T. C. M.

Modern Crusader . . . . . . By SAUERS



FACULTY COMMENTS

Personal Opinion of a Much-Discussed Book

By FR. SULLIVAN

I DOUBT if there has been a book in the last ten years or more that has caused more discussion than A. J. Cronin's "Keys of the Kingdom." At any current gathering of people who read, the book will inevitably come up. Inevitably, also, the group will get around to "the church's attitude" . . . always with some sort of vague insinuation that the Church is hypersensitive about criticism of herself and won't like the book at all. Dr. Cronin has written in a vein of broadmindedness and the Church doesn't approve broadmindedness. "Of course, Father, a man in your position can't be expected to say outright. . ."

Two-Minded Priests?

At this point, I begin to look around for my hat. Right here is where I came in. This group member is about the 500th person I've met who thinks that I (or any other priest) have two minds or sets of opinion; one, my official priest-mind and my priest-opinions; two, my personal mind and my unofficial opinions; my parlor thoughts and pulpit words, wholly distinct from my easy-chair ideas and my across-the-table talks.

We're, at times, supposed to believe in one set of truths, while suspecting (perhaps wistfully), that others are true, too. To be specific, I (or, we) am supposed to maintain in public the "Church's attitude" toward Dr. Cronin's book, at the same time keeping my real opinion of it as something I can talk to myself about while I'm shaving, or at most, as something only to be expressed to intimate friends across the dinner table.

No Intelligent Judgment

Because of this kind of approach from the ordinary buttonholer among the reading public, I have long since given up any attempt at expressing what I think is an intelligent judgment of this book, or of other books. They don't want to hear what I think. They want me to say that I agree with them. A good expedient, I have found, is to begin to look around for an hors d' oeuvre which, unfortunately, I just remember having misplaced.

As a matter of fact, I did not finish reading "Keys of the Kingdom." And this for more than one reason, though the chief reason was Dr. Cronin's bracketing Christ and Confucius as fellow philosophers in the mind of his priest hero.

Style Not Brilliant

First of all, there was the style of the book. It struck me as being, to say the least, not unusual or brilliant. It reminded me too forcefully of the stuff out of which movie dialogue (the "better" movie, of course), is made. Then, the upright characters in the book seemed to me to be a bit on the priggish side, or on the martinetish side, as if Dr. Cronin was fearful that some character for the part of authority would grow likeable and dim the rugged appeal of his hero's individualism.

Thirdly, even with the knowledge that this one was going to grow up to be a missionary to the Chinese, I didn't feel that I could muster the patience to follow the career of another "sensitive boy," "thrown into a world not of his own making," and that sort of thing.

Story of a Priest?

The big reason, as I have said before, was the bracketing of Christ and Confucius. I began the reading of the book with some large degree of interest. It was a book about a priest by a layman. Every priest has a more than curious interest in reading what the laity think about him and his kind; it makes him do a little soul-searching. But, here at the outset, was Dr. Cronin betraying the fact that he wasn't writing about a priest at all.

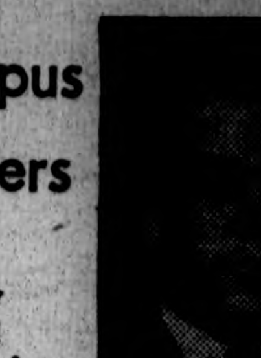
Was I hasty in coming to this quick decision? I thought possibly I was, until Cronin himself, in an article in "Life" magazine, admitted that his hero could have been any kind of minister of religion—Baptist, Congregationalist, etc. What the hero is, then, is a "do good to all men," "we're all trying to get to the same place" type of man, garbed, by some accident of chance, as a Catholic priest.

Priest Another Christ

There are some truths which, all the pleas of tolerance to the contrary, must be maintained even to death. I daresay there have been Cronins who have died rather than admit that an Anglican substitute was the equal of their own Irish-Catholic priest. Why? Because the priest is another Christ, and Christ was not even remotely like any mere philosopher since He was the Son of God.

Maybe I took the book altogether too seriously. But, anyhow, I think I had good reason to conclude that Dr. Cronin was wasting my time.

Campus Capers



By Ed Bennis

THIS past week-end has seen many of the local gigolos back in circulation again after the exams and retreat of the past two weeks. The mid-year's certainly cast a pall of gloom about the campus and as the marks begin to trickle in, one notices varied expressions on the faces of the lads; those with good marks exhibit the smile of a toothpaste advertisement, while the low-mark lads just have "one long pan."

The socially-inclined are all set for the Belle Air Ball this weekend with dates and parties all lined up. Mal Hallett will dispense the rhythms for all on Friday; Saturday, the seniors have their own private dinner dance. Pity the poor Villanova father — income tax due and dear son pleading for a "few extra bucks" to carry him over this weekend.

* * *

JOTTINGS:

Bill Hooper is keeping in close touch with Esther Jane these days via the phone and personal appearance. . . Jim Harkins and a certain Bucknell co-ed are penning sweet nothings to each other.

Prom co-chairman Jack Gallagher — of the Brooklyn Irish — was seen at the Emerald Ball in N. Y. last Friday in a lengthy stag line . . . Dan Cedrone and Florence are becoming two of Cupid's most ardent rooters.

Bill Kelly had an embarrassing situation the other weekend. Seems that the three girls he has been courting were out on a triple date and Bill happened to run into them. Our hero is still wondering what they said about him after he departed. He should know by now that you can't burn the candle at both ends and in the middle at the same time.

* * *

LAST WORDS:

Watch me make this light before it changes red!

* * *

MORE STUFF:

Bill Craven's burning interest in night school is due to Marian — a blonde bundle of loveliness. Jack MacBain is another of our lads who is due to help sink the Rising Sun in the near future. . . D. P. E. fraternity is being rapidly depleted by the draft; Ted Galysh and Roy Lind have left for the armed forces, and Sam Canning, secretary, is now on his way there. A trio of basketballers — Joe Lord, Herm Drizen, and Fred Gerland — were well escorted after the Brooklyn College game by attractive members of the weaker sex.

The dance trotters wended their way to Immaculata for a tea dance last Wednesday . . . 'Tis said that "Oklahoma" Manderfield made a big hit with a number of the girls, but had trouble consolidating his gains because of the number of wolves present. By the way, who is the blonde George McElwee is striving to meet at the above-mentioned college?

Rumor has it that Joe Malone and Quincy De Grace are in a predicament over the coming dance. They each have been squiring two girls, but don't know which of the two to ask to the prom. So, at last reports, they weren't going to the dance, thus hoping to ease out of a rather delicate situation.

* * *

DEFINITION:

Night clubs are places where the tables are reserved and the guests are not.

* * *

PEEKINGS:

Debonair Jim Walsh is losing sleep over Mary Daly from Cynwyd; those who have seen them together say they make a handsome couple. . . Betty Allen is the cause of Paul Hinske's specialization in relations with the opposite sex. . . According to Jim Cashin, he plans on taking the "slow-up" course, instead of the accelerated one. . . Bob McIntyre had a date with Maria over the weekend — the first time they have been together in a year. He claims it is nothing serious . . . but that is open to debate. . . Paul Gallagher and Betty Lynch are becoming quite an item . . . she is the cause of his roaming around the campus with that love-sick look in his eyes.

Senior Stuff

By a Prospective Prom-Goer

(After much searching for a suitable dance band, Mal Hallet has finally been chosen to provide the rhythmical revelries for the traditional Senior Ball next Friday night. Also honored to endure the presence of our fourth-year men will be the ultra-swank Ritz-Carlton Hotel when the Seniors' private party takes place there on Saturday night in the form of their dinner-dance; hence, cause for the following vivid, versatile and vivacious verse.)

Gallagher sat in Bryn Mawr town
Drinking his pot o' sours;
"O, where can I get a good orchestra
To play this prom of ours?"
"Eureka!" cried old pudgy-chin,
And hied him to his hall,
"Mal Hallet is the only man to play,
To play the Belle Air Ball!"
Melton "ayed," and Ernie cried,
"O, wondrous choice, handsome fellow,
This Mallet Hallet is a lad
Whose stuff is generally mellow."
"Half over, half over to Philadelph'
Half over to the Ritz-Carlton,
We'll pay a man, if right we can,
To furnish the place for our fun."
And so they did; the prom was clinched,
(Five-fifty is the price),
So call that bone and hank o' hair,
And casually break the ice.
Say, "Listen, sweet, the prom is due,
So darn your nylons, quick!
And look your nicest Friday night,
Or, mayhap, you'll not click."
Then hang up, suddenly, and think
Of the state of your mouldy wallet;
"Oh, well — the Field House — and the 'boys'—
And good, old Mallet Hallet."
Exams have passed (you, too, perhaps),
You owe yourselves a treat,
Get on the floor and grab a dance—
(Forget your brains
And study pains)
And merely move your feet.
Melton and Gal thought it rather rotten
That dancing should be quite forgotten,
So they sat around in a crude sort of ring
And remembered it like anything.
The result of the conclave now is known,
(Five-fifty is the price)
That dancing will remembered be
On Friday, the thirteenth of February.

Blackout Brings Out Beaming Moon While Weary Wardens Warn Unwary

By TOM McFARLAND

Last Tuesday night we saved twenty dollars for the business office. We turned out all the lights on the campus for twenty minutes. All was darkness, except the moon. Something should have been done about the moon. It was so bright that we suffered a bad case of burn.

It took someone in Austin Hall a fairly long time to break up the card game and turn off the light. And then too, someone had a light burning in the Monastery. Knowing what those electric razors are, we can sympathize.

List of Offenders

Nevertheless, on the special Villanova list of Japanese sympathizers now being drawn up for the benefit of the F. B. I., we will place the moon, and the other two offenders. Immediate execution before a firing squad is in order.

After the lights were all out the only visible things were Mr. Quagliano's ties and the luminescent paint on Mr. Driscoll's tie-pin. The campus was as dark and silent as a crypt. It was so dark that Dr. McGrath had to read by the light of his radium treated watch.

Coach Al Severance, after helping to polish the basketball court, tripped over the chain which is across the road passing the C. & F. building. Groping his way along the wall of Austin, he gained the chapel creeped along the monastery, bumped into a tree in front of Fedigan, reached the wall of that building, and was searching for the door when he was again floored by something huge and powerful.

A Tall Man

His knowledge of braille telling him that it was a man, a tall man, he said, in his best voice, "Want to play basketball, kid?" And the next night Paul Stenn started at center for the home team.

There were millions of air-raid wardens, complete with whistles and padded shoes. They thronged about the roads blowing vociferously. "Lights out!" they shouted. A feeble voice said "Why?"; there was a thump and a thud. The body has not yet been discovered.

Louie put out the lights in the pie shop, and locked the doors. He should have locked the doors first. Tastycakes are six cents now, and sandwiches—well!

Helpful, Too

The black-out brought and wrought inconvenience; it also was helpful in some cases. The seminarians were able to sleep again because the saxaphone practising in Alumni was discontinued for a while.

All in all, the black-out was a success. According to the press (we smirk), it was 99% perfect — like soap. We wonder, however, what would have been the success of the experiment had a son-of-the-rising sun ventured a few bombs on the landscape. The moon would have shed enough light on the image under his bombsight to enable him to register "tilt"—no refund—on a good deal of Philadelphia. But if he could see us, we could see him. That would have been fun.

Meet The Boys: "Big Deal Gal" Co-manages Senior Ball; On The Honor Roll, "Sully" Is Over All

By JOE MAHONEY

WE hitched our reportorial wagon to a star and managed to single out for observation two of the brightest fixtures in the Villanova firmament. Perhaps we shouldn't use the word "managed," for, having interviewed him, we're convinced that Jack Gallagher has taken care of all the managing that's to be done around this campus. As Tom Sullivan said, "He's been business manager of about everything." But to vital statistics:

Flatbush Protegee

Born in Flatbush, New York, on Sept. 2, 1919, Jack first exposed himself to the three "r's" at St. Gregory's grammar school. He left St. Gregory's in the sixth grade and entered Salesian School, in Goshen, New York, "the land of the dark roan trotters." (Voice quivering with civic pride, "Gal" pointed out, "The scene of 'The Hambletonian,' you know.")

Salesian High in New Rochelle next catered to his educational needs, and it was there he started managing, first the basketball, then the baseball team. Here, too, he was active in dramatics and the choir. (Easy to visualize that cherubic countenance above the choir boy's surplice and buster brown collar.) And so to Villanova.

Nothing But Business

"Gal" entered the School of Commerce and Finance, but research experts are still trying to figure out how he managed to squeeze classes in among his other activities. He's been business manager of the VILLANOVAN for three years, of Belle Masque for two years. A four year member of the Glee Club, he's been in the Sanctuary Society just as long. (Contrary opinion of McCabe et. al. notwithstanding.

Retired members of the paper can also remember the "man with his head in the air" for his excellent management in arranging the VILLANOVAN dinner-dance for the past three years. Where there is money to be collected, and arrangements to be made, "Gal" can be found dickering with agents or brow-beating fellows for assessments.

Started Early

Society and things social first drafted him to serve (ominous phrase!) on the committee for the Sophomore Cotillion. Last year he served on the Prom committee and this year, needless to say (Oh, go on, say it. . But everybody knows . . .Sure, but say it anyway. . . Well, here goes.) "Gal" is co-chairman of the Senior Ball.

His thoughts for the immediate future are of course mainly concerned with the Belle Air Ball. Farther off he envisions a career with the Naval Air Corps. And then—"Gal" would like to be an undertaker.

Luck in all of these, "Gal." We're sure you'll manage to succeed in all your undertakings.

THOMAS ANDREW SULLIVAN may be likened to a star which burns brightly and steadily. No whizzing around the Villanova skies trailing fiery streamers, he's like the evening star—dependable and always one of the first on the job.

"Sully" was born in Ardmore on April 9, 1921. He attended both St. Colman's and the Ardmore Avenue grammar schools. He entered Lower Merion Junior High and from there went on to the Senior High. At Lower Merion he was in the French Club (a fact of which he seems particularly proud) and on the staff of the school paper (shades of things to come). Looking toward college he eyed nearby Villanova with affection and at length decided to enroll here. (Perhaps the fact that he won a scholarship in the competitive examinations influenced his decision somewhat.)

Honor Student

"Sully" was introduced to the business world when, during high school, he worked in a neighborhood grocery store. At Villanova, then, he also enrolled in the School of Commerce and Finance and soon became a permanent fixture at the top of the school's honor roll. Nor did he neglect extra-curricular activities.

A member of the VILLANOVAN staff for three years, "Sully" was Copy Editor last year. Every Monday afternoon, Tom could be found at the Main Line Times as the advance guard for the staff. Fridays, Saturdays and sometimes Sundays he could be seen biting the end of his pencil as he copy-read volumes of stories. During brief respites from his editorial position he provided rough and ready opposition to Tom Doyle's bloody basketball technique and held him from breaking any records established by past members in the regular afternoon basketball (?) games.

This is his third year on the "Belle Air" staff, and he's been an active member of the Delta Pi Epsilon fraternity since its reorganization. Last year he served on the Blazer Ball Committee. He attends the history seminars regularly.

Future C. P. A.

Like Gallagher, "Sully" was reluctant to discuss extra-extra-curricular activities in the way of amorous adventures. For instance, no details or confirmation of his "secret wedding" were forthcoming. (What do you mean—confirmation? It was in the VILLANOVAN wasn't it? Then it's so.)

Plans for the future provide for a career as a C. P. A. or a statistician. He registers next Monday and will then wait to see what Uncle Sam has to say about the immediate future.

"Sully" confessed a fondness for architectural drawing and admitted that he once contemplated training for a career in engineering. We think that, amateur architect or no, thus far he's been doing a pretty fine job of building his life; he's got a really solid foundation there and blueprints for the future look pretty good too.

The Trading Post

By Lou Esposito

PREPARING, cramming, Exams completed and lamenting just begun, I've decided my typewriter's vacation is over; so here goes. . .again.

Seated behind this typewriter,
. . I am weary and ill at ease,
For thought of the final marks I'll get
Starts knockings in my knees.

But like a light in the darkness,
A thought expels this fear;
I like Villanova so very much,
I'll stay another year.

* * *

No Sense:

A bit of psychology from the Rosaverian (College of St. Rose). A sensible girl is not so sensible as she looks, because a sensible girl has more sense than to look sensible.

* * *

Wishful Thinking:

Customer: Do you have a book called, "Man, the Master of Woman"?

Alert Salesman: The fiction is on the other side, sir.

Duquesne Duke.

* * *

So is College Life—

Early to bed
And early to rise
And your girl goes out
With other guys.

La Salle Collegian.

* * *

First Line of Defense
(We hope not.):

We trust the boys of the Northeastern University rifle club are as sharp in their marksmanship as they boast, but if perchance they should be as bad targeteers as the fellows at M. I. T., we'd rather have them on the Jap side. According to the Northeastern News:—Last week out at Tech's rifle range, a squad of riflemen were getting in trim for future competition. They knelt at two hundred and fifty yards and fired. Not a hit. They move up to two hundred yards. Not a hit. They tried again at one hundred. Again nary a hit. "Fix bayonets and charge," bawled the instructor, "It's your only chance."

* * *

No Insinuation Intended. . .and Don't Blame Me.

When you started
This you thought it
Was a poem;
By now
You see
You were Mistaken.
Isn't it funny
How people will Continue to read
Something, even
When they know
They're being fooled?

Xavier "News."

* * *

Propaganda:

Nowaday even the news broadcasts are becoming amusing, though they hardly know or intend it. The radio last week, for example, told us in jubilant tones that all the Latin American nations are completely for us down in Rio, except Argentine, Brazil, Chile, and Ecuador. Which is about the same as saying that the Red party will poll all the votes in the next presidential election, except for a few registered by the Republican, Democrats, etc.

* * *

Gone, But Not Forgotten:

The mid year exams have probably caused more than one nightmare during the past few weeks (assuming that some lucky students were able to sleep at all) and, from a previous issue of the College of St. Thomas "Aquinas" we quote this reverie:

I think that I shall never see
A grade as lovely as a "B".
A "B" whose soft round form is pressed
Upon the records of the blest;
A "D" comes easily, and yet
It's not so easy to forget
"D's" are made by fools like me
But only grinds can make a "B".

* * *

He Didn't Know Women!

The scientist who said that the lesser cannot contain the greater never worked in a woman's shoe shop.

North Dakota Scientist.

Gaining Knowledge For National Defense

As a part of the newly organized Engineering Defense Training classes conducted at Villanova, Kenneth J. Moser, M. S., of the Engineering faculty, is shown in the Materials Testing lab explaining the principles of a tension testing machine to one of his pupils. About 100 students have enrolled in the courses, which began last Wednesday.

College Extends New War Classes

Primary Naval Courses, Language Study, and First Aid Instruction Available

Under the newly organized emergency program various and extensive courses relative to military training are now being offered to the students. Registrations were accepted up to Thursday, Feb. 5, for courses in navigation, naval history, naval etiquette, advanced language study for Intelligence Department work, and first aid.

The first aid course, which will be given by Dr. Paul Loefflad, is open to all members of the college. Sessions will be held every Thursday night at 8:00 P. M. in room 215, Mendel Hall, for the next ten weeks. All who successfully complete the 20 hour course and pass the final examination will be given Red Cross Certificates.

New Courses In June

Starting in June students will have the opportunity of studying meteorology, the Morse code, aerotronics, military acoustics, and possibly a few more subjects relative to national defense. However, definite plans have not as yet been completed for the summer semester.

The General Committee for Civilian Defense, under the chairmanship of Very Rev. Edward V. Stanford, O. S. A., and consisting of the following members: Rev. Vincent A. McQuade, O. S. A.; Rev. John McMenamin, O. S. A.; John A. Oakey and Harry S. Bueche, of the Engineering faculty; Thomas McKimmey, Thomas Sheehey, John Kirchner and Thomas McQuade, has already set up various defense branches at Villanova.

These consist of Air Raid Warden Corps, an Auxiliary Fire Unit, a Red Cross Committee, a Conservation Committee, a Defense Bonds and Stamps Committee, a Physical Fitness Committee, and a Campus Committee whose purpose will be to foster American Ideals.

Blackout A Success

Villanova witnessed her first blackout Tuesday night, Feb. 3. Officials announced that it was a complete success and commended the splendid cooperation of the entire student body.

Trained Engineer Posts Tendered By Civil Service

Junior Appointments Announced; Experience Not A Pre-Requisite

Urgent need for trained engineers for the successful prosecution of the war program is stressed in an announcement from the United States Civil Service Commission in Washington.

The Commission is accepting applications for all grades and branches of enginering. None of the examinations requires a written test, and applicants for junior grades are rated on their engineering education; no experience is required.

Junior Openings

Civil Service Announcement 122 states the requirements for junior engineers in aeronautical, naval architecture, and marine engineering. The usual college engineering course must be supplemented by a specialized defense training course or by experience in the branch chosen.

Junior appointments for all other branches of engineering are provided for in Announcement 172. A new feature is that certain college courses (other than the usual engineering courses) may also be accepted if supplemented by appropriate engineering defense training classes.

Opportunities in lower grades are open to those who have had three years of a four-year college course, including work in mathematics, physics, and allied engineering courses.

Apply at Once

Applications for all these positions are being accepted for several months or until further notice. Qualified engineers are urged, however, to apply at once.

Full information is given in the announcements, which may be obtained with the proper application forms at any first- or second-class post office or from the U. S. Civil Service Commission, Washington, D. C.

For Expert Convenient Attention
SERVICE IS OUR FIRST THOUGHT
Patronize
THE CAMPUS BARBER SHOP
· First Class Work ·
· Popular Prices ·

The Wayne Hotel
Lancaster Avenue
Wayne, Pa.
Headquarters for Visitors to Villanova
Only Two Miles from the Campus
Excellent Dinners

Spring Flight Courses Start For C. A. A. Men

College flight instruction, sponsored by the Civilian Aeronautical Authority, will open its spring training period during the latter part of this week, it was announced last week by William G. Driscoll, assistant professor of mathematics and physics, who is directing the aviation course at Villanova.

New students who have been accepted for the training include: Steven H. Aisenbrey, Walter J. Fox, and Thomas H. Green, all seniors in the commerce school; James M. Bonner, James J. Murphy and Robert J. Lukens, sophomores of the engineering school; Joseph J. Carbine, Robert E. Casey and Harold J. Donahue, sophomores in the arts, commerce and science schools, respectively, and John H. Meader of Haverford College.

The course will consist of ground training, to be given at Villanova, and actual flight instruction at the Main Line Airport.

Provide "Big" Show For Hallet's Band

Tall Mal Hallett is flanked by Joe Carbonaro (left) and "Buddy" Welcome (right). Together they provide over five hundred pounds of musical talent. Carbonaro leaves his slap-bass to team with Welcome, from the brass section, and leader Hallett, in one of the band's novelty acts for next Friday's Belle Air Ball.

Week-End Dances

Continued From Page One

supply the music for the dinner-dance.

Seniors To March

Feature attraction of the "black and white" formal will be the senior promenade, which will begin promptly at 11:30 P. M. With the orchestra on the right side of the floor, seniors and their dates will march down through the exits on either side of the band from the upper balcony of the Field House.

In "V" formation they will walk to the center of the dance floor where they will be given their keys and programs by Rev. Francis X. N. McGuire, O. S. A., vice-president of the college, and Rev. Robert M. Sullivan, O. S. A., moderator of the senior class.

He'll Sing Too

JERRY PERKINS

In order that the promenade arrangement will be known by each senior, the co-chairmen of the dance have called a special meeting of the entire senior class for this afternoon at 1:00 P. M. in room 215, Mendel Hall.

Banking the Field House floor on two sides will be a white wall approximately three feet high. Atop this will be silhouettes depicting the sky-line of New York. These will be accentuated by indirect lighting from the base of the wall.

Behind the orchestra on the right side, a huge silhouette stretching from the floor to the balcony will depict the college chapel. Four other silhouettes of equal size, two of the "cap and diploma" and two of the "top-hat and cane" will be placed near the corners of the floor.

Immediately in front of the wall and sky-line, beneath the balcony, tables and chairs will line the floor for those couples not dancing. This space will be separated from the dance floor by huge white pillars extended to the balcony. The only lighting for the Field House will be that supplied by the indirect lighting hidden in the base of the white wall.

The stage, banked by black curtains and draperies, will be reserved for the serving of refreshments. The dance committee has secured the services of a caterer for the refreshments.

Programs and keys as approved by the committee have been secured. Decidedly different from those of past years, the design of the programs and keys has not been revealed. Underclassmen will receive theirs upon entrance while seniors will receive theirs during the promenade.

Hallett will bring a 12-piece orchestra to the dance, together with Kay Marie and Jerry Perkins, vocalists. They will be coming to the Field House direct from Hood College in Frederick, Md., where they are booked for a Thursday evening dance.

During the four hours of dancing, several skits have been planned by the band. Featured will be "Buddy" Welcome and Joe Carbonaro, the latter a slap-bass man. The "shows" carried out by these two, together with the style of Hallett's music, have made him one of the best orchestra's in the country for college dances.

During his stop-over at the Fox Theater in Philadelphia several years ago, Hallett received the praise of newspaper critics for his distinctive arrangements and in particular for the various antics performed by band members.

His popularity among college students has been due mainly to his congeniality. Willing to play requests, he has mingled with the dancers not as a spot-lighted band-leader but as "just one of the fellows."

COLEBY
Tailoring
Inc.
57th & MARKET STS.
Suits & Topcoats
$27.75
SEE
Steve
Aisenbrey
110 Fedigan Hall

WRIGLEY'S
SPEARMINT
CHEWING GUM
V-107

No Cramming Necessary!
For swell flavor and real chewing fun—the answer is delicious Wrigley's Spearmint Gum

---

Duquesne Five Faces 'Cats Tomorrow Night

VILLANOVAN SPORTS

Mile Relay Team Runs Brilliantly In Opening Meet

Guida, Dunbar, O'Sullivan, and DiCarlo Win Millrose Event in Third Fastest Time of Meet

Villanova's mile relay team opened their 1942 indoor campaign in New York's Madison Square last Saturday night with a smashing victory in their intercollegiate race of the 35th Annual Millrose Games.

The Wildcat quartet of George Guida, Dixie Dunbar, Bob O'Sullivan, and sprint ace John DiCarlo, running in that order, raced home a good twenty-five yards ahead of Boston College in the time of 3.22.6. Holy Cross and Manhattan finished third and fourth respectively.

George Guida, leadoff man, was jostled around at the start but at the halfway mark forged ahead and had five yards when he passed the baton to Dunbar. They were never threatened from here on in and anchor man DiCarlo was not extended although he did run a fine race.

Third Fastest

The time turned in by the Blue and White team was the third fastest recorded all evening in the Mile Relays. The Fordham University quartet anchored by the fleet John Campbell, registered the best time of the evening when they reeled off 3.21.6, defeating New York University and Notre Dame.

Georgetown also bettered the Wildcat's time by two tenths of a second when they beat St. John's University and Colgate in 3.22.4.

World Records Set

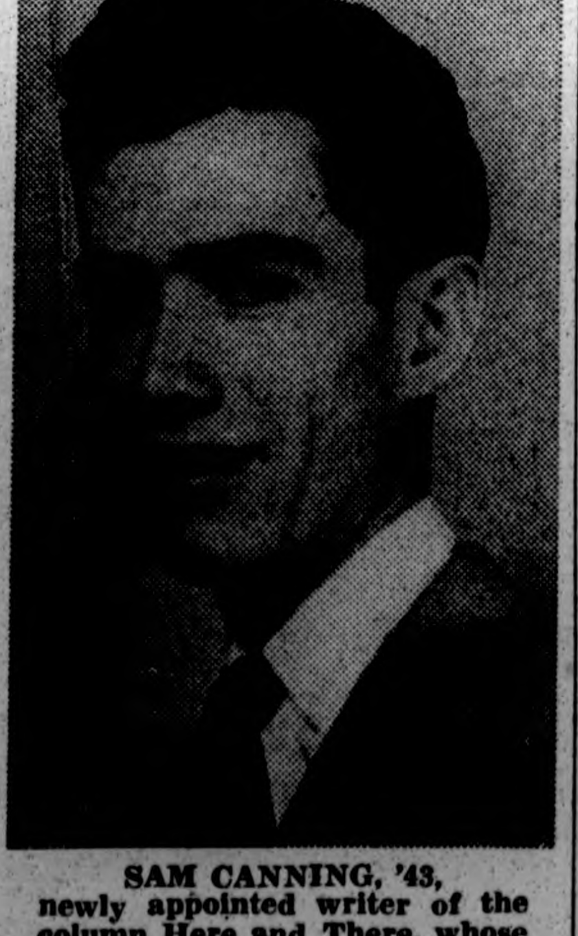
Two new world's marks were set and another was tied during the running of this famed meet. Cornelius Wamerdam of the San Francisco Olympic Club set a new indoor mark by clearing 15 feet ⅝ of an inch in the pole vault. Charles Hlad created a new mark in the sixty yard high hurdles when he ran that distance in 7.2, and Barney Ewell tied the record for the sixty yard dash when he ran .06.1. Greg Rice set a new Millrose meet record when he ran the second fastest two miles in history by doing 8:52.8.

Other fine performances were Lou Collado's 2:14.3 for 1000 yards; Fred Sickinger's 1:55.5 for 880 yards and Fordham's relay clockings of 3:21.6 for the mile and 7:45.3 for two miles.

Wamerdam received the Rodman Wanamaker International Trophy as the outstanding individual performer of the meet.

As indicated by the many fine performances turned in during the games, the 1942 indoor season promises to be one of the best in the history of track, and with the new physical fitness programs, interest should be elevated to a high pitch.

Uncle Sam's Sam



SAM CANNING, '43, newly appointed writer of the column Here and There, whose short stay was terminated by his induction into the army. Canning, junior in the Commerce and Finance school, hails from Cranford, N. J.

Keep Your Eye On 'Em

Villanova mile relay team that won their opening race of the season in Madison Square Garden last Saturday night in the Millrose games. Reading from left to right, John DiCarlo, Bob O'Sullivan, Dixie Dunbar and George Guida.

SPORTORIAL

By JACQUES MAUCH, Sports Editor

TAKE a good look at the picture of the four boys above and keep it in mind because you're going to be seeing and hearing a lot about them in the next six weeks. In fact we think they will make track history at Villanova this year and possibly the next few years if Uncle Sam doesn't need them.

Saturday night in Madison Square Garden they gave 18,000 track fans a taste of what the Wildcat enthusiasts are about to receive. They also just about scared the pants off the big name runners in intercollegiate competition.

Coach Jumbo Elliott has planned and waited for two years to develop such a team and you can be sure that the wily mentor will see to it that his boys make a name for themselves on the boards this winter. Jumbo has never been known to have been deaf to opportunity's knock whether it was golf, cards or track.

Not Even Pushed

Saturday night this quartet composed of three sophomores and a single junior ran the third fastest time of the evening in their event and were not extended. We know for a fact that two of the boys ran well within themselves and are capable of better performances. This does not take anything away from their showing Saturday night. Anyone who has 25 or 30 yards on an opponent will not usually run quite as fast a race as he would if he were pushed all the way unless he is such a veteran that he knows exactly what he can do. Besides this was the first meet of the season and the boys did not know just what they were capable of.

Georgetown Extended

On the other hand Georgetown's team whose time was just two tenths of a second better than Villanova's, was forced to extend itself to nip St. John's and Colgate Universities. And it took Fordham's anchor man, John Campbell, all he could do to stave off the bid by N. Y. U.'s anchor man. When a duel such as this ensues the men often times run better than they are ordinarily capable.

But keep your eyes on these hard-running lads and you will open them wider and wider as each meet passes. And as this quartet passes in review, the gritty, stocky Guida, the powerful red thatched Dunbar, the "smooth-as-silk" O'Sullivan, and the fleet DiCarlo, history will be made.

Two-Milers Ready

Let us not forget the two mile team which takes its bow Friday night at Convention Hall. In Captain Bill Hooper, junior Harry Keefrider, sophomore Dutch McCarthy, and either Dunbar or O'Sullivan Coach Elliott has a

SPORTORIAL
Continued on Page Seven

Courtmen Continue Erratic Ways; Beat Brooklyn, Lose To Lehigh

'Cats Take Fast New York Team, 36-33, But Fail to Click Against Engineers

Villanova continued their policy of "win one—lose one" last week by defeating Brooklyn College 36-33 in the field house, and then losing a thriller to Lehigh, 45-42 at Bethlehem.

The boys from the Dodgers' home town did not dent the Wildcat defense for a field goal until the game was seventeen minutes old. In that time they were held to six foul shots. Rallying in the closing minutes of the opening half, the visitors had pulled up to a 12-21 score as the teams left the floor at intermission.

Brooklyn continued to press the 'Cats hard during the second half. Bill Woods kept the Wildcats in the lead with twelve points, while Hirsch of Brooklyn with the same number, was keeping his team close on the heels of the victors.

Stenn Plays

To add some height to his club Al Severance started big Paul Stenn at center. Paul put in ten minutes of fine defensive play and drew three foul throws. But dragging the extra weight gained since the close of the football campaign soon told on the rugged fellow. However, while he remained in the game Villanova was able to get possession of the ball more often.

Saturday night Villanova tossed away a victory in the final minutes of their game with Lehigh. It was a case of too much of Lehigh's Bill Binder for the Wildcats. This big gun scored twenty-two points, four of them in the closing minutes to put his team ahead 40-38, a lead they never relinquished.

Binder Stars

Villanova trailed at the half, 25-21. Led by Bill Woods, the 'Cats fought back uphill during the closing half. The lead changed hands several times before Binder came through with a long shot and a pivot, these cinching the fray. He left the game shortly after on fouls, receiving a grand ovation from the partisan crowd.

Woods, with eleven points, was high scorer for Villanova. Joe Lord was good for eight, Gerland for six, and Klotz four.

Bill Woods' steady play has definitely established him as the player of the year as far as the Villanova squad is concerned. He has kept the team together in the face of defeat and in many cases has spurred them on to victory. His consistently high scoring ranks him as the leading collegiate scorer in the Philadelphia District.

Coach Chick Davies' "Iron Dukes" Noted For Winning Ways On Court

Pittsburgh Quintet Is Composed Solely of Sophomores and Juniors; in Eleven Starts They Have Lost Only to Bradley Tech and Geneva College

Duquesne University's basketball quintet moves into the Fieldhouse tomorrow night on the second leg of their current eastern trip. The Pittsburghers are better known as the "Iron Dukes" because they have compiled a record of nine victories in their first eleven games with a squad that is made up of juniors and sophomores only.

Never in his eighteen years as Duquesne coach did Chick Davies have such a job of rebuilding as that which faced him at the beginning of this season. His great team of last year had played together for three seasons and in that time won fifty games against seven defeats. The three juniors on this year's squad scored a total of two points last year. The other members are all from last season's freshmen five. These boys responded by winning their first nine contests before being upset by Bradley Tech whom they had defeated two nights before.

Homestead High Products

Leading the "Dukes" in scoring is Stanley Nozka, a junior. Nozka has scored 40 field goals and converted 23 foul tries for a total of 103 points in eleven games. Sophomore Joe Camic has scored 36 field goals and 23 fouls for a total of 95 points in eleven games, while Joe Penzelik with 40 goals and 12 fouls has accounted for 92 points.

Sophomore Bill Vojtko and Junior Bill Goggin hold down the other starting positions on the squad. These two and Joe Penzelik played together in high school. In 1939 they sparked their Homestead High team to the state championship.

Since 1924 the "Dukes" have been playing under the eye of Chick Davies. In that time his teams have won 239 games as against 82 defeats for a percentage of .745. Only in one season did they fail to win more games than they lost. That was in 1938 when they dropped ten out of sixteen games. A losing streak of seven straight that year is the longest in the Duquesne history. That year the "Dukes" lost to Stanford in Cleveland as Hank Luisetti scored 50 points.

Streak Broken

Winning streaks are the rule at Duquesne. The "Dukes'" recent defeat at the hands of Bradley Tech stopped the latest streak at eighteen straight. The longest one was made over the 1934 and 1935 seasons when they went unbeaten in twenty-four games. Other streaks of 23, 22 and 12 games have been made by Duquesne in the past, but despite their winning ways, the "Dukes" have never had an undefeated season.

The "Dukes" are a drawing card wherever they play. Their annual game with Long Island U. in Madison Square Garden attracts one of the year's largest crowds. They

DUQUESNE
Continued on Page Six

BILL GOGGIN, 6 foot, 3 inch forward on the Duquesne five. He is an outstanding pivot man and is dangerous under the hoop.

Loyola And Rider Defeat Swimmers In Close Contests

Losses in Freestyle Relay Bring Defeat; Steingass of Loyola Sets Pool Record in 440

Despite the valiant efforts of Bob Koness, anchorman for Villanova in the final event on the program, the 400-yard free-style relay, the Wildcat mermen lost a heartbreaker to the Loyola College of Baltimore Greyhounds last Thursday night, 44-31.

The Main Liners were trailing, 37-31, as they approached the final relay event, and a first place in the same would have given them a 38-37 victory. But the Steingass brothers were too much for Villanova in this race as well as in others which had been run off earlier in the evening.

The week before the Wildcats had lost a very close contest to Rider College of Trenton, 38-36. In this meet, they also lost the final event on the program, after they had been leading, 36-31. Against Rider, Ed Reilly and Frank Desmond were outstanding performers. Reilly took first and second places, respectively, in the 440 and 220 yard freestyle events, while Desmond won the 200 yard breaststroke event and was one of the trio which triumphed in the 300 yard medley relay.

Co-Captains Win

Desmond also deserves mention for his Herculean efforts in the Loyola meet. Besides taking part in the medley relay and 200 yard breaststroke events, he also entered the diving competiton, and placed third in this event. This was his first appearance as a diver since he became a member of the varsity swimming team last season.

The Wildcats were able to gain only two first places in the Loyola meet, as compared with their opponent's seven, but kept in the running right up until the final event by earning second and third places in most of the contests. The two first places were garnered by the co-captains of the Blue and White, Bob Koness and Jack Maher. Koness won the 100 yard freestyle and Maher was successful in the 150 yard backstroke event.

New Record Set

Hank Steingass, a thorn in the side of the Wildcats all evening set a new pool record in winning the 440 yard freestyle event in the time of 5:37.6. Immediately after his record-breaking performance, he anchored the Greyhounds to victory in the 400 yard freestyle relay, when he staved off a desperate rally by Bob Koness.

Loyola's Russell, one of the outstanding divers in the east, gave a fine performance in winning this event. He compiled a total of 116.2 points in defeating Johnny Green. Russell had only one bad dive in the whole ten. His one and one-half with a twist and his cutaway were best. Frank Desmond, who placed third, made a fine showing despite the fact that he wasn't on a diving board all season.

Summaries:

300-Yard Medley Relay: 1, Loyola (Dorsal, Connor, Kosky); 2, Villanova (Maher, Desmond, Lyons). Time: 3:22.5.

220-Yard Freestyle: 1, H. Steingass, Loyola; 2, Reilly, Villanova; 3, Mauch, Villanova. Time: 2:29.2.

50-Yard Freestyle: 1, E. Steingass, Loyola; 2, Koness, Villanova; 3, Lyons, Villanova. Time: 25.7.

Fancy Dive: 1, Russell, Loyola, (116.2); 2, Green, Villanova, (90.6); 3, Desmond, Villanova (78.9).

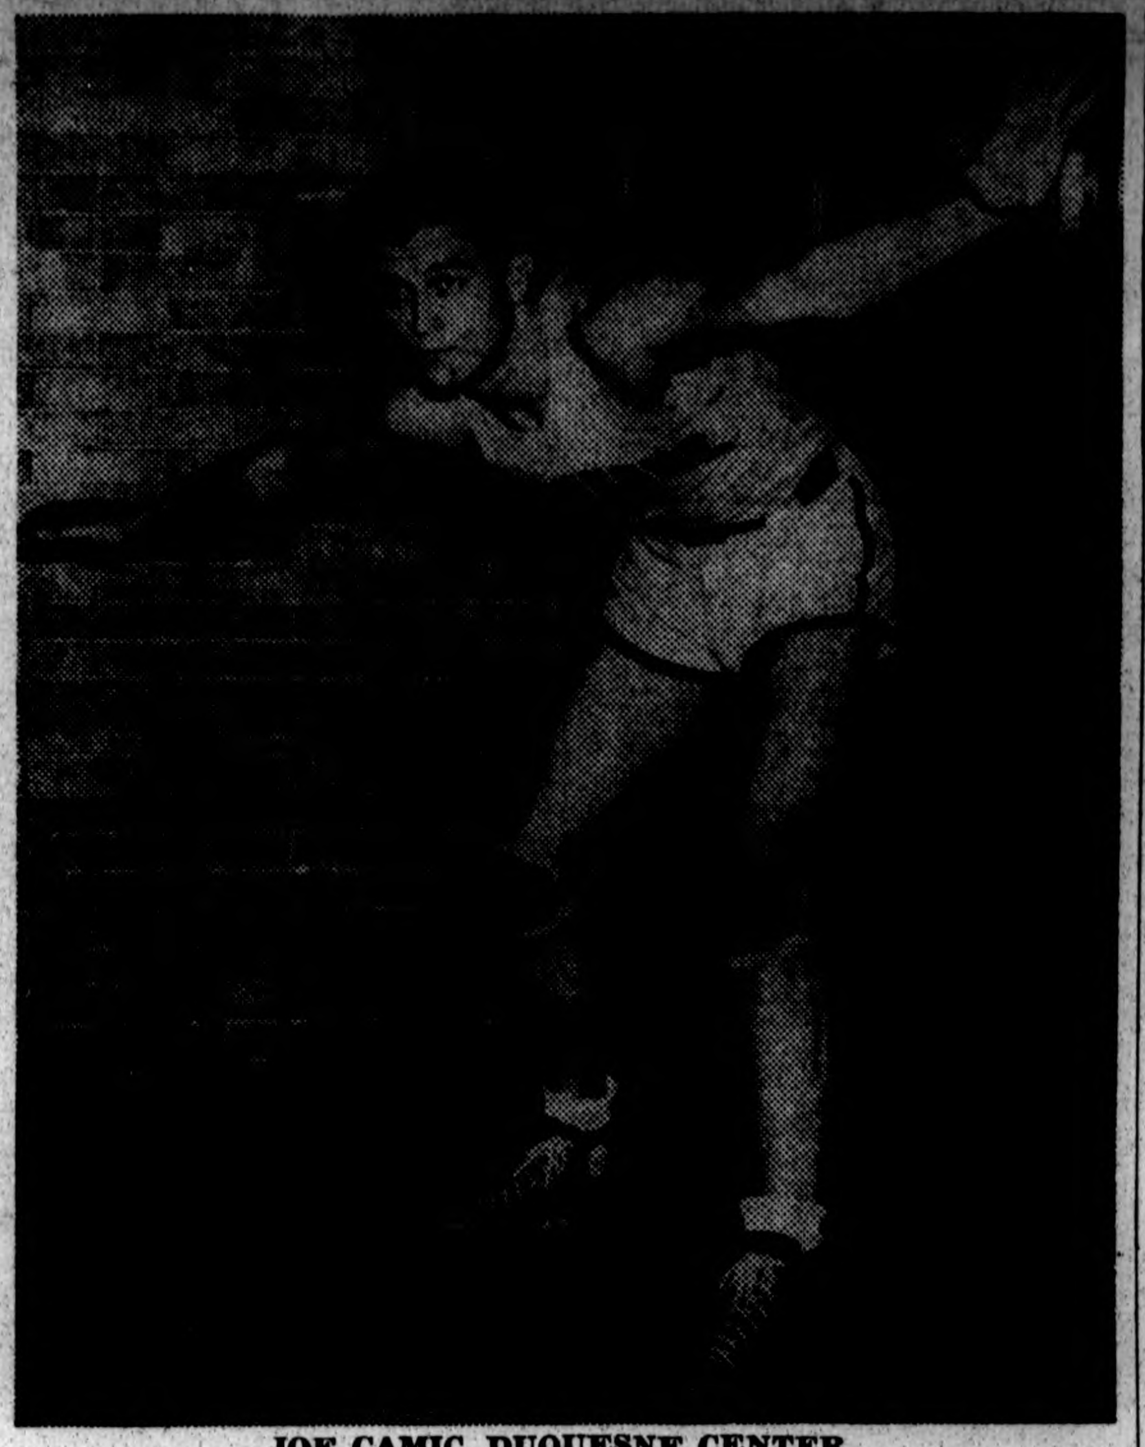
100-Yard Freestyle: 1, Koness, Villanova; 2, Kosky, Loyola; 3, Naylor, Villanova. Time: 59.0.

150-Yard Backstroke: 1, Maher, Villanova; 2, Dorsal, Loyola; 3, E. Steingass, Loyola. Time: 1:59.3.

200-Yard Breaststroke: 1, Connor, Loyola; 2, Desmond, Villanova; 3, Hin, Villanova. Time: 2:49.4.

440-Yard Freestyle: 1, H. Steingass, Loyola; 2, Reilly, Villanova; 3, Mauch, Villanova. Time: 5:37.6 (New Pool Record).

400-Yard Freestyle Relay: 1, Loyola (Connor, Kosky, E. Steingass, H. Steingass); 2, Villanova (Naylor, Lyons, Dolan, Koness). Time: 4:06.4.



JOE CAMIC, DUQUESNE CENTER

Frosh Courtmen Top Pitman High

Paced by Lou Reynolds, Villanova's freshmen five gained a 35-21 victory over the Pitman, N. J., high school quintet last Thursday night.

The Kittens were slow in getting started and the exceptionally tall Jersey team took advantage of their height to keep in the ball game. They held the Kittens even for the first ten minutes of play, knotting the score at eight all. Then Reynolds, whose 13 points were high for the evening, sparked a drive that put the Main Liners out in front at the end of the half, and practically sewed up the ball game.

Reynold's performance was outstanding. Besides his five goals, he contributed much in the way of spirit and teamwork and his backboard retrieving was a shining light. Many times he outsmarted his taller opponents, and with the help of Duffy and McGrath was able to slow down the Pitman offense.

Snap Losing Streak

Snodgrass, of Pitman, tallied nine points on two goals and five fouls to lead his team in scoring.

By virtue of this victory the Frosh snapped their losing streak which began during the Christmas holidays. Several new players have reported to Coach Al Severance and this addition created the improvement. He can substitute freely and give the regulars a rest now and then.

The next game for the frosh will be tomorrow night when they play the preliminary to the varsity's game with Duquesne.

Box score:

Villanova Fresh

	G.	F.	P.
Dunleavy, forward	0	0	0
Coffee, forward	0	0	0
McGrath, forward	2	1	5
Reynolds, center	5	3	13
Duffy, guard	4	0	8
LaFrance, guard	2	0	4
Gianguilino, guard	1	0	2
Restaine, guard	1	1	3
Totals	15	5	35

Pitman High School

	G.	F.	P.
Stoll, forward	0	2	2
Ward, forward	1	0	2
Rothburn, forward	0	1	1
Snodgrass, center	2	5	9
Avis, center	1	0	2
Hamilton, guard	0	1	1
Neely, guard	2	0	4
Totals	6	9	21

Writers Needed

In spite of recent notices calling for new members on the Sport Staff, not many fellows have reported. All those interested, especially Commerce and Finance and Arts students, are urged to report to the VILLANOVAN office this week. If the Sports Editor is not there, please leave your names and room numbers in the top-drawer of his desk.

Sport Sidelights

Joe Behot, quarterback on last season's grid team, is really "B" conscious. His semester report card found him with a B rating in each of his seven courses. Joe is majoring in mathematics and will soon begin his practice teaching.

* * *

Billy Wood, court star and leading scorer in the Philadelphia district, lost the use of an eye when he was injured as a child; but it has not bothered his accuracy. In the first 15 games this season Bill scored 147 points.

* * *

Nick Basca, one of the greatest backs to ever wear the Blue and White on the gridiron, is now pitching bullets instead of passes. Nick is a gunner in the army and is stationed in North Carolina.

* * *

Paul Nugent, co-captain of last year's basketball team, is also serving Uncle Sam. Nugent is now a flying cadet in the United States Navy and is stationed at Pensacola. His home is in New York City.

* * *

Jim Cousart, '38, former swimmer, tennis player, and one of the stars of the early 150 pound teams is stationed at Camp Croft in South Carolina. He played halfback for the Camp Croft team last fall and was chosen on the All-Star Service team.

The Lamp Post Inn
Luncheon and Dinners
Strafford, Pa.

PKP Pin League Well Under Way

Soph Chemicals Leading; Cryor's 202 High Game Leads

The Phi Kappa Pi bowling league swung into its second week of action Saturday at the Ardmore Alleys. The sophomore Chemicals broke their first place tie with the junior M. E.'s as they took four points from the Soph. M. E. "B" team. This gives them a perfect score of eight wins against no losses The Junior M. E.'s dropped into a second place tie with the freshmen.

The frosh led by Angelo Rosa took three games from the faculty while dropping one and the Junior M. E.'s took three from the residents. Rosa, frosh flash, picked off 202 pins in his second game to move into a tie for high game with Don Cryor, Junior M. E. Cryor made his score in the first week of competition.

Averages 165

In the way of seasons records many went by the board this weekend. While Cryor was holding on to his high three with 531 ,the faculty paced by Fr. O'Donnell, set a new high for a single game by picking off 802 pins to better the record made by the Junior M. E. by 52. But the Faculty lost their team high three when the freshmen made 2169, 40 pins better than the faculty could produce.

Don Cryor, bowling along in his usual good form, came up with three good games. His average suffered a drop of six points to 171. Rosa coupling his 202 with two other fair games came out with an average of 165, only six points behtind pacesetter Cryor. In third and fourth places are found Bob Simpson and Joe Gill respectively. The faculty placed two men in the first ten, Mr. Letart and Father O'Donnell.

Cryor Leads

It looks like a dog-fight among three teams, the Soph Chemical, the Junior M. E.'s, and the Frosh. It is early in the season and the other teams cannot as yet be discounted. At least 5 other teams show prospects of creating some upsets. The Soph Chemicals are one of the steadiest teams now in the league. To date they have set no records but nevertheless they have come through with eight victories to take the nod over the record-making junior M. E. day hops.

At this point the juniors have Don Cryor perched at the top with an average of 171. They also have two other men, Simpson and Gill, in the first five. This gives them a definite advantage over several of the other teams. The frosh, although they took four games the first week, didn't have a chance to prove themselves. This week by their three to one victory over the always powerful faculty, they have proved to be a strong contender for honors.

In fourth place with a won and lost average of 6 and 2 stand the junior Chems who took three games from the Soph M. E. "A" team and dropped them into fifth place with 5 and 3. The sophs took the first game and dropped the next two by small margins.

Severance Comments

By
AL SEVERANCE
Basketball Coach

Basketball at Villanova has presented more indications of in and out performances this campaign, than any other in the memory of your writer. At first blush, this would seem to indicate the so-called hot and cold variety of a team; however, when one studies the personality that goes to make up this team they will find one of the finest assortment of varied basketball talent.

"Well," you might remark, "how come those set backs that have studded the roster this season?" In blunt terms they can all be definitely stamped with the phrases of: failure to use the natural talents, failure to place in operation the fundamentals that Villanova teams in the past operated under, and last but not least, the inability to adjust their idosyncrasies to the point, where, when they take the floor all is directed to the ultimate goal, victory.

Not Playing Together

It is a confirmed fact that seldom this year have we utilized the pick system. In fact, although, we practiced the same unceasingly, it has been a rarity, when the same has ben put into operation. The most fatal error that has contributed to our failure to win the game, has been the element of passing up men under the basket, this either through indifference, or failure to be alert to the fact that the man is there.

Regardless what polite term one may use, the fact remains that this basic principle is violated unceasingly, game after game. When the gunners, those who can hit from the outside, start to miss, then Villanova starts to crumble, for the ability to get under and get the ball, is as scarce as chicken's teeth.

Individuality Theme

Let it be said here and now, most of the games that have gone by the board, could have been just as easily won. The material is good and the intelligence of the members is sufficiently high to absorb the instruction. The execution of the plays has not honestly been tried, rather, individuality has been the song of the day, and what a Swan Song it has been!

There is a factor of overcoming this condition, a factor that impresses deeply on the mentality of the dullest personality, namely man-power and the faculty of maintaining one's balance of his anatomy on that narrow strip of lumber known as the bench. Psycologically, it seems to appeal to the intellect of athletes faster and with quicker results than all the reasoning and entreating of days. It is our hope that eventually, we wil be back in that position, when the application of the cure can be applied.

Duquesne

Continued From Page Five

will be on their way from this game when they stop to play the Wildcats.

Coach Chick Davies was placed in a peculiar position in his early years as Duquesne mentor. He began coaching basketball at the Pittsburgh Institution in 1924. In 1930 he decided to enroll in the school as a freshman. He attended classes with his players for the next four years and received a Bachelor of Science in Education in 1934. During this time he turned out consistent winners on the court. His best was during his senior year when his team won 19 and lost 2.

This season Villanova and Duquesne have met only one mutual opponent, Geneva College. Some time ago the Wildcats defeated Geneva in the fieldhouse. Last week the "Dukes" dropped their second straight game to the "Covies" at Beaver Falls.

The Villanova-Duquesne series started in 1923. Since then Duquesne has won five games to the 'Cats' two.

Tom Harford Enlists In Naval Air Corps

Thomas J. Harford, Ex. 42, and former member of the basketball team, has entered training in the Naval Aviation Reserve according to an announcement by Lt. J. Clement Boyd, U. S. N. R.

Harford is stationed at Floyd Bennett Field, N. Y., and if successful in flight training, will be sent to a southern training base for seven months of advanced instruction.

Upon completion of this course, he will be commissioned as an ensign in the U. S. Naval Reserve, receive his designation as Naval Aviator, and be assigned to duty with the fleet.

Harford's home is in Cranford, New Jersey. He played basketball for St. Benedict's Prep in Newark for three years before coming to Villanova.

KEEP SUPPLIED WITH
SCHOOL TICKETS
GOOD ON BUSES AND RAIL CARS UNTIL USED
5c a Ride, including Special Free Transfers. Obtain Identification Cards at School Office.
RED ARROW LINES
Philadelphia Suburban Transportation Co.
Aronimink Transportation Co.

BROOKLINE
COUNTRY CLUB
Dancing Every Saturday to America's Top Name Bands
SATURDAY, FEB. 14
Charlie Barnett
In Person, and His Orchestra
Admission: $1.00 plus tax
Phone: Hilltop 1600

George Fein & Co.
Printers & Publishers
2116 to 2130 Arch St.
PHILADELPHIA, PA.
RITtenhouse 6983

Tuxedos - $3.00
Full Dress $3.50
Complete Accessories Furnished
A Perfect Fit Guaranteed
Neubauer's, Inc.
1035 Walnut Street
- See -
Steve Aisenbrey
110 FEDIGAN

Jeanette's Bryn Mawr Flower Shop, Inc.
Where Villanova Men Are Sure of Quality
SAY IT WITH FLOWERS
823 Lancaster Ave. Bryn Mawr 570 Bryn Mawr, Pa.

CONESTOGA
★ ★ ★ MILL
County Line & Conestoga Rd.
Bryn Mawr
FULL COURSE DINNERS
DANCING
Every Evening

Austin Hall Snaps Mendel Streak

Day Students Falter After 14 Victories

The Civil War was fought all over again in staid Alumni gym last Thursday night when the Blues of Austin Hall knocked off the unbeaten Grays of the Mendel Day School 31-20. Austin stopped Mendel's lengthy streak at fourteen games and in so doing pulled themselves into a first place tie with the Day Hops for the second-half championship.

After breaking the ice in the first minute of play, Father McKee's boys ran up a twelve point lead before the dazed non-residents could gather themselves together. As it was they were only able to score once from the field in the whole first half.

It was Austin's superior ballhawking and their superb defensive play that gave them the victory. The Day Hops flashed the old form in the second half but it was too late, and the Firemen, led by Johnny Macek who scored eleven points, most of them in the early offensive drive, were not to be denied.

Alumni Wins

In the night-cap, the fast moving Green Wave from Alumni Hall managed to keep one step ahead of Fedigan's Redmen to win 31-21. This victory gave them a third place tie with the C & F Day Hops who won on a default from the Mendel Residents. The fine play of John McFadden, Fedigan's ace, went for naught in this game as the freshmen sharpshooters dropped shots from all angles .

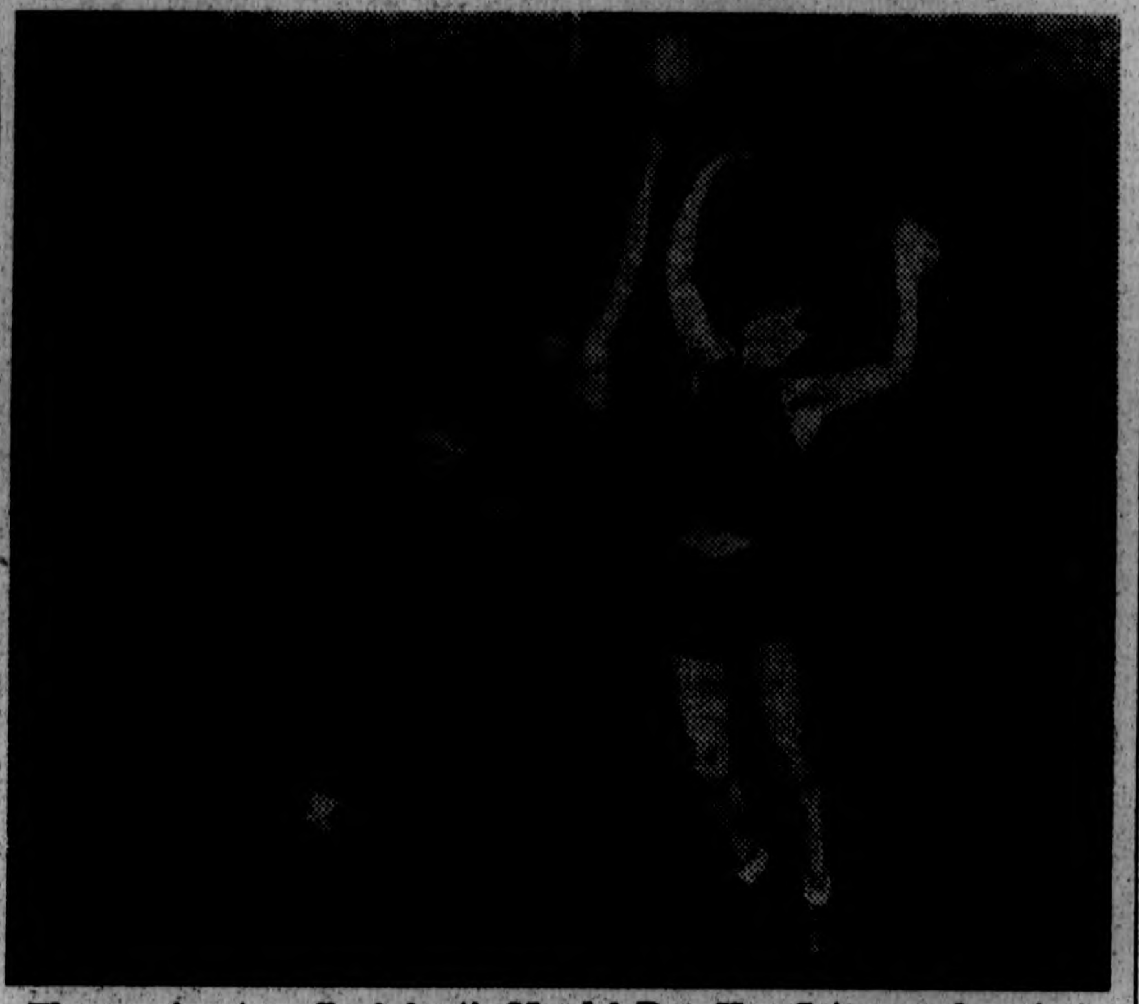
The Alumni team by defeating the upperclassmen showed that they have that certain something and that they may not be counted out of the second half race until the final game is over. Another team who will bear watching is the Commerce five whose Jim Buxeda tops the league scorers with forty-eight points.

This week Austin attempts to hold on to their first place tie when they meet Fedigan Hall and the wily C & F Commuters. The Mendel Commuters hope to take up where they left off when they also meet the Commercemen and the hard-fighting Greenies from Alumni. Mendel Residents meet Alumni and Fedigan in the other scheduled games.

Standings

Team	W.	L.	Pct.
Mendel Day Hops	4	1	.800
Austin Hall	4	1	.800
Alumni Hall	3	2	.600
C & F Day Hops	3	2	.600
Fedigan Hall	1	4	.200
Mendel Hall	0	5	.000

The Beginning Of The End



The opening tap-off of Austin-Mendel Day Hop Intramural contest last Thursday. Austin snapped the 14 game winning streak of the Commuters with a 31-20 victory and gained a tie for the league leadership of the second half.

Sportorial

Continued From Page Five

team that will hold its own against most college teams. They are a plodding, hard working, group that do not often get the notices they deserve.

Jumbo may sometimes switch these men about to get the strongest combinations. But howsoever they are grouped these seven boys will give anyone a race and will be a treat to the fans especially the followers of Villanova.

Elliott Enters Two Relay Teams In Penn AC Meet

Better in balance and class than ever before, the Fifth Annual Penn A. C. indoor track meet will be staged Friday night, February 13, in Philadelphia's Convention Hall with the usual emphasis on the mile and two mile, but with sterner competition in all events.

Coach Jim Elliott's entries will be led by sprinters John DiCarlo and George Guida who have been invited to compete in the Pennac 50 yard dash. In this feature event they will rub shoulders with such outstanding sprint stars as Barney Ewell of Penn State, Eddie Nicklas, St. Joseph's College, John Doolan, Georgtown, Bob Jackson, Princeton, Ed Junghans, Pennsylvania, and several other of the East's best sprinters.

Teams at Full Strength

DiCarlo and Guida will team-up with John McCarthy and Dixie Dunbar to form the one mile relay team which will run against Rutgers, Temple, St. Joseph College, West Chester and Catholic University.

The two mile team will be composed of Dunbar, Harry Keefrider, O'Sullivan and Captain Bill Hooper. Sophomore middle distance star O'Sullivan has declined an invitation to run in the featured George H. Lang 880 in order that both relay teams will be able to run their full strength.

Kelly Director

This year the games will be staged in conjunction with the Hale America program, and Jack Kelly, director of physical fitness, will referee the games Lawson Robertson, veteran track coach at the University of Pennsylvania, is in charge of the meet.

'Cats Swim Garnet Tomorrow; Initial Home Meet Friday

The Wildcat swimmers will see plenty of action this week. Tomorrow night they swim Swarthmore College in the Swarthmore pool at 8:00 P. M. and on Friday afternoon they engage the Franklin and Marshall natators in their home tank.

Swarthmore was not originally scheduled for a meet but when the Seton Hall meet was called off Tom Moore looked around for a replacement and contacted Jim McAdoo, the Garnet coach. Coach McAdoo, one of the outstanding swim mentors in the city, has two threats to throw against Tom Moore's proteges. His co-captains, Dick Frost and Jack Darlington, have been outstanding in the freestyle events all season. Frost swims the sprints and Darlington the 220 and 440 distance races.

The Franklin and Marshall meet on Friday will mark the first home appearance of the Wildcat tankmen this season. They will try to avenge the 46-29 beating they received last year at Lancaster.

The Diplomats are minus their ace distance freestyler of last season, Dick Price. However, they are strong in the backstroke with John Badorf, and in the sprints with Howard Lutz and Bill Gager, veteran of three seasons.

Clipper Smith is quite an avid reader and can sit by the hour discussing books, their authors, and comparing different styles. When in California, he used to be a ghost-writer. That was during his stay at Santa Clara .

HERE AND THERE

By SAM CANNING

THIS writing isn't going to be a "Farewell-to-Arms" affair; for us, it will be a "Hello-to-Arms," and a good-bye to "Here and There" and Villanova College. We've been called by our Uncle Sam and we understand he wants to teach us how to shoot a gun. Well, at least we'll find out what all this trouble is about, and when our Uncle Sam gets the whole thing straightened out, we hope to be back again in Villanova.

—V—

Tomorrow night, Villanova students will see one of the best basketball games of the season when the highly touted Dukes of Duquesne University come to the home court to battle it out "hammer-and-tong" with the Wildcats.

If comparative scores mean anything, the Wildcats should win, because they have licked Geneva College, and Geneva, in turn, has beaten Duquesne. However, Duquesne's record speaks very strongly for itself and we don't choose to predict the outcome.

Villanova and Duquesne have been spirited rivals in all fields of sport for a good many years, and with interest mounting rapidly for this great clash, we're looking forward to a wonderful exhibition of courage, sportsmanship and crack basketball.

—V—

Once again, Frank Desmond has "hit the print," as the saying goes. This is not unusual for Frank; his fame is nation-wide. Pictures and write-ups have appeared in papers all over the country. There haven't been many athletes in Villanova history that brought as much publicity and recognition in the athletic world to Villanova as Frank. Great stars have been produced like Johnny Wysocki, All-American end a few years back; Nick Etten who was one of the highest batters in the National League this year; and John Mellus, who, just this year, made the professional All-Star team and while in school obtained great fame for Villanova.

But none of them have achieved the highest of honors, a United States Championship. This, Frank has accomplished while only in his Junior year. He is the United States Amateur Outboard Motor Boat Champion. He is not only tops among the amateurs, but rates fourth in the country among the professionals. And, as you know, he has brought two Intercollegiate championships to Villanova. Two weeks ago, in New York, he was elected Commodore of the Amateur Outboard Racers' Association. Congratulations, Frank, keep up the good work!

—V—

From all reports, Intramural basketball is becoming quite a rough and dangerous sport, especially for innocent by-standers. We hear that a certain spectator was knocked cold for about five minutes this past week. According to the victim, he didn't know the circumstances leading up to the blow nor did he see it coming, but OH, what a sock!

—V—

Most of you who follow Villanova basketball and those of you who drop-in on the practice sessions once in a while, have, no doubt, heard of "Smiley." "Smiley," whose full Christian name is Dick Sommers, is termed by the members of the team, "The Perfect Manager." He is varsity manager although only a freshman, and his efficiency can well be exemplified by a recent experience. It seems the team had left for Baltimore when Smiley remembered that through some slip-up, the towels had been left back at Villanova. So, Smiley dashed home and borrowed twelve of his mother's best towels for the team to use. We hope Mrs. Sommers appreciated the seriousness of the situation when she loaned the towels. Or did she loan them? We wonder.

On The Local Screens

ARDMORE THEATRE
Tuesday and Wednesday
ABBOTT and COSTELLO
— in —
"KEEP 'EM FLYING"
Thursday and Friday
GRETA GARBO
MELVYN DOUGLAS
— in —
"TWO FACED WOMAN"
Saturday, Sunday and Monday
CHARLES BOYER
MARGARET SULLAVAN
— in —
"APPOINTMENT FOR LOVE"

Direction Warner Bros.
TOWER
69th & MARKET STS.
Fri., Sat., Sun. and Mon.
Feb. 13, 14, 15, 16
BETTE DAVIS
ANN SHERIDAN
MONTE WOOLLEY
"THE MAN WHO CAME TO DINNER"

SUBURBAN
Tuesday and Wednesday
"RISE AND SHINE"
Thursday to Monday
"REMEMBER THE DAY"
ANTHONY WAYNE
THEATRE WAYNE
Tuesday and Wednesday
"THEY DIED WITH THEIR BOOTS ON"
Thursday, Friday & Saturday
"REMEMBER THE DAY"
Sunday and Monday
"SHADOW OF THE THIN MAN"
SEVILLE
THEATRE BRYN MAWR
Tuesday and Wednesday
"BIRTH OF THE BLUES"
Thursday
"YOUNG MR. LINCOLN"
Friday
"AMONG THE LIVING" and
"KING OF THE ZOMBIES"
Saturday
"BADLANDS OF DAKOTA"
Sunday
"BURMA CONVOY" and
"DOWN MEXICO WAY"

RIDE FREE ON P. & W. RAILWAY MOVIE TICKETS
NORRIS
NORRISTOWN
Today
Mickey Rooney in
"BABES ON BROADWAY"
Wednesday, Thursday & Friday
Loretta Young - Fredric March in
"THE BEDTIME STORY"
Saturday, Monday & Tuesday
Cary Grant - Joan Fontaine in
"SUSPICION"
GRAND
NORRISTOWN
Today — Year's Thrill
"SWAMP WATER"
Wednesday & Thursday
Lloyd Nolan in
"STEEL AGAINST SKY"
and Raymond Massey in
"ABE LINCOLN IN ILLINOIS"
Friday, Saturday & Monday
Kay Kyser & John Barrymore in
"PLAYMATES"
GARRICK
NORRISTOWN
Wednesday & Thursday
Maureen O'Sullivan in
"BIG HOUSE FOR GIRLS"
and Lupe Velez in
"MEXICAN SPITFIRE'S BABY"
Friday & Saturday
Jimmy Durante in
"YOU'RE IN THE ARMY NOW"
and Ray Rodgers in
"THE MAN FROM CHEYENNE"

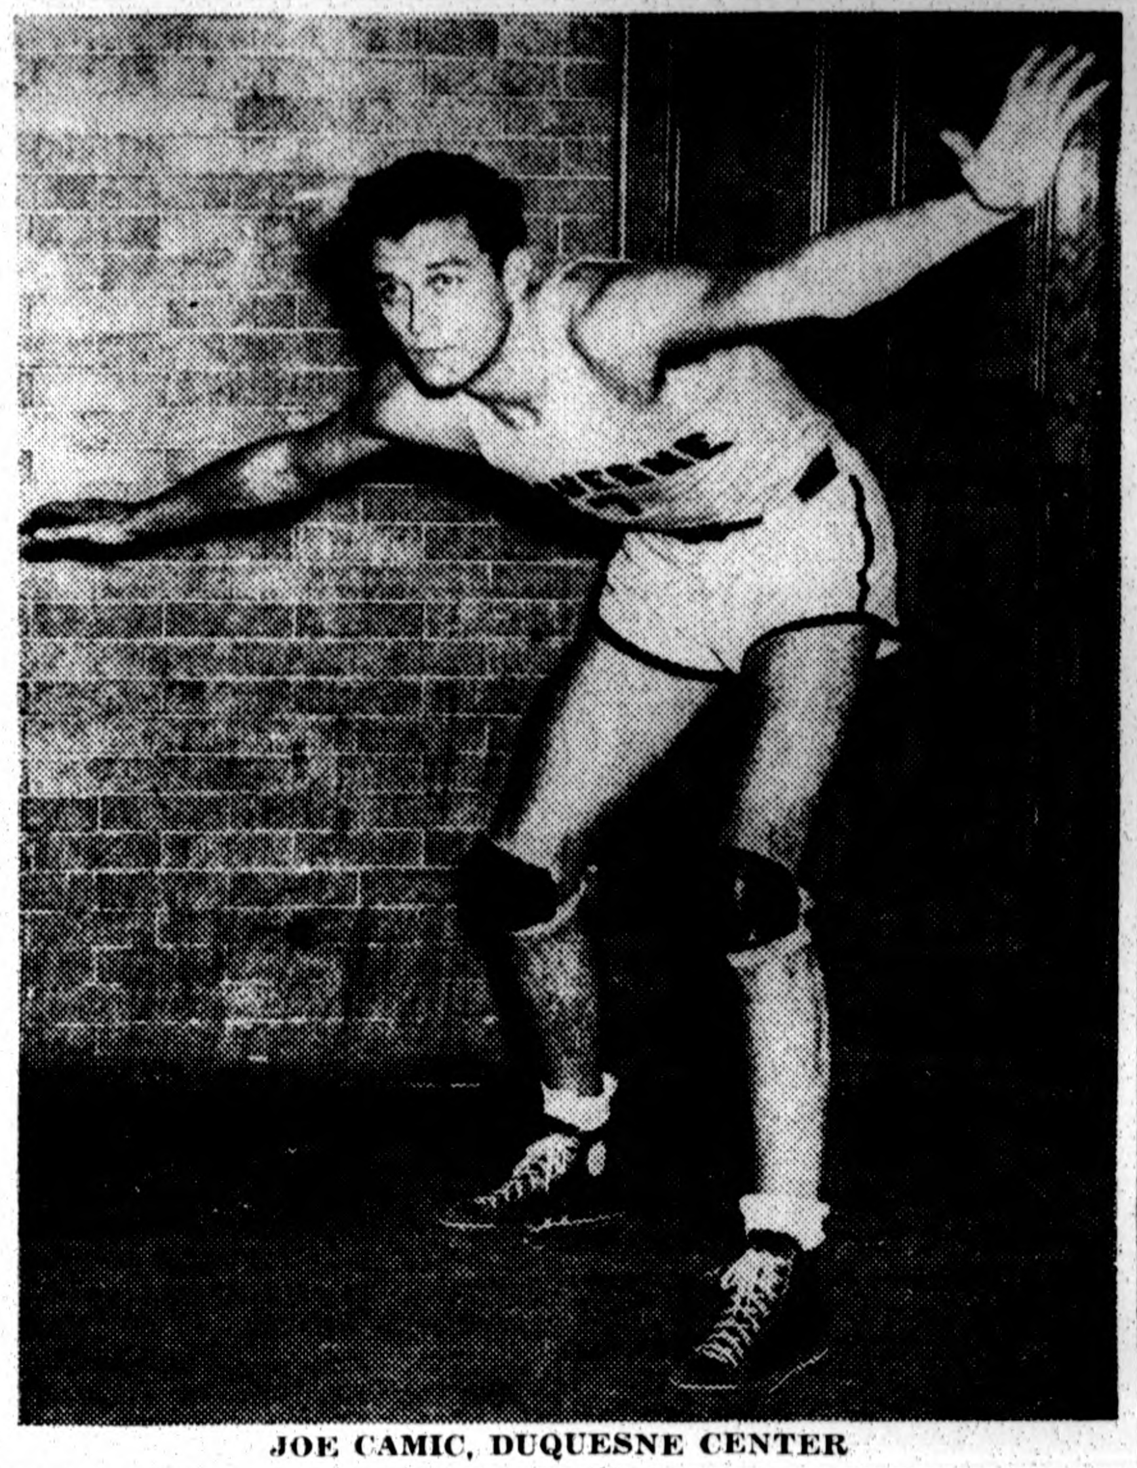
WILDCATS!
STOP HERE
LA DOW'S PHARMACY
On the Edge of the Campus
LANCASTER PIKE
VILLANOVA, PA.

Meet Your Friends
AT THE GREEKS
We Serve Lunches
Superior Soda Service
Delicious Dinners

RENT A NEW CAR
1942
PLYMOUTH
CHEVROLET
FORD
U Drive-It Co.
1740 MARKET STREET
RIT. 2425

Sun Cleaners and Dyers

Aristocrat
ICE CREAM
PHILA. DAIRY PRODUCTS CO.
4th & Poplar Sts., Phila., Pa.



JOE CAMIC, DUQUESNE CENTER

Frosh Courtmen Top Pitman High

Paced by Lou Reynolds, Villanova's freshmen five gained a 35-21 victory over the Pitman, N. J., high school quintet last Thursday night.

The Kittens were slow in getting started and the exceptionally tall Jersey team took advantage of their height to keep in the ball game. They held the Kittens even for the first ten minutes of play, knotting the score at eight all. Then Reynolds, whose 13 points were high for the evening, sparked a drive that put the Main Liners out in front at the end of the half, and practically sewed up the ball game.

Reynold's performance was outstanding. Besides his five goals, he contributed much in the way of spirit and teamwork and his backboard retrieving was a shining light. Many times he outsmarted his taller opponents, and with the help of Duffy and McGrath was able to slow down the Pitman offense.

Snap Losing Streak

Snodgrass, of Pitman, tallied nine points on two goals and five fouls to lead his team in scoring.

By virtue of this victory the Frosh snapped their losing streak which began during the Christmas holidays. Several new players have reported to Coach Al Severance and this addition created the improvement. He can substitute freely and give the regulars a rest now and then.

The next game for the frosh will be tomorrow night when they play the preliminary to the varsity's game with Duquesne.

Box score:

Villanova Fresh

	G.	F.	P.
Dunleavy, forward	0	0	0
Coffee, forward	0	0	0
McGrath, forward	2	1	5
Reynolds, center	5	3	13
Duffy, guard	4	0	8
LaFrance, guard	2	0	4
Gianguilino, guard	1	0	2
Restaine, guard	1	1	3
Totals	15	5	35

Pitman High School

	G.	F.	P.
Stoll, forward	0	2	2
Ward, forward	1	0	2
Rothburn, forward	0	1	1
Snodgrass, center	2	5	9
Avis, center	1	0	2
Hamilton, guard	0	1	1
Neely, guard	2	0	4
Totals	6	9	21

Writers Needed

In spite of recent notices calling for new members on the Sport Staff, not many fellows have reported. All those interested, especially Commerce and Finance and Arts students, are urged to report to the VILLANOVAN office this week. If the Sports Editor is not there, please leave your names and room numbers in the top-drawer of his desk.

Sport Sidelights

Joe Behot, quarterback on last season's grid team, is really "B" conscious. His semester report card found him with a B rating in each of his seven courses. Joe is majoring in mathematics and will soon begin his practice teaching.

* * *

Billy Wood, court star and leading scorer in the Philadelphia district, lost the use of an eye when he was injured as a child; but it has not bothered his accuracy. In the first 15 games this season Bill scored 147 points.

* * *

Nick Basca, one of the greatest backs to ever wear the Blue and White on the gridiron, is now pitching bullets instead of passes. Nick is a gunner in the army and is stationed in North Carolina.

* * *

Paul Nugent, co-captain of last year's basketball team, is also serving Uncle Sam. Nugent is now a flying cadet in the United States Navy and is stationed at Pensacola. His home is in New York City.

* * *

Jim Cousart, '38, former swimmer, tennis player, and one of the stars of the early 150 pound teams is stationed at Camp Croft in South Carolina. He played halfback for the Camp Croft team last fall and was chosen on the All-Star Service team.

PKP Pin League Well Under Way

Soph Chemicals Leading; Cryor's 202 High Game Leads

The Phi Kappa Pi bowling league swung into its second week of action Saturday at the Ardmore Alleys. The sophomore Chemicals broke their first place tie with the junior M. E.'s as they took four points from the Soph. M. E. "B" team. This gives them a perfect score of eight wins against no losses The Junior M. E.'s dropped into a second place tie with the freshmen.

The frosh led by Angelo Rosa took three games from the faculty while dropping one and the Junior M. E.'s took three from the residents. Rosa, frosh flash, picked off 202 pins in his second game to move into a tie for high game with Don Cryor, Junior M. E. Cryor made his score in the first week of competition.

Averages 165

In the way of seasons records many went by the board this weekend. While Cryor was holding on to his high three with 531 ,the faculty paced by Fr. O'Donnell, set a new high for a single game by picking off 802 pins to better the record made by the Junior M. E. by 52. But the Faculty lost their team high three when the freshmen made 2169, 40 pins better than the faculty could produce.

Don Cryor, bowling along in his usual good form, came up with three good games. His average suffered a drop of six points to 171. Rosa coupling his 202 with two other fair games came out with an average of 165, only six points behtind pacesetter Cryor. In third and fourth places are found Bob Simpson and Joe Gill respectively. The faculty placed two men in the first ten, Mr. Letart and Father O'Donnell.

Cryor Leads

It looks like a dog-fight among three teams, the Soph Chemical, the Junior M. E.'s, and the Frosh. It is early in the season and the other teams cannot as yet be discounted. At least 5 other teams show prospects of creating some upsets. The Soph Chemicals are one of the steadiest teams now in the league. To date they have set no records but nevertheless they have come through with eight victories to take the nod over the record-making junior M. E. day hops.

At this point the juniors have Don Cryor perched at the top with an average of 171. They also have two other men, Simpson and Gill, in the first five. This gives them a definite advantage over several of the other teams. The frosh, although they took four games the first week, didn't have a chance to prove themselves. This week by their three to one victory over the always powerful faculty, they have proved to be a strong contender for honors.

In fourth place with a won and lost average of 6 and 2 stand the junior Chems who took three games from the Soph M. E. "A" team and dropped them into fifth place with 5 and 3. The sophs took the first game and dropped the next two by small margins.

Severance Comments

By
AL SEVERANCE
Basketball Coach

Basketball at Villanova has presented more indications of in and out performances this campaign, than any other in the memory of your writer. At first blush, this would seem to indicate the so-called hot and cold variety of a team; however, when one studies the personality that goes to make up this team they will find one of the finest assortment of varied basketball talent.

"Well," you might remark, "how come those set backs that have studded the roster this season?" In blunt terms they can all be definitely stamped with the phrases of: failure to use the natural talents, failure to place in operation the fundamentals that Villanova teams in the past operated under, and last but not least, the inability to adjust their idosyncrasies to the point, where, when they take the floor all is directed to the ultimate goal, victory.

Not Playing Together

It is a confirmed fact that seldom this year have we utilized the pick system. In fact, although, we practiced the same unceasingly, it has been a rarity, when the same has ben put into operation. The most fatal error that has contributed to our failure to win the game, has been the element of passing up men under the basket, this either through indifference, or failure to be alert to the fact that the man is there.

Regardless what polite term one may use, the fact remains that this basic principle is violated unceasingly, game after game. When the gunners, those who can hit from the outside, start to miss, then Villanova starts to crumble, for the ability to get under and get the ball, is as scarce as chicken's teeth.

Individuality Theme

Let it be said here and now, most of the games that have gone by the board, could have been just as easily won. The material is good and the intelligence of the members is sufficiently high to absorb the instruction. The execution of the plays has not honestly been tried, rather, individuality has been the song of the day, and what a Swan Song it has been!

There is a factor of overcoming this condition, a factor that impresses deeply on the mentality of the dullest personality, namely man-power and the faculty of maintaining one's balance of his anatomy on that narrow strip of lumber known as the bench. Psycologically, it seems to appeal to the intellect of athletes faster and with quicker results than all the reasoning and entreating of days. It is our hope that eventually, we wil be back in that position, when the application of the cure can be applied.

Duquesne

Continued From Page Five

will be on their way from this game when they stop to play the Wildcats.

Coach Chick Davies was placed in a peculiar position in his early years as Duquesne mentor. He began coaching basketball at the Pittsburgh Institution in 1924. In 1930 he decided to enroll in the school as a freshman. He attended classes with his players for the next four years and received a Bachelor of Science in Education in 1934. During this time he turned out consistent winners on the court. His best was during his senior year when his team won 19 and lost 2.

This season Villanova and Duquesne have met only one mutual opponent, Geneva College. Some time ago the Wildcats defeated Geneva in the fieldhouse. Last week the "Dukes" dropped their second straight game to the "Covies" at Beaver Falls.

The Villanova-Duquesne series started in 1923. Since then Duquesne has won five games to the 'Cats' two.

Tom Harford Enlists In Naval Air Corps

Thomas J. Harford, Ex. 42, and former member of the basketball team, has entered training in the Naval Aviation Reserve according to an announcement by Lt. J. Clement Boyd, U. S. N. R.

Harford is stationed at Floyd Bennett Field, N. Y., and if successful in flight training, will be sent to a southern training base for seven months of advanced instruction.

Upon completion of this course, he will be commissioned as an ensign in the U. S. Naval Reserve, receive his designation as Naval Aviator, and be assigned to duty with the fleet.

Harford's home is in Cranford, New Jersey. He played basketball for St. Benedict's Prep in Newark for three years before coming to Villanova.

KEEP SUPPLIED WITH SCHOOL TICKETS
GOOD ON BUSES AND RAIL CARS UNTIL USED
5c a Ride, including Special Free Transfers. Obtain Identification Cards at School Office.
RED ARROW LINES
Philadelphia Suburban Transportation Co.
Aronimink Transportation Co.

BROOKLINE COUNTRY CLUB
Dancing Every Saturday to America's Top Name Bands
SATURDAY, FEB. 14
Charlie Barnett
In Person, and His Orchestra
Admission: $1.00 plus tax
Phone: Hilltop 1600

George Fein & Co.
Printers & Publishers
2116 to 2130 Arch St.
PHILADELPHIA, PA.
RITtenhouse 6983

The Lamp Post Inn
Luncheon and Dinners
Strafford, Pa.

Jeanette's Bryn Mawr Flower Shop, Inc.
Where Villanova Men
SAY IT WITH • FLOWERS •
Are Sure of Quality
823 Lancaster Ave. Bryn Mawr 570 Bryn Mawr, Pa.

CONESTOGA ★ ★ ★ MILL
County Line & Conestoga Rd. Bryn Mawr
FULL COURSE DINNERS
DANCING
Every Evening

Tuxedos - $3.00
Full Dress $3.50
Complete Accessories Furnished
A Perfect Fit Guaranteed
Neubauer's, Inc.
1035 Walnut Street
- See -
Steve Aisenbrey
110 FEDIGAN

Austin Hall Snaps Mendel Streak

Day Students Falter After 14 Victories

The Civil War was fought all over again in staid Alumni gym last Thursday night when the Blues of Austin Hall knocked off the unbeaten Grays of the Mendel Day School 31-20. Austin stopped Mendel's lengthy streak at fourteen games and in so doing pulled themselves into a first place tie with the Day Hops for the second-half championship.

After breaking the ice in the first minute of play, Father McKee's boys ran up a twelve point lead before the dazed non-residents could gather themselves together. As it was they were only able to score once from the field in the whole first half.

It was Austin's superior ballhawking and their superb defensive play that gave them the victory. The Day Hops flashed the old form in the second half but it was too late, and the Firemen, led by Johnny Macek who scored eleven points, most of them in the early offensive drive, were not to be denied.

Standings

Team	W.	L.	Pct.
Mendel Day Hops	4	1	.800
Austin Hall	4	1	.800
Alumni Hall	3	2	.600
C & F Day Hops	3	2	.600
Fedigan Hall	1	4	.200
Mendel Hall	0	5	.000

Alumni Wins

In the night-cap, the fast moving Green Wave from Alumni Hall managed to keep one step ahead of Fedigan's Redmen to win 31-21. This victory gave them a third place tie with the C & F Day Hops who won on a default from the Mendel Residents. The fine play of John McFadden, Fedigan's ace, went for naught in this game as the freshmen sharpshooters dropped shots from all angles .

The Alumni team by defeating the upperclassmen showed that they have that certain something and that they may not be counted out of the second half race until the final game is over. Another team who will bear watching is the Commerce five whose Jim Buxeda tops the league scorers with forty-eight points.

This week Austin attempts to hold on to their first place tie when they meet Fedigan Hall and the wily C & F Commuters. The Mendel Commuters hope to take up where they left off when they also meet the Commercemen and the hard-fighting Greenies from Alumni. Mendel Residents meet Alumni and Fedigan in the other scheduled games.

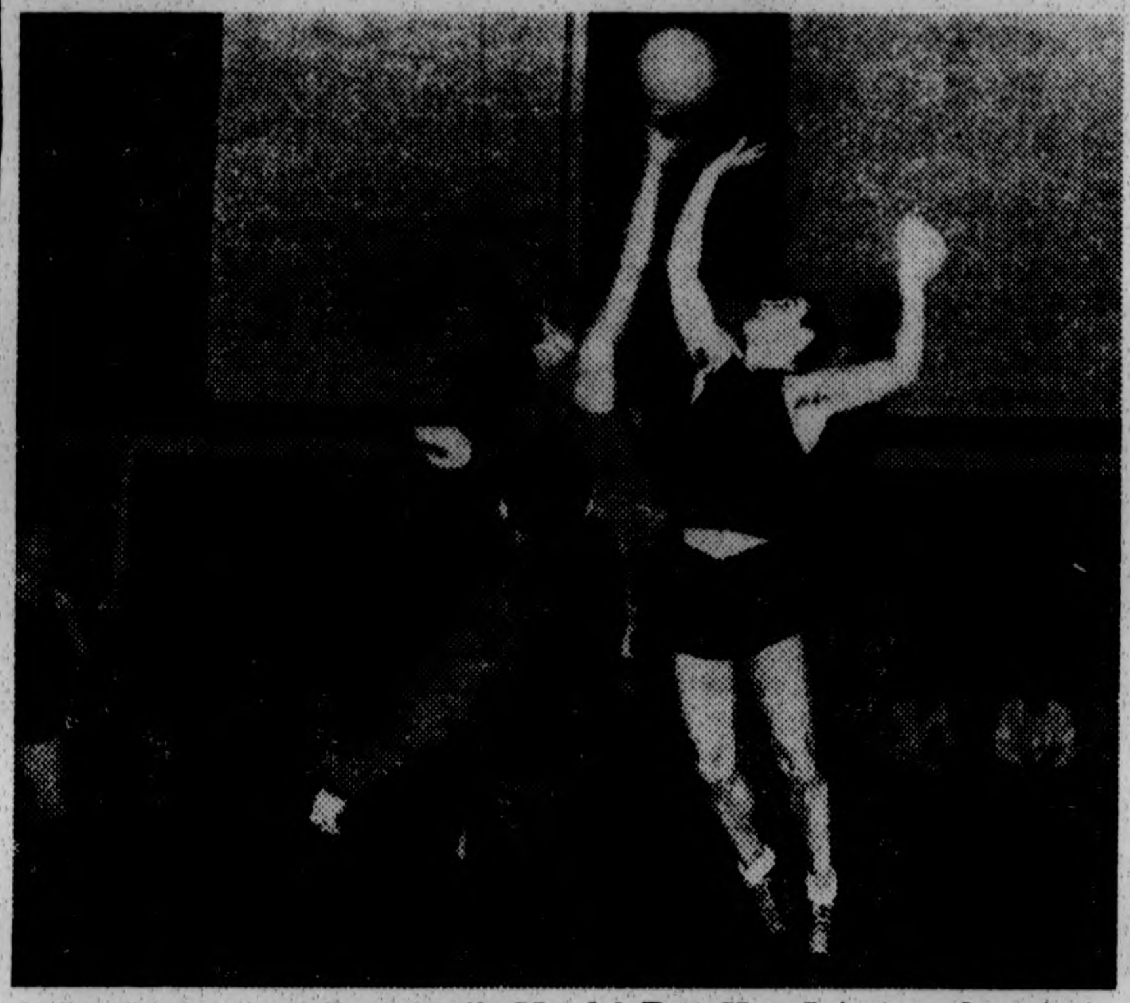
Sportorial

Continued From Page Five

team that will hold its own against most college teams. They are a plodding, hard working, group that do not often get the notices they deserve.

Jumbo may sometimes switch these men about to get the strongest combinations. But howsoever they are grouped these seven boys will give anyone a race and will be a treat to the fans especially the followers of Villanova.

The Beginning Of The End



The opening tap-off of Austin-Mendel Day Hop Intramural contest last Thursday. Austin snapped the 14 game winning streak of the Commuters with a 31-20 victory and gained a tie for the league leadership of the second half.

Elliott Enters Two Relay Teams In Penn AC Meet

Better in balance and class than ever before, the Fifth Annual Penn A. C. indoor track meet will be staged Friday night, February 13, in Philadelphia's Convention Hall with the usual emphasis on the mile and two mile, but with sterner competition in all events.

Coach Jim Elliott's entries will be led by sprinters John DiCarlo and George Guida who have been invited to compete in the Pennac 50 yard dash. In this feature event they will rub shoulders with such outstanding sprint stars as Barney Ewell of Penn State, Eddie Nicklas, St. Joseph's College, John Doolan, Georgtown, Bob Jackson, Princeton, Ed Junghans, Pennsylvania, and several other of the East's best sprinters.

Teams at Full Strength

DiCarlo and Guida will team-up with John McCarthy and Dixie Dunbar to form the one mile relay team which will run against Rutgers, Temple, St. Joseph College, West Chester and Catholic University.

The two mile team will be composed of Dunbar, Harry Keefrider, O'Sullivan and Captain Bill Hooper. Sophomore middle distance star O'Sullivan has declined an invitation to run in the featured George H. Lang 880 in order that both relay teams will be able to run their full strength.

Kelly Director

This year the games will be staged in conjunction with the Hale America program, and Jack Kelly, director of physical fitness, will referee the games Lawson Robertson, veteran track coach at the University of Pennsylvania, is in charge of the meet.

'Cats Swim Garnet Tomorrow; Initial Home Meet Friday

The Wildcat swimmers will see plenty of action this week. Tomorrow night they swim Swarthmore College in the Swarthmore pool at 8:00 P. M. and on Friday afternoon they engage the Franklin and Marshall natators in their home tank.

Swarthmore was not originally scheduled for a meet but when the Seton Hall meet was called off Tom Moore looked around for a replacement and contacted Jim McAdoo, the Garnet coach. Coach McAdoo, one of the outstanding swim mentors in the city, has two threats to throw against Tom Moore's proteges. His co-captains, Dick Frost and Jack Darlington, have been outstanding in the freestyle events all season. Frost swims the sprints and Darlington the 220 and 440 distance races.

The Franklin and Marshall meet on Friday will mark the first home appearance of the Wildcat tankmen this season. They will try to avenge the 46-29 beating they received last year at Lancaster.

The Diplomats are minus their ace distance freestyler of last season, Dick Price. However, they are strong in the backstroke with John Badorf, and in the sprints with Howard Lutz and Bill Gager, veteran of three seasons.

Clipper Smith is quite an avid reader and can sit by the hour discussing books, their authors, and comparing different styles. When in California, he used to be a ghost-writer. That was during his stay at Santa Clara .

HERE AND THERE

By SAM CANNING

THIS writing isn't going to be a "Farewell-to-Arms" affair; for us, it will be a "Hello-to-Arms," and a good-bye to "Here and There" and Villanova College. We've been called by our Uncle Sam and we understand he wants to teach us how to shoot a gun. Well, at least we'll find out what all this trouble is about, and when our Uncle Sam gets the whole thing straightened out, we hope to be back again in Villanova.

—V—

Tomorrow night, Villanova students will see one of the best basketball games of the season when the highly touted Dukes of Duquesne University come to the home court to battle it out "hammer-and-tong" with the Wildcats.

If comparative scores mean anything, the Wildcats should win, because they have licked Geneva College, and Geneva, in turn, has beaten Duquesne. However, Duquesne's record speaks very strongly for itself and we don't choose to predict the outcome.

Villanova and Duquesne have been spirited rivals in all fields of sport for a good many years, and with interest mounting rapidly for this great clash, we're looking forward to a wonderful exhibition of courage, sportsmanship and crack basketball.

—V—

Once again, Frank Desmond has "hit the print," as the saying goes. This is not unusual for Frank; his fame is nation-wide. Pictures and write-ups have appeared in papers all over the country. There haven't been many athletes in Villanova history that brought as much publicity and recognition in the athletic world to Villanova as Frank. Great stars have been produced like Johnny Wysocki, All-American end a few years back; Nick Etten who was one of the highest batters in the National League this year; and John Mellus, who, just this year, made the professional All-Star team and while in school obtained great fame for Villanova.

But none of them have achieved the highest of honors, a United States Championship. This, Frank has accomplished while only in his Junior year. He is the United States Amateur Outboard Motor Boat Champion. He is not only tops among the amateurs, but rates fourth in the country among the professionals. And, as you know, he has brought two Intercollegiate championships to Villanova. Two weeks ago, in New York, he was elected Commodore of the Amateur Outboard Racers' Association. Congratulations, Frank, keep up the good work!

—V—

From all reports, Intramural basketball is becoming quite a rough and dangerous sport, especially for innocent by-standers. We hear that a certain spectator was knocked cold for about five minutes this past week. According to the victim, he didn't know the circumstances leading up to the blow nor did he see it coming, but OH, what a sock!

—V—

Most of you who follow Villanova basketball and those of you who drop-in on the practice sessions once in a while, have, no doubt, heard of "Smiley." "Smiley" whose full Christian name is Dick Sommers, is termed by the members of the team, "The Perfect Manager." He is varsity manager although only a freshman, and his efficiency can well be exemplified by a recent experience. It seems the team had left for Baltimore when Smiley remembered that through some slip-up, the towels had been left back at Villanova. So, Smiley dashed home and borrowed twelve of his mother's best towels for the team to use. We hope Mrs. Sommers appreciated the seriousness of the situation when she loaned the towels. Or did she loan them? We wonder.

On The Local Screens

ARDMORE THEATRE

Tuesday and Wednesday
ABBOTT and COSTELLO
— in —
"KEEP 'EM FLYING"

Thursday and Friday
GRETA GARBO
MELVYN DOUGLAS
— in —
"TWO FACED WOMAN"

Saturday, Sunday and Monday
CHARLES BOYER
MARGARET SULLAVAN
— in —
"APPOINTMENT FOR LOVE"

Direction Warner Bros.
TOWER
69th & MARKET STS.

Fri., Sat., Sun. and Mon.
Feb. 13, 14, 15, 16
BETTE DAVIS
ANN SHERIDAN
MONTE WOOLLEY
"THE MAN WHO CAME TO DINNER"

SUBURBAN
Tuesday and Wednesday
"RISE AND SHINE"
Thursday to Monday
"REMEMBER THE DAY"

ANTHONY WAYNE
THEATRE WAYNE
Tuesday and Wednesday
"THEY DIED WITH THEIR BOOTS ON"
Thursday, Friday & Saturday
"REMEMBER THE DAY"
Sunday and Monday
"SHADOW OF THE THIN MAN"

SEVILLE
THEATRE BRYN MAWR
Tuesday and Wednesday
"BIRTH OF THE BLUES"
Thursday
"YOUNG MR. LINCOLN"
Friday
"AMONG THE LIVING" and
"KING OF THE ZOMBIES"
Saturday
"BADLANDS OF DAKOTA"
Sunday
"BURMA CONVOY" and
"DOWN MEXICO WAY"

RIDE FREE ON P. & W. RAILWAY MOVIE TICKETS
NORRIS
NORRISTOWN
Today
Mickey Rooney in
"BABES ON BROADWAY"
Wednesday, Thursday & Friday
Loretta Young - Fredric March in
"THE BEDTIME STORY"
Saturday, Monday & Tuesday
Cary Grant - Joan Fontaine in
"SUSPICION"

GRAND
NORRISTOWN
Today — Year's Thrill
"SWAMP WATER"
Wednesday & Thursday
Lloyd Nolan in
"STEEL AGAINST SKY"
and Raymond Massey in
"ABE LINCOLN IN ILLINOIS"
Friday, Saturday & Monday
Kay Kyser & John Barrymore in
"PLAYMATES"

GARRICK
NORRISTOWN
Wednesday & Thursday
Maureen O'Sullivan in
"BIG HOUSE FOR GIRLS"
and Lupe Velez in
"MEXICAN SPITFIRE'S BABY"
Friday & Saturday
Jimmy Durante in
"YOU'RE IN THE ARMY NOW"
and Ray Rodgers in
"THE MAN FROM CHEYENNE"

WILDCATS!
STOP HERE
LA DOW'S PHARMACY
On the Edge of the Campus
LANCASTER PIKE
VILLANOVA, PA.

Meet Your Friends
AT THE GREEKS
We Serve Lunches
Superior Soda Service
Delicious Dinners

RENT A NEW CAR
1942
PLYMOUTH
CHEVROLET
FORD
U Drive-It Co.
1740 MARKET STREET
RIT. 2425

Sun Cleaners and Dyers

Aristocrat
ICE CREAM
PHILA. DAIRY PRODUCTS CO.
4th & Poplar Sts., Phila., Pa.

DPE To Sponsor Pictures, Talks

Series of Bi-Monthly Programs Arranged; Will Be Open to All Students

Bi-monthly motion pictures and guest speakers will be presented by Delta Pi Epsilon, commerce school fraternity, in the C.&F. auditorium every other Thursday at 11:45 A. M.

John Dudley, a junior, was appointed chairman of a committee of three, which includes Charles Jones, a senior, and Robert Bolger, a sophomore, to arrange these features, the inauguration of which is tentatively set for Feb. 12.

Educational And Interesting

"The motion pictures will be educational as well as entertaining and will include films on sports, history, and stories of the Army and Navy," Dudley told the fraternity at the last meeting, "while the speakers will be men in the professional and business field." The entire student body is invited to attend these meetings.

David N. Reardon, president, urges all fraternity men to submit as many copies of previous examinations as possible to Andrew DiDio in order to supplement the examination file. Any member of the fraternity may make use of this file as a study aid in preparation for examinations.

Three Pin Samples

At the meeting held last Thursday, it was announced that three fraternity pin samples have been submitted for approval. Within the next few days one of these designs will be chosen and orders for pins and keys will be taken at the next meeting. All members are urged to submit their orders for pins and keys as soon as possible in order to secure them by April 16, which is the date of the fraternity's annual dinner.

Effects of the war were brought home to the fraternity when Samuel J. Canning, secretary of the organization, left school on Saturday to be inducted into the army. Theodore Galysh and Roy Lind, senior members of the fraternity, have also joined the armed forces.

At present no plans have been made for the election of a new secretary. The problem of choosing a successor to Canning will be discussed at the next meeting.

Papal Blessing Closes 99th Annual Retreat

Villanova's ninety-ninth annual retreat was closed last Wednesday, Feb. 4, with Mass, Communion and the imparting of the Papal Blessing.

Rev. Thomas Rogers, O. S. A. and Rev. John Brennan, O. S. A., retreat masters and members of the Augustinian Mission Band, placed special emphasis on the meanings of the Ten Commandments and their strict observance was the only means by which peace might again reign in this world.

Keep Abreast Of Events

Tuesday, Feb. 10—

Senior Class Meeting	1:00 P. M.
International Relations Club	2:30 P. M.
Intramural Basketball:
C. & F. vs. Mendel D. S.	3:00 P. M.
Austin vs. Fedigan	7:15 P. M.
Alumni vs. Mendel Res.	8:30 P. M.

Wednesday, Feb. 11—

Villanova - Immaculata German Club Meeting,	7:45 P. M.
Varsity Debate: Villanova vs. St. Joseph (Moorestown, N. J.)	8:30 P. M.

Thursday, Feb. 12—

Science Forum	10:45 A. M.
Delta Pi Epsilon, Movies	11:45 A. M.
Beta Gamma	1:00 P. M.
History Seminar	3:30 P. M.
Research Seminar	4:30 P. M.
Intramural Basketball:
C. & F. vs. Austin	3:00 P. M.
Alumni vs. Mendel D. S.	7:15 P. M.
Fedigan vs. Mendel Res.	8:30 P. M.

Monday, Feb. 16—

Lambda Kappa Delta Initiation	7:30 P. M.
Radio Club	2:30 P. M.

Alumnus Speaks On Marine Corps

Second Lieutenant Metzinger, M. C. R., '41 Graduate, Outlines Training Plan

Second Lieutenant Robert Metzinger, M. C. R., visited the college yesterday and addressed students interested in training for commissions as second lieutenants in the Marine Corps Reserve. Metzinger is a Villanova graduate of the class of 1941.

Information and applications relative to his coming had been circulated throughout the campus for some weeks in advance by Paetrus F. Banmiller, Registrar. The purpose of yesterday's visit was to give information, interview applicants, and accept applications.

Returns Next Week

Metzinger will return to the campus next Tuesday in order to interview additional applicants who were unable to see him yesterday and to take any applications which were not submitted yesterday. At this time, he will be accompanied by a medical officer. The two men will conduct physical examinations and effect enlistments.

Students accepted by the Marines will be ordered to training with the Candidates' Class for Commission in monthly increments of approximately 225, beginning in May, 1942.

The present plan allows enlisted juniors and sophomores to remain on an inactive status and continue in college until they complete their college courses and receive their degrees. However, the exigencies of the service may necessitate their being called to active duty before graduation. In that event, at least six months' notice will be given before induction.

Commissions Given

The training will consist of an instruction course of approximately three months as enlisted men, followed by commission and further training in a Reserve Officers' Course of a similar period. Upon completion of the latter course, the officers will be assigned to general duties with troops.

A definite quota has been fixed as to the number of students who will be accepted here. Nine seniors, six juniors, and two sophomores will comprise the required number. Information concerning qualifications and applications may be secured at the registrar's office.

A.S.M.E. Convention To Be Shortened; New Date Advised

The convention of the student chapters of the Middle Atlantic Section of the A. S. M. E., to be held here in the spring, will be shortened to a one-day affair, it was announced yesterday by Kenneth J. Mozer, honorary chairman of the Villanova chapter.

Pressure of other duties resulting from shortage of time under the accelerated program has necessitated this and other changes in plans for the forthcoming convention. It may be necessary to advance the date of the convention from the scheduled time of April 17, in order that students graduating before then may attend the convention.

At the meeting of the local chapter held yesterday, the formation of committees was discussed, and co-chairmen Joseph McMahon and Edmund Hagan reported on the progress of the work of the several sub-committees working under their direction.

Coast Guard Has Senior Openings

College authorities were informed last week that the United States Coast Guard has openings for college graduates in the Reserve Officers Training School.

Courses are being offered at the Coast Guard Academy, New London, Conn. Of three to four months duration, the training is open to unmarried college men holding at least a bachelor's degree, and who are from 20 to 29 years of age inclusive.

30-Day Preliminaries

Candidates undergo a 30 day preliminary training period. Upon successful completion of this course, they will be appointed as cadets and given an additional three month Reserve Training. Those who fail to qualify during either of these periods will have their choice of either an honorable discharge or a transfer to another branch of the Coast Guard Reserve.

The first group commences training at the Coast Guard Academy today; subsequent classes will begin about every four months.

Interested seniors should apply to the Registrar's Office for further information about requirements. Applications may be obtained from local Coast Guard Recruiting Officers or by writing to the Commandant, Coast Guard Headquarters, Washington, D. C.

The Coast Guard program is the third such to be opened to college students, the others being those of the Marine and Naval Reserve.

Gordon Nick
Linen Supply Co.

1612 to 1620 North 11th St.

Philadelphia, Pa.

BEST WISHES
of the
Ritz-Carlton Hotel

Home of the
Senior Dinner-Dance

You can't beat the quality of the real thing
Pause ... Go refreshed
Coca-Cola
5¢
You trust its quality

Raise a frosty bottle of Coca-Cola to your lips and drink. Instantly its clean, exciting taste brings you refreshment plus. And quality—the quality of genuine goodness . . . the quality of Coca-Cola—the real thing.

BOTTLED UNDER AUTHORITY OF THE COCA-COLA COMPANY BY
THE PHILADELPHIA COCA-COLA BOTTLING CO.

★ ★ ★ ★ ★

WAR AND
TELEPHONE SERVICE

THE Army, the Navy, the Federal Government, Civilian Defense and War Industry have first call on the nation's telephone facilities. Our first and foremost obligation is to furnish them with fast, dependable telephone service, wherever and whenever needed.

In spite of staggering demands for telephone service, further expansion of telephone facilities is sharply curtailed by shortages of metals and equipment. Therefore, we must get the absolute maximum use out of the existing telephone plant.

Every telephone user can help to keep lines open and speed the service by following a few simple rules:

1. Be sure you have the right number before you make a call.
2. Don't ask "Information" for numbers that are listed in the directory.
3. Answer all calls as quickly as possible.
4. Be sure to "hang up" after each call. Don't let a book or anything else hold the telephone "off the hook."

Make Every Call Count.
Help Speed This
Vital War-Time Service!

THE BELL TELEPHONE COMPANY OF PENNSYLVANIA

★ ★ ★ ★ ★

VILLANOVAN

Vol. 14—No. 13 N. A. S. Z-660 VILLANOVA COLLEGE, VILLANOVA, PA. TUESDAY, FEBRUARY 17, 1942

College Expands Facilities For War Program

VERY REV. EDWARD V. STANFORD, O. S. A., who as college president supervises Villanova's wartime activity, yesterday released a statement outlining the work of the college in cooperation with the war effort.

Victory Issue

In this issue the VILLANOVAN attempts to present a word and picture review of what Villanova is doing as her part in America's victory program. To do this, news stories, columns, and most regular features are omitted.

Among the aspects of the program treated on inside pages are the following leading articles:

Page
Editorials 2
Flight Courses 3
Engineering Defense 4
I-M Sports Program 5
Varsity Sports Changes 6
Student Contributions 7
Civilian Defense 8

New Program Puts Curriculum On War Footing

Keeping in step with colleges and universities throughout the country in an effort to put all facilities on a complete war-time basis, Villanova has inaugurated an accelerated curriculum to allow graduation in three years or less.

In response to requests brought forward by government officials at a meeting of college presidents held in Baltimore in the early part of January, seniors here will graduate on May 19 this year and the new course of studies, which will be entirely optional, will be introduced for interested students the following month.

Shortens College Stay

The date for the inception of the new program, which was approved by the Board of Trustees, the faculty, and the Student Council, has been set for June 8.

Purpose of the plan is to enable students to complete the normal course leading to a degree in a three year period. Those who indicate a sufficient mastery of their subjects would even be enabled to graduate in approximately two and two-third years.

Demands of the armed forces for college graduates to assume commissions and of the Civil Service for trained men made such a step mandatory, Very Rev. Edward V. Stanford, O. S. A., president of the college, said in making the announcement.

Curriculum Reorganized

Since students who desire to do so may still take the regular four-year course, reorganization of the present curriculum has been necessitated in order to co-ordinate the two courses of study.

There will be no shortening of requirements or letdown in standards, but each course will have to be completed within one semester. This will mean fewer courses per semester, but a doubling of hours per week of each course.

Three Registrations a Year

New students will be admitted to the college three times a year under the provisions of the approved plan, and three classes will be graduated in each calendar year. Registrations will be held in June, October, and February.

The added fifteen week semester beginning on June 8 would end on Sept. 19; the date for the beginning of the following semester has been set for Oct. 12.

Moving up of graduation in order to permit the opening of the new curriculum in June has entailed several changes in the school calendar for this year. Chief among

CURRICULUM PLACED
Continued on Page Seven

President Is Defense Aid

Besides his regular duties as Villanova's head, Fr. Stanford is a nationally prominent educator. Through his membership in various educational organizations, he has contributed to the formulation of war aims and policies to be followed by the nation's colleges.

At present he holds offices in the following boards: Federal Commission on Colleges and Civilian Defense; State Advisory Committee on American Unity; Delaware County Defense Council; Commission on Post-War Problems, of the Association of American Colleges; and the Committee on Post-War Problems, of the National Conference of the Association of American Church Related Colleges.

Fr. Stanford is also past president of the Association of American Colleges, of the Association of College Presidents of Pennsylvania, and of the National Conference of Church Related Colleges.

Civilian Defense Set For Action

Under the general chairmanship of Very Rev. Edward V. Stanford, O. S. A., the civilian defense committee at Villanova, composed of faculty members and students, has taken measures for the successful prosecution of the nation's war program and for the protection of its students and faculty in the event of an enemy air raid.

Responsibility for the coordination of all phases of the broad program has been placed in the hands of Rev. Vincent A. McQuade, O. S. A., chief air raid warden and assistant to the president. It has been his task to provide for the synchronized functioning of all the committees formed thus far.

As air raid warden, Fr. McQuade heads a committee of resident hall counsellors and students whose duties include that of directing students when air raid alarms are sounded.

The auxiliary fire warden's committee, headed by Rev. John J. McMenamin, O. S. A., has catalogued and checked every piece of fire fighting equipment in the college and plans to introduce courses in fire prevention and protection in the near future.

A first aid committee with Rev. James A. Donellon, O. S. A., as its chairman, has instituted a course in first aid for the benefit of the students.

A Physical Fitness Committee and a general Campus Committee to foster American ideals have also been formed. The Red Cross Committee has had far greater success this year than in all previous years by collecting almost four times the amount gathered in former drives, while the Defense Savings Bonds and Stamps Committee is moving into action.

Special Classes To Aid Students In Military Way

Villanova has added to her second semester curriculum a number of special courses designed to be of war-time assistance to students.

Although formal academic credit will not be given for all these courses, the student will, upon successful completion of certain studies, be awarded a certificate testifying that he has taken the subject.

New Economics Course

The School of Commerce and Finance has added a credit course in the economics of war to its curriculum as an elective for senior students. Rev. Joseph C. Bartley, O. S. A., dean of the business school, teaches the subject. Credit courses in mathematics and Latin-American history are also open to commerce students.

Three non-credit naval courses are being offered to all students who have the approval of their deans. A two hour per week course in navigation, conducted by the Rev. John H. Crawford, O. S. A., will deal with the fundamental principles of navigation and their adaptation to methods required in actual service.

History of Navy

A twelve hour introductory course on the history of the United States Navy will be supervised by Rev. Edwin T. Grimes, O. S. A. It will be followed by a lecture course on Naval etiquette given by a Naval officer. Advanced students in French, German, or Italian may enroll in special one hour per week non-credit courses designed to prepare them for admission into the Intelligence Department of the Army or Navy.

Defense Bonds Bought Total $50,000

THE COLLEGE COOPERATES to the fullest extent in the purchase of United States Defense Bonds. Above, William G. Slaughter, alumni secretary, turns over $25,000 in bonds — representing alumni investment — to John T. Dever, college controller. Another $25,000 worth has been purchased directly by the college from funds representing endowments, class accounts, and other sources. To date, a total of $50,000 has thus been invested in the future of the United States.

Fr. Stanford's Report Quotes Innovations In Academic Setup

Very Rev. Edward V. Stanford, O. S. A., president of Villanova, stated yesterday:

"Preparations have been completed at Villanova College to put the institution on a full war basis. An accelerated academic program, on a voluntary basis, has been approved unanimously by Trustees, Faculty and Student Council. It provides for a third semester of fifteen weeks to extend over the summer months. Under the new program, graduation will take place on May 19th and the new semester will begin on June 8th. Fall registration will be moved back until October 12th. A poll of the students, recently completed, shows that approximately seventy per cent expect to register under the accelerated program, thus making it possible for them to complete the regular work of the four-year program in a little under three calendar years.

"The effect of Selective Service is now more evident in the enrollment figures than it was at the time of registration in the fall. Since the fall registration, approximately seven per cent of the students have left college to take their place in one or the other of the Armed Forces. Only a negligible percentage of the students has heeded the call of industry. The V-7, V-5 and Engineering programs of the Navy have met with an enthusiastic response from the student body and many applications have been filed.

"To assist students in preparing themselves for better service to their country under the war emergency, a number of new courses are being offered, some for credit, others on a non-credit basis. Economics of War, Latin American History and Mathematical courses have been provided for regular credit. Certificate courses are being offered in foreign languages, Navigation, Naval History and Meteorology. During the summer semester, additional certificate courses are planned in Advanced Navigation, Electronics, Morse Code and Military Acoustics. The Engineering Faculty, augmented by engineers from industry, is carrying on an Engineering Defense Training Program in cooperation with the United States Office of Education for almost four hundred students.

"In cooperation with the American Red Cross, First Aid Courses have been currently undertaken by well over a hundred students. The college is beginning its sixth program of Civilian Pilot Training. This program has already furnished a number of successful candidates for the Army Air Corps. At the same time, the Civilian Defense Program, in its various phases has not been neglected. The college participated in the recent Philadelphia blackout and the results on the campus were conceded to be one hundred per cent efficient.

"A physical fitness program, emphasizing increased intra-mural athletics and designed to provide properly supervised physical activity for all students is under way. Intercollegiate athletics are to be continued with such modifications as have been made necessary by the changed calendar of the college. No intercollegiate contests will be played later than May 9th, and the football season will begin two weeks later than usual due to the later opening of the fall term. There is no plan to hold formal intercollegiate athletic contests during the Summer Semester. However, informal athletic contests will be arranged with neighboring colleges as far as circumstances permit."

DPE To Sponsor Pictures, Talks

Series of Bi-Monthly Programs Arranged; Will Be Open to All Students

Bi-monthly motion pictures and guest speakers will be presented by Delta Pi Epsilon, commerce school fraternity, in the C.&F. auditorium every other Thursday at 11:45 A. M.

John Dudley, a junior, was appointed chairman of a committee of three, which includes Charles Jones, a senior, and Robert Bolger, a sophomore, to arrange these features, the inauguration of which is tentatively set for Feb. 12.

Educational And Interesting

"The motion pictures will be educational as well as entertaining and will include films on sports, history, and stories of the Army and Navy," Dudley told the fraternity at the last meeting, "while the speakers will be men in the professional and business field." The entire student body is invited to attend these meetings.

David N. Reardon, president, urges all fraternity men to submit as many copies of previous examinations as possible to Andrew DiDio in order to supplement the examination file. Any member of the fraternity may make use of this file as a study aid in preparation for examinations.

Three Pin Samples

At the meeting held last Thursday, it was announced that three fraternity pin samples have been submitted for approval. Within the next few days one of these designs will be chosen and orders for pins and keys will be taken at the next meeting. All members are urged to submit their orders for pins and keys as soon as possible in order to secure them by April 16, which is the date of the fraternity's annual dinner.

Effects of the war were brought home to the fraternity when Samuel J. Canning, secretary of the organization, left school on Saturday to be inducted into the army. Theodore Galysh and Roy Lind, senior members of the fraternity, have also joined the armed forces.

At present no plans have been made for the election of a new secretary. The problem of choosing a successor to Canning will be discussed at the next meeting.

Papal Blessing Closes 99th Annual Retreat

Villanova's ninety-ninth annual retreat was closed last Wednesday, Feb. 4, with Mass, Communion and the imparting of the Papal Blessing.

Rev. Thomas Rogers, O. S. A. and Rev. John Brennan, O. S. A., retreat masters and members of the Augustinian Mission Band, placed special emphasis on the meanings of the Ten Commandments and their strict observance was the only means by which peace might again reign in this world.

Keep Abreast Of Events

Tuesday, Feb. 10—
Senior Class Meeting	1:00 P. M.
International Relations Club	2:30 P. M.
Intramural Basketball:
C. & F. vs. Mendel D. S.	3:00 P. M.
Austin vs. Fedigan	7:15 P. M.
Alumni vs. Mendel Res.	8:30 P. M.
Wednesday, Feb. 11—
Villanova - Immaculata German Club Meeting,	7:45 P. M.
Varsity Debate: Villanova vs. St. Joseph (Moorestown, N. J.)	8:30 P. M.
Thursday, Feb. 12—
Science Forum	10:45 A. M.
Delta Pi Epsilon, Movies	11:45 A. M.
Beta Gamma	1:00 P. M.
History Seminar	3:30 P. M.
Research Seminar	4:30 P. M.
Intramural Basketball:
C. & F. vs. Austin	3:00 P. M.
Alumni vs. Mendel D. S.	7:15 P. M.
Fedigan vs. Mendel Res.	8:30 P. M.
Monday, Feb. 16—
Lambda Kappa Delta Initiation	7:30 P. M.
Radio Club	2:30 P. M.

Alumnus Speaks On Marine Corps

Second Lieutenant Metzinger, M. C. R., '41 Graduate, Outlines Training Plan

Second Lieutenant Robert Metzinger, M. C. R., visited the college yesterday and addressed students interested in training for commissions as second lieutenants in the Marine Corps Reserve. Metzinger is a Villanova graduate of the class of 1941.

Information and applications relative to his coming had been circulated throughout the campus for some weeks in advance by Paetrus F. Banmiller, Registrar. The purpose of yesterday's visit was to give information, interview applicants, and accept applications.

Returns Next Week

Metzinger will return to the campus next Tuesday in order to interview additional applicants who were unable to see him yesterday and to take any applications which were not submitted yesterday. At this time, he will be accompanied by a medical officer. The two men will conduct physical examinations and effect enlistments.

Students accepted by the Marines will be ordered to training with the Candidates' Class for Commission in monthly increments of approximately 225, beginning in May, 1942.

The present plan allows enlisted juniors and sophomores to remain on an inactive status and continue in college until they complete their college courses and receive their degrees. However, the exigencies of the service may necessitate their being called to active duty before graduation. In that event, at least six months' notice will be given before induction.

Commissions Given

The training will consist of an instruction course of approximately three months as enlisted men, followed by commission and further training in a Reserve Officers' Course of a similar period. Upon completion of the latter course, the officers will be assigned to general duties with troops.

A definite quota has been fixed as to the number of students who will be accepted here. Nine seniors, six juniors, and two sophomores will comprise the required number. Information concerning qualifications and applications may be secured at the registrar's office.

A.S.M.E. Convention To Be Shortened; New Date Advised

The convention of the student chapters of the Middle Atlantic Section of the A. S. M. E., to be held here in the spring, will be shortened to a one-day affair, it was announced yesterday by Kenneth J. Mozer, honorary chairman of the Villanova chapter.

Pressure of other duties resulting from shortage of time under the accelerated program has necessitated this and other changes in plans for the forthcoming convention. It may be necessary to advance the date of the convention from the scheduled time of April 17, in order that students graduating before then may attend the convention.

At the meeting of the local chapter held yesterday, the formation of committees was discussed, and co-chairmen Joseph McMahon and Edmund Hagan reported on the progress of the work of the several sub-committees working under their direction.

Coast Guard Has Senior Openings

College authorities were informed last week that the United States Coast Guard has openings for college graduates in the Reserve Officers Training School.

Courses are being offered at the Coast Guard Academy, New London, Conn. Of three to four months duration, the training is open to unmarried college men holding at least a bachelor's degree, and who are from 20 to 29 years of age inclusive.

30-Day Preliminaries

Candidates undergo a 30 day preliminary training period. Upon successful completion of this course, they will be appointed as cadets and given an additional three month Reserve Training. Those who fail to qualify during either of these periods will have their choice of either an honorable discharge or a transfer to another branch of the Coast Guard Reserve.

The first group commences training at the Coast Guard Academy today; subsequent classes will begin about every four months.

Interested seniors should apply to the Registrar's Office for further information about requirements. Applications may be obtained from local Coast Guard Recruiting Officers or by writing to the Commandant, Coast Guard Headquarters, Washington, D. C.

The Coast Guard program is the third such to be opened to college students, the others being those of the Marine and Naval Reserve.

Gordon Nick
Linen Supply Co.
1612 to 1620 North 11th St.
Philadelphia, Pa.

BEST WISHES
of the
Ritz-Carlton Hotel
Home of the
Senior Dinner-Dance

You can't beat the quality of the real thing
Pause... Go refreshed
Coca-Cola
5¢
You trust its quality
Raise a frosty bottle of Coca-Cola to your lips and drink. Instantly its clean, exciting taste brings you refreshment plus. And quality—the quality of genuine goodness . . . the quality of Coca-Cola—the real thing.

BOTTLED UNDER AUTHORITY OF THE COCA-COLA COMPANY BY
THE PHILADELPHIA COCA-COLA BOTTLING CO.

★ ★ ★ ★ ★

WAR AND TELEPHONE SERVICE

THE Army, the Navy, the Federal Government, Civilian Defense and War Industry have first call on the nation's telephone facilities. Our first and foremost obligation is to furnish them with fast, dependable telephone service, wherever and whenever needed.

In spite of staggering demands for telephone service, further expansion of telephone facilities is sharply curtailed by shortages of metals and equipment. Therefore, we must get the absolute maximum use out of the existing telephone plant.

Every telephone user can help to keep lines open and speed the service by following a few simple rules:

1. Be sure you have the right number before you make a call.
2. Don't ask "Information" for numbers that are listed in the directory.
3. Answer all calls as quickly as possible.
4. Be sure to "hang up" after each call. Don't let a book or anything else hold the telephone "off the hook."

Make Every Call Count.
Help Speed This
Vital War-Time Service!

THE BELL TELEPHONE COMPANY OF PENNSYLVANIA

★ ★ ★ ★ ★

VILLANOVAN

Vol. 14—No. 13 N. A. S. Z-660 VILLANOVA COLLEGE, VILLANOVA, PA. TUESDAY, FEBRUARY 17, 1942

College Expands Facilities For War Program

VERY REV. EDWARD V. STANFORD, O. S. A., who as college president supervises Villanova's wartime activity, yesterday released a statement outlining the work of the college in cooperation with the war effort.

New Program Puts Curriculum On War Footing

Keeping in step with colleges and universities throughout the country in an effort to put all facilities on a complete war-time basis, Villanova has inaugurated an accelerated curriculum to allow graduation in three years or less.

In response to requests brought forward by government officials at a meeting of college presidents held in Baltimore in the early part of January, seniors here will graduate on May 19 this year and the new course of studies, which will be entirely optional, will be introduced for interested students the following month.

Shortens College Stay

The date for the inception of the new program, which was approved by the Board of Trustees, the faculty, and the Student Council, has been set for June 8.

Purpose of the plan is to enable students to complete the normal course leading to a degree in a three year period. Those who indicate a sufficient mastery of their subjects would even be enabled to graduate in approximately two and two-third years.

Demands of the armed forces for college graduates to assume commissions and of the Civil Service for trained men made such a step mandatory, Very Rev. Edward V. Stanford, O. S. A., president of the college, said in making the announcement.

Curriculum Reorganized

Since students who desire to do so may still take the regular four-year course, reorganization of the present curriculum has been necessitated in order to co-ordinate the two courses of study.

There will be no shortening of requirements or letdown in standards, but each course will have to be completed within one semester. This will mean fewer courses per semester, but a doubling of hours per week of each course.

Three Registrations a Year

New students will be admitted to the college three times a year under the provisions of the approved plan, and three classes will be graduated in each calendar year. Registrations will be held in June, October, and February.

The added fifteen week semester beginning on June 8 would end on Sept. 19; the date for the beginning of the following semester has been set for Oct. 12.

Moving up of graduation in order to permit the opening of the new curriculum in June has entailed several changes in the school calendar for this year. Chief among

CURRICULUM PLACED
Continued on Page Seven

President Is Defense Aid

Besides his regular duties as Villanova's head, Fr. Stanford is a nationally prominent educator. Through his membership in various educational organizations, he has contributed to the formulation of war aims and policies to be followed by the nation's colleges.

At present he holds offices in the following boards: Federal Commission on Colleges and Civilian Defense; State Advisory Committee on American Unity; Delaware County Defense Council; Commission on Post-War Problems, of the Association of American Colleges; and the Committee on Post-War Problems, of the National Conferdent of the Association of Amerience of Church Related Colleges.

Fr. Stanford is also past presican Colleges, of the Association of College Presidents of Pennsylvania, and of the National Conference of Church Related Colleges.

Civilian Defense Set For Action

Under the general chairmanship of Very Rev. Edward V. Stanford, O. S. A., the civilian defense committee at Villanova, composed of faculty members and students, has taken measures for the successful prosecution of the nation's war program and for the protection of its students and faculty in the event of an enemy air raid.

Responsibility for the coordination of all phases of the broad program has been placed in the hands of Rev. Vincent A. McQuade, O. S. A., chief air raid warden and assistant to the president. It has been his task to provide for the synchronized functioning of all the committees formed thus far.

As air raid warden, Fr. McQuade heads a committee of resident hall counsellors and students whose duties include that of directing students when air raid alarms are sounded.

The auxiliary fire warden's committee, headed by Rev. John J. McMenamin, O. S. A., has catalogued and checked every piece of fire fighting equipment in the college and plans to introduce courses in fire prevention and protection in the near future.

A first aid committee with Rev. James A. Donellon, O. S. A., as its chairman, has instituted a course in first aid for the benefit of the students.

A Physical Fitness Committee and a general Campus Committee to foster American ideals have also been formed. The Red Cross Committee has had far greater success this year than in all previous years by collecting almost four times the amount gathered in former drives, while the Defense Savings Bonds and Stamps Committee is moving into action.

Victory Issue

In this issue the VILLANOVAN attempts to present a word and picture review of what Villanova is doing as her part in America's victory program. To do this, news stories, columns, and most regular features are omitted.

Among the aspects of the program treated on inside pages are the following leading articles:

Page
Editorials 2
Flight Courses 3
Engineering Defense 4
I-M Sports Program 5
Varsity Sports Changes 6
Student Contributions 7
Civilian Defense 8

Special Classes To Aid Students In Military Way

Villanova has added to her second semester curriculum a number of special courses designed to be of war-time assistance to students.

Although formal academic credit will not be given for all these courses, the student will, upon successful completion of certain studies, be awarded a certificate testifying that he has taken the subject.

New Economics Course

The School of Commerce and Finance has added a credit course in the economics of war to its curriculum as an elective for senior students. Rev. Joseph C. Bartley, O. S. A., dean of the business school, teaches the subject. Credit courses in mathematics and Latin-American history are also open to commerce students.

Three non-credit naval courses are being offered to all students who have the approval of their deans. A two hour per week course in navigation, conducted by the Rev. John H. Crawford, O. S. A., will deal with the fundamental principles of navigation and their adaptation to methods required in actual service.

History of Navy

A twelve hour introductory course on the history of the United States Navy will be supervised by Rev. Edwin T. Grimes, O. S. A. It will be followed by a lecture course on Naval etiquette given by a Naval officer. Advanced students in French, German, or Italian may enroll in special one hour per week non-credit courses designed to prepare them for admission into the Intelligence Department of the Army or Navy.

Fr. Stanford's Report Quotes Innovations In Academic Setup

Very Rev. Edward V. Stanford, O. S. A., president of Villanova, stated yesterday:

"Preparations have been completed at Villanova College to put the institution on a full war basis. An accelerated academic program, on a voluntary basis, has been approved unanimously by Trustees, Faculty and Student Council. It provides for a third semester of fifteen weeks to extend over the summer months. Under the new program, graduation will take place on May 19th and the new semester will begin on June 8th. Fall registration will be moved back until October 12th. A poll of the students, recently completed, shows that approximately seventy per cent expect to register under the accelerated program, thus making it possible for them to complete the regular work of the four-year program in a little under three calendar years.

"The effect of Selective Service is now more evident in the enrollment figures than it was at the time of registration in the fall. Since the fall registration, approximately seven per cent of the students have left college to take their place in one or the other of the Armed Forces. Only a negligible percentage of the students has heeded the call of industry. The V-7, V-5 and Engineering programs of the Navy have met with an enthusiastic response from the student body and many applications have been filed.

"To assist students in preparing themselves for better service to their country under the war emergency, a number of new courses are being offered, some for credit, others on a non-credit basis. Economics of War, Latin American History and Mathematical courses have been provided for regular credit. Certificate courses are being offered in foreign languages, Navigation, Naval History and Meteorology. During the summer semester, additional certificate courses are planned in Advanced Navigation, Electronics, Morse Code and Military Acoustics. The Engineering Faculty, augmented by engineers from industry, is carrying on an Engineering Defense Training Program in cooperation with the United States Office of Education for almost four hundred students.

"In cooperation with the American Red Cross, First Aid Courses have been currently undertaken by well over a hundred students. The college is beginning its sixth program of Civilian Pilot Training. This program has already furnished a number of successful candidates for the Army Air Corps. At the same time, the Civilian Defense Program, in its various phases has not been neglected. The college participated in the recent Philadelphia blackout and the results on the campus were conceded to be one hundred per cent efficient.

"A physical fitness program, emphasizing increased intra-mural athletics and designed to provide properly supervised physical activity for all students is under way. Intercollegiate athletics are to be continued with such modifications as have been made necessary by the changed calendar of the college. No intercollegiate contests will be played later than May 9th, and the football season will begin two weeks later than usual due to the later opening of the fall term. There is no plan to hold formal intercollegiate athletic contests during the Summer Semester. However, informal athletic contests will be arranged with neighboring colleges as far as circumstances permit."

Defense Bonds Bought Total $50,000

THE COLLEGE COOPERATES to the fullest extent in the purchase of United States Defense Bonds. Above, William G. Slaughter, alumni secretary, turns over $25,000 in bonds — representing alumni investment — to John T. Dever, college controller. Another $25,000 worth has been purchased directly by the college from funds representing endowments, class accounts, and other sources. To date, a total of $50,000 has thus been invested in the future of the United States.

Three Facets Of Preparation For War

THE FULL meaning of the modern concept of total war has but recently been realized by the American people.

Rapidly recovering from the cowardly stab in the back delivered at the bloody hands of the Japanese empire, the United States is now engaged in the feverish process of mustering its entire economy, capital, labor, and machinery, into a single well-oiled unit, in anxious preparation for the day, not far off, when the battle shall be brought to the shores of the vicious attackers.

Of all the forces at the command of our great country, the most decisive is that of manpower — expert soldiers, sailors, and marines are urgently needed.

All important as the increased production of guns, tanks, planes and ships is to our defense, these tools of warfare remain utterly useless in the absence of an unlimited reservoir of men technically trained to operate them.

Entirely dependent upon the youth of the nation for the recruiting for armed services, the government has issued an appeal to the American colleges to accelerate the schooling process and thus increase the flow of educated youth to the services of their country.

One of the first to respond to this grave, emergent request, Villanova has expanded, intensified, and accelerated all phases of her educational program.

We are determined to cooperate in every way possible to insure and to hasten our ultimate victory. Not only scholastic schedules, but physical training and religious instructions have undergone drastic upward revisions in this acceleration.

Villanova has achieved the enviable ideal of educating the whole man — in body, in mind, and in spirit — for better service to God and to country.

Physical

MAN as a physical being needs exercise to keep his body in a condition of maximum efficiency. This fact has been known for ages and in this era is recognized by an organized body of sports almost unparalleled.

In these times when the fullest measure of every facility of the country is demanded for the war program, the good health and bodily development of the individual citizen becomes a national rather than a personal problem.

To meet this problem the vast "Hale America" program has called on every school to reach all students in its sports program. Intercollegiate competition does not meet the requirement; only a few of the more proficient in the sport can make the teams. A well-rounded intramural program is needed.

Villanova has developed one of the most complete and efficient intramural systems in the country. The importance attached to it and the interest aroused have resulted in the active participation of almost every student in every class and school.

The healthful relaxation derived from sports has not been ignored; strong citizens make a strong nation. Villanova need not join the rush to inaugurate a physical fitness program; upon the extensive foundation already established she need only intensify her efforts in her present work.

Mental

TODAY as Villanova approaches her one hundredth anniversary, she is meeting the most serious problem to confront her in her entire history—that of aiding in the defense of the United States.

On June 8 an accelerated plan of studies will be inaugurated to speed up the process of collegiate education and thus enable students to complete their curricula in the shortest possible time.

Also, appropriate courses in military and naval sciences have been added to enable students to enter the officer-training programs of the Army, the Navy, and the Marine Corps.

The past few months have also seen the inception of a new series of defense training classes to instruct men in many of the skilled trades which have been dangerously depleted in accomodating the pressing needs of the defense industries.

Thus, operating at full capacity its well-equipped biological and engineering laboratories, Villanova is adding her share of highly trained student doctors, lawyers, engineers, and business men to relieve the heavily burdened ranks of America's professional men in this emergency.

Moral

MARVELOUS indeed is the present-day American university. Noted scholars daily expound to their students the fruits of long years of intellectual research in classes especially equipped to produce the best results.

Huge stadia and field houses are constructed to provide adequate facilities for complete bodily development. In short, nothing that contributes to the making of the complete man is ignored.

Nothing, that is, if you forget that which distinguishes man from the rest of God's creatures — his immortal soul. A system of education which fails to make provisions for the training of the soul fails also in the primary purpose of true education.

A complete system of moral training is found today only in the Catholic school, such as Villanova. In the secular university, religion, which is after all, the real source of moral training, is at best merely endured.

In our battle against the pagan barbarism which has enslaved major portions of the world, can we hope to defeat such patent immorality when our nation is trained in insipid amorality? Our duty now is not passive indifference toward such systems, but an active hatred for the ideology — a hatred which will result in its final annihilation.

VILLANOVAN

Issued twenty-five times a year from
Villanova College, Villanova, Pa.

THOMAS F. DEVINE, '43 .... Editor-in-Chief
JACQUES E. MAUCH, '43 .... Sports Editor
ROBERT F. YOUNG, '44 .... College Editor
WARD C. GUNCHEON, '43 .... Managing Editor
ROBERT T. CANFIELD, '43 .... Copy Editor
THOMAS C. MURASKI, '43 .... Literary Editor
EUGENE P. SMITH, 43 .... Business Manager
LORING A. JONES, '43 .... Advertising Manager
RAYMOND G. AMICONE, '43 ..... Photography Editor
NICHOLAS C. ENI, '43 .... Circulation Manager
LOUIS J ESPOSITO, '43 .... Exchange Editor

Columnists
E. F Bennis, '43 J. F. Dudley, '43

Staff Writers
F. Bagot, '43; A. Berenato, '45; H. Binder, '44; J. Bongiovanni, '43; W. Craven, '43; L. DeSimone, '44; D. Ehart, '45; T. McFarland, '45; J. McWilliams, '45; J. Mahoney, '43; J. Murray, '45; J. Nunemaker, '43; J. Quinn, '44; F. Reese, '43; D. Sauers, '44; T. Schubert, '45; J. Tortoreto, '44; W. Walsh, '44; S. Zeeman, '45.

Business Assistants
C. Callahan, '43 W. Golden, '45
H. C. O'Connor, Jr., '45 J. Walsh, '43

Circulation Assistants
J. Correale, '44 L. Hood, '45
F. Facciolo, '45 J. Keays, '44
G. Giacchino, '44

Photography Staff
L. Eni, '44 E. Mancuso, '45

Faculty Advisor—Rev. Edward B. McKee, O. S. A.

This paper is dedicated to one of the finest men who ever entered Villanova; scholar, athlete, gentleman — LEO GOODREAU

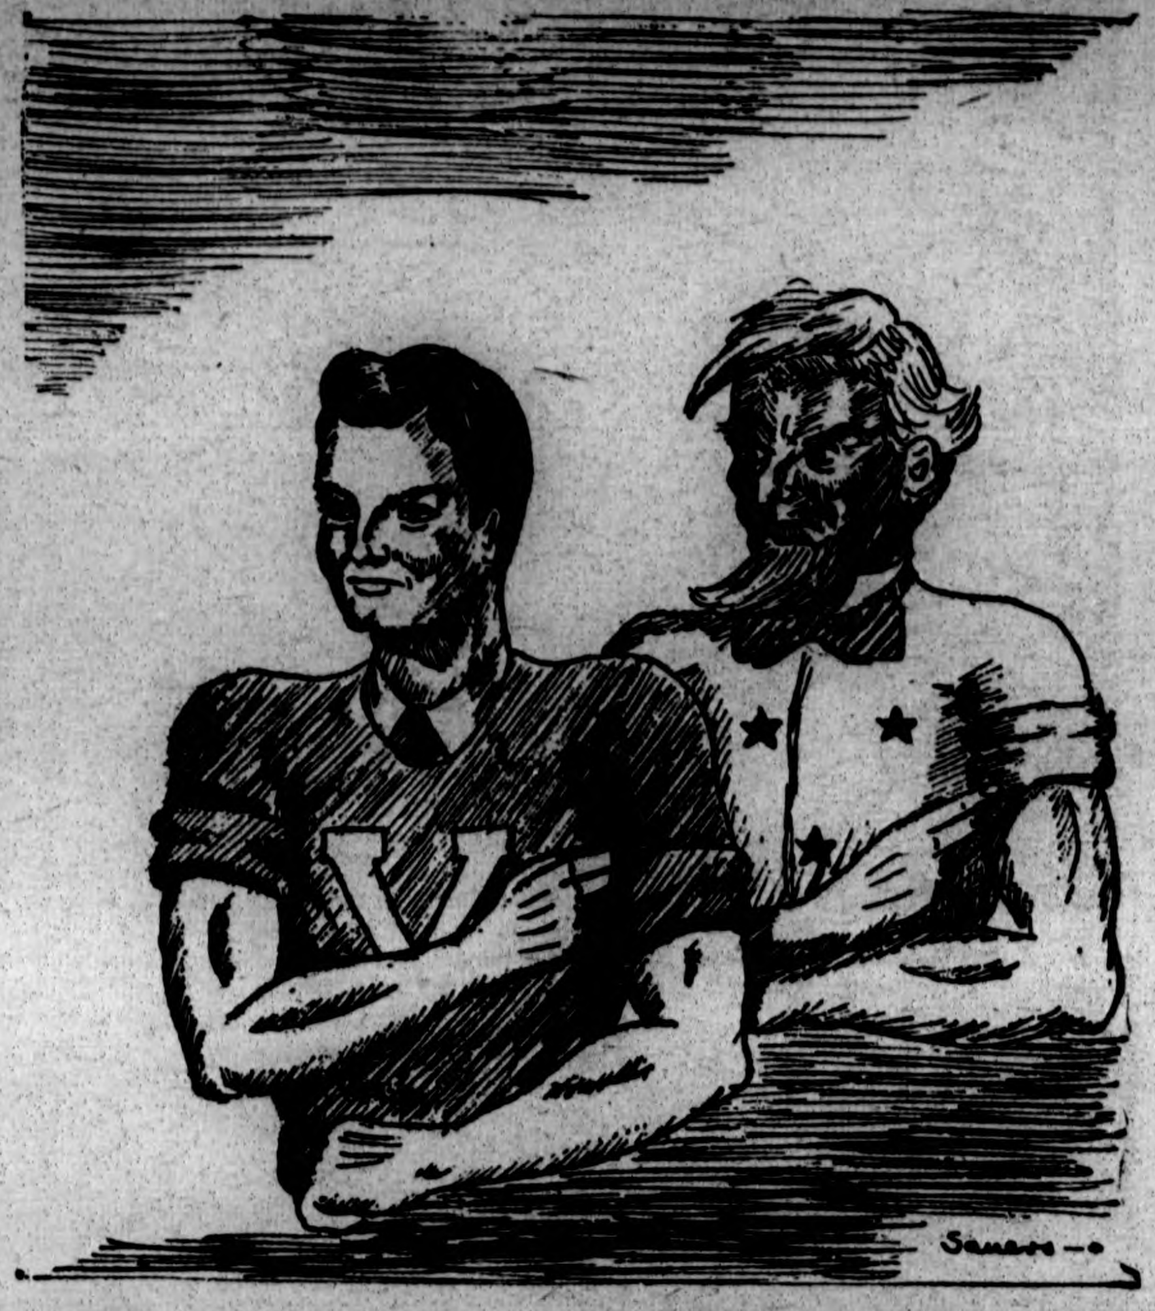
Subscription: $2.00 per year. Circulation: 3500.
Entered as second class matter at the Villanova Post Office December 27, 1928.

Member of Associated Collegiate Press; Distributor of Collegiate Digest.
Member of Catholic School Press Association, Catholic College Press Association, and National Scholastic Press Association.

TUESDAY - - - - - - FEBRUARY 17, 1942

Editor This Issue: THOMAS H. DOYLE, JR., '42

"We're Ready, Uncle"



FACULTY COMMENTS

Some Notes On Catholic Efforts

By FR. GRIMES

TO THE PRESIDENT. Historic loyalty of the Catholics of the United States was pledged by the bishops of our country on Dec. 22, 1941, in a letter addressed to President Franklin D. Roosevelt. The Most Rev. Edward Mooney, Archbishop of Detroit, in the name of the bishops, pledged "our wholehearted cooperation in the difficult days that lie ahead."

HAWAII AIR CHIEF IS CATHOLIC INDIAN. An Osage Indian by birth is in charge of the entire U. S. Army Air force in Hawaii. Brig. Gen. Clarence L. Tinker's rank is the highest ever held in the U. S. Army by a native Indian. His entire family is Catholic, his wife being of Irish descent.

AMONG CATHOLICS PATRIOTISM IS A HABIT. "Patriotism, true patriotism, is a quality of the soul, a spiritual quality which is ever present and ever dominant in our lives and teachings," said Archbishop Spellman, the Bishop of the Catholic Chaplains of the U. S. armed forces.

400 YEARS. The first priests to evangelize the natives of the Philippine Islands were Augustinian friars from New Spain. They set out under the leadership of Villalobos in 1542.

PHILIPPINE GENERAL. Major General Basilio J. Valdes, chief of staff of the Philippine Army, ranks also as a leader among Catholic laymen. He was a member of the executive committee for the International Eucharistic Congress in 1937 and has actively encouraged the Catholic Youth Movement.

CATHOLIC CHAPLAINS. A recent report reveals that out of 1571 Army chaplains, 391 are Catholic priests and about 31 percent of the Navy chaplains are Catholic priests.

INTER - AMERICAN COLLABORATION. One full time scholarship at Villanova College in the School of Engineering has been offered to a Latin American student for the scholastic year 1942-43.

BULWARK OF DEMOCRACY. The Third Plenary Council of Baltimore declared that if our country's inheritance of freedom should be imperiled "our Catholic citizens will be found to stand forward, as one man, ready to pledge anew their lives, their fortunes and their sacred honor." In the First World War 804,559 Catholics served in the armed forces. The Catholic death casualties were numbered at 22,552. According to recent statistics, the Catholics of the U. S. form one-sixth of the total population and 35% of the total armed forces of our nation.

FRIAR-SAILOR. The Augustinian Friar, Fr. Urdaneta, has been called by Lt. John D. Hayes, U. S. N., in a recent issue of the "United States Naval Proceedings," the "Pathfinder of the Pacific." On a return voyage (1565) from the Philippines to Mexico, "Urdaneta had to navigate and sail the ship, then a man of 67 years, and at the same time prepare the charts. The charts and journals compiled on this voyage. . .were of inestimable value to the navigators and cosmographers of his day and were the sole guidance for the galleons as late as 1623."

CATHOLIC COMMANDER OF HEROIC MARINES. It was Major James Patrick Devereau who commanded the Marine garrison that successfully defended Wake Island in the face of superior numbers for many days before succumbing to the Japanese. Major Devereau is a member of the Blessed Sacrament parish, Washington, D. C.

VILLANOVA IN THE PHILIPPINES. Four American priests, all graduates of Villanova College, are teaching at the Augustinian College at Iloilo, in which college there is established a unit of the R. O. T. C.

CATHOLIC PRIEST HEADS ARMY CHAPLAINS. Major General W. R. Arnold, Chief of Chaplains, was recently made a Domestic Prelate with title of Right Rev. Monsignor. His promotion to the rank of Major General, by presidential proclamation, is also a new honor.

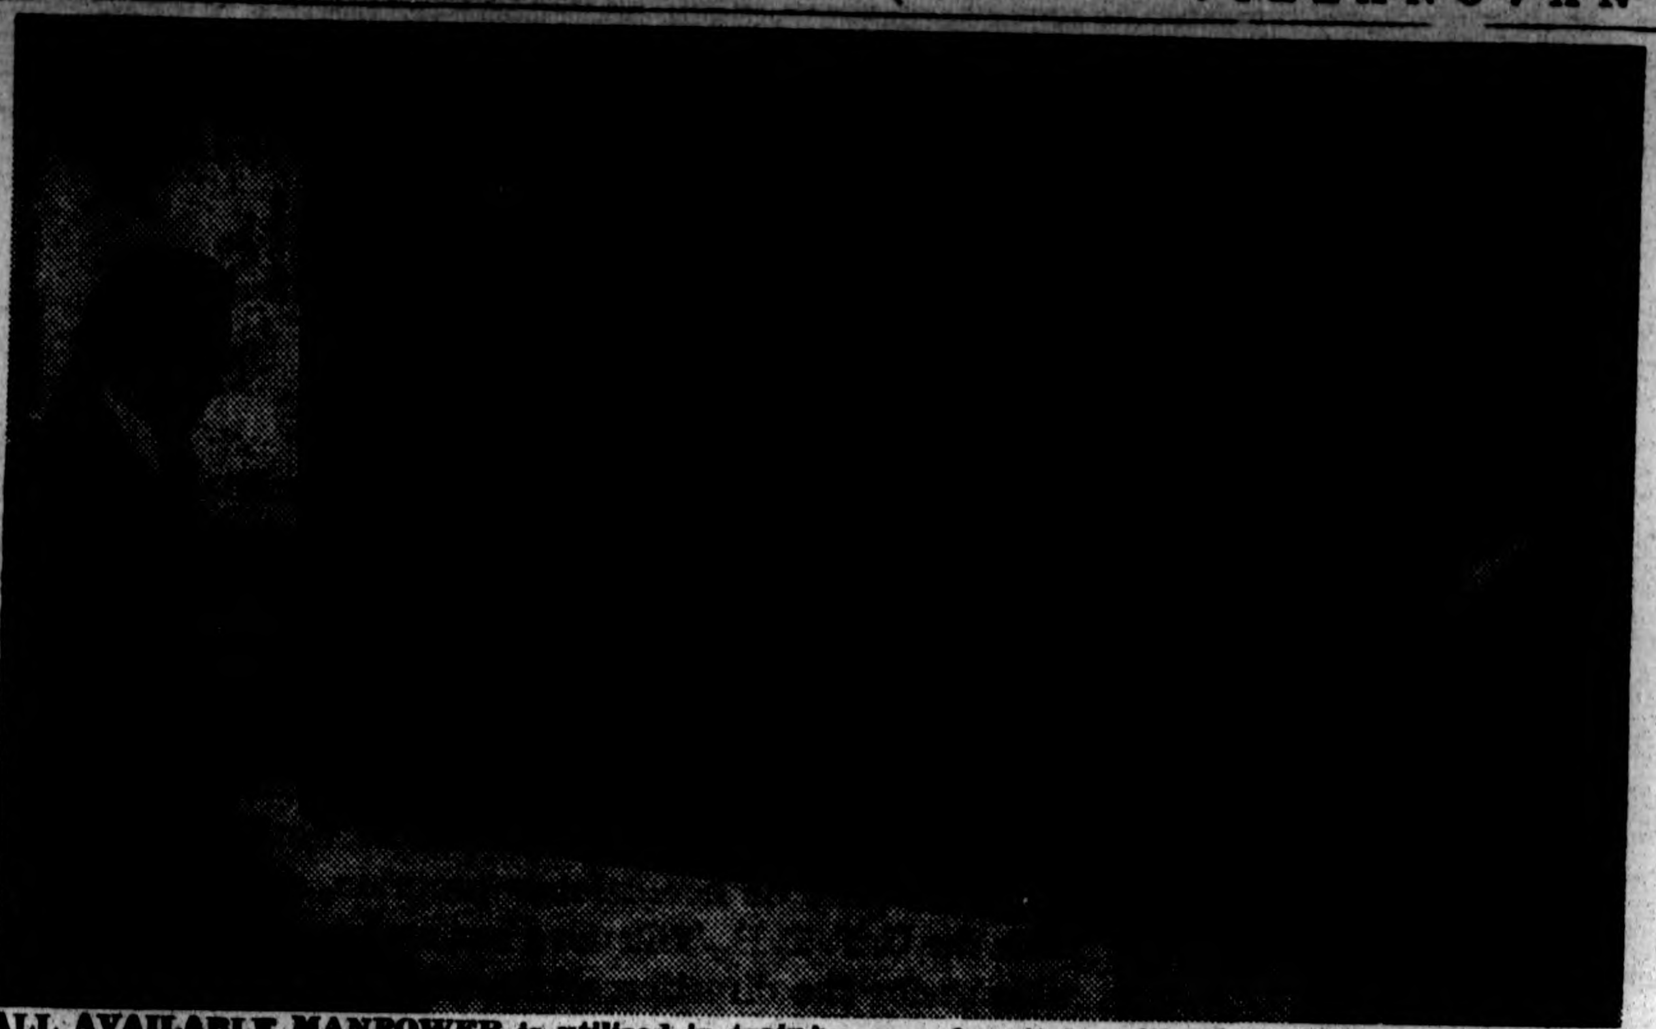
VILLANOVA MISSIONARIES. When the United States took over the Philippines in 1898 two Augustinian priests, graduates of Villanova, volunteered for that mission. Of one of them, Bishop J. A. Walsh of Maryknoll says, "Father McErlain lives among the (Philippine) students, speaks to them in English, the language of their ambitions, and has a special Mass at the Cathedral every Sunday, at which an English sermon is preached and which the students attend." The second volunteer, Fr. Daniel O'Mahoney, O. S. A., the oldest living priest-graduate of Villanova, is living in Lawrence, Mass.

PRIEST KILLED IN ACTION. Rev. Aloysius H. Schmidt of Dubuque, a chaplain in the United States Navy, was killed on Dec. 7 in the first Japanese attack on Hawaii. He is believed to have been the first chaplain with the armed forces to lose his life in the present conflict.

PAPAL RELIEF. The U. S. Catholics recently contributed $300,000 to the Papal Relief Fund established by Pope Pius XII for the relief of the war-stricken countries.

UNDER FIRE. "I had just begun Mass when the Japanese passed di-

FACULTY COMMENTS
Continued on Page Seven



ALL AVAILABLE MANPOWER is utilized in training men for vital positions in the war effort. Paetrus F. Banmiller, a graduate of Villanova's engineering school and at present registrar of the college, shows a defense student how to calculate the flight of a projectile.

Technical Training Of Defense School Draws 500 Workers

When it became evident in 1940 that the engineering colleges of the country could not supply trained men quickly enough to fill the rapidly rising demands of the growing defense industries, Villanova was among the first of the nation's college to take action.

An Engineering Defense Program was immediately established both here on the campus and at nearby high schools. Its purpose was to help alleviate the shortage by providing courses designed to meet the lack of engineers with specialized training in fields essential to defense. They were for the most part training in specific subjects which would speed up the preparation of the particular types of engineers most urgently needed.

Last year additional need for men trained in physics, chemistry, and management was found to exist and the college immediately expanded its Engineering Defense Training Program into an Engineering, Science, and Management Defense Training Program.

Three hundred and fifty-five students enrolled in the courses last year, while enrollment for all courses—at Camden, North Catholic, West Catholic, and Villanova—this year totaled 501. The 20 students expected to sign up for the proposed radio defense course will swell the number to 521.

J. Stanley Morehouse, dean of the regular engineering school, is director of the defense courses. Under him, John Gallen is principal of the branch school which was established at Northeast Catholic High School; Harry S. Bueche is principal at West Catholic High School; and Paetrus F. Banmiller is principal here at the college.

Faculty Increased

Last year the Defense Training faculty numbered 26 including supervisors; this year there are 34 professors. Since the regular faculty of the Villanova engineering school could not meet the demands, the United States Department of Education approved a short training course for novice teachers.

Courses in the defense school are of two general types: full time or pre-employment courses given in the engineering school on the campus to fit men for future employment in defense industries, and part time or in-service courses for persons already employed.

First to be offered was a 24-week course in the elements of engineering, under the direction of Dr. Edward L. Haenisch and William Gorman. The course was completed last August and repeated in the fall. A new elementary course will be started about Feb. 16 for high school students who graduate in February.

A course in junior engineering is being offered to those who successfully completed the first course; 123 are now enrolled in this course.

Lab Work Offered

Laboratory work connected with these junior engineering courses is being done in the college materials testing laboratory. About 100 students will take the two-month course, which consists of seven experiments.

At a branch school established in Camden, N. J., under the direction of Dean Morehouse, an advanced course in power plants is taught for men already having some engineering training.

Special courses are already being conducted for employes at the New York Shipbuilding Company, and authorities are considering the organizing of a similar school at Cramps Shipyard.

New Courses Prepared

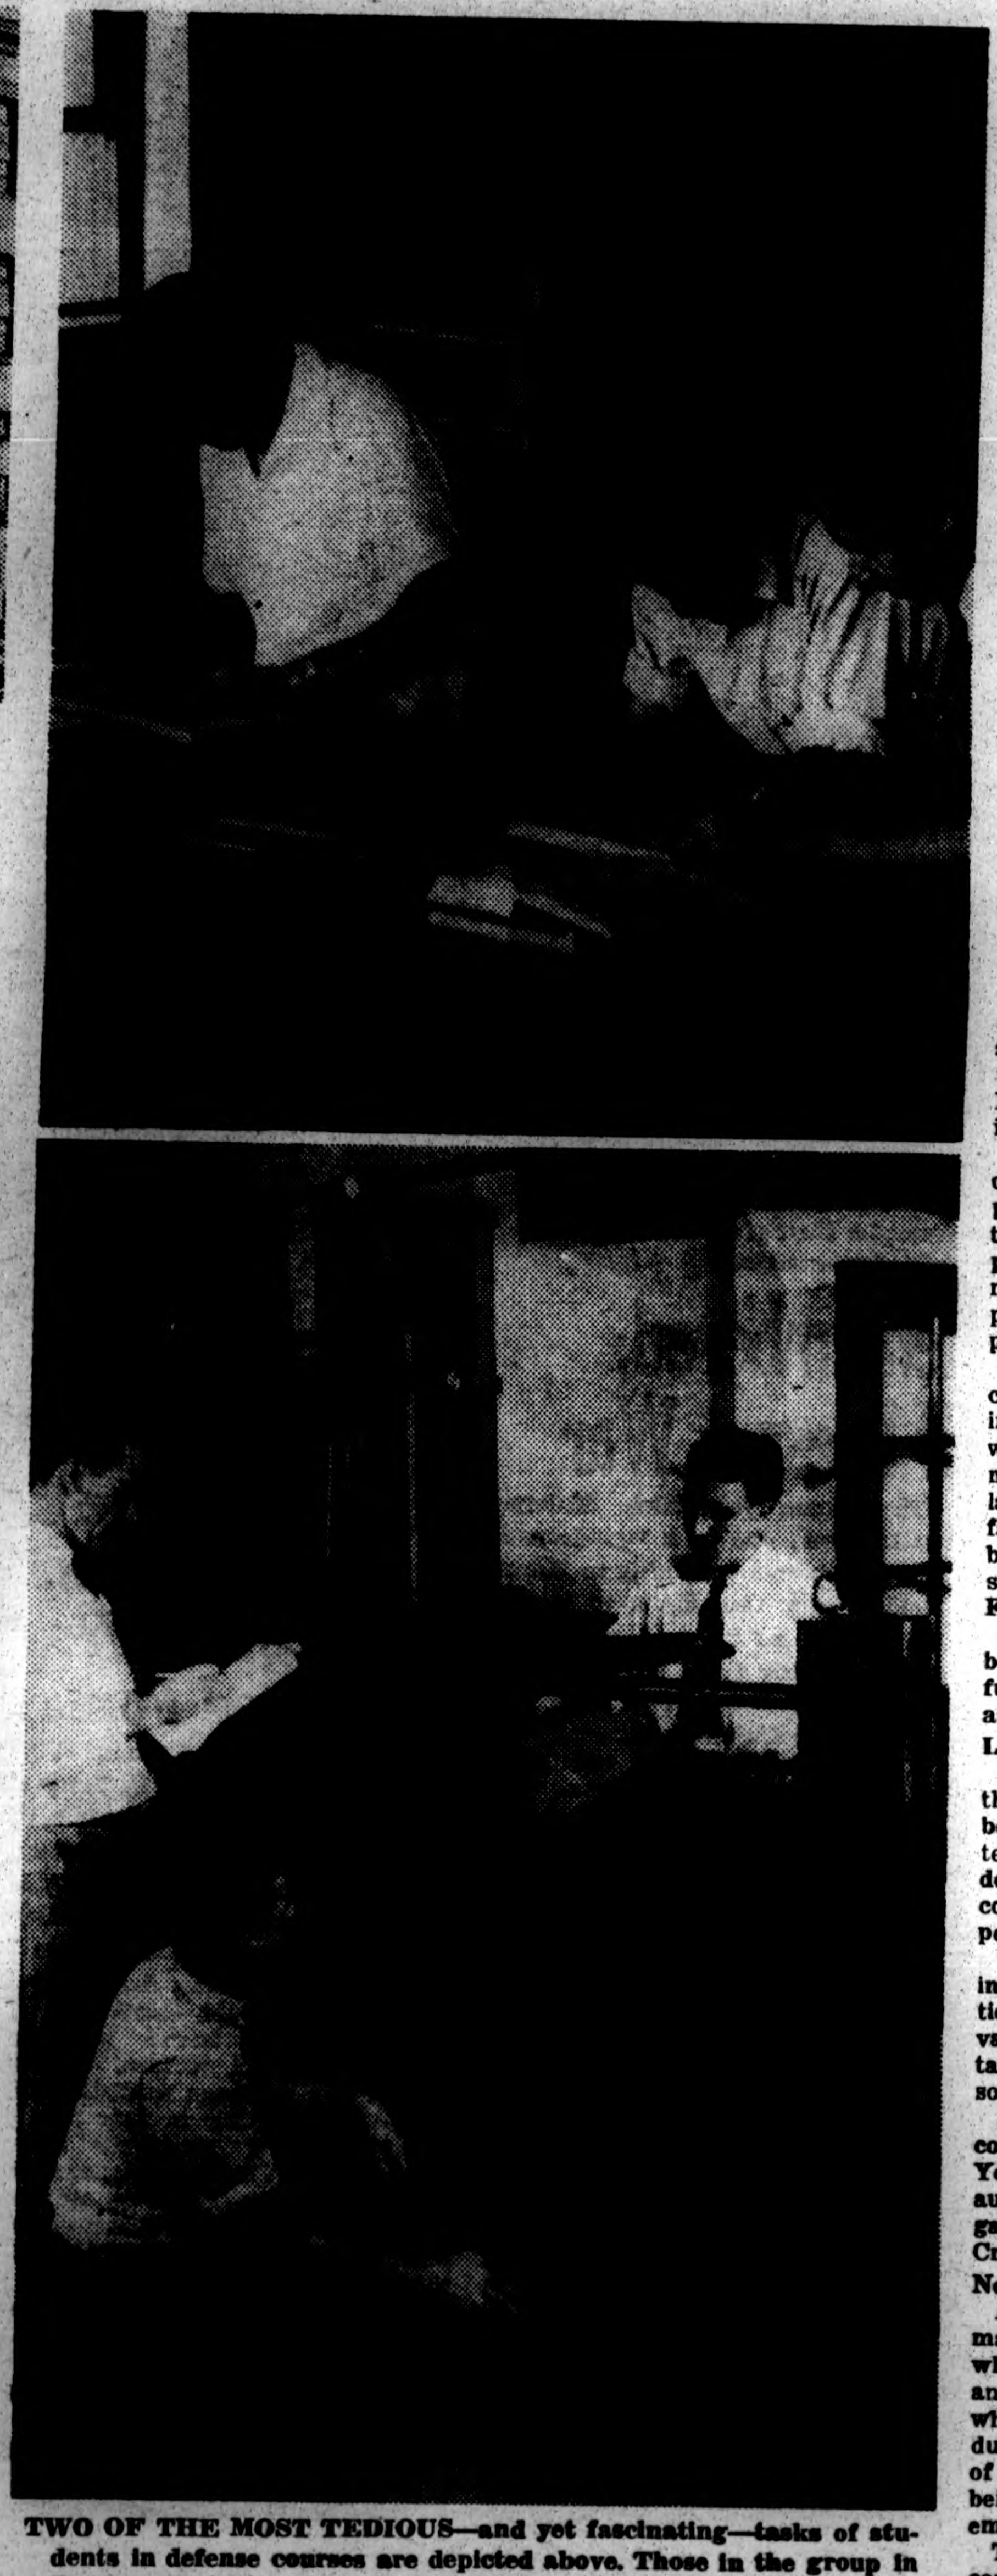
Additions are constantly being made to Villanova's curriculum which are intended to improve it and keep step with any changes which arise in the demands of industry. Courses in the elements of radio and electronics are now being organized. This course may embrace as many as 100 students.

The college laboratory will accomodate 20 men, and the course could be given five nights every week.

Although the work is of college grade, no college credits are given for the successful completion of the courses, because the whole purpose of the program is to give men an opportunity to qualify for more responsible positions in defense industries.

All courses are tuition free.

NORTHEAST CATHOLIC High School for Boys, pictured above, is one of the four branches of Villanova's defense training classes. Chosen for facilities and availability for students, other classes are held at Cooper Hatch High in Camden, West Catholic High, and Villanova.



TWO OF THE MOST TEDIOUS—and yet fascinating—tasks of students in defense courses are depicted above. Those in the group in the top picture are shown at their drawing boards. A text-book expounds the theory of mechanical drawing, but long hours of patient practice are the only assurance of facile accomplishment in this line of endeavor. Anthony Cirrito, an instructor at the West Catholic branch of the defense school, points out to two of his students, in the bottom photograph, the principles of operation of an impact testing machine. This machine is used in tension, torsion, Sharpy, and Izod tests of materials. These students have studied the theories of strength of materials and are now applying their knowledge practically in the Villanova laboratories.

Courses Added To Help Students Gain Naval Reserve Commissions

FIRST STUDENT to be accepted into the V-7 class of the Naval Reserve as a probational ensign, James Donnelly, junior engineering, is shown being examined by a Naval doctor.

Among the various war-training courses now being taught at Villanova, the instructions in conjunction with Naval training are one of the newest additions.

As a part of this program, the college offers opportunities for students to take the mathematics courses required for acceptance as commissioned officers in the Naval Reserve. The School of Commerce and Finance provides courses in advanced algebra and trigonometry for those students who did not have these subjects as part of their regular curriculum.

To aid those intending to join the Navy, fundamental courses have been inaugurated in the subjects of navigation, Naval history, Naval etiquette, and advanced language study for preparation for Naval intelligence work. Planned to commence in June is the teaching of meteorology, the Morse code, electronics, military acoustics, navigation II, radio, and possibly others.

The Naval Reserve V-7 and V-5 programs announced previously at Villanova take enlistments of eligible students for duty as deck, engineering, and aviation officers.

College seniors and juniors who enlist in the V-7 program will probably be permitted to complete their college courses before being assigned to training for Naval Reserve commissions. Sophomores, juniors, and seniors who enlist in the V-5 program will be permitted to complete their present college year before beginning flight training.

Junior and senior engineering students are desired for probationary commissions to perform duties in their own specialized fields. They will be permitted to complete their college courses before being assigned to active duty.

The Navy Department advises all college engineering students to complete their college education either in a Naval status under the provisions of one of the reserve programs or in a civil status.

Already 25 engineering students have successfully passed the physical examinations required for the V-7, although 76 applicants originally tried for acceptance. Commissions for the successful applicants will probably be awarded later this year, as well as to successful candidates from the other three schools.

Three Facets Of Preparation For War

THE FULL meaning of the modern concept of total war has but recently been realized by the American people.

Rapidly recovering from the cowardly stab in the back delivered at the bloody hands of the Japanese empire, the United States is now engaged in the feverish process of mustering its entire economy, capital, labor, and machinery, into a single well-oiled unit, in anxious preparation for the day, not far off, when the battle shall be brought to the shores of the vicious attackers.

Of all the forces at the command of our great country, the most decisive is that of manpower — expert soldiers, sailors, and marines are urgently needed.

All important as the increased production of guns, tanks, planes and ships is to our defense, these tools of warfare remain utterly useless in the absence of an unlimited reservoir of men technically trained to operate them.

Entirely dependent upon the youth of the nation for the recruiting for armed services, the government has issued an appeal to the American colleges to accelerate the schooling process and thus increase the flow of educated youth to the services of their country.

One of the first to respond to this grave, emergent request, Villanova has expanded, intensified, and accelerated all phases of her educational program.

We are determined to cooperate in every way possible to insure and to hasten our ultimate victory. Not only scholastic schedules, but physical training and religious instructions have undergone drastic upward revisions in this acceleration.

Villanova has achieved the enviable ideal of educating the whole man — in body, in mind, and in spirit — for better service to God and to country.

Physical

MAN as a physical being needs exercise to keep his body in a condition of maximum efficiency. This fact has been known for ages and in this era is recognized by an organized body of sports almost unparalleled.

In these times when the fullest measure of every facility of the country is demanded for the war program, the good health and bodily development of the individual citizen becomes a national rather than a personal problem.

To meet this problem the vast "Hale America" program has called on every school to reach all students in its sports program. Intercollegiate competition does not meet the requirement; only a few of the more proficient in the sport can make the teams. A well-rounded intramural program is needed.

Villanova has developed one of the most complete and efficient intramural systems in the country. The importance attached to it and the interest aroused have resulted in the active participation of almost every student in every class and school.

The healthful relaxation derived from sports has not been ignored; strong citizens make a strong nation. Villanova need not join the rush to inaugurate a physical fitness program; upon the extensive foundation already established she need only intensify her efforts in her present work.

VILLANOVAN

Issued twenty-five times a year from Villanova College, Villanova, Pa.

THOMAS F. DEVINE, '43 .... Editor-in-Chief
JACQUES E. MAUCH, '43 .... Sports Editor
ROBERT F. YOUNG, '44 .... College Editor
WARD C. GUNCHEON, '43 .... Managing Editor
ROBERT T. CANFIELD, '43 .... Copy Editor
THOMAS C. MURASKI, '43 .... Literary Editor
EUGENE P. SMITH, 43 .... Business Manager
LORING A. JONES, '43 .... Advertising Manager
RAYMOND G. AMICONE, '43 ..... Photography Editor
NICHOLAS C. ENI, '43 .... Circulation Manager
LOUIS J. ESPOSITO, '43 .... Exchange Editor

Columnists

E. F Bennis, '43 J. F. Dudley, '43

Staff Writers

F. Bagot, '43; A. Berenato, '45; H. Binder, '44; J. Bongiovanni, '43; W. Craven, '43; L. DeSimone, '44; D. Ehart, '45; T. McFarland, '45; J. McWilliams, '45; J. Mahoney, '43; J. Murray, '45; J. Nunemaker, '43; J. Quinn, '44; F. Reese, '43; D. Sauers, '44; T. Schubert, '45; J. Tortoreto, '44; W. Walsh, '44; S. Zeeman, '45.

Business Assistants

C. Callahan, '43 W. Golden, '45
H. C. O'Connor, Jr., '45 J. Walsh, '43

Circulation Assistants

J. Correale, '44 L. Hood, '45
F. Facciolo, '45 J. Keays, '44
G. Giacchino, '44

Photography Staff

L. Eni, '44 E. Mancuso, '45

Faculty Advisor—Rev. Edward B. McKee, O. S. A.

This paper is dedicated to one of the finest men who ever entered Villanova; scholar, athlete, gentleman — LEO GOODREAU

Subscription: $2.00 per year. Circulation: 3500.
Entered as second class matter at the Villanova Post Office December 27, 1928.

Member of Associated Collegiate Press; Distributor of Collegiate Digest.
Member of Catholic School Press Association, Catholic College Press Association, and National Scholastic Press Association.

TUESDAY - - - - - - - FEBRUARY 17, 1942

Editor This Issue: THOMAS H. DOYLE, JR., '42

Mental

TODAY as Villanova approaches her one hundredth anniversary, she is meeting the most serious problem to confront her in her entire history—that of aiding in the defense of the United States.

On June 8 an accelerated plan of studies will be inaugurated to speed up the process of collegiate education and thus enable students to complete their curricula in the shortest possible time.

Also, appropriate courses in military and naval sciences have been added to enable students to enter the officer-training programs of the Army, the Navy, and the Marine Corps.

The past few months have also seen the inception of a new series of defense training classes to instruct men in many of the skilled trades which have been dangerously depleted in accomodating the pressing needs of the defense industries.

Thus, operating at full capacity its well-equipped biological and engineering laboratories, Villanova is adding her share of highly trained student doctors, lawyers, engineers, and business men to relieve the heavily burdened ranks of America's professional men in this emergency.

Moral

MARVELOUS indeed is the present-day American university. Noted scholars daily expound to their students the fruits of long years of intellectual research in classes especially equipped to produce the best results.

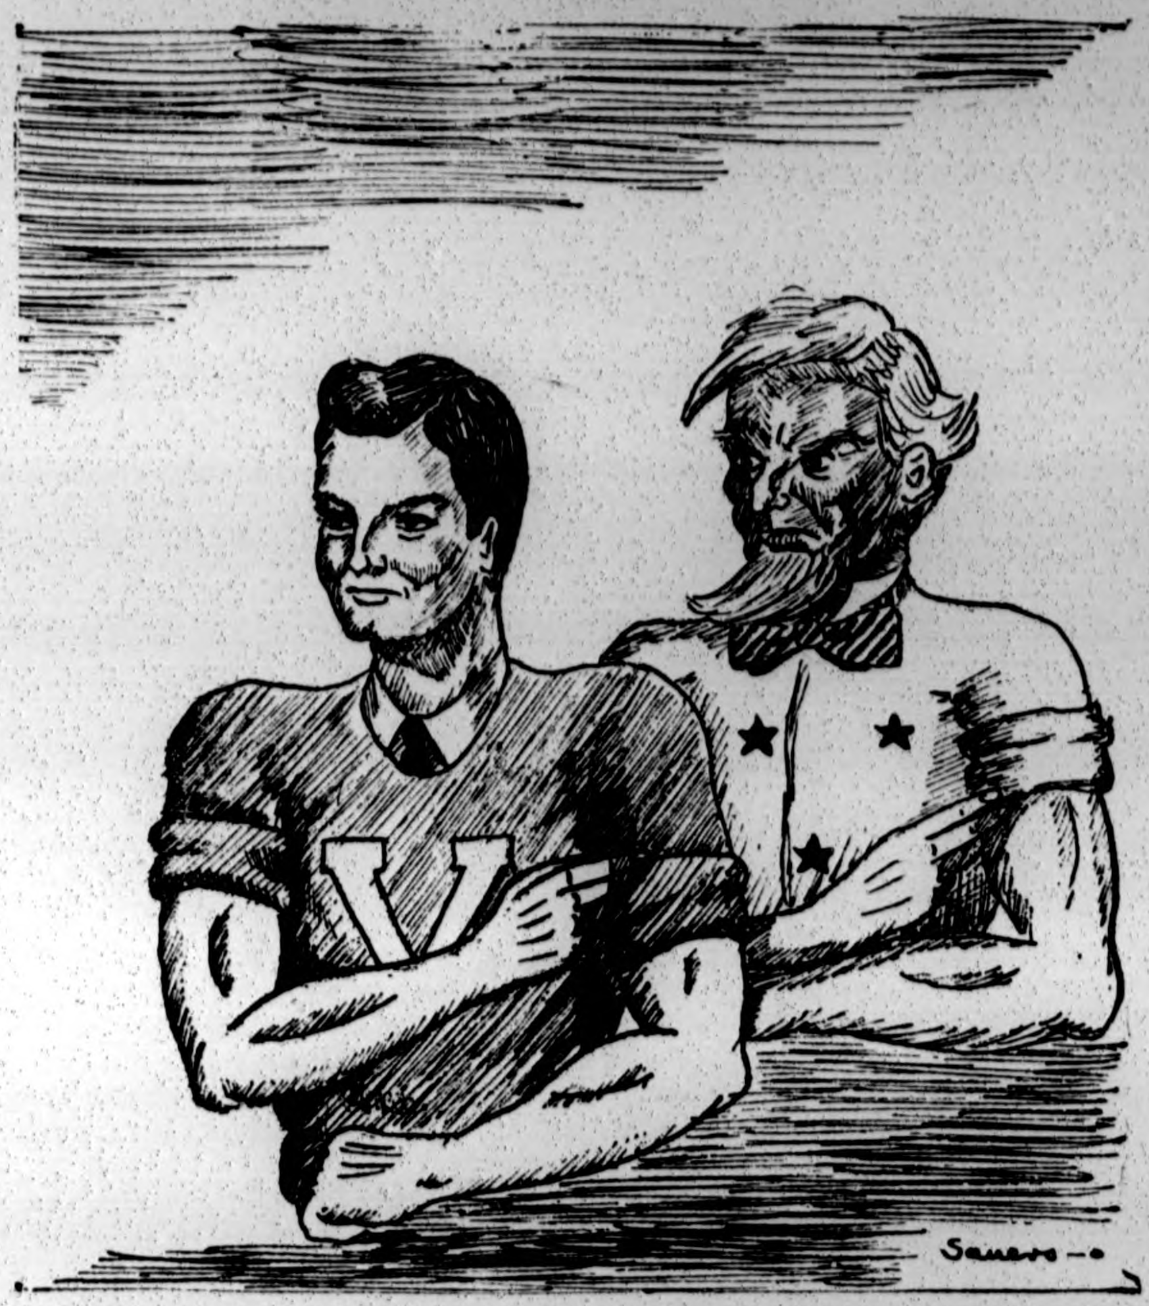
Huge stadia and field houses are constructed to provide adequate facilities for complete bodily development. In short, nothing that contributes to the making of the complete man is ignored.

Nothing, that is, if you forget that which distinguishes man from the rest of God's creatures — his immortal soul. A system of education which fails to make provisions for the training of the soul fails also in the primary purpose of true education.

A complete system of moral training is found today only in the Catholic school, such as Villanova. In the secular university, religion, which is after all, the real source of moral training, is at best merely endured.

In our battle against the pagan barbarism which has enslaved major portions of the world, can we hope to defeat such patent immorality when our nation is trained in insipid amorality? Our duty now is not passive indifference toward such systems, but an active hatred for the ideology — a hatred which will result in its final annihilation.

"We're Ready, Uncle"



FACULTY COMMENTS

Some Notes On Catholic Efforts

By FR. GRIMES

TO THE PRESIDENT. Historic loyalty of the Catholics of the United States was pledged by the bishops of our country on Dec. 22, 1941, in a letter addressed to President Franklin D. Roosevelt. The Most Rev. Edward Mooney, Archbishop of Detroit, in the name of the bishops, pledged "our wholehearted cooperation in the difficult days that lie ahead."

HAWAII AIR CHIEF IS CATHOLIC INDIAN. An Osage Indian by birth is in charge of the entire U. S. Army Air force in Hawaii. Brig. Gen. Clarence L. Tinker's rank is the highest ever held in the U. S. Army by a native Indian. His entire family is Catholic, his wife being of Irish descent.

AMONG CATHOLICS PATRIOTISM IS A HABIT. "Patriotism, true patriotism, is a quality of the soul, a spiritual quality which is ever present and ever dominant in our lives and teachings," said Archbishop Spellman, the Bishop of the Catholic Chaplains of the U. S. armed forces.

400 YEARS. The first priests to evangelize the natives of the Philippine Islands were Augustinian friars from New Spain. They set out under the leadership of Villalobos in 1542.

PHILIPPINE GENERAL. Major General Basilio J. Valdes, chief of staff of the Philippine Army, ranks also as a leader among Catholic laymen. He was a member of the executive committee for the International Eucharistic Congress in 1937 and has actively encouraged the Catholic Youth Movement.

CATHOLIC CHAPLAINS. A recent report reveals that out of 1571 Army chaplains, 391 are Catholic priests and about 31 percent of the Navy chaplains are Catholic priests.

INTER - AMERICAN COLLABORATION. One full time scholarship at Villanova College in the School of Engineering has been offered to a Latin American student for the scholastic year 1942-43.

BULWARK OF DEMOCRACY. The Third Plenary Council of Baltimore declared that if our country's inheritance of freedom should be imperiled "our Catholic citizens will be found to stand forward, as one man, ready to pledge anew their lives, their fortunes and their sacred honor." In the First World War 804,559 Catholics served in the armed forces. The Catholic death casualties were numbered at 22,552. According to recent statistics, the Catholics of the U. S. form one-sixth of the total population and 35% of the total armed forces of our nation.

FRIAR-SAILOR. The Augustinian Friar, Fr. Urdaneta, has been called by Lt. John D. Hayes, U. S. N., in a recent issue of the "United States Naval Proceedings," the "Pathfinder of the Pacific." On a return voyage (1565) from the Philippines to Mexico, "Urdaneta had to navigate and sail the ship, then a man of 67 years, and at the same time prepare the charts. The charts and journals compiled on this voyage. . .were of inestimable value to the navigators and cosmographers of his day and were the sole guidance for the galleons as late as 1623."

CATHOLIC COMMANDER OF HEROIC MARINES. It was Major James Patrick Devereau who commanded the Marine garrison that successfully defended Wake Island in the face of superior numbers for many days before succumbing to the Japanese. Major Devereau is a member of the Blessed Sacrament parish, Washington, D. C.

VILLANOVA IN THE PHILIPPINES. Four American priests, all graduates of Villanova College, are teaching at the Augustinian College at Iloilo, in which college there is established a unit of the R. O. T. C.

CATHOLIC PRIEST HEADS ARMY CHAPLAINS. Major General W. R. Arnold, Chief of Chaplains, was recently made a Domestic Prelate with title of Right Rev. Monsignor. His promotion to the rank of Major General, by presidential proclamation, is also a new honor.

VILLANOVA MISSIONARIES. When the United States took over the Philippines in 1898 two Augustinian priests, graduates of Villanova, volunteered for that mission. Of one of them, Bishop J. A. Walsh of Maryknoll says, "Father McErlain lives among the (Philippine) students, speaks to them in English, the language of their ambitions, and has a special Mass at the Cathedral every Sunday, at which an English sermon is preached and which the students attend." The second volunteer, Fr. Daniel O'Mahoney, O. S. A., the oldest living priest-graduate of Villanova, is living in Lawrence, Mass.

PRIEST KILLED IN ACTION. Rev. Aloysius H. Schmidt of Dubuque, a chaplain in the United States Navy, was killed on Dec. 7 in the first Japanese attack on Hawaii. He is believed to have been the first chaplain with the armed forces to lose his life in the present conflict.

PAPAL RELIEF. The U. S. Catholics recently contributed $300,000 to the Papal Relief Fund established by Pope Pius XII for the relief of the war-stricken countries.

UNDER FIRE. "I had just begun Mass when the Japanese passed di-

FACULTY COMMENTS
Continued on Page Seven

Technical Training Of Defense School Draws 500 Workers

When it became evident in 1940 that the engineering colleges of the country could not supply trained men quickly enough to fill the rapidly rising demands of the growing defense industries, Villanova was among the first of the nation's college to take action.

An Engineering Defense Program was immediately established both here on the campus and at nearby high schools. Its purpose was to help alleviate the shortage by providing courses designed to meet the lack of engineers with specialized training in fields essential to defense. They were for the most part training in specific subjects which would speed up the preparation of the particular types of engineers most urgently needed.

Last year additional need for men trained in physics, chemistry, and management was found to exist and the college immediately expanded its Engineering Defense Training Program into an Engineering, Science, and Management Defense Training Program.

Three hundred and fifty-five students enrolled in the courses last year, while enrollment for all courses—at Camden, North Catholic, West Catholic, and Villanova—this year totaled 501. The 20 students expected to sign up for the proposed radio defense course will swell the number to 521.

J. Stanley Morehouse, dean of the regular engineering school, is director of the defense courses. Under him, John Gallen is principal of the branch school which was established at Northeast Catholic High School; Harry S. Bueche is principal at West Catholic High School; and Paetrus F. Banmiller is principal here at the college.

Faculty Increased

Last year the Defense Training faculty numbered 26 including supervisors; this year there are 34 professors. Since the regular faculty of the Villanova engineering school could not meet the demands, the United States Department of Education approved a short training course for novice teachers.

Courses in the defense school are of two general types: full time or pre-employment courses given in the engineering school on the campus to fit men for future employment in defense industries, and part time or in-service courses for persons already employed.

First to be offered was a 24-week course in the elements of engineering, under the direction of Dr. Edward L. Haenisch and William Gorman. The course was completed last August and repeated in the fall. A new elementary course will be started about Feb. 16 for high school students who graduate in February.

A course in junior engineering is being offered to those who successfully completed the first course; 123 are now enrolled in this course.

Lab Work Offered

Laboratory work connected with these junior engineering courses is being done in the college materials testing laboratory. About 100 students will take the two-month course, which consists of seven experiments.

At a branch school established in Camden, N. J., under the direction of Dean Morehouse, an advanced course in power plants is taught for men already having some engineering training.

Special courses are already being conducted for employes at the New York Shipbuilding Company, and authorities are considering the organizing of a similar school at Cramps Shipyard.

New Courses Prepared

Additions are constantly being made to Villanova's curriculum which are intended to improve it and keep step with any changes which arise in the demands of industry. Courses in the elements of radio and electronics are now being organized. This course may embrace as many as 100 students.

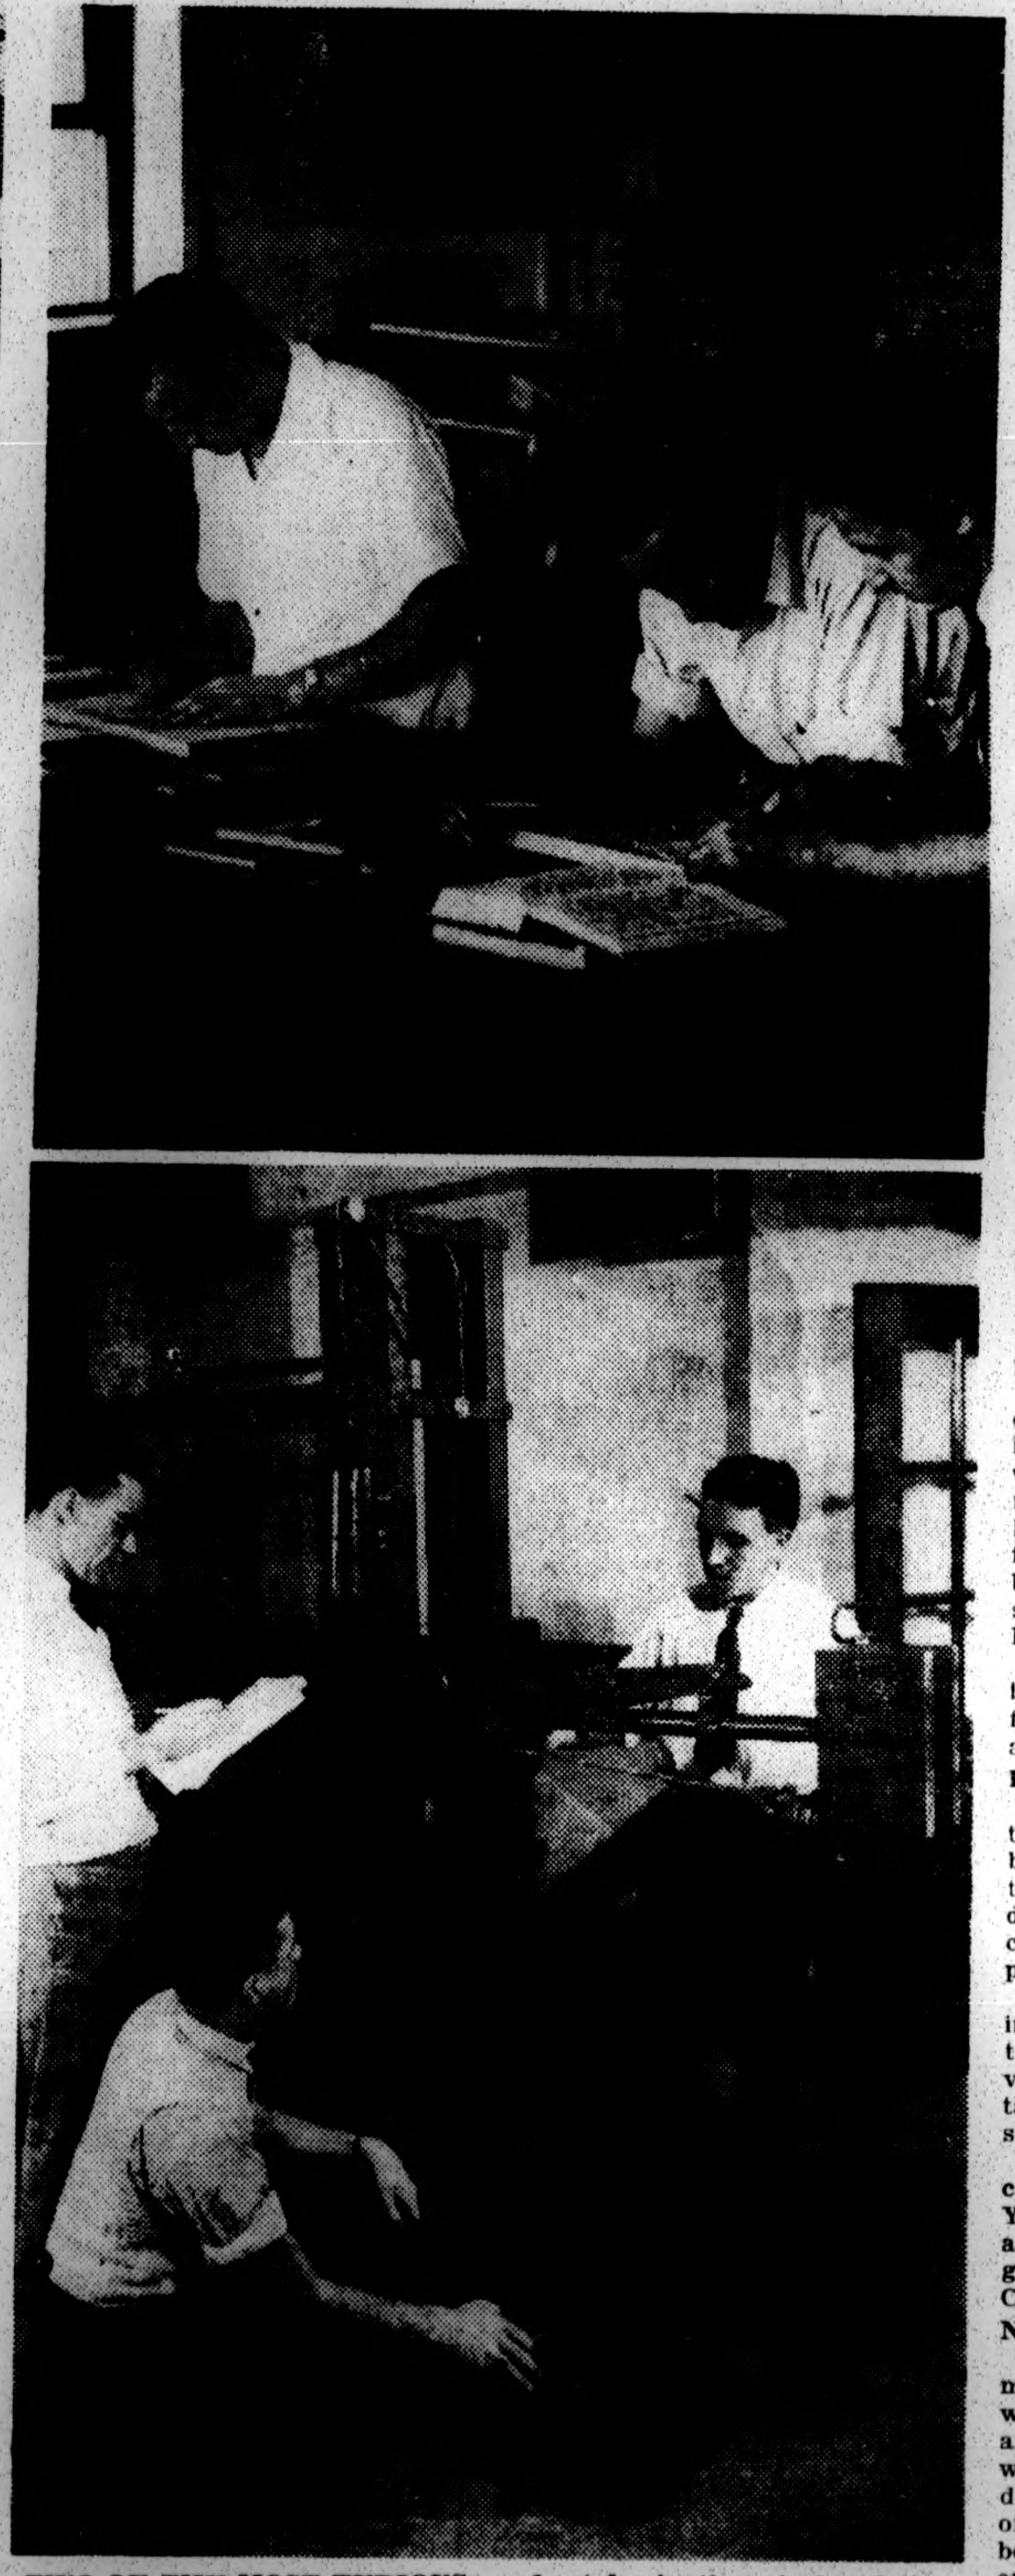
The college laboratory will accomodate 20 men, and the course could be given five nights every week.

Although the work is of college grade, no college credits are given for the successful completion of the courses, because the whole purpose of the program is to give men an opportunity to qualify for more responsible positions in defense industries.

All courses are tuition free.

ALL AVAILABLE MANPOWER is utilized in training men for vital positions in the war effort. Paetrus F. Banmiller, a graduate of Villanova's engineering school and at present registrar of the college, shows a defense student how to calculate the flight of a projectile.

NORTHEAST CATHOLIC High School for Boys, pictured above, is one of the four branches of Villanova's defense training classes. Chosen for facilities and availability for students, other classes are held at Cooper Hatch High in Camden, West Catholic High, and Villanova.



TWO OF THE MOST TEDIOUS—and yet fascinating—tasks of students in defense courses are depicted above. Those in the group in the top picture are shown at their drawing boards. A text-book expounds the theory of mechanical drawing, but long hours of patient practice are the only assurance of facile accomplishment in this line of endeavor. Anthony Cirrito, an instructor at the West Catholic branch of the defense school, points out to two of his students, in the bottom photograph, the principles of operation of an impact testing machine. This machine is used in tension, torsion, Sharpy, and Izod tests of materials. These students have studied the theories of strength of materials and are now applying their knowledge practically in the Villanova laboratories.

Courses Added To Help Students Gain Naval Reserve Commissions

FIRST STUDENT to be accepted into the V-7 class of the Naval Reserve as a probational ensign, James Donnelly, junior engineering, is shown being examined by a Naval doctor.

Among the various war-training courses now being taught at Villanova, the instructions in conjunction with Naval training are one of the newest additions.

As a part of this program, the college offers opportunities for students to take the mathematics courses required for acceptance as commissioned officers in the Naval Reserve. The School of Commerce and Finance provides courses in advanced algebra and trigonometry for those students who did not have these subjects as part of their regular curriculum.

To aid those intending to join the Navy, fundamental courses have been inaugurated in the subjects of navigation, Naval history, Naval etiquette, and advanced language study for preparation for Naval intelligence work. Planned to commence in June is the teaching of meteorology, the Morse code, electronics, military acoustics, navigation II, radio, and possibly others.

The Naval Reserve V-7 and V-5 programs announced previously at Villanova take enlistments of eligible students for duty as deck, engineering, and aviation officers.

College seniors and juniors who enlist in the V-7 program will probably be permitted to complete their college courses before being assigned to training for Naval Reserve commissions. Sophomores, juniors, and seniors who enlist in the V-5 program will be permitted to complete their present college year before beginning flight training.

Junior and senior engineering students are desired for probationary commissions to perform duties in their own specialized fields. They will be permitted to complete their college courses before being assigned to active duty.

The Navy Department advises all college engineering students to complete their college education either in a Naval status under the provisions of one of the reserve programs or in a civil status.

Already 25 engineering students have successfully passed the physical examinations required for the V-7, although 76 applicants originally tried for acceptance. Commissions for the successful applicants will probably be awarded later this year, as well as to successful candidates from the other three schools.

HOW TO PLOT CAREFULLY the pilot's course, is explained on the map by William G. Driscoll, coordinator of the flight program at Villanova, to student John Di Carlo.

Students Get Wings As C. P. T. Pupils, Then Fly For U. S. A.

In preparation for modern warfare military tacticians place particular, if not the most extreme, emphasis upon the building of an efficient air armada. One of the first requisites to do this is a capable body of pilots, mechanics, instructors, and other men trained in aeronautics. To meet the demand for such men the education of a good number should begin while they are in college. That is where the Civilian Pilot Training Program has proved its worth.

As a part of her defense program, and in conjunction with the C. P. T. P., Villanova has made such instruction possible under the direction of the administrator of Civil Aeronautics. It is a plan to give young men of the United States an opportunity to receive sufficient training entitling them to Private Pilot Certificates.

Last month, Villanova entered upon her sixth session under the C. P. T. program after a total of 82 students took the course since its inauguration in the summer of 1940. Ten new men started in the spring course.

Grads in Service

Of those students having been graduated from Villanova's flight instruction course, a poll has been taken to ascertain the type of work these men are now doing. From approximately 52 pilots contacted, the following lines of occupation are being practiced: 5 are doing private flying; 17 have enlisted in the Army Air Corps; 4 are Navy fliers; one is listed as working in an aircraft manufacturing company; 3 fly for the R. A. F. and the R. C. A. F.; one is a flight instructor; and 4 are in the regular army.

Requirements for the training course are relatively few but are exacting. The first essential is that the applicant be a citizen of the United States and between the age limits of 18 and 26, inclusive. Written consent of his parents must be obtained if he is under 21. He can not be on active duty or awaiting orders to report for duty with the United States Army, Navy or Marine Corps.

Qualifications

Next, prospective students must undergo a physical examination similar to the Army exam, which includes a thorough physical checkup of all the vital organs with special emphasis placed upon the eyes. Visual acuity without the use of any kind of lens must be at least 20/20 Snellen in each eye.

An applicant must have also satisfactorily completed not less than 30 semester hours (45 quarter hours or the equivalent) of college work if he is regularly enrolled for the full time college work. If not enrolled for full time work, he must have completed satisfactorily at least 60 semester hours (90 quarter hours or the equivalent) of college work acceptable to college authorities.

Two Divisions of Instruction

The sessions themselves are divided into two parts, the ground school course and the flight training course. The first section is a 72-hour course of instruction taught at the college while a 35-hour flight course at the Main Line Airport, Paoli, makes up the latter.

William G. Slaughter, Placement Director, until December, 1941, was the coordinator. At that time, William G. Driscoll, of the engineering faculty and ground school instructor, took over his duties. Nicholas W. Morris, vice-president of the Main Line Airport, is the supervisor of flight training.

Ground School

Covering every important essential of ground work, the ground school consists of four distinct subjects. The Civil Air Regulations (18 hours) in which the student learns of specially designated areas through which aircraft may navigate, regulations concerning pilot certificates, and the practice of flight rules. The last named covers the proper method of take-off and landing, right of way, minimum altitudes at which aircraft may navigate, and regulations which control the movement of air traffic when weather conditions are believed to be unfavorable for safe flying.

In the second section (24 hours) he studies practical air navigation. Here he is presented with problems which confront every pilot in navigating his plane. Of vital importance is the knowledge of instruments and charts necessary to accurate navigation. Practice in the coordination of instruments and charts is conducted in order that the student at all times be able to follow this course and judge his approximate position.

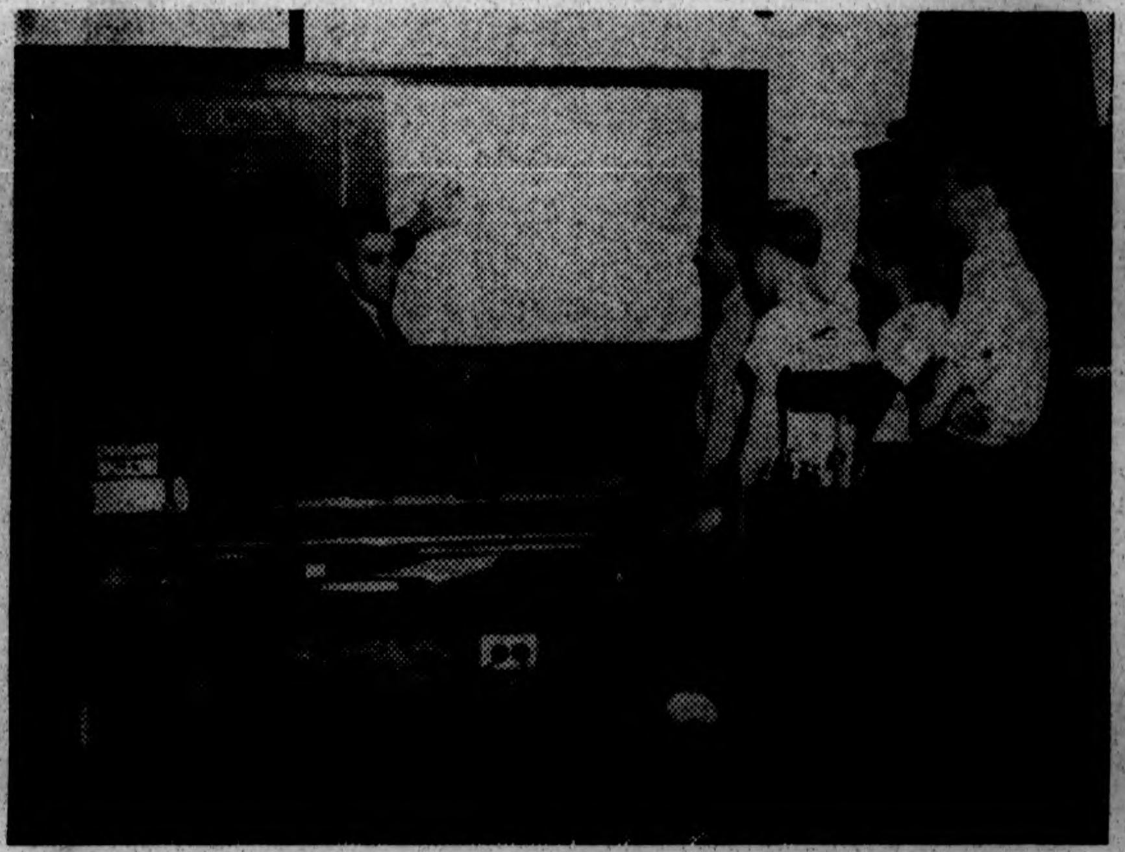
The third group (24 hours) confines itself to the study of meteorology for pilots. This includes the study of weather maps, structure of the atmosphere, stability in wind and ground atmosphere, and weather forecasting for flight training.

Finally, the student undertakes the study of aircraft construction, and its servicing. Complete instruction is given in plane structure, controls and equipment. Six hours are devoted to the care of parachutes, inspection requirements, and the keeping of a log book.

Flight Training

While receiving his ground instruction, the fledgling also begins actual flight training at the Paoli Airport. Here he pilots a 65 h.p. Piper Cub Trainer. The program of instructions consists of the following steps: straight and level flight; medium and gentle turns; shallow banks; climbs and glides, stalls without power; power stalls; precision approaches; ninety degree turns; cross-wind landings; steep turns; and finally, spins. In all, the student takes a total of 35 hours after eight of which he makes his solo.

The completion of this extensive course entitles the pilot to a Private Pilot Certificate. Then he may either continue with the instruction in the form of the Advanced Training course or he may immediately act as a private pilot in his flying.



MR. DRISCOLL demonstrates a problem in navigation to the group of students above. On the right is a series of pictures showing various stages in the training of the student pilots. Upper right, the students gather around the tail of an airplane to hear the instructor explain the principles of aileron controls. In the center, the pilot adjusts a student's parachute; he then gives him last minute instructions before his solo fight, lower right.

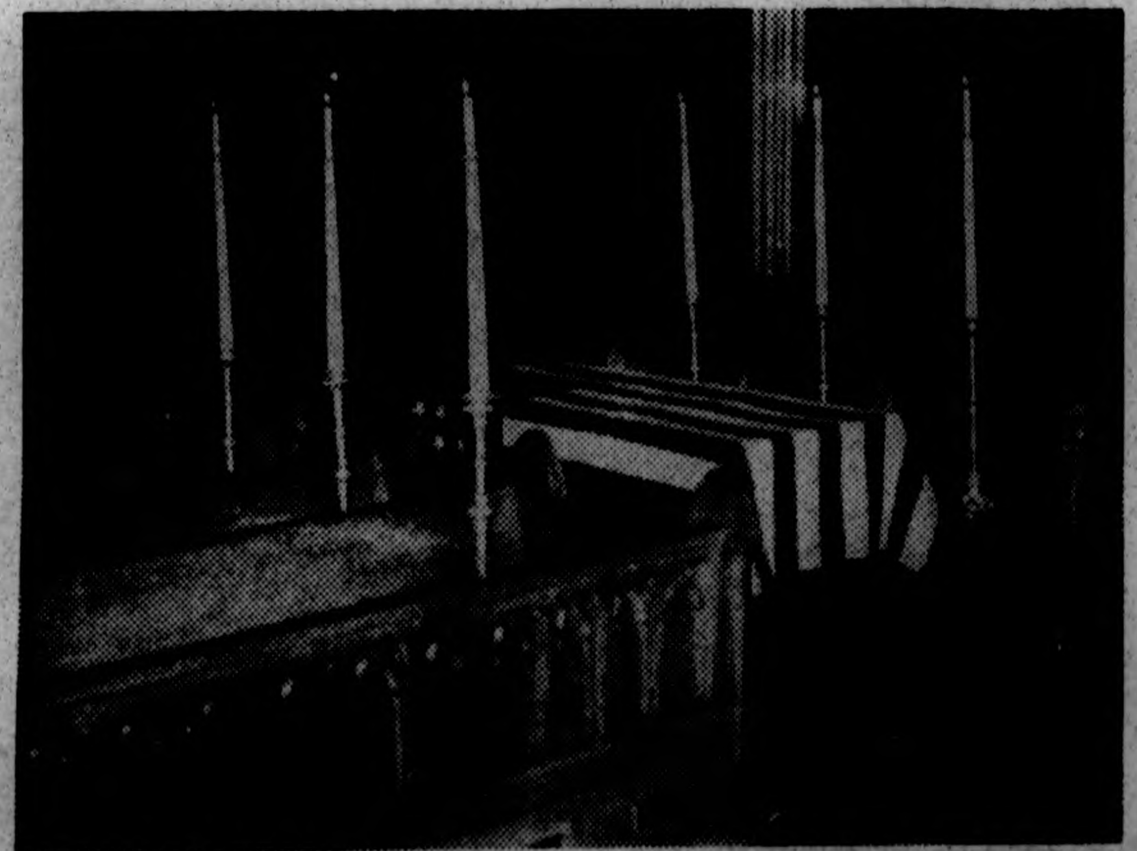
Maloney's Death Remembered; First Alumni Loss Of Present War

Villanova's first casualty in the present world conflict was J. Benedict Maloney of the class of '37. A second lieutenant in the Army Air Corps, Maloney, along with a crew of eight, crashed on Dec. 30, 1941, in a B-26 bomber near Cajon Pass, Calif. Two weeks later, the wreckage of the plane in which the entire crew had perished was discovered. Two High Masses were offered in the College Chapel for the repose of his soul on Jan. 21 and 22.

Maloney was a graduate of the School of Commerce and Finance. During his college career he was active in Student Council activities and a member of the track team. In 1936 he assumed the editorship of the VILLANOVAN. Prior to his entrance into the Air Corps, Maloney lived in Waterbury, Conn.

The plane in which Maloney crashed was one of a squadron of nine which was returning to March Field. In a test flight to record the speed, safety, and maneuverability of this type of warcraft, they encountered poor weather conditions near Cajon Pass.

The squadron spread out as it entered the overcast area. The plane carrying Maloney, when the squadron emerged several minutes later, was missing. Immediately ground and aircraft search parties scoured the area. No immediate results were forthcoming, but two weeks later the wreckage was discovered and the crew identified. Besides Maloney, another second lieutenant, two sergeants and five privates met their deaths.



SYMBOLIC CATAFALQUE rests in College Chapel before Military High Mass. Students attended in commemoration of Lieut. Maloney's death.

Paper, 'Alumnus' Mail Copies Free To Armed Forces

To help make the life of Villanova graduates serving in the armed forces a bit more pleasant, the VILLANOVAN installed a new system at the start of this year by which each copy of the college weekly is mailed free of charge to every alumnus in the Army, Navy, Marines, and Coach Guard.

Of the twelve issues published since September, a total of over 1,200 copies has been so distributed.

Also cooperating in this plan is the "Alumnus," quarterly magazine of the Villanova Alumni Society. Already the same number of copies of this publication has been sent to servicemen of the 5,000 total published.

"Ready To Serve"

The Student Council sent the following telegram last week:

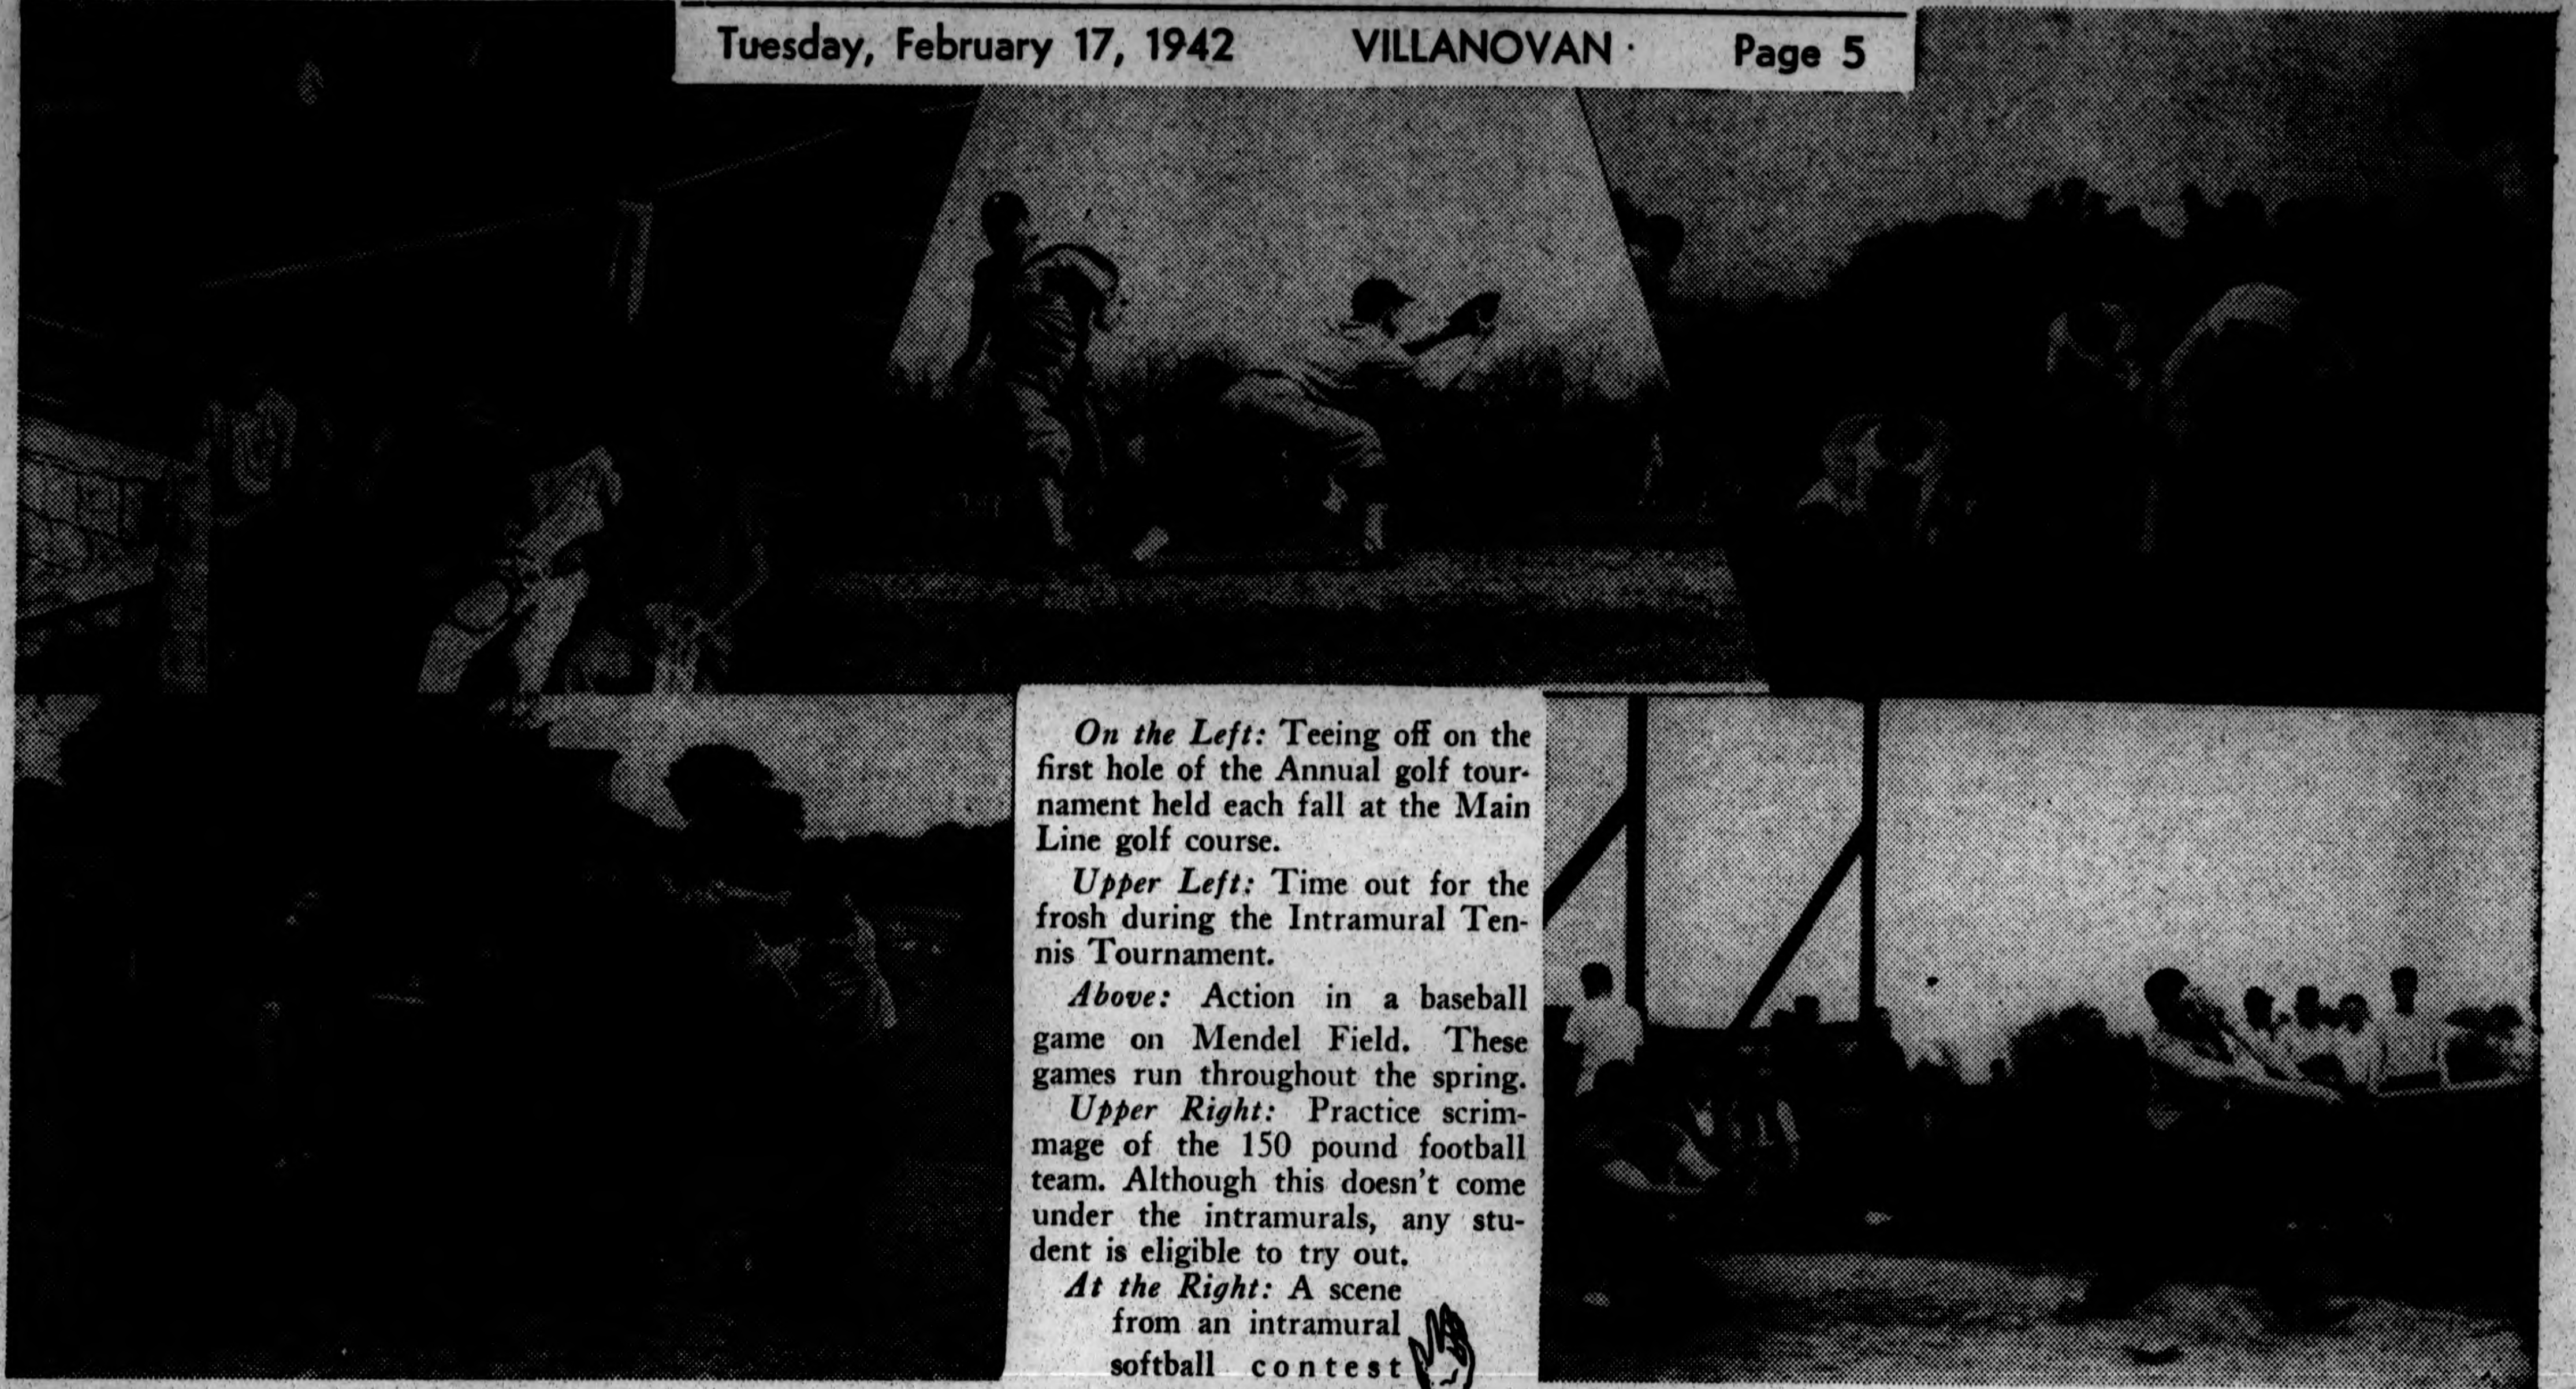
The Honorable Franklin Delano Roosevelt
President of the United States
White House
Washington, D. C.

The faculty, administration, and students of Villanova College pledge you their wholehearted support in this crisis. We stand ready to serve in whatever program you shall decide upon for the colleges and universities of the nation.

Student Council
Villanova College

TWO MEMBERS of the circulation staff mail out copies of the VILLANOVAN to all graduates serving in the armed forces.

Intramurals Build For "Hale America" Here



On the Left: Teeing off on the first hole of the Annual golf tournament held each fall at the Main Line golf course.

Upper Left: Time out for the frosh during the Intramural Tennis Tournament.

Above: Action in a baseball game on Mendel Field. These games run throughout the spring.

Upper Right: Practice scrimmage of the 150 pound football team. Although this doesn't come under the intramurals, any student is eligible to try out.

At the Right: A scene from an intramural softball contest which season runs throughout spring.

Extensive Program Primes Villanovans

As the present world-wide conflict was being driven closer to the shores of America, President Roosevelt sent out a nation-wide plea for emphasis on physical fitness. As a result, the "Hale America" movement was begun with centers in every part of the land. Schools and recreation centers began extensive body-building programs. The importance of physical fitness is now being proven to the American people.

Villanova has needed no emergency to awaken it to the need of such activities. Nine years ago Rev. Edward B. McKee, with the assistance of Rev. John J. Vrana, began the Villanova Intramural League. This comprehensive program was inaugurated because these men realized that although the majority of the students were incapable of participation in varsity athletics, they needed the benefits derived from an active interest in sports.

Team Play Stressed

The scope of the Intramural program includes all sports participated in by Villanova varsity teams in addition to softball and touch-football. Other activities which add points to the records of the combatants are the pre-Temple game decorations and Amateur Night.

Team play, rather than individual prowess, is stressed in the Intramurals. At present, represented in the league are the resident halls and the day-hop teams of Mendel Hall and the Commerce and Finance School.

Villanova Ready

Spring sports, handicapped in the past by lack of time, will benefit by the new accelerated program of study. Outdoor sports will be carried on throughout the summer. Baseball and softball, formerly limited to four weeks, will, under the new plan be played for four months. The schedule will be as intense as basketball, and will probably be divided into two halves. Tennis and golf will also be helped. The tournaments in these two sports will be held during the summer rather than in the spring as in

PREPARED
Continued on Page Six

Austin Dominates Intramural Annals

Now in its ninth year, the Villanova Intramural Program has grown constantly from its inception in 1932. Under the guidance of its moderators, Father McKee and lately Father Dunne, it now embraces all the more popular sports, and draws its recruits from the ranks of the ordinary students.

In 1933 Alumni topped the opposition in basketball, baseball, softball, and track to walk away with the intramural trophy.

Austin Hall brought joy to the heard of its moderator, Father McKee, when the Firemen replaced Alumni the following year. Basketball and track supremacy was credited to Austin while four runner-up positions clinched the championship.

Alumni returned to the top in '35 taking firsts in basketball and handball. The latter sport had been part of the program that year but was discontinued after that.

Austin the Leader

The Mendel Dayhops stopped the Alumni-Austin monopoly in 1936. They took firsts in basketball and swimming, and second in boxing.

In 1936 Austin ascended to the championship throne of the intramurals from which they have not been deposed in the past four years. In this time, tennis and golf, and Amateur Night and pre-Temple decorations were added to the roster of activities.

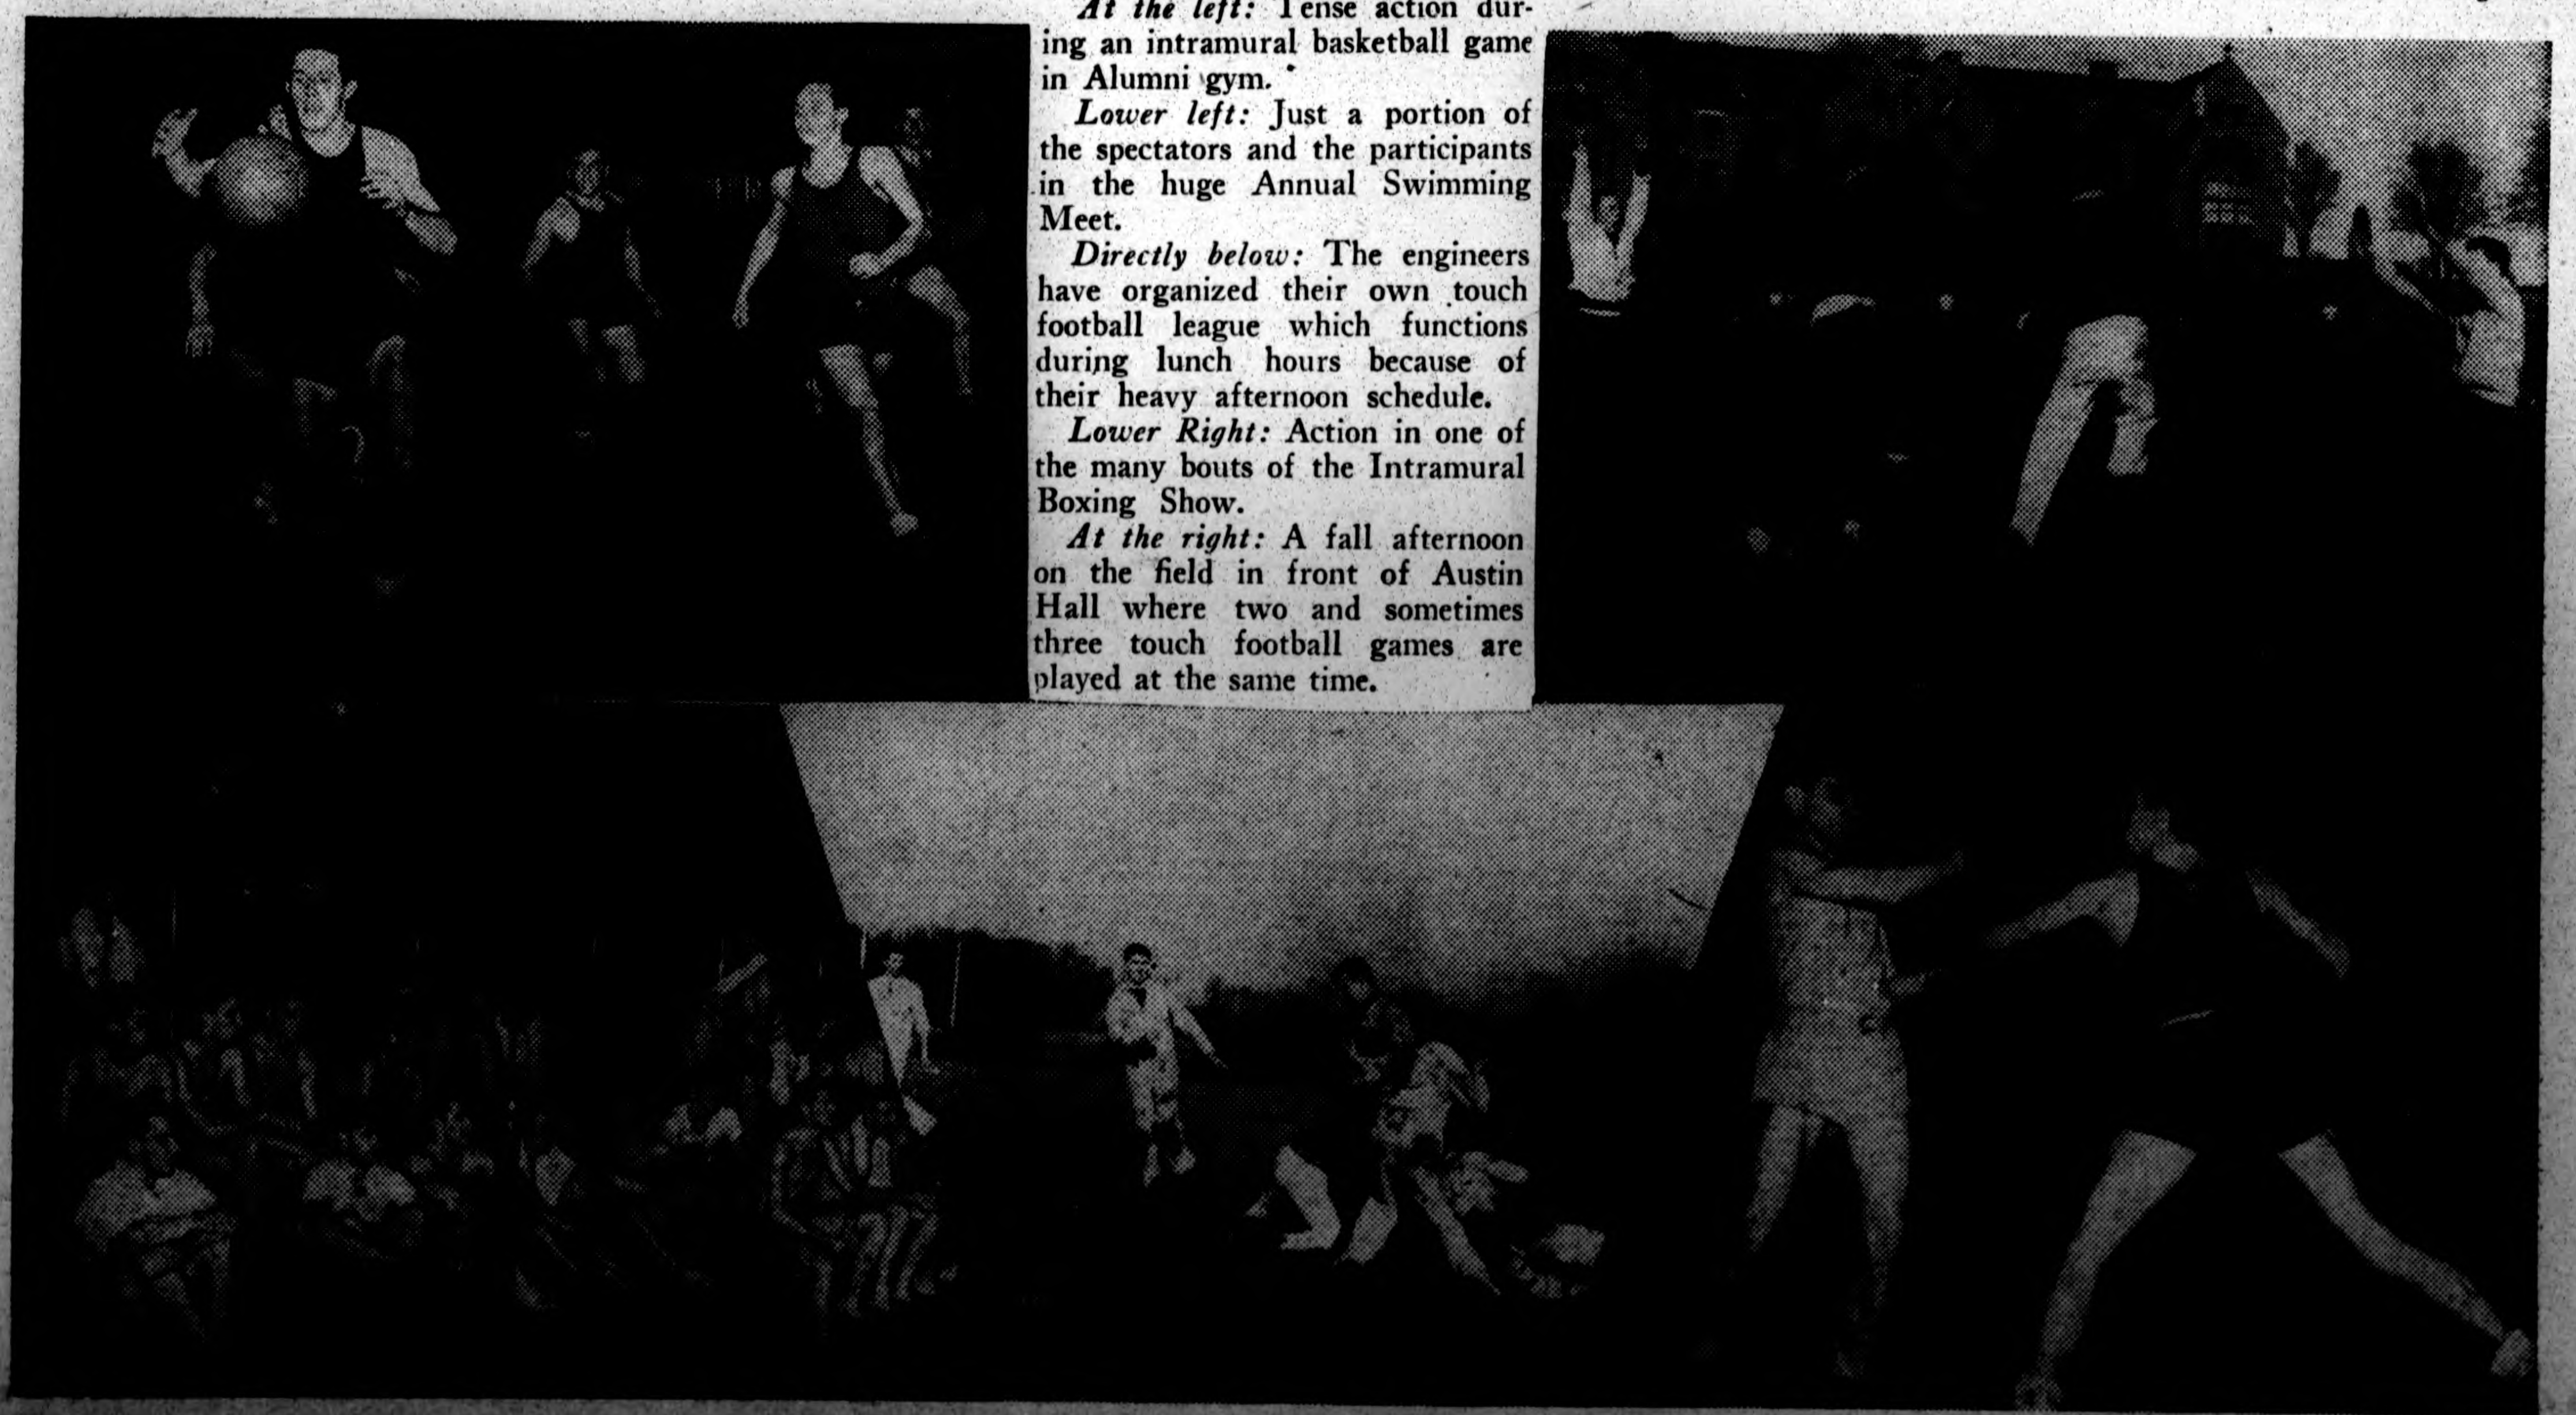
Symbolic of intramural supremacy is the trophy donated by the VILLANOVAN in 1932. It is awarded annually to the team which has gathered the highest number of points in competition throughout the year.

Basketball Longest

The longest and hardest fought individual program is the Basketball League. Divided into two halves, it extends over a period of four months. An All-Intramural Basketball team faces the Freshmen every year near the end of the season.

In some cases, products of Intramural competition have gone on to make names for themselves as var

I-M HISTORY
Continued on Page Six



At the left: Tense action during an intramural basketball game in Alumni gym.

Lower left: Just a portion of the spectators and the participants in the huge Annual Swimming Meet.

Directly below: The engineers have organized their own touch football league which functions during lunch hours because of their heavy afternoon schedule.

Lower Right: Action in one of the many bouts of the Intramural Boxing Show.

At the right: A fall afternoon on the field in front of Austin Hall where two and sometimes three touch football games are played at the same time.

Frosh Eligible As Spring Sport Card Is Cut

Westminster And St. Bonaventure To Test Blue Quintet This Week

Fresh from a brilliant victory over the highly touted Duquesne five Villanova's basketball team will tackle the Westminister and St. Bonaventure quintets this week. These foes are two of the most formidable met by the Wildcats this season. The Severancemen are now facing their stiffest opposition, and having started with a victory over the "Dukes" on last Wednesday night, they hope to continue their two game winning streak with twin victories this week.

Westminister's Titans, last year's Pennsylvania State Champions and participants in the National Invitation Tournament in New York, will enter the Main Line gym tomorrow night. Their record, although not quite as impressive as last year's, when they won 20 and lost only 1, shows 12 victories and 3 losses.

Same Team Starts

Starting for the Titans, whose colors, incidentally, are also Blue and White, will be the same "war horses" who brought the State Championship to Westminster last season. They are, at forwards, Charley "Buzz" Riddle and Lee Fox; at center, Stan Wasik, the team's leading scorer; and at the guard positions, Joe Spak and Dale Dunmire. This starting lineup is well-seasoned, and of championship calibre, and plenty of fireworks are due when they clash with the Wildcats tomorrow night.

St. Bonaventure invades Wildcat territory on Friday evening with a record of eight wins and five losses. Their five defeats, however, were all at the hands of top-notch teams, namely, Oregon State, Colorado U., Seton Hall, and Niagara twice. They lost to Seton Hall by only three points, and to Oregon State by five. Previous to the 55-41 defeat by Niagara on Feb. 1, they had won 26 consecutive games over a three year span on their home court.

Waynesburg Game Off

The leading scorer for this New York State team is Bernie Rokoski, with a total of 101 points in twelve games. Close on his heels are Frank Zaboski and Dom Denio, with 95 and 92 points, respectively in thirteen contests.

The Waynesburg game, scheduled for tonight in the Field House was cancelled by request of Waynesburg with the permission of Villanova authorities.

Wood's 17 Points Enables Wildcats To Beat Duquesne

Playing their most dogged, fighting game of the season, Villanova's Wildcats redeemed a mediocre record last Wednesday night, when they humbled the highly-touted Duquesne quintet 40-33. Behind 13-12 at the half, and 17-12 a few minutes after the second half opened, the outlook did not look too bright for the home-team, and particularly since their star, Bill Wood, was forced to the sidelines with a cut over his right eye. Refusing to be denied, however, the Blue and White courtmen, rejoined by Wood a few minutes later, were victorious after a steady uphill climb.

The Dukes, almost unbeatable in the Western part of the state and through the midwest, had a record of eleven wins and two losses, when they were beaten by Long Island University in New York the night before. This defeat by the Main Liners was their fourth setback.

Wood Returns

Bill Wood, a star in many former games this season, came through with his best performance in this contest, as his inspiring play in a dull first half, seemed to instill a victory in the minds of his teammates. Bill, holding his lead in the Philadelphia district scoring race, added seventeen more to his total, as he dropped five field goals and seven fouls through the hoop. This brought his season's total to 187 points.

After receiving the cut over his eye in a mid-court scramble, Wood returned to the game with the score 22-21 against the Blue and White. Two fouls by Bob Kelty and set shots by Klotz and Wood gave the 'Cats a 27-22 edge, and although the gap twice was cut to three points, consistent scoring by Klotz and Wood kept the victors out of danger.

Nozka Leads Dukes

Stan Nozka, rangy guard of the Dukes, set the pace for the opponents with four field goals and a pair of foul tosses for ten points, while Joe Penzelik and Joe Comic had eleven markers between them.

Track Team Looks Good In 2nd Meet

The glory that in past years belonged to Fordham University, Pennsylvania and New York University in the Penn A. C. indoor games, came to Villanova last Friday night in Philadelphia's own Convention Hall.

In the early stage of the four hour extravaganza, Villanova's blue and white jerseyed athletes raced to a thrilling victory in their one mile intercollegiate relay race.

The Wildcat quartet of George Guida, John DiCarlo, Bob O'Sullivan and "Dixie" Dunbar formed the relay combination which triumphed in the good time of 3.25.3. This was precisely the same time turned in by Fordham's great quartet in their race. The Wildcats were never pressed, while Fordham had stiff competition and had to go all out in order to win from St. John's and Seton Hall.

Two Milers Third

The two mile relay team of Harry Keefrider, Captain William Hooper, John McCarthy and O'Sullivan placed a good third to Fordham and Seton Hall in a race which saw the Rams establish a new meet record of 7:46.3.

Sprint aces DiCarlo and Guida placed fourth and fifth, respectively, in the Pennac Invitation 50-yard dash to Penn State's Barney Ewell in the time of 5.4 seconds.

Some of the better performances of the meet were Greg Rice's new meet record of 8:59.7 for two miles; Chuck Beetham's 1:55.1 in the George H. Lang 880, and Campbell Kane's 4.19.1 in the famed Pennac mile.

New York Saturday

This coming Saturday night the Wildcat one mile relay team will meet Rhode Island State, Boston College and Colgate in their intercollegiate race in the New York A. C. games. Colgate will be anchored by the great Al Diebolt, who ran the 440 in 0:46.9 in the National A. A. U. Championships here in Philadelphia last summer.

Jumbo may enter a two-mile team, but nothing definite has been learned yet.

Prepared

Continued From Page Five

former years. Swimming will not be affected by the change. The aquatic meets will be confined to the winter semester.

Many schools, when the physical-fitness program was started, organized gym classes to perform calisthenics in a body. Villanova, because of her extensive intramural system was ready and did not have to expand or reorganize. Besides this, the intramural sports have an advantage over calisthenics because they stress teamwork and bodily contact and cultivate a keen spirit of competition.

The heads of the Hale America group have a well-organized ally in the intramural program at Villanova and they can depend on the students to keep physically fit for National Defense.

New Rule Effective After March 1st; Varsity Schedule Closes May 9th

Two important statements were released last week by Rev. Francis X. N. McGuire, O. S. A., vice-president of the college and Moderator of Athletics, concerning the participation of freshmen in varsity athletics and the curtailment of the spring sports schedule.

The long awaited decision of the Athletic Board on the use of freshmen in varsity sports was disclosed in a special interview with Fr. McGuire. "The rule barring freshmen from varsity competition was lifted by the Board with the approval of the president, Fr. Stanford," stated the Athletic Moderator. This new rule becomes effective March 1, 1942.

Along with the announcement of the lifting of the ban on freshmen came the statement that the intercollegiate sports schedule during the spring would be shortened. Because of the acceleration of the scholastic program wherein graduation is set for the nineteenth of May, no intercollegiate athletic contests will be booked after the date of May 9th. This involves a curtailment of the baseball, track, tennis, and golf schedules.

Informal Meets

"During the summer semester," said Fr. McGuire, "no formal intercollegiate contests will be scheduled. However, the door will be left open for informal meets with neighboring colleges, if and when they can be arranged." These meets will probably be with intramural teams, for during the summer months the extended mural sports will reign supreme.

As regards the 1942 football season, the Athletic Moderator said, "Villanova will continue to engage in intercollegiate competition as long as circumstances make such competition possible. The football season will not open until the second week of October inasmuch as the Fall term does not begin until October 12th."

The schedule will be released within the next two weeks.

Pleasing to Jacobs

The adoption of the new eligibility rule by the first of March may find the inception of its use by Doc Jacobs on his 1942 baseball squad or by Jim Elliott on the track squad. To the genial Doc, hit particularly hard both by graduation and the draft, the new plan should be welcome news.

The other varsity mentors Clipper Smith and Al Severance, will, if necessary, make use of the rule next season, where incidences demand its employment.

At the present time Villanova is the only Philadelphia college which has been forced to adopt the plan.

Both Temple and Pennsylvania Universities hope to continue the three year rule as long as possible. However, they do not mind if opponents use freshmen.

Many of the smaller colleges and universities have already put the new rule into effect, and several of the large schools led by the Big Three, Harvard, Yale, and Princeton, have been forced to take to the plan.

This is only the beginning. If things become worse later, intercollegiate sports may have to be dropped entirely as in the last war. However, this would not mean that the sports themselves would be cut. Intramural competition would be held in their stead.

I-M History

Continued From Page Five

sity members. An outstanding example is Lloyd Rice, recognized as one of the most brilliant basketball and baseball players in Villanova history.

Highly Organized

Villanova's intramural system is one of the most highly organized groups among the colleges of the nation. From back in 1932, when the untiring efforts of Father McKee brought it through the testing stages and proved its value, until the present, the intramurals have added sports and increased to such a degree that Father Dunne was called in to assist Father McKee last year. The feuds of these two, along with Father Sullivan, are a highlight of the intramural games. They act just like the coaches of varsity teams, and when anything goes wrong they are the first to argue with the referees, and often put on quite a show for the students when in these excited moods.

At the present time, Austin Hall is racing towards their fifth consecutive title although receiving much opposition from Fedigan Hall. This year's winner will not be determined until late in the summer as the accelerated program goes into effect in June.

Tankmen Lose 2; Delaware Today

Hard luck continued to pursue the plugging Wildcat natators last week as they dropped two more swimming meets through losses in the final event on the program, the 400 yard freestyle relay. Wednesday night the Swarthmore College swimmers took them 40-34 and last Friday afternoon Franklin and Marshall beat them, 44-31, in their first home meet of the season.

The Swarthmore meet was a heartbreaker for Coach Tom Moore and his boys who were pointing for a victory over the Garnet. Riley and Mauch placed one—two in the 440 to keep the Wildcats in the running. Then the spectators and participants were thrown into a frenzy when the Garnet captain Dick Frost touched out co-captain Bob Koness by an inch in the final event to clinch the meet.

Friday the tankmen threw a scare into their perennial rivals, F. & M., but they lost the jinx event and the meet. Ed Riley, distance ace, scored ten points and Bob Koness accounted for eight, but the Diplomats won both relays and also took firsts in the 50, diving, and backstroke. This proved too much for the 'Cats.

Ed Riley in winning the 220 and 440 freestyle events turned in his best performances of the year. He swam the former in 2.32.3 and the latter in 5.40.1. Koness splashed through the 100 freestyle in the fast time of 57.2 to beat the Lancaster star, George Gager.

This afternoon the swimmers are gunning for the first win of the season when they meet Delaware University. The meet will be held at the Villanova pool at 3:00 P. M.

Coach Tom Moore was disappointed with the poor showing of the students at the F. & M. meet and hopes that they will get behind the team this afternoon.

School Swim Here

Leading high and prep school swimming teams in the East will meet this Saturday for the Eighth Annual Villanova Catholic Interscholastic Swimming Championship, to be held at the college swimming pool.

Last year's meet was won by Seton Hall Prep of South Orange, N. J., who brought to an end the reign of St. Francis Prep of Brooklyn. The winner, Seton Hall, finished well ahead of the rest of the teams with St. Joseph's of Philadelphia, the runner-up.

The entries, this year, will be composed of schools from Pennsylvania, New York, New Jersey and Delaware. Among the strongest teams in this area are St. Joseph's and Northeast Catholic, who are leading the Catholic League in Philadelphia.

In last year's meet three new records were set and several of the boys who either set or helped set these marks will be back.

A complete list of entries will be compiled this week for the meet which will get under way Saturday at 2:00 P. M.

KEEP SUPPLIED WITH
SCHOOL TICKETS
GOOD ON BUSES AND RAIL CARS UNTIL USED
5c a Ride, Including Special Free Transfers. Obtain Identification Cards at School Office.
RED ARROW LINES
Philadelphia Suburban Transportation Co.
Aronimink Transportation Co.

HART & HALL, Inc.
Insurance
825 LANCASTER AVE.
Bryn Mawr, Pa.

George Fein & Co.
Printers & Publishers
2116 to 2130 Arch St.
PHILADELPHIA, PA.
RITtenhouse 6983

Gordon Nick
Linen Supply Co.
1612 to 1620 North 11th St.
Philadelphia, Pa.

The Lamp Post Inn
Luncheon and Dinners
Strafford, Pa.

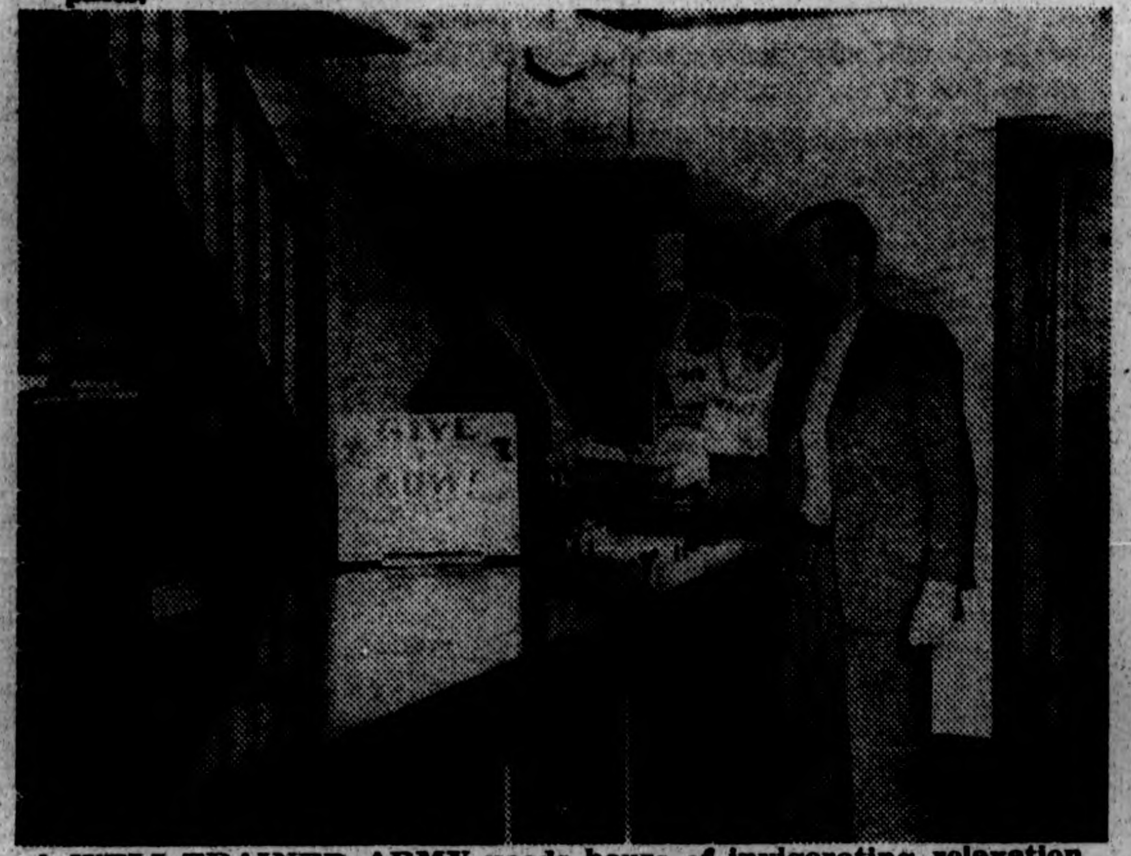
Young & Kaber
FLOWERS
See GEORGE GABUZDA
At Simpson Hall
The Campus Representative

DOLLY MADISON ICE CREAM
"Deliciously Different"
PHILA. DAIRY PRODUCTS CO.
4th & Poplar Sts., Phila., Pa.

GIVING THEIR BLOOD for those who are risking their lives. The two students above are signing up with Thomas J. McKimmey, Student Council chairman, to donate a pint of blood to the Red Cross blood bank. Villanova's quota has been set at two hundred pints.

REV. EDWARD B. McKEE, O. S. A., moderator of the VILLANOVAN, purchases a Red Cross subscription for the weekly publication from Thomas H. Doyle, Jr., chairman of the Red Cross drive here, as Thomas C. Muraski, committee member, looks on. Student contributions have formed the bulk of the total donations.

MAKING HIS weekly contribution to the defense program is the student below, shown purchasing defense stamps from William P. Walpole, chairman of the Defense Savings Bonds and Stamps committee at Villanova. After the students have, by dint of regular savings, acquired the prescribed amount in stamps, committee members will secure defense bonds



A WELL-TRAINED ARMY needs hours of invigorating relaxation. As his contribution, the student pictured above is helping to build a library of good books for the men in the services.

Until They Go, They're Giving

Villanova students are prepared to lay down their text books and take up arms in defense of their country, but until called into the armed forces they are not content merely to "stand and wait." Their energies have been directed to several national campaigns.

Most successful of these thus far has been the Red Cross drive. Under the chairmanship of Thomas H. Doyle, Jr., the committee, by means of personal contact with each student, has nearly quadrupled the amount attained by previous committees at the college.

Bonds and Stamps

Sale of Defense Savings Bonds and Stamps is being conducted by a group headed by William P. Walpole. Here again individual contact has been resorted to with an eye toward aiding the country and the student.

Donations of two hundred pints of blood from Villanova students have been requested by the Southeastern Pennsylvania chapter of the American Red Cross. In less than a week, the drive, under the sponsorship of the Student Council, has resulted in 55 offers of blood.

Library Reception Point

Latest demand made upon the students has been for books for men in the armed forces. Under the direction of Rev. Daniel P. Falvey, O. S. A., a local branch of the nationwide V. B. C. was formed on the campus last Friday.

Pending the erection of receptacles at appropriate places on the campus, books should be handed in at the library, where the staff will decide upon the suitability of the contributions. Technical and fiction books are much in demand, Fr. Falvey declared, and the more well known periodicals of the past 18 months are welcome.

Curriculum Is On War Footing

Continued From Page One

these is the revoking of Easter vacations and the cancellation of the formal Junior Week and Open House celebrations.

Juniors To Have Dances

The members of the Centennial Class will, however, still stage their traditional spring dances. Dates of the Junior Prom and Dinner-Dance, originally scheduled for May 8 and 9, have been tentatively set for May 1 and 2. Committee members are now making arrangements for both dances.

By thus advancing the dances one week, the third-year men hope to avoid conflict with final examinations, which begin for all classes on Monday, May 11.

The third quarter will close on March 21, instead of on April 1, as originally planned. Classes will be suspended on April 3 and 4 (Good Friday and Holy Saturday), but there is a possibility that examinations will be scheduled on May 14 (Ascension Thursday).

Frosh Save Year

Under the provisions of the plan as it now stands, students in the present junior class who take the intensified course will be graduated in February, 1943; those in the sophomore class, September, 1943; those in the freshman class, May, 1944. The present freshmen will thus be enabled to shorten their college careers by a full year.

Student reaction to the new plan has been, in general, favorable. While those who rely upon summer employment to help meet scholastic expenses signified their intentions of taking the regular four year course, the outlook of most students was typified in the remark of a junior education student: "I think it's a very good idea; it seems to be the only solution to a pressing problem."

Faculty Comments

Continued From Page Two

rectly over us and began their deadly work. The explosions were terrific, but not enough to make me stop. When I had finished, I discovered I had lived through an historic half-hour. A little later, on the way to a second Mass, I passed directly through a second attack and didn't miss anything, except being hit. From then on I was busy at the hospital and outside of it." —Fr. William Strahan, Catholic chaplain at Fort Kamehameha, Hawaii.

PAX CHRISTI. The five-point program of Pope Pius XII are conditions fundamental for world peace. Triumph: 1—over hate, 2—over mistrust, 3—over the principles that utility is a basis of law and might makes right, 4—over germs of conflict in ill-adjusted economics that strangle certain nations, and 5—over the spirit of egoism.

Alumni Serve

According to statistics, Villanova has provided plenty of capable men for Uncle Sam's armed forces.

The Army has two Villanovans as colonels, two majors, ten captains, seven first lieutenants, 24 lieutenants, three sergeants, four corporals, five privates first class, and 59 privates. In the Navy are one lieutenant, nine ensigns, one chief petty officer, one seaman first class, and one midshipman. Twenty-one grads are now flying or training as aviation cadets.

These figures are far from complete, as they represent only the men reported to the Alumni Office.

On The Local Screens

ARDMORE THEATRE
Tuesday & Wednesday
Shirley Temple in
"KATHLEEN"
Thursday & Friday
Hedy Lamarr - Robert Young
Ruth Hussey in
"H. M. PULHAM, ESQ."
Sunday & Monday
Rosalind Russell
Walter Pidgeon in
"DESIGN FOR SCANDAL"

Direction Warner Bros.
TOWER
69th & MARKET STS.
Starting Friday for a Full Week
MICKEY ROONEY
JUDY GARLAND
— in —
"BABES ON BROADWAY"
with
Virginia Weidler - Fay Bainter
Fastest Musical Show on Earth

SEVILLE
THEATRE BRYN MAWR
Wednesday & Thursday
"RISE AND SHINE"
with Jack Oakie
Friday & Saturday
"KEEP 'EM FLYING"
with Abbott & Costello
Sunday & Monday
"SHADOW OF THE THIN MAN"
ANTHONY WAYNE
THEATRE WAYNE
Tuesday & Wednesday
"SWAMP WATER"
with Walter Huston
Thursday
"UNFINISHED BUSINESS"
Friday & Saturday
"IT STARTED WITH EVE"
with Deanna Durbin
SUBURBAN
THEATRE ARDMORE
Tuesday, Wednesday & Thursday
"SWAMP WATER"
with Walter Huston - Anne Baxter
Friday & Saturday
"GO WEST YOUNG LADY"
with Glenn Ford - Ann Miller

RIDE FREE ON P. & W. RAILWAY MOVIE TICKETS
NORRIS
NORRISTOWN
Wednesday and Thursday
Feb. 18 and 19
"ALL THAT MONEY CAN BUY"
with
EDWARD ARNOLD
WALTER HUSTON
JANE DARWELL
Friday, Saturday and Monday
ROBERT TAYLOR
LANA TURNER
— in —
"JOHNNY EAGER"

WILDCATS!
STOP HERE
LA DOW'S PHARMACY
On the Edge of the Campus
LANCASTER PIKE
VILLANOVA, PA.

BROOKLINE
COUNTRY CLUB
Dancing Every Saturday to
America's Top Name Bands
Saturday, Feb. 21
Teddy Powell
In Person, and His Orchestra
Admission: $1.00 plus tax
Phone: Hilltop 1600

We Get 'Em!
When you send us your clothes you get them back with every little spot and soil removed. Our careful service and economy prices mean that you can build a really "New" looking wardrobe from your present clothes.
SUN

CAREFUL PLANNING makes for intelligent cooperation in times of stress. Charles Schaumann (seated) and Frank Buckley, student air raid wardens, check details of carefully conceived provisions for the safety of Villanova students in the event of enemy raids.

College Is Ready For Air Raids

Defense against enemy air raids on the college has been assigned directly to three organizations, composed of students and faculty members: the first aid committee, air raid wardens, and auxiliary fire wardens.

Under the sponsorship of the first aid committee, a two hour a week course is being given for ten weeks on the elements of emergency treatment. Held every Thursday evening in the Mendel Hall Amphitheatre, the course is the regular Red Cross first aid teaching.

Primary consideration is being given to the proper administration of different treatments on the spot of the catastrophe before proper medical authorities can be summoned.

About 100 students are enrolled in the course. On passing the examination they will be awarded Red Cross certificates .

A direct wire from a Philadelphia filter station, which is notified when enemy planes are detected off the coast, to the local central station at Radnor starts Villanova's air raid protection in action.

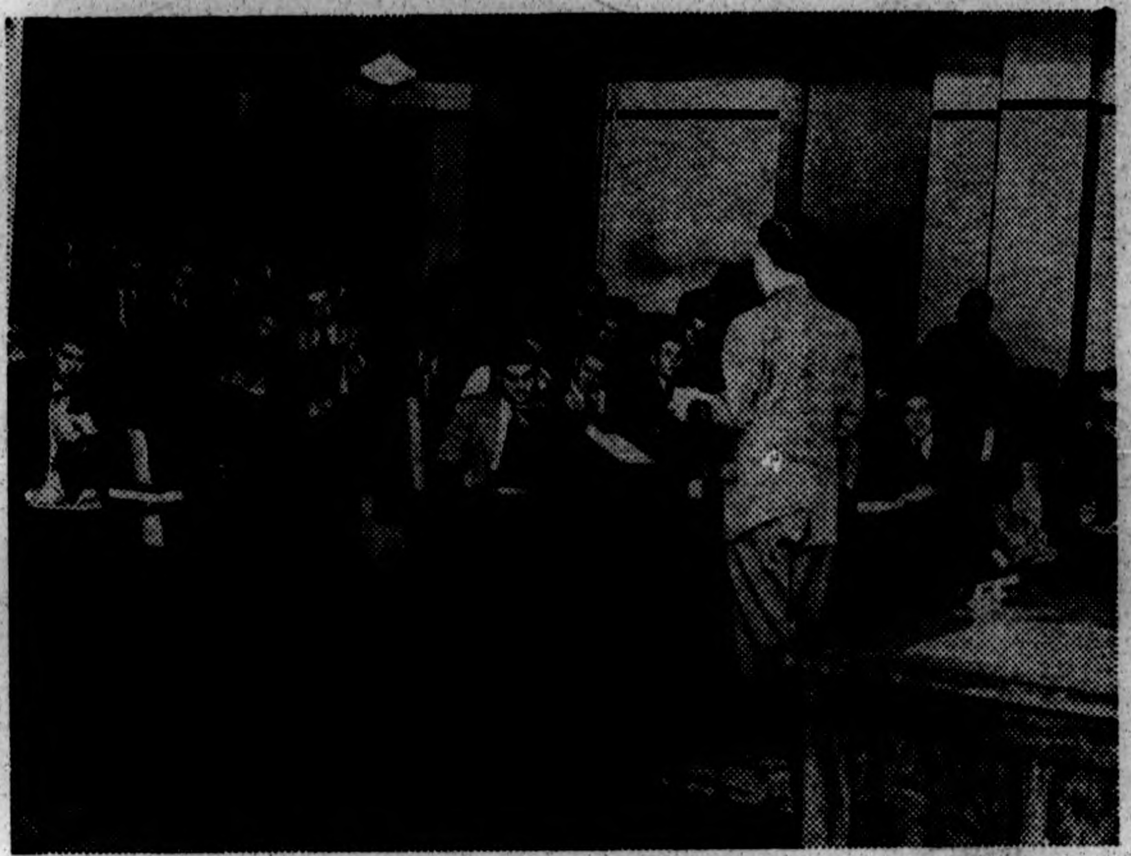
The Radnor station, manned 24 hours a day by volunteer workers, phones the college and a carefully worked out plan is brought into play. At the sounding of the warning, all students in classrooms and resident halls hasten to safe areas designated by notices posted in every classroom and corridor. These shelters were chosen after an extensive survey by senior engineering students.

Perfect Blackout Here

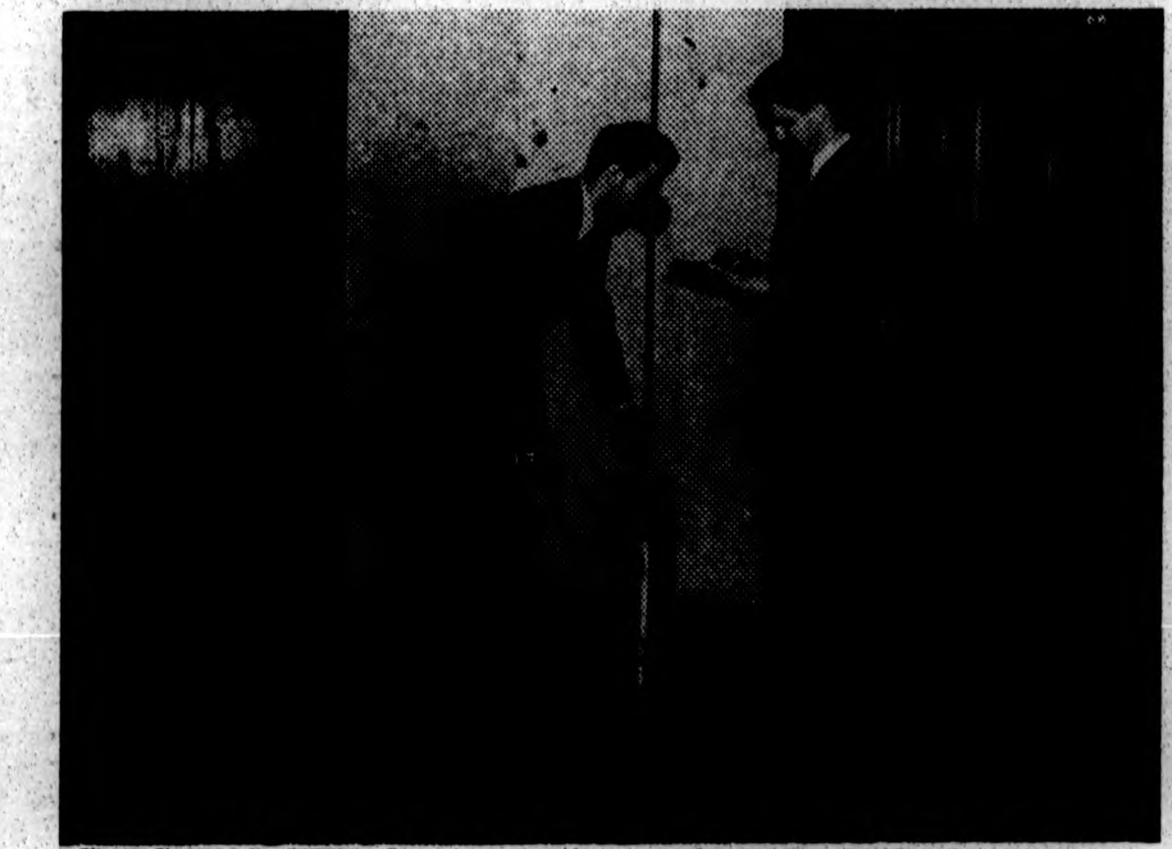
The practice blackout conducted two weeks ago was pronounced 100 per cent successful by college authorities. Student cooperation was so perfect that it was not necessary to pull any of the main switches, the campus was in total darkness.

Plans to instruct auxiliary fire wardens — students and college workmen — in the rudiments of fire fighting are now being completed.

PRACTICAL DEMONSTRATION in the care of air raid victims is given by Dr. Paul A. Loefflad, instructor of the first aid course. Sessions of the ten-week course are held for two hours every Thursday evening. Lectures on the principles of rendering assistance in case of raids or other catastrophes will be supplemented by actual practice on the part of the students. Those who complete the 20-hour course and pass the final examination will receive Red Cross Certificates.



ONE OF THE NUMEROUS courses offered by the college as specific aids in the defense program is shown in action above. The scene is the Mendel Hall amphitheatre. Although no college credits are allowed for the courses, certificates are presented to those who successfully complete the prescribed studies.



CHECKING THE fire prevention equipment of Mendel Hall are Paul Hinski (left) and Dennis Boyle. Members of the auxiliary fire fighting group at Villanova, their first task was to determine the amount and location of all equipment in every hall. In addition, the auxiliary fire wardens will be given courses in first aid and the use of chemicals in fighting blazes in a series of lectures by trained men.

250 Register Here On Campus

Approximately 250 students registered for Selective Training and Service here yesterday. Eleven registrars headed by Paetrus F. Banmiller, were in service in the Reception Room of Mendel Hall.

To cooperate with the government in securing prompt registration of those students required to register, the college set up this board. In the first enrollment, held on Oct. 16, 1940, a total of 353 students, faculty members, and college employes registered. The registrations tabulated yesterday will be forwarded to the respective local draft boards. Due to the fact that a second registration day has intervened—at which time college was not in session—the number who registered yesterday did not exceed that of 1940.

Registrars from the college faculty included Harry S. Bueche, Dr. John A. McLain, Dr. Harold F. Hartman, William G. Slaughter, Maurice J. Smith, Robert G. Whelan, James F. Haughton, James J. Elliott, George W. Jacobs and Alexander G. Severance.

COLEBY
Tailoring
Inc.
57th & MARKET STS.

Suits & Topcoats
$27.75

SEE
Steve
Aisenbrey
110 Fedigan Hall

"There's something I like about the real thing"
Coca-Cola
Pause... Go refreshed
Coca-Cola
5¢

Everybody wants the real thing for his money. That's ice-cold Coca-Cola. It has quality, the quality of genuine goodness ... taste, the taste that charms and never cloys ...refreshment, complete refreshment. Thirst asks nothing more.

You trust its quality

BOTTLED UNDER AUTHORITY OF THE COCA-COLA COMPANY BY
THE PHILADELPHIA COCA-COLA BOTTLING CO.

How to Win Friends
in one easy lesson
Treat yourself and others to wholesome, delicious Wrigley's Spearmint Gum. Swell to chew. Helps keep breath sweet, teeth bright. The Flavor Lasts.

WRIGLEY'S
SPEARMINT
CHEWING GUM
V-166
42

VILLANOVAN

Vol. 14—No. 14 N. A. S. Z-660 VILLANOVA COLLEGE, VILLANOVA, PA. TUESDAY, FEBRUARY 24, 1942

Martinez' Appointment Completes Prom Committee; McFadden Named To Head Group Selecting Blazers

Engineer Heads Board of Seven for Junior Decorations; Walsh Makes Plea for Assessments

Carlos Martinez, engineering student, has been named to head the decorations committee for the Junior Prom, to be held this year on May 1, it was announced today.

Those named to assist Martinez were: William Menseck, Gene Pinto, and William Cabrera of the commerce school, Edward Elman and Arthur Lyness of the engineering school, and Peter Lebischak, of the science school.

The appointment of this group completes the entire Prom committee; they will join the other committee members in plans which have already been begun.

Decorations Head

CARLOS MARTINEZ

An appeal for assessments was made by James Walsh, Prom chairman. "In order to sign the better type of orchestra we must be able to make a down payment of at least half of the band's fee," he said.

Committeemen and class officers have been authorized to collect the annual assessments from members of the Centennial Class. If paid before March 10, the fee will be $10. After that date a Federal tax will be added.

Letters were sent out in the latter part of last week to parents of third year men in an effort for early payments.

The publicity committee is considering several poster designs and hopes to make an early choice in this matter. The ticket committee has already placed its order.

At a meeting of the entire junior class held after the announcement of the accelerated course of studies, it was decided to hold the Prom on Friday, May 1, and the Dinner Dance the following evening to avoid conflict with final examinations, which will begin for all classes on Monday, May 11.

Moderator Thanks Senior Chairmen

On Jan. 13, the Senior Class staged its annual Belle Air Ball, and on the following evening conducted its Dinner-Dance at the Ritz-Carlton Hotel. Both dances have been pronounced singular successes by the class officers. As an indication of his appreciation, Rev. Robert M. Sullivan, O. S. A., has requested that this notice be printed:

"The moderator of the Class of '42 takes this opportunity to congratulate the chairmen of the Senior Prom and Dinner-Dance. Both affairs were so successful and pleasantly memorable because of the fine spirit of cooperation between committeemen and class which has always distinguished 'Villanova, '42.'

Rev. R. M. Sullivan, O. S. A."

Defense Theme For '42 Belle Air, Editor Announces

Year Book to Compare National and Personal Defense Preparations

Defense has been chosen as the theme of the 1942 Belle Air, it was announced yesterday by William E. Schubert, Jr., editor of the publication.

In making the announcement Schubert explained that just as the nation must prepare to defend itself against the workings of fifth columnists, so the college must prepare each student mentally, morally, and physically to withstand the attack of false theories and perverted doctrines.

"The Belle Air will draw a parallel between what a Catholic college education does to build your personal defense and what a nation does to prepare national defense," he added.

The book will be divided into four sections depicting mental, social, cultural, and physical development in the college according to Catholic ideals of life. Each stage of development is considered as necessary preparation for future life. The defense theme will be worked out in this way.

The new shield being adopted by the college will also be featured in the book.

No definite date for publication has yet been fixed, but because of the early graduation under the accelerated program, the book will probably appear two or three weeks earlier than is customary.

Work in planning the spring sports section has been delayed pending the decision of college authorities on the program. As soon as definite information is received, the staff will resume work on this section.

Spanish Club In Penn Competition

The Villanova Spanish Club has accepted an invitation to represent the college at the Cultural Olympics of 1942 at the University of Pennsylvania. The Club will contribute a play, "De Tal Arbol," which will be held on April 25, at the annual banquet for the Cervantes Day celebration.

In a letter signed by Frederick C. Gruber, the Director of the Cultural Olympics, the invitation to Rev. Lorenzo Lozano, O. S. A., stated, "It seems to me that in view of our increased interest in Latin America, we should all put forth additional effort to make the study of the Spanish language and literature vital to our students and to the public as well. We expect to make this a gala affair at Pennsylvania and hope that you and your students will be with us."

Plan Foreign Language Plays

The cast has not yet been decided on, but it will consist of Villanova Spanish students and girls from Immaculata, Rosemont, or Chestnut Hill colleges. A discussion on the cast will be included in the next meeting, according to Fr. Lozano.

Other colleges participating in this celebration are unknown, but students of Colombia, S. A., will be represented at the affair. The play to be presented by the Villanova students will be one of several others that will last twenty minutes each. "Like father, like son" is the English translation of the play.

The University of Pennsylvania is sponsoring a full week-end of foreign language celebrations beginning on Thursday, April 23, and ending on Saturday, April 25, on which day the Villanova Spanish Club members will present their play. German and French presentations will also be conducted at this affair.

Kelty, Ericson, and Schulte to Aid Commerce Student in Choice of Coats; Blazer Ball Out

George McFadden, junior commerce student, has been appointed chairman of the Blazer Committee, William P. Walpole, president of the Centennial Class, announced today.

McFadden, a high-ranking honor student in the School of Commerce and Finance, where he is an accounting major, is also a member of the Delta Pi Epsilon, commerce school fraternity, and was intramural tennis champion last Spring.

Other committee members include: Robert Kelty, education student, George Erikson, of the science school, and James Schulte, of the engineering school.

Will Choose Blazers

GEORGE McFADDEN

The Blazer Ball, traditional Spring informal dance at which the blazers are first displayed, has been cancelled this year due to the accelerated course of studies at the college. However, members of the junior class voted to purchase the coats in spite of this fact.

In commenting on this decision Walpole stated that "the stepped-up courses will not permit much time off for purely social activities. There will be blazers as usual but a formal exhibition of them at a dance will be impossible. We shall do all in our power to preserve the spirit of Junior Week, even in the absence of some of its traditional functions."

A. S. M. E. Members To Attend Annual Student Night Show

Tonight at 7:30, the Villanova student branch of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers will attend the annual Student Night sponsored by the society at the Engineers Club of Philadelphia.

The main address will be given by John D. Gill ,economist of The Atlantic Refining Co., who will speak on "Oil for Industry and War." Other speakers will be Dr. J. Bennet Hill, chief chemist of the Sun Oil Co., speaking on "The Problems of Aviation Gasoline," and Jack Lane, of the Socony-Vacuum Oil Co., speaking on "High Speed Diesel Engines."

A motion picture, "Oil for Victory," will be shown through the courtesy of the Standard Oil Co., at 7:30 P. M. A complete program concerning the Student Night has been posted on the Engineer's bulletin board.

There will be a one-day convention on April 20 of all the student chapters of the Eastern Division of the ASME Society. Questionnaires are being sent to the different schools concerning the selection of speakers and the program to be followed.

Yesterday, the members of the local chapter were present at a motion picture by the Riley-Stoker Co., which was furnished through the courtesy of Mr. William Ehmer, Sr.

President Requests Student Cooperation In Conservation Plan

A plea for the cooperation of the students to prevent useless waste on the campus was made by Very Rev. Edward V. Stanford, O. S. A., president of the college, in a convocation of resident students last Thursday evening in the auditorium of the School of Commerce and Finance. A similar meeting was held for the faculty on Thursday and for the day-students on Friday in the Mendel Hall Amphitheatre.

The reason for the president's plea is the rapidly rising costs, probable decrease in the school's income, and the tremendous waste which has been noticeable about the campus. "The united support of the faculty and students with the administration is needed to work out a successful program of Civilian Defense," Fr. Stanford stated, "and this cooperation is also needed to obviate the necessity of raising student fees."

Administrative Economies

In the past year many campus improvements have been made by the administration. A centralized heating unit with stokers and thermostatic control has been installed for better and more economical heat; centralized and metered water, gas and electricity have been put into use; and centralized purchasing has been inaugurated for more economy in this line.

"Thus far economies have been a result of action taken on the part of the administration and did not require the cooperation of the students or faculty," the president said, "but now we must ask for the help of everyone to bring about more efficient conservation."

Budget Revealed

The problem of finance was placed directly before the students. Last year's budget totaled $691,000, a sum which greatly exceeds the amount received through student fees. Of this total $125,000 was expended for maintenance alone, which included a water consumption of 3,093,000 gallons, electricity of 311,300 kilowatt hours, and 40 carloads of coal.

Fr. Stanford also quoted various other expenditures for food and cafeteria equipment which are unnecessarily high and which could easily be cut down with the cooperation of the students . Proof of such waste elimination is seen in the fact that since the residents were requested to eliminate waste in the use of paper napkins, there was a saving of 10,000 napkins in one week alone.

Another source of cafeteria expense is found in the disappearance of an average of over 1,000 pieces of silver a year; already 837 such items have been removed from the dining hall between September and January of this school year. Since it will be impossible to replace silverware for the duration, a definite shortage can be prevented only with the help of the residents.

The trespassing upon the grass

CONSERVATION PLEA
Continued on Page Eight

Seven Attain Perfect Marks

157 Gain Honor Rolls In Semester Grades Released by Registrar

Seven students attained perfect quality point ratings of 4.00 in the semester grades released yesterday by the Office of the Registrar as a total of 157 maintained the required 3.00 average.

Those with straight "A" averages include: juniors Malachy V. Boyle and James J. Donnelly and freshmen Edward V. Murray and Paul V. Simpson of the engineering school; Eugene M. Labowski, a junior, and William Hadfield, a sophomore, in the science school; and Raymond Baldwin, a freshman arts student.

The remainder of the honor roll of the School of Arts named: seniors William E. Schubert, Jr., David F. Daly ,and Paul J. McBryan; juniors Thomas F. Devine, Joseph F. Mahoney, and Louis J. Esposito.

Sophomores: James F. Connelly, John M. Quinn, Martin J. Manley, and Walter Wirmusky; freshmen in addition to Baldwin: Thomas M. Schubert. Thomas Quigley, Daniel N. Ehart, and John Brunett.

John P. Fullam led the seniors in the School of Education, followed by Thomas J. McKimmey, Mark E. Fitzgerald, Joseph F. Behot, Arthur Connor, Arthur W. Schuyler, and Joseph A. Yednock.

Other honor students in the education school were Alexander Lukacs, a junior; Hugh A. Wells and Donald J. Sauers, sophomores, and James J. Mitchell, James J. Rooney, and James P. McWilliams, freshmen.

Those in the School of Engineering who maintained honor roll ratings included: freshmen, in addition to Murray and Simpson: George L. Mathews, Francis Motzenbecker, Robert J. Casey, John M. McGrath, Joseph H. King, William S. Regii, Joseph J. Joyce, Robert M. Flaharty, James L. O'Brien, Vincent J. Silverio, Armando Alvarez, John A. Doherty, Charles D. Bradburn, George N. Shahood,

HONOR ROLLS
Continued on Page Four

Varsity Debaters Meet New Rochelle

Beta Gamma, varsity debating society, will meet New Rochelle College in debate tonight at New Rochelle, N. Y. Upholding the negative side for Villanova in a discussion of the federal union topic will be John Fullam, senior artsman, Wilfred Gagen and Robert McIntyre, sophomore and senior commercemen, respectively.

This meeting is one in a series that the team is making on a trip which started last Sunday when they met the University of Pennsylvania debaters upon the subject, "Resolved: That a permanent system of compulsory military training be adopted by the United States." The debate was held before the Y. M. H. A. in Philadelphia and Villanova again took the negative side of the argument.

Last night these representatives of the varsity forensic group debated Fordham University upon the military training topic and presented the same side of the question as they did against Penn. Tentative meetings are also being planned with Niagara University and St. Vincent's College on this trip.

Marine Exams Set For March 2 - 3

Doctors from the United States Marine Corps will be in the College Infirmary on March 2 and 3, between the hours of 1:00 and 4:30 P. M. to conduct physical examinations for those students who have made application for the U. S. Marine Corps Reserve.

Students who signified their intention to join to Second Lieutenant Robert Metzinger, M. C. R., on his two recent visits here are requested to report for their physical examinations at this time.

Successful applicants will be inducted in monthly increments of approximately 225, beginning in May. It is hoped that present sophomores and juniors will be allowed to complete their college education before being called into active service.

No "Super Board" Dictator

THE structure of the American national government has gradually assumed a rather grotesque appearance in recent years. Endless pyramiding of innumerable boards, agencies, commissions and brain-trusts, has buried the administration under a network of bureaucracy.

But the American public has become somewhat insured to the process and resigned to the view that bureaucratic government is a necessary evil.

Until recently, however, the state governments have been rather hesitant to follow the dubious example set by Washington. Perhaps, like us, they have looked with fear at the tremendously top-heavy expansion characterizing the federal organization.

But on Feb. 17, the hesitancy of the Pennsylvania State Government was abandoned when the Governor delivered his keynote address to the special session of the State Legislature.

The Governor's speech was admittedly an inspiring appeal to patriotism. But lurking among the stirring phrases of his message was the most insidious proposal ever to be placed before the Assembly.

In effect, the Governor urged the passage of a bill which would empower the 12 man Council of Defense to arbitrarily ". . . suspend or modify laws under the emergency situations."

This is no mere governmental board.

This is placing dictatorial powers in the hands of 11 men (and 1 woman) to nullify at any time, any law now existing on the state statute books. Labor laws, election laws, crime laws, etc. would all be subject to the whims of the Defense Council.

Need we say that we categorically condemn this bill as a ruthless attempt to magnify and take advantage of the war emergency for purposes which might well prove objectionable? The proposal is an affront to the intelligence of the citizens of Pennsylvania.

We admit the necessity of emergency wartime legislation but we do not admit the necessity of employing undemocratic and perhaps unconstitutional methods.

We deny the inference that our duly elected representatives are incapable of themselves coping with the situation and we further deny the need or advisability of this new "super-board."

—R. T. C.

VILLANOVAN

Issued twen'y-five times a year from
Villanova College, Villanova, Pa.

THOMAS F. DEVINE, '43 .... Editor-in-Chief
JACQUES E. MAUCH, '43 .... Sports Editor
ROBERT F. YOUNG, '44 .... College Editor
WARD C. GUNCHEON, '43 .... Managing Editor
ROBERT T. CANFIELD, '43 .... Copy Editor
THOMAS C. MURASKI, '43 .... Literary Editor
EUGENE P. SMITH, 43 .... Business Manager
LORING A. JONES, '43 .... Advertising Manager
RAYMOND G. AMICONE, '43 ..... Photography Editor
NICHOLAS C. ENI, '43 .... Circulation Manager
LOUIS J ESPOSITO, '43 .... Exchange Editor

Columnists
E. F. Bennis, '43 J. F. Dudley, '43

Staff Writers
F. Bagot, '43; A. Berenato, '45; H. Binder, '44; J. Bongiovanni, '43; W. Craven, '43; L. DeSimone, '44; D. Ehart, '45; T. McFarland, '45; J. McWilliams, '45; J. Mahoney, '43; J. Murray, '45; J. Nunemaker, '43; J. Quinn, '44; F. Reese, '43; D. Sauers, '44; T. Schubert, '45; J. Tortoreto, '44; W. Walsh, '44; S. Zeeman, '45.

Business Assistants
C. Callahan, '43 W. Golden, '45
H. C. O'Connor, Jr., '45 J. Walsh, '43

Circulation Assistants
J. Correale, '44 L. Hood, '45
F. Facciolo, '45 J. Keays, '44
G. Giacchino, '44

Photography Staff
L. Eni, '44 E. Mancuso, '45

Faculty Advisor—Rev. Edward B. McKee, O. S. A.

This paper is dedicated to one of the finest men who ever entered Villanova; scholar, athlete, gentleman — LEO GOODREAU

Subscription: $2.00 per year. Circulation: 3500.
Entered as second class matter at the Villanova Post Office December 27, 1928.

Member of Associated Collegiate Press; Distributor of Collegiate Digest.
Member of Catholic School Press Association, Catholic College Press Association, and National Scholastic Press Association.

TUESDAY - - - - - FEBRUARY 24, 1942

Lenten Defense

SOME person of doubtful religion expressed the season of Lent as a "mood" of the Catholic Church. Perhaps that was intended to injure, but it succeeded only in speaking the unvarnished truth. Lent is a mood, an emotion which permeates every part of the Church's huge body and soul. It is a mood of sorrow. Yes, we know.

Sorrow for what? "Because Christ died." Wrong. We are not sorry that Christ died, because if He had not done so we should have been damned for all eternity. True, we are grief-stricken at the sight of His wounds, pained at the action of man in slaying the Redeemer, but, in an especial sense, we are glad Christ died.

Our sorrow, the Church's sorrow during the season of Lent, is made of different stuff. We are sorry for our sins, those of our forebears and those of our children to be. We imitate the sufferings of Christ and His saints in order to repay for what we have caused. We give up frivolous pleasures and even the saner pleasures of the flesh. We are commanded to fast. But we are weak.

The reasons for our present condition lie in the ease of the life we lead. We are soft, physically, mentally, and morally. We are the brand new, push button, concealed clutch, step-saving human being. We are very intelligent. We are so intelligent we are ignorant of the undying truths which scream out for recognition.

Daily masses at the Campus Chapel begin at six and extend until nine. Stations of the Cross are recited during the week, and during Holy Week the liturgic splendor of the Tenebrae service is open to all.

—T. P. McF.

Waste Not . . .

LAST week in general assemblies Very Rev. Edward V. Stanford, O. S. A., our college president, spoke to us of conservation. He didn't ask us to pinch and scrape. Instead he asked us to do our best to eliminate the waste that is found in normal conditions.

One may ask if there is waste in normal times why not eliminate it in normal times before a crisis arises? Or one may also ask just where is there waste? These two questions, it would seem, require but one answer. We all knew that an institution the size of Villanova uses an enormous amount of foodstuffs and materials, but when Fr. Stanford read us some of the figures we were astounded. These huge figures will help explain the waste.

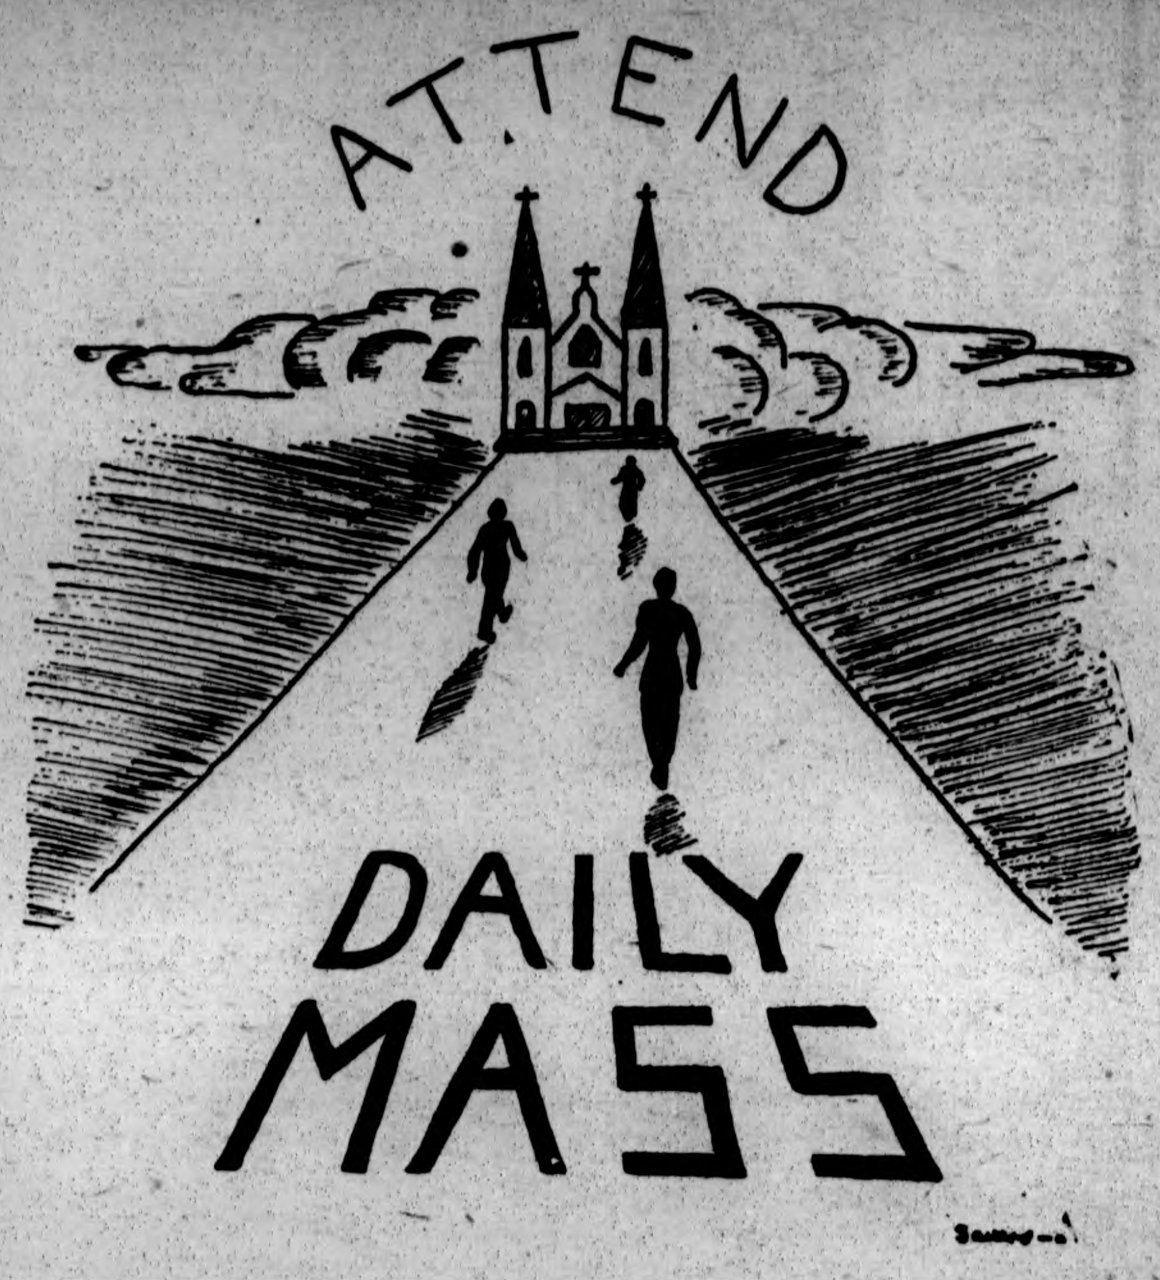
If these large amounts were divided among the students we would find that individual amounts are not very much, that is, in some cases. However, in other cases we would find that the individual amount exceeds what might be called normal needs. In such cases as the latter we find the waste. The excess amounts consumed by such individuals are consequently wasted.

To stop this waste requires only a little foresight. Six items on how to stop waste were pointed out to you. They were to save electricity by using lights only when necessary; to save water by avoiding outright waste; to save coal by using discretion when opening windows; to save food by getting enough but none in excess; to save the lawns and consequent labor and cost by walking on the roads provided; to save property by good care and proper handling. After a few moments of thought you will find many other ways in which you can stop waste.

Act—act in the living present, but think twice and do it right the first time.

—T. C. M.

Personal Defense . . . . . . by SAUERS



FACULTY COMMENTS

A Right Sense Of Values

By FR. McMENAMIN

IN this day of shifting standards it is highly important that we do not lose our sense of values, that we are not deceived by the appearance of things as against their real worth. More than anything else this has led to individual, group, and national downfalls or failures. From the first great fall of the mighty angel, Lucifer, to the latest disaster in the Pacific, success or failure has depended on the correct appraisal of affairs, a right sense of values.

In the sports field alone a majority of upsets has occurred because a player or team has failed to measure properly an opponent's strength, nerve, or—desperation. A man will risk anything when the chances are against him, and for that matter, so will the devil.

Overconfidence Spells Disaster

Good habits are hard to acquire because Vice has its back to the wall, so to speak, and is watching for the slightest opening, the momentary drop of the guard, to deal a telling blow. To become too confident, to underestimate an adversary at a time like this, spells disaster.

Still, a man with a right sense of values will not let a temporary setback discourage him, nor a momentary advantage unbalance him; he won't grasp a present good and miss a greater one coming his way; he won't jump at conclusions; he will take most things as he does his meat—with a grain of salt; and what is most important, he won't risk his soul for the sake of his body.

Church Provides Standard

The Church in her wisdom endeavors to instill in us a keen perception of right and wrong, to give us a gauge whereby we might measure correctly the true value of things. Hence she keeps constantly before us her attitude on morality, riches, marriage, divorce, honesty, truth and life. She knows how important it is that we do not lose sight of the deep value the Saviour placed upon our souls, that we do not allow a handful of silver to outweigh the Redeemer's Blood, nor an hour of forbidden pleasure to deprive us of eternity.

Nothing in this life is an end in itself, but only a means to an end. Even the sacraments, those life-giving channels of grace, are only a means to our closer union with God. Pleasures, leisure, sleep, food—all are for our physical betterment and only when we place too high a value upon them do they become harmful. Too much absorption in them weakens rather than strengthens the body.

Loss of Roman Empire

The Romans, pampered by lives of ease, living only for the moment, were no match for the hardy, rugged Huns. Their kingdom could do nothing else but fall. Had they valued things correctly there would have been no need for a future poet to write of the "grandeur that was Rome."

Nor would Napoleon have had to retreat from Moscow had he fully appreciated the desperation of a conquered people. He did not foresee that the Russian people would sacrifice what they held most dear—Moscow, for something they held still more dear—freedom. He mistook their sense of values.

On the other hand, Lincoln placed human freedom above national solidarity, and risked a nation for an ideal—and who today will say he was wrong, that his sense of values was warped.

Profit from Mistakes

Mistakes will happen of course, but the prudent man will learn from them if it is not too late, and will readjust his mode of thinking to conform to them. Experience is the best teacher. Our forefathers showed great foresight in providing for amendments to the Constitution to take care of future contingencies. Experience taught man that a pencil needs an eraser.

America today is learning to reevaluate things from her bitter experiences in the Philippines since December 7th. It is now high time for a great, generous and trusting nation to give a thought to its own people ,to give itself, not others, priority rating A-1, and to follow not a selfish but a self-preserving axiom "Charity begins at home."

Keep Abreast Of Events

Tuesday, Feb. 24—
International Relations Club	2:30 P.M.
Varsity Debate: Villanova vs. New Rochelle, (New Rochelle, N. Y.)	8:00 P.M.
Intramural Basketball:
C. & F. vs. Mendel Res.	3:00 P.M.
Austin vs. Mendel D. S.	7:15 P.M.
Fedigan vs. Alumni	8:30 P.M.
Thursday, Feb. 26—
Delta Pi Epsilon Movies	11:45 A.M.
Frosh Debate Meeting	1:00 P.M.
Lambda Kappa Delta Meeting	1:00 P.M.
Research Seminar	4:30 P.M.
Symphonic Band Practice	6:00 P.M.
Friday, Feb. 27—
Varsity Swimming Meet: Villanova vs. St. Peter's (Villanova Pool)	3:00 P.M.
Monday, March 2—
Radio Club	2:30 P.M.

Campus Capers

By Ed Bennis

THE recent Belle Air Ball was a great success and co-chairmen Jack Gallagher and Andy Melton deserve a few dozen orchids for their work. The affair has been hashed over many a time, but there are still a few stories left that might be of interest.

* * *

DANCE NOTES:

From all reports the blind date department made out very well. "Reds" Nieman was bragging all evening about his date—a certain dark-haired girl in a white evening gown. Of course, he didn't tell anyone that she was a blind date. Joe Carbine is another lad who had a lovely blind date — a freshman from Rosemont named Audrey Kay. Bill "Old Faithful" McGarrity had a date at the ball — the first date he's had in Philly for four years.

Ed Kasky broke down and had his home-town girl down for the first time in four years — guess he wanted to show her the big town. Juniors Vince Tigani and Toni Di Giovani were told by their Providence girls that they couldn't make the dance because they both had sprained ankles. It seems funny that the two girls should become lame at the same time and on such an important occasion.

Wonder why the Fedigan "dudes" — Reds Walpole, Gene Smith, and "Swifty" Nunamaker — didn't go to the dance? Bill Howlett also has the lads wondering why he failed to make an appearance at the dinner-dance.

Chestnut Hill's tea dance on the 14th was well-attended by our local Romeos. Notable were Bill Menseck, Jacques Mauch, Frank Labor, Ed Creelan and Bill Craven. Jim "Arthur Murray" Buxeda was seen reeling off some clever rhumbas and congas with his attractive partner. Harry "Slim" Binder was overheard begging his date to be his valentine — the old smoothie. Jim Meehan was with Mary — or need we mention that?

* * *

FAUX PAS:

Ziggy Zamlinski is becoming the center of interest in Fedigan; practically every night a lovely creature stops outside his window and summons our "man-about-town" with three toots of the horn. Ziggy is keeping his motoring friend to himself but the wolves are attempting to move in — as usual. . . Roger Logan is back in school again after having a vital part of his anatomy removed.

Jack Enright is a member of the bouncers committee for the Academy of Music Youth Concert. 'Tis rumored he doesn't do much bouncing, being occupied with the many pretty young things. . . Bill Friel is about the best eater on the campus; he's always munching on something or other. Looks like he'll keep Marie pretty busy cooking in years to come. Jim Bonner journeyed to Trinity the other week-end; there seems to be no end to his many travels.

* * *

ODDS AND ENDS:

Marymount College was honored with a visit by Jim Cashin the other week-end — he just had to see the little woman. Bob Young and Tom Delahanty are taking an interest in the German Club though they aren't members. Their interest centers about two Immaculata girls — Mary Jane Donnelly and Winnie Nash — who is said to be writing the "Of Spice and Men" column in the "Immaculatan." . . Tom Sheehy is encountering trouble with the girl he left in the home-town — they say that absence makes the heart grow fonder!

Bob Schappert was seen assisting a knife-thrower in a certain well-known Camden establishment the other Sunday. . . Johnny Quinn is another lad who is attempting to burn the candle at both ends, with a girl in Chestnut Hill and another "patiently" waiting at home. "Birdlegs" Halpin and "Meathead" Phillips showed up at the basketball game on Wednesday last with two cuties — Ginny and Peggy, by name.

Walt Fox is moving his love-life a good distance from home. His affections are switching from the Main Line to the wide open spaces of Arkansas.

In Retrospect, Prom Shapes Up As Financial And Social Success

By TOM McFARLAND

The Prom is o'er;
The field-house floor
Bereft is of confetti,
And the Muse of the college
Reverts to knowledge,
As she silently munches spaghetti.

But Pudgy "Gal,"
Melton, et al.,
And Thomas, the Merchant of Gore,
Most pleasant are,
Pleasanter by far
Than e'er they were before.

The causes of
This brotherly love
Are deeper than the toupee;
The Prom was a success.
Financially?—Yes!

The finest in years, they say.

Be it here understood
That Hallet was good
Again, "the best," they cry,
With Welcome singing
And Perkins bringing
A tear to the sentimentalist's eye.

Professors and others,
Their wives and their brothers,
Hail this year's class the best;
If not in scholastics,
In art or gymnastics,
Then at least when formally dressed.

Chorus:
Two hundred bucks,
Two hundred bucks,
A hundred for me and Gal,
We won't even slip
The check-girl a tip,
Nor our closest, bosom pal.

Old Pudgy-chin
Did coyly grin
And with this gem he BLESSED
The ears of those
Who foolishly chose
To harry their ears with unREST
In voice beguiling,
He said, while smiling,

"The Prom was (and I believe I am expressing the thoughts of all the professors, students, and friends who attended), the best social and financial success (along with being the essence of perfection because of the gargantuan efforts of the various committees), that we at Villanova have ever witNESSED."

Chorus:
Two hundred bucks,
Two hundred bucks,
We'll give McKimmey a fin,
For he sold all the passes
And cut all his classes
To get the mazuma in.

The Trading Post

Poetry And Prose Are Here Combined To Give A Glimpse of Collegiate Mind

By Lou Esposito

WELL, it won't be long now. I was reading in last week's newspaper that the classification of the youths who have registered on February 16, will commence before the end of May. . .anyway it's a good retreat after the finals.

While on the subject of registration, it was amazing to notice last week (but I won't mention names) the great number of "juniors" there are among the upper classmen, especially in the Centennial Junior class. . .well if they're lonesome there's still the Boy Scouts.

* * *

She doesn't brag
Of the men she's known;
Bore me with tales
Of the oats she's sown;
Polish her wit
On the size of my shoes,
My popularity,
Or the friends I choose;
Doesn't advise
How to woo, laugh, or walk;
But she of course will
(When she learns to talk.)

U. of San Francisco Foghorn.

* * *

This week's worst:

Prof.: "What's the greatest contribution that chemistry has made to mankind?"

Student: "Blondes."

—Fairmont State Teachers "Columnus."

* * *

Now that they have learned to split the atom, it's time to redouble your watch over the ham (?) in the Pie Shop sandwich.

* * *

Some progress:

"Why do you call your new boy friend 'Pilgrim'?"

"Because every time he calls, he makes a little progress."

—Dakota Scientist.

* * *

Then there's the one about the freshman who objected to the teacher's assignment of outside reading because it was too cold to sit outside until all hours of night doing homework.

And the freshman who thought that Custer's last stand was a hot dog emporium.

* * *

Pome (but you name it):

Before I heard the doctors tell
The dangers of a kiss,
I had considered kissing you
The nearest thing to bliss.
But now I know biology
And sit and sigh and moan;
Six million mad bacteria—
And I thought we were alone.

—U. of N. C. "Tar and Feathers".

* * *

I took her riding—she was a little angel and walked back. . .I took her boat riding—she was a little angel and swam back. . .I took her aeroplane riding — the little devil.

—Stevens Institute of Technology.

* * *

I Told You So:

Here's one you'd better not read, because it'll only make you mad: As the electrician said to his helper who reported late for work, "Say, wires you insulate?"

—The "Keystonian."

* * *

No Sale:

A bargain is a good buy. . . a good-bye is a farewell. . .a farewell is a part. . .to part is to leave. . .my girl left me without a goodbye. . .she was no bargain anyway.

—Northwestern U. News.

* * *

Things to come:

Student pulls up to gas station on his way to pick up the date, and says: "Three quarts of water, a bag of oats. . .and wipe off his nose, please."

—De Sales Transcript.

* * *

Since everybody's been copying this gem, which seems to have first seen light in the Notre Dame "Scholastic," here we go. It is a version of the oral installation of a (daffee) draftee:

"Next."
"Who me?"
"Yes sir."
"Where born?"
"Russia."
"What part?"
"All of me."
"Why did you leave Russia?"
"I couldn't take it with me."
"Where were your forefathers from?"
"I have only one father."
"Your business?"
"Rotten."
"Where is Washington?"
"Dead."
"I mean the capital of the United States."
"They loaned it to Europe."
"Now do you promise to support the Constitution?"
"Me? How can I? I've got a wife and six kids to support."

* * *

Another Pome:

With stone-deaf ears, and leaky
valves,
Besides they thought him daft;
But now he's tops, a social lion,
He's 1-A in the draft.

—Fordham Ram.

* * *

Draft Item:

The Tennessee Tech "Oracle" is responsible for this home-spun philosophy:

Before a man's married he's a dude; after marriage he's subdued. Before marriage he has no buttons on his shirt; after marriage he has no shirt. Before marriage he swears he would not marry the best woman in the world; after marriage he finds that he hasn't.

Meet The Boys:

Dave Heads A Frat, The D. P. E.; Mac Became Famous In Oratory

AT first, our two subjects for today's biographical mauling were rather reluctant to appear together in the same issue, each claiming the other to be too much of a past master in Villanova's famed bull sessions. In fact Dave Reardon flatly refused to speak a word until he was faithfully assured that he was going to be favorably compared to the other half of this column.

Dave, or as he is known to his family, David N. Reardon, made his entrance into this world on Sept. 22, 1920, in a sedate section of Philadelphia, namely Germantown. After a most dreary and uneventful short pants period, he donned the trusty old corduroy knickers and set off to St. Benedict's Parochial School in Germantown.

Active in High School

Following his graduation from elementary school, he entered Northeast Catholic High. While at North, he wrote for the school magazine, managed the swimming team and was a standout member of the dramatic club.

Even with all these activities, which were just a sign of things to come, Dave stayed close to the top of his class scholastically.

At his graduation in 1938, he was awarded a scholarship to Villanova, and the following September he enrolled in the commerce and finance school.

Ardent Winchellite

For four years here he was a member of the VILLANOVAN staff, and in his last year he conducted the campus prattle column, "Wildcat Whirl." Just to prove that he could write in more ways than one, he also became a member of the Belle Aire staff. Last year Dave turned his attention to debating, and has been a standout speaker on the varsity Beta Gamma since.

Continuing his versatility, Dave was a performer with the Belle Masque dramatic society, confining his thespianic attempts to the one-act plays. In his junior year, Dave was named as a member of the dinner-dance committee, and again this year he helped to promote the successful senior ball and dinner.

As an example of Dave's ability to make and keep friends, he proudly points out what he considers his finest honor. He was elected to hold down the chair of president of Delta Pi Epsilon, the business school fraternity which he helped to reorganize in his sophomore year.

Dashing Waiter

During the summer and week-ends of the school year, our man-in-the-spotlight has been employed as a waiter at one of the Hot Shoppe curb-service restaurants. In spite of what the Department of Internal Revenue might think on the matter, Dave also admitted he operates a taxi-service for Germantown "Wildcats," transporting them daily from his home to Villanova.

When we got around to speaking of Dave's social life, he merely stated that he preferred Immaculata to the other surrounding feminine colleges, and that a certain girl named Penny is foremost in his mind (or heart).

Being an accounting major, Dave formerly intended to leave here and later try for a C. P. A. position. But because he has just registered for a government position (complete with uniform), he "thinks" he will have to forego his business plans and apply for a commission in the Naval Reserve.

GRADUATING with Dave in May, will be one of his best friends and a commerce school classmate, Robert J. McIntyre, genial pre-law student. Ever since the morning of Jan. 18, 1920, when a more quiet section of West Philadelphia was annoyed by loud screams and shouts, the people of that community have look disdainfully on Bob.

Shades of the Future

Skipping through a childhood stage that was conspicuous by the absence of noteworthy events, we find Bob completing his three r's education at the Transfiguration parochial school and entering the gray portals of West Catholic High School.

Here Bob captained the tennis team for two years, and portrayed a leading role in his senior play, "Three Men on a Horse."

Following his graduation from West Catholic in 1938, Bob looked around for a college worthy of his attendance. When asked why he chose this institution, he gave this mystifying reply, "It was for the purpose of obtaining worthwhile knowledge and information that I enrolled at Villanova."

Prolific Showman

Upon his matriculation, Mac started to join clubs. First he gave the Belle Masque the opportunity of displaying his exceptional talents in dramatics. He was also a member of the VILLANOVAN staff for four years.

Bob has made a name for himself as a director of a Belle Masque show, a debater for the Beta Gamma varsity, a member of the Sophomore Cotillion committee, and director of the day-hops in the annual Intramural Amateur contest. During his sophomore year he was a main power in the resurrection of the defunct Delta Pi Epsilon.

Spanish Athlete

In the Belle Masque production of "Margin for Error" last year, Bob received much praise for his outstanding characterization of "Der Fuehrer." It was also during his junior year that the boy-you-are-meeting-today was awarded a gold medal as first prize in the Oratorical Contest, a feat which remains dear to his heart.

Bob takes special pride in the fact that he was publicity director for last year's Junior Prom and was chiefly responsible for the selection of the Queen and her court.

Feeling as though he was lacking in enough extra-curricular activities, Bob served two terms as president of the La Salette players, a dramatic group of West Philadelphia.

This year Bob has cut his pace down somewhat, confining his activity primarily to debating and Delta Pi Epsilon.

In the Social Light

At the mere mention of the word "girl," Robert turned pale blue and immediately became very quiet while Dave Reardon jumped to his feet and began spouting a long list of stories. After shouting Dave down by saying, "I could tell a few things about you," he turned to us with a knowing smile, simply said, "No comment."

But judging from the candid photo above, we may safely infer that "Mac" and Dave are firm believers in that old saw about "two heads are better than one" especially when trying to survive the social whirl.

Speaking of the future, Bob said he had intended to enter Georgetown Law school, but due to world conditions over which he had no control, Robert now expects to enroll in the armed service.

Bob and Dave compare notes.

Seminar Begins Spring Concerts

Music of Sibelius To Be Featured in New Recorded Program

Opening recital of the regular Wednesday evening concerts of the Music Seminar's Spring Cycle will feature the music of Sibelius, tomorrow evening at 7:30 in the reception room of Simpson Hall.

A new method of procedure was announced for the meetings by Rev. John J. Vrana, O. S. A., moderator of the seminar. Instead of the lecture style employed for the past few years, the original plan of presentation of a completely recorded program will be reverted to. Mimeographed program notes will be distributed to enable attendees to follow the concert.

"The primary purpose of the program is to provide relaxation for the student," Fr. Vrana stated. "To this end, those who merely wish to listen to good music will be catered to, as well as those who wish to improve their appreciation of such music."

The complete program for the Spring Cycle, as released by Fr. Vrana, includes: March 4, Beethoven Varieties; March 11, Music by Tschaikowski; March 18, Schubert, Grofe, and Revel; March 25, the Opera "Aida"; April 8, Variety Program; and April 15, Famous Arias from the World of Opera.

All students are invited to attend.

Club Entertains Immaculatans

Twenty girls from the Immaculata College German Society were the guests of the Villanova German Club at a special "Swiss Evening" in Simpson Hall on Wednesday, Feb. 11.

Highlights of the program were talks on life in Switzerland by Rev. Thomas F. Gilligan, O. S. A., and Rev. William J. Lunney, O. S. A., moderator of Villanova's German Club. Fr. Gilligan, who did graduate work in the University of Fribourg, Switzerland, based his talk on the culture of the Swiss and also included several amusing details on their idiosyncracies.

Fr. Lunney, who also spent some time in Switzerland during the course of his studies in Europe, confined his dissertation to the government of the country, explaining the difficulties of ruling such a nation in which four different languages are spoken.

Following the speeches, two films were shown, one portraying the Bernese Alps peasant in his daily activities, and the other depicting life in a Swiss Alpine village. Refreshments and dancing brought the evening to a close.

M'Kimmey Sees Need For Added Student Interest In Defense

Dissatisfied with the complacent attitude held by many of the student toward civilian defense, Thomas J. McKimmey, chairman of Student Council, announced that a number of new committees are in the process of formation in an effort to interest the student body in cooperating with the defense program.

Meeting last Wednesday, the members of Student Council appointed five of their number to supervise conservation in each of the residence halls, in accordance with the Conservation Plan initiated by the president of the college.

A Physical Fitness Committee composed of John P. Kirchner, senior engineer, Robert J. Koness, senior commerceman, and McKimmey, a senior in the education school, was also selected.

The work of this group is to stimulate student activity in sports, apart from the regular intramural program.

Further business completed at the meeting was the appointment of Robert T. Canfield, junior in the commerce school, and John J. Quinn, junior engineer, as official delegates from Villanova to the National Federation of Catholic College Students.

Walt Kelly, '40, Receives Stripes Of Pilot Officer; John Parson, Ex-'42, Becomes Second Lieutenant

Former Engineer Receives Wings From Brooks Field

Brooks Field, Texas; Feb. 24—Lieutenant Walter E. Kelly, Villanova class of '40, was graduated last Friday, Feb. 20, from the Air Corps Advanced Flying School at Brooks Field, Texas, and received the silver wings and gold bars of a U. S. Army pilot officer, it was announced today by Lt. Col. Stanton T. Smith, Brooks Field commandant.

LIEUT. W. E. KELLY

A graduate of the electrical engineering school, Lt. Kelly was chairman of the A. I. E. E. and a member of the student council in his senior year.

Now awaiting assignment to a permanent tactical unit, he has completed an intensive 10 weeks' course at Brooks, including 70 hours of actual flight training and 188 hours of ground school instruction. Having mastered the technique of day and night interception problems, advanced formation, instrument, and cross-country flying, Lt. Kelly is now prepared to play an important and active role in the aerial defense of America.

The roll call of past and present students and instructors at Brooks, one of the army's oldest air fields, reads like a "Who's Who" in international aviation. It includes such top-flight names as Frank Hawks, long a holder of several world speed records; Orvil A. Anderson, co-holder of the world's altitude record; Lester C. Maitland, first to conquer the Pacific by air; Charles A. Lindbergh, first to fly solo, non-stop across the Atlantic; and Stanley Umstead, chief army test pilot and flyer of the world's largest bomber.

School for Heroes

Two of the first young officers cited for heroism at Pearl Harbor, Lts. Welch and Taylor, were graduates of Brooks Field. Together, they accounted for six enemy planes during the infamous attack of Dec. 7, 1941.

Under Col. Smith, Brooks Field operates both the Advanced Flying School, where Aviation Cadets receive the final polish to their student training and are awarded commissions upon graduation, and the army's only Advanced Observation Flying School, where selected officers of the various ground units are trained as aerial observers.

'41 Prom Head Among First Graduates of Foster Field

Foster Field, Texas; Feb. 23 — John J. Parson, Villanova, ex-'42, a member of the first class of Aviation Cadets to be graduated from this field, was awarded his silver wings last Friday designating him as a second lieutenant in the United States Army Air Corps.

Before leaving the School of Commerce and Finance in his third year, Parson was active in dramatics and served his class as chairman of the Junior Prom. The prom marked the first time in Villanova's history that a queen was chosen to reign over the occasion.

Ending the primary phase of his thirty-week course on Oct. 1, 1941, Parson had completed ten weeks of intensive flying training at civilian operated elementary schools where he mastered the fundamentals of flying in rugged, low-powered airplanes.

Moving on to Randolph Field, he added 70 hours to his log book before graduating to Foster Field.

Although there were no formal exercises heralding the advancement of these young Americans from the ranks of fledglings to fully-trained pursuit pilots at Foster Field, the class will be dedicated to the memory of First Lieutenant Arthur L. Foster, for whom the field was named.

This dedication was part of the ceremony yesterday when a plaque was unveiled by the widow of Foster in honor of her husband, killed 17 years ago while serving the Air Corps as an instructor.

News Briefs

J. Stanley Morehouse, dean of the engineering school, who is in charge of the Engineering, Science, and Management Defense Training program, has announced the tentative schedule of the dates on which experiments in the Materials Laboratory will be performed.

This course of instructions which began last week, is held for the interested students of Villanova, who will attend the meetings every Tuesday until the week of March 31, while students from Northeast Catholic and West Catholic high schools will be present on Tuesday and Friday nights, respectively.

The instructors in charge, professors John Gallen, John Oakey, and Kenneth Moser will be assisted by six Villanova senior engineers: Arthur Koerner, Thomas Shallow, Thomas Hushen, and Edward Hagen, mechanical engineers, and Philip Malarkey and John Muench, civil engineers. Two of them will assist in the experiments each night.

For the second time this year John Deery, a sophomore arts student, won the Musical Guessing Contest conducted during the dayhop Music Seminar last Wednesday, by Dr. Edward L. Haenisch.

In repeating his winning performance, Deery correctly named both the title and the author of the selections twenty-nine out of thirty times. As a result he received the Victor Red Seal records offered as prize.

Tomorrow afternoon Dr. Haenisch will feature violin music at the seminar meeting. Some of the selections to be presented are Tschaikowsky's "Violin Concerto" and many of Fritz Kreisler's familiar melodies such as the "Old Refrain" and "Caprice Viennois."

The Freshman Debating Squad will open its current season on March 6, when they will engage the Norristown Senior High School team on the subject, "Pre-Draft Military Service," it was announced today by Rev. Robert M. Sullivan, O. S. A., moderator.

Thomas Quigley, artsman, and Carl Yeager, of the commerce school, will present Villanova's views on the question.

The date for the second debate on the frosh schedule, with St. Joseph's College, has not yet been decided upon.

The Annual Red Cross Drive, which was under the leadership of Thomas H. Doyle, Jr., a senior commerceman, closed last Friday.

Having canvassed both the residents and the day students the chairman has reported a successful compaign whose financial results are slightly over five times that collected in the drive of last year. Individual contributions and memberships made up the greater part of this sum but large memberships were purchased by the VILLANOVAN and Delta Pi Epsilon, C. & F. fraternity.

A meeting of all the students branches of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers of this area will be held at the Moore School of Electrical Engineering of the University of Pennsylvania on March 16.

The students will join with a Power Conference group from the Philadelphia section and a special problem will be solved on the Differential Analyzer.

Students from Drexel, Haverford, Pennsylvania, Princeton, Swarthmore, and Villanova will attend.

Visiting Westminister Students Voice Approval Of Local Campus

We knew there was an ominous note surrounding the two well-knit fellows striding up the chapel path. So we were not taken completely by surprise when the taller one accosted us with: "Say, fellow, can you tell us how many students are in this school?"

"About 900," was our startled reply.

Turning quickly to his companion, our questioner shouted in a triumphant tone, "See, Joe, I told you it was about the same size as ours."

The more-than-usual bewildered look on our face then brought an explanation from the visitors. Introducing themselves as Jim Edward and Joe Demoise, they said they were Westminster College students who had cut classes to follow the fortunes of their basketball team on its junket through eastern Pennsylvania and New York.

What! No Co-eds.

Obviously crestfallen upon learning that Villanova was not co-educational, they graciously accepted our offer to conduct them on a tour of the college grounds.

The first striking note of Villanova, they agreed, was its comparative isolation. Westminster, located in New Wilmington, Pa., is in the midst of a college town. Both boys are employed at college in the obviously enjoyable task of working in the girls' dining hall.

Jim, a senior business administration student, expressed his desire to get through the tour of classrooms as soon as possible. "They're all alike anyhow," he explained.

Busy Engineers

Properly impressed with the size and scope of Mendel Hall, they politely turned their heads aside when we came across a group of sophomore engineers busily playing pinochle over their drawing boards.

A visit to the machine shops brought a nod of approval from Prof. Oakey and low whistles of admiration from the two visitors. Joe said that he could well understand the school's enviable engineering record after seeing labs such as these.

Unanimous in their veto of a suggestion that we view the resident halls, both, however, requested that they be allowed to enter the chapel. And regardless of what the "Engineer" says to the contrary, they considered its Gothic architecture the most beautiful building on the campus.

Enthusiastic Sportsmen

By this time our wanderings had taken us down to the Field House, where the interests of our western Pennsylvania friends naturally centered. Joe, a varsity football end, thought the gym one of finest he had ever seen, and Jim, captain of the track and cross country teams, was awed by the bulk of the football players who were indulging in calisthenics.

A visit to the pool ended the trip because both insisted on going swimming. Properly optimistic of their team's chances before the game, they were even ready to place a few wagers. We wonder how they (and their pocketbooks) felt after "Reds" Klotz finished his work on Wednesday evening.

Students May Enter New Naval Program In V-1 Classification

A new naval training program for college students, to be known as Class V-1, was announced last week by the Navy Department.

Approximately 80,000 students between the ages of 17 and 19 will be accepted as apprentice seamen in voluntary enlistments each year. Requirements include good moral character and ability to pass the physical examinations.

Enlistees must remain in college at their own expense, taking pre-induction training on an inactive status for a period equivalent to two academic years. The pre-induction training course would include mathematics, physical training, and the physical sciences.

Any curriculum now offered by the college would be acceptable to the Navy, provided that the enlistee include the subjects listed above in his roster.

Those who apply will be officially enlisted in the Navy on an inactive status while they maintain satisfactory scholastic standards. They may, upon completion of the two-year course apply for the Naval V-5 or V-7 classification.

Interested students may be enrolled at the president's office at any time.

Eight Nominated In DPE Elections

Secretary To Be Chosen Next Week; Pins Are Selected

Nominations were held for the recently vacated post of secretary at the meeting of Delta Pi Epsilon, business school fraternity, held last Thursday, Feb. 19, in the C. & F. auditorium. Those nominated were: Robert Moore and John Jakovic, seniors; George McFadden, Joseph McEvoy, John Dudley, William Friel and James Meehan, juniors, and Edward J. Reardon, a sophomore. The elections will be held at the next meeting.

A permanently symbolic pin has been designed and selected by the fraternity. Orders for these pins are now being taken and must be accompanied by a down payment of two dollars, the balance payable upon receipt of the pin. There will be two grades available, gold filled or ten karat gold. The latter may be secured at a slightly higher price. However, the design of both pins is identical.

A proposal made at the last meeting that the fraternity's annual dinner be changed to a dinner-dance, was voted down by the members. Definite plans are now being formulated for the forthcoming dinner on April 16.

The fraternity's educational and entertainment program was inaugurated Thursday, Feb. 12 with the showing of three motion picture short subjects. John Dudley, chairman of the special feature committee stated that he was well pleased with the attendance. A similar program is being arranged for this Thursday.

Honor Rolls

Continued From Page One

Edward M. Deasy, and William F. Dunn.

Sophomores: Thomas J. Calpin, William M. Theodosia, Victor J. Borejko, Lawrence Belz, Albert Durante, Herbert L. Bansbach, George E. Giacchino, Anthony Mastrogiovanni, Phillip J. Wendel, Thomas A. Dougherty and George A. Temple.

Juniors in addition to Boyle and Donnelly: James J. Rodgers, James P. Shelley, Joseph B. Conway, Vincent Proscino, Robert P. Koob, William J. Myers, Carlos A. Martinez, George A. Baird, and Herman C. Behnke.

Seniors: Bernard J. Clarke, Robert S. Ayerle, Nicholas C. Aceto, Joseph C. Dorsey, Sidney B. Stephens, Vincent J. Gordon, Bernard E. Kelley, John J. Madison, and James J. Earley.

The freshmen in the science school who made the honor roll are: William Baer, Stanley Zeeman, Albert B. Ressick, Albert Nemez, Phillip Portz, Stephen Vassolotti, William Plum and Dominic Bontempo.

In addition to Hadfield the sophomores are: Robert De Revere, Melvin Samuels, Anthony Rossi, Horace Cutrone, Louis G. Fares, Charles Hefele, John Kovol, Louis R. Carfagno, and Wallace J. Redner.

Junior sciencemen, other than Labowski, include Adolph Borkowski, Frank Rosenberg, Joseph E. Turner, John Bongiovanni, Angelo Macchia, Mario Fornasier, George L. Weber, and George Dietz.

Seniors who made the honor roll are: Robert Boggiano, Joseph Scornavacchi, Leonard Bortin, Philip J. Mariani, Joseph C. Koch, George W. Finley, James J. Traitz, Edward Korisky, Thomas J. Lyons, Thomas F. Sheehey, Henry Rzonca, Frank Mattei, and Lawrence McStravog.

In the School of Commerce and Finance, the following seniors attained honor ratings: James McElligot, Thomas Sullivan, John Jakovic, Edward R. Frank, Anthony La Brasca, Robert Funabashi, William Hayes, Thomas H. Doyle, Robert McIntyre, Frank McKay, Raymond Seidel, Stanley J. Grigalunas, James Halpin, Louis Petruccio, Bernard Swartz.

The junior commercemen who appeared on the honor roll were: Wm. Walpole, George McFadden, Ward Guncheon, Jas. Meehan.

Sophomore honormen in the commerce school include: Harvey Satenstein, Vincent Bradley, Robert Young, William Walsh, John Bambrick, Edward J. Reardon, Charles Boyd, Richard Ryan, and Herbert Sentner.

Freshhman commercemen on the honor roll are: Edward Fanelli, William Golden, James Callahan, Hugh Burns, Thomas Eadon, John A. Reddy, William D. Kelly, Lawrence Sullivan, John P. Brennan, Francis Bassler, Francis O'Neill, Edward Reilly, and Richard Somers.

VILLANOVAN SPORTS

Tuesday, February 24, 1942 Page 5

'Cats Reach Peak In Beating Titan, St. Bonnie Fives

Team Hits New High as Klotz and Wood Lead Courtmen to Two Shining Victories

By BILL WALSH

Finally playing the basketball of which they have been capable all season, the Villanova Wildcats won two important games last week; one, a smashing 47-42 victory over the powerful Westminister Titans, and the other, a rather lopsided win over St. Bonaventure, 58-38. The latter was the Wildcats fourth consecutive triumph, and brings their number of victories to twelve.

Riding on the crest of a stunning upset over the Duquesne quintet the week before, the Severancemen were unstoppable last Wednesday night as Captain Dick Gray and his cohorts put on the greatest exhibition of team play against the Titans that has been seen in the Field House this season.

Westminister Leads at Half

For the Titans, last year's Pennsylvania State Champions, and participants in the National Invitation Tournament in New York, this defeat was the fifth of the current season and the sixth in two years. Their record last year was 20 won and 1 lost.

Westminister went into the lead a few minutes after the opening whistle and were still ahead at half time, 42-21. In the middle of the second half, however, the 'Cats jumped into the lead as successive field goals by Bob Kelty, Red Klotz, and Capt. Gray put Villanova ahead, 35-32. From that point on, the Wildcats never relinquished their lead, as Klotz, Wood, and Kelty, kept hitting the cords with regularity. The Titans were behind, 47-40, with but half a minute to play, this being the largest lead of either team throughout the game, but a last minute layup shot by "Buzz" Ridl, gave them their final total of forty-two points.

Klotz, High Scorer

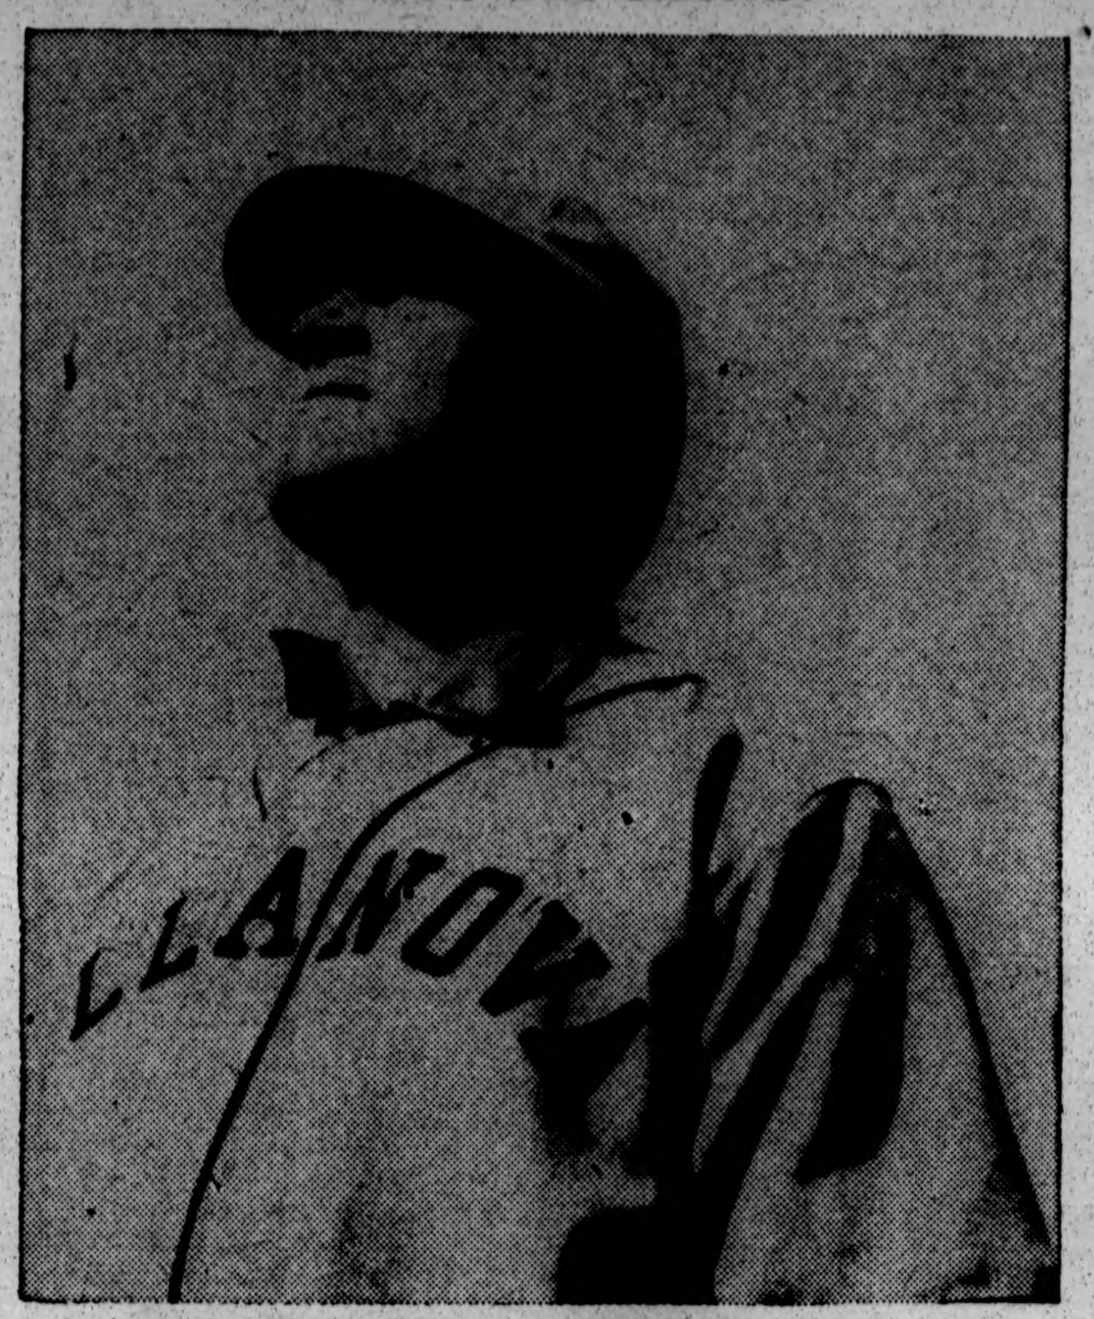
Klotz was high scorer for Villanova with seven field goals for a total of fourteen points, followed by Wood, Gray, and Kelty, with nine, eight, and seven points, respectively. Dale Dunmire, the plugging left guard of the Titans was high for his team with twelve markers, while Ridl was next with nine.

Compared to the Westminister game, Friday night's contest with St. Bonaventure was a walkaway from start to finish. The Wildcats played good, steady basketball, while the Bonnies couldn't seem to get their attack working. Villanova led at halftime, 35-20, and were never headed throughout the last half as they increased their margin of victory to twenty points by the end of the game.

It was a dull contest to watch as compared with the Westminister and Duquesne games, but it did further prove that the Wildcats have finally hit their stride, even

ST. BONAVENTURE
Continued on Page Seven

Where's The Infield?



COACH DOC JACOBS . . . going to be a tough year.

SPORTORIAL

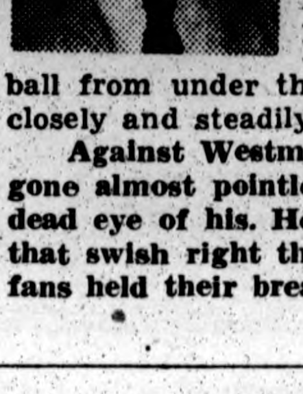
By JACQUES MAUCH, Sports Editor

CONGRATULATIONS of the week go to Coach Al Severance and his fighting Wildcat courtmen. And we do mean fighting. The boys finally attained the heights last week to which the Villanova fans have been waiting for them to ascend all season.

Through most of the season they have played erratic basketball. They have been like the little girl with the little curl of Mother Goose rhymes. When they were good, they were very good. But when they were bad they were lousy!

However, they hit their stride against Duquesne's "Iron Dukes" two weeks ago and kept right on riding last week to tumble Westminister's crack five and St. Bonaventure. Many thought the Duquesne win was a startling upset, but the basketeers' following victories proved it was no fluke.

Al's boys didn't have any Spector or Rapella either. They didn't need any. Bob Kelty, Fred Gerland, and Joe Lord took care of the backboard duties and did a fine job. Half the time they didn't have any worries about getting possession of the leather. When they were in their own court the sharpshooters, Wood, Klotz, and Kelty made sure there would be no need of recovery by sinking the sphere with deadly aim.



When they were on the defensive they tagged their men and went after the ball with such fight that the opposition couldn't buy a shot from in close. Witness the action of Bill Wood who plays half of every ball game on the floor. Don't think he's loafing. He's fighting for possession of that ball. And Captain Dick Grey, the smooth little ball handler, now that his leg is healed is up to his old tricks stealing the ball from under the noses of his opponents and dogging his man so closely and steadily that the man's shadow begins to bother him.

Against Westminster the boys were really on. Red Klotz, who had gone almost pointless for a half dozen games finally got back the old dead eye of his. He sunk so many long shots, those high floating ones that swish right through the cords without touching the rim, that the fans held their breath every time he got the ball past the center court.

Continued on Page Seven

Baseball Team Begins Seventy-Third Season

Outlook Gloomy For Coach Jacobs, Who Is Missing Entire Infield And Two Pitchers; Yednock Hampered By Duties

The thud of ball in mitt and the smack of a glove signified to those around the gym Monday that another season of the nation's favorite pasttime was about to get underway, Villanova's seventy-third. For Doc Jacobs and his hopefuls have begun their spring baseball training for a schedule which would give any coach a headache, but the Doc is afflicted with a special type of cranial disturbance. His great club of last year with a team batting average of well over three hundred, and an equally good fielding average has been shattered completely by both graduation and Uncle Sam.

Dan Casey, one of the greatest outfielders ever to matriculate at Villanova is now in the army; Jack Donohue, last year's Captain and first baseman, received his degree and is now located in Massachussetts; while Tony Calandra and Woody Reitmeier, that great keystone combination, will be wearing the brown of the U. S. this spring instead of the blue and white of Villanova.

Two Sophomore Pitchers

In the outer garden, besides Casey, the loss of George Balmore, a great ball hawk, will surely be felt this year. But this is not all. Al Postus who was to take over at short this year has not returned to school for the second semester, while George Bontaites, another promising Sophomore, may be called to the army soon.

The only veterans who will be eligible for action this year are Bill Wood and Joe Yednock. Wood, who is a Junior, has one of the best fast balls in collegiate circles and he is counted on to carry the brunt of the pitching staff this year. The only other experienced men on the staff are Bill Howlett and Frank Chapler and both are expected to see a lot of action this year. They will be aided in no little fashion by sophomores "Jigger" Donohue and "Major" McDonnell. Donohue possesses an exceptional fast ball while the Major has more tricks than Mandrake the Magician.

"Will Be Fighting"

The probability of Yednock's playing is very slight, because at present he cannot find time to get away from his practice teaching, which is taking up most of his afternoons. This vacancy at the hot corner will be no easy job to fill. For the past two years Joe has been steadily improving, so much so that he was considered by many of the experts last year to be the best third sacker in Pennsylvania if not in the east.

When Mr. Jacobs was questioned concerning the prospects for the coming season, he smiled and said, "Our prospects for the coming year are a big question mark, but according to the best traditions of

BASEBALL
Continued on Page Six

Gridmen Initiate Spring Practice With Indoor Work

While they wait for the high winds whistling across the stadium to quiet down, varsity and freshmen football candidates are working out daily in the Fieldhouse.

It will be about two weeks before the gridders will take to the outside. In the meantime, they will be confined to calisthenics to loosen up muscles inactive since last fall. Bodily contact will be avoided while the squad is inside.

Absent from the drills these days are Paul Stenn, Ed Korisky, Ed Kasky, Tony Anderson, Johnny Nieman and Elk Murray, senior linemen, and Joe Behot, Bill Howlett, Tom Morgan and Joe Yednock, backs who hunk up their suits for the last time at the end of the 1941 season.

Offense Stressed

Offense will be stressed in the ensuing drills. Last year the team did not seem to take to the T-formation. Once more Coach Smith will attempt to incorporate some of these plays into the Wildcat attack. By the time the squad hits the open air the different teams should be able to run some of these plays against each other.

The new ruling permitting the participation of Freshmen in varsity sports should have a pleasant effect on the Clipper. There will be the possibility that, difficulties which confront the mentor now, may be relieved by new men in the fall.

Several members of the team are liable to be inducted into the army between now and the fall. Most of them have registered by now and chances of deferment will be small. Despite the desire to play football for Villanova, there will probably be no complaints from the gridders if confronted with the obligation of military service.

Line replacements will be the biggest problem for Smith. Kasky, Korisky, Stenn, and Anderson needed little rest last year. Their graduation will demand that some capable players be developed to fill their places for next season.

As the backfield stands now, it should be a smooth working unit in the fall. In addition to the hold-over ball carriers, last year's frosh and the incoming first-year men will be on hand for lots of service.

However, a kicker must be developed to replace Joe Yednock, whose booming punts kept the opponents back on their heels all last season. The Clipper could also use a couple of passers. So there will be plenty of work ahead for the backfield men.

St. Francis, Seton Hall Tie For Swim Honors

Seton Hall's well balanced mermen were forced to set a new record in the 200 yard freestyle relay to garner themselves a tie with the Borus coached team of St. Francis Prep, of Brooklyn, Saturday in the Villanova Interscholastics. Both teams ended up with a total of 36 points. This was the first time in the history of the meet, which goes back ten years, that there has been a tie for top honors.

Northeast Catholic finished nine points behind the leader to nose out St. Joseph's for third place by three points. The order of the other teams was Bishop Loughlin, Brooklyn Prep, La Salle, St. Thomas More, and West Catholic.

St. Francis, although taking only one first place to Seton Hall's three managed to pile up enough points in second and thirds to merit their tie.

Verdeur, Geisz Set Marks

Ed Geisz in winning the 100 yard breaststroke in 1:07.8, set a new meet and pool record, erasing his own mark of last year. Joe Verdeur, teammate of Geisz, broke the record in the 220 yard freestyle when he finished in 2:25.2, two full seconds better than the record set by Jim Kelly, in 1940.

Gene McFarland, St. Joseph Prep's diver par excellence, continued on his undefeated ways when he piled up 65.16 points to cop the 1942 interscholastic crown. Leo Kowski and Fred Thaens of Seton Hall, picked off the 50 yard freestyle and the 100 yard breaststroke respectively. They joined Bob Milan and Henry Stricker, who won the 100 yard freestyle, to set the new record in the 200 yard freestyle of 1:43.4. Thaens time of 1:06.8 in the 100 yard backstroke equals that of his teammate Frank Montprode set last year.

Frannies Win Medley

St. Francis Prep gained only one first place throughout the afternoon, that in the 150 yard medley relay. The trio of Joe Winter, Jim Monahan, and Ken Kerrick finished far ahead in the time of 1:33.7. The ten points garnered as a result of this win helped immeasurably in the final tabulations. Seton Hall failed to enter a medley team.

St. Francis one time power in this annual meet has regained its place at the top. Last year Seton Hall ended their four year reign.

Runners Second In Record Event

Running almost to perfection the great Villanova mile relay team was beaten by a still greater quartet of thinclads from Colgate University last Saturday night in the famed New York A. C. games in the new record time of 3:20.4. The Colgate team was anchored by the great Al Diebolt who earlier in the evening ran to a new world's record in the Buermeyer 500 when he stepped that distance in 57.1 seconds.

New College Record

The Wildcat foursome of George Guida, Dixie Dunbar, Bob O'Sullivan and sprint ace John DiCarlo were clocked in the official time of 3.20.9 which goes into the books as a new school record. This is the fastest time that has ever been turned in by a Villanova mile relay team indoor or out of doors.

Next week Coach Jim Elliott will take his charges back to the Garden where they will run in the National A. A. U. Championships. They will run against the leading mile relay teams of the country. The Wildcat four will bump up against Fordham, Georgetown, New York University, St. John's, Colgate, Holy Cross, New York A. C. and Notre Dame.

Frosh Beat All-Stars; Lose To Mendel Champs

Mendel Day Hops holders of the first half intramural basketball title pulled a surprise victory over the college Freshman squad, Friday night, with a 29-25 score.

The Day Hops coached by Father Sullivan took an early lead and maintained at least a two point margin throughout the entire game. The half time score was 16-10 for the Day Hops.

Gianquillio and Amicone led the Mendel boys with a total of 16 points between them. Gianquillio, who usually plays with the Frosh, accounted for ten and Amicone sunk four fouls and a field goal for six points.

All-Stars Beaten

Coach Al Severance was forced to leave his Freshman Club before the completion of the game, turning them over to John Cerulo and Joe Daley who, despite their ardent coaching were unable to give the youngsters the winning spark.

The feat performed by Father Sullivan's club was a complete surprise to everyone. It contradicted all mathematical principles and made a part greater than the whole for on Wednesday evening an All-Star team chosen from the entire Intramural roster suffered a bad defeat at the hands of the Freshman Club, 35-24.

Size of Court Big Factor

The All-Stars though leading in the early stages of the contest were quickly overpowered by the better trained Frosh and were unable to cope with their fine floor work and sharp-shooting. Despite frequent substitutions on the part of Father Dunne, coach of the All-Star outfit, the Intramural men seemed to tire quickly and were easily evaded by the finely conditioned Frosh. The size of the court was the big factor in their defeat for most of the Intramural practice was gained in the smaller gym of Alumni Hall.

Several of the Freshman regulars had spent the afternoon in a strenuous practice with the football squad but this had small effect on their scoring power. Lew Centanni one of these men, dropped in nine points and Bill La France came through with seven. Bill Duffy, scored eight.

This scoring combined with the close guarding which held such Intramural stars as John McFadden scoreless and Duke King to five points made it impossible for the All-Stars to gain any advantage.

Swimmers Break Losing Streak By Dunking Delaware

The hard-luck swimmers of Villanova broke their losing streak last Tuesday afternoon and left no doubt in anyone's mind that they didn't deserve victory. They submerged the University of Delaware mermen by the sumptuous 51-24 score.

Previous to this, the Wildcats had lost four meets in the last event, the freestyle relay. But Tuesday they assured themselves of victory before this event, due chiefly to the brilliant efforts of co-captain Bob Koness and Ed Riley who completely dominated the freestyle races. Koness took the 50 and 100 sprints and anchored the 400 yard relay to victory, while Riley won the 220 and 440 yard distance events. It was Riley's fourth victory of the season in the latter race.

Delaware took two first places, winning the breaststroke and backstroke races. The visitors' Ted Weldon swam a beautiful race to upset the Wildcats' Frank Desmond in the 200 yard breaststroke in 2.41.5. This was record time for a Delaware University swimmer. Weldon's strong orthodox stroke pulled him ahead of Desmond on the last length and brought him victory.

Tomorrow afternoon the swimmers meet the University of Pennsylvania mermen at Hutchinson pool. The Red and Blue are much stronger this year than they were last season due chiefly to the return of Ed Heuber, phenomenal freestyler. Heuber, cousin of Walt Kelley, former Wildcat star, has surprised everyone with his rapid rise to the top of the swimming ladder of the Eastern Intercollegiate League.

Coach Tom Moore and his boys will have more trouble than they did last year when they were nosed out 39-36 in a meet they should have won.

Baseball

Continued From Page Five

Villanova we will be in there fighting."

Will Use Frosh

It is true that Doc is limited by the lack of experienced material but along with Roy Simonsen and Mike Kupecki, who played a great deal of ball in the outfield last year, he has a number of sophomores coming up this year who have enormous potentialities. Besides, with the new freshman rule going into effect after the first of March, he may use any first year man that he may choose.

As soon as weather permits, Doc expects to take his squad outdoors where the battle for positions promises to be an exciting preliminary to a campaign against several of the major college teams in the east. The main objective this year is Temple who spoiled an otherwise perfect season last year by handing the 'Cats two defeats.

But that is looking too far ahead. Right now the Doc is interested mainly in taking the kinks out of the boys and loosening them up. This is especially true of the pitchers who are going to have plenty of work to do during the coming campaign.

The Cream Of The Intramural Crop

Pictured above are the members of this year's All-Intramural Team chosen last week by the moderators of the clubs. Across the top are Jim Meehan, C&F Day Hop forward, Carmen Graziano, Mendel Day Hop forward, and Charlie LaBelle, guard representing Alumni Hall. Across the bottom are Joe Daly, guard from Austin Hall, Bob Moore, Fed'gan Hall, who won the center post, and Jim Buxeda, from C&F, forward. All were unanimous choices of the judges.

C&F Places Two Men On All-Intramural Team

Six men were chosen in the final voting last week for the All-Intramural basketball team. Although five men make up a team and usually only five men are picked on the first team, this year these six men were so close together that no one could be left off the first team in deference to the others.

All were unanimous choices of the six judges, the moderators of the various teams: Fathers McKee, Dunne, Sullivan, McCarthy, Boyle, and O'Donnell. The choices were made chiefly on the basis of consistentcy for games played and the team play of each individual.

The Commerce and Finance Day Hops led in placing two men on the first team. Diminutive Jim Meehan, C. & F. sparkplug, was selected for the second straight year. Two years ago he was placed on the second team. Meehan, the leading scorer in the league, and Jim Buxeda, the other All-Star choice were practically the whole team of the Businessmen. Meehan is fast and tricky while Buxeda plays a steady, driving game.

Moore at Center

The other forward is the powerful Italian youth, Carmen Graziano, from the first-half championship team, the Mendel Day Hops. Graziano is the outstanding shot of the entire league, and he deserves a lion's share of the credit in keeping his team at the top of the ladder.

The center post went to Fedigan's rough and rangy Bob Moore. The big blond pivotman did excellent work around the backboard. It was his play more than anything else that kept a weak and dispirited Fedigan team together the whole season.

Six on Second Team, Too

Senior Joe Daly from Austin Hall and Freshman Charlie LaBelle were voted the guard positions. Daly was a fine pivotman and had a good eye when he was in close. LaBelle, Alumni's flash, was one of the classiest ball handlers in the league and led the Greenies to several upset victories over seemingly superior foes.

Alumni Hall and the Mendel Day Hops won two places each on the second team. Alumni's big center Charles Bradburn was given the vote along with Dick Breen, the Greenie forward. The hard-playing Nick Sachetti and little Ray Amicone, Mendel's protectors of the back court, recevied the guard posts. Simons of Mendel residents and Hefele of Austin took the other places.

Competition for places on the second team was very close and it was only after careful deliberation of the judges that the positions were awarded.

First Team

Charles LaBelle	Alumni
Joe Daly	Austin
Carmen Graziano	Mendel D. H.
Jim Meehan	C. & F. D. H.
Jim Buxeda	C. & F. D. H.
Bob Moore	Fedigan

Day Hops Regain League Lead By Double Victory

By TOM McFARLAND

The intramural basketball scramble became more involved than ever when the results of last week's games were contrasted with the records. At the beginning of the week, Alumni's basketeers were tied for first place with the Day Hops from Mendel; C. & F. and Austin were deadlocked in second place. The games of this week did little to alleviate the situation.

On Tuesday night, Coach Al Severance guest-refereed the Austin-Alumni match, and found it was a gargantuan task. The Green Wave from Alumni, sparked by the superb ball handling and hawk-eye stabs of Charlie LaBelle, battled with Austin's excellent team play in a constant effort to take the lead and hold it. Scoring was almost alternate, as first the one, and then the other team pulled out in front. Severance benched half of the participants for personal fouling, and it was with great difficulty that Austin, working half a team, gained a 34-42 victory in the closing moments of the game.

Mendel Wins Again

The same day saw Owens of the Mendel Resident aggregation spur his team in an almost hopeless attempt to beat the Day Hops from the same hall. The soiree ended in victory for the Hoppers, 42-43. Fedigan and C. & F. fought it out in the daylight game, and C. & F. were five points better at the end, leading 44-39.

Thursday's games were as hard-fought and qually vicious. The Mendel Commuters dragged Fedigan at the bottom end of a 30-24 score, with Callahan holding the ball more often than anyone. Austin Hall dished up a distasteful 47-25 defeat to the Mendel "Sleepers." Austin's star of the day was Mazonowski, who led his team with a personal score of 9 points.

C. & F. Wins

The night game between C. & F. and Alumni proved to be one of the finest games of the year. The scoreboard was active, and the running score look like the "two-times" table. The running score went something like this: 2-0, 2-2, 4-2, 4-4, 6-4, 6-6, 6-8, 8-8, etc. At half time, C. & F. led 12-18. During the game, the best brand of basketball being played was embodied in the personal gyrations of Dwyer, of the Financeers. He led the scoring with 8 points. Alumni's LaBelle and Fitten garnered 4 apiece. The gun sounded when C. & F. led 36-34.

Mendel Regains Lead

While these six games did much to complicate the record, they at least broke up the double deadlock of the previous week, and brought the first two teams out in single file. At present, Mendel Day Hops are in the number one position, having won 7 and lost only two, to attain an average of .777. Austin holds down the second slot with six wins and three losses, making for an average of .625.

DOLLY MADISON ICE CREAM
"Deliciously Different"
Choice of Villanovan's
PHILA. DAIRY PRODUCTS CO.
4th & Poplar Sts., Phila., Pa.

We Get 'Em!

When you send us your clothes you get them back with every little spot and soil removed. Our careful service and economy prices mean that you can build a really "New" looking wardrobe from your present clothes.

SUN

HERE AND THERE

By JACK DUDLEY

AMONG our closer acquaintances on the campus were those two scribes, Fred Clark, ex-'42, and Sam Canning, ex-'43. Fred brought this column to VILLANOVAN readers for a year prior to his retirement last month. He made it a point never to cross anyone in his writings. So fastidious was Fred in this matter that he didn't even pick the Dodgers to win the pennant last year. For someone who spent most of his life in Brooklyn, that was really stretching a point.

In appreciation of two-and-a-half years of consistently good reporting, Sam Canning was awarded to fill the vacancy left by the retirement of Clark. That appointment added to the list of offices that the genial Sam held on the campus.

Today, these two young men are on their way to join the armed forces of our country. God speed you, fellows; here's hoping that when it's all over we'll see you back in Fedigan!

—V—

Worry of the week in the major league front offices is the apparent lack of capable first-basemen. The Boston Braves reported that they are taking four candidates for that position South next month. None of these four were first-basemen last year. The Braves can blame nobody but themselves for this predicament. Five years ago they won themselves a fellow by the name of Elby Fletcher in a popularity contest. That is to say Elby won first prize which entitled him to a trip to the Brave's Training Camp. The Braves liked him well enough to farm him out for a year. Elby came back the next year, clinched the first base job, and the Braves were set.

Gain for Pirates

Two years later, Fletcher was one of the most sought-after young stars in the league. The Braves had offers from every team in the league with the exception of the Phillies. Doc Prothro had seen Elby once and was not impressed. (Doc is back in Little Rock now.) The best offer came from Pittsburgh. The Pirates were willing to lay the cash on the line to get a replacement for the aging Gus Suhr. Elby has shown constant improvement since his transfer to the Pirates. Handy with the stick, a fine fielder, Fletcher is an important part of Pittsburgh's plan for the coming campaign.

But the Braves have no first baseman. Buddy Hassett, obtained from the Dodgers after they had decided Dolf Camilli on First was better than Sixty Thousand in the in the bank, couldn't hit. Babe Dahllgren, tops as a fielder and a dangerous hitter, when he connected, was found wanting and shipped off to join the many firstsackers who now grace the roster of the Chicago Cubs. None will ever know why Fletcher was sold by the Braves, but we'll bet they will spend twice the amount they received for him looking for someone half as good.

Trosky Retires

The Cleveland Indians announced the retirement of Hal Trosky. Hal spent the last nine years holding down the initial sack for the Indians. Headaches forced him to the sidelines last year. A long period of rest has not improved this condition so the big Westerner has decided to call it quits for the coming year, anyway. One possible explanation for the cranial disturbances is that nine years with the tempestuous Tribe is enough to give the strongest man headaches. We think a change of scenery for Hal would bring a change in his condition.

Siebert Worth More

The most laughable plight is the headache Connie Mack has dreamed himself up. Connie, it seems, has no first baseman, either. Dick Siebert, who would bring a fancy price from any club in the league, held down that spot for the A's last year and turned in a grand job. Dick recently placed "among his souvenirs" an unsigned contract calling for about the same salary any other club would offer a second year man who had gotten off to a good start in his first season.

Now with about six other major league teams willing to pay fifty thousand dollars for a good first baseman, we have a suggestion for Mr. Mack, humble though it might be. For something like an extra five thousand dollars you can land a first sacker who will bring enjoyment to your afternoons this season. In other words, pay Dick Siebert what he deserves.

St. Bonaventure

Continued From Page Five

though it is a little late in the season.

Offensive Peak

The offensive play of the team as a whole, which has not been too steady throughout the season, reached its peak in the game with the Bonnies. The Wildcats amassed a total of 58 points, their high for the year. Red Klotz and Bill Wood garnered sixteen points apiece to lead the scoring parade. Joe Lord, was third highest with eleven points, although he only played a little over half the game.

The St. Bonaventure tussle was the final home-game of the season for the Wildcats. Their record at home is ten victories as against one defeat. Their only loss in the Field House was suffered at the hands of St. Francis College of Brooklyn in the second game of the year, 44-42.

Bill Wood, the consistent scoring threat of the Villanova quintet, brought his total to 212 points by scoring twenty-five last week. By so doing he maintained his lead as leading scorer in the Philadelphia district.

HART & HALL, Inc.
Insurance
825 LANCASTER AVE.
Bryn Mawr, Pa.

KEEP SUPPLIED WITH
SCHOOL TICKETS
GOOD ON BUSES AND RAIL CARS UNTIL USED
5c a Ride, Including Special Free Transfers. Obtain Identification Cards at School Office.
RED ARROW LINES
Philadelphia Suburban Transportation Co.
Aronimink Transportation Co.

Boxing Hopefuls Receive Training From Tom Pollock

The biggest single event on the Intramural Sports Card, the Annual Boxing Tournament, will take place in two weeks at the field house where each year the spectators are treated to one of the finest purely amateur shows ever assembled.

This year the moderators, Frs. McKee and Dunne, are trying to make the Ninth Annual affair better than ever and request the boys to bring their fathers along to witness the slugfest. So, fellows, drag dad away from his easy chair and evening newspaper, and bring him out to a real, honest-to-goodness fight, the kind he used to see in the old days.

In charge of training the candidates this year is Tommy Pollock, sophomore transfer student from Niagara University. Pollock is quite experienced in the manly art; last year he boxed for Niagara's varsity and won the Dominion 165 pound intercollegiate championship at Toronto, Canada. Previously he gleaned plenty of experience as an amateur about Brooklyn, his home. And if you can hold your own in the Brooklyn circuit, pal, you're all right. Tommy will probably box in an exhibition in the Tournament if suitable competition can be found.

A ring has been set up in the upstairs dressing room of the gym and anyone who wishes to participate may go down any day between 2:30 and 5 P. M. and work out. Pollock is there all the time and will give any assistance necessary. He urges those who hope to enter not to wait until the final week to get in shape. Start now! A sport like boxing takes plenty of preparation and long practice

The biggest response for the bouts has been from the freshmen. About two thirds of the dozen or so fellows working out daily are frosh. What's wrong with the upperclassmen? Get down there fellows and get to work. Make this Boxing Show one of the best for the student spectators and their dads.

CONESTOGA
★ ★ ★ MILL
County Line & Conestoga Rd.
Bryn Mawr
FULL COURSE DINNERS
DANCING
Every Evening

Coleby Tailoring Inc.
57th & MARKET STS.
Suits & Topcoats
$27.75
See Steve Aisenbrey
110 Fedigan Hall

KEEP THAT LEFT JABBING. Tommy Pollock, in charge of instruction for the Annual Intramural Boxing Tournament explains a few of the tricks to Bill Fenton, who hopes to employ them on his opponent in a couple weeks. Instructions are held every day from 3 to 5 P. M.

Sportorial

Continued From Page Five

Kelty was making his from the corner, his old spot and Wood mixed his up. He looked particularly good on a couple breaks down the center and scored on several nice passes.

But the outstanding factor in the Wildcats' victories was not the fine shooting . . . not the tricky ball handling . . . not even the stubborn fighting for the ball . . . it was the team play. The team played as a team. They played together and worked as a unit, the classiest, fightingest unit seen on the hardwood of the Field House this season.

Al Severance has finally got himself a team, not a ball club, but a team. He's had a ball club all season. Although it is a little late in the year for them to accomplish much, they still can win their last three games and salvage a good portion of a mediocre season. And we think they can and will do it.

Maybe Al's column in this paper a few weeks back had something to do with it. Who knows?

Another vote of congratulations goes to the cheer leaders who made an appearance at the last two games. Why didn't someone think of the idea before? The football team isn't the only team that needs the student body behind it. Any club can use a bit of the old college spirit to urge it on.

However, we were quite put out at the student response to the cheer leaders exhortations. Many of the students did not join in and most of the cheers sounded pretty weak. It's too late to do anything about it now. But what do you say fellows, how about getting behind the rest of the athletic teams and giving them a lift with your cheers?

On The Local Screens

ARDMORE THEATRE
Tuesday & Wednesday
Priscilla Lane - Betty Field
— in —
"BLUES IN THE NIGHT"
Thursday to Sunday
Bette Davis - Ann Sheridan
— in —
"THE MAN WHO CAME TO DINNER"

Direction Warner Bros.
TOWER
69th & MARKET STS.
Buy Defense Bonds and Stamps
Tues., Wed. & Thurs.
Feb. 24, 25, 26
MICKEY ROONEY
JUDY GARLAND
— in —
"BABES ON BROADWAY"
Songs! Dances! Music
Fri., Sat., Sun. & Mon.
Feb. 27, 28 - March 1, 2
ROBERT TAYLOR
LANA TURNER
— in —
The Surprise Hit of the Year
"JOHNNY EAGER"

SUBURBAN
THEATRE ARDMORE
Tuesday & Wednesday
"MR. & MRS. NORTH"
Friday & Saturday
Don Ameche - Joan Bennett in
"CONFIRM OR DENY"

ANTHONY WAYNE
THEATRE WAYNE
Tuesday & Wednesday
Greta Garbo - Melvyn Douglas in
"TWO FACED WOMAN"
Thursday & Friday
Charles Boyer - Margaret Sullavan
in "APPOINTMENT FOR LOVE"
Saturday
Shirley Temple in
"KATHLEEN"

SEVILLE
THEATRE BRYN MAWR
Tuesday & Wednesday
"APPOINTMENT FOR LOVE"
Thursday & Friday
"REMEMBER THE DAY" with
Claudette Colbert - John Payne
Saturday
"SWAMP WATER"

RIDE FREE ON P. & W.
RAILWAY MOVIE TICKETS
NORRIS
NORRISTOWN
Today, Wednesday & Thursday
"TARZAN'S SECRET TREASURE" with
Johnny Wiesmuller
Maureen O'Sullivan
John Sheffield
Friday & Saturday
"THE CORSICAN BROTHERS"
with Douglas Fairbanks, Jr.

GRAND
NORRISTOWN
Wednesday & Thursday
Jane Withers in
"YOUNG AMERICA"
and "SEALED LIPS"
with William Gargan
Friday and Saturday
"LOOK WHO'S LAUGHING"
with
Edgar Bergen - Charles McCarthy
Fibber McGee & Molly

Meet Your Friends
AT THE GREEKS
We Serve Lunches
Superior Soda Service
Delicious Dinners

Swimmers Break Losing Streak By Dunking Delaware

The hard-luck swimmers of Villanova broke their losing streak last Tuesday afternoon and left no doubt in anyone's mind that they didn't deserve victory. They submerged the University of Delaware mermen by the sumptuous 51-24 score.

Previous to this, the Wildcats had lost four meets in the last event, the freestyle relay. But Tuesday they assured themselves of victory before this event, due chiefly to the brilliant efforts of co-captain Bob Koness and Ed Riley who completely dominated the freestyle races. Koness took the 50 and 100 sprints and anchored the 400 yard relay to victory, while Riley won the 220 and 440 yard distance events. It was Riley's fourth victory of the season in the latter race.

Delaware took two first places, winning the breaststroke and backstroke races. The visitors' Ted Weldon swam a beautiful race to upset the Wildcats' Frank Desmond in the 200 yard breaststroke in 2.41.5. This was record time for a Delaware University swimmer. Weldon's strong orthodox stroke pulled him ahead of Desmond on the last length and brought him victory.

Tomorrow afternoon the swimmers meet the University of Pennsylvania mermen at Hutchinson pool. The Red and Blue are much stronger this year than they were last season due chiefly to the return of Ed Heuber, phenomenal freestyler. Heuber, cousin of Walt Kelley, former Wildcat star, has surprised everyone with his rapid rise to the top of the swimming ladder of the Eastern Intercollegiate League.

Coach Tom Moore and his boys will have more trouble than they did last year when they were nosed out 39-36 in a meet they should have won.

Baseball

Continued From Page Five

Villanova we will be in there fighting."

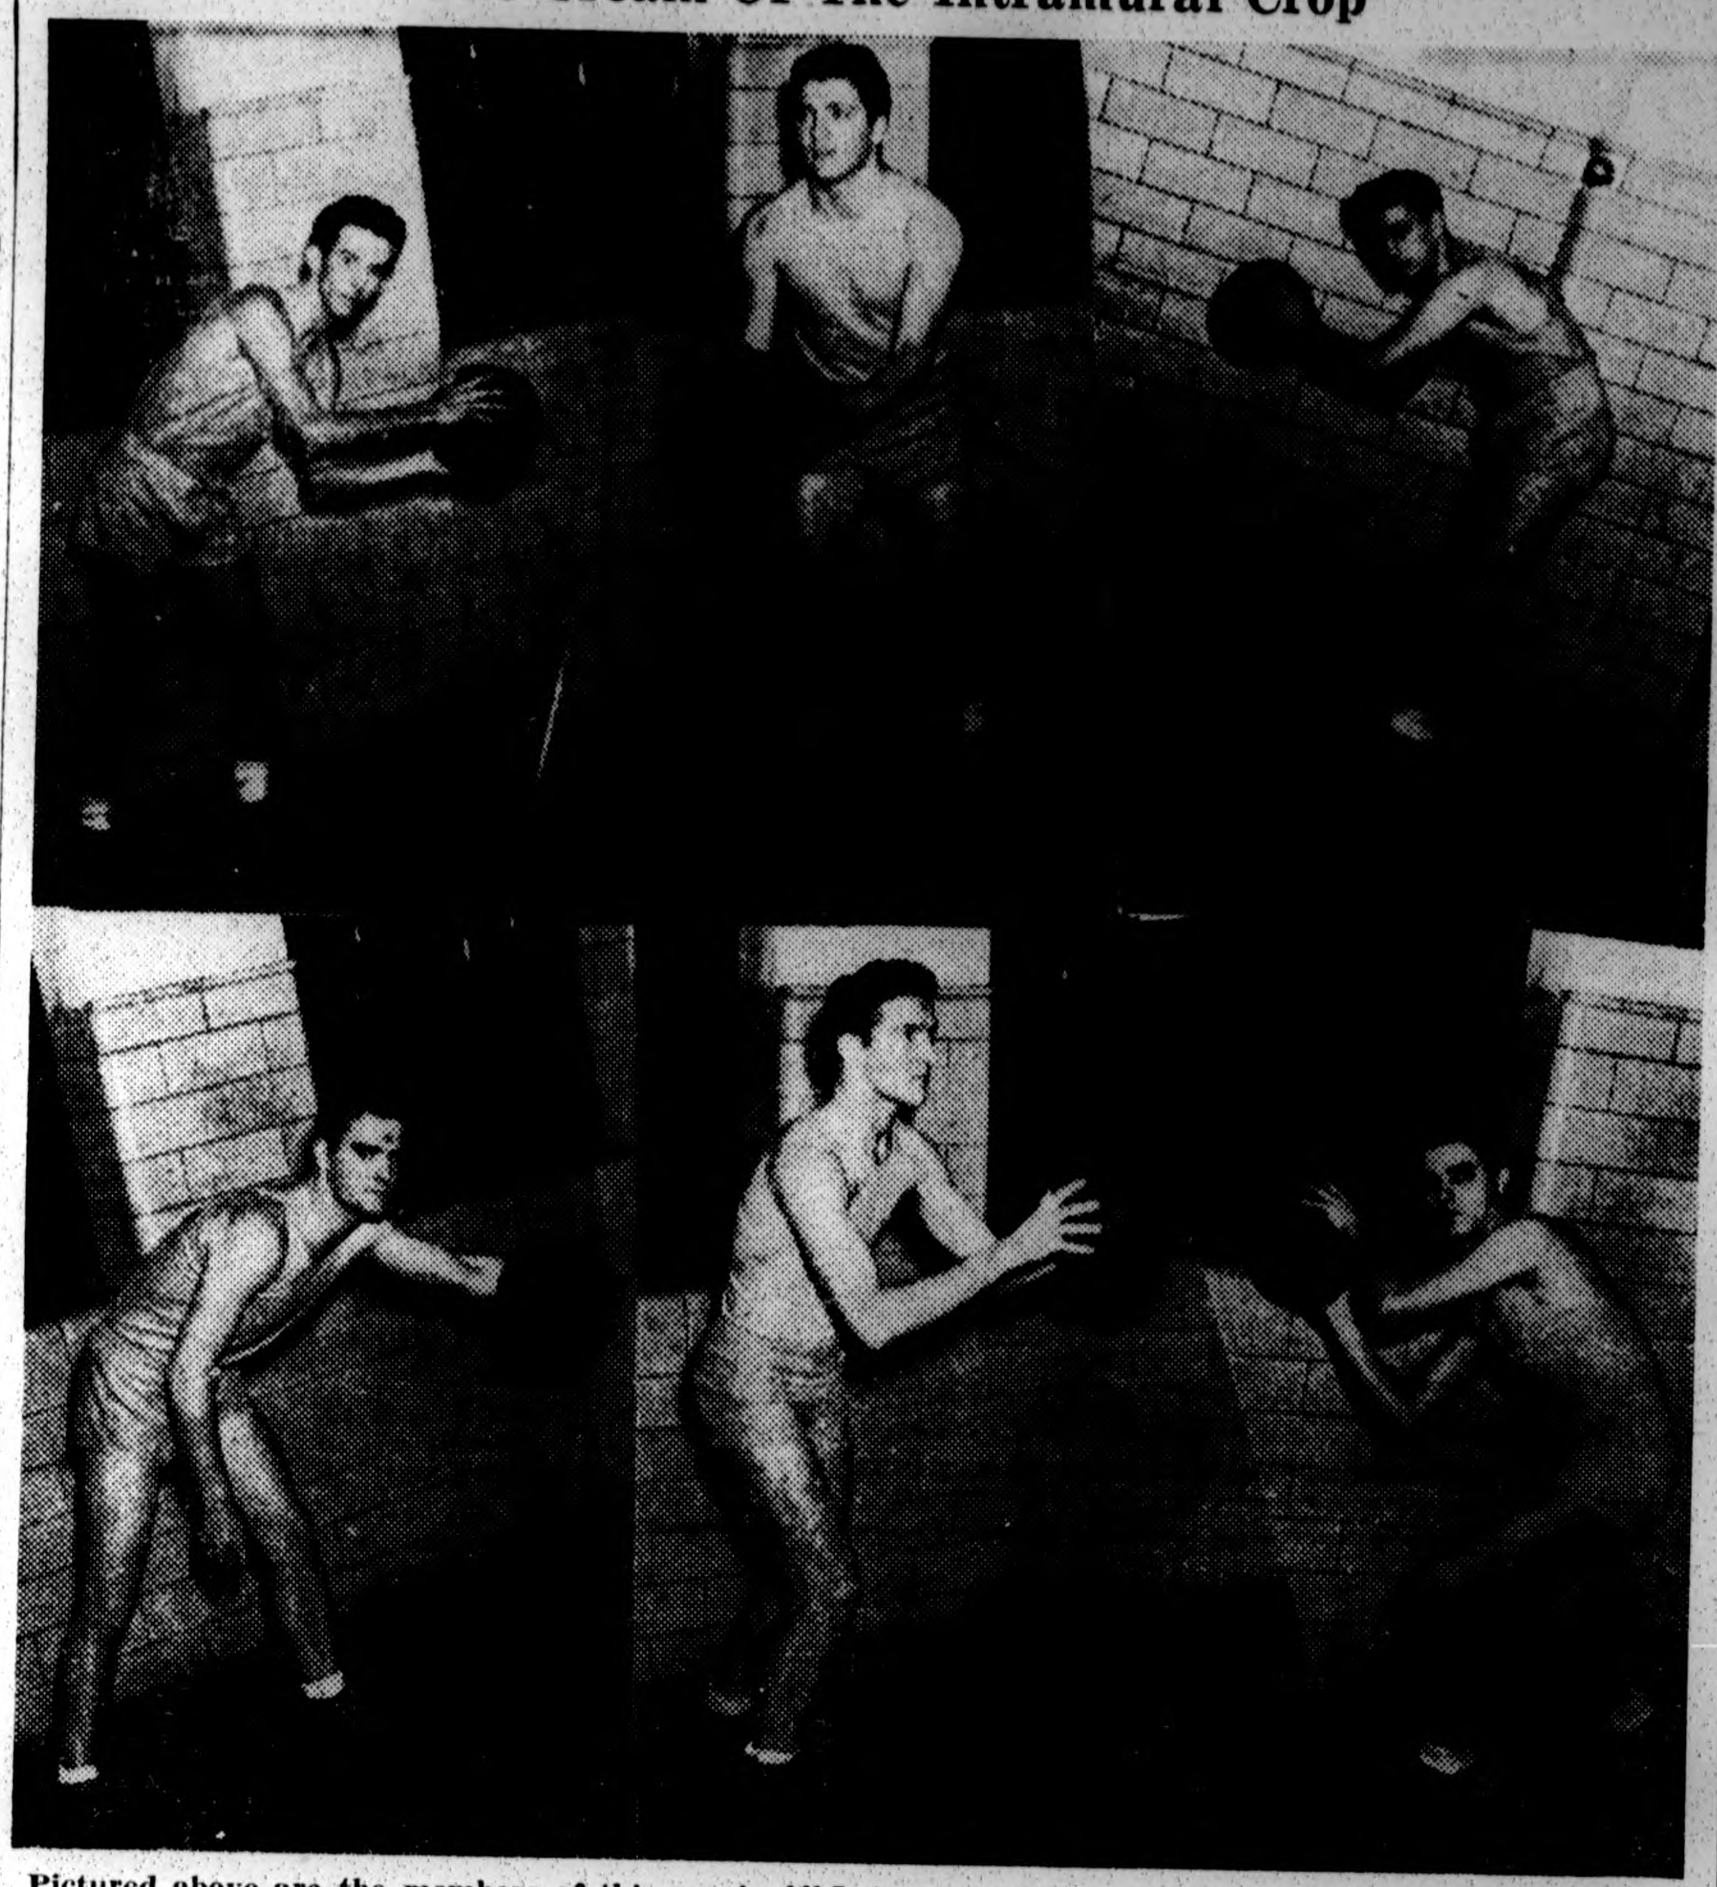
Will Use Frosh

It is true that Doc is limited by the lack of experienced material but along with Roy Simonsen and Mike Kupecki, who played a great deal of ball in the outfield last year, he has a number of sophomores coming up this year who have enormous potentialities. Besides, with the new freshman rule going into effect after the first of March, he may use any first year man that he may choose.

As soon as weather permits, Doc expects to take his squad outdoors where the battle for positions promises to be an exciting preliminary to a campaign against several of the major college teams in the east. The main objective this year is Temple who spoiled an otherwise perfect season last year by handing the 'Cats two defeats.

But that is looking too far ahead. Right now the Doc is interested mainly in taking the kinks out of the boys and loosening them up. This is especially true of the pitchers who are going to have plenty of work to do during the coming campaign.

The Cream Of The Intramural Crop



Pictured above are the members of this year's All-Intramural Team chosen last week by the moderators of the clubs. Across the top are Jim Meehan, C&F Day Hop forward, Carmen Graziano, Mendel Day Hop forward, and Charlie LaBelle, guard representing Alumni Hall. Across the bottom are Joe Daly, guard from Austin Hall, Bob Moore, Fedigan Hall, who won the center post, and Jim Buxeda, from C&F, forward. All were unanimous choices of the judges.

C&F Places Two Men On All-Intramural Team

Six men were chosen in the final voting last week for the All-Intramural basketball team. Although five men make up a team and usually only five men are picked on the first team, this year these six men were so close together that no one could be left off the first team in deference to the others.

All were unanimous choices of the six judges, the moderators of the various teams: Fathers McKee, Dunne, Sullivan, McCarthy, Boyle, and O'Donnell. The choices were made chiefly on the basis of consistentcy for games played and the team play of each individual.

The Commerce and Finance Day Hops led in placing two men on the first team. Diminutive Jim Meehan, C. & F. sparkplug, was selected for the second straight year. Two years ago he was placed on the second team. Meehan, the leading scorer in the league, and Jim Buxeda, the other All-Star choice were practically the whole team of the Businessmen. Meehan is fast and tricky while Buxeda plays a steady, driving game.

Moore at Center

The other forward is the powerful Italian youth, Carmen Graziano, from the first-half championship team, the Mendel Day Hops. Graziano is the outstanding shot of the entire league, and he deserves a lion's share of the credit in keeping his team at the top of the ladder.

The center post went to Fedigan's rough and rangy Bob Moore. The big blond pivotman did excellent work around the backboard. It was his play more than anything else that kept a weak and dispirited Fedigan team together the whole season.

Six on Second Team, Too

Senior Joe Daly from Austin Hall and Freshman Charlie LaBelle were voted the guard positions. Daly was a fine pivotman and had a good eye when he was in close. LaBelle, Alumni's flash, was one of the classiest ball handlers in the league and led the Greenies to several upset victories over seemingly superior foes.

Alumni Hall and the Mendel Day Hops won two places each on the second team. Alumni's big center Charles Bradburn was given the vote along with Dick Breen, the Greenie forward. The hard-playing Nick Sachetti and little Ray Amicone, Mendel's protectors of the back court, recevied the guard posts. Simons of Mendel residents and Hefele of Austin took the other places.

Competition for places on the second team was very close and it was only after careful deliberation of the judges that the positions were awarded.

First Team

Charles LaBelle	Alumni
Joe Daly	Austin
Carmen Graziano	Mendel D. H.
Jim Meehan	C. & F. D. H.
Jim Buxeda	C. & F. D. H.
Bob Moore	Fedigan

Day Hops Regain League Lead By Double Victory

By TOM McFARLAND

The intramural basketball scramble became more involved than ever when the results of last week's games were contrasted with the records. At the beginning of the week, Alumni's basketeers were tied for first place with the Day Hops from Mendel; C. & F. and Austin were deadlocked in second place. The games of this week did little to alleviate the situation.

On Tuesday night, Coach Al Severance guest-refereed the Austin-Alumni match, and found it was a gargantuan task. The Green Wave from Alumni, sparked by the superb ball handling and hawk-eye stabs of Charlie LaBelle, battled with Austin's excellent team play in a constant effort to take the lead and hold it. Scoring was almost alternate, as first the one, and then the other team pulled out in front. Severance benched half of the participants for personal fouling, and it was with great difficulty that Austin, working half a team, gained a 34-42 victory in the closing moments of the game.

Mendel Wins Again

The same day saw Owens of the Mendel Resident aggregation spur his team in an almost hopeless attempt to beat the Day Hops from the same hall. The soiree ended in victory for the Hoppers, 42-43. Fedigan and C. & F. fought it out in the daylight game, and C. & F. were five points better at the end, leading 44-39.

Thursday's games were as hard-fought and qually vicious. The Mendel Commuters dragged Fedigan at the bottom end of a 30-24 score, with Callahan holding the ball more often than anyone. Austin Hall dished up a distasteful 47-25 defeat to the Mendel "Sleepers." Austin's star of the day was Mazonowski, who led his team with a personal score of 9 points.

C. & F. Wins

The night game between C. & F. and Alumni proved to be one of the finest games of the year. The scoreboard was active, and the running score look like the "two-times" table. The running score went something like this: 2-0, 2-2, 4-2, 4-4, 6-4, 6-6, 6-8, 8-8, etc. At half time, C. & F. led 12-18. During the game, the best brand of basketball being played was embodied in the personal gyrations of Dwyer, of the Financeers. He led the scoring with 8 points. Alumni's LaBelle and Fitten garnered 4 apiece. The gun sounded when C. & F. led 36-34.

Mendel Regains Lead

While these six games did much to complicate the record, they at least broke up the double deadlock of the previous week, and brought the first two teams out in single file. At present, Mendel Day Hops are in the number one position, having won 7 and lost only two, to attain an average of .777. Austin holds down the second slot with six wins and three losses, making for an average of .625.

DOLLY MADISON ICE CREAM
"Deliciously Different"
Choice of Villanovan's
PHILA. DAIRY PRODUCTS CO.
4th & Poplar Sts., Phila., Pa.

We Get 'Em!

When you send us your clothes you get them back with every little spot and soil removed. Our careful service and economy prices mean that you can build a really "New" looking wardrobe from your present clothes.

CLEANERS SUN DYERS

HERE AND THERE

By JACK DUDLEY

AMONG our closer acquaintances on the campus were those two scribes, Fred Clark, ex-'42, and Sam Canning, ex-'43. Fred brought this column to VILLANOVAN readers for a year prior to his retirement last month. He made it a point never to cross anyone in his writings. So fastidious was Fred in this matter that he didn't even pick the Dodgers to win the pennant last year. For someone who spent most of his life in Brooklyn, that was really stretching a point.

In appreciation of two-and-a-half years of consistently good reporting, Sam Canning was awarded to fill the vacancy left by the retirement of Clark. That appointment added to the list of offices that the genial Sam held on the campus.

Today, these two young men are on their way to join the armed forces of our country. God speed you, fellows; here's hoping that when it's all over we'll see you back in Fedigan!

—V—

Worry of the week in the major league front offices is the apparent lack of capable first-basemen. The Boston Braves reported that they are taking four candidates for that position South next month. None of these four were first-basemen last year. The Braves can blame nobody but themselves for this predicament. Five years ago they won themselves a fellow by the name of Elby Fletcher in a popularity contest. That is to say Elby won first prize which entitled him to a trip to the Brave's Training Camp. The Braves liked him well enough to farm him out for a year. Elby came back the next year, clinched the first base job, and the Braves were set.

Gain for Pirates

Two years later, Fletcher was one of the most sought-after young stars in the league. The Braves had offers from every team in the league with the exception of the Phillies. Doc Prothro had seen Elby once and was not impressed. (Doc is back in Little Rock now.) The best offer came from Pittsburgh. The Pirates were willing to lay the cash on the line to get a replacement for the aging Gus Suhr. Elby has shown constant improvement since his transfer to the Pirates. Handy with the stick, a fine fielder, Fletcher is an important part of Pittsburgh's plan for the coming campaign.

But the Braves have no first baseman. Buddy Hassett, obtained from the Dodgers after they had decided Dolf Camilli on First was better than Sixty Thousand in the in the bank, couldn't hit. Babe Dahllgren, tops as a fielder and a dangerous hitter, when he connected, was found wanting and shipped off to join the many firstsackers who now grace the roster of the Chicago Cubs. None will ever know why Fletcher was sold by the Braves, but we'll bet they will spend twice the amount they received for him looking for someone half as good.

Trosky Retires

The Cleveland Indians announced the retirement of Hal Trosky. Hal spent the last nine years holding down the initial sack for the Indians. Headaches forced him to the sidelines last year. A long period of rest has not improved this condition so the big Westerner has decided to call it quits for the coming year, anyway. One possible explanation for the cranial disturbances is that nine years with the tempestuous Tribe is enough to give the strongest man headaches. We think a change of scenery for Hal would bring a change in his condition.

Siebert Worth More

The most laughable plight is the headache Connie Mack has dreamed himself up. Connie, it seems, has no first baseman, either. Dick Siebert, who would bring a fancy price from any club in the league, held down that spot for the A's last year and turned in a grand job. Dick recently placed "among his souvenirs" an unsigned contract calling for about the same salary any other club would offer a second year man who had gotten off to a good start in his first season.

Now with about six other major league teams willing to pay fifty thousand dollars for a good first baseman, we have a suggestion for Mr. Mack, humble though it might be. For something like an extra five thousand dollars you can land a first sacker who will bring enjoyment to your afternoons this season. In other words, pay Dick Siebert what he deserves.

St. Bonaventure

Continued From Page Five

though it is a little late in the season.

Offensive Peak

The offensive play of the team as a whole, which has not been too steady throughout the season, reached its peak in the game with the Bonnies. The Wildcats amassed a total of 58 points, their high for the year. Red Klotz and Bill Wood garnered sixteen points apiece to lead the scoring parade. Joe Lord, was third highest with eleven points, although he only played a little over half the game.

The St. Bonaventure tussle was the final home-game of the season for the Wildcats. Their record at home is ten victories as against one defeat. Their only loss in the Field House was suffered at the hands of St. Francis College of Brooklyn in the second game of the year, 44-42.

Bill Wood, the consistent scoring threat of the Villanova quintet, brought his total to 212 points by scoring twenty-five last week. By so doing he maintained his lead as leading scorer in the Philadelphia district.

Boxing Hopefuls Receive Training From Tom Pollock

The biggest single event on the Intramural Sports Card, the Annual Boxing Tournament, will take place in two weeks at the field house where each year the spectators are treated to one of the finest purely amateur shows ever assembled.

This year the moderators, Frs. McKee and Dunne, are trying to make the Ninth Annual affair better than ever and request the boys to bring their fathers along to witness the slugfest. So, fellows, drag dad away from his easy chair and evening newspaper, and bring him out to a real, honest-to-goodness fight, the kind he used to see in the old days.

In charge of training the candidates this year is Tommy Pollock, sophomore transfer student from Niagara University. Pollock is quite experienced in the manly art; last year he boxed for Niagara's varsity and won the Dominion 165 pound intercollegiate championship at Toronto, Canada. Previously he gleaned plenty of experience as an amateur about Brooklyn, his home. And if you can hold your own in the Brooklyn circuit, pal, you're all right. Tommy will probably box in an exhibition in the Tournament if suitable competition can be found.

A ring has been set up in the upstairs dressing room of the gym and anyone who wishes to participate may go down any day between 2:30 and 5 P. M. and work out. Pollock is there all the time and will give any assistance necessary. He urges those who hope to enter not to wait until the final week to get in shape. Start now! A sport like boxing takes plenty of preparation and long practice

The biggest response for the bouts has been from the freshmen. About two thirds of the dozen or so fellows working out daily are frosh. What's wrong with the upperclassmen? Get down there fellows and get to work. Make this Boxing Show one of the best for the student spectators and their dads.

KEEP THAT LEFT JABBING. Tommy Pollock, in charge of instruction for the Annual Intramural Boxing Tournament explains a few of the tricks to Bill Fenton, who hopes to employ them on his opponent in a couple weeks. Instructions are held every day from 3 to 5 P. M.

Sportorial

Continued From Page Five

Kelty was making his from the corner, his old spot and Wood mixed his up. He looked particularly good on a couple breaks down the center and scored on several nice passes.

But the outstanding factor in the Wildcats' victories was not the fine shooting . . . not the tricky ball handling . . . not even the stubborn fighting for the ball . . . it was the team play. The team played as a team. They played together and worked as a unit, the classiest, fightingest unit seen on the hardwood of the Field House this season.

Al Severance has finally got himself a team, not a ball club, but a team. He's had a ball club all season. Although it is a little late in the year for them to accomplish much, they still can win their last three games and salvage a good portion of a mediocre season. And we think they can and will do it.

Maybe Al's column in this paper a few weeks back had something to do with it. Who knows?

Another vote of congratulations goes to the cheer leaders who made an appearance at the last two games. Why didn't someone think of the idea before? The football team isn't the only team that needs the student body behind it. Any club can use a bit of the old college spirit to urge it on.

However, we were quite put out at the student response to the cheer leaders exhortations. Many of the students did not join in and most of the cheers sounded pretty weak. It's too late to do anything about it now. But what do you say fellows, how about getting behind the rest of the athletic teams and giving them a lift with your cheers?

HART & HALL, Inc.
Insurance
825 LANCASTER AVE.
Bryn Mawr, Pa.

KEEP SUPPLIED WITH
SCHOOL TICKETS
GOOD ON BUSES AND RAIL CARS UNTIL USED
5c a Ride, Including Special Free Transfers. Obtain Identification Cards at School Office.
RED ARROW LINES
Philadelphia Suburban Transportation Co.
Aronimink Transportation Co.

CONESTOGA
★ ★ ★ MILL
County Line & Conestoga Rd.
Bryn Mawr
FULL COURSE DINNERS
DANCING
Every Evening

Coleby Tailoring Inc.
57th & MARKET STS.
Suits & Topcoats
$27.75
See Steve Aisenbrey
110 Fedigan Hall

On The Local Screens

ARDMORE THEATRE
Tuesday & Wednesday
Priscilla Lane - Betty Field
— in —
"BLUES IN THE NIGHT"
Thursday to Sunday
Bette Davis - Ann Sheridan
— in —
"THE MAN WHO CAME TO DINNER"

Direction Warner Bros.
TOWER
69th & MARKET STS.
Buy Defense Bonds and Stamps
Tues., Wed. & Thurs.
Feb. 24, 25, 26
MICKEY ROONEY
JUDY GARLAND
— in —
"BABES ON BROADWAY"
Songs! Dances! Music
Fri., Sat., Sun. & Mon.
Feb. 27, 28 - March 1, 2
ROBERT TAYLOR
LANA TURNER
— in —
The Surprise Hit of the Year
"JOHNNY EAGER"

SUBURBAN
THEATRE ARDMORE
Tuesday & Wednesday
"MR. & MRS. NORTH"
Friday & Saturday
Don Ameche - Joan Bennett in
"CONFIRM OR DENY"

ANTHONY WAYNE
THEATRE WAYNE
Tuesday & Wednesday
Greta Garbo - Melvyn Douglas in
"TWO FACED WOMAN"
Thursday & Friday
Charles Boyer - Margaret Sullavan
in "APPOINTMENT FOR LOVE"
Saturday
Shirley Temple in
"KATHLEEN"

SEVILLE
THEATRE BRYN MAWR
Tuesday & Wednesday
"APPOINTMENT FOR LOVE"
Thursday & Friday
"REMEMBER THE DAY" with
Claudette Colbert - John Payne
Saturday
"SWAMP WATER"

RIDE FREE ON P. & W.
RAILWAY MOVIE TICKETS
NORRIS
NORRISTOWN
Today, Wednesday & Thursday
"TARZAN'S SECRET TREASURE" with
Johnny Wiesmuller
Maureen O'Sullivan
John Sheffield
Friday & Saturday
"THE CORSICAN BROTHERS"
with Douglas Fairbanks, Jr.

GRAND
NORRISTOWN
Wednesday & Thursday
Jane Withers in
"YOUNG AMERICA"
and "SEALED LIPS"
with William Gargan
Friday and Saturday
"LOOK WHO'S LAUGHING"
with
Edgar Bergen - Charles McCarthy
Fibber McGee & Molly

Meet Your Friends
AT THE GREEKS
We Serve Lunches
Superior Soda Service
Delicious Dinners

Two Who Open Lenten Devotions

REV. JOHN H. CRAWFORD, O. S. A., left, will be the second Lenten speaker. The topic of his talk, which will be given to resident students tomorrow evening, will be "Grievous Sin—the Greatest Evil in the World Today." REV. HENRY A. CAFFREY, O. S. A., right, inaugurated the Lenten series on Ash Wednesday when he discussed "The Spirit of Lent." During Lent Masses will be offered at 6:30, 7:00, 7:30, and 8:00 A. M., the latter especially for day students. Confessions will be heard during the 7 and 8 o'clock Masses.

College-Immaculata Symphonic Groups To Present Concert

The combined symphonic bands of Villanova and Immaculata will present their annual concert during the latter part of April in the Villanova Field House, it was announced today by Rev. Ralph J. Handran, O. S. A., musical director of the groups.

Approximately twenty girls from Immaculata will be combined with forty of the best of Villanova's musicians to form this band. The girls will add tympany, clarinets, trumpets, an oboe, and a flute to the regular college instrumentation.

The complete program for the concert has not yet been arranged, but it has been announced that the selections will be of a much lighter nature than those played at last year's affair.

On last Thursday, formal rehearsals were begun and will continue every Thursday evening from 6 to 8 P. M. until the day of the performance, the exact date of which will be announced in the near future.

"Sports Night"

Annual Sports Night of the Trenton Club of the Villanova Alumni will be held this year on Sunday, Feb. 22.

Coaches of all sports at Villanova will attend the affair, and will be the principal speakers. Coaches and students from high schools in the Trenton area will be guests of the club for the night.

Similar programs have been sponsored by the Trenton Club during the past five years for the purpose of bringing Villanova to the attention of high school seniors. Officials of the Club feel that they have been successful in bringing a great number of students to the college through the interest fostered by Sports Night.

Grad In Training

Albert J. Mayell, Jr., a graduate of the School of Arts, in '37, reported for Naval Aviation Flight Training on Feb. 12 at the U. S. Naval Aviation Reserve Base, Floyd Bennett Field, Brooklyn, N. Y.

If successful in flight training, Mayell will, after two months of preliminary training at this base, be sent to a southern training station for seven months of advanced instruction. Upon completion of this course, he will be commissioned as an ensign in the U. S. Naval Reserve, receive his designation as Naval Aviator, and be assigned to duty with the fleet.

The Lamp Post Inn

Luncheon and Dinners

Strafford, Pa.

Speaker Discusses Red Cross Needs At Science Seminar

"The Red Cross and Its Present Needs" was the topic upon which Stewart Bell spoke in his address before the Science Seminar last Thursday.

"At present the Red Cross is faced with a serious financial challenge," Bell stated, "It must raise $65,000,000 to cope with the national emergency which exists today because of the present war."

In the past the Red Cross has obtained its financial resources through its members who paid a one dollar membership fee yearly. However in this present crisis the sum which is required is far beyond the amount contributed by its members and it obviously must seek other methods and means which will enable it to realize its goal.

As it was illustrated in the Philippines and at Pearl Harbor the Red Cross is ever ready to render assistance where ever needed, the speaker said. It is for this reason that the organization intends to spend $7,000,000 for Civilian Defense.

K. G. S. To Meet

There will be a meeting of the Kappa Gamma Sigma, physics society, tomorrow promptly at 1:00 o'clock in room 210, Mendel Hall.

Plans for contacting some outside speakers for the present term will be discussed.

Gordon Nick
Linen Supply Co.

1612 to 1620 North 11th St.

Philadelphia, Pa.

For Expert Convenient Attention

SERVICE IS OUR FIRST THOUGHT

Patronize

THE CAMPUS BARBER SHOP

- First Class Work -

- Popular Prices -

Statistics Show Lack Of Student Conservativeness In Campus Costs

By BOB YOUNG

According to recent figures released by the business office, every resident student at Villanova has done more than his share of partaking of the victuals served in the cafeteria. In fact it seems that approximately 600 pounds of food have been consumed by each of the 561 students living on the campus in the school year of 1940-41.

To get down to specific figures let us look at some of the individual items that have been eaten in the dining hall. Starting off with potatoes we find that the boys have a special liking for "les pommes de terre" because 60 tons of them were used; placed end to end they would reach the length of seven miles. Two and one-third tons of coffee and 22 tons or 110,965 quarts of milk have helped to saturate their thirst.

Seven Tons of Butter

Buttering their 20 tons of bread with 7 tons of butter the residents could build a stack 2 1/3 times the height of the Empire State Building by placing the pounds of butter on top of each other. Somebody must have an awfully big sweet tooth because 9½ tons of sugar were used last year.

As a main course of the breakfasts, 5 tons of bacon and 153,840 eggs were consumed; but a few preferred ham and finished off about 4 tons of that part of a pig. (Of course the Hawaiian styled served for suppers made up part of this sum.) To make the desserts, donuts, etc., the chefs used 7 tons of flour and 24,311 quarts of ice cream were served along with the pastries. That's equal to 145,866 individual bricks.

Two Miles of Franks

Two miles of six-inch lengths is a lot of anything, especially when it is eaten, but that is exactly how many frankfurters were consumed or, in other words, about 1¾ tons. Starting off their meals the boys drank 2,266 gallons of grapefruit juice and either ate or drank the juice of 88,128 oranges. Five tons of tomatoes and 7,620 heads of lettuce were used in salads and sandwiches, which figures are the finishing touches to the food consumption during last year.

But besides running a food bill into several figures the students in general have used quite a bit of other facilities. For instance, 40 carloads of coal were needed to provide heat, 12,372 tons of water were done away with in every manner possible, and finally 311,200 kilowatt hours of electricity helped to light up the campus and rooms—which is just about enough electricity to supply for one year 260 private homes averaging six rooms each.

After looking over a few other figures we can sympathize with Fr. Stanford's plea for conservation by the students. The little item of silverware disappearance from the cafeteria suggests that there are quite a number of collectors among the residents.

An All-Time High

Last year the total pieces missing amounted to 1,000, but this year it appears that an all high mark will be set. Since September of 1941 to January of this year, 145 forks, 126 knives, 85 dessert spoons, and 481 tea spoons have found their way out of the dining hall. That's a total of 837 pieces, almost as much as those disappearing for the entire preceding school year.

To show how a little increase in price can effect the budget, we might add one cent a quart to the present price of milk and the result net increase would be over $1,000 for that food item alone. After looking over these figures, it's difficult to understand why more of the administration haven't got gray hairs.

Conservation Plea

Continued From Page One

by both day students and residents was another point of laxity brought out for students to remedy. To repair the path worn between the Pennsylvania Railroad station and Mendel Hall alone it will require three or four truck-loads of loam.

Three Motives Listed

An appeal for cooperation was made by Fr. Stanford for three motives: it is the patriotic thing to do; it is loyalty to the college; and it is for the self-interest of the students themselves, because they must eventually pay for any expense incurred upon the campus, whether it be through tuition, food bills, or in any other manner.

Fr. Stanford was confident that economies could be effected by conserving provisions on hand, and without incurring any privations on the part of the students.

In closing the president remarked, "I will leave it up to the intelligence of each student to cooperate fully with the faculty and administration in this effort of campus conservation and the elimination of unnecessary expense."

As each student left the meeting he was given a card on which were printed six methods the student could cooperate in saving.

George Fein & Co.
Printers & Publishers
2116 to 2130 Arch St.
PHILADELPHIA, PA.
RITtenhouse 6983

BROOKLINE COUNTRY CLUB

Dancing Every Saturday to America's Top Name Bands

SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 28

WOODY HERMAN

In Person, and His Orchestra

Admission: $1.00 plus tax Phone: Hilltop 1600

Quality tells you it's the real thing
Pause Go refreshed
Coca-Cola
5¢
You trust its quality

You sense in ice-cold Coca-Cola a thing that is good—a pure, wholesome drink with the quality of genuine goodness. Coca-Cola delights your taste, gratifies your thirst and leaves you happily refreshed.

BOTTLED UNDER AUTHORITY OF THE COCA-COLA COMPANY BY
THE PHILADELPHIA COCA-COLA BOTTLING CO.

Tomorrow Deadline For Senior Dues In L. K. D. Fraternity

Senior members of Lambda Kappa Delta, science school fraternity, must have all past and present dues paid up by tomorrow if they wish to receive keys, it was announced at a meeting last week by Joseph Koch, president of the organization.

At the meeting plans for the informal Spring Dance were also discussed. The affair will be held on April 17 and is planned by the fraternity to be a substitute for the Blazer Ball, informal dance usually put on by the junior class but omitted this year because of the accelerated program.

Twenty-two pledges were brought into the fraternity on Monday, Feb. 16, when the annual initiation was held.

Student Talk Traces Medicine's Development

Harry Schiff, science student, addressed the members of the Research Seminar last Thursday on "The Development of Modern Medicine."

Tracing the medical profession after the fall of the Roman Empire, when knowledge of medicine was restricted principally to the priests, Schiff pointed out the inventions and discoveries which brought medicine to its present day level. The invention of the microscope and the operations performed by Harvey were considered especially significant.

The part played by chemistry, physics, and mathematics in the medical field was illustrated by the speaker, who showed the gains made possible by these allied subjects.

WILDCATS!
STOP HERE
LA DOW'S
Pharmacy
On the Edge of the Campus
Lancaster Pike
Villanova, Pa.

VILLANOVAN

Vol. 14—No. 15 N. A. S. Z-660 VILLANOVA COLLEGE, VILLANOVA, PA. TUESDAY, MARCH 3, 1942

Father Stanford Called By Navy

President In Washington To Plan New V-1 Program

One of Seven Leading Educators Drafted For the Coordination of College and Naval Curricula; Return to College Duties Indefinite

By THOMAS M. SCHUBERT

Answering the urgent call of the Navy Department, Very Rev. Edward V. Stanford, O. S. A., president of the college, left last Tuesday evening for the nation's capitol to act as "curriculum policy consultant" on the Navy's new V-1 Program for colleges. He has been summoned to Washington together with six other leading educators of the country from Princeton, Yale, Colorado, Columbia, Buffalo and Louisville Universities.

Fr. Stanford left the campus after receiving a telegram from Rear Admiral Randall Jacobs, U. S. N., Chief of the Bureau of Navigation, stating that his services were urgently needed and requesting him to proceed immediately to Washington.

Announced Last Week

The new program which Fr. Stanford is to help organize was announced by the Navy Department last week. Its purpose is to enlist college students as apprentice seamen while they still remain in school.

The training period will cover two academic years and include mathematics, physical training, and the physical sciences in addition to the regular college curriculum. It is in the formation of a curriculum suitable to the navy's purposes that his services have been required.

While the exact length of time the president will be absent is not known, it is hoped that his new assignment will keep him away from the college for no more than two weeks.

Forming New Program

Previous to his departure, the president was engaged in the formation of a complete program of planned activities to improve the physical fitness of all students.

Fr. Stanford held meetings with the counsellors of the resident halls on Monday evening, with the student council on Tuesday afternoon, and with the coaches of all the various sports on Tuesday evening after he received Rear Admiral Jacobs' telegram.

The following committees were appointed at the various meetings: Rev. Francis X. McGuire, Rev. Vincent A. McQuade, Rev. Edward B. McKee, Rev. John R. Dunne, and Rev. Robert M. Sullivan; Maurice J. Smith, football coach, James F. Elliot, track coach, and Alexander G. Severance, basketball coach; and Thomas McKimmey, Robert Koness, and John Kirchner, of the student council.

The purpose of the new program is to supplement the present varsity and intramural schedules so that every student will have ample opportunity for proper exercise. It will be initiated at a mass meeting of the student body on March 10.

Hagerty, Quinn Head Dinner-Dance; Cubler Named Honorary Chairman

Walpole Appoints Nunemaker Chairman of Patron Committee; Ten Aides Listed

Edward Cubler, commerce student, has been named honorary chairman of the committee in charge of the Junior Dinner-Dance, to be held on May 2. Joseph Hagerty and John Quinn, arts and engineering students respectively, will act as co-chairmen of this same committee, according to the announcement made by William P. Walpole, junior class president.

Cubler, who is majoring in marketing, is successfully pursuing his college course despite the handicap of blindness. He has participated in numerous activities during his three years at Villanova, including the Glee Club, Delta Pi Epsilon, commerce fraternity, the Music Seminar, the History Seminar, and the Holy Name Society; he is a regular performer on the piano at the annual Amateur Night shows.

Played Varsity Ball

Hagerty, a member of the Epsilon Phi Theta, arts fraternity, was a member of the freshman baseball team and of the varsity team last year. Quinn, who belongs to the Phi Kappa Pi fraternity ,is also a member of the Villanaova Chemical Engineering Society. Last week he was appointed senior delegate of the Philadelphia region of the National Federation of Catholic College Students. Active in intramural sports, Quinn is a member of the Austin Hall basketball team.

A second Junior Prom committee named to solicit patrons for the souvenir programs which will be distributed at the dance, will be under the direction of James Nunemaker, commerce student, who has been appointed chairman.

Committees Named

Other members of the Dinner-Dance committee include: Joseph McEvoy, John McFadden, and William Fallon, all students in the commerce school; Reno White and Francis Reese, engineers; and George Weber and Joseph Turner of the Science school.

Other members of the patrons committee are Loring Jones, commerce student, Joseph Conway, an engineer, and Eugene Labowski, of the science school.

Commenting on the appointments, Quinn remarked, "Speaking for myself and my co-chairmen, I would like to emphasize to the members of the junior class that our dinner-dance can be a success only through the whole-hearted support of every junior, especially in the matter of class assessment payments. At present our treasury is badly in need of these all important funds since no definite action can be taken without full financial backing."

Ten Students Begin Flight Training For Spring C.P.T. Course

Yesterday afternoon ten Villanova members of the spring course in Civilian Pilot Training took the first step on their way to becoming full-fledged pilots. They received their Airmen Identification Cards at the Main Line Airport in Paoli.

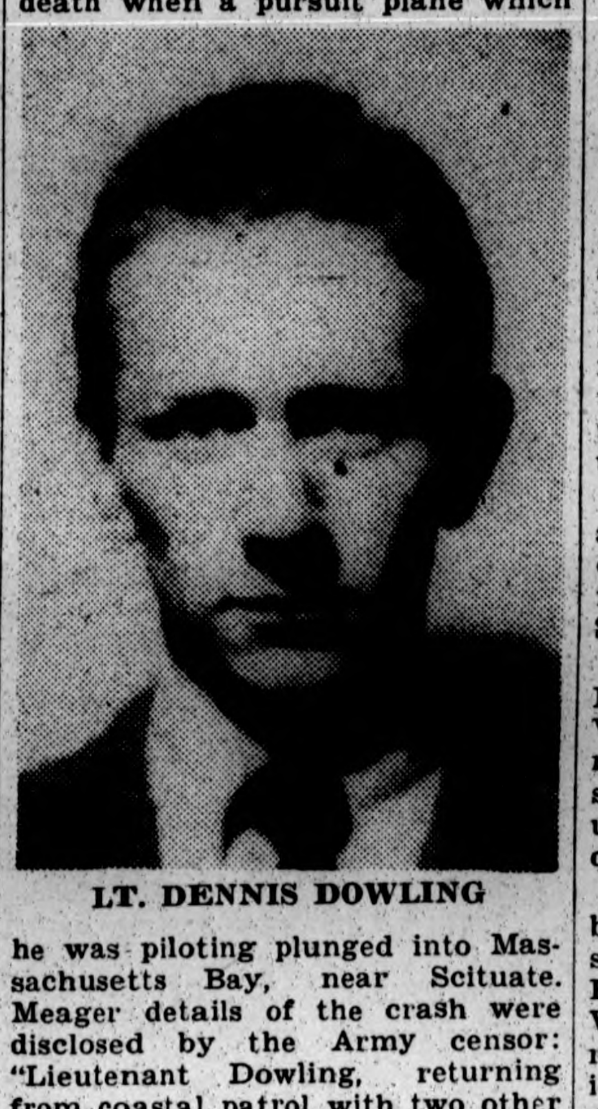
To obtain them each applicant had to furnish documentary evidence of his citizenship, obtain two letters from responsible persons certifying his loyalty to the United States, present two identical photographs, and submit to fingerprinting.

Ground and flight instructions have begun and will be held throughout each week. After the trainees have completed eight hours in the air they will be eligible for their solo-flights.

Air Disaster Kills Second Villanovan

Requiem Masses will be celebrated Thursday for the repose of the soul of Second Lieutenant Dennis J. Dowling, former Villanova student of the class of '42, who was reported killed on Tuesday, Feb. 24. The resident students will attend a Mass at 7:00 A. M., while another will be said at 8:30 for the benefit of the day-students.

Lt. Dowling, the second Villanova fatality of the present war, met his death when a pursuit plane which he was piloting plunged into Massachusetts Bay, near Scituate. Meager details of the crash were disclosed by the Army censor: "Lieutenant Dowling, returning from coastal patrol with two other pursuit planes, suddenly swerved out of formation two miles off Scituate, Mass. His ship, out of control, plummeted into Massachusetts Bay at terrific speed."



LT. DENNIS DOWLING

First reports indicated simply that pilot and plane were missing. Later confirmation came through from the commander of the East Boston Airport, that Lt. Dowling had been killed although his body

EX-STUDENT KILLED
Continued on Page Eight

Soph Meeting

An important meeting of the entire sophomore class will be held tomorrow afternoon at 1:00 P. M. in room 215 Mendel Hall, Rev. Francis X. Boyle, O. S. A., moderator of the class, announced today.

A detailed financial report of the Sophomore Cotillion will be given by Austin Gavin, chairman of the dance committee, and a discussion on the purchase of class rings will be held.

Debating Team Faces Busy Week

Loyola, St. Francis, Upsala, and La Salle Scheduled; Three Teams Met

Beta Gamma, Villanova varsity debating society, faces a heavy schedule this week when they meet Loyola at Baltimore Friday; St. Francis of Loretto at home on Sunday; Upsala College on Monday and La Salle in a league debate on Tuesday.

Representing Villanova in the St. Francis debate, which will be held at 3:30 P. M. in Simpson Hall, are Edward Manderfield, junior engineer, and Robert Young, sophomore commerce student. They will uphold the affirmative of the question, "Should the government regulate all labor unions?"

Thomas DeSipin, senior engineer, and Richard Shinners, sophomore engineer, will debate the same topic with Upsala at 8:30 P. M. in Simpson Hall.

In the meet with La Salle, John Fullam, senior education student; Wilfred Gagen, sophomore commerceman, and Robert McIntyre, senior in the commerce school, will uphold the affirmative of the same question at 8:00 in the evening.

The members of the varsity debating team have just completed a series of meets this past week. On Feb. 4, Joseph Coll and William Walsh, sophomore commerce men, represented Villanova against Providence College. John Deery, junior artsman, and David Reardon, senior commerce student, discussed the negative of the question, "Should peacetime conscription be adopted after the present war?" in a meeting with Swarthmore on Feb. 26.

Fullam and McIntyre also represented Villanova last Tuesday in a debate on the same topic at Fordham.

Fullam, who is chairman of Beta Gamma, has extended an open invitation for any interested students to attend any of these debates.

Registrar Sets Dates For Exam

Catholic High School Seniors Will Compete April 18 for Three Scholarships

Competitive examinations will be held on April 18 for three partial scholarships having a total value of one thousand dollars each, Paetrus F. Banmiller, college registrar, announced today. All Catholic boys who are high school seniors and in need of financial assistance to help them through college are eligible.

In former years these examinations were given in May but the accelerated college program has necessitated an earlier scheduling this year.

Awarded on the dual basis of need and intelligence, the scholarships will provide a stipend of one hundred and twenty-five dollars for each semester's expense.

Candidates will assemble April 18, in room 106 Mendel Hall to take examinations in the following subjects: English usage and literature, algebra and plane geometry, general science, and social studies. The tests in these various subjects have been scheduled in the following order: 9:30 A. M.—assembly in Mendel Hall; 10.00—English test; 10:40—science test; 11:20—intermission; 11:40—mathematics test; 12:20 P. M.—social studies test; 1:00—examinations end; 1:10—luncheon in college dining hall.

Following the completion of examinations the applicants will be taken on a formal tour of the campus. Besides viewing the various buildings they will be shown the labs and other facilities available.

All those interested in obtaining these scholarships and taking the examinations may receive further information by writing to the Registrar, Villanova College, Villanova, Pa.

"Well And Happy," Passanante Reports From Australia; Anxious Bride Tells Of Brief Telephone Conversation

"I only hope he shot down a half dozen of those Japs before they got him!"

The speaker was Mrs. Bert Passanante, wife of th Villanova graduate who, commissioned a second lieutenant in the United States Air Corps, was seriously wounded in action at Pearl Harbor on Dec. 9.

At that time Mrs. Passanante received no further information than that Bert was seriously wounded in action. He had been stationed at Nicholas Field, Manila.

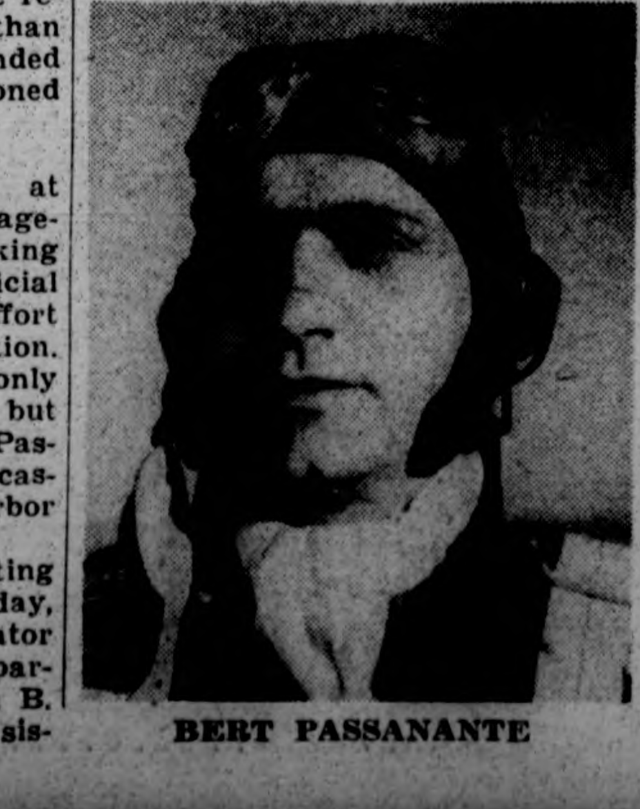
Washington Inquiries

Friends of Mrs. Passanante at the Office for Emergency Management, where she has been working since Christmas, inquired in official circles in Washington in an effort to obtain more exact information. The War Department would only confirm its previous telegram, but Red Cross officials stated that Passanante had been on the first casualty ship to leave Pearl Harbor for Australia.

The period of anxious waiting was prolonged. Finally on Monday, Feb. 16, a long distance operator called her at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. William B. Carey. (Mrs. Passanante is the sister of Bill Carey, ex-42, erstwhile track star at the college).

The operator informed her that on the previous Saturday an appointment for an overseas call from Australia had been made by a Mr. Passanante. Again a troubled vigil.

"Well And Happy"



BERT PASSANANTE

But on Wednesday of the same week a radio broadcast reported that telephone communications with Australia had been interrupted, probably on Saturday.

Aided by her employers, she immediately attempted to contact her husband. The chief long distance operator referred her to the overseas operator and finally at 9:00 P. M. Wednesday, after six hours of effort, success was attained.

Before completing the call, the operator cautioned Mrs. Passanante for a period of about two minutes, warning her not to discuss the weather, location, or any information that would be of value to the enemy. The conversation was to be carried on entirely in English.

At last the conversation! Limited to six minutes—"but they were six good minutes"—they were necessarily brief. Although he was not allowed to divulge the exact nature of his wounds, Passanante informed his wife that he was "well and happy,' but out of action with an injured leg.

To her anxious inquiries as to facial injuries, he replied, "I look just

PASSANANTE SAFE
Continued on Page Four

Seniors To Attend Local College Night Of Engineers Club

Senior engineers this evening will attend the annual College Night sponsored by the Junior Engineers Club and the Pennsylvania Society of Professional Engineers. The dinner at 6 P. M. and the evening's discussions will be held in the Engineers Club in Philadelphia.

The Junior Engineers Society is composed of local, young engineers who use the club as a medium of exchange for their ideas and a source of information pertaining to new developments in their respective fields. The latter society is composed of licensed engineers whose purpose is to establish and maintain the standards under which licensed engineers practice.

Following the dinner, Robert H Craig, former editor of the "American Engineer" will address the group.

It's Happened Again

LAST Thursday morning another person was injured on the Lancaster Pike "death trap" in front of the college. Chalk this injury up to the state of Pennsylvania. Add it to the long list of accidents—three fatal in the past three years, several serious and many minor — that have resulted from the state's refusal to protect our lives and the lives of this community—by its refusal to allow the township to erect signal-lights. A refusal based upon a technicality of the law.

State officials claim that this section of Lancaster Pike is, in the eyes of the law, a "through highway" and signal lights can not be erected where there is no intersection. But isn't there an intersection?

Both state and federal authorities have repeatedly emphasized the need for college trained men in "national defense." They have asked for an unlimited reservoir of such trained men and have warned of the serious results of permitting such a supply to dwindle. Colleges have been asked to scrap their old curricula — to accelerate their schedules in order that this supply may be maintained.

Villanova has answered their appeal. Money has been expended to make the necessary changes. Villanova, along with the nation's universities and colleges, has become a reservoir of college trained men.

Throughout every day of this year, these men who are so vital to the nation's welfare must cross this "death trap" — must place the safety of their lives in their ability to dodge speeding automobiles and trucks.

If the state must have a "legal intersection" for their signal lights, this case will serve the purpose. Automobiles and trucks bearing war materials and college trained men who in the future must guide not only the destiny of these war materials but also the destiny of the country.

The college and the students—we have done and shall keep on doing that which you ask. But will our plea for protection go unheeded?

We are willing to sacrifice our time, money, and even our lives for the welfare of our country. But we must rebel at seeing our labor uselessly terminate in death —not in the defeat of the Axis but at the hands of some speeding car or truck on this "death trap."

—W. C. G.

VILLANOVAN

Issued twen'y-five times a year from Villanova College, Villanova, Pa.

THOMAS F. DEVINE, '43 .... Editor-in-Chief
JACQUES E. MAUCH, '43 .... Sports Editor
ROBERT F. YOUNG, '44 .... College Editor
WARD C. GUNCHEON, '43 .... Managing Editor
ROBERT T. CANFIELD, '43 .... Copy Editor
THOMAS C. MURASKI, '43 .... Literary Editor
EUGENE P. SMITH, 43 .... Business Manager
LORING A. JONES, '43 .... Advertising Manager
RAYMOND G. AMICONE, '43 .... Photography Editor
NICHOLAS C. ENI, '43 .... Circulation Manager
LOUIS J ESPOSITO, '43 .... Exchange Editor

Columnists

E. F Bennis, '43 J. F. Dudley, '43

Staff Writers

F. Bagot, '43; A. Berenato, '45; H. Binder, '44; J. Bongiovanni, '43; W. Craven, '43; L. DeSimone, '44; D. Ehart, '45; T. McFarland, '45; J. McWilliams, '45; J. Mahoney, '43; J. Murray, '45; J. Nunemaker, '43; J. Quinn, '44; F. Reese, '43; D. Sauers, '44; T. Schubert, '45; J. Tortoreto, '44; W. Walsh, '44; S. Zeeman, '45.

Business Assistants

C. Callahan, '43 W. Golden, '45
H. C. O'Connor, Jr., '45 J. Walsh, '43

Circulation Assistants

J. Correale, '44 L. Hood, '45
F. Facciolo, '45 J. Keays, '44
G. Giacchino, '44

Photography Staff

L. Eni, '44 E. Mancuso, '45

Faculty Advisor—Rev. Edward B. McKee, O. S. A.

This paper is dedicated to one of the finest men who ever entered Villanova: scholar, athlete, gentleman — LEO GOODREAU

Subscription: $2.00 per year. Circulation: 3500.
Entered as second class matter at the Villanova Post Office December 27, 1928.

Member of Associated Collegiate Press; Distributor of Collegiate Digest.
Member of Catholic School Press Association, Catholic College Press Association, and National Scholastic Press Association.

TUESDAY - - - - - - - - - - MARCH 3, 1942

Rise And Shine

ALMOST every day the papers contain an article on the torpedoing or sinking of a ship off one of our coasts or on some incident that brings the war close to home. America sees this, maybe, and then turns to the funnies.

It is something to be commended if we do not go into hysterics after reading some accounts, but the complaint on this point is not about bravery. It is about our refusal to wake up.

War was declared nearly three months ago and people still can't get it into their heads that we have a battle on our hands and must fight. Even after reading about a submarine attacking our shores some people cannot see why we in the United States should be prepared. It is granted that in some sections of the country preparedness against attack may seem "far-fetched," but that is not the only nor surest way in which we can prepare.

We can prepare best by cooperation. It has been evident that certain governmental organizations have not functioned properly because of a lack of cooperation. It is a similar lack of cooperation that is hindering the local organizations set-up for our safety and protection.

"Be Prepared" is a well known motto which is obeyed by millions of boys year in and year out. Now is the time for the whole country to be prepared. Prepared as a unit? Yes, but perhaps even more important, prepared as individuals. If each and every one of us were to prepare himself and his family as individuals then the country would be prepared as a unit.

—T. C. M.

Time To Clean Up

IN every city of the United States intense drives have been put forth to clean up slum areas. Newspaper editorials have put emphasis upon the necessity of keeping streets free from rubbish, garbage and other things thoughtless citizens throw upon them.

There is no need for people to discard waste materials carelessly upon public streets and private yards when there are innumerable receptacles placed in convenient places by the city government.

The same argument can be used here at Villanova; although it sounds rather unnecessary. But a mere stroll about the campus would disclose a very similar situation —that of trash strewn about the various resident halls. Without thought of the resulting appearance of their campus, the students have thrown every sort of object imaginable from their windows: cigarette butts, matches, fruit, pop bottles, and various other beverage containers.

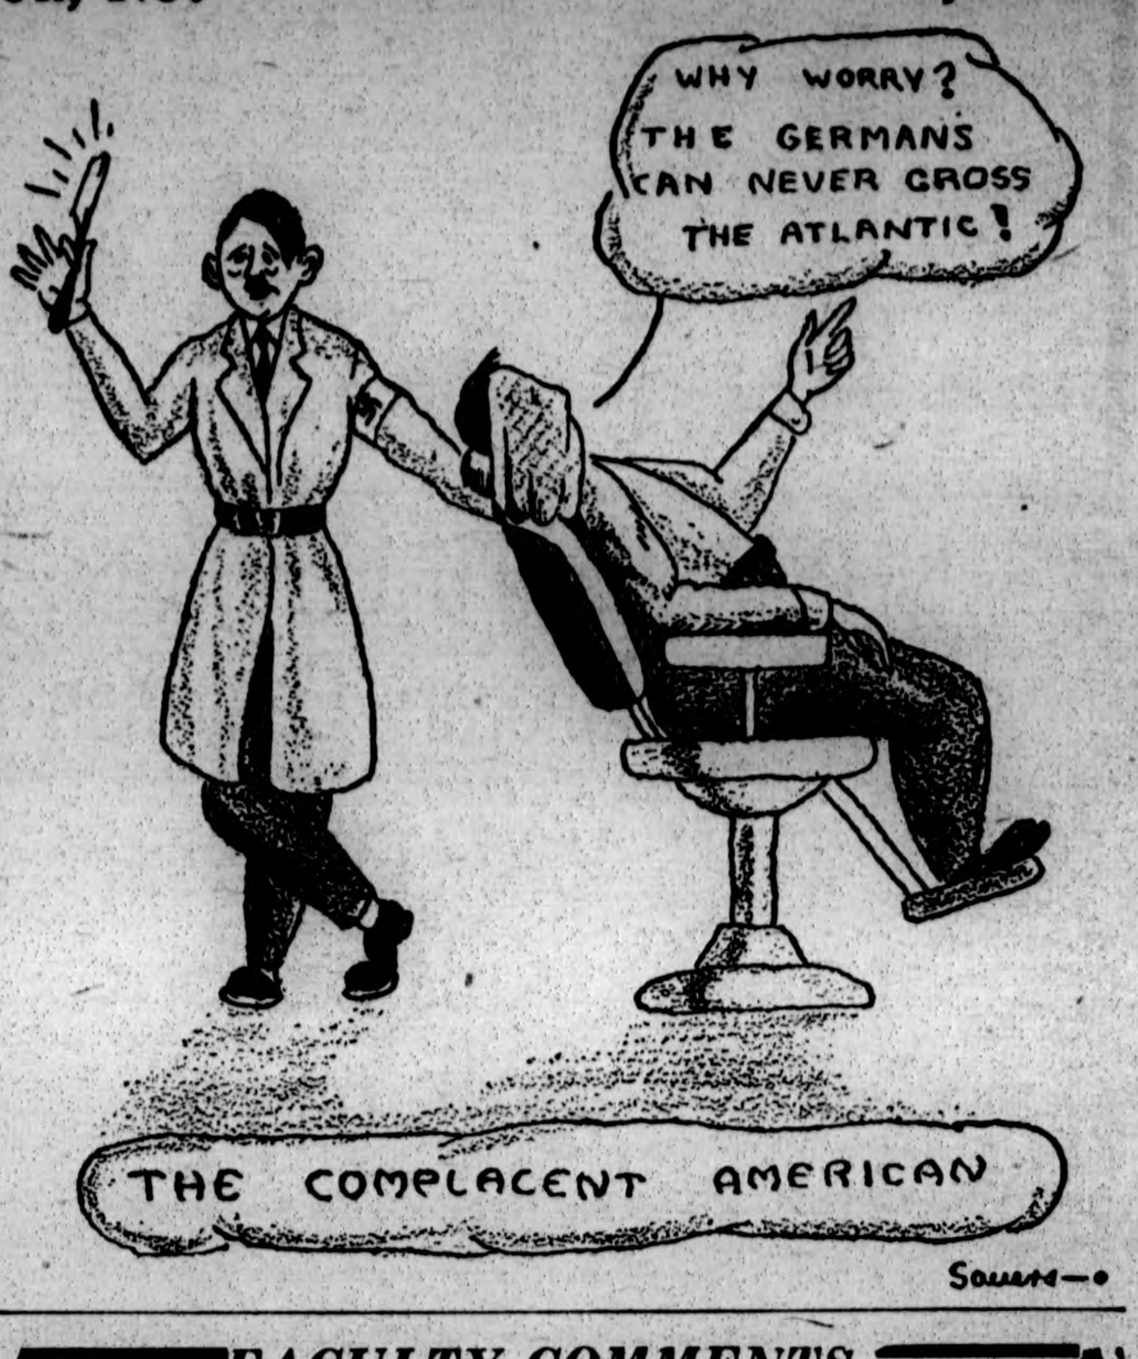
It seems so foolish that anyone who has an iota of pride for his college, for his home nine months of the year, should utterly disregard the condition of the grounds surrounding his hall by cluttering them up with filth.

The school authorities have placed waste baskets at the end of every floor of each resident hall. Yet a goodly number of the fellows cannot use that extra ounce of energy or show a bit of common courtesy to deposit their rubbish in the places provided.

When one is in college, the world looks upon him as being a man; a man with common sense, responsibility, and pride. Why, then, do so many at our own college fall down when it comes to upholding these standards? It's so easy to throw things out the windows; and it's also so easy for the students to give the campus a slovenly appearance. Let's have some cooperation and keep the grounds free from carelessly discarded rubbish.

—R. F. Y.

Oh, No? - - - - - - - - - - by SAUERS



WHY WORRY? THE GERMANS CAN NEVER CROSS THE ATLANTIC!
THE COMPLACENT AMERICAN
Sauers

FACULTY COMMENTS

Conservation, Concentration, And Courage

By FR. DUNNE

IN days of crises, and indeed, in any critical era, there is need of indomitable courage in the face of bitter defeats and scathing defeatism. Also there is the necessity of concentration, which simply means knowing what to do and doing it in the best possible way, and in the shortest time possible. Above all, there is, in this critical all-out effort of our country to win an all-out war, the need of utmost conservation.

A few days ago, Father Stanford, President of the College, made an appeal to the faculty and the students of Villanova to join in an all-out conservation effort. The appeal was made to both bodies on the score of patriotism, loyalty to Villanova and self-enlightened interest, the basis of personal advantage.

Courageous Effort

In other words, the ominous overshadowings of war hang over the spires of Villanova, and its necessities have inspired the appeal to students and faculty to join in a courageous ,concentrated effort towards a greater conservation in every way, so that the wartime needs of the United States of America may be aided in every way possible. Even though our combined efforts here at Villanova are but minute in relation to the supreme effort of the country towards conservation, they do have their place and will be appreciated.

In the war efforts of our country, examples of this courage, indomitable in the face of death and total destruction, are featured in the far-away fox-holes of Bataan, where Americans, brown as well as white, meet overwhelming odds in the battle of the Philippines. Fighting a losing battle, as they engage in a delaying action, they know that their concentrated, courageous stand offsets Japanese successes elsewhere.

Prepare for Winning Effort

These heroes realize also that this stand, hopeless in a sense, permits this country to speed up its industrial strength to a peak of efficiency where, with the aid of planes, tanks and guns, other American forces, with equal courage, will fight, not in a delaying and losing action, but in winning battles to assure final vicroty.

Now, it would hardly seem necessary to define courage; we know what it is—a coping with problems of life and conquering them—a facing of future and its forebodings with fortitude—that is courage.

It can be found in any man, white or black, brown or yellow; pagan or christian. According to late newspaper reports, did not the Igorots, "Mountain People" of the Philippines and former head-hunters, face with almost fanatical courage the onslaught of the twentieth Japanese regiment? These Igorots are practically pagan; is their courage the only kind?

Another Type of Courage

We are aware of another type of courage. It is a species of spiritual courage, by which man in the moment of trial, of torment, of temptation turns to God, and in prayer implores His aid. Afterwards, with trust in God, the man who prayed will face the greatest hazards with indomitable courage. He will also face the daily tasks of life with confidence, calmness and fortitude.

There exist also such things as spiritual concentration and spiritual conservation.

Concentration, in its ordinary, non-spiritual sense, is plainly seen to be the distinguishing ability of men of great purpose. Men like Napoleon and Lincoln had it to an extraordinary degree, but we can discern it in many men. We recognize it as the ability to apply their minds assiduously and exclusively to one subject at the one time. One does not need, however, to be a great man to be able to concentrate, nor does one need to be better than good to concentrate on one's soul and its ultimate salvation.

In the stress of the war-period incidentally, the words of the Sacred Scriptures: "Now is the acceptable time, now is the time of salvation," are more applicable than before. Anyone here at Villanova may soon be drawn into the conflict and everyone realizes its danger. A portion of spiritual concentration—an effort to be free of sin and ready to face God at any time—will add to our courage if we should be placed in a position that demands it.

Dissipation, it will be well to recall, is the opposite of concentration, and dissipation in an effort to brace ourselves for unknown demands is futile. Far better for us to seek shelter in spiritual concentration than to rely on the evil of dissipation to dispel fears for our future. Ralph Waldo Emerson has summed up very well the truth of this, by saying, "the one prudence of life is concentration; the one evil is dissipation."

Spiritual Conservation

Again, let us not forget, in our all-out conservation effort, spiritual efforts in that direction. Conservation is certainly admonitory; spiritual conservation is mandatory. In simple conservation there is a real demand for perspective. For instance, conservation of time is indicated here at Villanova by the re-

FACULTY COMMENTS
Continued on Page Eight

Campus Capers

By Ed Bennis

THE social front has calmed down a good deal because of Lent, but many of the lads are still going merrily on their way, refusing to slow down or be slowed down. Some of our social lions believe it unthinkable that a week-end should pass without them having a date. It gives them something to talk about on Monday morning.

With spring only a couple of weeks away the romantically inclined are beginning to dream of the birds and the bees—and afternoon walks. What this campus needs is a good snowstorm to stop their silly day-dreaming.

* * *

PICK-UPS:

Lou "4F" Block is the recipient of many a letter from Barbara—his one and only. If the flow of letters keeps up, they will soon need a private mail man. Art Smith is still seeing a great deal of a certain young miss from Chestnut Hill, Rita, by name. He met her on a blind date. Well, they say that love is blind and Art isn't one to doubt it.

Sid Caplan claims that he doesn't have any time for romance—being kept busy with classes and work. At least, that is what he is telling the lads. Why is it that Joe Elward visits his aunt in Atlantic City with such regularity — it couldn't be that he has his eye on a certain sun-kissed beauty? Rumor has it that Mal Boyle is keeping company. with a rather pretty young lassie.

* * *

NUT HOUSE:

I saw a man the other day
Shabbily dressed in blue and grey
Not a girl will call him dear
Not a man will buy him beer.

* * *

STUFF:

Bob "Doctor Dates" Hursch is a lonely man these days—he has gotten the brush off from his home town girl, Jane. And the poor lad used to receive daily letters from her—well, easy come, easy go. Frank Bagot and Chuck Pajolek are taking an interest in Ardmore —due to a fiery little red head. Where does Ed Cubler go when he takes those jaunts to Bryn Mawr?

Joe Mahoney and Joe Hagerty are already using their influence on Johnny Hopkins to get him to go to the Junior Prom—which will be his first dance. Will "Woolfy" Gagen and Mary "Hoot" Gibson—a junior from New Rochelle—have renewed relations after talking the whole affair over. Ah, well, young love. Joe Shea is the picture of happiness—he has at last found a girl short enough for himself.

The Rosemont-Immaculata basketball game last week was well attended by our lads—"Moon" Mundy, Ed. Reardon, George MacElwee and Bob "Curly" Young were charmed to no end by the bevy of beauties. Joe Daly was at the game keeping an eye on Betty—'tis said he is getting stern competition from a St. Joe lad.

* * *

CLIPPINGS:

Steve Pritko and Sal Rosato are frequent travelers to Garret Hill—we wonder what could be the center of attraction down there?? Alex Lukas is another Romeo who is cultivating peach fuzz — better known as a moustache-on the upper lip. A pretty young nurse is taking up a great deal of Freddie Faas' time. He claims that he is taking a course in first aid—the fibber.

Harry Weber and Katie are two more of cupid's ardent admirers. Ray "Happy Days" Hill is in quite a predicament—he says with the coming of Spring he can't study and beside that he has three girls to contend with—the poor lad, it's a pity. Don Kehoe returned from a week-end in N. Y. recently with a full make-up kit—he is now trying to peddle it to some poor guy who would be crazy enough to take it.

Larry McStravog gave his head a good whack in Bryn Mawr last week—seems that he was getting in his car and looking at the passing scenery at one and the same time. Of course, Sue wasn't with him or he wouldn't have been looking at the blonde scenery. Ward Guncheon was rudely interrupted recently by some of the lads while he was in a "serious conference" with Kay—at least, that's his story.

Meet The Boys: Most Of The Frats Bear Nick's Name; Al's On His Way To Photography Fame

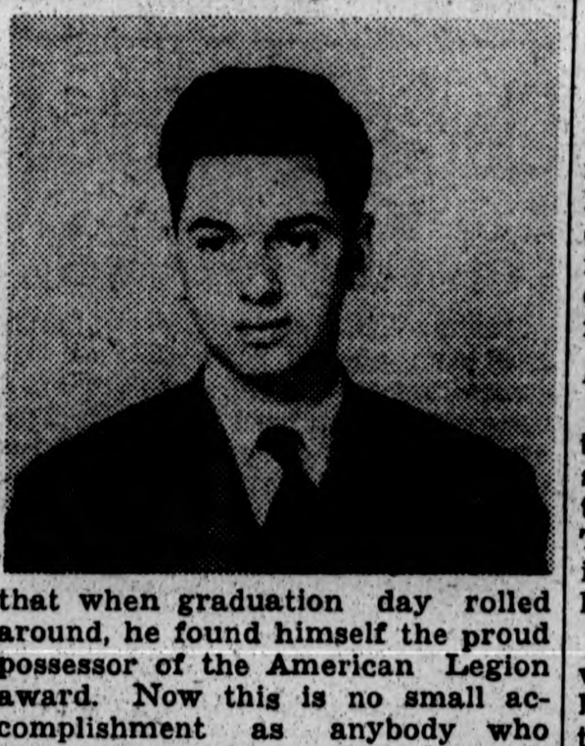
By STAN ZEEMAN

THE specimens for this week's microsopic examination of Villanova manhood are two budding engineers; so, switching on the high power, we find first—Nicholas C. Aceto, senior frat-joiner extraordinary.

Oct. 18, 1941, was the red letter date that marked Nick's entrance into this world. Legend has it that when he first opened his eyes, Nick spied his father's fraternity pin dangling from a watch chain. In his best baby talk he said, "Dadda, I wan' un too!" True or not, Nick was destined twenty years later to become a member of not one, but four fraternities. But more of that later.

Another Legion Winner

After a six year preliminary skirmish with life, Nick distinguished himself so well in parochial school that when graduation day rolled around, he found himself the proud possessor of the American Legion award. Now this is no small accomplishment as anybody who hasn't won this honor can tell you, and in the light of his present college attainments, might be considered a prediction of things to come.



Nick continued his education at Roman Catholic High School, where he began to supplement his academic knowledge with some practical experience among the fair sex. But always a good student, he managed to stay on the honor roll "at least half the time."

Takes to College

In the fall of 1938, our hero took his place as a member of Villanova's class of '42. He took to college life like scotch tape takes to drawing paper, and in no time his green sport jacket became a familiar sight in the day-hop den. He began his drive for the national singles frat-joining championship in his freshman year and didn't stop till there was no remaining Greek letter club open to a chemical engineer.

He is a member of Phi Kappa Pi, the engineering fraternity, of which he was, until recently, secretary. He is vice-president of the Chemical Society, and he belongs to the engineering honorary fraternity, Chi Epsilon Mu, membership to which is restricted to those engineers who are outstanding scholastically in their class.

All This and More, Too

Besides all this, he is a charter member of Mu Alpha Theta, the mathematics society, and was the first secretary of that organization. Nick always had his name high up on the dean's list, especially during the last two years. In his junior year he was on Blazer Ball committee and worked hard to make it the success it was.

When the inevitable question of women came up, Nick emphatically said, "No steady!" with a finality in his voice that bodes ill for any scheming female who might be making plans. However, a rumor has been circulating that Nick's eyes have lately been gazing longingly up at the "Mount," and we can be reasonably sure that it's no fraternity this time.

A Swing Addict

On a date, Nick likes nothing better than dancing to solid swing music, especially when it comes from the band of one of his favorites, Tommy Dorsey or Glenn Miller. He is no playboy though, and enjoys listening to the operas of Verdi.

Right now, Nick is waiting for a waiver to come through allowing him to join the naval reserve. If this isn't forthcoming, he seems pretty confident of getting a job as an inspector in the army signal corps. As far as we're concerned, it doesn't matter into which service he goes: he'd look good in any uniform.

GRADUATING with the engineers this May will be another Philadelphia day-hop known about the campus as Albert "Snapper" D'Alonzo. Al needs no introduction to the more photogenic members of the student body, for he has loyally been taking pictures for the VILLANOVAN during the past three years.

"The spirit," as he is more affectionately called because of the grotesque green hat he insists on wearing, spent his pre-Villanova days at South Philadelphia High School where he took a vocational course. When not laboring over his lathes and drawing boards, Al played a saxaphone in the school band.

Then for some strange reason, known only to himself, he exchanged his sax for an oboe and became so proficient in this difficult instrument that soon he was playing it regularly over the radio.

Struck by Campus Beauty

Al has been planning a strictly menial life for himself but one summer day following graduation, he happened to be driving slowly along the Main Line when—lo, before his eyes was spread Villanova's beautiful "campus green."

Then and there he decided that he was going to be a college man, and the following year he took a post graduate course to build up the required credits. Finally, in 1938 he entered Villanova as a civil engineer.

When only a freshman, Al met "Gus" Mancuso, photography editor of the VILLANOVAN, who so infected him with the camera bug that he joined the staff that year as an assistant. Al paid close attention to Gus' pointers, and in no time it was a familiar sight to see him happily dashing about the campus with a broad smile on his face, snapping pictures here and there, and then running up the steps to the darkroom on the fourth floor of Mendel Hall.

Takes Hobby Seriously

He went into this hobby so extensively that scores of hard-earned D'Alonzo dollars filled the cash registers of several Philadelphia photographic supply dealers, and the D'Alonzo house hold was turned into a veritable studio.

Scholar, Athlete, Gentleman

Last year he became photography editor of the weekly publication, and he did his job so well that he has been called by one who should know, one of the best photographers ever to be on the staff. This is quite a compliment when you consider the record of the indomitable "Gus." But the crowning glory of Al's career didn't come until the annual staff dinner-dance when the special "Wildcat" edition was dedicated to him.

Al definitely wants it understood however, that he is no monomaniac. He was secretary of the American Society of Civil Engineers last year, and has been a staunch Phi Kappa Pi man for four years. During his off hours, you can usually find him down at the Field House bowling or swimming in the pool.

Then too, he has a reputation for being a connoisseur of feminine pulchritude and has ofen expressed his excellent taste in this matter by bringing to the various school functions several gorgeous creatures.

As to the future, Al is just thirty pounds too big for the naval reserve. "Anyhow," he confidently explained, "I won't have any trouble getting into the army."

Retired Staff Finds Courage To Meet New Writers In Court Fray

A tattered scrap of yellow paper floated lazily onto the editor's desk, as if half afraid because of the dire promises contained in its message. Scrawled across its face in familiar hieroglyphics were these words: "Old staff challenges new staff." The terse statement bore the signature of T. H. Doyle, Jr.

At last the die had been cast. Retiring staff members, under the leadership of this same Doyle, had long been throwing the gauntlet to the collective face of the new staff. Never, however, had they had the temerity to reduce their dare to writing. Now the awful deed was done; now they must face the consequences.

Had to Sign Contract

Probably the greatest deterrent to their formal written challenge was the fact that their ringleader forced each of them to sign a contract before he would submit their declaration.

But this was no ordinary contract. Among its insidious provisions was one requiring that Doyle get three shots to everyone else's one; another, that the ball be passed to him upon demand. Others, too numerous to be included here, called for substantially the same action on the part of Doyle's teammates.

It is said that elongated Howie McCall, the ex-editor's co-partner in his ill-omened attempt to organize a 125-pound football team, was the last to submit to these outrageous terms.

Challenge Accepted

Quick to accept the challenge, the new staff has already begun intensive practices designed to condition its squad to the point where it will simply wear down the dissipated seniors.

Doyle bases his presumptuous challenge upon the fact that he is undefeated in the brawls which masquerade under the name of basketball in the VILLANOVAN office almost daily. At least, he claims he's undefeated.

His splendid record is due mainly to his spectacular playing. Again, according to Doyle. His dribble resembles a line plunge, and his favorite shot requires that all opposition be prone.

Broken-Down Team

How Doyle, with an odd assortment of broken-down ex-editors, can hope to keep the score down to respectable figures, is beyond the conception of the splendidly trained present staff.

Bill Schubert and Gerry Belz attempted to play against the sophomore artsmen a few weeks ago, and Schubert avows that he hasn't yet recovered. As for Belz, he may be in condition, but his failure to pass to Doyle on every occasion will probably result in his early benching.

In his usual manner, Doyle has inserted several conditions into the challenge ,even after it had been formally tendered. Designed to cripple the attack of the new staff, they will be observed, of course, but they will only add to the already aroused wrath of his opponents.

I-M Players Barred

One of these conditions is his refusal to allow intramural players to participate. This means that Ray Amicone, present photography editor and a star of the champion Mendel five, will be barred. As you can well imagine, there are no intramural players among the retired editors.

You lovers of clean sport . . .you, whose idea of perfection is a foulless basketball game. . . .for the sake of your feelings, please don't be present in Alumni Hall next Tuesday afternoon when the two staffs meet.

It will most probably renew your conception of a Roman Circus, where bloody deaths were commonplace. (P. S. It starts at 2 P. M.)

Lament

By JOHN M. QUINN

Mind, give no quarter to my painful heart:
Beat, cabin it, straitjacket it to groove
With your volitions, prick each wounded part
Until it swells with sores and cannot move.

When the sad mornings bore not the possessing,
(The why not caring for the when and where)
Was not its dream worse than your real, addressing
All into processes day did not bear?

What I thought, I did not know, for the cold
Dry thoughts were lackeys to my fervor's shout:
Forget those lip-warm evenings when I rolled
Your urgings in my mouth and spit them out.

Earth up with ashes fire I could not smother:
She I loved and who loved, loves now another.

The Trading Post

By Lou Esposito

STUCK again. I've been told week after week to produce a humorous column, but this week I just can't think of anything much to amuse you. I thought I was alone in this situation, but upon reading the "Drexel Technical Journal" I found another in my predicament. He expressed it this way:

If it's funny enough to tell, it's been told;
If it hasn't been told, it's too clean; and
If it's dirty enough to interest the students,
The editor gets kicked out of school.
If I could only be sure he'd be kicked out. . .

* * *

More of the same:

"Ever since I met you Janice, I can't eat, I can't go out nights, I can't do anything."

"Oh Why?"

Love's old couplet—"I'm broke."

* * *

From the La Salle "Collegian" we quote a bit of literature. Betty Coed says:

I think that I shall never see
A boy who quite appeals to me;
A boy who doesn't flirt or tease;
A boy who always tries to please;
A boy who doesn't ever wear
A slab of grease upon his hair;
A boy who keeps his shirt tail in;
A boy without a silly grin;
These fools are loved by girls like me,
But I think that I prefer a tree.

* * *

Too sweet:

The question of how to spot the Fifth Columnist becomes simpler all the while. He is now leaving sugar in the bottom of his cup.

* * *

The credit for the following excerpt goes to the Northeastern U. "News." It was before the local draft board. They thought they had better ask a few questions of the man standing before them, because they were not too sure of his I. Q.

Quizzed the doctor: "What would happen if you had your right ear shot off?"

"I wouldn't be able to see so well."

"What would happen if you had both ears shot away?"

"I wouldn't be abel to see so well."

After considerable repetition of the last question the doctor was convinced that he had heard right.

"And why wouldn't you be able to see so well?"

"'Cause if both my ears were shot off," he said simply, "my hat would fall over my eyes."

* * *

And the $18 Question:

Why didn't they play cards on Noah's Ark?
Because Noah sat on the deck.

* * *

He "Dood" It:

Theysatlikethisuponaseat,
And now and then they'd kiss;
And then he did some darn fool thing,
And then they sat
Like. . . . . this.

The credit for this masterpiece goes to the Ferris "Torch."

* * *

First it was the "Knock Knock"; then "Confucius Say" and now it's "Mr. Anthony?"

Timid boy before his first formal date: "I am going to take some girl to a matinee, then a tea dance, afterwards to dinner and finally to a formal. Mr. Anthony, what I want to know is: Should I kiss her good-night too?"

Answer: "No I think you'll have done enough for her."

* * *

No truer words spoken:

They find fault with the editor
The stuff we print is rot;
The paper is as peppy as a cemetery lot;
The rag shows rotten management,
The jokes, they say, are stale;
The upperclassmen holler,
The lowerclassmen rail.
But when the paper is issued,
(We say it with a smile)
If someone doesn't get one
You can hear him yell a mile.

—St. Mary "Fagots."

Science Seniors Eligible For USNR

May Receive Appointments as Provisional Ensigns Under New Naval Ruling

Pre-medical students who have been accepted for entrance into Class "A" medical colleges may now receive commissions in the United States Naval Reserve in Class H-V (P), provided they meet the physical and other requirements for such appointment, according to a recent change in Naval regulations approved by the secretary of the Navy.

Students who are acceptable will be given provisional commissions as ensigns and, under the policy followed by the Bureau of Medicine and Surgery, will not be nominated for active duty until after they have completed their prescribed medical studies and shall have served one year's satisfactory internship in a civilian hospital accredited for intern training, or shall have been accepted as Acting Assistant Surgeon in Navy for intern training.

Provisional Ensigns

Upon graduation of these premedical students, and when the Bureau has been so informed by the Dean, commissions as Lieut. (j.g.) MC-V (G), U. S. N. R., will be issued to provisional ensigns and, after serving their internship in non-naval hospitals, they will be nominated for active duty.

Naval regulations require all applications for appointments in the Naval Reserve be filed with the Commandant of the Naval District in which the applicant resides.

In the case of a pre-medical student, it is necessary to enclose with your application for appointment, a statement signed by the Dean of a medical college, certifying that you have been accepted as a first year medical student in a Class "A" school for the next entering class

Students whose applications are taken under consideration for these appointments shall be eligible for deferment under the Selective Service Act, upon presenting written notification of their status from their Naval Commandant to their local draft board.

Group To Attend Spanish Meeting

An invitation has been extended to the Spanish Club of Villanova by Immaculata College to attend a conference on March 7, at their school.

The topic to be discussed will be Spiritual Inter - Americanism of Inter-American Federation of Catholic Seminars.

The Spanish Club of Villanova will be represented at this conference and the banquet that follows by a delegation chosen by the Rev. Lorenzo Lozano, O. S. A., moderator. The representatives will include James Walsh, William Swan, Paschal Russo and William Menseck, all of whom are officers of the organization.

The leading characters for the play, "De Tal Arbol," to be presented by the members of the club at the Cultural Olympics at the University of Pennsylvania on April 25 have been chosen by Fr. Lozano.

The role of the leading lady is to be played by Miss Juanita Ripoll, a student at the College of Chestnut Hill. Playing opposite her will be William Cabrera, junior commerce student, who will take the part of Marquis de Cubillo. The role of Rosendo will be played by Alex Infanzon, sophomore science student. William Walpole will take the part of chauffeur of Marquis de Cubillo.

With the completion of the casting, rehearsals are scheduled to begin next week at the University of Pennsylvania.

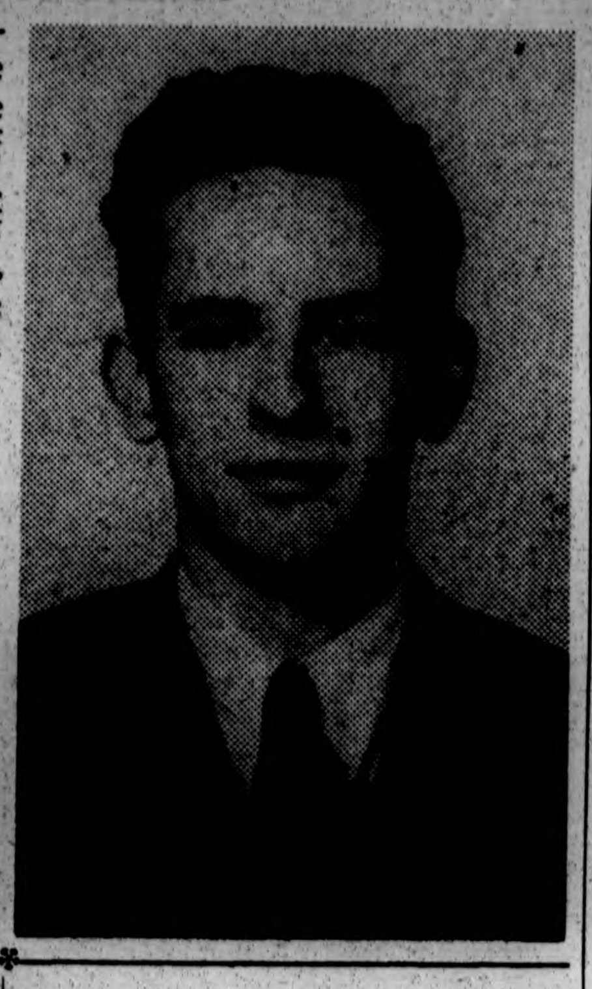
Assessment Plea

"I earnestly urge each and every member of the junior class to make an immediate payment on his class assessment," James Walsh, chairman of the Junior Prom, said yesterday.

"Negotiations with a group of the country's leading orchestras are being undertaken," he continued, "but unless we have the cash in hand, we cannot compete with the offers made by other schools in the vicinity . As the Centennial Class we must produce the best."

Chosen To Direct Junior Dinner-Dance

Directly below is Edward Cubler, of the commerce and finance school, who has been named to the position of honorary chairman of the Centennial Class dinner-dance. John Quinn, of the School of Engineering, pictured at the left, and Joseph Hagerty, of the School of Arts, at the right, will direct the same affair as co-chairmen.



NFCCS To Offer Lenten Leaflets

"The Week with Christ," a religious bulletin, will be posted each week during Lent in order to remind students of special feasts occurring during the Holy Season and to acquaint them with special Lenten prayers.

Published under the direction of the National Federation of Catholic College Students, the bulletin is printed by St. John's University of Collegeville, Minn.

Villanova is a member of the NFCCS, which is the parent organization of national commission on the liturgy of the Mass. This commission is publishing these bulletins in the hope that others will know what they are doing and follow their example.

Thomas Muraski, vice-president of the Holy Name Society, states, "It is the hope of Fr. Boyle and the Holy Name Society that a local commission will be formed here on the campus."

Muraski requests interested students to assist him in this commission and to continue the work started by the NFCCS.

Not only will this bulletin remind the students of the special feasts of Lent, but it also gives certain "helps," which will assist at Sunday and weekday Masses.

New articles will appear weekly in order to remind the students of their resolutions of Lent and of the suffering of Christ on which they may meditate for a few moments during the day.

Symphonic Band In Weekly Rehearsals

An ambitious program is being planned by Rev. Ralph J. Handran, O. S. A., for the combined Villanova-Immaculata Symphonic Band for their spring concert. Its second practice brought out a group of marches, "The Light Cavalry Overture," and an English-Irish medley. Pieces by Schubert were also reviewed.

"The woodwinds are taking on a difficult task in 'The Light Cavalry' by carrying the melodies usually assigned to the strings," Fr. Handran remarked. "The same problem will also arise if Schubert is to be played."

He also said the first practice revealed a primary defect that characterizes an orchestra disbanded for any length of time, that of its members attempting to play like soloists. Throughout the play, the melody and counter melody were of competing volume.

However, Fr. Handran expects to correct this weak point with continual practice.

Engineers Enrolled In National Group

Twelve senior mechanical engineers were officially enrolled in the Society of American Engineers at a dinner held at the Engineers Club of Philadelphia last Wednesday. Villanova is the only college in the Philadelphia area represented in this organization.

The students at the dinner were the guests of Daniel J. Loughrey. A lecture was given on "Super-Sonic Sounding Devices" and moving pictures followed which prepresented an uncensored review of the British Commandoes in action in Norway. Many Army and Navy officials were introduced to the seniors during the banquet.

Passanante Safe

Continued From Page One

the same as when I left you, except that I have a mustache."

"Well, you'd better shave that off before you see me," was the quick rejoinder.

Letters from Nicholas Field just prior to the attack bemoaned the dullness of the life. "There's no excitement here," he complained.

Excitement A-Plenty

An indication that excitement came a little later is attested to by the fact that Christmas presents, mailed at Thanksgiving, never reached him. Several letters written to him were returned, while many of his letters, undelivered, have not been returned.

Mrs. Passanante, who has been a government employe for two years worked for the Department of Agriculture before transferring to the Office for Emergency Management, first met her husband at an informal dance here. Since Passanante went to the University of St. Louis Medical School before enlisting in the Air Corps, their romance was conducted via air mail.

Whirlwind Marriage

On May 3, 1941, Passanante, on leave from Kelly Field, appeared in Philadelphia and proposed. The following Saturday they were married and left on a honeymoon trip to the West Coast, stopping off at Kelly Field for ten days while the groom completed his term of duty there.

At the coast, Passanante left on June 5 for Nicholas Field while his bride of less than a month flew back to Philadelphia.

Chatting gaily and "much relieved," Mrs. Passanante apologized for taking up too much of our time (just as if it were valuable) and closed by saying, "I'm really nto bloodthirsty, but I sincerely meant 'what I said about those six Japs."

Seminar Features Beethoven's Music

"Beethoven Varieties" will be the music displayed by Rev. John J. Vrana, O. S. A., at the weekly meeting of the Music Seminar, to be held tomorrow evening in Simpson Hall at 7:30.

The noon-hour seminar for the day students will feature recorded examples of the various qualities of the human voice.

Last Wednesday evening's meeting featured representative works by Sibelius.

In addition to the first symphony of Sibelius, "Finlandia," "Valse Triste," and "Berceuse" comprised the program. Rimsky-Korsakov's Tin Pan Alley donor, "Scheherezade Suite," added to the satisfaction of the audience.

Sibelius, an extension of Tschalkowski, proved to be more interesting th[illegible]he scientific literature that [illegible] of the audience attempted to read. Voluminously climactic melodies and rhythms of his first symphony, typical of Scandinavia, held the interest of the gathering throughout the evening.

The Day-Hop seminar last Wednesday demonstrated the abilities of the violin. Dr. Edward L. Haenisch, moderator of the seminar, exhibited, through records, several potential hits in the essence of Tschaikowski's "Violin Concerto."

Clarke Appointed For Key Choice

Bernard Clarke, senior engineer, has been chosen chairman of the committee appointed to select keys for senior members of the fraternity and for those who will not return to school next year, Vincent J. Gordon, president of the organization, announced yesterday.

Clarke, who has been a consistent honor student during his four years at Villanova, will examine bids submitted by various companies and select appropriate keys for the group.

Plans to amend the fraternal constitution were discussed at a meeting held yesterday. Since no changes have been made in the charter for a number of years, it has become out of date.

Among the provisions under advisability was one calling for a revised definition of active membership and another determining the exact method of procedure in the undertaking of the various social activities of the organization.

Need for an exact statement of the purpose of the fraternity and for a restatement of its aims was indicated.

Zoological Society Opens Annual Poster Contest

The Fifth Annual Poster contest of the Philadelphia Zoological Society has just been announced. The contest is sponsored in conjunction with the annual "May Day At The Zoo." A first prize of $50 and five additional prizes of $5 each to the next five posters have been offered.

Posters submitted must measure 15 inches by 20 inches, including all margins; the long axis must be vertical. Lettering on the posters must include "May Day At The Zoo," "Sunday, May 3," and "Philadelphia Zoo."

The name and address of the entrant must be clearly lettered on the back of each poster. An application blank, which can be obtained by writing or phoning the Philadelphia Zoological Gardens, 34th St and Girard Ave., must accompany each poster submitted.

All posters must be submitted on or before March 16, 1942, in order to be considered in the competition. Further details can be obtained by referring to the application blank.

I. R. C. Plans Meetings With Two Girls' Colleges

Gerard F. Belz, president of Villanova's International Relations Club, announced today that arrangements are being made for joint meetings to be held with the clubs of Chestnut Hill and Immaculata Colleges.

At the first meeting, tentatively scheduled for the early part of March, with Immaculata, the members will discuss Economic Relations with Latin America.

The conference with Chestnut Hill, which will take place in early April, will concern itself with the various problems to be expected following the end of World War II.

Centennial Class

William P. Walpole, president of the junior class, has announced that a meeting of the entire Centennial Class will be held at 1:00 P. M. today in room 215 Mendel Hall. It is imperative that every member of the class be present as the matters of assessments and blazers will be discussed.

Fifty-Six Begin New Radio Class

Group Enrolled Monday for 32 Week Laboratory and Theory Course

Fifty-six men enrolled last Monday in the new Radio and Electronics course conducted by the ESMDT program of the college. Classes in theory will be conducted by Harry S. Bueche and Emil Amelotti, of the engineering faculty.

Since the group has been divided into two sections, laboratory work for Section A will be supervised by professors Bueche and Driscoll, and Edward Casey, a recent graduate of the electrical engineering school.

On Tuesday nights Section B will do laboratory work under the direction of professors Amelotti and Driscoll, and George Wilson, an electrical engineer of the class of 1940.

The course will cover a period of 32 weeks and will include the following subjects: mathematics, D. C. and A. C. electrical theory and circuit analysis, vacuum tube theory, vacuum tube applications, wire telephony and audio systems, electromagnetic transmission, radio communication system using amplitude modulation, radio transmitter using amplitude modulation, radio receiver using amplitude modulation, frequency modulation, radio propagation, and radio frequency transmission lines.

Theory classes will be held at Villanova College, West Catholic, Northeast Catholic, Norristown, and West Chester; but all laboratory work will be done in the Villanova College laboratories.

Digest Offers Photo Awards

Collegiate Digest's fifth annual Photo Salon Contest for collegiate shutter-snappers has just been announced.

Winning prints will be featured in the special Salon Edition of the Collegiate Digest, and later will be exhibited at leading college art centers in all sections of the country.

All materials must be submitted not later than April 1 to the Salon Editor, Collegiate Digest Section, 323 Fawkes Building, Minneapolis, Minn.

Technical data concerning the photo must be submitted with each entry. College year or faculty standing of the photographer should be noted.

Any size photo will be accepted, but pictures larger than 3 by 5 inches are preferable.

A photo may be entered in any one of the following divisions: a) still life; b) scenes; c) action and candid photos; d) portraits; e) college life.

For the best photo a special prize of $25 will be awarded. First place winners in each division will receive a cash award of $5; second and third place winners, $3 and $2.

There will be no entry fee, and each individual may submit as many photos as he wishes. Photos will be returned only if adequate postage accompanies the entries.

For those students interested in participating in this contest, further information may be obtained by inquiring at the VILLANOVAN office, room 119, Mendel Hall.

"Euglena"

Discussed by Sophomore Science Student at Meeting of Research Seminar, Thursday

"The Euglena" was the topic discussed by Wallace J. Redner, sophomore science student, at the Research Seminar last Thursday.

This organism has long been the subject for controversies between zoologists and botanists. The zoologists contend that the euglena is an animal while botanists claim that it is a plant.

In his dissertation Redner reviewed the general structure of euglena and its particular functions. The relationship of the flagellum to the eye spot in the primitive sensitive system and its connection with locomotion were also considered.

Redner concluded his discussion with a description of the three types of nutrition and the four types of reproduction found in the euglena.

Indoor Team Enters I. C. 4-A Championships

VILLANOVAN SPORTS

Sportorial

By Jacques Mauch
Sports Editor

WE attended a swimming meet between the University of Pennsylvania and the Naval Academy a few weeks back and after the contest we wandered into the officials room and listened in on an interesting discussion. All the officials from the meet were present along with the respective coaches, Bill Merriam from Penn and Henry Ortland, Director of water sports at Navy, and several other men prominent in Philadelphia swimming circles.

Naturally the discussion concerned swimming. What else would be talked about with such men present as Gorden Mullin, former Penn A. C. coach, Jimmy McAdoo, Swarthmore College coach and one time swimmer, and Jack Medica, great Olmpic swimming champion. All these fellows do is eat, sleep, and follow swimming. The local members of this group can alwas be found at any large tank meet in the city.

The confab itself specifically concerned swimming in relation to the present world crisis. In the center of the room and doing most of the talking was the heavy set, bushy-browed Ortland. He was emphasizing just how important swimming was especially in this war. "The reports on the various sinkings in the Atlantic," said he, "show that a very great majority of those saved, regardless of burns or other injuries, were those who were able to swim."

Joe McQuillan, former swimming great and present swimming coach at Haverford school here on the Main Line, who up to now had been inserting little remarks of ironic wisdom, backed up Ortland and said that there ought to be much more emphasis on the water sport in all schools.

The Navy coach then outlined the plan they have recently adopted at Annapolis and of which he has charge. They have special classes in swimming for all midshipmen

SPORTORIAL
Continued on Page Six

Austin Defends Boxing Diadem

By FRAN BAGOT

The annual Intramural Boxing bouts have this year taken on added finery in an effort to outdo any Intramural Boxing show that has ever been presented.

This year's bouts are to be held in conjunction with a Father and Son Smoker. All students have been requested to bring their fathers to the affair. Father McKee and Father Dunne, who are in charge of the contests, have arranged for several added features for the entertainment of the parents along with the student body and faculty.

About sixteen bouts are carded along with several wrestling tussles. Refereeing will be under the able direction of Ray Gadsby, former Villanova boxing coach and Olympic boxer and, at present, assistant boxing coach at Annapolis.

Exhibition by Duffy

If a suitable opponent can be obtained, Bill Duffy, one of the best boxers to enter the pro ranks from Villanova, will put on an exhibition bout. Bill is now one of Gene Tunney's assistants in the Navy physical training program.

Arrangements are being made with the Philadelphia Veteran's

BOXING
Continued on Page Six

Don't Forget Dad

Fellows, don't forget to bring DAD with you to the Boxing Tournament! Help make this Father and Son Smoker a big success and give Dad a treat. Bouts begin sharply at 8:00 P. M. The date—Monday, March 9.

Cigarettes will be distributed by the Philip Morris Company.

Middle Distance Specialists

Pictured above are five of the seven Wildcat runners who will compete Saturday in the IC4-A Championships in Madison Square Garden. From left to right are: Harry Keefrider, Captain Bill Hooper, Dutch McCarthy, Bob O'Sullivan, and Dixie Dunbar. They will run in events from the 600 to the mile.

Wildcats Conclude Court Season With Visits To Geneva And W. & J.

By BILL WALSH

Riding the crest of a four game winning streak over major foes, Villanova's Wildcats close their '41-'42 caging activities this week-end in western Pennsylvania. On Friday they will journey to Beaver Falls and tackle the Geneva Covies. The next evening they engage the Presidents of Washington and Jefferson at Washington, Pa., in the final game of the season. The Severancemen will attempt to continue the impressive play that they have shown in the last four games, and thereby wind up a mediocre season in a blaze of glory. Victories this week-end would bring the Blue and White total to fourteen, and would greatly redeem the dismal showings of the early season.

Villanova has beaten Geneva once this year in a hotly contested game, 43-40. This game was played in the Field House on January 3. Geneva is out for revenge on their home court Friday, as they too, have beaten Duquesne, and feel that they have an inside chance to topple the favored Wildcats.

W. & J. Saturday

Starting for the Covies will be the same five that opposed the Wildcats before, John Billie, Bob Palmer, Don Visciarelli, Johnny Moyer, and Bill Jersey. The star of the team is its captain, John Billie, nicknamed the "blonde bomber." He is the team's high scorer, and earned a berth on the first team of the All-Pennsylvania quintet picked by the Associated Press last year. He was a thorn in the side of the Wildcats in their initial meeting this season, when he tallied sixteen points. Runners up for scoring honors are the seasoned veterans, Johnny Bugs Moyer, and Bob Palmer.

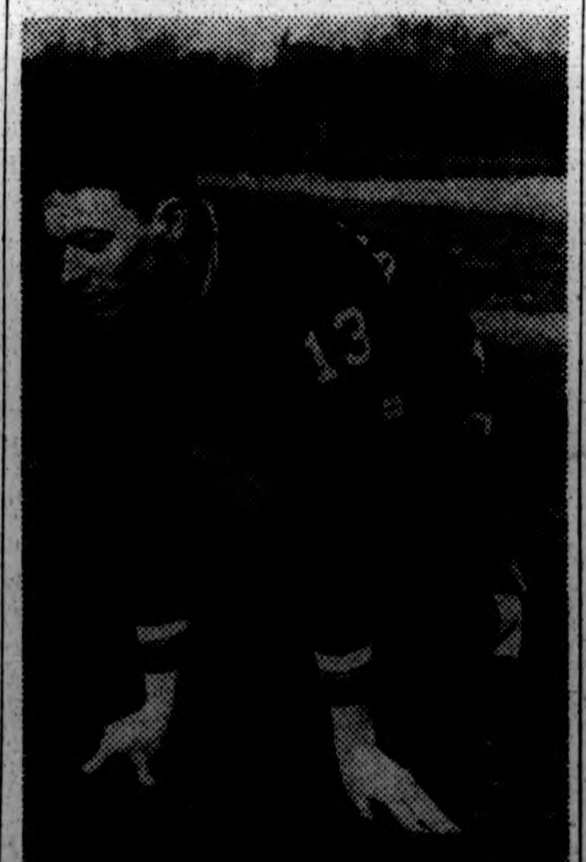
Invading Washington, Pa., on Saturday, the Wildcats will run into a formidable quintet that is always tough, Washington and Jefferson. They had a record of fifteen wins and three losses last season, and were considered the third best team in the state.

Hartman Dangerous

W. & J. beat Villanova last year in the gym by the score of 25-24, as their towering center, Huck Hartman, led them to a climaxing victory. This year, this six foot, seven inch giant is back again, and Villanova can expect much trouble from him. His uncanny marksmanship in the pivot spot is something the Wildcats will have to defend heavily against.

The rest of the starting team of the Presidents will be: Al Reece, a six foot, three inch forward, Wally Kettlewell, Jack Wilson, and Hank Zeller. The high scorer of the team, is Huck Hartman. He is followed by Reece and Zeller respectively.

This promises to be a tough game for Villanova, but if they can find a way to stop Hartman, and play as they have in the last four contests, the rest will be easy. The Wildcats are out to avenge last year's defeat, and a victory over W. & J. will go far toward making the '41-'42 season a successful one.



JOHN DICARLO, Wildcat sprint star, who will wear the Blue and White in the 60-yard dash and the broad-jump events Saturday. He and George Guida are entered in a star-studded field.

Casey Joins Navy; Will Assist Tunney

Dan Casey, football fullback and star outfielder on Doc Jacobs baseball team has enlisted in the navy. He left last Thursday for Raleigh, North Carolina, where he will train and study for a commission. Upon receiving his officers rating, he will enter the service as an assistant to Lieutenant Gene Tunney in the extensive Navy Physical Training Program.

Casey, although a good football player, was noted more for his baseball prowess. He was one of the most promising players ever to enter Villanova and had a bright future ahead in the college sport. Last year he batted in the cleanup spot on the varsity and had the second best average on the team.

Casey's home is in Albany, New York.

EX-STAR IN HOSPITAL

John Wysocki, All-American end at Villanova in 1937, has entered a hospital in the west to undergo an operation for the removal of a kidney. Wysocki hails from Wilkes-Barre, Pa.

Jim Elliott Enters Seven Runners In Five Events

DiCarlo, Guida and Dunbar Each Run Two Events; Captain Bill Hooper Entered in Fast Mile Field

This Saturday Coach Jim Elliott will entrain with his boys for Madison Square Garden's wooden oval with high hopes of upsetting some of the dope and garnering a few places in the IC4A Indoor Championships.

This is the Wildcats' first appearance in the Intercollegiate Indoor meet. They competed for the first time in the IC4A Championships last June upon ratification of their entrance into the association a month previous. However, the runners are well-seasoned in the big time circuit, having run for the past four week-ends in the Garden and in Philadelphia's Convention Hall.

Leading the Blue and White entries are sprint aces John DiCarlo and George Guida. Both will run in the 60 yard dash against Bob Jackson of Princeton and the Penn State duo, Dobbins and Ewell, to name a few. DiCarlo will also broad jump while Guida, sophomore youngster of the team, will run in the Six Hundred with Dixie Dunbar, another sophomore.

Strong Field

Guida and Dunbar will brush up against such veterans as John Campbell, Fordham flash, who led the Rams to the Championship last year, Al Diebolt, Colgate world record holder at the 500 yard distance, and Bill Lawyer of N. Y. U. The Wildcat youths may not be drawn in the same heats as these stars but if they qualify for the finals they will be pretty certain to meet all of them. This is one of the strongest fields in the meet.

Qualifying heats and resulting finals will be held in all running events with the exception of the mile. This places quite a burden on the individual runner and the boys will have tough sledding.

Hooper in Mile

Captain Bill Hooper will run in the mile event against a field dominated by the perennial favorite, N. Y. U.'s great Leslie McMitchell. Ralph Schwartzkopf, brother of the famed LeRoy will bear the Blue of Yale in this race and will provide strong cempetition. However, Hooper, who has come along quickly in the past year, is expected to be well up in the pack.

The other Wildcat entries are the middle distance specialists, Bob O'Sullivan, Harry Keefrider, and Dutch McCarthy. They will circle the oval in the 1000 yard run. Lead-

IC4-A MEET
Continued on Page Seven

Bowling Team Organized To Oppose Other Colleges

For the first time in the history of Villanova, an intercollegiate bowling team will represent the college in competition against pinmen of other local schools. Don Cryor and Bob Simpson, Junior Engineers, presented their proposal to Father McGuire, who gave his approval to the idea. The plan is an outgrowth of the Phi Kappa Pi Bowling league which has been in existence for several years.

Cryor and Simpson, founders and student sponsors of the proposed team, are among the outstanding bowlers in the engineers league. Cryor leads with a high average of 171 and Simpson holds down third place with a 160 average. Anyone interested in trying out for the team should contact either Cryor or Simpson sometime this week. Places are open to everyone in the college. The only requirement is an average about 160.

Challenges to Be Issued

Charley Butera, one of the most prominent match game bowlers in the country and proprietor of the Ardmore Bowling Academy has offered his services as coach to the teams. His wealth of talent and experience should be a great aid to the team in preparation for their matches.

Challenges will be issued to the University of Pennsylvania, Swarthmore College, Temple University, St. Joseph's College, and the University of Delaware. These schools have been supporting leagues and teams for several years and should accept the challenges with alacrity.

Good Team Predicted

The team will be very popular at Villanova. The interest in the PKP league has increased yearly until this season there are over seventy-five men in the engineers Saturday afternoon league. There are many bowlers who consistently hit around 150 and a few who push their averages into the hundred and three-quarters class. It is almost certain that a good team can be gathered from these, but the sponsors feel that there must be quite a few good bowlers scattered throughout the other schools. Selection of the team will be based on the averages compiled by the applicants in a ten-game tryout. There are seven positions open.

Anyone interested in trying out for the team, please contact one of the sponsors this week.

Swimmers Lose To Penn Mermen; Beat St. Peter's

Coach Moore and Team Close Lean Season Against Strong Rutgers Team Tomorrow Night

After absorbing a 51-24 beating at the hands of a much stronger University of Pennsylvania swimming team in Hutchinson pool last Wednesday, the Wildcat merman turned about and dunked the St. Peter's College swimmers on Friday by almost the same score, 51-23.

Against Penn the Blue and White managed to gain two first places to the Quakers' seven. Frank Desmond swam the best race of his career to gain the Wildcats' only individual victory. He beat out his old rival, Bob Wissoker, in the fast time of 2.40.1. The two raced even for almost a hundred and fifty yards, then Desmond reverted back to his strong butterfly stroke and pulled far ahead of Wissoker and Frank DeLone, the other Red and Blue swimmer.

The other Wildcat victory was registered by the freestyle relay team of Tom Lyons, Bill Naylor, Leo Hin and Bob Koness.

Record Broken

Ed Hueber, sensational Red and Blue freestyler, established a new Hutchinson pool record of 23.5 seconds in the 50 yard freestyle. He was far ahead of teammate Jim Fiedler and Bob Koness. These three finished in the same order in the 100. Hueber's time in this event was 53.8 seconds.

On Friday, the Wildcats, strengthened by the return of Ed Riley to the lineup, dominated every event. They won all but one race, the 220 yard freestyle, in which the visitors' Al Koster touched out Riley by six inches. It was so close that both men finished in the same time. Riley later beat Koster in the 440.

High scorer was Villanova's co-captain, Bob Koness. Koness was the victor in both the 50 and 100 yard freestyle and swam anchor on the freestyle relay team with Tom Dolan, Tom Lyons, and Bill Naylor.

Desmond won his sixth breaststroke race of the season and co-captain John Maher completely outdistanced his rival in the 150 yard backstroke. These two teamed with Lyons to win the medley relay.

Close Season

Tomorrow night the mermen close their season at New Brunswick, N. J., where they will meet Bill Riley's crack Rutgers team. Rutgers at present is leading the NCAA swimming group and is ranked as one of the outstanding tank teams in the east.

Boxing

Continued From Page Five

Boxing Association for two "old timers" to put on a bout which should be of interest to the fathers present. Tommy Loughran, former light heavyweight champion of the world, has been contacted, and it is expected that he will be present as in former years to help with the judging and refereeing.

Printed Programs

Austin Hall, who won last year, is the defender in the contest. Most of the competition is expected to come from Alumni Hall, who held the title for the three years previous to last and will make a decided effort to regain it.

The bouts this year will not be announced until the night of the contest. In previous years they were announced about a week in advance but this practice has been discontinued and a printed program containing a list of the matches will be distributed on Monday night.

Three Defend

All matches will be made according to both weight and ability of each individual so as to insure even and interesting contests.

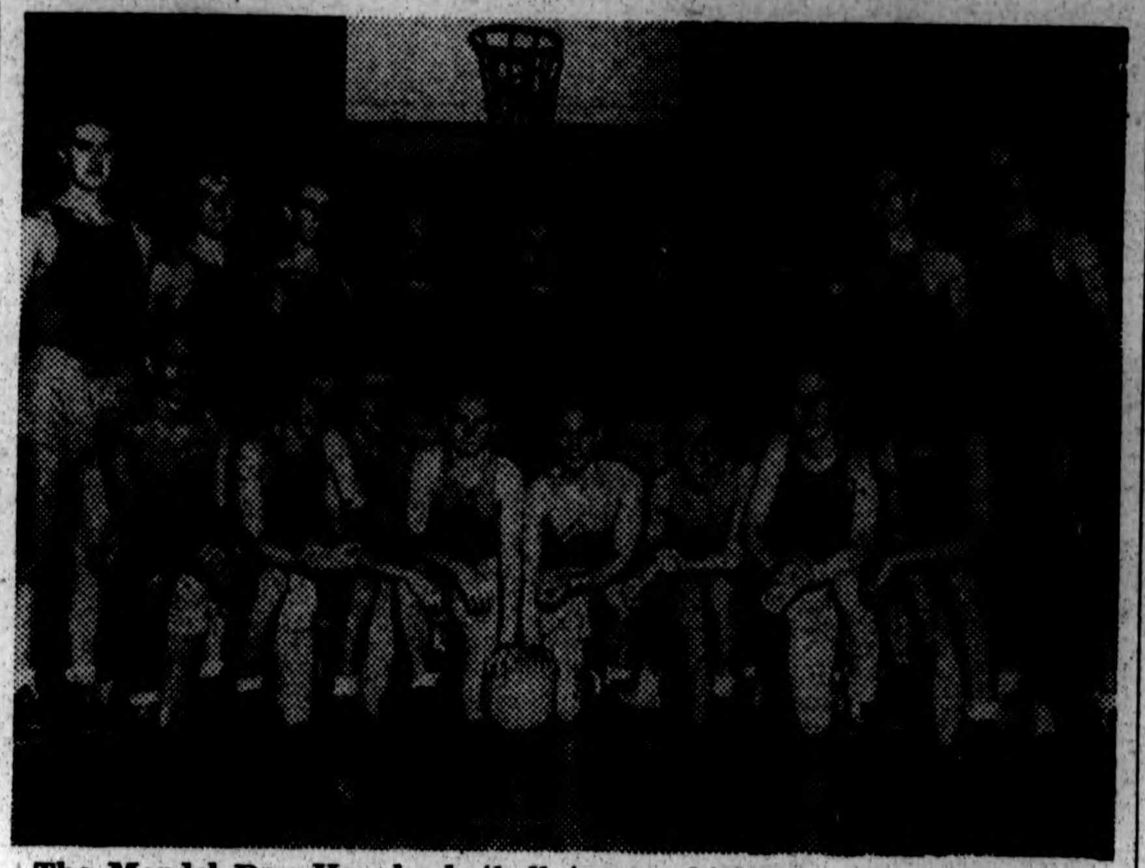
Four defending champions are returning. Charley Lozowski, 145-pounder of lightweight football fame, Bill Fenton and Scotty Boyle, lightheavies, and Carl Vogt, football tackle in the heavyweight class, will attempt to preserve their records.

Fedigan Slips

Austin Hall, along with the Mendel Day Hops and Alumni Hall have the most entries and seems to be gunning for another title to boost their point total for the Intramural trophy. But Alumni, always a dark horse because of its unknown strength, and a strong contender for honors may upset the dope and regain the title.

Mendel Day Hops Win Intramural Court Title

The Winnahs!



The Mendel Day Hop basketball team which won the Intramural Court Championship last week by taking the second half title. They had previously won the first half. Shown in the picture are, kneeling in the usual order, Curreri, Powers, Bruni, Callahan, Amicone, Gill, Simpson, and Weber. Those standing are: O'Donnell, Graziano, Boyle, Foster, Fr. Sullivan, the moderator, Orloff, Traitz, Koob, and Harris.

Court Comments

By
AL SEVERANCE
Basketball Coach

In a preceding article, the abilities and qualifications of the personnel of the 1941-42 hopsters was discussed, with the claim that man for man they were as fine a group of courtmen that has ever graced our boards. It was intimated that when they employed their talents and employed the fundamentals they have acquired, any team that opposed them on that particular evening would find them a mighty worthy foe, with the results of the contests always in doubt.

Duquesne, Westminister, and St. Bonaventure's all felt the power of this unit hitting on all cylinders. Although they were conceeded little chance of copping the contest, the final whistle found a thoroughly satisfied house of fans, who had witnessed as fine a defensive and offensive game played this season, with the Blue and White carrying off top honors.

Mistakes Educational

The log shows, twelve on the credit side and eight in the debit column. Although one must accept the good with the bad, nevertheless, the local five did not evince the same form and type of play on the road that they exhibited at home. Consequently, the critical person has some justification in contending that the team should have a more creditable showing in the win department.

The character of this team has always been of the highest calibre and the gentlemen who compose it are the finest I have ever had the pleasure of coaching. The mistakes of the campaign have been educational and there is not the slightest doubt that blessed with the fine balance and intellegent appreciation of the job to be done they will be a steady, hard hitting aggregation in the 1942-43 campaign, should subsequent factors spare them for that season.

Basketball for Student

With serious considerations at hand, that effect our religious economical and social civilization, both your writer and the immediate members of the team will enthusiastically enter into the worthy and far-reaching physical program that is to be initiated by the college.

We feel that we can conduct a program embracing the sport of basketball, which has the natural power of attraction to draw close to eighty million persons a year, and to make it not only attractive but also educational.

We hope the student body as a whole will cooperate with us in building a recreational group in this sport, that will go a long way in preparing them for the physical demands that might be made on them by the exigencies of the times.

Frosh Lead PKP Bowling

The freshman bowling team finally gained top ranking in the P. K. P. Pin League as they took four games from their opponents last week. They deposed the previously unbeaten Sophomore Chemicals, who lost the golden touch, and dropped into a second place tie by losing four points to the Senior Chemicals. The Junior M. E. Day Hops continued on their way by gaining three points to share second place.

The Juniors set a new high three-game total as they picked off 2231 pins. Koob, rolling with the Junior Chems, hit a new high single when he downed 209 pins to take top position in that division. This record broke the one previously held by Cryor and Rosa.

Rosa took the high average with 167 and Cryor dropped to 164 into second place. Simpson holds down third place with 157 followed by Jim Cahill with 152. The faculty placed one man in the first five when Father O'Donnell took over fifth place with a 148 average.

The standings of the teams are as follows:

	Won	Lost
Freshman	14	2
Soph Chem.	12	4
Junior M. E.	12	4
Senior Chem.	10	6
Faculty	8	8
Senior M. E.	8	8
Junior Chem.	8	8
Junior M. E. Res.	6	10
Soph M. E. D. H. "A"	6	10
Soph M. E. D. H. "B"	0	16

LAST GAME

Saturday night when the Wildcat basketeers meet Washington and Jefferson College at Washington, Pa., two seniors, Captain Dick Gray and Big Fred Gerland, will don the Blue and White jersey and trunks for the last time. Both boys have been varsity members for the past three seasons. Gray, former Trenton Catholic High star is one of the trickiest ball handlers of the squad.

Watch For Schedules

Schedules for the intercollegiate spring sports as well as the spring intramural sports will be published in the VILLANOVAN sports pages as soon as they are released. Watch for the announcements.

The baseball schedule is almost completed and should be able to be published within the next couple of issues. Meanwhile, the golf and tennis schedules are being worked on to provide a maximum number of contests in the short time that these sports will run due to the early graduation.

The intramural softball and hardball rosters will be published as soon as the moderators finish drawing them up.

Commuters Conquer Austin Hall For First League Crown Since '33

Curreri and Weber Lead Champs in 32-28 Win Over Firemen to Break Tie for Second Half Title; Only Second Team in History to Win Without Playoff

Playing the same brand of basketball which won for them the first half Intramural Basketball Championship, the amazing Mendel Dayhops also clinched the second half title last Wednesday night, when they defeated the Austin Firemen, 32-28. This was a climax to the 33-26 defeat of Mendel earlier in the week by Austin, which deadlocked the two teams in first place, each having a record of seven wins and three losses.

As a result of the Mendel victory on Wednesday, the Dayhops made a clean sweep of the Intramural Basketball League, only the second time that this feat has been accomplished in Intramural history. In every other year gone by, a three game playoff series was necessary each year to determine the champion. This was also the first time that a Mendel Dayhop quintet has won the basketball championship since the 1932-'33 season, the first year the present intramural league was organized.

FINAL STANDINGS

	W	L
Mendel D. H.*	7	3
Austin	7	3
Alumni	6	4
C. & F.	6	4
Fedigan	4	6
Mendel Res.	0	10

*Won in playoff.

Day Hops Behind

The game on Wednesday night was a thrill-packed contest from start to finish. Austin led at the half 13-11, and increased this lead to 28-20 with but four minutes left to play. From then on, however, the Dayhops, led by Curreri and Weber, scored twelve points while holding the Firemen scoreless.

It was a heartbreaker for Austin to lose, after they had upset the dope on Monday, and had been leading throughout this contest, but when Fr. Sullivan's boys got the range there was no stopping them. They were the best team in the league this year and the title is deservedly theirs.

Curreri, Weber Star

In this game on Wednesday, Curreri and Weber were the high scorers for the victors with eight points apiece. Curreri sunk four field goals, while Weber scored three double-deckers and two fouls. Macek and Breitske were high for the losers with six each, followed by McQuade with five. Breitske should also be commended for his backboard work, which was the prime factor in Austin's leading throughout the major part of the contest.

In Monday night's game between these two clubs, the Day hops were leading at the half 14-10, and seemed well on their way to win the championship without necessitating any playoff, but a strong second half rally gave Austin a well-earned 33-26 victory. Molnar was high for Austin with nine, followed by Macek with eight. All of Molnar's points came in the second half and were most of the total in Austin's winning spurt. Weber and Amicone were top men for Mendel with six each.

Baseball, Softball Next

Another game played this week, was a 32-28 decision for Alumni over Fedigan. LaBelle, a member of the Green Wave quintet, lead the scoring in this contest with a total of sixteen points. A member of the All-Intramural team, LaBelle proved his selection, as he turned in his best performance of the season.

These games closed the '41-'42 Intramural Basketball League, the next big item on the Intramural program will be the Baseball and Softball leagues, which will begin sometime in April.

Sportorial

Continued From Page Five

and there are varied water tests that have to be passed by each and every man. To show the emphasis placed on it the plan calls for three hundred instructors to teach about thrity-two hundred men. This is a proportion of roughly one instructor to every ten men.

At this point Jack Lumsden, who had been listening as attentively as the rest of us broke in. Lumsden is another swimming star and was coach of St. Joseph's College tank team until he enlisted in the Coast Guard some six weeks ago. He is in charge of Athletics at a Coast Guard unit in Philadelphia and his chief work is swimming instruction. He gives a course something like that at Annapolis but not as extensive.

Jack produced a newspaper clipping telling of a feat accomplished by a Japanese, Reszio Koike. Koike, 1932 Olympic breaststroke champion, instructed a group of Niponese soldiers in swimming and then led them into Hong Kong harbor. They swam with rifles strapped to their backs and exploded the mines lining the harbor, thus permitting entrance of the Jap fleet. Recently, Koike was blown skyward when a mine exploded.

We were a bit surprised on hearing this but Ortland was not. He knew swimming would play an important part in this war, both in incidents like the above mentioned, and in the preserving of seamen's lives in naval mishaps.

It was getting late; the officials began drifting out of the room; Ortland had to catch a train for Annapolis. We went home saying to ourselves, "An interesting discussion, a very interesting discussion."

Light Contact Drills For Spring Gridders

The footballers haven't taken to the outside yet where they have soft loam to lighten the effects of vicious blocks and deadly tackles, but that doesn't stop Clipper Smith from ordering his squad through some light contact drills. Moving about in gym-shoes on the floor of the Field House, the team is learning the plays they will use in the future.

Coach Smith couldn't wait to get his offense rolling. Usually satisfied with the offense, Smith, and Villanova rooters have been driven to despair by the way the 'Cat drives have bogged at crucial moments in the past couple of years. This year the Master is making sure his team is going to know how to move with the ball.

Frosh Tackle Looks Good

Billy Lillienthal, 240 lb. tackle from Englewood High, New Jersey, a mainstay of last year's Frosh team, is heading for a regular spot in the Wildcat line for next season. Observers regard him as the finest tackle to come along since Johnny Mellus.

Young & Kaber
FLOWERS

See
GEORGE GABUZDA
At Simpson Hall
The Campus Representative

Relay Quartet Finishes Fourth

Beat Georgetown in Trials But Lose Out in Final Race of National A. A. U.'s

Villanova's college mile relay team of George Guida, Dixie Dunbar, Bob O'Sullivan and John DiCarlo, running in that order, placed fourth in the finals of the National A. A. U. Championships in New York last Saturday in Madison Square Garden against the best teams of the indoor circuit.

In the afternoon trials the Blue and White foursome finished second in their heat to the Ohrbach A. A. team of Jim McPoland, Ken Lyden, Lou Collado, and Dave Polansky in the very fast time of 3.21.8. The first three boys are formerly of Georgetown while Polansky is a grad of C. C. N. Y. Georgetown, who came back to win the final, finished third in the race. It was a rough contest from start to finish. Fordham University won the second heat from St. John's and Seton Hall in 3.23.1. Such teams as New York University, Seton Hall, Wayne University, Boston College, Manhatten and Rhode Island State fell by the wayside in the trial heats.

'Cats Ran Well

The final of the mile relay race could have been covered by a blanket, it was so close. Georgetown was the winner for the second year in a row in the very fast time of 3.20.3. Fordham was second, Ohrbach A. A., third, Villanova, fourth, and St. John's, fifth.

Despite the fact that the home quartet only finished fourth, they made a very commendable showing. The competition was the very best along the whole eastern coast and the 'Cats are well respected among their competitors.

IC4-A Meet

Continued From Page Five

ing contenders in this contest include Jack 'Leary of Fordham and Joe Gorden of Penn State.

State Is Dark Horse

The defending champions, Fordham University will be out to repeat and have one of the best chances of winning. They are strong in all the running events with the exception of the sprints. Penn State, the dark horse, will be shooting for their first IC4A title and have a good opportunity to accomplish the task.

New York University will be out to regain the crown which Fordham took away last year, and they should make it a close battle. For the last eight years the title has been won by a metropolitan team.

College Record

The time turned in the week before last by the mile relay team was a new college record. The quartet of George Guida, Dixie Dunbar, Bob O'Sullivan, and John DiCarlo were officially timed in 3 minutes, 20.9 seconds when they placed second to Colgate University's speedsters in one of the feature events in the Madison Square Garden races.

Colgate's time was a record breaking performance and is the second fastest mile relay run on the Garden oval this season.

What! So Soon?

SIGNALS . . . LET'S GO NOW, ONE, TWO, THREE! The familiar cry of Dzitko, Danik et al can be heard every afternoon now in the Field House as the Clipper puts his football charges through their spring practice paces. Calisthenics and light contact work feature these indoor drills and will be continued until the weather grows favorable for outdoor scrimmage.

Yearning For Outdoors Doc Jacobs' Anxiety

With the first signs of spring in the air last week, George Doc Jacobs, varsity baseball coach, came out of his winter hibernation and began to look a bit uneasy. And who wouldn't look uneasy if they had to face a gap in a ball team about half the size of the team itself?

Nevertheless, that usually complacent individual got some of his boys to work. Atlhough it is too cold for outdoor practice, the batterymen are limbering up daily. Walk in the Field House any afternoon about three and there are a half-dozen twirlers slinging the old horsehide across the gym floor to their catching mates.

Freshmen Battery

Among the pitchers oiling up the delivery levers are Bill Howlett, Joe Malone, Frank Chapler, Jim Latanza, Joe Noonan, and Jigger Donohue. Bill Wood and Major McDonnell are still playing basketball but manage to sandwich in an hour of work almost every day. This should warm the Doc's heart for the boys will be in good condition from their court antics and still have twirling practice under their belts by the time the hardwood season ends.

Also practicing is a freshmen pitcher, Gene Weinert, who won a dozen or so games for the McCall American Legion Post last season. This boy even has his own battery-work with this year, another freshmate from the McCall team to work with this year, another freshman, by the name of Charley O'Neill.

Outdoors This Week

Other lads on the receiving ends of the gym are George Fitzgerald, a senior, John Mahalic, freshman, and George Famiglietti, junior. Teddy Bicky, who subbed for Al Skaff last season, reported to his draft board last week but may be back.

Jacobs has hopes even determinations to get outdoor this week and to put everyone through his paces. There will be so many new faces on the roster this year that the Doc doesn't know what he has to work with, and, consequently, the beginning of open air practice will not be too soon to suit him.

Schedule Soon

Once outside, the boys can start swinging the oak and Doc can get an idea who is going to fill in the vacant infield. That is the biggest question-mark in the whole setup. Joe Yednock may play but is not certain, while two of the best infielders from last year's freshmen team, George Bontiates and Al Postus, have withdrawn from school.

Golf Candidates

All students interested in trying out for the Golf team are requested to attend an important meeting in Room 111 Mendel, at 1 P. M. today. Plans will be discussed concerning the schedule, and the qualifying trials this year.

Only two members of last year's team remain, so there is an urgent need of linksmen at Villanova this spring.

Meet Your Friends
AT THE GREEKS
We Serve Lunches
Superior Soda Service
Delicious Dinners

Aristocrat
ICE CREAM
"Deliciously Different"
PHILA. DAIRY PRODUCTS CO.
4th & Poplar Sts., Phila., Pa.

KEEP SUPPLIED WITH
SCHOOL TICKETS
GOOD ON BUSES AND RAIL CARS UNTIL USED
5c a Ride, including Special Free Transfers. Obtain Identification Cards at School Office.
RED ARROW LINES
Philadelphia Suburban Transportation Co.
Aronimink Transportation Co.

Men's Clothes
Made-to-Measure
COLEBY
Tailoring
Inc.
57th & MARKET STS.
Suits & Topcoats
$27.75
See Steve Aisenbrey
110 Fedigan Hall

HERE AND THERE

By JACK DUDLEY

An opportunity for participation in Intramural activity is afforded everyone this coming Monday evening at the annual boxing bouts in the Field House. All that is required is that one spend some time each day in training for his bout. With accent on physical fitness these days the boxing bouts are a more important part of campus activity than ever before.

The popularity of these bouts is proven by the fact that this program draws a larger attendance than any other single Intramural contest. As many bouts as possible will be carded which means that candidates are in demand. Get in training this week and help make Monday night the biggest boxing program yet.

—V—

Those amazing Mendel Dayhops have finally taken the Intramural Basketball crown. Not bothering to have to resort to a playoff the Hoppers repeated their triumph of the first half and thereby became the first team that we can recall which has won both first and second half championships. Probably their most thrilling win was the 29-25 victory over the Freshman team a week or so back.

Despite the fact that the Dayhops are not liable to displace Austin as Intramural leader, they are having one of their most successful seasons in years. A first place in the golf tournament last year, added to their basketball triumphs, gives them three firsts so far.

—V—

The lists of Villanova grads in the armed forces of our country is growing every day. Ray Gadsby, now assistant boxing coach at the Naval Academy, is about to enter the Naval Reserve.

Former Wildcat diamond stars now wearing army clothes are Lloyd Rice, Woodie Reitmeier, and Cliff choquette. Rice, after a very successful year in the minors, was drafted. We hope to see Lloyd in the big time after this is all over.

Charlie Timmins and Bob Boudon who used to dive on former Wildcat swimmings teams are now doing power dives in real competition.

If the Naval Avaitors want a basketball team they can build it about two former Wildcat court stars, Paul Nugent and Tom Harford. Ernie Robinson, another Severance product, is in the Army.

Joe Missar, great guard of a few years ago, is in the Marines, stationed at Quantico, Virginia, and Ad Worthington, another gridder, has entered the Army.

Bob Bond, former Villanova first baseman and once the property of the Phillies, is in the Naval Reserve.

Jim Cousart, Brad McManus, and Don McGurk are also serving their country. No long ago this trio were tearing 150 pound opposition apart.

Ben Geraghty, one-time Wildcat baseball star, who was good enough to stick with the Brooklyn Dodgers for some time, is ready to attempt a comeback this year. Having fully recovered from a broken arm, the former Villanova ace should be on his way to attaining recognition as a big league star.

—V—

If the Intramural League here at Villanova was to be suddenly dissolved and the teams left to play each other purely for the love of athletics, interest among the players and the spectators would soon wane. It is the lure of championship that urges any team to give all it has in every game.

What we're driving at is that it seems like a great idea if Catholic colleges in the East could form a league, say for basketball and baseball competition. Think of a league comprising Villanova, Fordham, Manhattan, Holy Cross, Boston College, Duquesne, Georgetown, and the University of Scranton. Baseball and basketball need competition. There has to be more than the outcome of one mere game at stake to place those sports on a big time basis.

Penn has had better teams in the past than their current basketball squad. In fact they have absorbed some of the worst lacings in their history this year. But they still have a chance to win the Ivy League Championship. Penn continues to draw crowds and still rates headlines. It's just the magic of organized competition.

On The Local Screens

ARDMORE THEATRE
Tuesday
"BABES ON BROADWAY"
with
MICKEY ROONEY
JUDY GARLAND
Wednesday to Saturday
"JOHNNY EAGER"
with
ROBERT TAYLOR
LANA TURNER

SUBURBAN
THEATRE ARDMORE
Tuesday to Saturday
Fredric March - Loretta Young in
"BEDTIME STORY"
Sunday and Monday
"BLONDIE GOES TO COLLEGE"
ANTHONY WAYNE
THEATRE WAYNE
Today
"BEDTIME STORY"
Wednesday and Thursday
"H. M. PULHAM, ESQ."
Friday and Saturday
"CONFIRM OR DENY"
Sunday and Monday
"BLUES IN THE NIGHT"
SEVILLE
THEATRE BRYN MAWR
Wednesday and Thursday
"DESIGN FOR SCANDAL"
Friday and Saturday
"BLUES IN THE NIGHT"

WILDCATS!
STOP HERE
LA DOW'S PHARMACY
On the Edge of the Campus
LANCASTER PIKE
VILLANOVA, PA.

Direction Warner Bros.
TOWER
69th & MARKET STS.
Fri. - Sat. - Sun. - Mon.
This Picture was the 1941 Academy Award Winner.
Richard Llewellyn's
"HOW GREEN WAS MY VALLEY"
with
Walter Pidgeon
Donald Crisp
Maureen O'Hara

RIDE FREE ON P. & W. RAILWAY MOVIE TICKETS
NORRIS
NORRISTOWN
Tues. & Wed.
"ALL THROUGH THE NIGHT"
with Humphrey Bogart
Kaaren Verne
Starting Thurs. - Mar. 5
"HOW GREEN WAS MY VALLEY"
with Walter Pidgeon
Donald Crisp - Maureen O'Hara
GRAND
NORRISTOWN
Tues. to Sat.
"THE BUGLE SOUNDS"
with Wallace Beery
Marjorie Main

Swimmers Lose To Penn Mermen; Beat St. Peter's

Coach Moore and Team Close Lean Season Against Strong Rutgers Team Tomorrow Night

After absorbing a 51-24 beating at the hands of a much stronger University of Pennsylvania swimming team in Hutchinson pool last Wednesday, the Wildcat merman turned about and dunked the St. Peter's College swimmers on Friday by almost the same score, 51-23.

Against Penn the Blue and White managed to gain two first places to the Quakers' seven. Frank Desmond swam the best race of his career to gain the Wildcats' only individual victory. He beat out his old rival, Bob Wissoker, in the fast time of 2.40.1. The two raced even for almost a hundred and fifty yards, then Desmond reverted back to his strong butterfly stroke and pulled far ahead of Wissoker and Frank DeLone, the other Red and Blue swimmer.

The other Wildcat victory was registered by the freestyle relay team of Tom Lyons, Bill Naylor, Leo Hin and Bob Koness.

Record Broken

Ed Hueber, sensational Red and Blue freestyler, established a new Hutchinson pool record of 23.5 seconds in the 50 yard freestyle. He was far ahead of teammate Jim Fiedler and Bob Koness. These three finished in the same order in the 100. Hueber's time in this event was 53.8 seconds.

On Friday, the Wildcats, strengthened by the return of Ed Riley to the lineup, dominated every event. They won all but one race, the 220 yard freestyle, in which the visitors' Al Koster touched out Riley by six inches. It was so close that both men finished in the same time. Riley later beat Koster in the 440.

High scorer was Villanova's co-captain, Bob Koness. Koness was the victor in both the 50 and 100 yard freestyle and swam anchor on the freestyle relay team with Tom Dolan, Tom Lyons, and Bill Naylor.

Desmond won his sixth breaststroke race of the season and co-captain John Maher completely outdistanced his rival in the 150 yard backstroke. These two teamed with Lyons to win the medley relay.

Close Season

Tomorrow night the mermen close their season at New Brunswick, N. J., where they will meet Bill Riley's crack Rutgers team. Rutgers at present is leading the NCAA swimming group and is ranked as one of the outstanding tank teams in the east.

Boxing

Continued From Page Five

Boxing Association for two "old timers" to put on a bout which should be of interest to the fathers present. Tommy Loughran, former light heavyweight champion of the world, has been contacted, and it is expected that he will be present as in former years to help with the judging and refereeing.

Printed Programs

Austin Hall, who won last year, is the defender in the contest. Most of the competition is expected to come from Alumni Hall, who held the title for the three years previous to last and will make a decided effort to regain it.

The bouts this year will not be announced until the night of the contest. In previous years they were announced about a week in advance but this practice has been discontinued and a printed program containing a list of the matches will be distributed on Monday night.

Three Defend

All matches will be made according to both weight and ability of each individual so as to insure even and interesting contests.

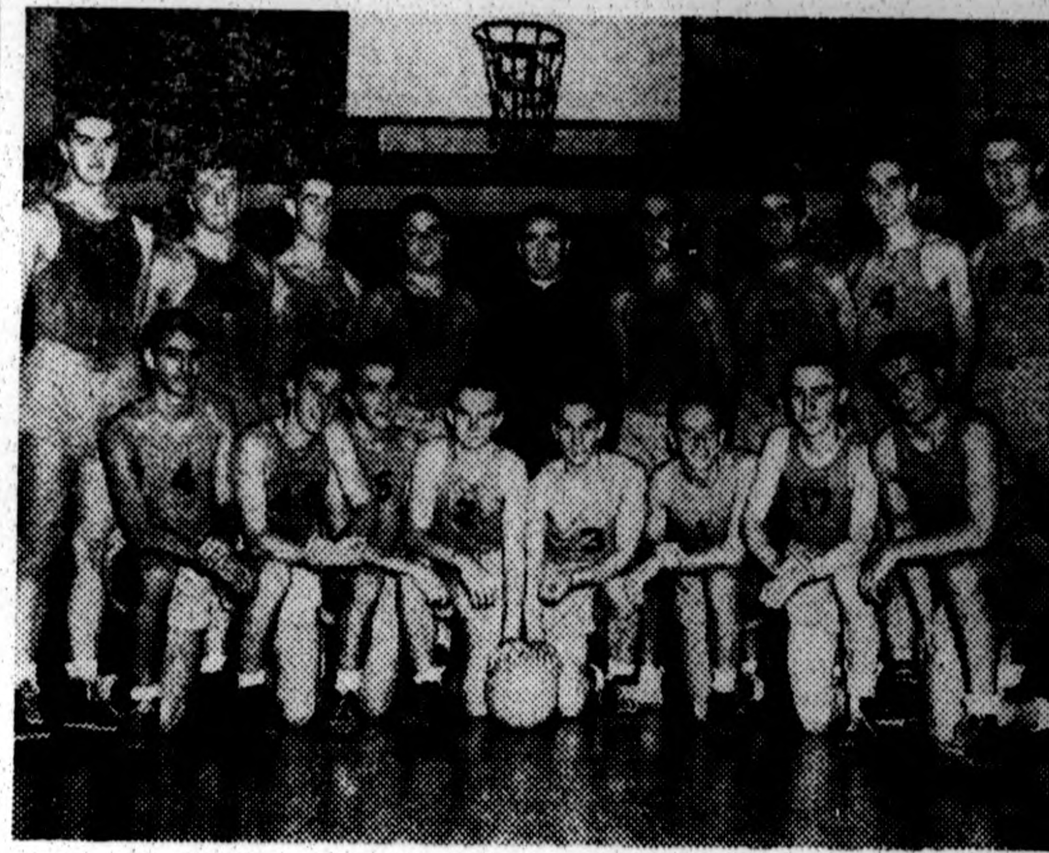
Four defending champions are returning. Charley Lozowski, 145-pounder of lightweight football fame, Bill Fenton and Scotty Boyle, lightheavies, and Carl Vogt, football tackle in the heavyweight class, will attempt to preserve their records.

Fedigan Slips

Austin Hall, along with the Mendel Day Hops and Alumni Hall have the most entries and seems to be gunning for another title to boost their point total for the Intramural trophy. But Alumni, always a dark horse because of its unknown strength, and a strong contender for honors may upset the dope and regain the title.

Mendel Day Hops Win Intramural Court Title

The Winnahs!



The Mendel Day Hop basketball team which won the Intramural Court Championship last week by taking the second half title. They had previously won the first half. Shown in the picture are, kneeling in the usual order, Curreri, Powers, Bruni, Callahan, Amicone, Gill, Simpson, and Weber. Those standing are: O'Donnell, Graziano, Boyle, Foster, Fr. Sullivan, the moderator, Orloff, Traitz, Koob, and Harris.

Court Comments

By
AL SEVERANCE
Basketball Coach

In a preceding article, the abilities and qualifications of the personnel of the 1941-42 hopsters was discussed, with the claim that man for man they were as fine a group of courtmen that has ever graced our boards. It was intimated that when they employed their talents and employed the fundamentals they have acquired, any team that opposed them on that particular evening would find them a mighty worthy foe, with the results of the contests always in doubt.

Duquesne, Westminister, and St. Bonaventure's all felt the power of this unit hitting on all cylinders. Although they were conceeded little chance of copping the contest, the final whistle found a thoroughly satisfied house of fans, who had witnessed as fine a defensive and offensive game played this season, with the Blue and White carrying off top honors.

Mistakes Educational

The log shows, twelve on the credit side and eight in the debit column. Although one must accept the good with the bad, nevertheless, the local five did not evince the same form and type of play on the road that they exhibited at home. Consequently, the critical person has some justification in contending that the team should have a more creditable showing in the win department.

The character of this team has always been of the highest calibre and the gentlemen who compose it are the finest I have ever had the pleasure of coaching. The mistakes of the campaign have been educational and there is not the slightest doubt that blessed with the fine balance and intellegent appreciation of the job to be done they will be a steady, hard hitting aggregation in the 1942-43 campaign, should subsequent factors spare them for that season.

Basketball for Student

With serious considerations at hand, that effect our religious economical and social civilization, both your writer and the immediate members of the team will enthusiastically enter into the worthy and far-reaching physical program that is to be initiated by the college.

We feel that we can conduct a program embracing the sport of basketball, which has the natural power of attraction to draw close to eighty million persons a year, and to make it not only attractive but also educational.

We hope the student body as a whole will cooperate with us in building a recreational group in this sport, that will go a long way in preparing them for the physical demands that might be made on them by the exigencies of the times.

Frosh Lead PKP Bowling

The freshman bowling team finally gained top ranking in the P. K. P. Pin League as they took four games from their opponents last week . They deposed the previously unbeaten Sophomore Chemicals, who lost the golden touch, and dropped into a second place tie by losing four points to the Senior Chemicals. The Junior M. E. Day Hops continued on their way by gaining three points to share second place.

The Juniors set a new high three-game total as they picked off 2231 pins. Koob, rolling with the Junior Chems, hit a new high single when he downed 209 pins to take top position in that division. This record broke the one previously held by Cryor and Rosa.

Rosa took the high average with 167 and Cryor dropped to 164 into second place. Simpson holds down third place with 157 followed by Jim Cahill with 152. The faculty placed one man in the first five when Father O'Donnell took over fifth place with a 148 average.

The standings of the teams are as follows:

	Won	Lost
Freshman	14	2
Soph Chem.	12	4
Junior M. E.	12	4
Senior Chem.	10	6
Faculty	8	8
Senior M. E.	8	8
Junior Chem.	8	8
Junior M. E. Res.	6	10
Soph M. E. D. H. "A"	6	10
Soph M. E. D. H. "B"	0	16

LAST GAME

Saturday night when the Wildcat basketeers meet Washington and Jefferson College at Washington, Pa., two seniors, Captain Dick Gray and Big Fred Gerland, will don the Blue and White jersey and trunks for the last time. Both boys have been varsity members for the past three seasons. Gray, former Trenton Catholic High star is one of the trickiest ball handlers of the squad.

Watch For Schedules

Schedules for the intercollegiate spring sports as well as the spring intramural sports will be published in the VILLANOVAN sports pages as soon as they are released. Watch for the announcements.

The baseball schedule is almost completed and should be able to be published within the next couple of issues. Meanwhile, the golf and tennis schedules are being worked on to provide a maximum number of contests in the short time that these sports will run due to the early graduation.

The intramural softball and hardball rosters will be published as soon as the moderators finish drawing them up.

*Commuters Conquer Austin Hall For First League Crown Since '33

Curreri and Weber Lead Champs in 32-28 Win Over Firemen to Break Tie for Second Half Title; Only Second Team in History to Win Without Playoff

Playing the same brand of basketball which won for them the first half Intramural Basketball Championship, the amazing Mendel Dayhops also clinched the second half title last Wednesday night, when they defeated the Austin Firemen, 32-28. This was a climax to the 33-26 defeat of Mendel earlier in the week by Austin, which deadlocked the two teams in first place, each having a record of seven wins and three losses.

As a result of the Mendel victory on Wednesday, the Dayhops made a clean sweep of the Intramural Basketball League, only the second time that this feat has been accomplished in Intramural history. In every other year gone by, a three game playoff series was necessary each year to determine the champion. This was also the first time that a Mendel Dayhop quintet has won the basketball championship since the 1932-'33 season, the first year the present intramural league was organized.

FINAL STANDINGS

	W	L
Mendel D. H.*	7	3
Austin	7	3
Alumni	6	4
C. & F.	6	4
Fedigan	4	6
Mendel Res.	0	10

*Won in playoff.

Day Hops Behind

The game on Wednesday night was a thrill-packed contest from start to finish. Austin led at the half 13-11, and increased this lead to 28-20 with but four minutes left to play. From then on, however, the Dayhops, led by Curreri and Weber, scored twelve points while holding the Firemen scoreless.

It was a heartbreaker for Austin to lose, after they had upset the dope on Monday, and had been leading throughout this contest, but when Fr. Sullivan's boys got the range there was no stopping them. They were the best team in the league this year and the title is deservedly theirs.

Curreri, Weber Star

In this game on Wednesday, Curreri and Weber were the high scorers for the victors with eight points apiece. Curreri sunk four field goals, while Weber scored three double-deckers and two fouls. Macek and Breitske were high for the losers with six each, followed by McQuade with five. Breitske should also be commended for his backboard work, which was the prime factor in Austin's leading throughout the major part of the contest.

In Monday night's game between these two clubs, the Day hops were leading at the half 14-10, and seemed well on their way to win the championship without necessitating any playoff, but a strong second half rally gave Austin a well-earned 33-26 victory. Molnar was high for Austin with nine, followed by Macek with eight. All of Molnar's points came in the second half and were most of the total in Austin's winning spurt. Weber and Amicone were top men for Mendel with six each.

Baseball, Softball Next

Another game played this week, was a 32-28 decision for Alumni over Fedigan. LaBelle, a member of the Green Wave quintet, lead the scoring in this contest with a total of sixteen points. A member of the All-Intramural team, LaBelle proved his selection, as he turned in his best performance of the season.

These games closed the '41-'42 Intramural Basketball League, the next big item on the Intramural program will be the Baseball and Softball leagues, which will begin sometime in April.

Sportorial

Continued From Page Five

and there are varied water tests that have to be passed by each and every man. To show the emphasis placed on it the plan calls for three hundred instructors to teach about thrity-two hundred men. This is a proportion of roughly one instructor to every ten men.

At this point Jack Lumsden, who had been listening as attentively as the rest of us broke in. Lumsden is another swimming star and was coach of St. Joseph's College tank team until he enlisted in the Coast Guard some six weeks ago. He is in charge of Athletics at a Coast Guard unit in Philadelphia and his chief work is swimming instruction. He gives a course something like that at Annapolis but not as extensive.

Jack produced a newspaper clipping telling of a feat accomplished by a Japanese, Reszio Koike. Koike, 1932 Olympic breaststroke champion, instructed a group of Niponese soldiers in swimming and then led them into Hong Kong harbor. They swam with rifles strapped to their backs and exploded the mines lining the harbor, thus permitting entrance of the Jap fleet. Recently, Koike was blown skyward when a mine exploded.

We were a bit surprised on hearing this but Ortland was not. He knew swimming would play an important part in this war, both in incidents like the above mentioned, and in the preserving of seamen's lives in naval mishaps.

It was getting late; the officials began drifting out of the room; Ortland had to catch a train for Annapolis. We went home saying to ourselves, "An interesting discussion, a very interesting discussion."

Light Contact Drills For Spring Gridders

The footballers haven't taken to the outside yet where they have soft loam to lighten the effects of vicious blocks and deadly tackles, but that doesn't stop Clipper Smith from ordering his squad through some light contact drills. Moving about in gym-shoes on the floor of the Field House, the team is learning the plays they will use in the future.

Coach Smith couldn't wait to get his offense rolling. Usually satisfied with the offense, Smith, and Villanova rooters have been driven to despair by the way the 'Cat drives have bogged at crucial moments in the past couple of years. This year the Master is making sure his team is going to know how to move with the ball.

Frosh Tackle Looks Good

Billy Lillienthal, 240 lb. tackle from Englewood High, New Jersey, a mainstay of last year's Frosh team, is heading for a regular spot in the Wildcat line for next season. Observers regard him as the finest tackle to come along since Johnny Mellus.

Young & Kaber

See
GEORGE
GABUZDA
At Simpson Hall
The Campus
Representative

Relay Quartet Finishes Fourth

Beat Georgetown in Trials But Lose Out in Final Race of National A. A. U.'s

Villanova's college mile relay team of George Guida, Dixie Dunbar, Bob O'Sullivan and John DiCarlo, running in that order, placed fourth in the finals of the National A. A. U. Championships in New York last Saturday in Madison Square Garden against the best teams of the indoor circuit.

In the afternoon trials the Blue and White foursome finished second in their heat to the Ohrbach A. A. team of Jim McPoland, Ken Lyden, Lou Collado, and Dave Polansky in the very fast time of 3.21.8. The first three boys are formerly of Georgetown while Polansky is a grad of C. C. N. Y. Georgetown, who came back to win the final, finished third in the race. It was a rough contest from start to finish. Fordham University won the second heat from St. John's and Seton Hall in 3.23.1. Such teams as New York University, Seton Hall, Wayne University, Boston College, Manhatten and Rhode Island State fell by the wayside in the trial heats.

'Cats Ran Well

The final of the mile relay race could have been covered by a blanket, it was so close. Georgetown was the winner for the second year in a row in the very fast time of 3.20.3. Fordham was second, Ohrbach A. A., third, Villanova, fourth, and St. John's, fifth.

Despite the fact that the home quartet only finished fourth, they made a very commendable showing. The competition was the very best along the whole eastern coast and the 'Cats are well respected among their competitors.

IC4-A Meet

Continued From Page Five

ing contenders in this contest include Jack 'Leary of Fordham and Joe Gorden of Penn State.

State Is Dark Horse

The defending champions, Fordham University will be out to repeat and have one of the best chances of winning. They are strong in all the running events with the exception of the sprints. Penn State, the dark horse, will be shooting for their first IC4A title and have a good opportunity to accomplish the task.

New York University will be out to regain the crown which Fordham took away last year, and they should make it a close battle. For the last eight years the title has been won by a metropolitan team.

College Record

The time turned in the week before last by the mile relay team was a new college record. The quartet of George Guida, Dixie Dunbar, Bob O'Sullivan, and John DiCarlo were officially timed in 3 minutes, 20.9 seconds when they placed second to Colgate University's speedsters in one of the feature events in the Madison Square Garden races.

Colgate's time was a record breaking performance and is the second fastest mile relay run on the Garden oval this season.

What! So Soon?

SIGNALS . . . LET'S GO NOW, ONE, TWO, THREE! The familiar cry of Dzitko, Danik et al can be heard every afternoon now in the Field House as the Clipper puts his football charges through their spring practice paces. Calisthenics and light contact work feature these indoor drills and will be continued until the weather grows favorable for outdoor scrimmage.

Yearning For Outdoors Doc Jacobs' Anxiety

With the first signs of spring in the air last week, George Doc Jacobs, varsity baseball coach, came out of his winter hibernation and began to look a bit uneasy. And who wouldn't look uneasy if they had to face a gap in a ball team about half the size of the team itself?

Nevertheless, that usually complacent individual got some of his boys to work. Atlhough it is too cold for outdoor practice, the batterymen are limbering up daily. Walk in the Field House any afternoon about three and there are a half-dozen twirlers slinging the old horsehide across the gym floor to their catching mates.

Freshmen Battery

Among the pitchers oiling up the delivery levers are Bill Howlett, Joe Malone, Frank Chapler, Jim Latanza, Joe Noonan, and Jigger Donohue. Bill Wood and Major McDonnell are still playing basketball but manage to sandwich in an hour of work almost every day. This should warm the Doc's heart for the boys will be in good condition from their court antics and still have twirling practice under their belts by the time the hardwood season ends.

Also practicing is a freshmen pitcher, Gene Weinert, who won a dozen or so games for the McCall American Legion Post last season. This boy even has his own battery-work with this year, another freshmate from the McCall team to work with this year, another freshman, by the name of Charley O'Neill.

Outdoors This Week

Other lads on the receiving ends of the gym are George Fitzgerald, a senior, John Mahalic, freshman, and George Famiglietti, junior. Teddy Bicky, who subbed for Al Skaff last season, reported to his draft board last week but may be back.

Jacobs has hopes even determinations to get outdoor this week and to put everyone through his paces. There will be so many new faces on the roster this year that the Doc doesn't know what he has to work with, and, consequently, the beginning of open air practice will not be too soon to suit him.

Schedule Soon

Once outside, the boys can start swinging the oak and Doc can get an idea who is going to fill in the vacant infield. That is the biggest question-mark in the whole setup. Joe Yednock may play but is not certain, while two of the best infielders from last year's freshmen team, George Bontiates and Al Postus, have withdrawn from school.

Golf Candidates

All students interested in trying out for the Golf team are requested to attend an important meeting in Room 111 Mendel, at 1 P. M. today. Plans will be discussed concerning the schedule, and the qualifying trials this year.

Only two members of last year's team remain, so there is an urgent need of linksmen at Villanova this spring.

Meet Your Friends
AT THE GREEKS
We Serve Lunches
Superior Soda Service
Delicious Dinners

Aristocrat
ICE CREAM
"Deliciously Different"
PHILA. DAIRY PRODUCTS CO.
4th & Poplar Sts., Phila., Pa.

KEEP SUPPLIED WITH
SCHOOL TICKETS
GOOD ON BUSES AND RAIL CARS UNTIL USED
5c a Ride, including Special Free Transfers. Obtain Identification Cards at School Office.
RED ARROW LINES
Philadelphia Suburban Transportation Co.
Aronimink Transportation Co.

Men's Clothes
Made-to-Measure
COLEBY
Tailoring
Inc.
57th & MARKET STS.
Suits & Topcoats
$27.75
See Steve Aisenbrey
110 Fedigan Hall

HERE AND THERE

By JACK DUDLEY

AN opportunity for participation in Intramural activity is afforded everyone this coming Monday evening at the annual boxing bouts in the Field House. All that is required is that one spend some time each day in training for his bout. With accent on physical fitness these days the boxing bouts are a more important part of campus activity than ever before.

The popularity of these bouts is proven by the fact that this program draws a larger attendance than any other single Intramural contest. As many bouts as possible will be carded which means that candidates are in demand. Get in training this week and help make Monday night the biggest boxing program yet.

—V—

Those amazing Mendel Dayhops have finally taken the Intramural Basketball crown. Not bothering to have to resort to a playoff the Hoppers repeated their triumph of the first half and thereby became the first team that we can recall which has won both first and second half championships. Probably their most thrilling win was the 29-25 victory over the Freshman team a week or so back.

Despite the fact that the Dayhops are not liable to displace Austin as Intramural leader, they are having one of their most successful seasons in years. A first place in the golf tournament last year, added to their basketball triumphs, gives them three firsts so far.

—V—

The lists of Villanova grads in the armed forces of our country is growing every day. Ray Gadsby, now assistant boxing coach at the Naval Academy, is about to enter the Naval Reserve.

Former Wildcat diamond stars now wearing army clothes are Lloyd Rice, Woodie Reitmeier, and Cliff choquette. Rice, after a very successful year in the minors, was drafted. We hope to see Lloyd in the big time after this is all over.

Charlie Timmins and Bob Boudon who used to dive on former Wildcat swimmings teams are now doing power dives in real competition.

If the Naval Avaitors want a basketball team they can build it about two former Wildcat court stars, Paul Nugent and Tom Harford. Ernie Robinson, another Severance product, is in the Army.

Joe Missar, great guard of a few years ago, is in the Marines, stationed at Quantico, Virginia, and Ad Worthington, another gridder, has entered the Army.

Bob Bond, former Villanova first baseman and once the property of the Phillies, is in the Naval Reserve.

Jim Cousart, Brad McManus, and Don McGurk are also serving their country. No long ago this trio were tearing 150 pound opposition apart.

Ben Geraghty, one-time Wildcat baseball star, who was good enough to stick with the Brooklyn Dodgers for some time, is ready to attempt a comeback this year. Having fully recovered from a broken arm, the former Villanova ace should be on his way to attaining recognition as a big league star.

—V—

If the Intramural League here at Villanova was to be suddenly dissolved and the teams left to play each other purely for the love of athletics, interest among the players and the spectators would soon wane. It is the lure of championship that urges any team to give all it has in every game.

What we're driving at is that it seems like a great idea if Catholic colleges in the East could form a league, say for basketball and baseball competition. Think of a league comprising Villanova, Fordham, Manhattan, Holy Cross, Boston College, Duquesne, Georgetown, and the University of Scranton. Baseball and basketball need competition. There has to be more than the outcome of one mere game at stake to place those sports on a big time basis.

Penn has had better teams in the past than their current basketball squad. In fact they have absorbed some of the worst lacings in their history this year. But they still have a chance to win the Ivy League Championship. Penn continues to draw crowds and still rates headlines. It's just the magic of organized competition.

On The Local Screens

ARDMORE THEATRE
Tuesday
"BABES ON BROADWAY"
with
MICKEY ROONEY
JUDY GARLAND
Wednesday to Saturday
"JOHNNY EAGER"
with
ROBERT TAYLOR
LANA TURNER

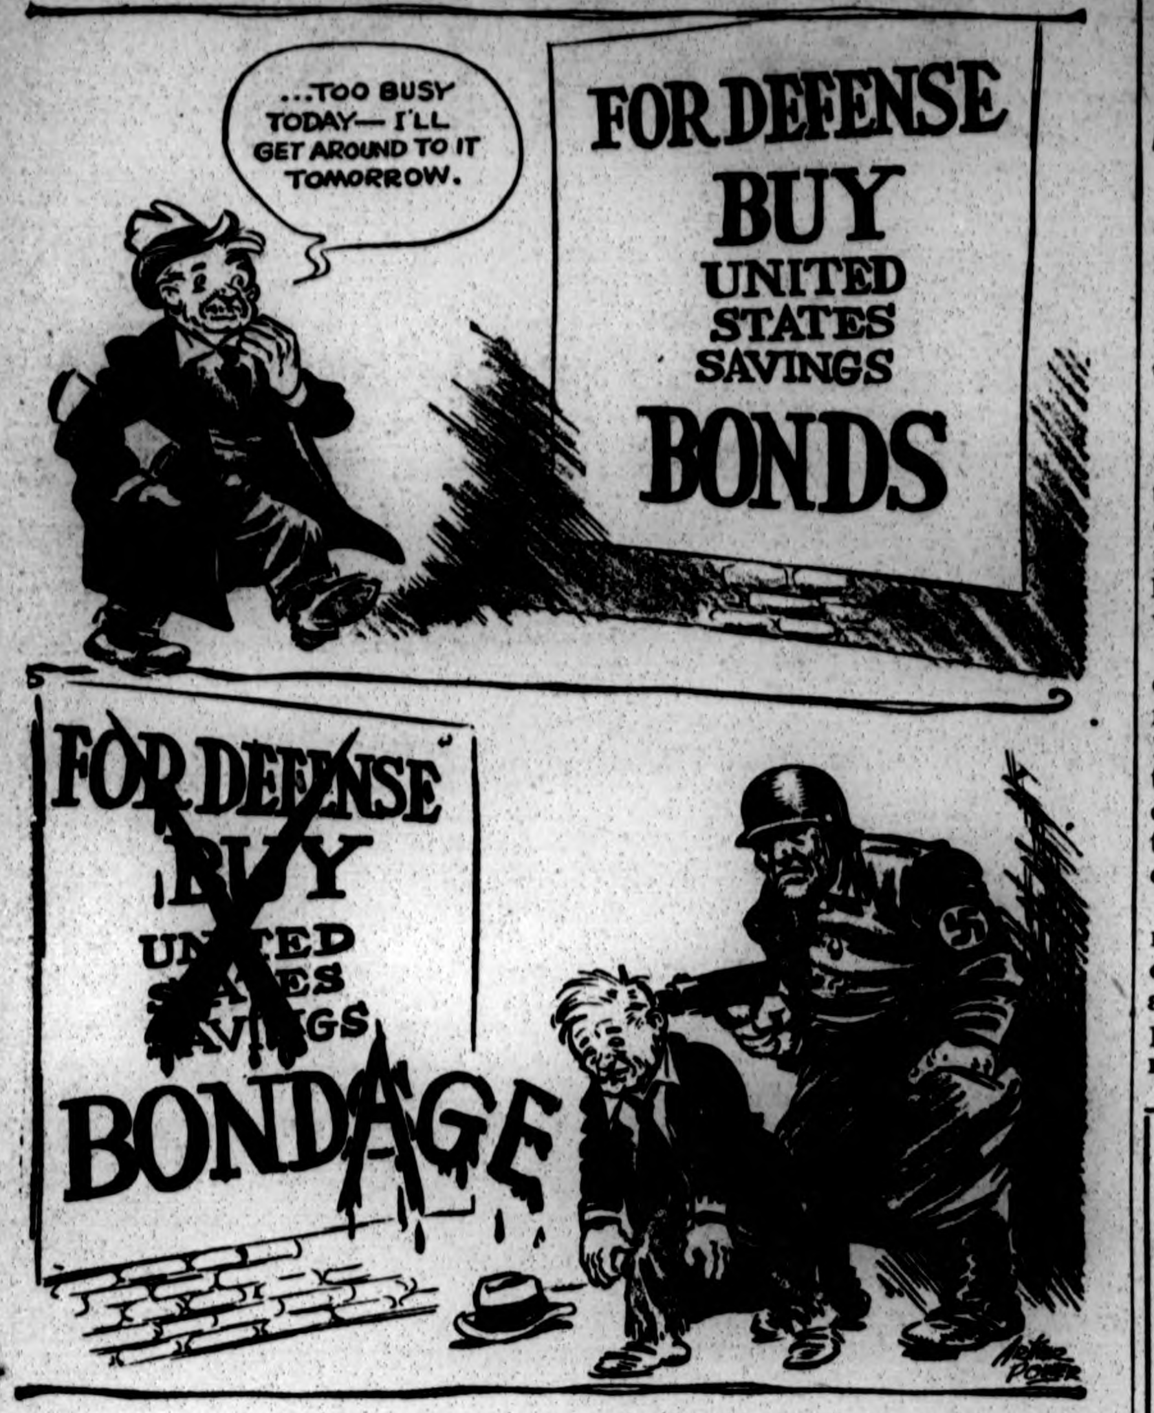
Direction Warner Bros.
TOWER
69th & MARKET STS.
Fri. - Sat. - Sun. - Mon.
This Picture was the 1941 Academy Award Winner.
Richard Llewellyn's
"HOW GREEN WAS MY VALLEY"
with
Walter Pidgeon
Donald Crisp
Maureen O'Hara

SUBURBAN
THEATRE ARDMORE
Tuesday to Saturday
Fredric March - Loretta Young in
"BEDTIME STORY"
Sunday and Monday
"BLONDIE GOES TO COLLEGE"
ANTHONY WAYNE
THEATRE WAYNE
Today
"BEDTIME STORY"
Wednesday and Thursday
"H. M. PULHAM, ESQ."
Friday and Saturday
"CONFIRM OR DENY"
Sunday and Monday
"BLUES IN THE NIGHT"
SEVILLE
THEATRE BRYN MAWR
Wednesday and Thursday
"DESIGN FOR SCANDAL"
Friday and Saturday
"BLUES IN THE NIGHT"

RIDE FREE ON P. & W. RAILWAY MOVIE TICKETS
NORRIS
NORRISTOWN
Tues. & Wed.
"ALL THROUGH THE NIGHT"
with Humphrey Bogart
Kaaren Verne
Starting Thurs. - Mar. 5
"HOW GREEN WAS MY VALLEY"
with Walter Pidgeon
Donald Crisp - Maureen O'Hara
GRAND
NORRISTOWN
Tues. to Sat.
"THE BUGLE SOUNDS"
with Wallace Beery
Marjorie Main

WILDCATS!
STOP HERE
LA DOW'S PHARMACY
On the Edge of the Campus
LANCASTER PIKE
VILLANOVA, PA.

TOMORROW MAY BE TOO LATE



...TOO BUSY TODAY— I'LL GET AROUND TO IT TOMORROW.
FOR DEFENSE BUY UNITED STATES SAVINGS BONDS
~~FOR DEFENSE BUY UNITED STATES SAVINGS~~ BONDAGE
Arthur Poinier

Bonds And Stamps

Contributions to the Defense Bonds and Stamps Drive have been disappointing thus far, according to William P. Walpole, chairman of the Bonds and Stamps Committee. He said that the defense sale has been begun in the resident halls, but with indifferent success. A stand will soon be erected in Mendel Hall, where students may buy a share in the defense of their nation.

"The whole-hearted support given to the recent Red Cross drive by the entire student body would seem to indicate that the poor response thus far is due primarily to the fact that it hasn't been brought to student attention sufficiently," Walpole remarked.

Take a good look at the cartoon above and then let your conscience and your common sense be your guide. Remember to "Keep 'em Flying" we have to "Keep 'em Giving."

Ex-Student Killed

Continued From Page One

had not yet been found at that time.

Graduated from St. Agnes Academy in June, 1938, Dowling, who would have been 22 in May, enrolled in the science school at Villanova in the fall of the same year, where he began preparation for a career in dentistry. In June, 1940, he was admitted to the Civil Aeronautics School in Farmingdale, L. I., and as a result did not return to school. He was transferred to Turner Field, Ala., in April, 1941, received his commission last December and was assigned to duty in Boston.

Lt. Dowling was well-known for extra-curricular activities in his two years at Villanova. He was outstanding on the 150-pound football team, a member of the swimming team and a sailboat enthusiast.

Ironically enough he was a bridegroom of just 13 days. He was married on Feb. 11 to the former Mary Loretta McHugh of Flushing, L. I., and the couple had established a home in Boston. Besides his bride Lt. Dowling is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Dowling, and by a younger sister.

George Fein & Co.
Printers & Publishers
2116 to 2130 Arch St.
PHILADELPHIA, PA.
RITtenhouse 6983

The Lamp Post Inn
Luncheon and Dinners
Strafford, Pa.

Keep Abreast Of Events

Tuesday, March 3—
VILLANOVAN Staff Meeting	1:00 P. M.
International Relations Club	2:30 P. M.
Wednesday, March 4—
Sophomore Class Meeting	1:00 P. M.
Music Seminar	7:30 P. M.
Thursday, March 5—
Science Forum	10:45 A. M.
Delta Pi Epsilon	11:45 A. M.
Lambda Kappa Delta	1:00 P. M.
Research Seminar	4:30 P. M.
Symphonic Band Practice	6:00 P. M.
Friday, March 6—
Varsity Debate: Villanova at Loyola	3:30 P. M.
Varsity Basketball: Villanova vs. Geneva (Beaver Falls)	8:30 P. M.
Saturday, March 7—
Varsity Basketball: Villanova vs. Washington and Jefferson (Washington, Pa.)	8:30 P. M.
Sunday, March 8—
Varsity Debate: Villanova vs. St. Francis'	3:30 P. M.
Monday, March 9—
Varsity Debate: Villanova vs. Upsala	8:30 P. M.

Gordon Nick
Linen Supply Co.
1612 to 1620 North 11th St.
Philadelphia, Pa.

For Expert Convenient Attention
SERVICE IS OUR FIRST THOUGHT
Patronize
THE CAMPUS BARBER SHOP
· First Class Work ·
· Popular Prices ·

Tree Film Shown At Science Forum

At the last meeting of the Science Forum held on Thursday, Feb. 26, the members were entertained by a showing of color and sound movies of a film entitled, "Trees and the Home."

The story of trees from the time they are cut down in the forest, to the time they are put into practical use as lumber or sawdust, was depicted by this film. It was explained how a 100-year-old Douglas Fir tree would furnish enough wood to build a seven room house.

In colorful scenes and vivid descriptions it told of the tree's trip from the forest to the sawmill; how lumberjacks, called toppers, first trim the top branches, the sawmen cut down the high trunks send them down chutes to the sawmill, or store them in drying houses.

When the logs are sent through the mills on a conveyer belt a different part of the tree is taken out for a particular use, such as might happen on an assembly line of any modern factory.

Speaks Tomorrow

Mr. Donald S. Bridgman of the American Telephone and Telegraph Co., will address a meeting of the class in Industrial Management tomorrow evening at 7:30 in Mendel Hall. He will be the first of several outside speakers to be brought in to supplement the regular lectures.

Faculty Comments

Continued From Page Two

cent assumption of the accelerated program. In our school efforts time saved is important, but time should not become overemphasized. Just as any army even in battle conserves its power for a final attack —makes haste slowly, so to speak— so should we all conserve our powers by proper rest, some relaxation, and above all by wholesome recreation.

So too in the spiritual realm is there need of conservation. There is need of a perspective that can be gained through prayer and meditation. We can get nowhere without a definite plan, and part of the conservative process is demand for thought as to what to do to conserve our resources for greater effort. In like manner in a spiritual sense there is demand for meditation or thought about our soul, our sense of spiritual values and our moral conduct. The greatest surety of speed in action is correctness of poise and the right process of function. How's your spiritual poise and function? Reflection and prayer are your means of check-up and improvement.

HART & HALL, Inc.
Insurance
825 LANCASTER AVE.
Bryn Mawr, Pa.

Sun Cleaners and
Dyers

Speaks Tonight

REV. J. M. DOUGHERTY, O.S.A., dean of the School of Science, will be the third speaker of the present series of Lenten lectures given to the resident students every Tuesday night. The topic upon which he will speak will be "Self-sacrifice."

D. P. E. Shows Movies Of Pearl Harbor Attack

Motion pictures presented by Delta Pi Epsilon, commerce school fraternity, last Thursday struck a warlike note with the showing of a newsreel depicting the sneak-attack upon Pearl Harbor on Dec. 7. A second reel entitled "News Scoops of the Year" followed. The news pictures showing the destruction of the Tacoma suspension bridge, which received highest rating in 1941, were among these reviews. A short cartoon completed the program.

David N. Reardon, president, has announced that all senior members of the fraternity who wish to obtain keys must settle all outstanding dues payable for this or other previous years. The fraternity key will be presented to all seniors complying with this rule.

Another meeting of the organization will be held this Thursday at 11:45 A. M. in the auditorium of the School of Commerce and Finance.

New Welding Unit To Be Constructed By Soph Engineers

Under the direction of William J. Gorman, instructor in the engineering school, a group of ten sophomore engineers are building a new welding unit in the freshman engineering lab.

It will consist of a mezzanine of structural steel and a concrete floor, six inches thick, over the present foundry. Upon this new flooring will be made five booths of sheet steel with asbestos curtains as added protection to the students' eyes from the intense light resulting from the welding process.

Although only one electrical arch welding unit is now being used, four more will be obtained to occupy the booths. These units are capable of welding metal up to one-inch thick.

Another corner of the mezzanine will contain five acetylene welding units. These are already in use, but by placing them on the new space more room will be available in the lab. Fluorescent lighting fixtures will be installed in the bottom of the platform since all light has been cut off from the windows.

It is expected that the entire project will be completed in about six weeks.

Einstein

By THOMAS P. McFARLAND

I have numbered all stars on stubby little hands;
I have numbered all waters, numbered all lands;
And tracing, black on white, the mood of all,
Have wound about the warmth of seething clod,
Breathing leaf, all that, seeming, is from God,
The chill, stiff folds of a numbered pall.

While through long years of ken the lover slumbered,
I have wreaked from the sterile frost,
On my barren numbers tos't,
A tiny, frigid god, whose eyes are numbered.

JULES JUNKER,
INCORPORATED
Bakery Since 1868
211 SO. 13th STREET
PHILADELPHIA
BREAD ROLLS

"For complete refreshment give me Coca-Cola,— the real thing"
Pause ... Go refreshed
Coca-Cola
5¢

There's something pleasantly exciting about ice-cold Coca-Cola. Delicious taste that charms and never cloys. Refreshment that brings a happy after-sense of thirst contentment. You trust the quality of the real thing ...Coca-Cola.
You trust its quality
BOTTLED UNDER AUTHORITY OF THE COCA-COLA COMPANY BY
THE PHILADELPHIA COCA-COLA BOTTLING CO.

VILLANOVAN
Vol. 14—No. 15—N. A. S. Z-660 VILLANOVA COLLEGE, VILLANOVA, PA. TUESDAY, MARCH 10, 1942

Students Will Broadcast On Campus Radio Station

John Facenda, WIP Announcer, to Coach Group; News Flashes, Dramatics, and Transcriptions Will Feature Evening Programs

By EDWARD J. REARDON

For the first time in the history of the college, a fully-equipped, student-operated radio station will begin broadcasting exclusively to students on the campus, it was announced today by Rev. John J. Vrana, O. S. A., of the engineering faculty. The services of John Facenda, an announcer for station WIP and an alumnus of Villanova, have been procured for professional coaching, Fr. Vrana said.

All component parts of a modern commercial radio station will be incorporated in the new venture, which will be operated entirely by students. It will be organized so that all departments necessary for such a station will be included. This means that positions for Program Director, a public relations department, a sound effects and technical department and the like, will be filled by students, Fr. Vrana remarked.

Two Systems Possible

The medium of transmission will be either the college heating system or the electrical circuit. If the heating system is employed, it will necessitate fastening the aerial of the radio to the radiator. In the event the electrical system is used, this will not be necessary, since the ether waves will be transmitted through the wiring.

In this manner, reception will be restricted to the campus. A portable, variable frequency transmitter is now under construction and

RADIO STATION
Continued on Page Eight

New Radio Coach

JOHN FACENDA

McKimmey Completes Conservation Committee

With a plea for more and better co-operation of the students in Villanova's war-time conservation plan, Thomas J. McKimmey, chairman of the Student Council, announced yesterday the names of a committee tentatively selected to aid in this work.

John P. Kirchner, and Thomas Sheehy, council representatives from Fedigan Hall; Thomas McQuade and Richard Ryan from Austin Hall; Robert Koness from O'Dwyer Hall; Rev. John R. Dunne, O. S. A.; Rev. Edwin T. Grimes, O. S. A., Rev Joseph I Boyle, O. S. A., Rev. Vincent A. McQuade, O. S. A., moderators of Alumni and Mendel freshman halls respectively, were chosen following the announcement of the conservation program to the students.

"Speaking for the council members, I would like to see the fellows around the campus taking this conservation plan more seriously," said McKimmey.

Radio Positions Offered Seniors

Applications for Inspector Openings Must Be Filed by April 21

Positions for radio inspector in government service are now open according to an official announcement of the United States Civil Service Commision made public yesterday.

"The position of radio inspector in the Federal Communications Commission has been added to those jobs in the field of radio for which the U. S. Civil Service Commission is seking qualified persons," the announcement said. Salaries for the jobs will range from $2,000 to $2,600 a year. Applicants must file their applications for the written test on radio and electrical engineering with the Commission's Washington, D. C., office not later than April 21, 1942.

For assistant positions ($2,000 a year), completion of a four-year college course in electrical or communication engineering or physics is prescribed.

To qualify for the $2,600 positions, applicants must have had in addition at least one year of appropriate radio engineering or teaching experience, or one year of graduate study in communication engineering. All applicants must be able to transmit and receive messages in the International Morse Code.

Applications will be accepted from senior students in electrical or communication engineering or physics, or from graduate students in communication engineering, if their courses will be completed by Oct. 1, 1942.

The duties of these positions involve radio inspection work of all kinds, including inspecting radio equipment on ships, aircraft, and at various land stations to determine compliance with Government specifications.

The announcement of this opportunity for Government employment and the forms for applying may be obtained at first and second class post offices or from the U. S. Civil Service Commission, Washington, D. C.

Chemical Engineers Plan Three Trips To Local Factories

On March 19, the Villanova Chemical Engineering Society will visit the Adam Scheidt Brewery in Norristown, as the first of three inspection trips arranged by Bernard Clarke, senior, and chairman of the trips committee.

The second trip, on March 30, will consist of a tour of the facilities of the Valley Forge Cement Co. in Bridgeport, Pa., and on April 8, the group will travel to Camden, N. J., to visit the Campbell Soup Co.

Last week's regular meeting of the society, held on Monday, was devoted to a technical discussion of the manufacturing operations and the chemistry involved in the brewing process, in order that the members may better appreciate the showing of such work when they visit the Scheidt Co.

At the close of the discussion, a movie treating the Neoprene synthetic rubber process as produced by the duPont Co., was shown to the group.

Physical Fitness Plan Formulated; Presented Today

John B. Kelly Will Address Students at 1:00 P. M. in Field House; Four Programs To Be Offered

In cooperation with nation-wide efforts to improve the general health of American citizens, Villanova will institute a complete Physical Fitness Program at a mass meeting of all students in the Field House today at 1:00 P. M.

Afternoon classes will be moved back from the normal starting hour of 1:30 P. M. until 2:00 P. M.

John B. Kelly, head of the physical Fitness division of the Hale America program, will be the principal speaker. He will be introduced by Very Rev. Edward V. Stanford, O. S. A., president of the college, who will deliver a few introductory remarks.

Following Kelly's talk, Maurice J. "Clipper" Smith, varsity football coach, Alexander G. Severance, basketball coach, and James J. Elliott, track coach, will present plans which they have worked out to include every student in some form of athletic endeavor. In all, four distinct programs will be offered to the students.

Participation compulsory

Participation in at least one of the four programs will be compulsory for every student, unless he has been formally excused by the college physician. Students will be asked to signify their choice.

Registration for participation in the program will be held tomorrow and Thursday between the hours of 12:30 and 1:30 P. M. in the Reception Room of Mendel Hall.

The program itself will be instituted for the entire college on Monday, March 16.

In addition to compliance with the Hale America program, the Physical Fitness plan is designed to met the demands of the Navy Department for a well-organized program to improve student health to the level demanded of commissioned officers.

The program here will be under the direction of the committees chosen recently. They are composed of members of the Student Council, of the faculty, and of the athletic department.

"War Openings" File Available

Service openings for college and university students will be listed in a cumulative file under the heading of "war-service opportunities." The file, to be kept in the office of the Registrar, is now available to students upon request.

Undertaken by the American Council of Education as a special war-time service to member colleges, the file is an outgrowth of a recommendation made at a meeting of college and university presidents of America held in Baltimore early in January.

Information contained in the publication is listed under five headings: training needed, requirements, expense to the student, relation to Selective Service, and general comments.

Flying Courses Included

First issue of the file includes information on the Civilian Pilot Training program under the auspices of the Civil Aeronautics Authority; the Army Air Corps, with subdivisions covering pilot, bombardier, navigator, and ground crew training.

Non-pilot aviation cadet training in meteorology in the Navy Air Corps is included, as well as C. A. A. training in meteorology for the Weather Bureau. The Navy's V-5 and V-7 program and the Reserve training of both the Marines and Coast Guard are treated.

The Merchant Marine, the Army Signal Corps and Civil Service openings for technical and scientific aids are also discussed.

New V-1 Training Program Inaugurated By College

Freshmen and Sophomores Will Have Opportunity To Apply for Officer's Rating in V-5 and V-7 Programs

By ROBERT F. YOUNG

At a meeting of the sophomore class last Thursday, Very Rev. Edward V. Stanford, O. S. A., president of the college, addressed the group and presented information concerning the newly formulated V-1 Naval training program. Fr. Stanford has just returned from a meeting in Washington with six other of the country's leading educators and officials of the Navy Department for the purpose of determining a plan by which college freshmen and sophomores may become eligible for a commissioned officer's rating in the Navy.

Rev. Vincent A. McQuade, O. S. A., assistan to the president, has been named official liaison officer between Villanova and the Navy Department. He also will be in complete charge of the program at the college in all its phases.

Will Follow Changes

Fr. Stanford, Fr. McQuade, and Paetrus F. Banmiller, Registrar, will keep thoroughly informed as to all developments of the program in order that they may be able to pass on such information to interested students.

The V-1 program, the latest Naval plan to be worked out in cooperation with institutions of higher education throughout the country is intended to be all-embracing so that when in full operation, it will be the "door" to other Naval programs; viz., the V-5, V-7, and those for college students with engineering or specialist training.

Expect 80,000 Enlistees

When the program commences during the next college semester, it is expected to enlist 80,000 students a year between the ages of 17 and 19. Students will be enlisted in the Navy as apprentice seamen, placed in an inactive status, and permitted to pursue two calendar years of college training in an institution of their choice, provided that such an institution has agreed to conduct courses stressing mathematics and physical sciences, has a definite program of physical fitness, and has been formally accepted by the Navy Department.

Competitive Basis

Under the new program, commissions for the Navy will be on a highly competitive basis. After one and a half calendar years, apprentice seamen enrolled in colleges under this program will be given comprehensive examinations of the objective type to be administered on or about March 1 of each year.

The top ranking 35,000 will be permitted to volunteer for officer's training in the V-5 (aviation cadet), or V-7, (midshipman or deck and engineering officer class).

Those selected under the V-5 program will complete only the current year in which they are en-

V-1 PROGRAM
Continued on Page Four

Debaters Meet La Salle Tonight

Penn, Rosemont Follow; Paper Submitted to National Radio Contest

After last week's heavy schedule, Beta Gamma, varsity debating society, has a comparatively light program for this week.

Tonight Villanova will engage La Salle College in a league debate at La Salle. John Fullam, senior education student, and Wilfred Gagen and Robert McIntyre, sophomore and senior commercemen, respectively, will uphold the negative of the question, "Resolved: That the government should regulate all labor unions."

George Harris, junior education student, and Louis De Simone, sophomore artsman, will uphold the affirmative in a debate with Penn at Bridgeport High School Thursday on the question, "Resolved: That peacetime conscription should be adopted after the war."

Rosemont Here Next Week

The following Wednesday, March 18, Joseph Mahoney and James Connelly, junior and sophomore artsmen, respectively, will match wits with two representatives of Rosemont College. Villanova will uphold the affirmative of the question, "Resolved: That progressive methods of education are more efficient than traditional methods." The time will be 3 P. M.; the place, Mendel Amphitheater.

Last Friday night Gagen and Harry Binder, sophomore commercemen, traveled to Baltimore to debate Loyola College.

Sunday afternoon, Edward Manderfield, junior engineer, and Robert Young, sophomore commerceman, engaged the debaters of St. Francis of Loretto. Villanova had the affirmative of the labor union question.

Rev. Robert M. Sullivan, O. S. A., moderator of Beta Gamma, sponsor of the National Intercollegiate Radio Prize Debate Contest at Villanova ,announced than an affirmative paper, written by David N. Reardon, senior commerce student, has been selected from those submitted, and forwarded to the judging committee in New York City.

Immaculata I. R. C. To Hold Discussion Here On Wednesday

The first of a series of joint meetings of the Villanova International Relations Club and neighboring girls' colleges will be held in Simpson Hall, March 18, at 3:45 P. M. Two representatives of a similar group at Immaculata College will be guests of the club.

Under the general topic of "Economic Defense of the Western Hemisphere" four papers will be read by th individuals participating from both colleges. Representing Villanova, Louis J. Esposito, junior arts student, will speak on "Pre-War Inter-American Trade" and Robert T. Canfield, junior commerce student, will discuss "Inter-American Wartime Trade."

Winifred Nash and Betty Morse of Immaculata, will give dissertations on "Inter-American Development of Commission" and "Thunder Over the Western Hemisphere," respectively.

All papers are being written under the direction of Rev. Edward J. McCarthy, O. S. A., professor of Latin-American History. A general discussion of the topics will be held following the presentation of the papers.

Commerce Frat Shows Naval Films Thursday

Delta Pi Epsilon, commerce fraternity, will present two motion pictures dealing with navy life next Thursday at 11:40 A. M. in the C .& F. Auditorium. Highlights of the third in a series of entertainment programs sponsored by the fraternity, will be the presence of Lieutenant H. B. MacWhortle, U. S. N. R., Assistant District Aide for Morale.

Lieutenant MacWhortle will present a close-up view of actual navy life as it is under the present world conditions.

Two films, each lasting a half-hour, will augment his speech. The first, entitled "A Day Aboard a Battleship," will show the daily life of the crew of one of the navy's dreadnaughts. The second film, "Submarines at Sea" will describe the important part this deadly weapon plays in the protection of this hemisphere. The meeting is open to all students of the college.

We Must Pay Now

ONCE again the stability of the American economy is threatened by that familiar "bugaboo," wartime inflation.

Already a Price Control Board has been set up as a method of direct control over rising prices. But as yet no over-all policy has been devised toward indirect fiscal control.

In the tremendous increase in consumer purchasing power—a direct result of the war industries—there still lies a serious threat to the successful regulation of inflationary tendencies.

Workers who are still recovering from the effects of a ten year depression period, suddenly find themselves earning larger and still larger wage payments which will continue to grows as the war progresses.

The natural impulse of these wage earners is to spend their windfall on consumer's goods—goods which are becoming more scarce day by day due to the large-scale conversion of consumer industries to wartime production.

The results are obvious: Bidding against each other, these consumers unwittingly drive the prices of these goods sky-high.

This is the first cycle of that endless spiral of inflation.

The Senate is now working on what appears to be the only solution to this dangerous situation.

The new Treasury tax proposal which is expected to yield over 7 billion dollars from both corporate and individual incomes is especially designed to siphon off a large portion of the excess purchasing power and return it to the channels financing the war effort.

The war must be paid for out of current income—now.

We can only hope that our representatives in Congress will have the fortitude to pass the bill intact and refrain from removing the teeth of the measure—despite the fact that election time is drawing near.

We urge the members of Congress to deal courageously with the situation, relying on the stamina of the American people and their willingness to assume these added burdens, and thus ease the cruel readjustment which will inevitably follow this conflict.

—R. T. C.

VILLANOVAN

Issued twenty-five times a year from
Villanova College, Villanova, Pa.

THOMAS F. DEVINE, '43 ....Editor-in-Chief
JACQUES E. MAUCH, '43 ....Sports Editor
ROBERT F. YOUNG, '44 ....College Editor
WARD C. GUNCHEON, '43 ....Managing Editor
ROBERT T. CANFIELD, '43 ....Copy Editor
THOMAS C. MURASKI, '43 ....Literary Editor
EUGENE P. SMITH, 43 ....Business Manager
LORING A. JONES, '43 ....Advertising Manager
RAYMOND G. AMICONE, '43 .....Photography Editor
NICHOLAS C. ENI, '43 ....Circulation Manager
LOUIS J ESPOSITO, '43 ....Exchange Editor

Columnists
E. F Bennis, '43 J. F. Dudley, '43

Staff Writers
F. Bagot, '43; R. Baldwin, '45; A. Berenato, '45; H. Binder, '44; J. Bongiovanni, '43; J. Bonner, '44; J. Deery, '44; L. DeSimone, '44; D. Ehart, '45; V. Gammache, '45; J. Gerrity, '44; T. Hitchell, '45; W Kelly, '45; T. McFarland, '45; J. McWilliams, '45; J. Mahoney, '43; J. Murray, '45; J. Nunemaker, '43; J. O'Brien, '45; J. Quinn, '44; E. Reardon, '44; R. Reardon, '45; F Reese, '43; D. Sauers, '44; T. Schubert, '45; J. Sullivan, '45; J. Sutton, '44; W. Swan, '44; J. Tortoreto, '44; W. Walsh, '44; S. Zeeman, '45.

Business Assistants
C. Callahan, '43 W. Golden, '45
H. C. O'Connor, Jr., '45 J. Walsh, '43

Circulation Assistants
F. Facciolo, '45 L. Hood, '45
J. Keays, '44

Photography Staff
L. Eni, '44 E. Mancuso, '45

Faculty Advisor—Rev. Edward B. McKee, O. S. A.

This paper is dedicated to one of the finest men who ever entered Villanova; scholar, athlete, gentleman — LEO GOODREAU

Subscription: $2.00 per year. Circulation: 3500.
Entered as second class matter at the Villanova Post Office December 27, 1928.

Member of Associated Collegiate Press; Distributor of Collegiate Digest.
Member of Catholic School Press Association, Catholic College Press Association, and National Scholastic Press Association.

TUESDAY - - - - - - MARCH 10, 1942

It's Your Mass

SUNDAY is known as a day of rest, but some things, like sickness and trouble, never take a rest. We can find them any day in the week, Sunday included. Villanova has its troubles on Sundays, too.

For several years the students have been agitating for a later Mass on Sunday. They found that it was difficult getting up so early every Sunday. When no Mass was forthcoming they promptly piled into the later parish Masses. This made it uncomfortable, at times, for the parishioners.

Just recently a 10:20 A. M. student Mass was inaugurated, and it has been very popular. However, there still are a few who insist on going to the 11:00 o'clock Mass, a later parish Mass. This can be termed an out-right "dirty trick." The only excuse that one can have to go to the 11:00 o'clock Mass is that they were too late for the 10:20, but again this is a poor excuse to use week after week.

When the new Mass was announced, the Chaplain stated explicitly, that if this privilege was abused other steps would be taken. Undoubtedly this other step would first consist of compelling the students to go to the 8:30 Mass. Perhaps even more drastic measures will be taken; no one will know till the time comes. If you want it that way, then you know what to do.

Before we do too much complaining it must be pointed out that only a few students are abusing this privilege. The students who have kept the rules and customs we congratulate, but the few others we ask in the name of common decency to get on the ball.

For some reason or another Sunday is, or seems to be, the brightest day of the week, particularly in the morning, so let's try getting off to a good start. Go to Mass when you are supposed to and help keep trouble away from here.

—T. C. M.

Eire Stands Firm

THE majority of the American people (a recent Gallup poll reveals) believes that Eire should permit the United Nations to use her ports for naval bases. There is, in the expression of this opinion, an implied condemnation of Irish refusal to thus far grant that permission.

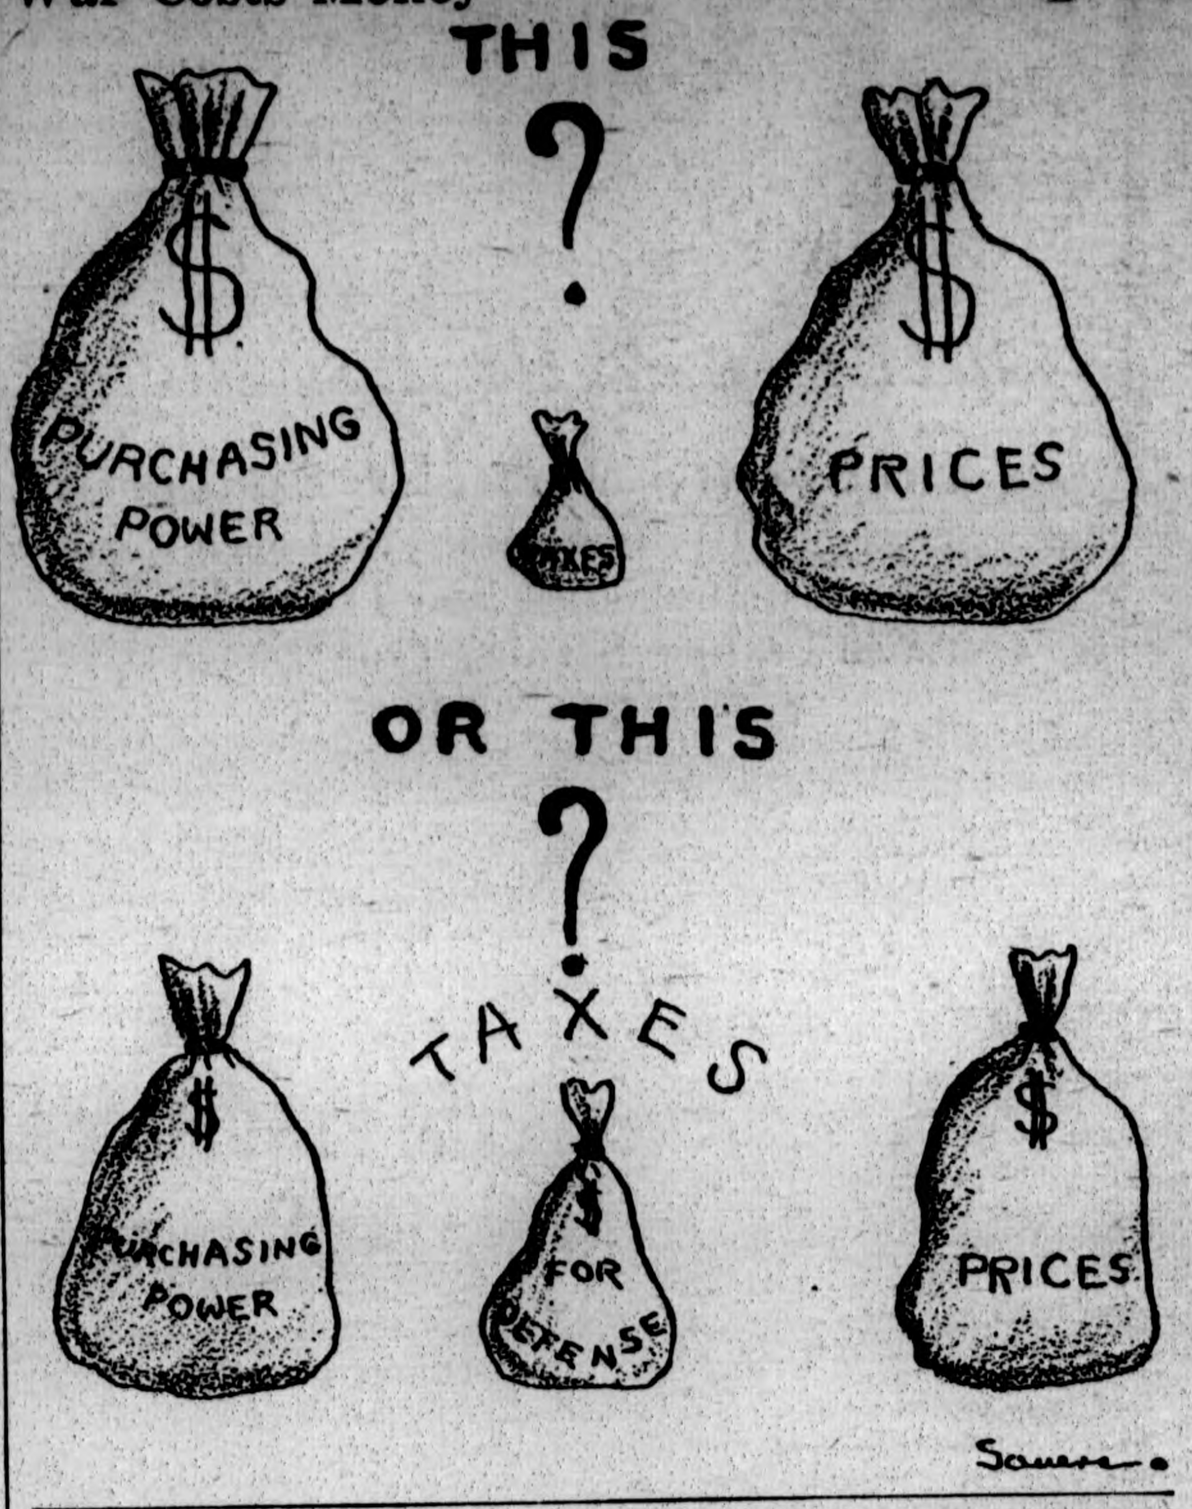
Now we should be among the last to condemn Eire for her present stand in the matter. Her action, should she provide naval bases for the United Nations —more particularly the United States and England—would be rightly considered by Germany as an act of war and as such would invite quick and terrible reprisals. By such action Eire would, unprovoked, sacrifice her neutrality.

Should we—the people of a much more powerful nation, a nation so situated geographically as to be in less immediate peril, yes, a nation with a far greater "stake" in the conflict—should we condemn the Irish for their resolve to remain neutral, remembering how tenaciously we clung to our neutrality, remembering the ludicrous extremes to which we resorted that we might remain even "technically" neutral, remembering that in the end we surrendered neutrality only when forced to do so by the actual attack of the enemy? No, we should rather hope that Eire may pursue her chosen course successfully and that her people may be spared at least some of the horrors of the conflict. (For escape unscathed she cannot.)

And in the future we should be more slow to condemn. As slow as we ourselves were in taking any step in that direction toward which some of us now urge Eire —a step toward war.

—J. F. M.

War Costs Money - - - - - - by SAUERS



FACULTY COMMENTS

On Writing History

By FR. McFADDEN

THERE is no longer any reason to doubt that the world is today passing through one of those transitional periods in its history in which political systems are changed and traditional values altered. When the turmoil of the present conflict is over, we may rightfully expect to see many long-standing institutions and theories discarded. And among the debris of all that is cast aside we will probably find the various philosophies of history which were born in the nineteenth century and which grew up in our own.

The nineteenth century was probably the most self-satisfied of all centuries. It regarded itself as the achievement of the ages, as the successful culmination of man's timeless struggle for mastery over the forces of nature. The flood of mechanical inventions, with the consequent Industrial Revolution, contributed in no small way to the creation of this attitude.

Materialism at Fault

The thoroughly materialistic spirit of the times, with its devotion to evolutionary determinism, naturally resulted in the formulation of various philosophies of history which were destined to play influential roles even to this day.

First, there was the "economist-historian" who regarded the history as a record of man's efforts to wrest from nature the material necessities of life. His horizon was bounded by questions of labor, wages, and commerce. The economic interpretations of history ran all the way from Marx's rigid economic determinism to much milder forms of theory. But for all of them man was, more or less, merely a unit of work; his worth was to be evaluated in terms of horsepower, and he was to be discouraged from wasting his time looking towards anything outside the economic sphere of life.

Then there was the "nationalist-historian" who viewed all human events through the misshapen lenses of an exaggerated patriotism. For him, universal institutions, such as the Church, dare not exist; national churches were the most that could possibly be tolerated. For him, man was the property of the state, a potential soldier who should be able to endure much, shoot straight, and not know too much about the Christian law of charity.

Evolutionists

The "evolutionist-historian" devoted his best efforts to the thesis that man had constantly progressed in a determined manner from bestial ancestors to ever higher levels of civilization. For the evolutionist, man was a glorified beast from whom the opening chapters of Genesis ought to be forever hidden.

One common element was evident in all of these philosophies of history—a concentration on some specific material factor as the basic explanation of all historical development. The spiritual nature of man and its causative influence on history received either little consideration or was totally ignored.

Under the pressure of chaotic, contemporary events, the devotees of these philosophies of history are becoming uneasy. They can no longer perceive that constant, orderly, predictable progress which was the very heart of their determinism. Thus, in his "History of Europe," Fisher laments that there is no coherent plan in history, that events appear to depend upon chance, and he suggests that the historian would be wise to avoid offering any explanation or interpretation of history.

Such a statement is certainly an admission of defeat for the materialistic historian who previously regarded human events as determined by regular and predictable laws.

This War's Alibis

The nineteenth century philosophies of history, will of course, die hard. The "economist-historian" will protest to his last breath that the present upheaval has a purely economic basis; for him it is obvious that the current war is merely a struggle for economic superiority. The "nationalist-historian" will fight to the death to prove that irreconciliable, exaggerated forms of nationalism underlie our present distress.

The "internationalist-historian," such as the Communist, will wait patiently with the unshaken conviction that the current war represents a final death-gasp of capitalistic states as society moves on irresistibly to universal communism. The "pacifist-historian" still hopes that this is the war of destiny, the war that will end all wars.

The "evolutionist-historian" is perhaps the most sorry figure of all, for he has already begun to admit the collapse of his favorite interpretation of history. Thus, the well-known evolutionist, Julian Huxley,

ON WRITING HISTORY
Continued on Page Four

Campus Capers

By Ed Bennis

THE Marines landed on the campus last week, and by all reports, the situation is well in hand. A good many of the lads took the medical exam for the marine corps and a surprisingly large number of them passed—so that accounts for the sudden popularity of the Marine hymn about our fair campus. Our stately seniors are becoming "commission minded" as the time approaches for them to enter the armed forces.

The Belle Air Ball co-chairmen, Jack Gallagher and Andy Melton, are among those who have signed up with the marines. It is rumored that they are already planning to run a "United Nations Victory Ball" in Singapore.

* * *

YOO-HOO:

What certain mid-western football player has outmaneuvered Tom Morgan in his affections towards a model in Bloomfield? This is the second known reverse for our hero with the weaker sex. Dr. Hartman has earnestly requested Bill "Hale America" Ford to please "Remember Pearl Harbor" for his own sake.

John Callahan has taken a great interest in canine life recently — seems that he got an Irish Setter from his girl's papa for Christmas. John Cerulo is a frequent visitor to the metropolis of Norristown to see a certain young thing who goes by the peculiar nickname of "Sitting Bull."

* * *

HOME FRONT:

Many of our sturdier lads have been giving up a pint of their blood — for $7—to a hospital in Philly. Ed Jones and Dave Blake made the "supreme sacrifice" last week. They returned to the campus in a very weakened condition — of course, they spent the money they got before returning. Charley Lozowski was a little unsteady on his feet after giving up the precious fluid — and he was so sure that he could get up and just walk away.

* * *

CHATTER:

Joe McEvoy is running Joe "Morale Officer" Connor a close second for the rather doubtful title of the C. & F. wit. What is this persistent rumor about Paul Gallagher and Betty — could it be that they are engaged or about to be? Jack "Biscuit" Feraci, Bill Howlett and "Scoop" Funabashi are becoming rather friendly with three lovely young things from Narberth — they believe in staying close to home.

Pity poor Tom Dunleavy — Joan, from across the tracks, has a six weeks' campus, which means that our lad is going to spend a bachelor existence for the next month or so. Have many of you noticed the resemblance between Tom McFarland and "Shadow Smart" of Harold Teen fame — it's absolutely amazing. "Pooch" Gordon and Sally have been keeping company for night on four years — beginning to look serious.

* * *

MORE CHATTER:

Bill Fenton is rather ga-ga over a young lassie from Rosemont. It isn't known yet whether the feeling is mutual. Hank Green has been detected addressing his letters to a bit of feminine pulchritude in Bennnigton in the following manner, "Dearest Number 1." She really must be at the top of his list. Jim Shelley had the lads send 50 cards to his sister at Immaculata—now they are all waiting to meet her.

Charley Baird is dayhopping from Trenton because of Miriam. He couldn't stand to be down here all week and not see the little woman. John Mezzanotte used to be the "hardest" man in the science school until the kiddo at the biology table bought a 36-inch coat. Was he ever disappointed? Bob Gretz and Dotty are a cute combination — 'tis said they are serious about the whole thing.

Dave "Wildcat Whirl" Reardon and Penny are among the likelier couples on the campus.

* * *

QUESTION:

When is Bob "Sharper" McIntyre going to buy a pack of cigarettes and stop his infernal mooching?

Meet The Boys: Joe Is A Man Of Many Activities; Bill Led His Junior Class Festivities

By DAN EHART

WITH the combination of two commerce and finance students, one born in Brooklyn and the other a native son of Philadelphia, the objects of our weekly biographies, we again turn back the hands of time on the lives and loves of two more graduates-to-be of 1942.

The first of these, Joe McCabe, really needs no introduction, nor does his fellow martyr of this fatal pen, Bill Howlett. We will now get down to the facts of the careers of these really solid financiers.

The sirens wailed in Brooklyn on July 29, 1920, when they celebrated the birth of the then very young Joe McCabe. But the cheers of Flatbush's millions were not to be long-lived, as he turned his back on "dem Bums" and, less than a month after being brought into the lair of Larry MacPhail, changed his address to Jamaica, L. I., where he still spends his summers and holidays.

Early Award

Even when the good wishes and fond hopes of his proud parents and relations are taken into consideration, no one could have foreseen that this healthy young specimen of childhood would become one of the busiest and one of the most popular men on the campus.

After spending his earliest years at home (as most of us did) he began his formal education at the St. Mary's parochial school, where his endeavors earned for him one of the medals, familiar to everyone, which are awarded by the American Legion at all eighth grade commencements.

Education Broadens

Having received this signal honor, Joe moved on to Brooklyn Prep, where he distinguished himself as a member of the school paper and yearbook staffs. His education began to broaden at this time when he made his first contacts with the ladies. The training he received then has proved to be invaluable in his relations with the fair damsels of Rosemont, Immaculata etc., with whom he has been unusually successful.

In his senior year he gained great renown when he was elected Registrar of Brooklyn in a poll of high school students conducted by the "Brooklyn Eagle." Receiving over nine thousand votes, he gained this post by placing fifth to the lad who was elected president of the borough.

Activities Galore

Upon his entrance into college in 1938, Joe showed promise of the great deeds he would perform later on in his career. In his freshman year he won an oratorical contest, and become a member of many of the campus activities. At this time he began a four-year allegiance to the VILLANOVAN, in which he rose from the pitiful post of cub reporter to the exalted position of columnist.

He also is a four-year member of the Holy Name Society, the Glee Club and the Belle Masque Society. The Delta Pi Epsilon, C. & F. fraternity, also has his name on the rolls.

In his second year, Joe was made chairman of the Sophomore Cotillion Committee, which shows that his merit was already being appreciated. He has been a regular performer in the annual amateur night shows, first with Alumni Hall and for the three succeeding years with Austin.

Lady-Killer

During the following years, he kept right on being appointed to committees, for he was made chairman of the Mothers' Day Committee in his junior year and was also the chairman of the Publicity committee for the recent senior ball.

Although he is shy in boasting of his accomplishments with the women, he is considered one of the slickest Romeos on a campus.

Since Joe is taking the pre-law course one can understand his ambition to go to law school, but Uncle Sam doesn't see eye to eye with Joe on the value of lawyers to the present war effort and is hot on his trail with an up and coming draft number. He is taking it in stride, however, being more than willing to help his country in its hour of need.

PUSHED into the spotlight with Joe is his fellow pre-law student, Bill Howlett, a rugged 200-pound Fediganite about whom no one can say "too little and too late." However, the latter part of this quotation is open to debate, for we almost didn't interview him in time to make the deadline. Nevertheless, we got on the beam in time to bring this expose before the public eye.

Bill entered in this life in a year that was also filled with war, but one that just ended. The year—1919, not long after armistice ending World War I, and the place—Philadelphia, where everyone was dying of thirst induced by the then recently passed 18th Amendment. But when Bill came on the scene, gaiety was the keynote in the Howlett household. No sirens blew, because you can't hear them in Philly, anyway.

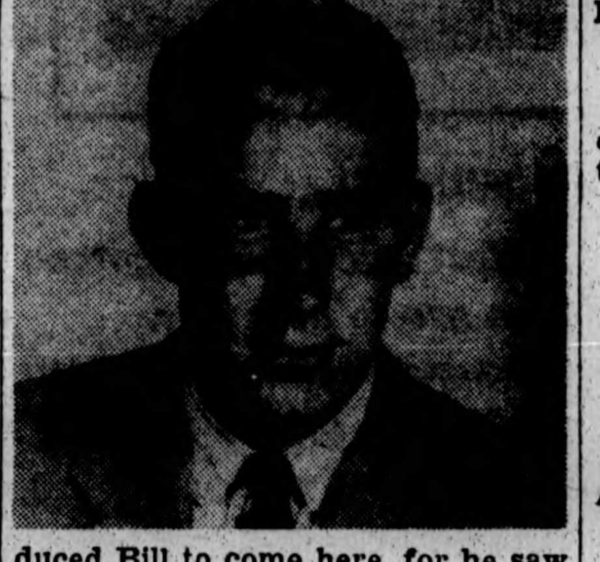
Star Athlete

He spent several of his earliest years at his mother's knee, as most of us do, but quickly progressed far enough to attend the Holy Souls Parochial School, where he won another of those American Legion medals. (It isn't often we hit the jackpot on Legion medals, but this week must be banknight for the award.)

In 1934 he entered Roman Catholic High School, where he soon proved himself to be an all-around athletic star, being a three-letter man in football, basketball, and baseball, and received his letter for one year on the track team. For three years he was one of the brightest stars in Catholic League competition, and in his senior year he was captain of football and basket ball and was named a member of the All-Catholic teams in both of these sports.

Follows Brother.

When it came time for him to choose a college where he could matriculate, he chose Villanova, where brother "Buzz" was making a great name for himself on the gridiron. It was not only the chance for athletic fame that induced Bill to come here, for he saw that he would have a fine chance to further his ambition to be a lawyer by taking the pre-law course.



During his four years here he has been a member of both the varsity football and baseball teams, and was one of the big reasons for many of the victories won on the gridiron and diamond.

Heads Junior Class

In his junior year, Bill was honored by being elected president of his class, at which post he was a great success during his term of office. As president of the class, he was influential in the nominating of committees in that year of many committees.

During his stay at the college, he has been one of the regular performers for Fedigan in the annual Amateur Night shows, and has been a source of great astonishment to the dramatic critics of the campus. He attributes his success in the thespian art to his great partiality to the plays which may be seen at the Locust St. Theater, at which he is a regular attendant.

In "Big Time"

There are certain unfounded rumors floating about the campus to the effect that Bill has graduated into the ranks of the "big time" with the company of his fellow "Ivy Leaguers," Murray, Anderson and Kasky. These rumors have been great sources of mirth to certain of Bill's acquaintances and especially to a well known former editor of the VILLANOVAN whose name is better left unspoken.

After graduation in May, Bill expects to enter immediately into the Officers' Training Corps of the United States Marines, and will remain there for the duration. As he is giving up the chance of going to law school to serve his country, we feel that he will give as good an account of himself to Uncle Sam as he has done here.

Savant-To-Be Theorizes On Remains Of Physics And Chemistry Labs

By THOMAS P. McFARLAND

In this our highly modern year
Of A. D. 5084
It is difficult to find a fact
That was not known some year before.
Being an archaeologist
Of no small or tiny repute,
(The only man of all the trade
Who dug the meaning of "Zoot Suit")
I was quite surprised and struck with awe,
When, browsing near an ancient city,
To find remains yet undiscovered
Of a long-lost culture — not so pretty.
In the Philadelphia area
It rests, a sermon in crumbling stone,
With little left of the men who built
And planned and thought and loved, save bone.
It would appear from all the signs,
That a group of huts here one time stood,
Called VLA-NVA, pronounced "Wild-cat",
And mostly made of painted wood
And a couple of grayish stones, of course,
And a straggly, ill-built road or two,
A train-car track on either side
And a halfway decent view.

But deep within the horrid halls

Men revelled in brutality.
I cannot find the words to tell
Of their murderous brutality.
Some slimy, little things in jars
Lined all the shelves against the walls,
And men were merchants of human blood
In the corridors and musty halls,
A reeking den of alchemy
Occupied the topmost level,
Where crooked, hunch-backed little men
In fearful stenches fierce did revel.
In little cupboards everywhere
Stood many a brutal stave and chain
With which the crooked, little men
Would inflict, while laughing, pain.
Two gibbet hoops of steel and twine
Awaited the dire demons' victim,
And with the penalty of the rope
Would, giggling loud, inflict 'im,
An arena, like that of mythical Rome
Saw many a cruel and bloody sport,
As men to tiny bits were rent
At the whim of the ruling court.
The court, or councilmas, 'twas known,
Held sway, without mercy, o'er those
Who, hapless, were confined to dwell
In the straightly-jacketed close.
This group, more humped and bumpy
Than the rest, more mean and stoddy,
Would, chortling wildly in glee
Dissect the student body.

Straight backed chairs with wide right arms
Were used to quickly amputate
The hands of those who foolishly chose
To scorn the council, tempting fate.
And many other instruments,
Too horrible to mention,
Were used on all the unhappy men
Who were there in detention.

A noble thing Mere Nature is
To thus destroy the horrid race
Who had no jot of brother-love,
But the fiend dared embrace.

And I might add I'm very glad
To see them dead and gone fore'er.
For Hell and Heav'n both too bad,
I'm sure "they ain't nowhere."

The Trading Post

By Lou Esposito

THE following short story will probably make you angry, so promise to hold no grudge against the writer and you may read it.

An Indian named Short Cake was drafted into the army. After he was there for a while, he became very homesick. As time went on, he became more homesick than ever and became very ill. The army sent for his squaw to come and take care of him. But Short Cake died. Squaw-bury Short Cake.

* * *

Romans Had a Word:

Major menaces on the highway are drunken driving, uncontrollable thumbing and indiscriminate spooning. To put ,it briefly—Hic, Hike and Hug.

—U. of Scranton "Aquinas"

* * *

This pome from the Northeastern News requires a bit of attention:

Any girl can be gay in a classy coupe,
In a taxi they all can be jolly.
But the girl worth while
Is the girl who can smile
When you're taking her home in the trolley.

* * *

All-Around Girl:

"I suppose you dance?"
"Oh, yes, I love to."
"Good, that's better'n dancing."

* * *

The toughest thing is trying to guess
Whether she'll stop you—or acquiesce.

Never the Twain Shall Meet:

While reading the Carnegie Tech Tartan, we were surprised to read that the editor-in-chief and the managing editor of that paper are husband and wife. One thing is certain: "It Can't Happen Here."

* * *

Perfectly Suited:

Friend: So you're setting your college boy up in the bakery business?

Man: Yes, he's so keen for dough and such a swell loafer that I'm sure he'll rise in the business.

—North Dakota Scientist.

* * *

Sign Language:

Curlem hair,
Filem nails,
Paintem face,
Catchem males.

* * *

While browsing about in the college papers we found the following in the St. Vincent Journal:

Roommate A: "Say, have you any stationery that you can lend me?"
Roommate B: "Yes, here you are."
Silence.
A: "Got a pen?"
B: "Here, there's ink in it."
Prolonged silence.
A: "How do you spell "passionately' like in 'I'm passionately in love with you'?"
B: "P-A-S-S-I-O-N-A-T-E-L-Y."
More Silence.
A: "Got a stamp, old boy?"
B: "Yeah, here." (Getting up).
A: "Oh, going out. You'll probably be passing the post office, so you can mail this for me. Just a minute, till I address it."
B. "O. K."
More silence.
A. "Say, just what is the address of your girl, again?"
No more silence.
A & B: Chaos.

* * *

From the "Diamondback" we quote this pome which should please the men (only).

A school girl complexion
May make men rave.
A peach-bloom neck
May temper a knave.
A gold glint marcel
A love path may pave.
But a man would go far
For a permanent shave.

* * *

Gangway:

Then there's the one about the drunk, who was wandering down the street, one foot on the sidewalk, the other in the gutter. "Wide stairway," he muttered.

* * *

How True:

According to the Torch of St. John's College, "Courtship makes a fellow spoon, marriage makes him fork over."

FOR VICTORY

BUY UNITED STATES DEFENSE BONDS AND STAMPS

WAR NEEDS MONEY!

It will cost money to defeat our enemy aggressors. Your Government calls on you to help now.

Buy Defense Bonds or Stamps today. Make every pay day Bond Day by participating in the Pay-roll Savings Plan.

Bonds cost $18.75 and up. Stamps are 10c, 25c and up.

The help of every individual is needed.

Do your part by buying your share every pay day.

Spiritual Cooperation Is Theme Of College Talks

With the need of a potent spiritual inter-relationship between North and South America as the keynote, the first conference on Spiritual Inter-Americanism was held at Immaculata College last Saturday.

Villanova was represented at the discussion by James Walsh, William Swan, William Menseck and Paschal Russo, all officers of the local Spanish Club.

First speaker after a welcoming address by Rev. Francis J. Furey, Ph. D., president of Immaculata College, was Rev. Theophane Maguire, C. P., editor of the "Sign."

False Ideas Aid Materialists

To him the conference was the beginning of a road that would lead to true spiritual inter-Americanism. "The lack of Catholic Action on the part of America has tended to cause materialism to creep into religion and life," Fr. Maguire declared.

He pointed out that the "Sign" has striven to correct false ideas that have hindered true understanding and said that the study of the Romance Languages on the part of students would do much toward furthering amicable relations.

Miss Nancy Joy, of Immaculata College, discussed the origin and purpose of the Immaculata "Sign" Seminar, the first of its kind to be established in the United States. "If the seminar can knit firmly the cultural and spiritual relationships that build hemispheric solidarity, its ideals will have been fulfilled," she stated. As a means to this end, scholarships have been established for Immaculata students in South American colleges, she said.

Chinese Student Speaks

"Spiritual Inter - Americanism from the Viewpoint of a Foreign Student" was the topic of a speech given by Miss Betty Wong, Immaculata student from Canton, China. Stressing the need for unity not only between continents, but also between hemispheres, the speaker declared that the big hurdle for Americans to overcome was the false attitude that because a country's civilization has a seemingly outmoded foundation, therefore it should be condemned.

Catholics Had Vital Part in History

The morning session was closed by Doctor Charles Lyon Chandler. Speaking on the subject of the part played by Catholics in early Latin American history, Chandler presented to the audience many interesting characters of the early South American history.

The role that a South American nation played at the Rio De Janeiro Conference was presented by Miss Mary Onishick, Immaculata student. The highlight of the talk was a message from the president of San Salvador to the "Sign" Seminar in which he expressed the hope that a better understanding of problems that hinder the establishment of political and territorial sovereignty might be solved by Catholic Action.

Portuguese Essential Factor

Following a luncheon in the school dining hall, the afternoon session was opened by Alexandre De Seabra, M. A., professor of Portuguese. He stressed the importance that Portuguese plays in the life of South America in spite of the fact that very often this language is placed in a secondary position.

Rev. Joseph F. Thorning, of Mt. St. Marys' College, spoke on the topic, "Brazil, Key to the Future." Showing the dominant position that Brazil holds in the political situation by reason of her geography and her economic resources, Fr. Thorning stated that Brazil is of primary importance because of her tremendous deposits of natural resources and crude rubber.

He also said that if the United States wishes to take a leading part in increasing the mode of living in South America, men, money, and goods must be circulated between the two continents. Men with Catholic ideals and motives are needed to direct in the proper manner relationships between the two countries.

Actual Experiences Related

Actual examples of the interest and friendship that South American people have for their northern neighbors were shown in a speech delivered by George W. Widney, a student of Mt. St. Mary's college, who studied at the University of San Marcos during the past summer.

Following the close of the conference a meeting for the election of officers of the federation delegates was held at Villa Maria Hall.

In a national radio broadcast over station KYW, Fr. Furey and Miss Margaret Coholan discussed the purposes and need of spiritual relationship between North America and neighbors to the South.

President Speaks At Penn Meeting

Very Rev. Edward V. Stanford, O. S. A., president of the college, will discuss "The Impact of the War on Spiritual Values in Higher Education" next Thursday evening, March 19, in Irvine Auditorium, at the 29th annual Schoolmen's Week to be held from March 18 to 21 inclusive under the auspices of the University of Pennsylvania.

Fr. Stanford will contribute to a program which includes group meetings, psychological clinics, panel discussions, and exhibits. His talk will be a feature of the general session of the week.

Other speakers for the same evening will be Dr. Thomas S. Gates, president of the University of Pennsylvania; Dr. Francis B. Haas, superintendent of public instruction of Pennsylvania; Dr. George E. Walk, president of the Pennsylvania State Education Association, and Douglas Miller, author and lecturer.

All meetings, which will be attended by some 6,000 educators and laymen, will be held as joint sessions with the Southeastern Convention District of the Pennsylvania State Education Association.

Bongiovanni Talks

John Bongiovanni, junior premed student, will address the members of the Research Seminar at the meeting in Simpson Hall Thursday at 4:30 P. M.

"Physiological Problems of Modern Aviation" will be the topic of Bongiovanni's talk. He will explain the four physiological factors, temperature, change of direction while dive bombing, verification of oxygen (anoxia), and pressure or the effect of altitudes, which affect aviators in flight. He will also discuss how these four periods may cause a flyer to lose consciousness or "blackout."

Bongiovanni's talk was originally scheduled for last Thursday, but was postponed until this week.

On Writing History

Continued From Page Two

said not so long ago that "man's future is in his own hands, since the blind, wasteful forces of evolution are no longer registering progress."

Despite Fisher's above suggestion that writers cease offering an explanation of human events, it seems possible to write history without so doing. The historian has many ways of showing his bias; it may be in the selection of events, the relative importance he attaches to them, his treatment of some outstanding historical figure, his enthusiasm for some system or ideal, or even in the sources which he uses for his work. It seems that history must be "written with a purpose." Certainly, it has been written "with a purpose" very much of late.

After the present conflict, much history will be written and the old philosophies of history will either be discarded or notably altered. May we hope that the future historians will realize that history can be written "with a purpose" and without fear of future retraction, if they but take into account the spiritual factors in human life.

History is the story of man's life, and no accurate philosophy of history can ever be erected upon a false or one-sided concept of human nature.

Without original sin, the history of mankind is incomprehensible. But with a knowledge of what happened at the Fall, the historian will never be surprised at the contradictory tendencies of human nature. He will not wonder why man can act like an angel at one moment and like a demand at the next. He will not be puzzled at man's capacity for great heroism and heinous crime. The ever-recurring triumph of evil over good in this life—long a stumbling block to the devotee of determined evolutionary progress—will no longer baffle him.

After this war, history will be written, and it will be "written with a purpose." Some philosophy of life will necessarily underlie its presentation. We trust that the historian of tomorrow will take the grains of truth that are contained in the economic, nationalist, internationalist, pacifist and evolutionary interpretations of history and combine them with a true and deep appreciation of the divine origin of man, the effects of original sin on his intellect and will, his supernatural destiny and the ever-present influence of Divine Providence.

Only a properly-ordered evaluation of these many elements will lead to a philosophy of history that will not have to be discarded in some future day.

Third Rehearsal For Spring Concert

A section of the Villanova-Immaculata Symphonic Band is pictured in rehearsal for their annual concert. Rev. Ralph J. Handran, O. S. A., is directing the group. Twenty girls from Immaculata College have been combined with forty Villanova musicians to make up the band. Rehearsals held every Thursday evening on the stage of the Field House, last for two hours. The program at this date consists of several works of Schubert, an English-Irish medley, "The Light Cavalry Overture," and a group of marches. The concert will be held in the latter part of April on a date to be announced in the near future.

V-1 Program Explained

Continued From Page One

rolled at the time of selection. Those students accepted under the V-7 would be permitted to complete work for the baccalaureate degree before being sent to midshipmen's schools. Since students under this program are actually enlisted in the Navy, if for scholastic or any other reason, they sever connections with the school, they will immediately be ordered to active duty as apprentice seamen at the nearest Naval Training station.

On an intellectual basis, those who do not rate in the top 35,000 as a result of the comprehensive nationwide examination will be ordered to active duty as apprentice seamen upon conclusion of two calendar years of college education.

These students, as regular enlistees in the Navy, will have a further chance to qualify for V-5 or V-7 programs if they manifest the proper qualities and are recommended by their commanding officers; it will be upon this group also that the Navy will undoubtedly draw heavily for its petty officers.

On a physical basis, a student enlisting under this program is accepted if he meets the requirements for enlisted men. But before completing his course in college and qualifying for officer's training, he must meet the physical requirements for a commissioned officer's status.

Somewhat Higher

These requirements are somewhat higher in many respects than those for regularly enlisted men, but it is expected that between the physical examination for enlisted status and that for a commissioned officer, the student will, by a well organized program of physical fitness, have improved his physical condition to meet these requirements.

In the event that the enlistee under the V-1 program does not meet the physical requirements for an officer's status, he will be ordered to active duty as an apprentice seaman upon the completion of two calendar years of his college education.

Special features of the program are: 1) Under this program, considering it on a nation-wide basis, it can be said that approximately only one out of every five students can expect to complete his full college education. This applies to the students acepted under the V-7 program.

May Complete Three Years

2) The remaining four out of five students enrolled under the V-1 program, if attending colleges where an accelerated program is in force, could normally anticipate being able to complete the equivalent of three academic years before being ordered to active duty.

3) In the selection of officers under this program, there will be no quota system applying to any college participating in the program, all candidates being selected solely on the basis of standing in the nationwide comprehensive examination.

4) No student enrolled under this program will be permitted to take the examination unless he has been certified by his college as one considered competent to do so.

5) It is still possible for students in junior and senior years of college to enlist in the V-5 or the V-7 programs as presently constituted.

Exam In March, 1943

6) Present freshmen may enlist in the V-1 program and, if accepted, will be given the comprehensive examination in March, 1943. Present sophomores may also enroll in the new program under special regulations which will refer solely to them and which will not be in effect in the future. These specific regulations may be briefly stated as follows:

A very general comprehensive examination will be given to them April 15, 1942. This examination will not involve a knowledge of the mathematics and physics that will be subsequently required for future examinees.

Inasmuch as there will be only a few weeks intervening between enlistment under the physical standards required for enlisted men and physical re-examination under standards required for Naval officers, there will be little opportunity to improve physical conditions. In the event that present sophomores fail to meet officers' physical standards when the physical reexamination is given, they will be discharged from the Navy upon request. This concession will not apply to subsequent classes.

Navy Club

When the program gets under way, it is the hope of the Navy Department that the enlistees in a particular institution will establish a Naval Club which will have the advantages of lectures and motion pictures to be supplied by the Navy Department. It is also expected that a button with appropriate insignia will be issued to students enrolled under this program.

Fr. Stanford strongly urges all students who think they would be interested in the V-1 program to investigate it thoroughly before taking any action. Actual enlistment will take place at the nearest recruiting station.

Music Of Tschaikowski To Be Heard Tomorrow

Music of Tschaikowski will be featured by Rev. John J. Vrana, O. S. A., at the weekly meeting of the Music Seminar to be held tomorrow evening in Simpson Hall at 7:30. All are invited to attend the program.

Dr. Edward L. Haenisch's noonhour seminar for the day students, having been postponed last Wednesday, will be held tomorrow. It will feature recorded examples of the various qualities of the human voice.

Last Wednesday evening's seminar was entertained with varieties from Beethoven. His Fifth Symphony, the fate-victory opus, was presented as the classic example of symphonic art.

Get Outdoors And Exercise

VILLANOVAN SPORTS

Build Up Your Bodies

Fordham, Temple Highlight Brief Baseball Schedule

Wildcats Open Twelve Game Card With Rider April 4th; New England Trip and Two Games With Duke Cancelled by Early Graduation

By BILL WALSH

A twelve game schedule, the smallest in many a year, awaits the Villanova baseball team this spring. As a result of the early closing of school many other contests had to be cancelled. Two of these contests were with the Duke "Blue Devils," one of the best collegiate teams in the country every year. The New England trip, scheduled for the second week in May, also had to be called off, thereby nullifying three other games.

The diamond forces will open their seventy-third campaign against Rider College of Trenton on April 4. From then until May 8 or 9, they will engage twelve foes.

Two feature contests of the present schedule are the games with the Temple Owls. The first of the two game series will be played at Temple on April 20, while the final engagement is on tap nine days later on the Villanova diamond.

Owls Won Twice Last Year

Last year the Owls defeated the Wildcats twice, thereby marring an otherwise perfect record for the Main Liners. Andy Tomasic, one of the outstanding pitchers in college baseball, won both these games, so Villanova is out for revenge not only on Temple, but on its star hurler as well.

With the cancellation of the New England trip, the team's only lengthy journey will be to Maryland on April 23. They will meet Loyola U. at Baltimore, on the 23rd, followed by contests with Western Maryland and George Washington on the 24th and 25th, respectively.

Fordham, another arch rival of the 'Cats, and usually one of the best nines in the east, will be met in New York on May 2. Last year the Blue and White trounced the Rams 8-0, and hope to repeat their overwhelming victory this spring.

Outdoor Practice Begins

Outdoor practice was held for the first time last Thursday, when the boys ventured onto one end of the football field. The gridiron was, for the most part, a quagmire, but a comparatively dry spot was

BASEBALL SCHEDULE
Continued on Page Six

Golf Team Lists Seven Opponents

'Cat Linksmen Face Home and Home Matches With St. Joe's, St. John's and Delaware

With a hope to continue the impressive record which they set last year, when they won seven matches and lost only two ,Villanova's golf team faces a seven match schedule this season. The schedule will consist of home and home matches with St. John's University, St. Joseph's College, Delaware University, and a single away match with Haverford College. There had also been a home match scheduled with Fordham, for May 16, but the accelerated program necessitated the cancellation of this contest.

The first opponents will be St. John's in a home match on the ninth of April. Last year the Wildcats defeated the Redmen twice, 6-3 and 8-1. The two losses inflicted by the St. Joe's Hawks last season, ruined an otherwise perfect record for the Blue and White linksmen, and they will definitely be out for revenge on April 21, when then meet the Hawks in the second match on the schedule.

Two Sophomores Left

Suffering greatly from the graduation of Capt. Cliff Randolph, Dave Morse, and Bob DePersio, and the loss of junior Jimmy Brown, the Wildcats are left with two varsity members this spring as a nucleus. These two men, however, are sophomores Bill Walsh and Bob Casey, who held down the number one and two spots last year as freshmen. It is quite cer-

GOLF SCHEDULE
Continued on Page Seven

Sportorial

By Jacques Mauch
Sports Editor

LAST Saturday night, beneath the hallowed roof of the athletically famous Madison Square Garden, we witnessed a fine display of team spirit and courage by our own mile relay quartet. The boys were under quite a strain in their event and, although things went against them, they came through nobly.

First of all, anchor man John DiCarlo had been ailing for two days. He had headaches and was sick at his stomach, but, nevertheless, he ran, and ran well. True, Al Diebolt caught him on the backstretch just a few yards from the tape, but Diebolt ran the fastest quarter of the whole meet, and DiCarlo wasn't up to par.

The fans were not surprised that the Colgate runner overtook Johnny nor is it any disgrace to be beaten by such a man. But the point we wish to bring up is that DiCarlo never would have been beaten if he were feeling right. His 50.5 seconds quarter while good was not indicative of his potentialities. The fleet anchor man has broken fifty seconds for his leg of the relay on several occasions this season and on the same wooden oval. As the coaches would say, it was just one of those things that frequently happen in the unpredictable athletic world.

But that isn't all. The plucky George Guida, stepping off his best race of the current indoor season in the leadoff position for the Wildcat team, was badly spiked in the

SPORTORIAL
Continued on Page Six

Relay Team 2nd In I. C. 4-A Meet; Hooper Runs Well

DiCarlo's Illness Hinders Wildcat Quartet as Colgate Wins; Captain Hooper Finishes Fourth in Mile

Villanova's gallant little band of trackmen made their debut in the I.C.4-A indoor championships last Saturday night in New York and came away with six hard-earned points as a result of the efforts of Captain Bill Hooper in the mile and the brilliant performance of the mile relay team.

The Negro star, Barney Ewell of Penn State, led the Lions to the team championship over the defending champs, Fordham University, by scoring nine points himself. But the outstanding event of the intercollegiate meet, from the standpoint of thrills was the final of the mile relay.

After running the fastest qualifying heat earlier in the evening, the Wildcat quartet of George Guida, Dixie Dunbar, Bob O'Sullivan, and John DiCarlo was nosed out in the finals by Colgate University.

DiCarlo Shows Grit

DiCarlo, running with a splitting headache and a slight fever, was overtaken by Colgate's anchor man, the famed Alfred Diebolt, in the last few strides as the frenzied spectators yelled themselves hoarse. Despite his illness, the Wildcat anchor man, sped his quarter mile leg in 50.5 seconds. However, he is capable of a better performance, and if he had run even three-tenths of a second faster would have won. The winning time was 3.21.4, while the Wildcat foursome finished in 3.21.6.

One of the finest legs was run by George Guida, the starting man for the Blue and White. At the first turn he was shaken up in the elbowing pack but surged in front by the end of the first lap. Three times he fought off Georgetown's leadoff man, Jim Fish, and in the last forty yards left him fading in the rear to give Dunbar a good lead.

Keefrider, McCarthy Run

Dunbar and O'Sullivan ran smooth races and increased the lead. Then with the final men taking over, Diebolt stepped in and ran a scorching 48 second quarter to nip DiCarlo in the last six yards.

In the mile run Captain Hooper,

RELAY SECOND
Continued on Page Six

Intramural Boxing Title Regained By Alumni Hall

Score 21 Points to Win Back Crown Held For Three Years Prior to Austin's Victory Last Year; Mendel Day Hops Second

Madison Square Garden had nothing on Villanova's Field House ring last night as Alumni Hall regained the Intramural Boxing Championship in the Annual tournament. The Greenies dethroned Austin Hall and regained the title they had held for three straight years previous by scoring 21 points. Their closest rival was the Mendel Day Hops who pulled a surprise and finished second with 13. The defending champs, Austin Hall were third with 9 points, and the Mendel Residents, C & F Day School, and Fedigan trailed in that order with 6, 4, and 1 respectively.

It was gala entertainment for the students and their fathers with fifteen championship bouts, a comedy fight, an exhibition, and two wrestling matches. The bouts were refereed by Ray Gadsby, former Wildcat boxing coach and now at Annapolis, Mr. Alex DiRenza, one time boxer, and Joe Shannon, noted ring official.

Siani Beats Dzitko

Phil Keon, Bill Barrett, and Tom McCarthy were the leading leather slingers for Alumni. McCarthy outslugged Sam Sanzatto of the Mendel Residents in the 175 pound division, while Barrett outpointed the Mendel Day Hop flyweight Joe Gill in a fast duel and Keon won from a teammate Hugh O'Neill in a 185 pound division bout.

The entries were so irregular that teammates had to be matched. The point score was three markers for the winner and one for the loser. In a draw bout the points were split evenly.

The most bruising battle of the evening was in the heavyweight class where Subby Siani, 175 pounder came back fast in the third round to defeat John Dzitko 180 pound varsity footballer. Dzitko started out strong but faded and lost the decision handed out by referee Gadsby.

40 Second Knockout

The 1200 fans witnessed the first knockout in the history of the bouts when Ed Creeland, 160 pounds, from Austin Hall, kayoed Art Sheehan another 160 pounder from Austin in forty seconds of

INTRAMURAL BOXING
Continued on Page Seven

Cagers Split Even On Western Trip

Lose 43-37 to Geneva But Eke Out 51-50 Win Over W. & J. on Klotz Goal

By FRAN BAGOT

Last week-end the Villanova Wildcat five closed a season in which, despite loss of key players and lack of tall men the victory side of the scale considerably outweighed the losses, fourteen to nine.

On Friday night in Beaver Falls, Pa., the team suffered a defeat at the hands of Geneva College, 43 to 37. The Covenanters seeking revenge for a previous trouncing on the Villanova home court played inspired ball, and when unable to gain a decisive lead in the first half pinned their hopes on three substitutes who managed to stage a rally against the tiring Villanova club. Twenty-four points were scored by these three relief men and narrowed the Wildcats' chance of pulling the game out of the fire.

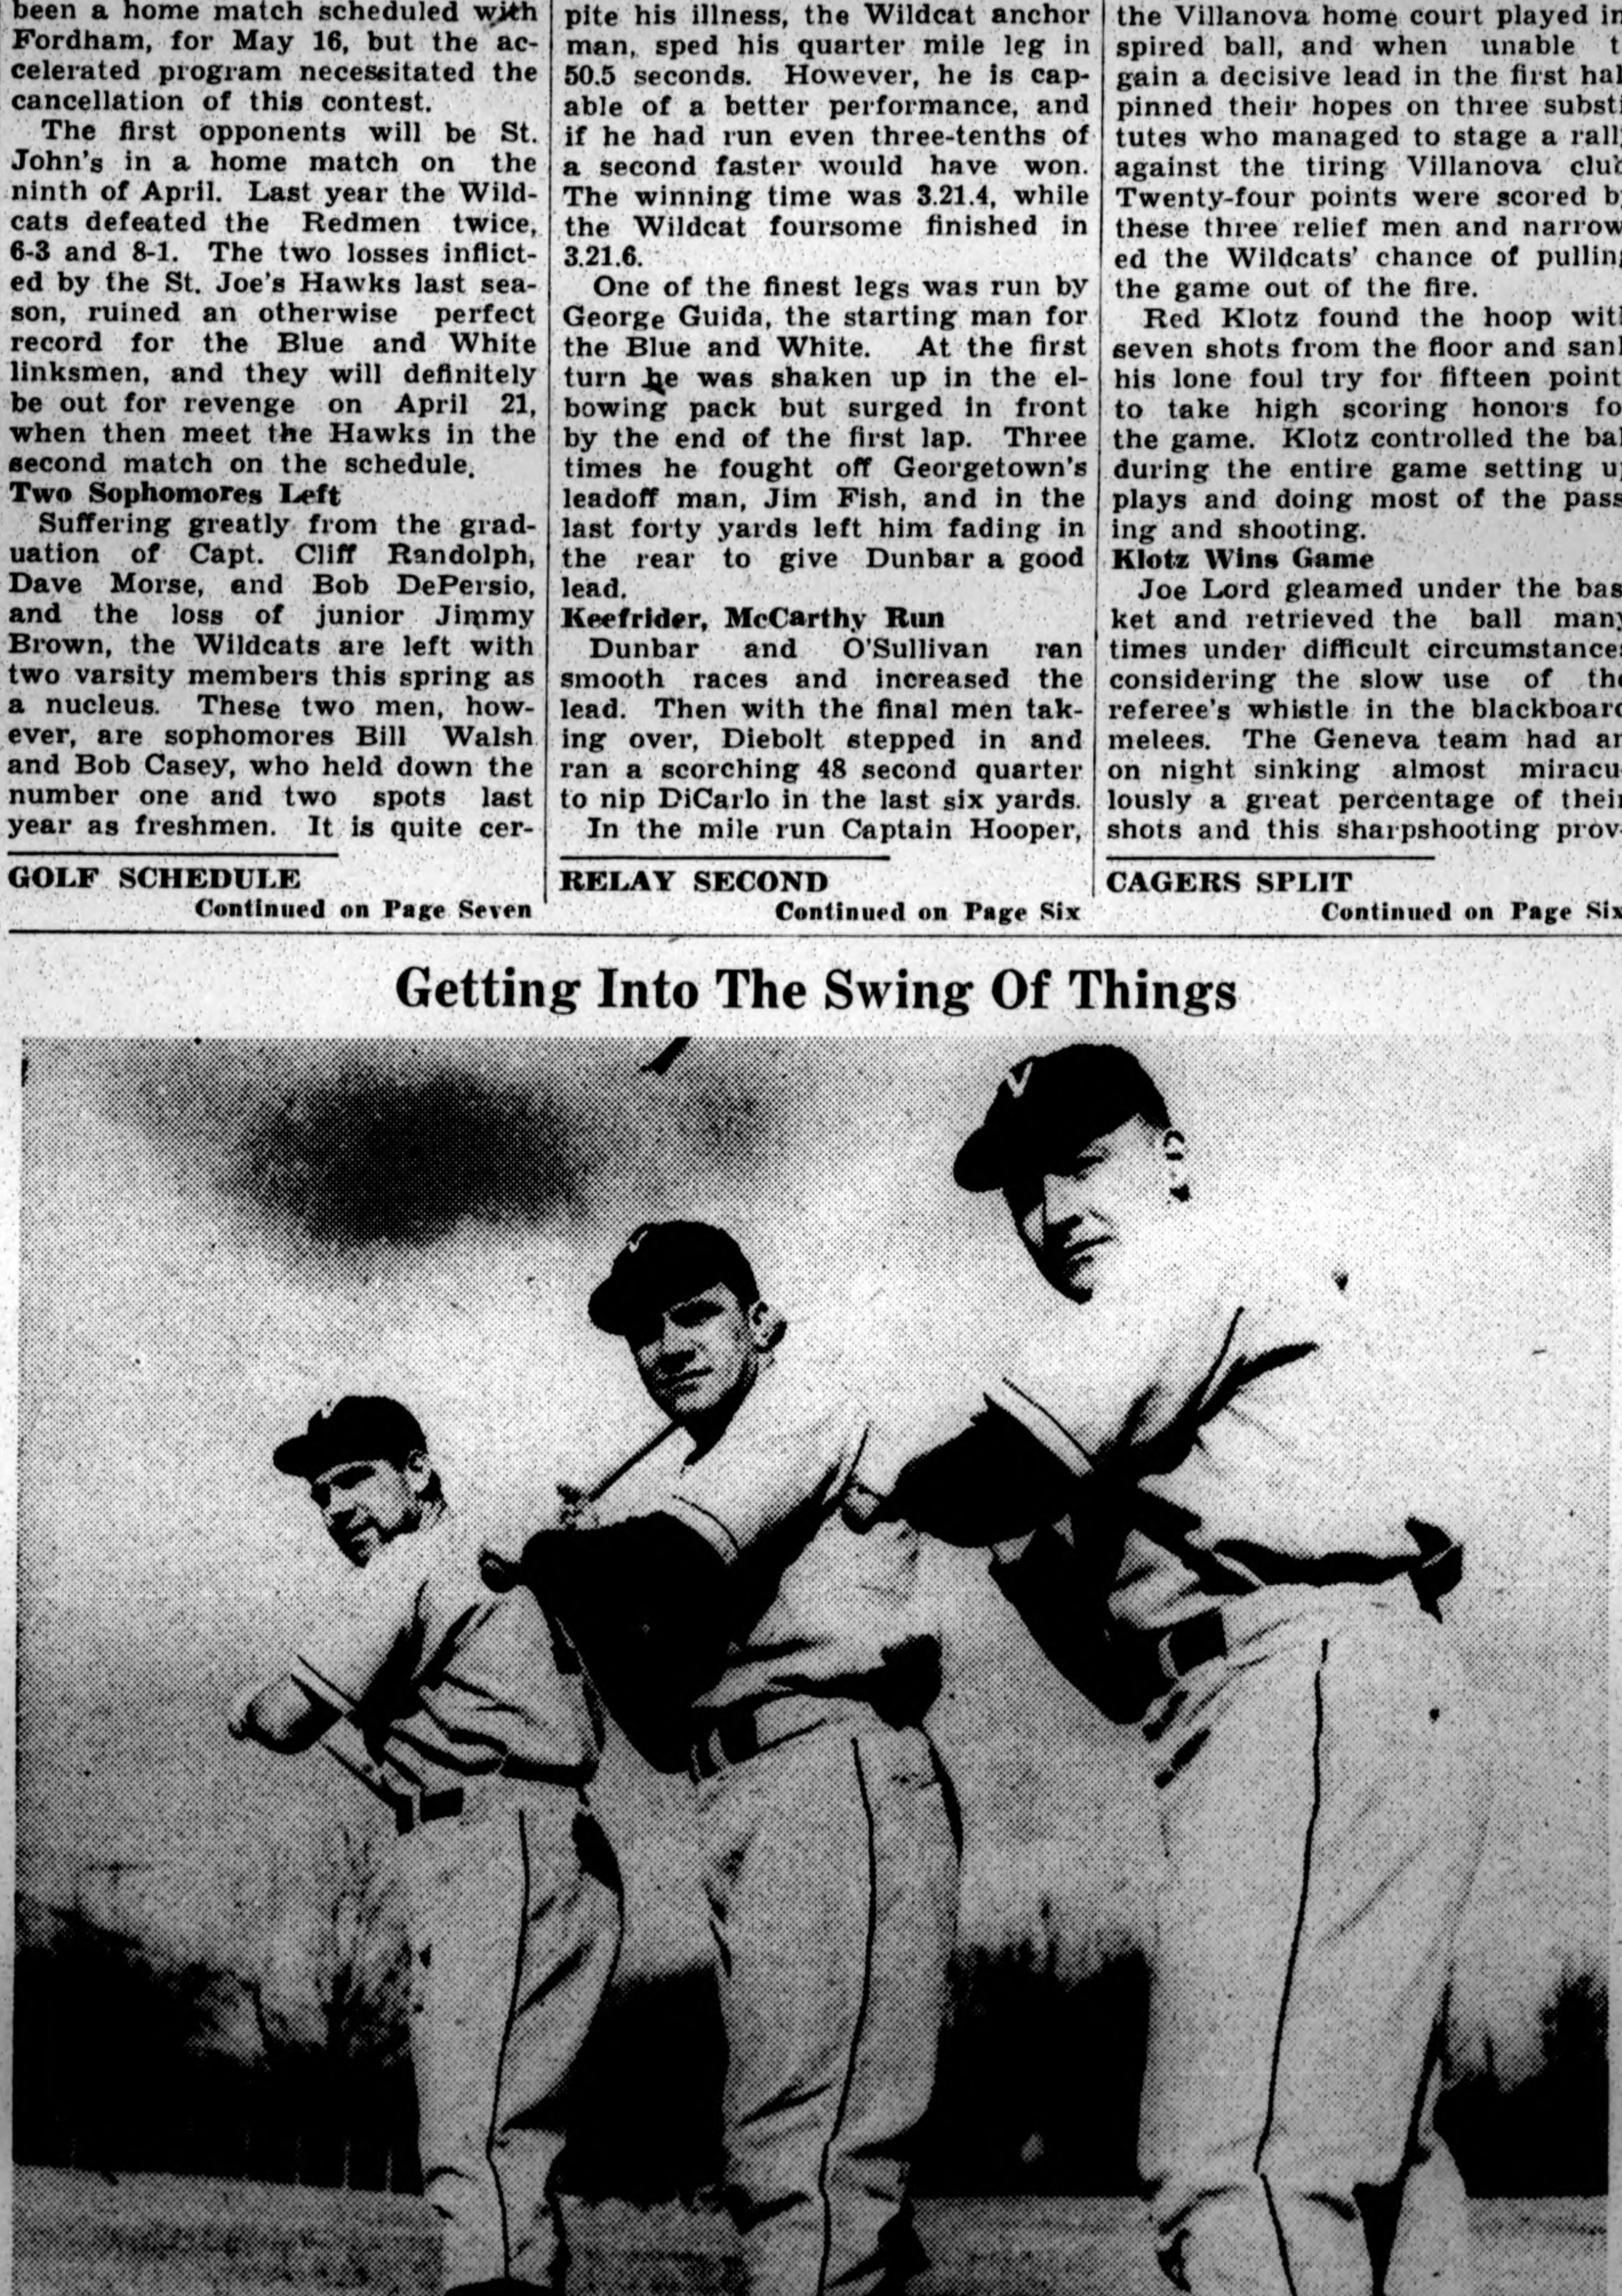
Red Klotz found the hoop with seven shots from the floor and sank his lone foul try for fifteen points to take high scoring honors for the game. Klotz controlled the ball during the entire game setting up plays and doing most of the passing and shooting.

Klotz Wins Game

Joe Lord gleamed under the basket and retrieved the ball many times under difficult circumstances considering the slow use of the referee's whistle in the blackboard melees. The Geneva team had an on night sinking almost miraculously a great percentage of their shots and this sharpshooting prov-

CAGERS SPLIT
Continued on Page Six

Getting Into The Swing Of Things



Although dark clouds hover in the background this trio of Wildcat baseballers, JOE KOPROSKI, TED BICKY, and ROY SIMONSON (l. to r.), manage to get outdoors for a few licks with the willow stick. Koproski, star on last year's frosh club will probably win a spot in the outfield along with Simonson. Bicky takes care of the backstop duties.

Swimming Team Feted At Dinner

The Villanova swimming team formally closed their season last Thursday night when they were feted with a dinner at the Whitehall Apartments in Haverford. It was the first time that a Wildcat tank team was so honored by the school.

Present at the dinner were Rev. Francis X. McGuire, O .S. A., moderator of athletics, Coach Tom Moore and the team and Jimmy McAdoo, Swarthmore swimming coach and prominent official who was invited as a guest. Jack Medica, Olympic record holder in the distance swims, was also invited but could not be present.

Gifts for All

At the conclusion of the dinner Coach Moore spoke. He voiced his satisfaction at the team's progress despite numerous losses at hands of much stronger competition. He reminded the boys of the promise he made at the beginning of the campaign wherein he was to give a prize to that member of the team who showed the most improvement during the year. So saying, Moore produced eleven gifts, one for each member of the team. They were tie holders with a gold medal picturing a swimmer, attached to the chain.

The team showed its appreciation by giving Coach Moore a set of military brushes. The retiring co-captains, John Maher and Bob Koness, made the presentation and voiced their appreciation in the name of the team of Moore's fine work.

Jimmy McAdoo also spoke and Father McGuire concluded the evening with a short speech the theme of which was that it is not winning that counts as much as the spirit of the team in defeat or victory.

Cagers Split

Continued From Page Five

ed too much for the traveling Wildcats.

Invading Washington, Pa., on Saturday night the Villanova club provided a thrilling time for two thousand spectators in their contest with Washington and Jefferson. It was a nip and tuck game from the first whistle and it remained for Red Klotz to throw in the winning basket in the final twenty seconds of the game giving Villanova a one point victory, 51 to 50. These were the only two points scored by Klotz but they were garnered just when they counted most.

Gerland Plays Well

Bill Wood scored twelve points, making his total for the two games eighteen points and for the year two hundred thirty. This is an average of over ten points per game. Wood is at present number one in scoring in the Philadelphia area.

Coach Severance started Fred Gerland, Major McDonnell, and Herm Drizen, three men usually reserved for later entrance in the game. Though the services of Fred Gerland were missed during part of the game when he was removed for committing four personal fouls, before his departure Gerland proved a key man and along with Major McDonnell was responsible for a lot of the fine play that gave Villanova the winning edge. Major scored four points, his highest total of the year.

The greatest difficulty encountered by the Villanova Club was the unusual height of the Presidents, especially Hartman, the six foot, seven center who accounted for nine points and kept the play on a high plane throughout the game.

An unusual feature of this game was the fact that it was broadcast over a local radio station for the benefit of the people in the Pittsburg area. This was the first Villanova game broadcast during the current season.

Relay Second

Continued From Page Five

running one of his best races at that distance, finished fourth behind N. Y. U.'s Leslie MacMitchell, LeRoy Schwartzkopf of Yale, and Lynn Radcliff of Syracuse, finishing in that order. Hooper was out at the crack of the gun and led for the first lap and a half. He dropped back to seventh, but came up fast on the last two turns about the eleven lap course. He was clocked in 4.25.1.

Harry Keefrider and Dutch McCarthy were entered in the 1,000 yard event and both ran fine races, but failed to qualify in such a fast field.

In the qualifying heats of the mile relay held in the beginning of the evening, the Wildcats turned in the fastest time, a 3.25.1 clocking. Colgate did 3.26 and the Georgetown quartet sped the distance in 3.28.1.

All in all these seven men representing Villanova made a very commendable showing and gave hints to the fans that they might become serious threats in later years. Their six points placed them about eleventh in the final standings of the meet in which some thirty teams were entered.

Sportorial

Continued From Page Five

ankle at the very outset, but he fought all the way around and never relinquished the lead despite numerous challenges by the Georgetown and Colgate men. When his shoe was removed at the end of the race, his ankle looked as if it had been chopped up with an ice pick and four stitches had to be taken.

Both Dixie Dunbar and Bob O'Sullivan ran beautifully smooth races and helped put the Wildcats out in front.

Well done, fellows! We'll take them next week in the Knights of Columbus meet. And we're not kidding.

—V—

The swimming team received quite a surprise last week when the school honored them with a dinner. The boys were no champs, but they tried hard throughout the season and well-deserved the honor they received.

Congratulations are extended to Coach Tom Moore for the fine job he did in his first year at the reins. The team went through the toughest and longest schedule in their history and although they didn't win many, the boys showed considerable improvement and at the same time had a lot of fun.

The dinner given to the boys was a fine gesture on the part of the school to show their appreciation of the team's work. Why not make it an annual affair and have one for all the athletic teams? Surely, the basketball team deserves one and now that they have successfully completed their season, we feel that they should be duly feted.

Grudge Game

This afternoon at 2:00 P. M. sharp, the decrepit daddys of the retiring VILLANOVAN staff will attempt to check the cavorting kids of the present staff in a grudge basketball game.

After months of negotiations, Tom Doyle, the oldie leader, and Tom Devine, the youthful leader of the new staff, have reached an agreement.

PKP Bowlers Set Five New Marks; Senior Chems Account For Three

The Phi Kappa Pi Bowlers came through with five new records Saturday as they swung into their fifth week of competition. The senior chemicals surprised when they won three games from the league leading freshmen to take over third place. In upsetting the frosh the senior chems were forced to set three of the five new records.

They set a new team high single game of 864 actual pins and a handicap high of 902. Their other record was the handicap high three game of 2399 pins. The pace-setters for the seniors were George Gabuzda with a 162-129-193 for a 484 total, and Bob Ayerle with a 468 total.

Frosh Set Record

The frosh put up a game fight setting a new high three, actual pin record of 2320 pins but the handicap was too much for them and they went down to defeat, 3-1. Rosa, the frosh flash, and holder of the league high average, continued to set the pace as he crashed through with a 516 series having a top game of 200. Steiert came through with a 517 series and a high game of 217.

The senior Chems are definitely the team to watch. After a slow start they came into their own and have won 11 out of their last 12 games. At the rate they are going now, picking off the league leaders, they should be ready to take over first place within a couple of weeks.

Two other records were set as Tom Hushen, senior M. E., crashed through with a new high singles record of 242 pins. This record is only one pin back of that set by Tom Dolan in 1941. Hushen then added two more games of 141 and 172 to his first game to pick off a total of 556 pins. By his effort, Hushen helped his team to move into a tie for fourth place as they took four games from the Soph M. E. day hops.

Faculty Wins Four

The faculty paced by Prof Le Tarte with a 554 total, took four games from the last place M. E. day hop "B" team to drop them farther into last place with a record of twenty losses against no wins.

The junior M. E. day hops, paced by Bob Simpson, gained a split with the junior chemicals to hold on to their second place by a very narrow margin.

In the remaining match the Junior M. E. residents took four games from the faltering soph chemicals.

In the averages division, outside of first place there were quite a few changes. Angelo Rosa, who has been the pace-setter for the past few weeks held on to his first place as he ended the fifth week with an average of 168. Bob Simpson deposed his teammate, Don Cryor, as he pushed his average to 162, six points better than Cryor's 156. George Gabuzda took over fourth place with 154 as Jim Cahill of the sophomore chemicals held on to his fifth place with 151. The first ten are as follows:

	G.	Ave.
Rose, Frosh	12	168
Simpson, Jr. D. H.	15	162
Cryor, Jr. D. H.	15	156
Gabuzda, Sr. Chem.	6	154
Cahill, Soph Chem.	12	151
Gill, Sr. M. E.	15	148
Hushen, Senior M. E.	15	147
McGrath, Frosh	12	146
Murray, Frosh	11	146
Dolan, Jr. M. E.	12	145

Staff Meeting

It is urgent that all members of the sports staff be present at a meeting to be held Thursday, March 12th, in the office at 1 P. M.

Baseball Schedule

Continued From Page Five

found at the north end of the stadium. A short workout was held for the infielders, while the pitchers loosened up their arms.

Practice games will be held this week, weather permitting, and some sort of a first team will be selected after a few of these contests. As yet every position is still open, with the possible exception of right field, which will undoubtedly be held down by the veteran Roy Simonsen.

Freshmen Counted On

The only men shaping up so far are the pitchers. This is due to the fact that they have been practicing for three weeks, while the rest of the squad felt the horsehide for the first time last week. By next week, however, everyone should be in tiptop shape.

Coach Jacobs is counting on a number of freshmen to fill many of the vacancies in the lineup, as a result of graduation and the draft, but nothing can definitely be decided until a few practice games have been held.

The Schedule:

April
4—Rider	Home
6—Vermont U.	Home
8—Pennsylvania	Phila.
15—Rider	Trenton
18—Manhattan	New York
20—Temple	Phila.
23—Loyola	Baltimore
24—W. Maryland	Westminster, Md.
25—Geo. Washington	Wash., D. C.
29—Temple	Home
May
2—Fordham	New York
8 or 9—Loyola	Home

CONESTOGA
★ ★ ★ MILL
County Line & Conestoga Rd.
Bryn Mawr

FULL COURSE DINNERS

DANCING
Every Evening

Quality tells you...it's the real thing
Pause... Go refreshed
Coca-Cola

The taste-good, feel-good refreshment of ice-cold Coca-Cola is everything your thirst could ask for. It's all you want and you want it all. Nothing ever equals the quality and goodness of the real thing.

BOTTLED UNDER AUTHORITY OF THE COCA-COLA COMPANY BY
THE PHILADELPHIA COCA-COLA BOTTLING CO.

5¢
You trust its quality

YOU CAN HELP SPEED THIS VITAL WAR-TIME SERVICE!

Every telephone user can help to keep lines open and speed the service by following a few simple rules:

1. Be sure you have the right number before you make a call.
2. Don't ask "Information" for numbers that are listed in the directory.
3. Answer all calls as quickly as possible.
4. Be sure to "hang up" after each call. Don't let a book or anything else hold the telephone "off the hook."
5. If you can conveniently call at other times, try to avoid making Long Distance calls during the peak periods of telephone traffic—9:30 to 11:30 A. M., 2 to 4 P. M., 7 to 8 P. M.

Thank You!

THE BELL TELEPHONE COMPANY OF PENNSYLVANIA

Runners Compete In Knights Of Columbus Meet In New York

The metropolitan indoor track season will be brought to a fitting close this Saturday night with the running of the famed New York Knights of Columbus games in Madison Square Garden.

Villanova will send her slick mile relay team in to battle against the best mile teams that scamper over the splintered oval. The blue and white baton carriers, George Guida, Dixie Dunbar, Bob O'Sullivan and John DiCarlo will match strides with the teams of Colgate, Georgetown and Fordham.

Climax Meet

All the teams in this race have run the mile under 3.21. Colgate, who won the I. C. A. A. A. A. mile title last Saturday will be anchored by the great Al Diebolt, Georgetown by Hugh Short and the Ram of Fordham by the intercollegiate 600-yard champion, John Campbell.

This will be the climax race in the climax meet of the season and the winner will have to go all out to bring home the gold medal. Frank Brennem, the director of the meet, feels sure that the meet record of 3.19.4 will be erased from the book by one of these fast-stepping foursomes.

Intramural Boxing

Continued From Page Five

the first round. After feeling his opponent out in the beginning, Creeland hammered a short, lightning blow to Sheehan's jaw and that was the end.

Scotty Boyle defending champ from the Mendel Day School and Ben Paradee of Alumni both 165 pounders, put on one of the most terrific slugfests of the evening that ended in a draw with both boxers out on their feet.

Two Wrestling Matches

In another draw bout Austin's pride, Bill Fenton faced big Frank Sinkovitz. Fenton scaled around 185 while Sinkovitz, frosh football star, hit the beam at 200. But the smaller man made up in science and art what he lacked in weight.

Two wrestling matches were sandwiched in the big show and these provided added entertainment. Bill Lilienthal, a tremendous 260 pound freshman football tackle put on a comic exhibition with Ed Konopka 210 pounder. The boys really roughed it up and made the temporary canvas ring shake on its foundations. In the other match Jim Hobbs representing Austin deadlocked with Nick Petrella of Mendel Day Hops.

Comic Boxing Exhibition

Exhibition bouts were staged by the Veteran's Boxing Association of Philadelphia and the highlight was a comedy fight by two old timers, quite famous in their day.

Karl Vogt, heavyweight from Austin Hall, fought a draw with Tommy Pollock, 175 pounder also from Austin in an exhibition bout. Pollock was the trainer for the intramural show and has had much ring experience.

Other matches were:

P. Curreri, Mendel D. H., 135, defeated J. Lamb, Mendel Residents, 135.

B. Pepperess, Mendel Hall, 125, drew with P. Bartell, Mendel Residents, 125.

Golf Schedule

Continued From Page Four

tain that they will retain these positions again this season.

Aside from these two men, though, the rest of the team is a question mark. There are many aspirants for the four remaining positions; among them: Ed Tribulas, Bill Powers, Hugh Mathews, Jim Henry, John Newell, and Manager Ernie Klappenbach.

Intramural Champ

Of these, Tribulas and Powers are expected to fill two of the vacancies, as a result of their performances in the Intramural Golf Tournament last fall. Tribulas carried off first honors in this event, when he carded a remarkable 79. Powers took second place with an 87.

Another likely candidate is Klappenbach, a senior, and manager of the team. He was the alternate on last year's team, and should earn one of the varsity berths in the coming campaign.

The qualifying rounds are scheduled for the week of March 30. The qualifying will consist of two rounds of eighteen holes each, to be played on separate days. The men having the six lowest thirty-six hole totals will comprise the team, while the seventh man will hold down the alternate position.

The Pennsylvania Golf Club, located at Frazer, Pa., scene of last year's home contests, and of last fall's Intramural Tournament, will again be the home club this spring. This course, a 6500 yard layout, with a par of 71, is considered one of the best in the surrounding area.

Schedule

April
10—St. John's	Frazer, Pa.
21—St. Joseph's	Bala, Pa.
22—Haverford	Haverford, Pa.
24—St. John's	New York
29—Delaware	Frazer, Pa.
May
1—Delaware	Newark, Del.
5—St. Joseph's	Frazer, Pa.

Rutgers Defeats Wildcat Tankmen In Closing Meet

It was with a dull splash that the Wildcat swimmers closed a mediocre season last Wednesday night by losing to the powerful Rutgers University mermen 55-20 at New Brunswick, N. J.

The hard trying Villanovans simply could not keep pace with their highly superior foes as Jim Reilly's Scarlet team swept to victory in all nine events. The medley relay team of Norman Siegal, Charlie Gantner, and Jerry Levin established a new record of 2.58. This was not only a pool record but a new all-time standard in the swimming league of which Rutgers is a member. It was one of the best times turned in all season by a college medley relay team.

Riley, Koness Star

Ed Riley, the most improved tankman on the squad, and Bob Koness were the Wildcats' big point-getters. Riley placed second in both the 220 and 440 yard distance swims. In the latter event he was beaten by the Scarlet star, Levin, who won in the exceptionally swift time of 5 minutes and 8 seconds. Koness also scored two seconds in the 50 and 100 yard free-style races. Al Geiger touched him out in the 50 and Pete Young beat him in the 100 in 54.5 seconds.

Seventh Defeat

John Maher and Frank Desmond took seconds for the Main Liners in the 150 yard backstroke and 200 breaststroke respectively. Desmond was beaten by Gantner who helped establish the new record in the medley. The Rutgers star is the holder of the world's interscholastic record for the 100 yard breaststroke which he set when a student at Blair Academy.

This defeat which marked the end of the 1942 campaign for the tankmen was the seventh of the season. In the win column the Wildcats registered victories over Delaware University and St. Peter's College. Although the record is lopsided the season was not fruitless. New swimmers were developed and all the boys had fun. It was the largest schedule that any Villanova swimming team has ever had.

HERE AND THERE

By JACK DUDLEY

HAVING finally squared off with Hirohito, Uncle Sam is trying to get the measure of the little yellow man. When Sam brings that knockout punch into play, Hiro will go home realizing that there were many more wholesome activities he could have started, and the American people will go back to the life that they want and love.

It is going to take effort in the future to insure the peace and well being of this nation. In spite of defeats, there will be those nations that would bring about our downfall if they could. Fundamentally, our lives will not have been altered greatly. As Americans have tried in the past, we'll advance in learning, and we'll apply that learning to the good of all.

President Roosevelt stated that it is our task to see that no nation will ever again be able to attempt any hostile action against this country. That's a big order, but we've learned it must be carried out. This war has put emphasis on physical fitness. We'd like to see in the future compulsory military training for boys, say after they have left high school and have not yet begun their college educations.

—V—

Something new was added to the Intramural Boxing Show last night. it was evident that the Father-Son idea went over in a big way. We knew it would, because we've noted in the past that the parents of Villanova men have backed our activities to the greatest degree. A good number of the fathers are Villanova grads themselves, and the others have adopted the Main Line school as their favorite.

Father-Son support of the major sports is unquestioned, although not expressedly manifest as in the form of an organized cheering section made of the lads and their dads at some important game. Some colleges have adopted the praise-worthy custom of naming the date of some traditional battle as Father and Son Day. The dads of the players have the honor of occupying places on the bench near their sons.

We like the whole idea. Why not have as many Father-Son get-togethers as there are major sports, both varsity and intramural. Let's do the thing in a big way. In football, one of our big home games would be a perfect setting for the event. A good basketball game in the Field House would be the occasion of the second one.

Villanova's intramural program would give more of the dads an opportunity to cheer their sons in person. The basketball playoffs, staged in the Field House, would bring us all together again. The Boxing Show appears to be booked as an annual affair from now on. There we are with at least four great chances to bring Dad in on what's going on about the campus. Does it sound good? Do you want to make something of it?

—V—

Bucky Coleman, freshman track star, predicted, over two months ago, the epic rush of West Catholic's basketball team to a spot in the Catholic League Playoffs. The husky pole-vaulter not only foretold the comeback of the Burrs, but also said how they would do it. Had this column not been the recipeint of Bucky's prognostications, we might be prone to cast off any "I told ya so's," but we were there and heard him.

We mention the West incident not only because we admire the spirit of an underdog club that came back, but because the Burrs remind us of our own Wildcats. With most of a disappointing season behind them, our boys came to life, trampled a couple of favored fives and then refused to be outplayed after that. Considering the causes behind the team's failure to hit its stride earlier than they did, we feel the late-season spurt is a trbiute to the grand spirit the team possessed. The boys had it at the beginning, never lost it despite defeats, and it was there to help them gain thrilling victories when they meant the most.

On The Local Screens

ARDMORE THEATRE
Wednesday to Saturday
"JOHNNY EAGER"
with
ROBERT TAYLOR
LANA TURNER
Sunday and Monday
"SUSPICION"
with
CARY GRANT
JOAN FONTAINE

Direction Warner Bros.
TOWER
69th & MARKET STS.
Fri., Sat., Sun., Mon.
March 13, 14, 15, 16
HUMPHREY BOGART
CONRAD VEIDT
— in —
"ALL THROUGH THE NIGHT"
with
Peter Lorre - Jane Darwell

SUBURBAN THEATRE ARDMORE
Tuesday to Thursday
"TOAST OF NEW YORK"
Friday and Saturday
"CADET GIRL"
Sunday
"LOOK WHO'S LAUGHING"
ANTHONY WAYNE THEATRE WAYNE
Tuesday
"DESIGN FOR SCANDAL"
Wednesday and Thursday
"THE MAN WHO CAME TO DINNER"
Friday and Saturday
"YOU'RE IN THE ARMY NOW"
Sunday and Monday
"PLAYMATES"
SEVILLE THEATRE BRYN MAWR
Tuesday and Wednesday
"H. M. PULHAM, ESQ."
Thursday
"FATHER TAKES A WIFE"
Friday and Saturday
"PLAYMATES"
with Kay Kyser
Sunday and Monday
"YOU'RE IN THE ARMY NOW"

RIDE FREE ON P. & W. RAILWAY MOVIE TICKETS
GRAND
NORRISTOWN
Wednesday & Thursday
Lupe Velez - Leo Carrillo in
"HONOLULU LOW"
and
"ONE DAY IN SOVIET RUSSIA"
Friday & Saturday
Gene Autry in
"SIERRA SUE"
and 3 Stooges in
"SOME MORE OF SOMA"
NORRIS
NORRISTOWN
Today, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday
Tyrone Power - Gene Tierney in
"SON OF FURY"
Saturday, Monday & Tuesday
Olsen & Johnson in Riotous
"HELLZAPOPPIN"
Wednesday & Thursday
Shirley Temple in
"KATHLEEN"
and Charles Ruggles in
"PERFECT SNOB"
Friday & Saturday
Mickey Rooney - Judy Garland in
"BABES ON BROADWAY"

WILDCATS!
STOP HERE
LA DOW'S PHARMACY
On the Edge of the Campus
LANCASTER PIKE
VILLANOVA, PA.

The Lamp Post Inn
Luncheon and Dinners
Strafford, Pa.

George Fein & Co.
Printers & Publishers
2116 to 2130 Arch St.
PHILADELPHIA, PA.
RITtenhouse 6983

KEEP SUPPLIED WITH
SCHOOL TICKETS
GOOD ON BUSES AND RAIL CARS UNTIL USED
5c a Ride, including Special Free Transfers. Obtain Identification Cards at School Office.
RED ARROW LINES
Philadelphia Suburban Transportation Co.
Aronimink Transportation Co.

Gordon Nick
Linen Supply Co.
1612 to 1620 North 11th St.
Philadelphia, Pa.

DOLLY MADISON ICE CREAM
"Deliciously Different"
PHILA. DAIRY PRODUCTS CO.
4th & Poplar Sts., Phila., Pa.

We Get 'Em!

When you send us your clothes you get them back with every little spot and soil removed. Our careful service and economy prices mean that you can build a really "New" looking wardrobe from your present clothes.

CLEANERS SUN DYERS

Pamphlet Racks Feature Booklets On Marriage

Several new pamphlets and booklets have been added to the variour pamphlet racks about the school sponsored by the Press Apostolate. These new additions feature in particular the problems of marriage.

"Plain Talks On Marriage," "The Safeguards of Chastity," and "I'm Keeping Company Now," all of which were written by Fulgence Meyer, may now be found in the collection.

Discussing the same general topic as the preceding books will be P. J. Bruchner's "How To Give Sex Instruction," John O'Brien's "The Ideal Marriage" and "The Church and Marriage," and "Going Steady" by Daniel Lord.

Of particular interest and aid to those students about to enter the service will be the following leaflets: "Half of Our Men" written by Isidore O'Brien, "For Our Own Defense" by a Trappist Father, and a story about the girl you left at home entitled "Latest American Tragedy."

Rev. Edward B. McKee, O. S. A., moderator of the Villanova chapter of the Press Apostolate, strongly urges all students to read these pamphlets as much as possible.

Radio Station

Continued From Page One

is expected to be completed in the near future.

Widely diversified programs are being planned to include dramatics, news flashes, transcriptions, and commercials and are tentatively scheduled to be broadcast three or four evenings weekly.

"These programs will be formulated in order to give all students ample opportunity to express themselves in the various fields connected with radio broadcasting," Fr. Vrana remarked. "Engineering students in particular should gain much valuable experience in the radio engineering division."

He extended a special invitation to members of the Belle Masque society to participate, due to the fact that it will afford many opportunities to develop dramatic abilities.

All students interested in the new project are invited to attend the initial meeting tomorrow at 1:00 P. M. in room 104, Mendel Hall.

For Expert Convenient Attention

SERVICE IS OUR FIRST THOUGHT

Patronize

THE CAMPUS BARBER SHOP

· First Class Work ·

· Popular Prices ·

Men's Clothes

Made-to-Measure

COLEBY Tailoring Inc.

57th & MARKET STS.

Suits & Topcoats

$27.75

See Steve Aisenbrey

110 Fedigan Hall

Student Pilots Take Flight Test

Students enrolled in the Civilian Pilot Training Program were submitted to a series of examinations yesterday under the supervision of the National Research Council.

This group of scientists is now investigating the problems connected with the selection and training of aircraft pilots. The purpose of their experiments is the establishment of a set of standard requirements and qualifications by which the suitability of future applicants for flight training may be scientifically determined.

The tests are in some respects similar to those now used extensively by the Army Air Corps.

Steven Aisenbrey, James Bonner, Joseph Carbine, Robert Casey, Walter Fox, Thomas Green, Robert Lukens, Jack MacBain, John Meader and James Murphy, are among those who participated in the experiments.

Classes in theory are being held every Monday and Thursday night for the trainees, but unfavorable weather conditions have thus far prevented any actual flight instruction for this spring class.

Watch Found

A wrist-watch found last Fall in the basement of Mendel Hall has not as yet been claimed by its owner. He may regain possession of the watch by calling for it at the book store. It will be returned to the finder if the owner does not present his claim at the book store this week.

Keep Abreast Of Events

Tuesday, March 10—

Physical Fitness Meeting (Field House)	1:00 P.M.
International Relations Club	2:30 P.M.
Varsity Debate—at La Salle College	8:00 P.M.

Wednesday, March 11—

Music Seminars:
Day Hops	12:00 Noon
Residents	7:30 P.M.
Physical Fitness Registration (Mendel Hall)	12:30 P.M.
Radio Group	1:00 P.M.

Thursday, March 12—

Science Forum	10:45 A.M.
Delta Pi Epsilon	11:45 A.M.
Physical Fitness Registration (Mendel Hall)	12:30 P.M.
Lambda Kappa Delta	1:00 P.M.
Research Seminar	4:30 P.M.
Symphonic Band Practice	6:00 P.M.
Varsity Debate—Penn at Bridgeport High	8:00 P.M.

Monday, March 16—

Phi Kappa Pi	11:45 P.M.

Haenisch Lectures

Dr. Edward L. Haenisch, of the engineering faculty, travelled to Washington yesterday to deliver a lecture to students majoring in chemistry at Trinity College. In the afternoon, Dr. Haenisch spoke to a large assembly on "Chemical Warfare and Defense."

After dinner he conducted a discussion hour on the topic of newer reactions in nuclear chemistry.

Thoughts In Verse

Awakening

Winter calls for hardiness
As his icy hands instill
To action an awful hardiness,
To minds a deadly chill,
O, long have we slept loudly snoring
In our lengthly hibernation;
Full drowsily ignoring
Both study and vacation.
But the end of his frost-biting reign
We know 'is well nigh here,
And as students (?) are fain
To register good cheer
At his belated departing.
The spring is just outside,
And already she is starting,
For her green vestments we've espied
On the khaki-colored rushes,
On the bleak and ebony frames
Of frozen trees and rushes,
And the hats of the well-dressed dames.
We know, at last, that she's come,
We wake from our winter dream,
And feel the breezes lightsome
That everywhere do seem
To bring a southern sunshine
And below-the-Mason clime
For the which we did sleeping pine
All the dreary wintertime.

Now sitting straight refreshed,
With the aid of fulcrum and lever,
We wake from the winter dream
And succumb to the spring's lazy fever;
And as she, with brilliant sunlight,
The fast greening campus does sweep,
We forget the long winter night
And go right back to sleep.

Flotsam

The bit of living stuff that shakes
On the heaving bosom of the sea,
And glides with ev'ry wave that breaks
In sandy chaos on the lea,
And with the same is hurried back
To the panting bosom of the sea,
Then forth again is hurled—alas!
I liken oft to me.

Sometimes

"Behold the Birds of the Air"..
(Luke XII. 24)

By JOSEPH F. MAHONEY

Sometimes I would
That God were not so good.

When death-birds soar
On winged way, and roar
Through clouded skies to sow
Destruction on the world below.

'Tis then I would
That God were not so good.
But rather'd smite
The pinions in their flight,
And to the man-brain deal
A sudden death, a coffin steel.

Last Day

Today is the last day juniors may pay their assessments without having to include a tax payment, William P. Walpole, class president, said yesterday.

MORE ARMS for AMERICA
BUY U.S. DEFENSE BONDS AND STAMPS TODAY
ON THE NATION'S FRONT
Chesterfield CIGARETTES
LIGGETT & MYERS TOBACCO CO.

More Pleasure for You

There's satisfaction in knowing that the 6½¢ revenue tax you pay on every pack of twenty cigarettes is doing its bit for Uncle Sam

Every time you buy Chesterfields you get the satisfaction of a smoke that's definitely MILDER, far COOLER and BETTER-TASTING.

Chesterfield's superior blend of the world's best cigarette tobaccos will give you more smoking pleasure than you ever had before. Try a pack of Chesterfields today.

We Pay More Than $2,000,000 A WEEK into the U. S. Treasury for the Tax Stamps necessary for one week's output of Chesterfields

Here's what this would buy for defense in one year:

1,300 TWO-MOTORED BOMBERS

or

1,485 MEDIUM HEAVY TANKS

or

346,666 PARACHUTES

CHESTERFIELDS are mighty important in this man's army. New recruit or old-timer... they all like the cigarette that satisfies.

WILLIAM TRACY and ELYSE KNOX (a Chesterfield girl), starring in Hal Roach's comedy hit HAY FOOT.

Our movie stars are doing a grand job selling defense bonds and entertaining our soldiers. Many of them choose Chesterfield to send to men in uniform.

Col. VIVIAN J. OLSEN, Cadet MARIE HOFFMAN of the Women's Defense Cadets of America. This and similar organizations send millions of Milder, Better-Tasting Chesterfields to the men in uniform.

It's Chesterfield

Copyright 1942, Liggett & Myers Tobacco Co.

VILLANOVAN

Vol. 14—No. 17 N. A. S. Z-660 VILLANOVA COLLEGE, VILLANOVA, PA. TUESDAY, MARCH 17, 1942

Claude Thornhill Signed For Prom

Student Meeting Opens Mandatory Physical Plan

At a meeting of the entire student body held in the Field House last Tuesday, March 10, a plan of physical fitness to affect every student was put forth to those assembled.

Very Rev. Edward V. Stanford, O. S. A., president of the college, opened the meeting by stating the purpose of the new program, which will be compulsory for every student.

"Firstly, we are about to enter upon an intensive academic program at Villanova that will require class attendance and study for 45 weeks each calendar year," Fr. Stanford stated. "If students are going to stand up under this strenuous program, they will need to be in top physical condition.

Preserves Morale

"Secondly; all of us in this country are in for what promises to be a long period of hardship and self-sacrifice. If we are to have the necessary stamina and courage and if we are to preserve our morale, we must, among other things, develop physical fitness to a high degree.

"Thirdly; realizing that we are engaged in a life and death struggle with nations that have for many years made almost a fetish of physical culture, President Roosevelt and our leaders in government and military services strongly urge us to develop physical fitness as a patriotic duty, so that our country may ultimately triumph in the fierce struggle that lies before us."

Need Evident

Fr. Stanford explained that a need for such a program became very apparent at Villanova when two-thirds of those students who enlisted to take the Naval physical exams failed to meet the requirements for commissioned officers. The majority of the defects of those who failed could have been easily corrected by ordinary exercise, he stated.

The school has had an extensive intramural and intercollegiate program in the past, but participation in these activities have been entirely voluntary so that many students neglected to enter into any of them. Athletic plans have now been broadened and made compulsory for every student to participate in some exercise at least three days a week.

The president also said that the new program will not interfere in any way with other sports and that those already taking part in intramurals will be exempted from other exercise during the particular season in which they are active.

John B. Kelly, director of the Hale America Program, addressed the students next. He described

PHYSICAL FITNESS
Continued on Page Four

New E.S.M.D.T. Courses Will Start On April 13

On April 13, a lecture course known as Junior Engineering 1-B, will be offered at Villanova College, Northeast Catholic High School, and West Catholic High School to those who have successfully completed E. S. M. D. T. courses in Elements of Engineering and Junior Engineering 1, which were finished on March 13. The course includes: Strength of Materials, Material Testing, and Applied Mechanics.

In connection with this course, an advanced Engineering Drawing Class will be started on April 6. About the middle of August, laboratory work connected with the study of Strength of Materials will begin in the Villanova College laboratory.

To those who have completed Junior Engineering 1, courses in Mechanisms and Elementary Machine Design and in Metallurgy will be available. A detailed description of all courses is now available in the office of J. Stanley Morehouse, Dean of Engineering.

Mapping Project To Employ Over Sixty-Engineers

N. Y. A. Provides Funds to Plot Data Gathered by Coast and Geodetic Survey For War Department

Approximately sixty or sixty-five engineering students will soon be engaged by the War Department to do technical work in the college laboratories, J. Stanley Morehouse, Dean of the School of Engineering, announced today.

For two months, twelve students have been doing this government work and their efforts have been so successful that the War Departments plans immediate and substantial increase in the number of men employed, Dean Morehouse said.

Need for the project first arose when the War Department realized that data gathered by the Coast and Geodetic Survey had to be plotted on maps. WPA officials were consulted and plans were established for doing the work at offices in New York and Boston.

Insufficient Training

After assigning the most competent men on their rolls to the work, the WPA was forced to admit that the maps were not being satisfactorily drawn because the men had not sufficient technical training.

The WPA superintendent in this district then approached Dean Morehouse and asked that Villanova students do the work.

Officials first requested that the students journey to an abandoned schoolhouse at 70th St. and Woodland Ave. to do the work; but rather than suffer the loss of time which this would entail, the dean had permission granted to do the work here on the campus.

Captain Colly came from Washington, D. C., to set the program in order. A supervisor visits the campus weekly to observe progress and another is constantly on hand to oversee the work. All three men are connected with the War Department.

Because of a technicality in law, WPA funds cannot be used to finance the work. For this reason, the students will be paid by the NYA, and the college allotment will be increased accordingly.

The work will still be considered a WPA project, however, and WPA employees will continue to keep the records.

The men whom the War Department plans eventually to employ will be accepted in groups of 20. The first group will be started in the near future. Students already familiar with the work will train the new men in their duties.

Since NYA funds are to be used, no student will be permitted to work more than 15 hours a week. Dean Morehouse expressed satisfaction at this limit, being of the opinion that more time than this would necessarily interfere with school work.

Juniors To Meet For Prom Plans

William P. Walpole, president of the junior class, has called a meeting for today at 1:00 P. M. Two important matters must be decided by the class at this time.

Arrangements concerning blazers must be completed now in order that deliveries may be made before May 1. A special announcement will be made to the class concerning the prom. If received favorably, this undisclosed plan will be incorporated into present prom arrangements.

V-7 For Sophs

In response to a letter from Very Rev. Edward V. Stanford, O. S. A., president of the college, the following communication from Captain F. U. Lake, U. S. N. Ret., was received: "Present sophomores, who are over twenty and who are otherwise qualified, may enlist in the V-7 as soon as the college indicates that they are in a junior status, provided the V-7 program is not complete. To date, the V-7 program for juniors is not complete."

Fr. Stanford said that this means present sophomores could enroll in the V-7 program upon the successful completion of their final examinations, on or about May 15 or 16.

Dramatics Society Joins Radio Club

All activity upon the stage has been terminated by the Belle Masque Dramatics Society for this year, Rev. Francis X. Boyle, O. S. A., moderator of the group, announced today. Instead, the members and all other students who are interested will form the Belle Masque Radio Dramatics Club coordinating with the plans for a campus broadcasting system.

A second meeting of all those interested in producing a radio program will be held tomorrow at 12:30 P. M. in room 104, Mendel Hall. John Facenda of the WIP announcing staff will again be present to aid the students in forming their plans.

Places for All

At the gathering held last Wednesday, Rev. John J. Vrana, O. S. A., technical advisor of the newly-formed group, explained the purpose and plans of the unit to the approximately thirty-five students attending. He stated that there would be some kind of a position for each and every one who wished to participate, whether it would be as announcer, part of the dramtics cast, production man, sound-effects man, or any of the many other positions available.

Facenda then spoke and presented a short story of radio, touching on its progress here in America as the greatest in the world, the immense amount of work necessary to produce a simple 15-minute broadcast and the reasons for putting on many non-commercial programs, known in radio jargon as "sustaining programs."

Offering his services to the group for any meetings that did not interfere with his regular announcing, he promised to help and teach them anything necessary to the forming of the new broadcasting system. He also suggested that transcriptions of each student's voice could be replayed at the meetings for constructive criticism as an aid in detecting defects in their speech and announcing or dramtic technique.

All present were then asked to sign up for the particular part of radio work which attracted them most and to tell whether they have had any experience in this line. It is hoped that the members will be able to have three meetings weekly, two during the afternoons with Facenda and one at night, but the exact times for these meetings have not yet been set.

Dance Plans

Plans for the Lamda Kappa Delta informal Spring dance, to be held on Friday evening, April 17, were discussed at a meeting of the dance committee last Thursday.

Albert S. Freed, Jr., senior science student and chairman of the dance committee, considered designs for the posters, tickets, and floaters. Open discussion by committee members followed, and the work was assigned to the printer.

Members of the fraternity, a science school organization, hope to have the tickets returned and placed on sale within the next two weeks.

Originally scheduled for Oct. 31, the dance was postponed until the April date.

Negotiations Completed With Top Band Of Year

Brings Twenty-One Piece Orchestra to Field House May 1; Committee's Quick Action Beats Other College Bids; New Features Planned

By WARD C. GUNCHEON

Fulfilling its promise to make the Centennial Class' Junior Prom worthy of its name, the junior class last week signed Claude Thornhill for the formal dance May 1. Tickets for the prom will be placed on sale two weeks from today. Dancing will be from 10:00 P. M. to 2:00 A. M.

Racing against time, for several other colleges were bidding for this band for the same night, the prom committee completed final negotiations with Thornhill last Saturday. Only through the cooperation of the class members in paying their assessments was this made possible, James Walsh, Prom Chairman, asserted.

Brings Twenty-one

Thornhill, another band to rise to fame from the Glen Island Casino, comes to Villanova on the first stop of his eastern tour. At present he can be heard nightly playing from the Palladium Ball Room in California. With him he will bring his company totalling twenty-one. Vocalists for the occasion will be Lillian Lane, Dick Harding, Bob Jenny and a vocal duo composed of Martha Wayne and Buddy Stewart.

Secret of Thornhill's success and popularity can be found in the fifteen years he spent in perfecting his talent both as a pianist and an arranger and the ten years of study of orchestra technique he deemed necessary before taking the baton in hand.

His first musical training was received at the Conservatory of Music in Cincinnati and the Curtis Institute in Philadelphia. Even as a child he was a prodigy. He gave his first piano concert at the age of six, two years after the beginning of his musical training.

Arranged For Many Bands

After completing his course in Philadelphia, Thornhill joined the late Hal Kemp's band as arranger. During the ensuing ten years he arranged for Morton Downey, Bing Crosby, Jacques Renard's band, and helped Benny Goodman and Ray Noble organize their orchestras. With each new position his fame as an arranger especially for radio rose higher. Next came a period as arranger for Andre Kostelanetz and his discovery of Maxine Sullivan. The latter he helped to recognition with an arrangement of the Scottish air, "Loch Lomond," with which she is identified.

The band which he brings to the Field House was formed in January of 1940. The distinctive style of his band, evident in his theme melody, "Snowfall," which Thorn-

THORNHILL SIGNED
Continued on Page Four

Plays For Juniors

CLAUDE THORNHILL

Seniors Eligible For Coast Guard

Senior students may now qualify for training leading to a commission in the Coast Guard Reserve, according to a recent announcement received by Paetrus F. Banmiller, college registrar.

Applicants must meet the following requirements: be unmarried and between the ages of 20 and 30, a citizen residing in the United States for at least ten years, pass a physical examination, possess a bachelor's degree, completed at least two one-semester courses in college mathematics, agree not to marry during the training period, and enlist as an apprentice seaman in the Coast Guard Reserve for preliminary training prior to appointment as a cadet.

Successful candidates will undergo a thirty day preliminary training period at the Coast Guard Academy in New London, Conn. Upon completion of the training course, those candidates so recommended will be appointed as cadets, United States Coast Guard, for Reserve Training and given an additional three months training.

Failures Discharged

Those cadets who fail to qualify in the course of instructions will be ordered home and immediately discharged, or, upon their own request, may be reenlisted in the Coast Guard Reserve in the rating in which they may be found qualified.

After being appointed, and during the period spent in both enlisted and cadet status, a cadet will be paid at the rate of $780 per annum and commutation for one ration per day. From this allowance, the cadet will be required to provide articles of uniform, books, and clothing.

Upon satisfactory completion of the prescribed course of instruction, the cadet will be commissioned as ensign in the United States Coast Guard Reserve. Further information on this training and applications may be obtained from the registrar's office.

Frosh Debaters Engage St. Joe's In First Test

This afternoon, the freshman debating squad will engage its first opponent of the year, St. Joseph's College, in a debate on the question: "Resolved: That as a permanent policy, every able-bodied male American should have a year of military training before reaching the present draft age." The debaters will meet at the Philadelphia college at 3:15 P. M.

The yearling debaters will enter their second contest next Tuesday against a team from the Norristown Senior High School at Norristown at 3:00 P. M. Villanova's representatives will uphold the negative side of the same question.

Representing Villanova, Thomas J. Quigley, arts student, and Carl F. Yeager, commerce student, will take up the arguments for both of these debates, according to Rev. Robert M. Sullivan, O. S. A., moderator.

Physical Fitness

JUST a week ago today, we, the student body, were introduced to a Physical Fitness program. We were addressed by Father Stanford, John B. Kelly, and several coaches. We were told that three periods a week of some form of exercise would be compulsory and that we had to register with the different division heads.

This all caused quite a bit of talk, but when the schedule of these exercise courses was posted there was even more. A great number, particularly engineers and science men, were wondering how to fit three periods a week into their regular class schedule. This was only natural because some students have very heavy afternoon schedules and consequently use their evenings for study, but much to the dissatisfaction of the remaining student body some promptly said they were not going to take any exercise. Their excuse was "I haven't got the time to fit it into my schedule." This may be true in a few cases but only in a few.

All in all the wrong attitude was taken by these students. They did not stop to think that this is a big program and that in the outset there are bound to be some rough spots that need to be straightened out. Nor did they realize that this was the very thing they have been waiting and hoping for for a long time; i. e., the extension of time limits on the use of the gym and its facilities.

But most important they did not realize that these exercise periods are to be scheduled just as any lecture or "lab" period, and it is just as important to attend them as a lecture or laboratory period.

Each semester when you register you find that your schedule is pretty well filled out for you and there is very little difficulty encountered. But if you have trouble or difficulty in filling out your schedule, what do you do? You go to the proper authority and straighten it out, generally by some compromise.

Take a lesson from experience. If you have a conflict in arranging your exercise periods, don't start to raise the dead; go to the proper authority and see if some compromise can't be made.

To some these periods may seem like a burden but for months now you have been told that you must make sacrifices. This is one and its not so bad. You have made others that were tougher, and less beneficial.

—T. C. M.

Why Not The Walks?

WHEN we were freshmen just coming into college we were given a rule book. At that time we were, more or less, made to read it by the members of the Orientation Committee. Each September when we came back to school we were given another rule book, but each year, it seems, we paid less and less attention to it.

If you'll look on page 35 of this year's handbook you will find a paragraph that runs like this: "Keep to the walks and do not cut paths across the lawns on the Campus." Now stroll, keeping to the walks, down the walk toward the Post Office. If you will observe closely you will find a path that has caused a hole to be eaten into the soil. A hole big enough to hold all of the handbooks distributed during the past four years, maybe bigger.

Some have tried to clear their conscience by reasoning that since it's all right to play football and baseball on that particular plot of lawn it's all right to walk across it to the P. O. However, must it be pointed that it is the path and not the football that is ruining the lawn? In addition, it is not the only place where paths have been worn to form an unsightly mess. Nor is it the only incident of stupid reasoning that can be cited.

If something were to be gained by such an act it might be different, but when one cuts across the lawn a few feet from the junction of the walk and the road just to save several inches the whole thing is being carried too far.

—T. C. M.

London or Berlin?

WE have been told by the British government more than once that it is the avowed purpose of the Axis propaganda agencies to cause strife in the allies' camp. It was quite a shock, then, to read an article in the Philadelphia "Inquirer" which quoted the London "Times" on a piece of balderdash that might well have come out of Berlin. The influential "Times" was stated as blaming the British, and therefore the allied, losses in the East on the unconscious United States of America. Such rot.

At the present time, we practically own England, if the justness of a debt has any standing at all. We own the guns she is shooting, the powder in her bullets, the food she is eating, and the clothes on her back. If we stopped supplying England, she would starve. She seems to have forgotten that fact. The old human trait, instituted by our first parents, of "passing the buck," is once again in evidence.

The pity of the incident is that such stuff should have come out of London. We do not mind Britain's or Russia's brand of propaganda, so long as it is either true or flattering; but we cannot relish untrue insults and accusations. The English journalists who have waxed fluent and loud and long about Hitler's plan to cause dissention among the united nations, had better realize that it is his method they are mimicking. They should further realize that the United States treats her allies with respect and deference, but will not stand for a debtor who grumbles.

The losses in the East are not our fault, nor Australia's, the Netherlands, Canada's, but England's. We were given to believe that everything was under control, but something happened that was not according to schedule. We are not to be held accountable for that.

—T. P. McF.

VILLANOVAN

Issued twenty-five times a year from Villanova College, Villanova, Pa.

THOMAS F. DEVINE, '43	Editor-in-Chief
JACQUES E. MAUCH, '43	Sports Editor
ROBERT F. YOUNG, '44	College Editor
WARD C. GUNCHEON, '43	Managing Editor
ROBERT T. CANFIELD, '43	Copy Editor
THOMAS C. MURASKI, '43	Literary Editor
EUGENE P. SMITH, 43	Business Manager
LORING A. JONES, '43	Advertising Manager
RAYMOND G. AMICONE, '43	Photography Editor
NICHOLAS C. ENI, '43	Circulation Manager
LOUIS J ESPOSITO, '43	Exchange Editor

Columnists

E. F Bennis, '43 J. F. Dudley, '43

Staff Writers

F. Bagot, '43; R. Baldwin, '45; A. Berenato, '45; H. Binder, '44; J. Bongiovanni, '43; J. Bonner, '44; J. Deery, '44; L. DeSimone, '44; D. Ehart, '45; V. Gammache, '45; J. Gerrity, '44; T. Hitchell, '45; W Kelly, '45; T. McFarland, '45; J. McWilliams, '45; J. Mahoney, '43; J. Murray, '45; J. Nunemaker, '43; J. O'Brien, '45; J. Quinn, '44; E. Reardon, '44; R. Reardon, '45; F Reese, '43; D. Sauers, '44; T. Schubert, '45; J. Sullivan, '45; J. Sutton, '44; W. Swan, '44; J. Tortoreto, '44; W. Walsh, '44; S. Zeeman, '45.

Business Assistants

C. Callahan, '43 W. Golden, '45
H. C. O'Connor, Jr., '45 J. Walsh, '43

Circulation Assistants

F. Facciolo, '45 L. Hood, '45
J. Keays, '44

Photography Staff

L. Eni, '44 E. Mancuso, '45

Faculty Advisor—Rev. Edward B. McKee, O. S. A.

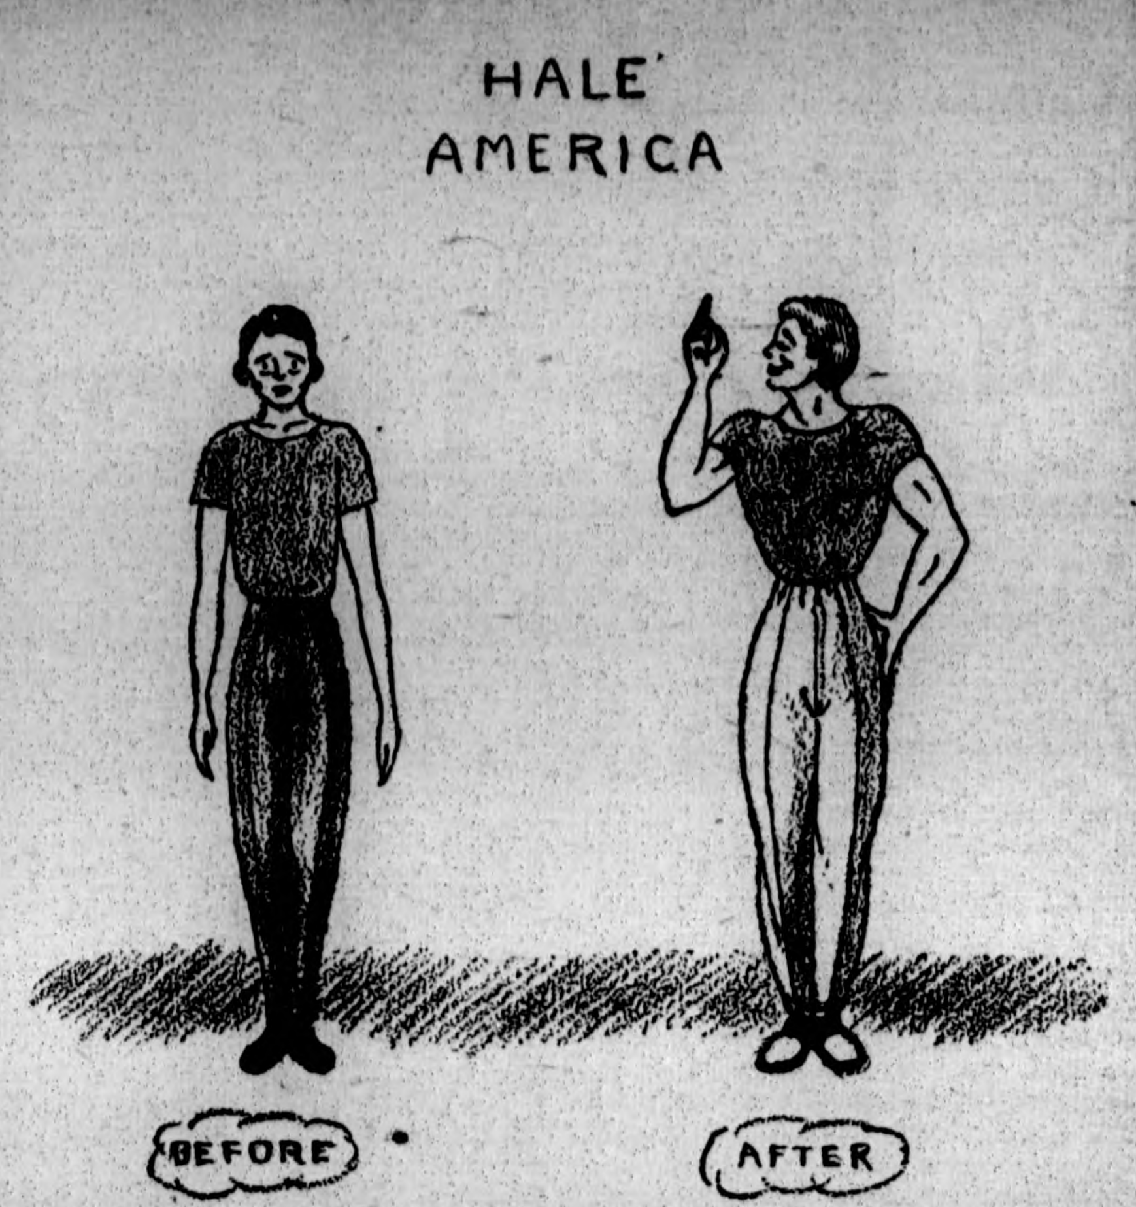
This paper is dedicated to one of the finest men who ever entered Villanova; scholar, athlete, gentleman — LEO GOODREAU

Subscription: $2.00 per year. Circulation: 3500.
Entered as second class matter at the Villanova Post Office December 27, 1928.

Member of Associated Collegiate Press; Distributor of Collegiate Digest.
Member of Catholic School Press Association, Catholic College Press Association, and National Scholastic Press Association.

TUESDAY • • • • MARCH 17, 1942

Before And After - - - - . by SAUERS



FACULTY COMMENTS

Chemicals And Their Use In War

By DR. HAENISCH

IN its broadest sense, the term, "Chemical Warfare," might be applied to all forms of explosive shells as well as to incendiary bombs, smoke screens, and to toxic and irritating chemicals. The Chemical Warfare Service of the United States Army limits its scope to incendiary bombs, smoke screens, and chemicals used as agents to produce casualties or to harass the enemy. This particular discussion will dwell on only the last-named phase.

In the minds of the general public, attack by chemical means would come in the form of gas, and a gas mask would afford complete protection. For present-day warware, both of these assumptions are incorrect. The toxic chemicals are dispersed in the form of liquids, whose vapors are just as harmful to the skin as they are to the lung and nasal membranes.

Liquids Will Burn

If the liquids themselves come in contact with the skin, extremely severe burns are produced. Suitable protection from these chemicals requires both a gas mask and tightly fitting protective clothing of rubber or properly impregnated fabric.

There are two important classifications of the substances used in chemical warfare. One is based on the physiological effect of these agents, and the other on the period of time for which these agents are effective in the attacked area. The common physiological classification includes the following four types:

1) Lung Irritants— These substances are gases which, when inhaled, seriously irritate the lungs and lead to pneumonia. Chlorine was the first lung irritant used in warfare. On April 22, 1915, the Germans first directed clouds of chlorine against their enemy. Since that time, several other gases have been used for this purpose. Lung irritants are classed as "casualty agents" since they produce injuries and even fatalities among those exposed to them.

Tear Gas

2) Lacrimators— This is a group of chemical substances whose chief function is to irritate the eyes, producing tears and causing the eyes to shut tight. The effects are not permanent; their chief use in warfare is to harass the enemy and render its progress less rapid and effective. In normal civilian life, the use of tear gases to quell mobs and riots is well known.

3) Irritant smokes— These chemicals are dispersed into the atmosphere in the form of very fine particles, thus producing smoke. Their effects are mainly to cause sneezing and to irritate the nasal membrances. No permanent injuries occur, and thus these are also harassing agents.

Mustard Gas

4) Vesicants— These materials not only cause casualties by affecting the nasal membranes and the lungs, but seriously burn the skin whenever they come in contact with it. The dreaded "mustard gas" and the very poisonous Lewisite are agents of this class.

Chemicals which are spread against the enemy in the form of gas are classed as "non-persistent." Their effect in any one area will last only as a matter of minutes. Air currents will gradually disperse and spread the gas into the atmosphere.

Liquids More Dangerous

Dangerous as these gases may be, far more insidious are the chemical which are spread against the enemy in the form of liquids. These lie on the ground or other surfaces for long periods of time, slowly evaporating and coming into the atmosphere as gases. Mustard and Lewisite are of this variety. These liquids may persist even for weeks in protected woods or shaded country sides. Materials moistened by the liquid cannot be touched without incurring severe burns, unless proper protective clothing is worn.

These liquid vesicants can be destroyed by proper chemical means. It is this destruction of them which constitutes the "decontamination" so often referred to in the press accounts of gas warfare. Of course, decontamination may be done only by those properly protected by gas masks and gas-tight clothing.

Decontamination Essential

It is in the use of chemical agents such as these persistent liquid vesicants that the greatest danger in gas attack lies. Whole areas, large supply depots, enormous amounts of material or food, can be rendered absolutely useless unless thorough decontamination is possible.

When and where will gas be used? Will America receive an attack? These are difficult questions to answer. So far, gas has not been used in the present conflict, although its use by the Italians in Ethiopia and by the Japanese in China has been reported. Against a prepared army or civilian population, gas is not too effective a weapon.

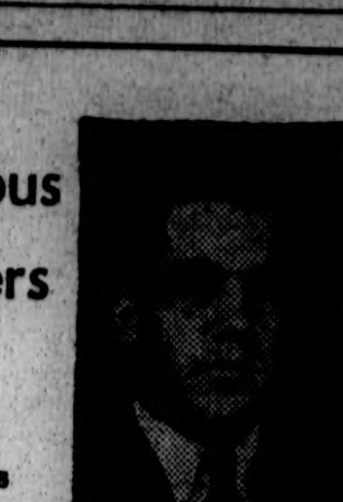
Attacks Expensive

Furthermore, gas attacks are expensive in that enormous quantities of chemicals must be used to effectively deny areas to the enemy, produce casualties, or destroy supplies. Also, gas bombs are much

CHEMICAL WARFARE
Continued on Page Four

Campus Capers

By
Ed
Bennis



MOST of the lads are suddenly becoming very athletically inclined this past week, due to the new fitness program inaugurated yesterday. Many of them who thought they were physically fit are discovering that they can't swim one length of the pool without wheezing like a steam engine. So, it'll do us all good to get out there and work some of the fat off.

The 5-mile hikes will prove very popular — they'll bring out the wanderlust in the boys. Some of them are already talking about starting a Rose-anova hiking club so they can converse with the pretty young things as they walk. Then there are those who have been hiking to a certain white building on Conestoga Rd. and making a long stop there — Jumbo promises to put a stop to that.

* * *

TATTLING:

A young lassie in Bryn Mawr has Frank Chaplar all tied in a big knot — a lover's knot. Tom Sheehy has been playing ball in the Immaculata league — his standing is rumored to be very good. Bob Schwartz has been journeying to N. J. quite frequently these past week-ends. Could it be that he likes the pine lands?

Bill Menseck and George Famiglietti are finally going to speak to those two beautiful creatures they see on the P. & W. every afternoon. It has taken them three months to get the nerve to do it. Fr. McNally has requested "Biscuit" Feraci to bring a bed to class so that our hero may rest more comfortably.

* * *

KEYHOLE:

If you want to hear a good tale, ask Bill Kelly how he lost his pipe — it makes amusing conversation. "Reds" Hagan has been keeping early hours recently — he has been courting a nurse and she has to be in at a sensible hour. Vince Quinn and a certain C. & F. junior are having a feud over Dolly — seems that Vince wants to move into new territory.

Rumor has it that "Hoot" Gibson was seen flying a kite at Immaculata last week — what some of our lads won't do to please the girls! Joe "Moocher" McCabe has a bad habit of disappearing when it comes to his turn to buy a bit of the "social beverage" — and he claims to be a big spender. What is the sudden interest that Ted Bicky and George Smith have in Ardmore — we wonder?

Harv Satenstein recently received (from a young miss), an envelope with a blank sheet of paper and a lump of sugar — now isn't that just too sweet. George Szucs, Ed Rabidoux and Chris Kiefer have recently been going to Immaculata for play practice — so they say.

* * *

THROBS:

Prof. Dougherty claims that Frank Desmond has a close resemblance to Eric von Stronheim, and Andy Di Dio could pass for Veronica "Finger-wave" Lake. We always did think that our lads had a look of greatness about them. Marty Manley has been journeying from West to North Philly on week-ends to see the love of his life — he is afraid that the tire shortage will soon cut out his travels. Joe Malone is wearing himself out running down to the P. O. in hopes of getting a picture from Cynthia.

Jim Bonner has had a date with Mary for the last five week-ends — it couldn't be that you are settling down, Jim? "Birdlegs" Halpin was home the other week and only had a "quickie date" with Dotty on Sunday afternoon — poor fellow, he must be slipping. "Food Fair" Donoghue has been exchanging words with Fr. McQuade — a little politics, no doubt.

* * *

THE GRIDDLE:

"Swifty" Nunemaker was the recipient of a call from Ann at a rather late hour the other night — he looked so debonair trotting to the phone in his pajamas. Peggy has Dick Gray getting up at 6:00 A. M. to accompany her to church — they make a very sleepy-eyed couple. "Meathead" Phillips is now writing Rita for dates — no one seems to know why, as she goes to Rosemont and he could very easily use the phone. Maybe he's bashful.

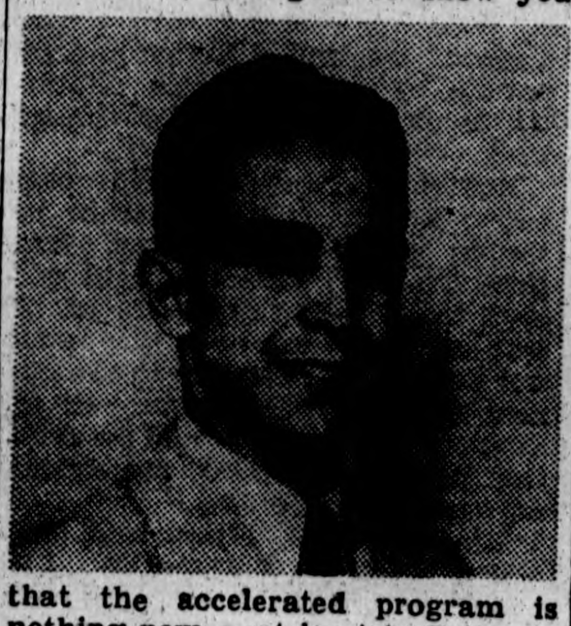
Meet The Boys:

By ED REARDON

Bruno And Tom Are Two Engineers For Whom The Future Holds No Fears

AFTER scouring the campus for two consecutive days, we finally contacted our two elusive suspects in the deep dark dungeon of Mendel Hall, otherwise known as Louie's Pie Shoppe. Amidst the grease and commotion we immediately commenced to subject them to the third degree. The first victim was Bruno Talvacchia.

Mr. Talvacchia, better known as just plain Bruno, experienced his nativity on August 17 in the year of Our Lord 1917, in the good, old city of Brotherly Love. In 1921, at the tender age of four, he was wheeled in his coach to St. Thomas Aquinas parochial school, where he enrolled in the accelerated war program in order to finish school two years sooner. It just goes to show you that the accelerated program is nothing new — at least to Bruno.



Loved School

Upon completing grade school, he entered the portals of Roman Catholic High School where he was an honor student. In his senior year, he was manager of the famous mighty mites basketball team, champions of the Catholic League that year. After completing his four year academic course he remained another year taking a post-graduate commercial course.

Salesmanship, his next endeavor, he pursued at a clothing establishment in Philadelphia for a year. Realizing the value of higher education, Bruno went to Penn State where he matriculated for one year, studying Civil Engineering.

In September of '37, he changed the locale of his education to Villanova, where he completed his sophomore year. From June, 1937, to September, 1940, his name appeared on the payroll of no fewer than three companies: Snellenburg's department store, a civil engineering firm and the Bethlehem Steel Corporation. In the two latter fields, he spent his time and energy over a drafting board.

Returns Again

Villanova again beckoned and in 1940 Bruno heeded her call to return as a junior in the engineering school, where he has been well up in his class. On week-ends and during summer vacations, Mr. Talvacchia may be found in the engineering department of the Bethlehem Steel Corporation, where he is a part-time employee.

When a sophomore, he joined the VILLANOVAN as a staff reporter. Returning in his junior year, he was awarded a weekly column, entitled "Tally-Ho," which had many readers here on the campus. He is also a member of the Phi Kappa Pi, engineering fraternity, and chairman of the local branch of the American Society of Civil Engineers.

Heading for the Navy

Upon graduation in May, he hopes to obtain a commission in E. V. S., which is Engineers Volunteer Specialists. However, we feel sure that Villanova's loss will be the Navy's gain.

WE then interrogated Tom Shallow, popular mechanical engineer. It was necessary to use the verbal "rubber hose" (we hope Leon Henderson doesn't read this), to extract the information from this modest fellow. The 19th of October, 1920, witnessed the arrival of Thomas Shallow in the western portion of Philadelphia.

After spending the usual six years at home playing with a slide-rule, he toddled up to Our Mother of Sorrows parochial school to be enrolled as a potential Villanova graduate. It was here that he first distinguished himself with honor grades, culminating with the winning of the coveted American Legion medal, which is quite an achievement.

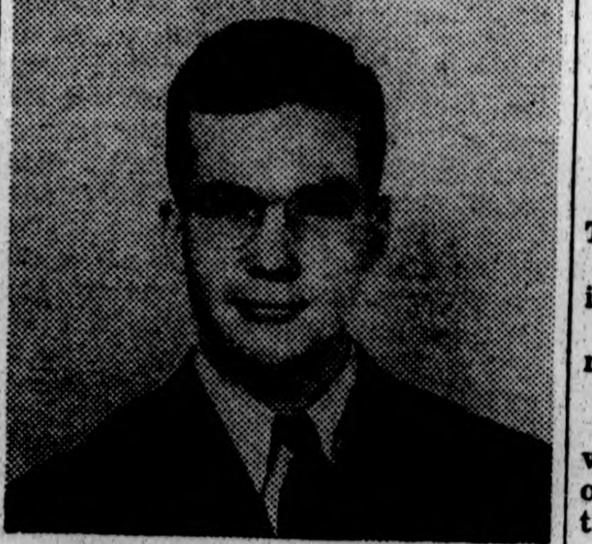
Turns to Journalism

West Philadelphia Catholic High School was destined to become his next field of educational endeavor. In his four year stay at West Catholic, Tom was one of the leaders in his class. This, however, did not prevent him from becoming assistant editor of the "Burr," student magazine, and also assistant editor of the "Blue and White," which is the yearbook.

Upon graduation in 1938, he evidenced his desire for further education by winning a highly-prized competitive scholarship to Villanova, where he enrolled in the School of Engineering. Here he again proved his scholastic ability by being consistently numbered among the honor students.

Takes Part in Defense

In his freshman year, he joined the mathematics club and the following year became a member of the A. S. M. E. and a staff writer on the VILLANOVAN. He was a member of this year's Owl Hop committee.



In addition to these activities, he is a student instructor in the defense night school which is held at Villanova.

During the summer months and on week-ends throughout the scholastic year, he worked for the Socony-Vacuum Co., and only last summer rendered his services in the laboratory to the Bendix Corp. in Philadelphia.

Another Navy Man

When graduation time rolls around, he expects to be commissioned in the navy as an Engineer Volunteer Specialist, where he hopes to run across his columnmate, Bruno. Judging from the experience which he has had, we think that he should be well-equipped to do this type of work.

New Staff Nosed Out By Old Group; Shroud Of Doubt Cast Over Victory

It's all very unfortunate, really it is! We don't mean about having to eat our words, although that's not exactly tasteful. We expected Doyle to stoop to nefarious practices in an attempt to win. And win he did.

But his winning is not the unfortunate note, either. It's just that—well, we quote from the VILLANOVAN of March 3: "One of these conditions (introduced by Doyle after the plans had been formulated), is his refusal to allow intramural players to participate."

We, naturally enough, honored the ruling and relegated Ray Amicone, Mendel Day-Hop flash and Photography Editor, to the position of referee. But did Doyle live up to the terms of his own making? Of course not!

In the starting line-up and in the thick of most of the game for the retiring staff was John Cerulo, former circulation assistant and a consistent performer for the Fedigan Hall five.

Let this serve as notice to Doyle, et al, that their spurious victory is hereby questioned and that at the next meeting — to be held in the very near future — Ray Amicone will be in the forward slot for the new staff.

Otherwise, the game was an interesting one.

Starting out at a terrific pace that demanded an early abatement, the oldsters swept away to a first quarter lead of 1-0. At the half, however, thanks to some clever shooting on the part of Johnny Quinn, the present staff enjoyed a commanding 5-3 advantage.

At the half-time intermission, Doyle warned that he was about to institute West Texas State methods. Any resemblance to the Buffaloes' style of play was purely accidental, however.

The new style consisted mainly in wild stabs from the back court on the part of Dave Reardon, of former "Wildcat Whirl" fame. His brother columnist, Bruno Talvacchia, was the guiding light of the harried seniors, his five points coming at strategic moments.

Meanwhile, the new staff was moving ahead with a calmness born of assurance and determination. With huge Joe Daly controlling both backboards and batting in an occasional rebound, and the aforementioned Quinn harrassing the seniors with his uncanny floor play, they kept on even terms.

Lead Shifts

The lead changed hands more times than a hot potato, but the early second-half surge of the oldsters became the eventual margin of victory.

Jock Mauch, the new Sports Editor, was in fine condition. "I'm not at all tired," he protested when a substitute was inserted for him. When returned to the fray, he continued his first-half tactics. These were comprised of shooting as soon as he saw the whites of the backboard. His percentage of .000 stands as mute testimony to his shooting ability.

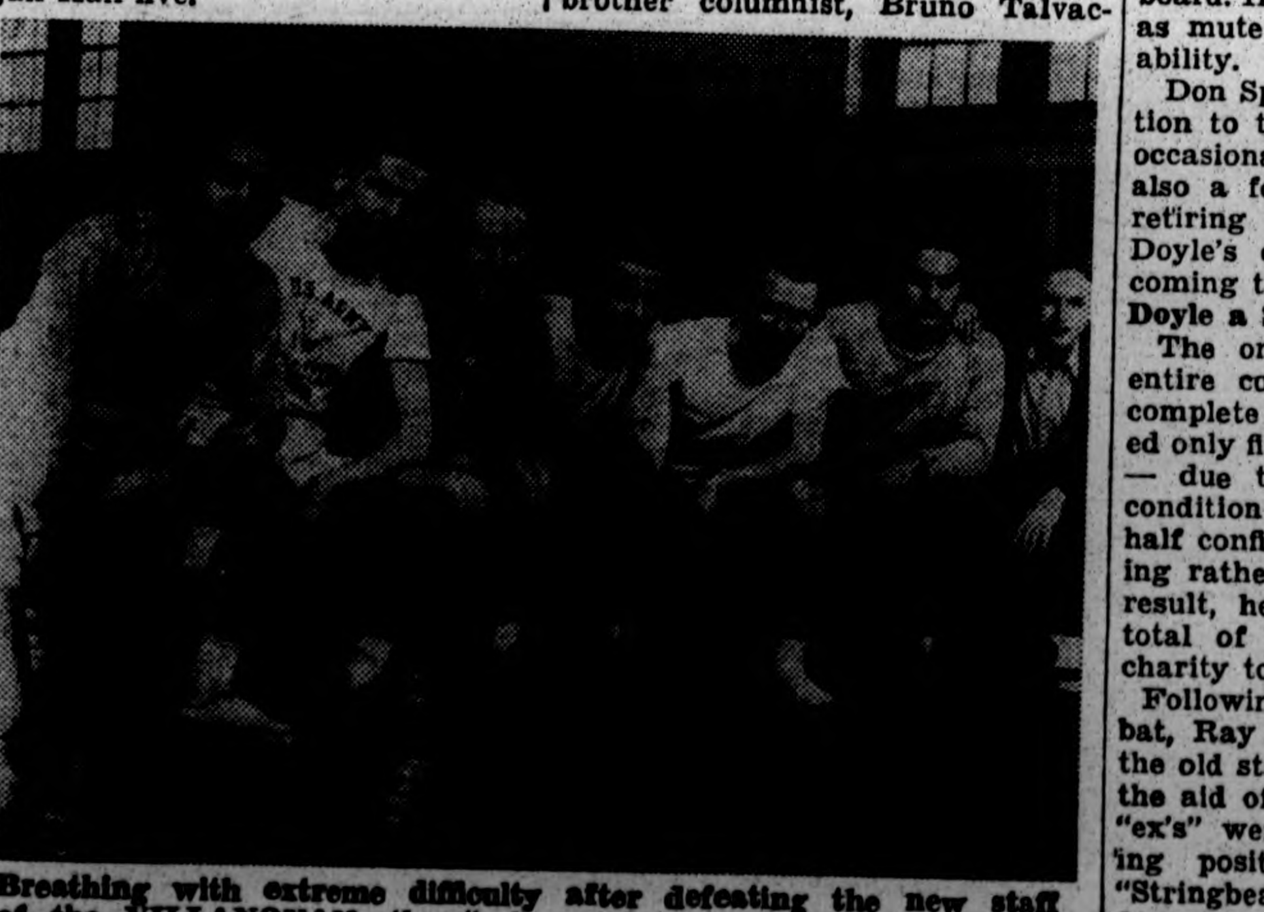
Don Speese, whose total contribution to the VILLANOVAN was an occasional letter to the editor, was also a featured performer for the retiring staff. (The depths of Doyle's degradation are just now coming to light).

Doyle a Surprise

The one surprising note of the entire contest was Doyle's almost complete self-abnegation. He played only five minutes of the first half — due to his weakened physical condition — and during the second half confined his activities to guarding rather than to shooting. As a result, he finished with a measly total of two points, garnered on charity tosses.

Following the hot and heavy combat, Ray Amicone wished to have the old staff watch the birdie. With the aid of the young members, the "ex's" were propped into a kneeling position, but, unfortunately, "Stringbean" McCall collapsed before the shutter clicked. Thus his absence in the picture at the left.

The score? Oh, yes. The old staff won, 21-17.



Breathing with extreme difficulty after defeating the new staff of the VILLANOVAN, the "ex" members managed to struggle into the above pose. Panting from left to right are "Short Stuff" Talvacchia, "Foul Ball" Doyle, "Speed" Belz, "Killer" Cerulo, "Ringer" Speese, "Tarzan" D'Alonzo and "Wildcat Whirl" Reardon.

The Trading Post

By
Lou
Esposito

THE physical fitness program recently adopted here has been received by the entire student body. Now, perhaps some of the fellows will realize that the Field House can be used by others, besides varsity men.

This excerpt from the Polytechnic Reporter we dedicate to the future residents of our Field House:

"Gym, don't forget to bring me
pretty flowers.
Gym, where I while away my
lonely hours.
Gym, with hot and cold running
showers.
I'm crazy from Gym."

* * *

They'll Do It Every Time:

Abe: "That hat is a nice fit, ain't it?"

Customer: "Yeah, but supposin' my ears get tired?"

* * *

Just to prove my point last week, when the editor rejected my batch of jokes, I asked him to throw them into the stove. And what do you think happened: The fire simply roared!

* * *

Corn — A-1:

And a few uncalled-for jokes from the York "Collegian":

"Your hands are cold."

"Yes, it's my poor circulation."

"You mean you don't get around enough?"

* * *

"How long have you been shaving?"

"Four years now."

"G'wan!"

"Yes, sir, cut myself both times."

* * *

Conservation:

Latest contribution to literary art from the "Tower" . . .

There's shortages of this and
that;
We'll have no paper soon;
But that's O. K. We'll have a shortage
Of tests from now 'til June.

* * *

One rule that should be a "must" for any paper conservation program is: All crib notes should be written on both sides of the card.

* * *

Here's one for the Constitutional Law class:

"Did you know that women have a constitutional right to wear girdles?"

"Sure, it come under the elastic clause!"

* * *

A Clean Shave:

The Northeastern News gives us one of the better war gags manufactured thus far. We condense:

Two gentlemen from Harlem chanced to come upon an enemy machine gun nest and attacking by surprise, pressed the gunners into hand-to-hand encounter. One of the colored gentlemen from force of habit unsheathed his razor and slashed at a gunner's neck.

But the gunner did not stir. He just grinned and said, "You missed."

"Oh, yeah?" said the darky. "Just nod your head, bo!"

* * *

Now we turn to one of the lighter sides of life for a bit of literary enjoyment from the Albrightian, titled "MEN," by Betty Co-ed:

I like men.
They stride about,
They reach in their pockets
And pull things out;
They look important,
They rock on their toes,
They lose all the buttons
Off of their clothes.
They throw away pipes,
Then find them again.
Men are queer creatures;
I like men.

* * *

Then there's the one about the sculptor who fell into the mud puddle — the dirty chisler.

* * *

These Modern Times:

The kind gentleman tried to help the little youngster who had lost his mother. "So you're lost, little man. Why didn't you hang on to your mother's skirt?" The kid's reply was, "Couldn't reach it."

—Gettysburgian.

* * *

And in Conclusion:

The Exchange writer of the "Gettysburgian" defines an editor as the guy who can find three meanings for a joke that has only two.

"Ditto."

Physical Fitness

JUST a week ago today, we, the student body, were introduced to a Physical Fitness program. We were addressed by Father Stanford, John B. Kelly, and several coaches. We were told that three periods a week of some form of exercise would be compulsory and that we had to register with the different division heads.

This all caused quite a bit of talk, but when the schedule of these exercise courses was posted there was even more. A great number, particularly engineers and science men, were wondering how to fit three periods a week into their regular class schedule. This was only natural because some students have very heavy afternoon schedules and consequently use their evenings for study, but much to the dissatisfaction of the remaining student body some promptly said they were not going to take any exercise. Their excuse was "I haven't got the time to fit it into my schedule." This may be true in a few cases but only in a few.

All in all the wrong attitude was taken by these students. They did not stop to think that this is a big program and that in the outset there are bound to be some rough spots that need to be straightened out. Nor did they realize that this was the very thing they have been waiting and hoping for for a long time; i. e., the extension of time limits on the use of the gym and its facilities.

But most important they did not realize that these exercise periods are to be scheduled just as any lecture or "lab" period, and it is just as important to attend them as a lecture or laboratory period.

Each semester when you register you find that your schedule is pretty well filled out for you and there is very little difficulty encountered. But if you have trouble or difficulty in filling out your schedule, what do you do? You go to the proper authority and straighten it out, generally by some compromise.

Take a lesson from experience. If you have a conflict in arranging your exercise periods, don't start to raise the dead; go to the proper authority and see if some compromise can't be made.

To some these periods may seem like a burden but for months now you have been told that you must make sacrifices. This is one and its not so bad. You have made others that were tougher, and less beneficial.

—T. C. M.

VILLANOVAN

Issued twenty-five times a year from Villanova College, Villanova, Pa.

THOMAS F. DEVINE, '43 .... Editor-in-Chief
JACQUES E. MAUCH, '43 .... Sports Editor
ROBERT F. YOUNG, '41 .... College Editor
WARD C. GUNCHEON, '43 .... Managing Editor
ROBERT T. CANFIELD, '43 .... Copy Editor
THOMAS C. MURASKI, '43 .... Literary Editor
EUGENE P. SMITH, '43 .... Business Manager
LORING A. JONES, '43 .... Advertising Manager
RAYMOND G. AMICONE, '43 .... Photography Editor
NICHOLAS C. ENI, '43 .... Circulation Manager
LOUIS J. ESPOSITO, '43 .... Exchange Editor

Columnists
E. F. Bennis, '43 — J. F. Dudley, '43

Staff Writers
F. Bagot, '43; R. Baldwin, '45; A. Berenato, '45; H. Binder, '44; J. Bongiovanni, '43; J. Bonner, '44; J. Deery, '44; L. DeSimone, '44; D. Ebart, '45; V. Gammache, '45; J. Gerrity, '44; T. Hitchell, '45; W. Kelly, '45; T. McFarland, '45; J. McWilliams, '45; J. Mahoney, '43; J. Murray, '45; J. Nunemaker, '43; J. O'Brien, '45; J. Quinn, '44; E. Reardon, '44; R. Reardon, '45; F. Reese, '43; D. Sauers, '44; T. Schubert, '45; J. Sullivan, '45; J. Sutton, '44; W. Swan, '44; J. Tortoreto, '44; W. Walsh, '44; S. Zeeman, '45.

Business Assistants
C. Callahan, '43 — W. Golden, '45
H. C. O'Connor, Jr., '45 — J. Walsh, '43

Circulation Assistants
F. Facciolo, '45 — L. Hood, '45
J. Keays, '44

Photography Staff
L. Eni, '44 — E. Mancuso, '45

Faculty Advisor—Rev. Edward B. McKee, O. S. A.

This paper is dedicated to one of the finest men who ever entered Villanova; scholar, athlete, gentleman — LEO GOODREAU

Subscription: $2.00 per year. Circulation: 3500.
Entered as second class matter at the Villanova Post Office December 27, 1928.

Member of Associated Collegiate Press; Distributor of Collegiate Digest.
Member of Catholic School Press Association, Catholic College Press Association, and National Scholastic Press Association.

TUESDAY - - - - MARCH 17, 1942

Why Not The Walks?

WHEN we were freshmen just coming into college we were given a rule book. At that time we were, more or less, made to read it by the members of the Orientation Committee. Each September when we came back to school we were given another rule book, but each year, it seems, we paid less and less attention to it.

If you'll look on page 35 of this year's handbook you will find a paragraph that runs like this: "Keep to the walks and do not cut paths across the lawns on the Campus." Now stroll, keeping to the walks, down the walk toward the Post Office. If you will observe closely you will find a path that has caused a hole to be eaten into the soil. A hole big enough to hold all of the handbooks distributed during the past four years, maybe bigger.

Some have tried to clear their conscience by reasoning that since it's all right to play football and baseball on that particular plot of lawn it's all right to walk across it to the P. O. However, must it be pointed that it is the path and not the football that is ruining the lawn? In addition, it is not the only place where paths have been worn to form an unsightly mess. Nor is it the only incident of stupid reasoning that can be cited.

If something were to be gained by such an act it might be different, but when one cuts across the lawn a few feet from the junction of the walk and the road just to save several inches the whole thing is being carried too far.

—T. C. M.

London or Berlin?

WE have been told by the British government more than once that it is the avowed purpose of the Axis propaganda agencies to cause strife in the allies' camp. It was quite a shock, then, to read an article in the Philadelphia "Inquirer" which quoted the London "Times" on a piece of balderdash that might well have come out of Berlin. The influential "Times" was stated as blaming the British, and therefore the allied, losses in the East on the unconscious United States of America. Such rot.

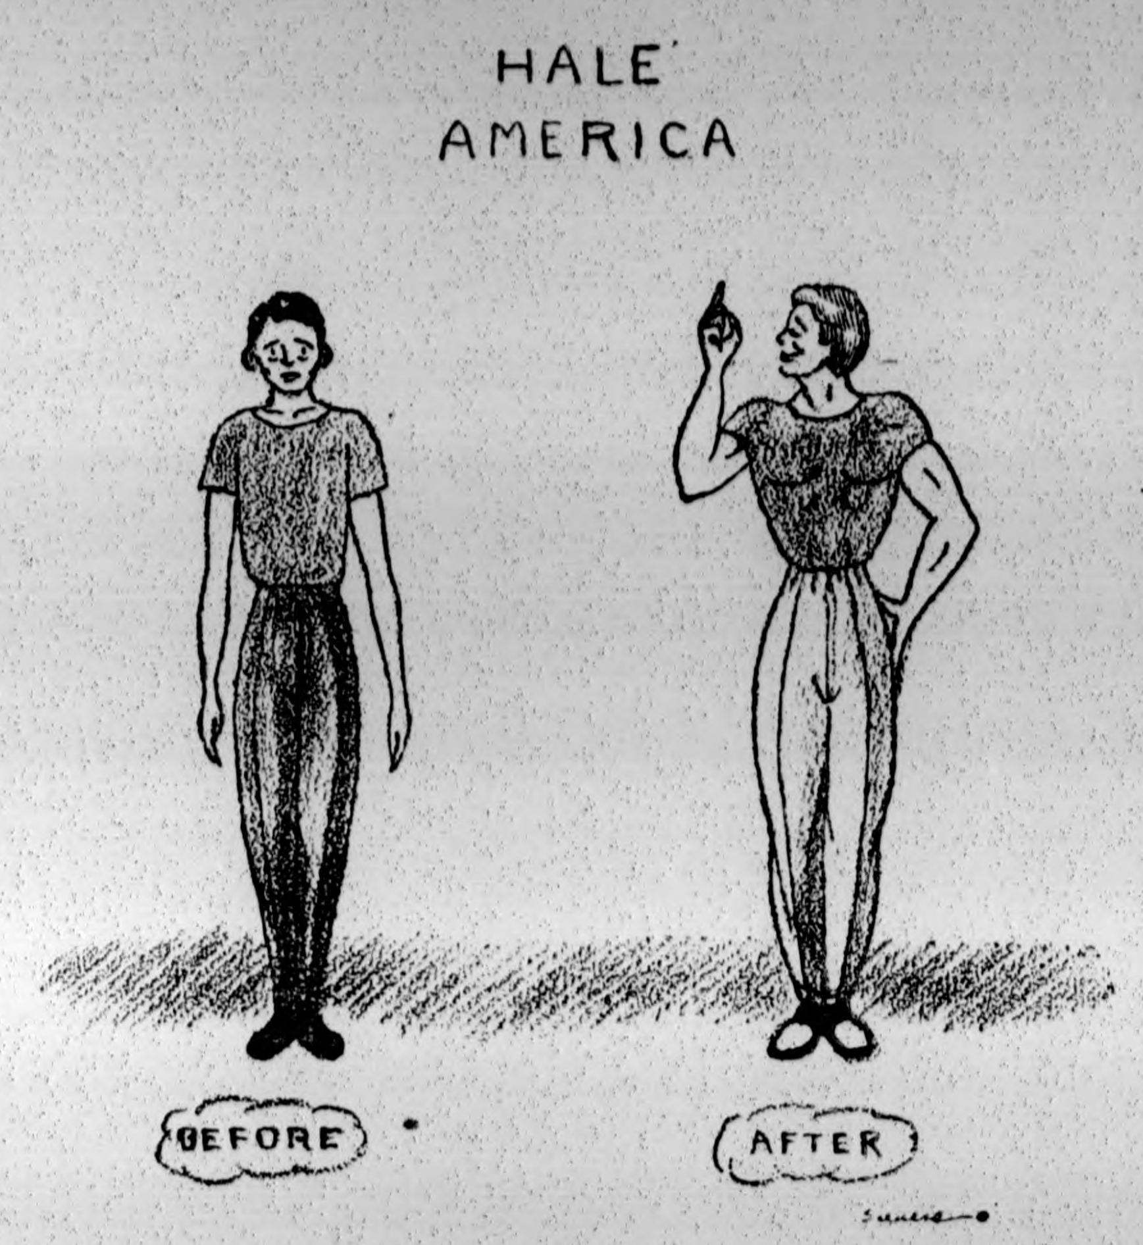
At the present time, we practically own England, if the justness of a debt has any standing at all. We own the guns she is shooting, the powder in her bullets, the food she is eating, and the clothes on her back. If we stopped supplying England, she would starve. She seems to have forgotten that fact. The old human trait, instituted by our first parents, of "passing the buck," is once again in evidence.

The pity of the incident is that such stuff should have come out of London. We do not mind Britain's or Russia's brand of propaganda, so long as it is either true or flattering; but we cannot relish untrue insults and accusations. The English journalists who have waxed fluent and loud and long about Hitler's plan to cause dissention among the united nations, had better realize that it is his method they are mimicking. They should further realize that the United States treats her allies with respect and deference, but will not stand for a debtor who grumbles.

The losses in the East are not our fault, nor Australia's, the Netherlands, Canada's, but England's. We were given to believe that everything was under control, but something happened that was not according to schedule. We are not to be held accountable for that.

—T. P. McF.

Before And After - - - - - by SAUERS



FACULTY COMMENTS

Chemicals And Their Use In War

By DR. HAENISCH

IN its broadest sense, the term, "Chemical Warfare," might be applied to all forms of explosive shells as well as to incendiary bombs, smoke screens, and to toxic and irritating chemicals. The Chemical Warfare Service of the United States Army limits its scope to incendiary bombs, smoke screens, and chemicals used as agents to produce casualties or to harass the enemy. This particular discussion will dwell on only the last-named phase.

In the minds of the general public, attack by chemical means would come in the form of gas, and a gas mask would afford complete protection. For present-day warware, both of these assumptions are incorrect. The toxic chemicals are dispersed in the form of liquids, whose vapors are just as harmful to the skin as they are to the lung and nasal membranes.

Liquids Will Burn

If the liquids themselves come in contact with the skin, extremely severe burns are produced. Suitable protection from these chemicals requires both a gas mask and tightly fitting protective clothing of rubber or properly impregnated fabric.

There are two important classifications of the substances used in chemical warfare. One is based on the physiological effect of these agents, and the other on the period of time for which these agents are effective in the attacked area. The common physiological classification includes the following four types:

1) Lung Irritants— These substances are gases which, when inhaled, seriously irritate the lungs and lead to pneumonia. Chlorine was the first lung irritant used in warfare. On April 22, 1915, the Germans first directed clouds of chlorine against their enemy. Since that time, several other gases have been used for this purpose. Lung irritants are classed as "casualty agents" since they produce injuries and even fatalities among those exposed to them.

Tear Gas

2) Lacrimators— This is a group of chemical substances whose chief function is to irritate the eyes, producing tears and causing the eyes to shut tight. The effects are not permanent; their chief use in warfare is to harass the enemy and render its progress less rapid and effective. In normal civilian life, the use of tear gases to quell mobs and riots is well known.

3) Irritant smokes— These chemicals are dispersed into the atmosphere in the form of very fine particles, thus producing smoke. Their effects are mainly to cause sneezing and to irritate the nasal membrances. No permanent injuries occur, and thus these are also harassing agents.

Mustard Gas

4) Vesicants— These materials not only cause casualties by affecting the nasal membranes and the lungs, but seriously burn the skin whenever they come in contact with it. The dreaded "mustard gas" and the very poisonous Lewisite are agents of this class.

Chemicals which are spread against the enemy in the form of gas are classed as "non-persistent." Their effect in any one area will last only as a matter of minutes. Air currents will gradually disperse and spread the gas into the atmosphere.

Liquids More Dangerous

Dangerous as these gases may be, far more insidious are the chemical which are spread against the enemy in the form of liquids. These lie on the ground or other surfaces for long periods of time, slowly evaporating and coming into the atmosphere as gases. Mustard and Lewisite are of this variety. These liquids may persist even for weeks in protected woods or shaded country sides. Materials moistened by the liquid cannot be touched without incurring severe burns, unless proper protective clothing is worn.

These liquid vesicants can be destroyed by proper chemical means. It is this destruction of them which constitutes the "decontamination" so often referred to in the press accounts of gas warfare. Of course, decontamination may be done only by those properly protected by gas masks and gas-tight clothing.

Decontamination Essential

It is in the use of chemical agents such as these persistent liquid vesicants that the greatest danger in gas attack lies. Whole areas, large supply depots, enormous amounts of material or food, can be rendered absolutely useless unless thorough decontamination is possible.

When and where will gas be used? Will America receive an attack? These are difficult questions to answer. So far, gas has not been used in the present conflict, although its use by the Italians in Ethiopia and by the Japanese in China has been reported. Against a prepared army or civilian population, gas is not too effective a weapon.

Attacks Expensive

Furthermore, gas attacks are expensive in that enormous quantities of chemicals must be used to effectively deny areas to the enemy, produce casualties, or destroy supplies. Also, gas bombs are much

CHEMICAL WARFARE
Continued on Page Four

Campus Capers

By
Ed
Bennis

MOST of the lads are suddenly becoming very athletically inclined this past week, due to the new fitness program inaugurated yesterday. Many of them who thought they were physically fit are discovering that they can't swim one length of the pool without wheezing like a steam engine. So, it'll do us all good to get out there and work some of the fat off.

The 5-mile hikes will prove very popular — they'll bring out the wanderlust in the boys. Some of them are already talking about starting a Rose-anova hiking club so they can converse with the pretty young things as they walk. Then there are those who have been hiking to a certain white building on Conestoga Rd. and making a long stop there — Jumbo promises to put a stop to that.

* * *

TATTLING:

A young lassie in Bryn Mawr has Frank Chaplar all tied in a big knot — a lover's knot. Tom Sheehy has been playing ball in the Immaculata league — his standing is rumored to be very good. Bob Schwartz has been journeying to N. J. quite frequently these past week-ends. Could it be that he likes the pine lands?

Bill Menseck and George Famiglietti are finally going to speak to those two beautiful creatures they see on the P. & W. every afternoon. It has taken them three months to get the nerve to do it. Fr. McNally has requested "Biscuit" Feraci to bring a bed to class so that our hero may rest more comfortably.

* * *

KEYHOLE:

If you want to hear a good tale, ask Bill Kelly how he lost his pipe — it makes amusing conversation. "Reds" Hagan has been keeping early hours recently — he has been courting a nurse and she has to be in at a sensible hour. Vince Quinn and a certain C. & F. junior are having a feud over Dolly — seems that Vince wants to move into new territory.

Rumor has it that "Hoot" Gibson was seen flying a kite at Immaculata last week — what some of our lads won't do to please the girls! Joe "Moocher" McCabe has a bad habit of disappearing when it comes to his turn to buy a bit of the "social beverage" — and he claims to be a big spender. What is the sudden interest that Ted Bicky and George Smith have in Ardmore — we wonder?

Harv Satenstein recently received (from a young miss), an envelope with a blank sheet of paper and a lump of sugar — now isn't that just too sweet. George Szucs, Ed Rabidoux and Chris Kiefer have recently been going to Immaculata for play practice — so they say.

* * *

THROBS:

Prof. Dougherty claims that Frank Desmond has a close resemblance to Eric von Stronheim, and Andy Di Dio could pass for Veronica "Finger-wave" Lake. We always did think that our lads had a look of greatness about them. Marty Manley has been journeying from West to North Philly on week-ends to see the love of his life — he is afraid that the tire shortage will soon cut out his travels. Joe Malone is wearing himself out running down to the P. O. in hopes of getting a picture from Cynthia.

Jim Bonner has had a date with Mary for the last five week-ends — it couldn't be that you are settling down, Jim? "Birdlegs" Halpin was home the other week and only had a "quickie date" with Dotty on Sunday afternoon — poor fellow, he must be slipping. "Food Fair" Donoghue has been exchanging words with Fr. McQuade — a little politics, no doubt.

* * *

THE GRIDDLE:

"Swifty" Nunemaker was the recipient of a call from Ann at a rather late hour the other night — he looked so debonair trotting to the phone in his pajamas. Peggy has Dick Gray getting up at 6:00 A. M. to accompany her to church — they make a very sleepy-eyed couple. "Meathead" Phillips is now writing Rita for dates — no one seems to know why, as she goes to Rosemont and he could very easily use the phone. Maybe he's bashful.

Meet The Boys: Bruno And Tom Are Two Engineers For Whom The Future Holds No Fears

By ED REARDON

AFTER scouring the campus for two consecutive days, we finally contacted our two elusive suspects in the deep dark dungeon of Mendel Hall, otherwise known as Louie's Pie Shoppe. Amidst the grease and commotion we immediately commenced to subject them to the third degree. The first victim was Bruno Talvacchia.

Mr. Talvacchia, better known as just plain Bruno, experienced his nativity on August 17 in the year of Our Lord 1917, in the good, old city of Brotherly Love. In 1921, at the tender age of four, he was wheeled in his coach to St. Thomas Aquinas parochial school, where he enrolled in the accelerated war program in order to finish school two years sooner. It just goes to show you that the accelerated program is nothing new — at least to Bruno.

Loved School

Upon completing grade school, he entered the portals of Roman Catholic High School where he was an honor student. In his senior year, he was manager of the famous mighty mites basketball team, champions of the Catholic League that year. After completing his four year academic course he remained another year taking a post-graduate commercial course.

Salesmanship, his next endeavor, he pursued at a clothing establishment in Philadelphia for a year. Realizing the value of higher education, Bruno went to Penn State where he matriculated for one year, studying Civil Engineering.

In September of '37, he changed the locale of his education to Villanova, where he completed his sophomore year. From June, 1937, to September, 1940, his name appeared on the payroll of no fewer than three companies: Snellenburg's department store, a civil engineering firm and the Bethlehem Steel Corporation. In the two latter fields, he spent his time and energy over a drafting board.

Returns Again

Villanova again beckoned and in 1940 Bruno heeded her call to return as a junior in the engineering school, where he has been well up in his class. On week-ends and during summer vacations, Mr. Talvacchia may be found in the engineering department of the Bethlehem Steel Corporation, where he is a part-time employee.

When a sophomore, he joined the VILLANOVAN as a staff reporter. Returning in his junior year, he was awarded a weekly column, entitled "Tally-Ho," which had many readers here on the campus. He is also a member of the Phi Kappa Pi, engineering fraternity, and chairman of the local branch of the American Society of Civil Engineers.

Heading for the Navy

Upon graduation in May, he hopes to obtain a commission in E. V. S., which is Engineers Volunteer Specialists. However, we feel sure that Villanova's loss will be the Navy's gain.

WE then interrogated Tom Shallow, popular mechanical engineer. It was necessary to use the verbal "rubber hose" (we hope Leon Henderson doesn't read this), to extract the information from this modest fellow. The 19th of October, 1920, witnessed the arrival of Thomas Shallow in the western portion of Philadelphia.

After spending the usual six years at home playing with a slide-rule, he toddled up to Our Mother of Sorrows parochial school to be enrolled as a potential Villanova graduate. It was here that he first distinguished himself with honor grades, culminating with the winning of the coveted American Legion medal, which is quite an achievement.

Turns to Journalism

West Philadelphia Catholic High School was destined to become his next field of educational endeavor. In his four year stay at West Catholic, Tom was one of the leaders in his class. This, however, did not prevent him from becoming assistant editor of the "Burr," student magazine, and also assistant editor of the "Blue and White," which is the yearbook.

Upon graduation in 1938, he evidenced his desire for further education by winning a highly-prized competitive scholarship to Villanova, where he enrolled in the School of Engineering. Here he again proved his scholastic ability by being consistently numbered among the honor students.

Takes Part in Defense

In his freshman year, he joined the mathematics club and the following year became a member of the A. S. M. E. and a staff writer on the VILLANOVAN. He was a member of this year's Owl Hop committee.

In addition to these activities, he is a student instructor in the defense night school which is held at Villanova.

During the summer months and on week-ends throughout the scholastic year, he worked for the Socony-Vacuum Co., and only last summer rendered his services in the laboratory to the Bendix Corp. in Philadelphia.

Another Navy Man

When graduation time rolls around, he expects to be commissioned in the navy as an Engineer Volunteer Specialist, where he hopes to run across his columnmate, Bruno. Judging from the experience which he has had, we think that he should be well-equipped to do this type of work.

New Staff Nosed Out By Old Group; Shroud Of Doubt Cast Over Victory

It's all very unfortunate, really it is! We don't mean about having to eat our words, although that's not exactly tasteful. We expected Doyle to stoop to nefarious practices in an attempt to win. And win he did.

But his winning is not the unfortunate note, either. It's just that—well, we quote from the VILLANOVAN of March 3: "One of these conditions (introduced by Doyle after the plans had been formulated), is his refusal to allow intramural players to participate."

We, naturally enough, honored the ruling and relegated Ray Amicone, Mendel Day-Hop flash and Photography Editor, to the position of referee. But did Doyle live up to the terms of his own making? Of course not!

In the starting line-up and in the thick of most of the game for the retiring staff was John Cerulo, former circulation assistant and a consistent performer for the Fedigan Hall five.

Let this serve as notice to Doyle, et al. that their spurious victory is hereby questioned and that at the next meeting — to be held in the very near future — Ray Amicone will be in the forward slot for the new staff.

Otherwise, the game was an interesting one.

Starting out at a terrific pace that demanded an early abatement, the oldsters swept away to a first quarter lead of 1-0. At the half, however, thanks to some clever shooting on the part of Johnny Quinn, the present staff enjoyed a commanding 5-3 advantage.

At the half-time intermission, Doyle warned that he was about to institute West Texas State methods. Any resemblance to the Buffaloes' style of play was purely accidental, however.

The new style consisted mainly in wild stabs from the back court on the part of Dave Reardon, of former "Wildcat Whirl" fame. His brother columnist, Bruno Talvacchia, was the guiding light of the harried seniors, his five points coming at strategic moments.

Meanwhile, the new staff was moving ahead with a calmness born of assurance and determination. With huge Joe Daly controlling both backboards and batting in an occasional rebound, and the aforementioned Quinn harrassing the seniors with his uncanny floor play, they kept on even terms.

Lead Shifts

The lead changed hands more times than a hot potato, but the early second-half surge of the oldsters became the eventual margin of victory.

Jock Mauch, the new Sports Editor, was in fine condition. "I'm not at all tired," he protested when a substitute was inserted for him. When returned to the fray, he continued his first-half tactics. These were comprised of shooting as soon as he saw the whites of the backboard. His percentage of .000 stands as mute testimony to his shooting ability.

Don Speese, whose total contribution to the VILLANOVAN was an occasional letter to the editor, was also a featured performer for the retiring staff. (The depths of Doyle's degradation are just now coming to light).

Doyle a Surprise

The one surprising note of the entire contest was Doyle's almost complete self-abnegation. He played only five minutes of the first half — due to his weakened physical condition — and during the second half confined his activities to guarding rather than to shooting. As a result, he finished with a measly total of two points, garnered on charity tosses.

Following the hot and heavy combat, Ray Amicone wished to have the old staff watch the birdie. With the aid of the young members, the "ex's" were propped into a kneeling position, but, unfortunately, "Stringbean" McCall collapsed before the shutter clicked. Thus his absence in the picture at the left.

The score? Oh, yes. The old staff won, 21-17.

Breathing with extreme difficulty after defeating the new staff of the VILLANOVAN, the "ex" members managed to struggle into the above pose. Panting from left to right are "Short Stuff" Talvacchia, "Foul Ball" Doyle, "Speed" Belz, "Killer" Cerulo, "Ringer" Speese, "Tarzan" D'Alonzo and "Wildcat Whirl" Reardon.

The Trading Post

By
Lou
Esposito

THE physical fitness program recently adopted here has been received by the entire student body. Now, perhaps some of the fellows will realize that the Field House can be used by others, besides varsity men.

This excerpt from the Polytechnic Reporter we dedicate to the future residents of our Field House:

"Gym, don't forget to bring me
pretty flowers.
Gym, where I while away my
lonely hours.
Gym, with hot and cold running
showers.
I'm crazy from Gym."

* * *

They'll Do It Every Time:

Abe: "That hat is a nice fit, ain't it?"

Customer: "Yeah, but supposin' my ears get tired?"

* * *

Just to prove my point last week, when the editor rejected my batch of jokes, I asked him to throw them into the stove. And what do you think happened: The fire simply roared!

* * *

Corn — A-1:

And a few uncalled-for jokes from the York "Collegian":

"Your hands are cold."

"Yes, it's my poor circulation."

"You mean you don't get around enough?"

* * *

"How long have you been shaving?"

"Four years now."

"G'wan!"

"Yes, sir, cut myself both times."

* * *

Conservation:

Latest contribution to literary art from the "Tower" . . .

There's shortages of this and
that;
We'll have no paper soon;
But that's O. K. We'll have a shortage
Of tests from now 'til June.

* * *

One rule that should be a "must" for any paper conservation program is: All crib notes should be written on both sides of the card.

* * *

Here's one for the Constitutional Law class:

"Did you know that women have a constitutional right to wear girdles?"

"Sure, it come under the elastic clause!"

* * *

A Clean Shave:

The Northeastern News gives us one of the better war gags manufactured thus far. We condense:

Two gentlemen from Harlem chanced to come upon an enemy machine gun nest and attacking by surprise, pressed the gunners into hand-to-hand encounter. One of the colored gentlemen from force of habit unsheathed his razor and slashed at a gunner's neck.

But the gunner did not stir. He just grinned and said, "You missed."

"Oh, yeah?" said the darky, "Just nod your head, bo!"

* * *

Now we turn to one of the lighter sides of life for a bit of literary enjoyment from the Albrightian, titled "MEN," by Betty Co-ed:

I like men.
They stride about,
They reach in their pockets
And pull things out;
They look important,
They rock on their toes,
They lose all the buttons
Off of their clothes.
They throw away pipes,
Then find them again.
Men are queer creatures;
I like men.

* * *

Then there's the one about the sculptor who fell into the mud puddle — the dirty chisler.

* * *

These Modern Times:

The kind gentleman tried to help the little youngster who had lost his mother. "So you're lost, little man. Why didn't you hang on to your mother's skirt?" The kid's reply was, "Couldn't reach it."

—Gettysburgian.

* * *

And in Conclusion:

The Exchange writer of the "Gettysburgian" defines an editor as the guy who can find three meanings for a joke that has only two.

"Ditto."

It's A Great Day For The Irish—And For All The World—On March 17

By THOMAS P. McFARLAND

St. Patrick seems to have been born everywhere. Very nearly every section of Western Europe and the British Isles claims him as son. If we would believe every historian, it would be impossible to believe that Patrick was born at all.

However, the more accepted theory concerning his birth and ancestry holds that he first saw the sunlight of Christianity in Gaul, having been born of a Gallic mother and a father, Calpurnius, who was an officer in the Roman army. At the age of sixteen he was brought to Ireland, along with a group of captives, by Niall of the Nine Hostages.

Returned a Priest

Escaping, or being released, he made his way back to the homeland, and began to prepare himself for the priesthood. After his ordination (the mist that covers his early history begins to lift), he returned to Ireland — this in the year 432 A. D.

The religion which Ireland professed when St. Patrick arrived was naught but an accumulation of idols, charms, and omens. The dictator, or ard-righ, was more or less the high priest. St. Patrick had determined beforehand to convert the ard-righ.

Forced back to his ship many times by the storms which greeted his arrival, he finally made a landing at Wicklow. He did not tarry here, but set out almost at once for Tara, the seat of the ard-righ. With not quite a dozen priests to back him up, he walked nonchalantly into the kingly conclave and began telling all the Druid big-wigs how wicked they were.

Exposes Fallacies

Gently, but firmly, he was confined to a room in the palace until the pagans were quite ready to hear him out. When they finally brought him before the board, and asked explanations for his outbursts against their practices, he debated with them, and with his blistering logic showed them the fallacies of their religion.

When the argument died down to a grumble, St. Patrick began to round up the converts he had made during the discourse. This, his first move towards the Christianization of Ireland, had been a success.

He went, unmolested, through Ireland, telling the people the simple yet sublime and infinite truths that the Gallilean had preached just a short while before. Ireland accepted her new faith with open and eager arms; her eagerness must have sometimes worried Patrick. How long would this staunch faith last? How long before these people revert to (God forbid!) paganism?

Never Lost Faith

Well, St. Patrick, from the looks of things, we might say at least forever. The Irish have never given up their faith, and this fact alone one would imagine, has brought them enough grace to ever withstand the forces of evil.

There is a side of St. Patrick, the man, that escapes those who labor under the popular delusion that saints are not practical men, who think that God's men have their heads forever in the clouds. This is true, but, as the editor of the "Irish World" has pointed out, the feet of the saints are on the ground. In St. Patrick, we have a combination of businessman and saint, practical man and holy man.

St. Patrick was so practical, that in his lifetime he swayed an entire country to God. This action, this getting one's self a birth in Paradise is the most practical thing in or out of the world. But aside from the result, let us look at the methods the good saint used to gain his end, God's end.

To have men understand as much as possible the meanings of Christ's teachings, he realized that they must be educated; so, he educated them. He introduced the classic art and culture and learning that made Ireland, just a few years after his death, the "Isle of Saints and Scholars." And he instilled in the hearts of these people his own Christ-like purity, which they, as a nation have never lost. This has been one of the most practical of his gifts to them.

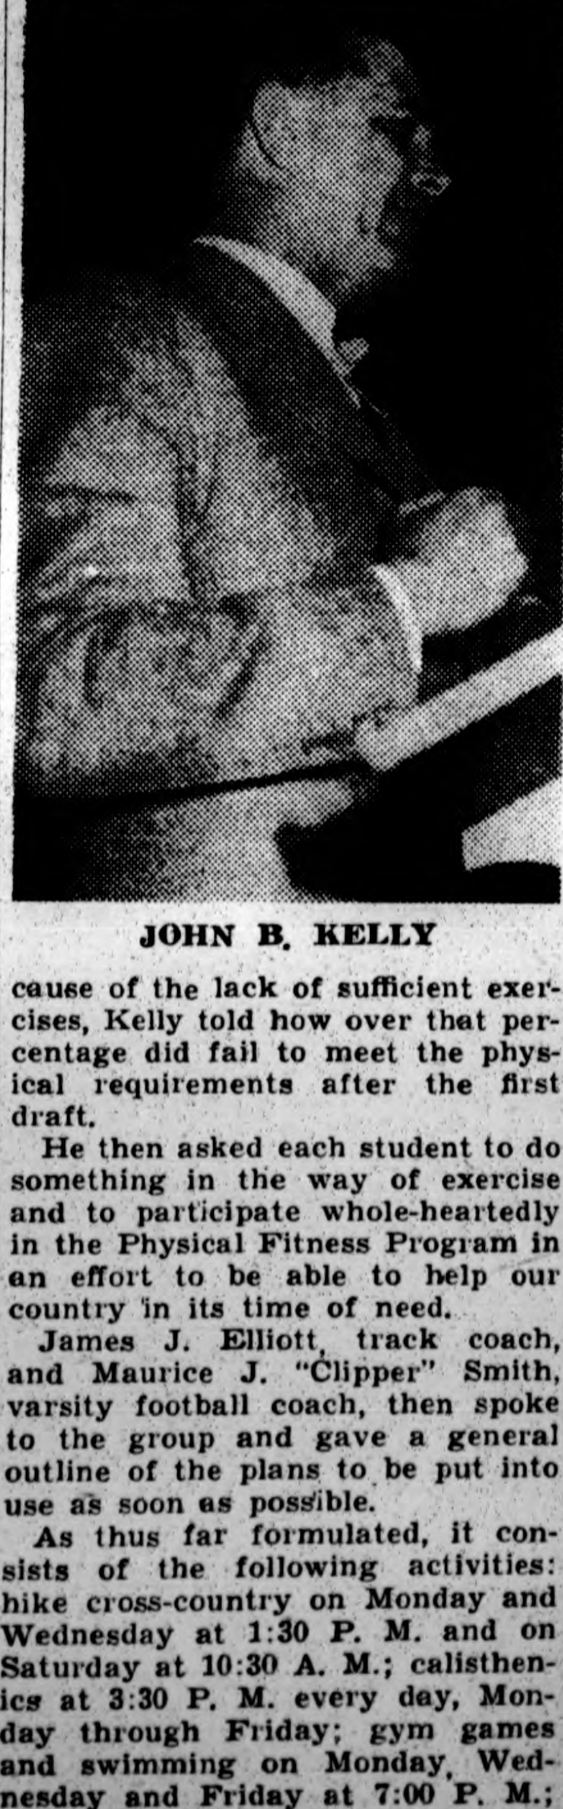
Physical Fitness

Continued From Page One

Germany's compulsory physical training which effected every person from the time they reached the age of three and continued till they were no longer able to take such strenuous exercise.

Recalling his prophetic statement to President Roosevelt before the Selective Service went into effect that at least fifty percent of those men drafted would not be physically fit for the armed service because of the lack of sufficient exercises, Kelly told how over that percentage did fail to meet the physical requirements after the first draft.

Addresses Students



JOHN B. KELLY

He then asked each student to do something in the way of exercise and to participate whole-heartedly in the Physical Fitness Program in an effort to be able to help our country in its time of need.

James J. Elliott, track coach, and Maurice J. "Clipper" Smith, varsity football coach, then spoke to the group and gave a general outline of the plans to be put into use as soon as possible.

As thus far formulated, it consists of the following activities: hike cross-country on Monday and Wednesday at 1:30 P. M. and on Saturday at 10:30 A. M.; calisthenics at 3:30 P. M. every day, Monday through Friday; gym games and swimming on Monday, Wednesday and Friday at 7:00 P. M.; and outdoor basketball and touch-football on Tuesday and Thursday at 4:00 P. M.

Thornhill Signed

Continued From Page One

hill composed, is a product of these years of arranging combined with his abundant knowledge of classical and popular music.

First step in organizing his band was the auditioning of hundreds of musicians. His work was difficult for he desired carefully matched groups for each of the sections. Consequently many of the men in his band were chosen not for their "name" but for their ability to adapt themselves to his different style and difficult orchestrations.

For his premiere at the Hotel Pennsylvania, he scored some sixty melodies; some new, some old. Music critics and the public, too, raved about the "new" style of music innovated by Thornhill's band.

With a regular five man saxophone section augmented by two clarinets, seven reeds in all, Thornhill gives a richness of coloring entirely new in the dance field. To the seven reeds are added seven brass, four rhythm, including Thornhill at the piano. Instead of limiting the brass to trumpets and trombones, as the average orchestra leader does, Thornhill has three trumpets, two trombones and two French horns, usually a symphonic instrument.

In fact, the two French horn players are direct importations from the Boston Symphony. Standout musicians in the band are Nick Fatool, formerly drummer for Benny Goodman and Conrad Gozzo on the trumpet.

With this group, Thornhill spanned the country each stop a greater success. His debut at the Glen Island Casino in March, 1941, was so successful that he was held for three months and booked to return late in August. His second engagement extended over four months. Before being allowed to make his current theatre and dance tour he was booked to return to the Casino this summer. Today the sale of his Columbia recordings and the popularity of his nightly broadcasts attest to his fame.

In line with the selection of Thornhill's band, the committee is moving forward with rapid speed to the completion of several novel features for the prom.

Spanish Player

MISS JUANITA RIPOLL, student at the College of Chestnut Hill, who will portray the leading part in the play, "De Tal Arbol," to be presented by the combined Spanish Clubs of Villanova and Chestnut Hill at the Cultural Olympics of the University of Pennsylvania on April 25. Rehearsals for the production are held weekly at the University of Pennsylvania.

President To Address Schoolmen And Alumni

"Impact of War On Spiritual Values in Colleges" will be discussed by Very Rev. Edward V. Stanford, O. S. A., president of the college, on Thursday morning at the University of Pennsylvania's 29th annual Schoolmen's Week.

All meetings of the gathering, which will be held from Wednesday until Saturday, will be conducted as joint sessions with the Southeastern Convention District of the Pennsylvania State Education Association.

On Thursday evening, Fr. Stanford will address the members of the local Villanova Alumni Club at the Philopatrian Club. He will trace the war developments as they affect the college.

Students Donate Blood To Red Cross

Twenty-one out of sixty-two student volunteers donated their blood yesterday to the Red Cross in the college infirmary. A mobile unit of the Southeastern Chapter of the American Red Cross was on hand to supervise the transfer of the blood.

The age, health, blood pressure, and temperature of each volunteer were checked in order to determine his physical capability of donating the blood. Ten of the volunteers present were rejected because of some defect.

Injections of novacaine were administered to lessen the pain, and cookies and liquid refreshment were served to the volunteers after the donation had been made.

Chemical Warfare

Continued From Page Two

heavier individually than explosive bombs.

In view of the hysterical fear of gas held by the general populace, it is interesting to note that of the 10,500,000 fatalities in World War I, only 30,000 are attributed to gas. It must be remembered, however, that preparedness and instruction are the greatest possible defense against gas attacks.

There is always great speculation among the public that a new and very deadly gas will be discovered. This is a very remote possibility. There are many requirements that an effective war gas must meet in addition to being a casualty-producing agent.

Requirements Listed

The gas must be readily produced from available and cheap chemicals. It must be stable to atmospheric conditions and to heat developed in the bursting gas shells. It must be heavier than the atmosphere.

Four thousand chemicals were prepared in the research laboratories during and after World War I. Approximately three dozen were tried in the field, and a bare dozen have proven satisfactory.

For those particularly interested in a study of attack by gas and defense against it, the Office of Defense has prepared a lucidly-written pamphlet, entitled "Protection Against Gas." It is well worth the attention of every intelligent citizen.

Immaculata I.R.C. Here Tomorrow

The second in a series of conferences between the International Relations Clubs of Immaculata and Villanova Colleges will be held tomorrow afternoon at 3:00 P. M. in Simpson Hall.

Last year Villanova visited Immaculata to discuss the cultural relations between North and South America. The conference tomorrow will be a continuation of last year's discussion, with particular emphasis on the economic phase of hemispheric defense.

Trade Discussed

The discussion will open with an outline of "Pre-war Inter-American Trade," by Louis J. Esposito, junior artsman. This will deal largely with the import and export trade of the United States and the nations of South America prior to the break of the present European war.

Robert T. Canfield, junior commerce student, will then trace the trends of "Inter-American Wartime Trade." This talk will concern itself with the effects of the war on world markets, the resultant problems in relation to the current efforts toward defense of the Western Hemisphere, and the growing need for greater cooperation between the Americas.

Miss Winifred Nash, and Miss Betty Morse, representing the group of Immaculata girls, will read papers on "The Inter-American Development Commission" and "Thunder Over the Western Hemisphere," respectively.

Nazi Propaganda

These topics will cover the history, organization, and problems of the Commission, together with the threat of wartime propaganda from the Axis powers.

Open forum will be conducted following each speaker at which time questions submitted by the remaining members of the two clubs will be answered from the floor.

Rev. William J. Lunney, O. S. A., moderator of Villanova Relations Club, will act as faculty advisor.

Each of the above papers were written in conjunction with an outline suggested by Rev. Edward J. McCarthy, O. S. A.

Second Service File In Office Of Registrar

Second issue of the "War Service Opportunities" file distributed by the American Council of Education is now available for examination by interested students in the office of the Registrar.

This file, dated March 10, contains information on the V-1 program of the Naval Reserve and on the Marine Corps Reserve plan. Openings for civilian field employees in the United States Army Signal Service are also discussed.

Of special interest to science students will be the sections dealing with the Army Medical Corps and Class H-V(P), the Medical and Dental Corps, of the Naval Reserve.

A discussion of openings for college students in the Federal Bureau of Investigation is included.

Keep Abreast Of Events

Tuesday, March 17—

VILLANOVAN Staff Meeting	1:00 P. M.
Junior Class Meeting	1:00 P. M.
International Relations Club	2:30 P. M.
Calisthenics	3:30 P. M.
Outdoor Basketball and Touch-Football	4:30 P. M.

Wednesday, March 18—

Belle Masque Radio Dramatic Club	12:30 A. M.
Hike	1:30 P. M.
Varsity Debate, Villanova vs. Rosemont (Villanova)	3:00 P. M.
Villanova-Immaculata International Relations Meeting	3:00 P. M.
Calisthenics	3:30 P. M.
Swimming	7:00 P. M.
Music Seminar	7:30 P. M.

Thursday, March 19—

Science Forum	10:45 P. M.
Delta Pi Epsilon	11:45 A. M.
Lambda Kappa Delta	1:00 P. M.
Calisthenics	3:30 P. M.
Outdoor Basketball and Touch-Football	4:00 P. M.
Research Seminar	4:30 P. M.
Symphonic Band Practice	6:00 P. M.

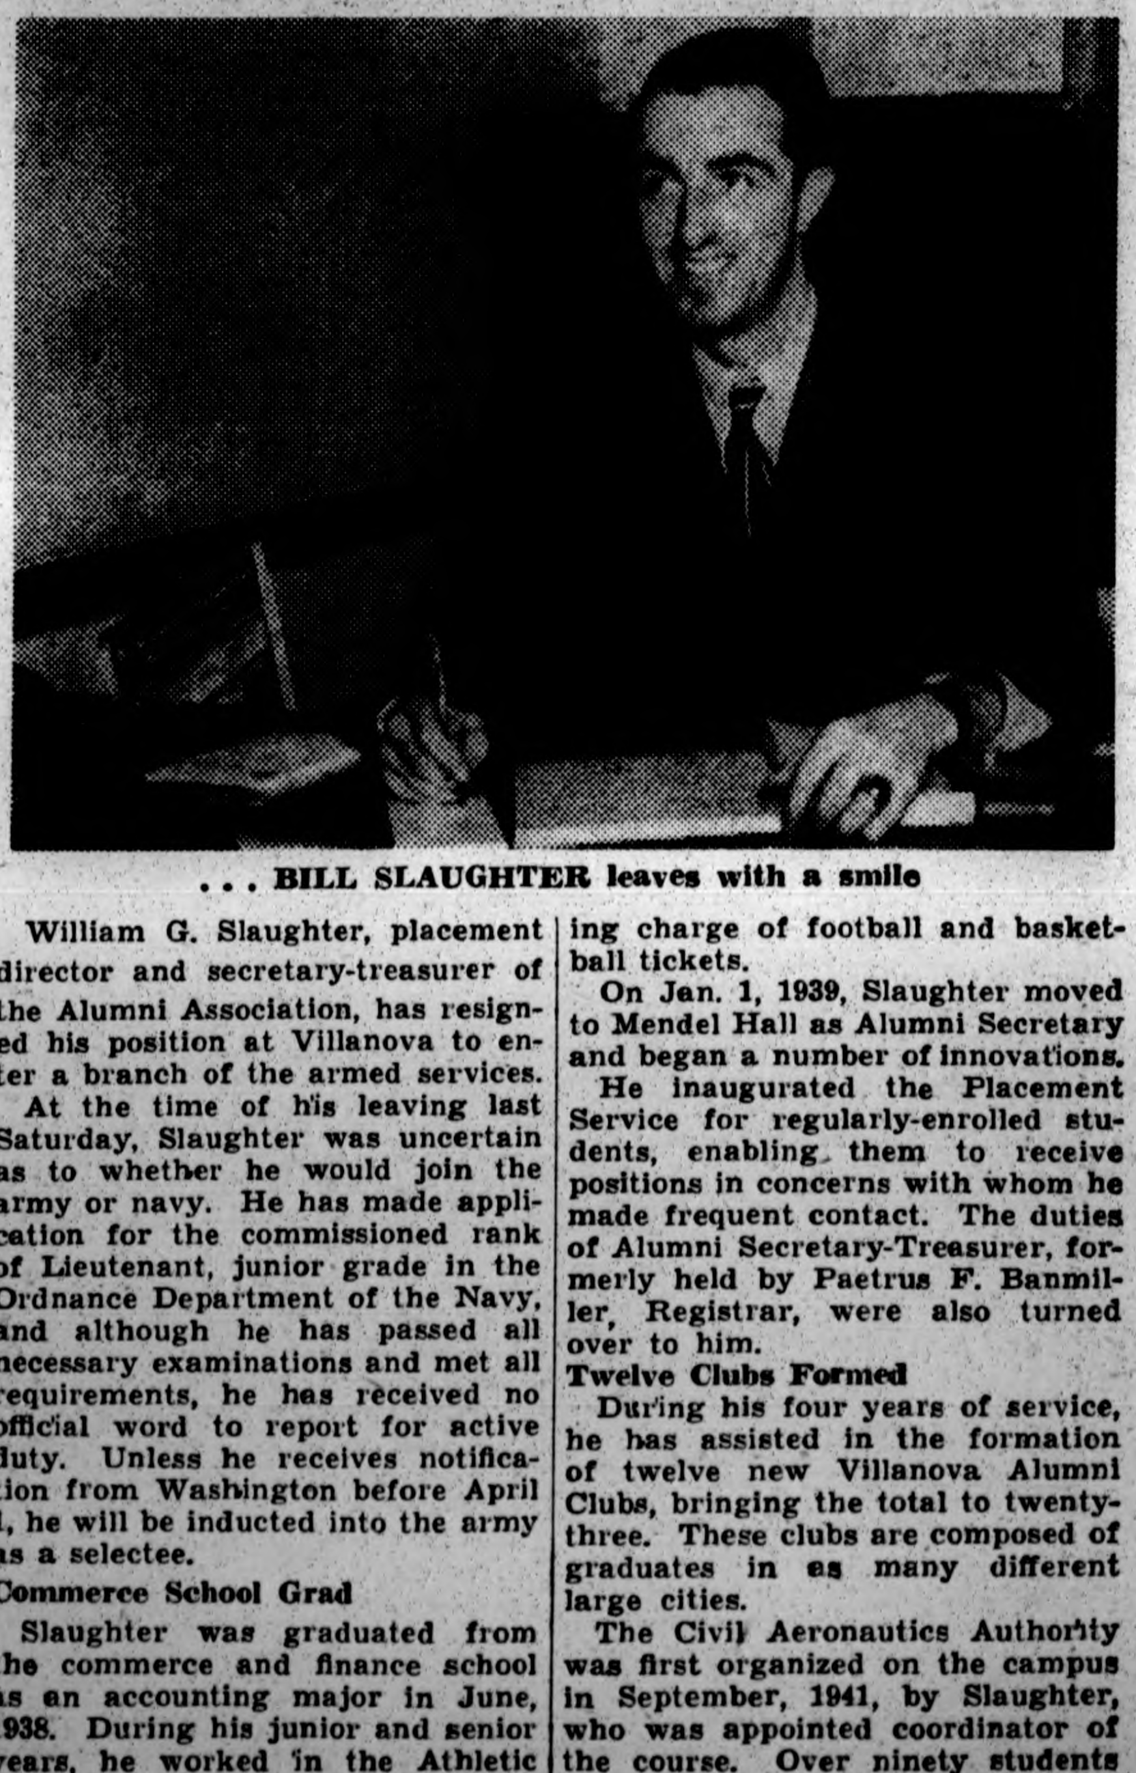
Friday, March 20—

Calisthenics	3:30 P. M.
Swimming	7:00 P. M.

Saturday, March 21—

Hike	10:30 A. M.

Slaughter Resigns To Enter Armed Forces; Hopes To Be Commissioned



. . . BILL SLAUGHTER leaves with a smile

William G. Slaughter, placement director and secretary-treasurer of the Alumni Association, has resigned his position at Villanova to enter a branch of the armed services.

At the time of his leaving last Saturday, Slaughter was uncertain as to whether he would join the army or navy. He has made application for the commissioned rank of Lieutenant, junior grade in the Ordnance Department of the Navy, and although he has passed all necessary examinations and met all requirements, he has received no official word to report for active duty. Unless he receives notification from Washington before April 1, he will be inducted into the army as a selectee.

Commerce School Grad

Slaughter was graduated from the commerce and finance school as an accounting major in June, 1938. During his junior and senior years, he worked in the Athletic Office as student director of publicity. Following graduation, he returned to Villanova to work in the Athletic Department, this time taking charge of football and basketball tickets.

On Jan. 1, 1939, Slaughter moved to Mendel Hall as Alumni Secretary and began a number of innovations.

He inaugurated the Placement Service for regularly-enrolled students, enabling them to receive positions in concerns with whom he made frequent contact. The duties of Alumni Secretary-Treasurer, formerly held by Paetrus F. Banmiller, Registrar, were also turned over to him.

Twelve Clubs Formed

During his four years of service, he has assisted in the formation of twelve new Villanova Alumni Clubs, bringing the total to twenty-three. These clubs are composed of graduates in as many different large cities.

The Civil Aeronautics Authority was first organized on the campus in September, 1941, by Slaughter, who was appointed coordinator of the course. Over ninety students have already been graduated from this instruction course and the majority are now serving as commissioned officers in our army or navy.

VILLANOVAN SPORTS

Sportorial

By Jacques Mauch
Sports Editor

HERE at Villanova we are in the throes of an athletic season that is sterile as far as varsity sports are concerned. The Blue and White teams are as inactive as a decrepit spinster with housemaid's knee. To a Wildcat sports editor, this is about the very worst that could happen. (with the exception of the postponement of the Temple-Villanova grid classic) for upon what can he comment or what can he feature to please his hungry (?) readers?

Al Severance's basketeers and Tom Moore's swimmers have completed their season and the baseball, tennis, and golf aggregations are just getting warmed up to tear spring opposition apart. Jumbo Elliott's trackmen, who really made the big-time this winter, ran what will probably be their last race on the boards Saturday night and it will be three weeks before they open their cinder campaign.

Although the indoormen's season is officially over, there is one more big race left—an attraction to be held for the Navy relief in the Bronx Coliseum. This meet should go over with a bang . . . ask the 18,000 thrilled fans that witnessed last Saturday's affair.

This meet will be the grand finale of an indoor season that has been the most succesful ever; it will be the meet of meets. This is particularly so for our own mile relay team. The cream of the relay crop, Georgetown's record-breakers, Colgate, Fordham and St. John's will be there to make a last grandstand showing.

Are the Wildcats going to be missing when these crack quartets line up? Are they going to be absent from this race that will undoubtedly produce the fastest (for the track is larger than the garden oval) mile relay of the season? We hope not! We hope to see them right in there in the big-time just as they have been all winter, and giving those fellows the race of their lives!

Now that varsity sports are taken care of, we turn to that one topic that has been most talked of on the Wildcat athletic front during the past week—the physical

SPORTORIAL
Continued on Page Seven

Riley Fifth In Title Swim

Ed Riley, ace freestyler on the Wildcat tank team, wore the Blue and White Saturday as an individual performer in the Eastern Collegiate Swimming Association Championships held at Rutgers University in New Brunswick, N. J. and took a place for the Wildcats in the 440 yard freestyle.

Frank Desmond and Riley were the lone Villanova entries in this meet in which ten member teams of the association were represented. Rutgers, the defending champs, repeated their win of last year in such a convincing fashion that they scored 60 points to the runner up Pittsburgh's 28. Lafayette was third with 20.

Desmond swam the 200 yard breaststroke but failed to qualify among such swimmers as Ganter of Rutgers, Weldin of Delaware, and Ryder, the Lafayette captain. Desmond had met all these in dual competition during the season and they were his toughest opposition then and on Saturday.

Swam Against Best Distance Men

Riley finished third in his qualifying heat of the 440 held in the morning, and his time of 5.40, while not as good as he has done this year, assured him of entrance into the finals. He was just nosed out by Moscowitz of C. C. N. Y.

In the finals he finished fifth in a race that was won by the Rutgers' star, Jerry Levin. Levin had previously beaten the Wildcat in a dual meet two weeks ago. Second was Temple's all-around man, Bill Robinson, one of the best distance swimmers in the Philadelphia area. Marvin Perkasie of Lafayette was third, and Moskowitz again just touched Riley out for the fourth position.

Riley became the second swimmer in Villanova history to place in an open meet. The other was Walt Kelley, who swam for two seasons in the Eastern Intercollegiates and the National Championships.

They'll Carry The Burden This Spring

Warming up in the brisk spring air and getting their pitching arms in shape are delivery specialists MAJOR McDONNELL, JOE MALONE, JIGGER DONOHUE and FRANK CHAPLAR. Chaplar and Malone are holdovers from last year while McDonnell and Donohue were mound stars on last season's frosh club. Absent from the picture is BILL WOODS, mainstay of the pitching staff.

Smith Stresses Offensive In Spring Grid Workouts

Offensive strength is the keynote of the new system which will be employed by Villanova on the gridiron next fall. Clipper Smith has changed his strong defensive style of last year to an attack featuring a powerful offensive. Great stress is being placed on speed, deception, faking, and ball handling by the Wildcats.

The gridders took to the outside for the first time last week, and the spring practice sessions are now in full swing. After having calisthenics for three weeks indoors, the squad went out in the air for a short drill on Monday.

The first scrimmage was held last Wednesday. This was mainly among the freshmen, however, with only a few varsity members taking part. In this skirmish Clipper got a line on the capabilities of the freshmen and how well they can be groomed to fill the many spots left vacant by graduation and the draft.

New Plays Given

On Thursday, new plays were given to the squad in preparation for the contact scrimmage held on the next day. Not many plays were given, but enough to put an air of deception in the Friday workout.

The workout was very spirited, with every man on the squad seeing action at one time or another. The showing was very impressive, and revealed the fact that the new offensive system has been well taken to by the squad. It's true that much practice is needed before these plays will be letter perfect, but with the spirit shown in Friday's drill, the outlook for the fall is a cheerful one.

Difficult To Replace Korisky

Aside from the fact that the many new plays must be taught to the players, the next big problem is where Clipper will find replacements for the many stalwarts of last fall, lost through graduation and the draft. First, and undoubtedly most important is the center position which was filled very capably during the last two years by Ed Korisky, who was also elected All-Penna. center. Sammy Bray, Korisky's understudy for two seasons, seems to have the inside track, but will certainly have tough competition for that position, in the person of Sophomore Jim Magee, and also Frank Sinkovitz, the frosh sensation.

Another important vacancy is that left by the graduation of Joe Yednock. Joe held down the punting assignment all last season, and Gabe Mosca, who had been groomed to fill his shoes, was called a few weeks ago by his draft board. As a result the kicking position is wide open.

Speaking of the draft, another more recent casualty is George Bontaites, a Sophomore end, who

SPRING FOOTBALL
Continued on Page Six

Physical Fitness

Coaches Say:

Jim Elliott, director of hiking and cross country—"From the results of the registration I think the cooperation from the boys will be very good, those that can, will definitely come down regularly. However, we are just feeling our way at present. By next year we hope to have things in top order."

Al Severance, director of basketball and touch-football—"This program fills a long needed want at Villanova. The initiation of the program more than likely will prove beneficial to the student body as a whole and hence will influence the authorities in making it a definite part of the school curricula.

"The enthusiasm of the students is encouraging and it now lies with the directors to make it attractive."

Tom Moore, director of swimming—"This quickly adopted program is an extreme tax on the facilities; therefore we need the complete cooperation of every student. And the student will without a doubt get benefit from all the sports, but in particular swimming where you have to use every muscle in the effort."

Clipper Smith, director of calisthenics—"From what I have observed practically all of the boys are enthusiastic and anxious to go, and I believe that better academic grades will go hand-in-hand with physical fitness."

IN FATHER'S FOOTSTEPS

Among the outstanding candidates for the Villanova nine this season is a freshman pitcher, Gene Weinert, son of Lefty Weinert, former major league hurler for the Phils.

Track Team Loses Washington Meet By One Point; Mile Relay Sets School Record In Running Third

Beaten by Navy at Catholic U.; Keefrider Second in 1000-Yard Event

Represented by six athletes, the Villanova track team gave a convincing display last Monday night at the Ninth Annual Catholic University Indoor Meet held at Riverside Stadium in the nation's capitol. The Wildcats were defeated for the team trophy by Navy who, aided by a full team of forty members, tallied twenty points against the Blue and White's nineteen. Among other teams participating in the games were Seton Hall, who placed third with fifteen points, Maryland and Georgetown.

The two mile relay team, consisting of Bill Hooper, Dixie Dunbar, Bob O'Sullivan, and Dutch McCarthy, performed brilliantly when they won their event in the good time of 8:05.5 with Maryland and Navy taking second and third places, respectively. The race was won last year by N. Y. U. In winning the event, the Wildcats came

WASHINGTON MEET
Continued on Page Six

Team Missed Him

GEORGE GUIDA

Finish in 3:20.3 Behind Georgetown and Colgate; Dunbar Runs Fine Race

Villanova's great mile relay team of John DiCarlo, Bill Hooper, Bob O'Sullivan and Dixie Dunbar ran to a new school record last Saturday night in the Knights of Columbus games, in New York, when they were officially timed at 3:20.3; yet the boys brought home only the bronze medals, third place prize.

This climax mile relay of New York's indoor season brought together Georgetown, the National A. A. U. champions; Colgate, winner of the I. C. 4 A.; Fordham, the metropolitan intercollegiate champs, and Villanova. Georgetown left the garden with the gold medals after turning in the fastest time of the whole season, when the men with the watches caught them at 3:19.7.

With Captain Bill Hooper replacing the injured George Guida, the Blue and White ran a splendid race when they fought their way into third place behind Georgetown

SCHOOL RECORD
Continued on Page Six

Battle Wages For Infield Positions On Varsity Nine

Plenty of Competition Also For Backstop Post, While Pitching Staff Is Largest in Years; Yednock Returns

With both eyes on the calendar, counting on every day, hour, and minute, Doc Jacobs is looking forward to opening his tenth, and Villanova's seventy-third season of baseball on April the fourth with Rider College.

Forced to cram in as much work as possible because of the shortage of time, Doc tried to inaugurate Saturday sessions last week but old man Jupiter Pluvius was very much opposed to the idea. With his kind permission a full time schedule will get under way this week with inter-squad games which have already started on a minor scale. The idea of these tussles is to determine the batting ability of the men as well as to give them a little chance to field under pressure. So far, every candidate is a first stringer but their bats will go a long way to insure their positions for them. As Doc points out the team with the best defense is the one with the most runs registered on the score board.

Large Pitching Staff

The pitchers are rounding into fine shape which seems to be one of the brighter sides of the spring campaign so far. Jigger Donohue and Frank Chapler are in exceptional pre-season form and now that the basketball season is over Bill Woods and Major McDonnell are both out limbering up. Joe Malone, Albert De Blois and two promising freshmen, Jim Burns and Gene Weinert, whose father once toed the rubber for the Phillies round out the mound staff which is one of the largest in years.

As far as the catcher berth is concerned it is a wide open fight with four backstops looking for that starting assignment. Ted Bicky who saw a great deal of action last year is back bigger and better than ever, but then there is John Mahalic and Frank O'Neil, both freshmen who can account for themselves when called into action. Still another is Joe Nunan who will be wearing the mask quite a bit this year.

At first, Jim Traitz who was Jack Donohue's understudy last year is a very much improved ball player and is counted on to come through with flying colors. He will get competition from big Ed. Creelan, a transfer from St. Mary's.

There is a toss-up at the keystone spot between jumping Joe Lord and Billy Sullivan both highly spirited boys who give every thing they have. Bill also can fill in at short if needed but this seems hardly necessary with the showing of Joe Coffee, probably the best freshman prospect on the squad. He can go to his right as well as to his left to dig out sure hits and

INFIELD BATTLE
Continued on Page Six

Track Meet Added To Intramural Card

The revival of the intramural track meet and its addition to the present intramural competition this year is almost certain, it was learned last week from Rev. Edward B. McKee, O. S. A., intramural moderator.

Track was once an annual feature on the intramural program, and one of the most popular spring events. It was dropped after the 1936-'37 season when it was agreed that it was too strenuous a sport, especially since the boys didn't train properly. In some cases the after effects proved harmful to the boys.

One of the chief reasons for its renaissance this year is the new physical fitness program which calls for emphasis on all competitive sports and track is one of the best. Those who are interested in competing must give time to practice and gradually work into shape. Jumbo Elliott, track coach, who will be in charge, stresses the fact that the men must workout a specified number of times before they will be able to compete.

Austin Leads Intramural Scoring For Title Trophy

The athletically-minded and able-bodied Firemen of Austin Hall are leading the point scorers in the intramural sports competition in defense of the VILLANOVAN trophy which they won for the third time last year. This trophy goes each year to the Hall which has compiled the highest total of points throughout the season in the intramural competition.

With the seasons of seven sports completed Austin leads with 51 points. A good margin of ten markers separates them from their closest rival, the surprising Mendel Day-Hops. Fedigan Hall follows close behind with 37 points and the frosh dorm, Alumni, has 32. The C. & F. Day Students and Mendel Residents are far behind with 23 and 12 points, respectively.

Eleven Events Every Year

In the intramural competition, there are eleven seasons of sports, or sporting events, and this year there may be twelve, if track is revived. Some sports are active over a period of several months, as the basketball league and baseball leagues, while other events are held in one evening, such as the boxing tournament and the amateur night shows. The winner of each event receives ten points, while the runners-up get seven, five, three, two, and one, in that order.

So far, Austin has won two of the seven events completed, Amateur Night and Swimming. But their high total comes from the fact that they finished second in the Pre-Temple Game Decorations, Boxing, and in both halves of the basketball league, for which they earned 28 points.

Tennis Tournament Postponed

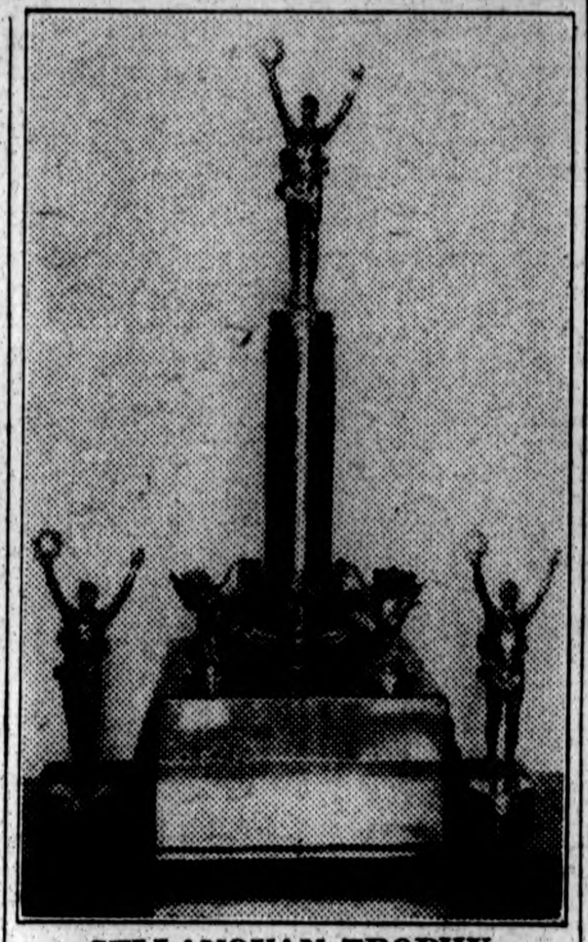
The second place Mendel Day-Hops stepped up their percentage with three smashing ten-point performances. They won the golf tournament and took both halves of the basketball league, a feat accomplished only once before in the intramurals.

Other first place winners are Fedigan Hall, perennial leaders in the Temple Game Decorations, and Alumni's Greenies, who just last week regained their boxing crown from Austin.

Five events remain to be run off in the intramurals — tennis, touch-football, baseball, softball, and track, which has been brought back. The tennis tournament was started last fall and had progressed to the semi-finals when the cold weather set in and forced its postponement.

The Standings:

Event	A	MD	F	Al	C&F	MR
Golf	3	10	7	5	2	1
Temple Decorations	7	1	10	5	3	2
Basketball 1st Half	7	10	3	2	5	1
Basketball 2nd Half	7	10	2	4	4	1
Amateur Night	10	1	7	5	3	2
Swimming	10	4	7	1	4	2
Boxing	7	5	1	10	2	3
Totals	51	41	37	32	23	12



VILLANOVAN TROPHY
This beautiful gold trophy, donated three years ago by the VILLANOVAN, goes each year to the intramural team which has scored the most points in competition during the season. Austin Hall has been in possession since it was donated.

Spring Football

Continued From Page Five

was expected to see much action next fall. This brings the number of players called, up to nine. Good news was received, however, when it was heard that Al Postus, star halfback last fall, who left school for a defense job, may return next September. Joe Koproski on the casualty list last season, because of an internal injury, will also be available next fall.

Two Injuries Thus Far

Only two injuries have been recorded thus far, as a result of the spring sessions. One is the recurrence of Leo Jagoe's old knee injury, and the other occurred when Bob O'Connor pulled a few ligaments in his left leg.

Both the line and backfield shaped up surprisingly well in Friday's scrimmage, and there was a slight smile detected on Clipper's countenance. He received a fairly good line on the abilities of his new charges, and seemed to be quite pleased with their work.

This week short scrimmages will be held every day, with the accent put on the one scheduled for Friday. Calisthenics will also be held every afternoon, and will undoubtedly be lengthened slightly in cooperation with the "Hale America" program, in as much as the number taking these workouts will be greatly increased.

ELLIOTT A GOLFER

Jumbo Elliott, Wildcat track coach is one of the outstanding amateur golfers in the East and has won several tournaments. Last year he carded a 71 on the opening round of the Plymouth Country Club Amateur Championship to lead the scores for that day.

Washington Meet

Continued From Page Five

within ten yards of lapping their nearest opponent. The time was good in consideration of the poor condition of the track.

Captain Hooper sizzled around the oval on his leg of the relay in 1.58. This time was better than the winning time for the feature half-mile event.

Keefrider Second in 1000

In the Rector 1000 yard run, an intercollegiate varsity invitation affair, Wildcat Harry Keefrider finished second. He was beaten to the tape by Chet Lipski, anchorman of the Seton Hall team that recently shattered the world's indoor two-mile relay record. Lipske was clocked in 2:16.6.

John DiCarlo, after taking third place in his heat, came back to place fourth in the Abbie Club Invitation 50-yard dash which was won by Paul McMullen of V. P. I. in 5.6 seconds. DiCarlo, whose running was hampered by illness at last Saturday's meet in New York, was similarly effected on Monday in Washington.

Two Men Disabled

George Guida, Blue and White sprinter and leadoff man on the mile relay team, did not participate in the games because of a bad spike injury sustained in the I. C. 4-A meet at Madison Square Garden last Saturday. The team felt the irreparable loss of George, and certainly could have used him. In the event that his misfortune and DiCarlo's illness had not occurred, the track team would have probably annexed the team trophy, which they lost by one point.

This would have been the team's first big prize of the current indoor campaign.

Wood Picked On All-Phila. Team

Bill Wood, Wildcat scoring ace, was picked on the All-Philadelphia Collegiate basketball team by the "Evening Bulletin," city newspaper, yesterday. He was chosen on the first five, along with Norman Butz and George Senesky, both of St. Joe's College, Angelo Musi of Temple, and Stan Cope, Swarthmore College's record-breaker.

Wood, a junior, has been one of the outstanding players in the Philadelphia area for the past two seasons and this year was the second highest scorer in the district. His amazing shooting and brilliant floorwork led the Wildcats to several notable victories over favored foes, and gained for him the All-Philadelphia honors.

School Record

Continued From Page Five

and Colgate, while Fordham finished fourth and last in this thrilling race.

DiCarlo Gets Good Start

Villanova's DiCarlo got off to a fast start and handed a good three yard lead to Captain Hooper. The Hoyas of Georgetown went from fourth to first on the second leg and were never headed in the fierce battle from there to the tape. Bob O'Sullivan ran his usual steady race and gave the baton to anchorman Dixie Dunbar in third place. Al Diebolt of Colgate passed Dunbar on his way from fourth to second, but on the last lap "Dixie" caught up with the flying Joe Nowicki of Fordham to take third for the 'Cats.

Dunbar, in overtaking Nowicki, one of the indoor season's best collegiate middle distance tracksters, ran a beautiful race; it was his fastest of the indoor season. On his leg he also regained most of the yardage he lost to Al Diebolt at the beginning of the last lap.

This great relay was overshadowed by Leslie MacMitchell's great 4:08 performance in the mile and Greg Rice's 8:52 two-mile race, which was just nine-tenths of a second off his world mark.

This meet was the last of the current Garden series and was the Wildcat's most successful one.

Infield Battle

Continued From Page Five

he can also give the pellet a ride himself.

Yednock's Return Adds Strength

Down at the hot corner it is going to be Joe Yednock all the way, now that he is able to be out to practice every day contrary to earlier reports. This was one of Doc's biggest headaches until Joe reported for he was the leading hitter on last year's club and will probably be batting in the number four spot this year.

Hitting behind Yednock will be Joe Kroposki, who distracted Clipper Smith and his football practice last week by driving balls over the stadium on to the football field. He is now occupying center field and pulls down a flyball like a frog after his dinner. Other outfielders who reach the spotlight are Roy Simonsen who was around last year and Bill Smith whom Doc has converted from a pitcher to a left fielder.

Frosh Keep Lead In Pin League; Rosa, Simpson Hold High Averages

The Frosh increased their narrow lead over the Junior M. E. day hops in Saturday's bowling as they took four games from the Senior M. E. team. Led by Angelo Rosa, the league's high scorer, the Frosh put forth with their usual display of power. Rosa came through with a 169-206-154 for a 529 total. The frosh at this writing are firmly entrenched in first place.

The second place Junior M. E. day hops managed to stay in second place as they picked up three points while dropping one to the last place Sophomore M. E. day hop "B" team. For the Sophs this was their first win of the season. They now stand with a won-lost average of 1-23. The juniors were led by Bob Simpson who holds down second high average. He scored 159-191-189 for a 539 total to take the day's high average.

Seniors Beat Faculty

The Senior Chemicals continued their blistering pace as they took three out of four from the always potent Faculty aggregation. George Gabuzda once again paced the Senior Chems as he ended the day with a 460-pin total. The Seniors have now taken 14 out of their last 16 games to firmly establish themselves in third place only one game behind the Junior M. E. day hops.

The Sophomore M. E. day hop "A" team came through with a surprising victory over the Junior M. E. resident team as they took four points to the Junior's none. They were paced by Fred Davi. As a result of their victory they moved into a tie with the Junior M. E. residents for seventh place.

No Change In Standings

In the other match the fast failing Sophomore Chemicals failed to appear for their match and thus forfeited to the Junior Chemicals. This makes their string of loses 12. The Sophs started off the hottest team in the league winning their first twelve games. Three weeks ago they started to lose and haven't been able to stop the downward surge since.

There were no changes in the standings as far as averages went this week but there were quite a few changes in team standings. The Frosh still hold down their first place and are trailed by the Junior M. E. Day hops and the Senior Chemical who started their surge a month ago. Because of their victory Saturday the Junior Chemicals moved up into the fourth position, one game ahead of the Faculty. The others following this order: Senior M. E., Sophomore Chems., Sophomore M. E. day hop "A", Junior M. E. Residents and Sophomore M. E. day hop "B".

There were no changes in the records this week.

HIGH AVERAGES

	G.	Av.
Rosa	15	170
Simpson	18	165
Cryor	18	165
Gabuzda	9	154
Cahill	15	150

STANDINGS

Team	W	L
Frosh	19	5
Jr. M. E. D. H.	17	7
Sr. Chems.	16	8
Jr. Chems.	14	10
Faculty	13	11
Sr. M. E.	12	12
Soph. Chems.	12	12
Soph M. E. "A"	10	14
Jr. M. E. Res.	10	14
Soph M. E. "B"	1	23

Gillespie Umpire In International League

Johnny Gillespie, former Villanova baseball and football star has been signed to umpire in the International League this coming summer.

Johnny made quite a name for himself as varsity catcher here for three years. He had been signed by the New York Giants but a football injury incurred while performing at halfback for Harry Stuhldreher put an end to a major league career.

In late years, Gillespie has been compiling a record as a successful football coach in the Catholic League, first at Roman Catholic High, and now at St. John's of Manayunk.

"It takes the real thing, Coca-Cola, to make a pause refreshing"

Pause... Go refreshed
Coca-Cola
5¢
You trust its quality

The taste of ice-cold Coca-Cola is pleasantly exciting ... with no after-taste. It brings a feeling of complete refreshment ... all you want and you want it all.

BOTTLED UNDER AUTHORITY OF THE COCA-COLA COMPANY BY
THE PHILADELPHIA COCA-COLA BOTTLING CO.

KEEP SUPPLIED WITH
SCHOOL TICKETS
GOOD ON BUSES AND RAIL CARS UNTIL USED
5c a Ride, Including Special Free Transfers. Obtain Identification Cards at School Office.
RED ARROW LINES
Philadelphia Suburban Transportation Co.

Aristocrat
ICE CREAM
"Deliciously Different"
PHILA. DAIRY PRODUCTS CO.
4th & Poplar Sts., Phila., Pa.

Gordon Nick
Linen Supply Co.
1612 to 1620 North 11th St.
Philadelphia, Pa.

Here and There

By Jack Dudley

HIGH-SPIRITED Americans, and Villanova men are such, tend to pursue a middle course between morbidity and frivolity as regards their words, thoughts, and deeds. We Yankees have always maintained a "We're not sore at anybody" or a "Hi, Neighbor!" attitude. Living in a land of plenty, we've gone through life seeking our fortunes, not worrying too much about the next guy as long as he has a warm smile and a friendly handclasp for us.

The turn of world events has disturbed our customs and habits severely. We've been called upon to make sacrifices, and there will be more sacrifices coming. But we're fighting to restore the tranquility that has become the birthright of every American.

At this time, we're not actually carrying the war to the enemy; but our immediate obligations have been placed before us. It has been found necessary to improve our physical condition. The school has told us not only to go out and get more sun, but has made thorough plans embracing all forms of recreation and directly affecting all students.

The authorities didn't waste much time in getting to work on this project. Following John B. Kelly's inspiring talk last week, student registration in one of the phases of the program took place. Varsity coaches in charge of the program expect it to be in full swing before the week is out.

Al Severance has two hundred men in his group of touch-footballers and court game enthusiasts. Al's is a great field for development. Many games can be evolved from the few they have. We can see where soft ball should become the most popular in a few weeks. It is sure to have the organization this year that it has formerly lacked.

Jim Elliot was telling us that he has about a hundred fellows enrolled for hiking and cross-country running. Three measured courses leading away from and back to the campus are available for these jaunts. Later on, Jim plans to have competitive meets to add interest to that phase of the program. The track mentor sees a lot of fun in these hikes and runs, even though some of the boys at the present time do not feel like exercising to the degree that will be required.

It's true that being regimented in most cases seems to rub most of us the wrong way. We'd rather get what exercise we want when we are in the mood for it. But emergencies have altered the courses of greater lives than ours, and if there was ever a time to buckle down and pull together, it's right now. In the long run, a program that is well-planned and competently executed will bring more satisfaction and much more benefit to the participants than off-and-on activity.

We've had signs of spring the past few days. If they keep up, the Intramural diamond stars will be outside getting in shape for what might be the longest season on record. As far as we know, the league will be able to function all summer.

Fedigan Hall seems to be the hardest hit by graduation last year and by the draft. In June, what seniors have been left over will leave the campus, and the Gigoloes will be crippled at the half-way mark. Austin's defending champs have been reinforced by additions from last year's Alumni and Mendel nines.

We've been an advocate of day-hop sports for a long time. With the exception of basketball, non-residents have been left sadly on their own when it came to intramural sports and in particular outdoor sports. Every year the boys make an effort to form their softball and touch-football leagues. The Fraternities do their best in promoting these sports on a competitive basis, but real organization has been lacking.

The authorities are hoping for full cooperation from the students in the Athletic program. We can tell them what the day-hops want. They are ready, willing, and able to face the resident teams in league contests. There's no reason for not giving them what they want this year.

Koness And Riley Lead Swimmers In Tank Scoring

The last lap of the current swimming season has been swum and the members of the team have bid adieu to intercollegiate competition for another year. Three of the boys say good-bye forever; these are the seniors, co-captains John Maher and Bob Koness, and Tom Lyons.

When the final tallies had been made by Coach Tom Moore, the top scorer proved to be Bob Koness with a total of 67 points in nine meets. Close behind was Ed Riley with 60 points in 8 meets. Both these boys are freestyle competitors; Koness swam the fifty and one hundred yard sprints besides the relay, and Riley splashed through the distance swims, the two-twenty and four-forty.

Only Ten Men

As the squad consisted of only ten men, which is considered a small squad in swimming circles, every member of the team had to do his bit in each meet, and Coach Tom Moore was forced to resort to a great deal of strategy to squeeze all possible points from his handful of men. Though only two victories were gleaned from nine meets, the competition was closer than the results show. Four meets were decided in the final event, the relay, which gives seven points to the winning team and were the deciding factors in favor of Rider, Loyola, Swarthmore, and F. & M.

The best individual performer and ranking third in the scoring is Frank Desmond. Though deprived of his usual mechanical means of propulsion, Frank still managed to cleave the water at a fast clip in the gruelling 200-yard breaststroke, taking five firsts against some of the best competition in intercollegiate circles.

Medley Wins Four Times

Backstroker, John Maher, along with Desmond was a mainstay on the medley relay team which emerged victorious in four meets.

Bob Moore and Tom Lyons, veterans of four years of competition, were important members of the team, Lyons scoring 13 points and Moore abandoning competition after one meet to take up the arduous duties of managing the team.

John Green, the team's lone diver, scored all his points on the board, taking fifth place in the final tabulations.

Remaining for next year, Coach Moore has the nucleous of a good team, including Jake Mauch, Desmond, Riley, Bill Naylor, Leo Hin, Green, and Tom Dolan, and with the usual aid from the advancing freshmen ranks, a successful outfit should be formed.

The Scoring:

	Pts.	Meets	Av.
1. Koness	67	9	7.4
2. Riley	60	8	7.5
3. Desmond	44	9	4.8
4. Maher	32	9	3.5
5. Green	25	9	2.6
6. Mauch	22	9	2.4
7. Lyons	13	9	1.4
8. Naylor	12	9	1.3
9. Hin	8.5	7	1.2
10. Dolan	4.5	9	.5

KERRIGAN IN ARMY

Paul Kerrigan, '38, one of the outstanding 150 pound gridders in Villanova history is now in the army. He was a fullback. Kerrigan each year donates the Alumnus Award to the outstanding member of the lightweight squad. He lives in Frackville, Pa.

Sportorial

Continued From Page Five

fitness program—and we will attempt to give our views on the matter. We are not going to expound on the need of cooperation in this program nor are we going to theorize on the fact that we must have strong bodies in times like these. We hope that this is self-evident to everyone.

We urge all you students to get out and take an active interest and an active part in the sports for your own good. This will not only benefit you physically but mentally as well. As a result of the exercise you will receive you will feel a lot better and your minds will be clearer and more alert.

Maybe after the first couple of days those who have not been used to the added exertion will feel tremendously tired at night, but this will wear off and you will be better for it. Besides, this tiredness is not the same kind of tiredness that comes from beating the books too much without intermittent rest or from lack of sleep for a couple of nights; it is not that dull drowsiness that makes one feel fogged of lethargic.

It is a good, clean, wholesome tiredness . . . a comfortable tiredness that makes one feel satisfied with himself as in a job well done.

We know it will be hard for some of you to work in with your schedules, but it can be done with a little sacrifice and a little effort. You engineers particularly are going to run into trouble. Maybe you can exercise in the free periods instead of lolling about the Pie Shop?

The present system is far from perfect, it is in an embryo stage. It will have to be developed as it progresses and flaws will have to be weeded out when they are found to be hindering the project. But at least we have something to work with, something tangible. And there are benefits to be gained as we know.

It is a put and take system. You put your effort and a little time (three hours a week, that's all) into it and you will reap the benefits of physical development (and none of us are too musclebound to refuse such gifts) and mental health.

So, let's get outside fellows, and whip ourselves into shape. Think of the satisfaction we will get from having put our bodies in trim and from hearing the praise of the coaches, "Yours is a job well done."

THREE SOPHOMORES

Three of the four members of the speedy Villanova mile relay team that set a new school record last Saturday night are sophomores and the other is a junior. Bob O'Sullivan, George Guida, and Dixie Dunbar are the sophs and John DiCarlo is the junior runner.

Bill Wood Leads Court Scorers

Finishes Season With 230 Points; Loses City Honors to Miller of P. M. C.

Husky Bill Wood, stellar forward on Al Severance's Wildcat court club, who has been leading the Blue and White scorers throughout the season, finished up in the number one position with 230 markers. He was far ahead of his nearest rival, diminutive Red Klotz, who totaled 183 points on seventy-six field goals and sixty-one fouls. Wood hit the strings for 87 field goals and 56 free throws.

Chuck Drizen was close behind Klotz with 173, and Bob Kelty followed far behind with 129 points. Kelty had the same number of goals as Drizen, 56, but Chuck was far ahead in the foul department with 61 to the Trentonite's 17. This also gives Drizen the team leadership for fouls completed. He has five more than Wood.

Loses City Scoring

Wood, who has a "dead-eye" from anywhere on the floor, made his goals mostly on set stabs, but also depended on his fast break and over the head layup for garnering goals. From the very first game of the season, Bill led the Philadelphia district scoring parade and he maintained this lead until two weeks ago, when Larry Miller, sensational P. M. C. forward flashed past him. Miller finished the season with an average of 16.3 points a game; the best average in the city besides the highest total score.

Red Klotz soared high in his last four games to grab second position from Drizen. Against St. Bonaventure, Westminster, and Geneva, he bagged twenty-one goals, seven in each game, and dropped in three fouls. Prior to this, he was quite far behind Drizen.

Wood's outstanding performance of the year was against the powerful Duquesne team when he led the Wildcats to victory with 5 goals and seven fouls and almost had to be carried from the floor at the end of the game. He not only was a great scorer, but a superb floor man and a fine team player. He is a junior and hails from Philadelphia where he played for South Catholic High School.

The Leader

BILL WOOD

The Scoring

	Goals	Fouls	Points
Wood	87	56	230
Klotz	76	31	183
Drizen	56	61	173
Kelty	56	17	129
Lord	34	13	81
Gerland	31	13	75
Gray	22	16	60

On The Local Screens

ARDMORE THEATRE
Tuesday and Wednesday
"SUSPICION"
Thursday and Friday
"TARZAN'S SECRET TREASURE"
Saturday, Sunday, Monday and Tuesday
DOUGLAS FAIRBANKS, Jr.
"THE CORSICAN BROTHERS"

RIDE FREE ON P. & W. RAILWAY MOVIE TICKETS
GRAND
NORRISTOWN
Wed. & Thurs. Family Days
"BLONDIE GOES TO COLLEGE" and "MERCY ISLAND"
Fri. & Sat.
Humphrey Bogart in
"ALL THROUGH THE NIGHT"
NORRIS
NORRISTOWN
Tonight
Olsen and Johnson in
"HELLZAPOPPIN"
Wed. & Thurs.
Elizabeth Bergner - Randolph Scott in "PARIS CALLING"
Fri., Sat., Mon. & Tues.
Katharine Hepburn - Spencer Tracy
in "WOMAN OF THE YEAR"
GARRICK
NORRISTOWN
Wed. and Thurs.
Maxie Rosenbloom
"HARVARD HERE I COME"
Jane Withers in
"YOUNG AMERICA"
Fri. and Sat.
"JOHNNY EAGER"

Direction Warner Bros.
TOWER
69th & MARKET STS.
Fri., Sat., Sun. & Mon.
Mar. 20, 21, 22, 23
TYRONE POWER
GENE TIERNEY
in
"SON OF FURY"
with
GEORGE SANDERS
FRANCES FARMER

SUBURBAN
THEATRE ARDMORE
Friday for Nine Days
"HOW GREEN WAS MY VALLEY"
with Walter Pidgeon
Maureen O'Hara - Donald Crisp
ANTHONY WAYNE
THEATRE WAYNE
Tues. and Wed.
"LOOK WHO'S LAUGHING"
Thurs., Fri. & Sat.
Mickey Rooney - Judy Garland
"BABES ON BROADWAY"
Sun. and Mon.
"JOHNNY EAGER"
SEVILLE
THEATRE BRYN MAWR
Tues. and Wed.
"BED TIME STORY"
Loretta Young
Thursday
"CONFIRM OR DENY"
Fri. and Sat.
"LOOK WHO'S LAUGHING"
Edgar Bergen - Charlie McCarthy
Sun. and Mon.
"BABES ON BROADWAY"

JULES JUNKER,
INCORPORATED
Bakery Since 1868
211 SO. 13th STREET
PHILADELPHIA
BREAD ROLLS

George Fein & Co.
Printers & Publishers
2116 to 2130 Arch St.
PHILADELPHIA, PA.
RITtenhouse 6983

The Lamp Post Inn
Luncheon and Dinners
Strafford, Pa.

Meet Your Friends
AT THE GREEKS
We Serve Lunches
Superior Soda Service
Delicious Dinners

Sun Cleaners and
Dyers

WILDCATS!
STOP HERE
LA DOW'S PHARMACY
On the Edge of the Campus
LANCASTER PIKE
VILLANOVA, PA.

Strauss Featured

At Day-Hop Seminar Tomorrow Noon; Varied Program For Residents in Evening

Recorded music of Strauss will be featured by Dr. Edward L. Haenisch during the noon hour seminar for the day students tomorrow in room 215.

Tomorrow night at 7:30, Rev. John J. Vrana, O. S. A., will present selections of Schubert, Debussy, and Ravel in Simpson Hall for the residents.

The evening seminar last Wednesday attracted a large audience when a diversified program of Tschaikowski's works was presented. Such compositions as the first movement from the Piano Concerto, the Nutcracker Suite, the 1812 Overture, and excerpts from the Fourth and Sixth Symphonies comprised the program.

The voices of Pons, Flagstad, Melchior, Crooks, and Thomas, represented the various ranges of the human voice during last Wednesday's noon seminar. The latter half of the hour was devoted to a guessing of the various types of instrumental and vocal artistry.

Naval Lieutenants Address DPE Frat

Administrative positions in all branches of naval activity are open to men holding degrees in accounting and finance, Lieutenant H. B. Mac Whortle, U. S. N. R., Assistant District Aide for Morale, indicated at the meeting of Delta Pi Epsilon, commerce fraternity, last Thursday morning. On a return visit to the campus, Lieutenant John J. Curran, U. S. N., also spoke to the members concerning naval aviation.

The addresses were supplemented by three government-supervised films depicting Navy life. "Submarines at Sea" and "A Day Aboard a Battleship" depicted conditions on these vessels.

"March of Time"

The third film, prepared by the "March of Time," traced the history of aviation's vital part in naval warfare.

Following the pictures, Lt. Mac Whortle, in an informal discussion, explained that the service needed administrative officers to replace those men being sent into active duty.

He advised all to continue their studies and secure their degrees. He also stated that juniors may enlist in the procurement division of the Naval Air Corps as officers and will not be called to active duty until they receive their degrees.

David N. Reardon, president of the fraternity, announced that April 1 has been set as the last day for ordering fraternity pins. He also requested that dues be paid up to date for the annual fraternity dinner, April 16.

Name Committees For Convention

Committee members to care for the arrangements for the convention of the Eastern student chapters of the A. S. M. E. to be held here Monday, April 20, were announced yesterday by Vincent J. Gordon, chairman of the local group. These will assist the chairmen, who were appointed previously.

The program committee, under Thomas A. Shallow, senior mechanical, consists of R. Shinners, H. Behnke, and J. Farrow.

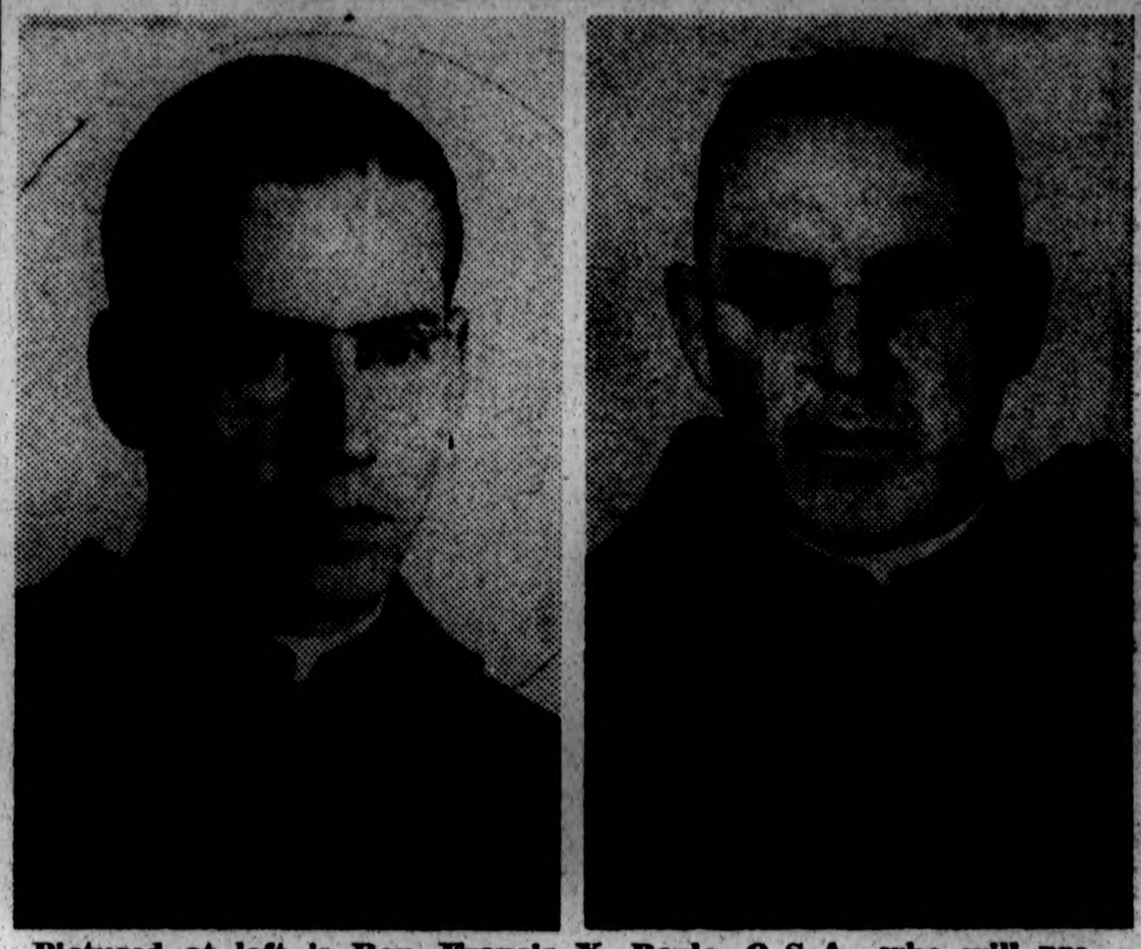
Overnight lodging for visitors is to be provided by the Housing Committee, which consists of Alfred Leone, chairman, G. Gracchino, W. Powers, and E. Seidenglancz. Registration is to be handled by a committee consisting of Arthur Koerner, chairman, W. Stewart, J. Allen, E. Elman, and J. Welsh.

Dinner committee under Thomas Hushen consists of R. Simpson, A. Rath, and J. Braen, while Joseph Gill, in charge of entertainment is to be assisted by C. Conway, J. Shultes, and E. Brennan.

Souvenirs for the guests are to be secured by H. Martinez, assisted by R. Hannon, H. Bansbach, and P. D'Onofrio, while trips are in charge of William Ehmer, aided by J. Higgins, V. Quinn, and V. Borejko.

The convention is under the general direction of Joseph P. McMahon and Edmund J. Hagan, both senior mechanicals.

Continue Lenten Lectures



Pictured at left is Rev. Francis X. Boyle, O. S. A., who will present the fifth in the series of current Lenten Lectures to the resident students. He will speak upon the topic, "Passion Time." At right is Rev. Joseph W. Paquette, O. S. A., who spoke last Tuesday evening upon the subject of Grace as a means to salvation.

Director Lists Program For Symphonic Recital

Program for the annual Villanova-Immaculata combined symphonic band Spring recital, to be held this year sometime in April, has just been announced by Rev. Ralph J. Handran, O. S. A., moderator and musical director of the group.

The "Love-Theme" taken from the "Romeo and Juliet Overture," will be featured in the program along with the more well-known selections from the "Student Prince" written by Sigmund Romberg.

Also to be played will be the first movement from Schubert's "Unfinished Symphony"; a trombone novelty entitled "Teddy Trombone"; a medley of Yankee tunes, and the "Light Cavalry Overture," as well as several marches.

FOR VICTORY
BUY UNITED STATES DEFENSE
BONDS
AND STAMPS

WAR NEEDS MONEY!

It will cost money to defeat our enemy aggressors. Your Government calls on you to help now.

Buy Defense Bonds or Stamps today. Make every pay day Bond Day by participating in the Payroll Savings Plan.

Bonds cost $18.75 and up. Stamps are 10¢, 25¢ and up.

HART & HALL, Inc.
Insurance
825 LANCASTER AVE.
Bryn Mawr, Pa.

Young & Kaber
FLOWERS
See
GEORGE GABUZDA
At Simpson Hall
The Campus Representative

Men's Clothes
Made-to-Measure
COLEBY
Tailoring
Inc.
57th & MARKET STS.

Suits & Topcoats
$27.75
See Steve Aisenbrey
110 Fedigan Hall

More Pleasure for You

There's satisfaction in knowing that the 6½¢ revenue tax you pay on every pack of twenty cigarettes is doing its bit for Uncle Sam

And, when you buy Chesterfields, you have the satisfaction of knowing you are getting a superior blend of the world's best cigarette tobaccos. This famous blend gives you a smoke that is definitely MILDER, far COOLER and lots BETTER-TASTING. Make your next pack Chesterfields.

You can't buy a better cigarette.

MORE ARMS for AMERICA

We Pay More Than
$2,000,000 A WEEK
into the U. S. Treasury for the Tax Stamps necessary for one week's output of Chesterfields

Here's what this would buy for defense in one year:
2,080 SMALL TORPEDO BOATS
or
5,200 37-mm. ANTI-AIRCRAFT GUNS
or
1,300,000 GARAND RIFLES

BUY U. S. DEFENSE BONDS AND STAMPS TODAY

FIRST TO FIGHT is the motto of the U. S. Marines. FIRST for a Milder, Better-Tasting smoke is Chesterfield.

SAFELY BACK from a raid or dog-fight, it's happy landing for our air fighters when they light up and enjoy the cigarette that Satisfies.

PATRIOTIC WOMEN'S ORGANIZATIONS are doing a real job on the home front in our fight for the American way of life.

ON THE NATION'S FRONT

It's Chesterfield

Copyright 1942, Liggett & Myers Tobacco Co.

VILLANOVAN

Vol. 14—No. 18 N. A. S. Z-660 VILLANOVA COLLEGE, VILLANOVA, PA. TUESDAY, MARCH 24, 1942

Fitness Cards Issued By Dean

May Be Signed By Authorized Parties; Three Exercise Days Required

Signature cards for the student Physical Fitness Program were issued by the respective deans of the various schools last week and students may now secure the cards from their deans.

The purpose of such cards is to provide a record of the exercises that each student is expected to take. After each hour of exercise the participants will secure the signature of an authorized representative of the college; that is, any officer under whose direction the student has engaged in a recognized form of exercise (hall counsellors, intramural moderators, coaches of the various programs, etc.).

Three Periods Weekly

Participation in at least three periods of physical exercise a week has been prescribed for each student; the program will cease on May 9. When signature card is filled, it is to be returned to the dean and a new one secured. The individual student will be held personally responsible for his card and necessary signatures.

A flexible program of physical training has been arranged to take care of those who can not participate in the already-organized plan because of their class schedules. Such students must have exercise comparable to that of those who take it with the regular groups at the times appointed.

Special Cases

Exercises which merely require the individual himself (hike, cross-country, running, swimming, etc.), may be engaged in outside of the regular period scheduled if student's class schedule makes it otherwise impossible.

In this latter case, student will report to an authorized representative and secure his signature, after he has had three exercise periods a week taken on three different days.

Guild Makes Plans For Annual Party

Villanova's Field House will be the scene of the ninth Annual Card Party and Dance, to be held under the auspices of the Augustinian Guild on April 14, from 8:30 P. M. until 10:30 P. M. Dancing will follow from 11:00 P. M. until 1:00 A. M.

Rev. Michael J. O'Donnell, O. S. A., general chairman of the affair, has announced that he will be assisted by the following committees: tickets will be taken care of by Rev. Joseph I. Boyle, O. S. A., and Rev. Thomas F. Gilligan, O. S. A.; chance-books will be under the direction of Rev. James A. Donnellon, O. S. A., and Rev. Vincent A. McQuade, O. S. A.

Patrons will be secured by Rev. William J. Lunney, O. S. A., and Rev. John J. Anderson, O. S. A.; while Rev. Vincent Meanney, O. S. A., Rev. Edwin T. Grimes, O. S. A., Rev. John E. Bresnahan, O. S. A., and Rev. John J. McShea, O. S. A., will have charge of the programs.

Refreshments to Be Served

Rev. Joseph J. McMenamin, O. S. A., and Rev. Robert P. Russell, O. S. A., will take care of refreshments; Rev. John R. Dunne, O. S. A.; Rev. Edward M. Dwyer, O. S. A., and Rev. Robert M. Sullivan, O. S. A., will direct publicity; prizes will be taken care of by Rev. Joseph J. Gildea, O. S. A., and Rev. Charles J. McFadden, O. S. A.

Special features will be arranged by Rev. Joseph M. Dougherty, O. S. A.; music, by Rev. Ralph J. Handran, O. S. A. Andrew J. Melton will head a committee in charge of bingo games.

Proceeds Aid Seminaries

The proceeds of this affair, which will be made possible by the efforts of the Villanova priests and by the friends and relatives of the Seminarians, will be contribuited to the support of the Augustinian seminaries throughout the world.

Admission will be $1.00.

V-1 Candidates

Sophomores between the ages of 17 and 19 who are interested in the V-1 Naval program should submit their names to the president's office immediately in order that provisions be made for review courses for them, Very Rev. Edward V. Stanford, O. S. A., president of the college, said today.

The naval examination scheduled for April 15 has been postponed until May 1

"It is important that these students make themselves known," Fr. Stanford said, "in order that provisions be made for 'refresher' courses for them."

Interested freshmen should also submit their names, the president pointed out, because in their case arrangements must be made for "refresher" courses in mathematics and physics for the comprehensive Naval examination to be administered March 1, 1943.

DPE Names Jones To Direct Dinner

Senior Heads Affair on April 16; Jakovic Assumes Secretary Post

Charles Jones, senior marketing major, has been appointed chairman of the second annual dinner of Delta Pi Epsilon, commerce fraternity. Ninety members of the organization will dine on Thursday evening, April 16. The site of the banquet is yet to be chosen.

During the ceremonies following the dinner, senior members who are being graduated this year will be awarded their fraternity keys.

Assisting Jones in arranging for the dinner are the following committee members: James McElligot, James Halpin, James Lattanza, William Mowen, Robert Donovan, William McGarrity, and Thomas Sullivan, seniors; Charles Callahan, John Dudley, Joseph McEvoy, Eugene Smith, and William Menseck, juniors; John Bambrick, Joseph Coll, Francis Moscariello, John McCarthy, and Robert White, sophomores.

Jakovic Elected

Last Thursday at their regular meeting the members of the fraternity elected John Jakovic, a senior, secretary for the remainder of the year. He will fill the post vacated by Sam Canning, who was called by the Army in January.

Also discussed at the meeting was the problem of revising the fraternity constitution which the members regard as largely outmoded. An investigation is being conducted by Robert T. Canfield, a junior marketing major, to decide whether appropriate amendments could be made or an entirely new constitution should be adopted.

The bi-monthly entertainment of Delta Pi Epsilon will be held in the Commerce Auditorium next Thursday.

David N. Reardon, president, stated that April 1 has been set as the last date to order fraternity pins, and emphasized that all members must have all dues paid prior to the annual dinner.

Bulletin For March Will Feature Five Research Articles

